Q. And what you’re saying is that you were involved as a professional psychologist in both a civil divorce proceeding and a parallel criminal proceeding involving the same parties and issues, correct?

A. “Parallel” is the problem. Do you mean simultaneously, or one after the other? Sometimes I’ve worked a family law case and then was called into criminal court on the same case six months, a year later.

Q. Okay. And it’s your understanding that if you have a conviction in a criminal case, you’ll automatically win the civil case?

MR. ZONEN: I will object. Exceeding the scope of his expertise.

MR. MESEREAU: I didn’t finish my question.

MR. ZONEN: Well, we know what it is.

THE COURT: You may finish the question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Given your experience in the criminal courts and in parallel proceedings in the civil courts where the same parties are involved --

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as to parallel proceedings in a civil court, as to whether it’s a civil or a family law court.

THE COURT: He hasn’t finished his question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Given your experience, Dr. Katz, in criminal actions involving allegations of child abuse and parallel civil actions involving allegations of child abuse where the same parties are involved, you're aware that if there is a criminal conviction, one would automatically win a civil suit for damages, true?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; exceeds the scope of his expertise.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The prosecutor asked you about your experience in the area of child abuse, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You have published articles in that field, true?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know approximately how many articles you have published in that field?

A. Well, I think you're talking about -- professional articles, I think there's only one or two. If you're talking about books, there's three books. And there's probably a number of interviews or articles, some of which may be editorials. So I'm not sure how to answer the question. But certainly a number of publications.

Q. Let's just take articles --

A. Okay.

Q. -- that don't reach the form of a book. How many articles do you think you've published in the area of child abuse?

A. Well, I'm not sure. Maybe three or four.

Q. And you've published in the Los Angeles Times, correct?

A. As far as I know, the New York Times, Los Angeles Times, they syndicate out to other newspapers, so I know some of the articles I wrote were way beyond; you know, in other markets also.

Q. You published an article called "Stop the Witch Hunt For Child Molesters," correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. In that article you dealt with your concern about false allegations of child molestation, correct?

A. Absolutely.

Q. You also published a book called "The Codependency Conspiracy," correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you published it with a woman named Amiee Liu, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And in that book, you talked about false allegations of child molestation, true?

A. Yes.

Q. You said that lawyers have told you as many as 40 percent of child molestation allegations are false, correct?

A. I'm not sure what context you're talking about, but certainly, in certain venues, that is true.

Q. You said that lawyers charged with turning these allegations into convictions estimate that as many as 40 percent of the accusations are insubstantive, correct?

A. I assume you're reading from my book.

Q. I am.

A. And I'm not sure what precedes it. But if I said it in my book, I will stand by it, that's true.

Q. You said, "Nowhere is our lack of objectivity more evident than in our reactions to reports of child molestation," right?

A. That's correct.

Q. You said, "The nation's courtrooms are inundated with new allegations of abuse every day," right?

A. Yes.

Q. You said, "But many of the lawyers who are charged with turning these allegations into convictions estimate that as many as 40 percent of the accusations are insubstantive," true?

A. Well, it's true. I'd have to give a context, but it's certainly true. It may be even higher than that in some cases, in some venues.

Q. And what venues were you talking about?

A. Particularly family law and divorce cases, high-conflict divorce cases, where allegations are made that one parent sexually molested a very young child under the age of usually four.

Q. When you were interviewing the Arvizos, did you do any background check into their involvement in any other litigation?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever check into any allegations of domestic violence in the Arvizo family?

A. I didn’t check into any of these allegations. I did not investigate any of these allegations other than -- excuse me, other than to interview the parties. So I did not do any investigation of any allegations.

Q. In your book, “The Codependency Conspiracy,” you talked about a witch hunt mentality with respect to false allegations of child abuse, true?

A. That’s true.

Q. And you didn’t just talk about divorce cases, you talked about the McMartin Preschool case in Manhattan Beach, California, true?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you mentioned that in the context of false allegations of child molestation in a criminal courtroom, true?

A. Well, I’m not sure if I said that in the book or not. I didn’t memorize it. But I was talking about the McMartin case, which ended up being not only in the criminal court, it was in dependency court because there were children of the teachers who were involved in dependency court, and I think there were civil suits also.

Q. Were you involved in that case in any professional way?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. How were you involved?

A. I was the director of training and professional education at the Children's Institute International, and that's the agency that initially interviewed all the McMartin children.

Q. And were you involved in that case for a number of years?

A. Well, my involvement was that I was director of the program. And Kee McFarland, who was the woman who interviewed the children, actually worked under me. But I was not -- I did not directly interview the children's parents.

I did interview -- my involvement with the McMartin case was, I did do assessments. I was asked by the Department of Children & Family Services to assess the children of the alleged perpetrators to see if they had been molested. Other than that, I had very little involvement directly with the case.

Q. Is it your understanding that that was perhaps the longest and largest criminal case in the history of Los Angeles County?

A. I think it was.

Q. Going further into your book, you discuss cases where you’ve had false allegations of molestation where no one ever turned up any physical evidence to support the molestation, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And you talk about situations where you think children, for whatever reason, believed they were abused, but really aren’t or haven’t been, true?

A. I talk about young children under the age of four who believe they were molested, yes.

Q. And in your opinion, they had not been, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. You discuss situations where therapists have taught children that they were traumatized when, in fact, they were not, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you talk about situations where, despite what therapists have said about the existence of molestation, courts have gone against them, true?

A. I’m sorry, where therapists have said they believed children were molested and the courts have not ruled --

Q. Yes.

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And has that been your experience as well, as an expert?

A. My experience has been that there are people who are falsely accused and who get convicted, and there are people who are falsely accused that get acquitted, and there are people who get acquitted who did the deed. So I've had all that experience.

Q. You talked about children in abuse cases who are often scarred for life, not by the abuse, because it didn't occur, they're scarred by what you call the recovery process, true?

A. Yes.

Q. And what you were saying was, in situations where there has been no abuse, but a child is convinced that there has been and is put through a process of therapy to deal with the abuse that never happened, they can be hurt, true?

A. That's correct.

Q. You talk about situations where children can have thoughts essentially given to them by parents or therapists that convince them they've been abused when there is no abuse, right?

A. Yes. But I was talking about young children under the age of four. Pre-verbal children.

Q. You didn't limit it to that in your book, did you?

A. I'm not sure what you're reading, exactly, from, but I'm certainly talking about pre-verbal children. And I think there's a -- a comment made about young children under the age of five or so.

Q. Do you know where the comment is?

A. I haven’t looked at the book in a long time, but --

Q. Okay.

A. I’ll have to look at it later.

Q. Okay. You talked about a number of situations where parents consistently told their children they’ve been abused, and the children believed it, and in your opinion there had been no abuse at all, right?

A. And that specifically is regarding young children. We’re talking about children under the age of five years.

Q. You are aware, that there can be all kinds of motivations for false claims of molestation, correct?

A. Certainly there’s a possibility of all kinds of claims and reasons.

Q. You’re aware that alleged victims of molestation often sue for millions of dollars in civil court, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You talked about the reactions of victims of child sexual abuse, correct, in your book?

A. If you say so. I don’t remember exactly what I talked about in that book, but --

Q. Well, you essentially said there can be all sorts of varying reactions, assuming it really occurred, right?

A. I suppose, yes.

Q. Well, you said that some experience physical or emotional trauma directly related to molestation, right?

A. Okay.

Q. And some exhibit none of those symptoms, correct?

A. I need to back up. You’re reading something. Are you talking about victims who have been abused?

Q. Yes. I’m limiting this question to people who actually have been abused, not the people you discussed who were the victims of false accusations. Okay?

A. Thank you.

Q. With limiting my question to people who have actually been abused, you indicated some experience -- appear to experience no real change in their behavior, correct? They have no nightmares, they have no --

A. You’re talking here about --

Q. Let me just finish the question, if I can. If I can.

A. Sorry. Excuse me.

Q. Okay. You discussed the fact that, in your opinion, victims of sexual abuse generally fit into one of three categories, true? Do you remember that? I could show you the book if you’d like to take a look at it.

A. It would be helpful, since I wrote it about 12 years ago. It would certainly refresh my memory. I could have brought a copy, but --

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at your book?

A. Well, I did for about three seconds.

Q. And did you have a chance to look at the three categories you identified in your book with regarding what a real victim of child sexual abuse might show?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Some will have nightmares, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Some will have no nightmares, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Some will act out their version of the abuse, correct?

A. Some act out sexually, yes.

Q. And some will not act out sexually at all, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Some will suddenly become aggressive, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And some will not be aggressive at all,

right?

A. Some will be withdrawn, yes.

Q. Some will be depressed, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And some won’t be depressed at all, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Some will demonstrate an aversion to their own body, right?

A. Some have problems with body image and aversion to any of their sexual organs, yes.

Q. And some don’t have that at all, correct?

A. Right.

Q. And you would agree that it’s difficult -- excuse me, let me rephrase that.

In this area, it can be difficult to determine if certain characteristics really relate to sexual abuse or not, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. If you are examining a child, for example, where there’s an allegation of abuse, and you learn, through whatever form, that the child is exhibiting aggressive behavior, it’s difficult to know if that aggressive behavior is really the result of actual sexual abuse, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And in your evaluation of a potential victim in a situation like this, one of the things you’d want to know would be, did that child exhibit aggressive behavior before the alleged abuse occurred, correct?

A. Well, I have to answer that by saying, if I was evaluating forensically this case, I would want to know a great deal about this family, about the alleged perpetrator, about all the data, multi-source data I could get.
If I was just interviewing the children to hear what they had to say so that I could make a determination whether or not I'd be obligated to make a report, it would be a different issue.
Q. Right.
A. I'd be the gatekeeper, the beginning of the process, if I felt there was reason to make a report, and then further investigation/evaluation would have to be conducted by professionals.
Q. And the quantity of investigation you just articulated which you state would be necessary to really determine if sexual abuse occurred you didn't do in this case, right?
A. That's correct.
Q. Okay. In your book, you talk about the situation where abuse is intertwined with other serious family or psychological problems, correct?
A. Are you talking about interfamilial, within-the-family abuse?
Q. Yes.
A. I think that's where you're going with that.

Yes.

Q. And what you said was evaluating and understanding real sexual abuse is made more difficult if the family you're investigating has other serious family or psychological problems, true?

A. I'm not sure of the context there, Mr. Mesereau, because when I -- I think I was talking about sexual abuse within a family, where the alleged perpetrator is a member of the family, you have complications from a number of variables.

Q. Well, wouldn't you -- excuse me, let me rephrase it.

Let's suppose the alleged perpetrator is outside the family, right? And let's assume, because we're just dealing with a hypothetical, that the family itself is characterized by serious emotional and psychological problems dealing with domestic violence, divorce, allegations within the family of molestation, alleged acts, multiple acts, of violence going over years, alleged -- unusual actions to obtain money so the family can survive, a lot of emotional conflict between parents.

You would agree that all of those issues could complicate the question of whether or not a child in that family was truly abused by someone else? Could complicate it?

A. It's possible.

Q. If you had -- excuse me. If, during the course of your investigation as a professional psychologist and expert in this area, you discover that within the family unit, there have, over the years, been various allegations of molestation within the family unit, that would complicate your ability to evaluate whether or not someone had been molested by a third party, true?

A. Well, I don’t know if it would complicate it. It would certainly be data I would want to look at.

THE COURT: Counsel, just a moment.

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, Your Honor.

(Brief interruption.)

THE REPORTER: Thank you, Judge.

THE COURT: Sorry, Counsel.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. You indicated in your book, Dr. Katz, and we were alluding to this before, that if abuse is intertwined with other serious family or psychological problems, you need to focus on these problems separately in treatment, correct?

A. That makes perfect sense to me. I’m not sure I wrote exactly that, or said that, but that makes sense.

Q. I can show you the paragraph.

A. Well, I believe you.

Q. Okay. And what you said was, you recognize that different problems may have little to do with each other, or may have a lot to do with each other, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you say the abuse that’s claimed may be very insignificant in a situation where you discover serious psychological and family problems within the family unit, true? May be.

A. I’m not sure. The first part of the question I missed. You said abuse may be inconsequence --

Q. Yeah. You indicated that the abuse suffered --

A. Are you quoting? Because if you quote, then it’s easier for me to refer to. I’m not sure if you’re paraphrasing or interpreting.

Q. Let me just read you a paragraph.

A. Thank you.

Q. Okay. “If the conflict you feel about your abuse is intertwined with other serious family or psychological problems, you need to focus on these problems separately in treatment, recognizing that the different problems may have little to do with each other, and that the abuse you suffered may have been relatively insignificant.”

Do you remember reading that?

A. Writing it.

Q. Excuse me, writing it.

A. I do remember writing it, yes.

Q. Okay. Okay. Correct me if I’m wrong, you were suggesting that, in a situation where you have an allegation of abuse that sounds quite serious, if you, as a therapist, start to investigate the domestic situation in that family, and you, as a therapist, find all sorts of other psychological problems that may not be related to the abuse, there are situations where, once you investigate those problems and treat those problems, the actual claim of abuse may turn out to have been exaggerated, correct?

A. I think that totally misinterprets what I was saying.

Q. Okay.

A. What I was saying is that people have a myriad of complaints in their life, and that many adults wish to connect their current problems to a past event.

So, for example, a 40-year-old woman who can’t find a relationship, a healthy relationship, says she was molested at age five and that’s why she can’t find a healthy relationship today, that she needs to look at what other things are stopping her and preventing her from having a healthy relationship today.

I think that was directed at that kind of person, not directed at a therapist and how to 4281 evaluate or treat an alleged allegation of sexual abuse.

Q. Well, but you were talking about treating sexual abuse when you wrote that paragraph, true?

A. I think I was talking about what I just said; that people like to blame lots of problems on traumatic events that happened in their lives. And they need to sort out that some of these events have nothing to do with actually what they've become or the problems they have.

Q. In fact, in many ways, the book that you wrote called "The Codependency Conspiracy" was a form of self-help book, correct?

A. It is a self-help book.

Q. And you talk about people who are perpetual victims, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you basically talk about how, as they view themselves as a perpetual victim, they are essentially saying that they are powerless over their problems and don't have to take responsibility for them, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you basically were saying that's not the right way to live your life, right?

A. What I was saying, it's a debilitating and immobilizing way to live.

Q. Essentially you said that people who are 4282 perpetual victims are not really --

MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as exceeding the scope of the direct examination.

THE COURT: That’s sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember, you wrote the following: “I do not think that a parent whose hand lingers momentarily while diapering his or her child belongs in the same category with convicted child pornographers or pedophiles, yet many therapists and self-help groups lump the victims of these different perpetrators together and treat them all as if they’ve been equally traumatized”?

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as exceeding the scope of direct examination.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You indicated in response to the prosecutor’s questions that you had worked on a panel of psychologists, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that with dependency court?

A. First in dependency court and then in family law.

Q. Okay. Now, when you’re on a panel of psychologists in dependency court, you are routinely appointed to handle a dependency court case, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you’re paid by the county, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And how long did you say that you had done that?

A. Over ten years.

Q. Okay. So over ten years you were on that dependency court panel, you never knew when you'd be called to work on a dependency court case, right?

A. I didn't know exactly, that's correct.

Q. Okay. Now, were you doing that at the Edelman Courthouse on the 10 freeway?

A. I started doing it at the old courthouse at first, I think criminal, and then it was over on Sixth Street before the Edelman Courthouse.

Q. Okay. Now, would you agree that in dependency court, you often find false claims of molestation?

A. Who's "you"?

Q. Anybody.

A. Well, are you talking about did the judges find it? Did I find it? Who's who?

Q. Well, when you wrote in your book that, "Lawyers who prosecute molestation cases tell us that approximately 40 percent may be false," were you referring to dependency court?

A. Well, I'm not exactly sure which lawyers you're referring to or I was referring to at this point, but in general, the 40 percent figure comes out of research on mostly young children, preschool kinds of cases, family law cases. It does not come out of the research on children who were allegedly molested by a -- by someone outside the family, and it doesn't come out of research about children over the age of approximately five or six.

Q. Have you done research in that area?

A. Just clinical experience.

Q. Okay. Have you had experience with false claims of molestation involving children over six?

A. Well, when you say "experience," have I evaluated cases where someone thought the claims were false?

Q. Yes.

A. Or where the judge determined they were false? Which would you like?

Q. Let's start with the first example.

A. Well, in every case there's two sides.

Q. Okay.

A. So there's always someone who doesn't believe and someone who does believe. So I've been involved with many of those cases, in criminal and family law and in civil cases. I have been involved in cases where people were acquitted in a criminal, and they were convicted. And I've been involved in cases where monetary damages were paid to victims and where no monetary damages were paid to victims, and family law cases where the judge made a finding that molestation did not occur, or the judge made a finding that there was inappropriate touching, fondling, some kind of sexual abuse.

Q. When you wrote in your book that 40 percent figure, saying prosecutors had told you that 40 percent of the accusations are insubstantive, you never limited it in the book to children who are six or younger, did you?

A. I don’t think so. I have to look at the source data. But it’s in the back.

MR. ZONEN: Could I see the book, please?

MR. MESEREAU: I can get you a copy.

THE WITNESS: It’s available at amazon.com.

(Laughter.)

MR. ZONEN: Doesn’t say “prosecutors.”

MR. MESEREAU: It says, “Lawyers who are charged with turning these allegations into convictions.”

MR. ZONEN: Judge, I’m going to object as misstating --

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, I’ll read it, if the Court would like.

MR. ZONEN: Well, I’m concerned about the prior question asked. He used the word “prosecutors.”

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll restate it. I’ll restate the question.

Q. Dr. Katz?

A. Yes.

Q. You know that these prosecutors are all lawyers, don’t you?

MR. ZONEN: Which prosecutors is he referring to? Objection. Vague; argumentative.

THE WITNESS: I have --

MR. ZONEN: There’s an objection.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll withdraw the question.

Q. Dr. Katz, have you met with any of these prosecutors at any time?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. When did you last meet with any of these prosecutors?

A. I met with Mr. Zonen, yes, sir.

Q. Are you aware that he is a lawyer?

A. I’m aware that he is lawyer.

Q. Are you aware that he’s a lawyer paid by the government?

A. I’m not sure who he’s paid by, but I assume he’s paid by the county or someone.

Q. Have you ever met Mr. Sneddon?

A. I have.

Q. Are you aware that he’s a lawyer?

A. I assume he’s a lawyer if he’s in his position.

Q. Are you aware that he’s a lawyer paid by the government?

A. I assume he’s paid by the county.

Q. And have you met Mr. Auchincloss, who’s directly to my left?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Are you aware that he’s a lawyer?

A. Yes, I’m aware that he’s a lawyer.

Q. Are you aware that he’s a lawyer paid by the government?

A. Paid by the government.

Q. Are you aware their jobs as prosecutors are to seek convictions?

MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you said in your book, you referred to lawyers who are charged with turning these allegations into convictions, you were referring to prosecutors?

A. Well, I actually was referring to cases that I already talked about, the young children, preschool cases, the family law cases --

Q. You were --

MR. ZONEN: The witness ought to be allowed to answer the question.

MR. MESEREAU: Sure. Sure.

Q. I apologize. Go ahead.

A. Family law cases where either they were trying to get some kind of finding in court, sustain a petition or criminal conviction, yes.

Q. Dr. Katz, you know that you can’t convict anyone of anything in a family law court, right?

A. No, but you can make a finding.

Q. But you don’t convict in family law court, true?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Based on your experience, the only place you get convictions is criminal courts, right?

MR. ZONEN: Objection. Argumentative; and beyond his scope of expertise.

THE COURT: Sustained on argumentative.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

Q. Now, Dr. Katz, you said that 30 percent of your work is currently involved with television; is that right?

A. Approximately 30 to 40 percent, yes.

Q. And you said that you’ve been practicing since 1978; is that correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And I believe you told the prosecutor for the government that you’ve been involved in other T.V. projects, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And what were they?

A. Well, starting out in the early years, in the late ‘70s, I was an advisor on a number of television movies that had to do with either child abuse or psychological issues. Did a number of those kinds of movies.

I was a frequent guest on news shows talking about current psychological topics.

I -- when I did my three books, I, of course, did book tours, where you appear on numerous shows, including “Oprah” and those kind of shows.

I have appeared as a panelist on T.V. on certain topics. And have appeared as a guest to work with family dysfunction on talk shows and other television shows.

Q. When you did your -- excuse me, you did a book tour to promote the book “Codependency Conspiracy,” did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you appear on television as part of that book tour?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how many times you appeared on television as part of the book tour?

A. I would have no idea.

Q. And when you were on television, did you talk about false claims of molestation?

A. I don’t think so. That was just a small part of the book. I don’t remember specifically talking about that, but certainly it could have come up. And this was 1991, I think, so I don’t have a distinct memory of that.

Q. Did you talk about people who act as if they’re perpetual victims?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And did you talk about your belief that there are ways to treat people who consider themselves perpetual victims?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; exceeds the scope of the direct examination.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You indicated that you interviewed the three Arvizo children and the mother, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you ever interview the father?
A. Never.
Q. Did you ever investigate anything about the father?
A. No.
Q. And that’s because you never really investigated the family other than the interviews you conducted, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. Okay. Now, when were the dates of those interviews?
A. Mom was May 15, May 16, June 11. Gavin and Star were May 29, June 11. And Davellin was May 29.
Q. So the first interview was May 15th, correct?

A. Yes.
Q. The last interview was June 11th, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, you told the prosecutor for the government that at some point you went to the Department of Children & Family Services about the Arvizos, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And was Mr. Feldman with you?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Was it your belief at the time that Mr. Feldman was representing the Arvizos?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. When did you and Mr. Feldman visit the Department of Children & Family Services for the first time to talk about the Arvizos?
A. June 12th, 2003.
Q. And you had a meeting at that department, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. That department is in Los Angeles, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you ever have a second meeting at that department about the Arvizos?
A. I did not.
Q. Was that the only meeting you had?
A. That’s correct.

Q. Okay. Now, was it just you and Larry Feldman at that meeting?

A. And an associate of his. I don’t recall his name right now.

Q. Okay. Now, when you attended that meeting with Mr. Feldman, did you know whether or not he was a friend of someone named Jamie Masada?

A. I’m sorry, who was a friend?

Q. Mr. Feldman.

A. I had no idea.

Q. Do you know Jamie Masada?

A. Never met him.

Q. Do you know Attorney Bill Dickerman?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And how do you know Attorney Bill Dickerman?

A. He was present at the meeting that I had with Mr. Feldman on June 5th of 2003.

Q. Was he the only person at that meeting other than you and Mr. Feldman, to your knowledge?

A. No.

Q. Who else was at that meeting?

A. Mr. Feldman’s wife, Jo Kaplan.

Q. Was anyone else at that meeting?

A. No.

Q. Was that the first time you met Attorney Bill Dickerman?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know anything about Bill Dickerman’s 4293 relationship with Jamie Masada?

A. He told me yesterday in the --

MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as hearsay.

THE COURT: You may answer the question “yes” or “no.”

THE WITNESS: Would you repeat the question, please?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Yes. Do you have any knowledge of Attorney Bill Dickerman’s relationship with someone named Jamie Masada?

A. Yes.

Q. And where did your knowledge come from?

A. Mr. Dickerman.

Q. And did he tell you that they’re friends?

MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object, Your Honor, as hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you say you talked to Bill Dickerman yesterday?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he call you or did you call him?

A. No, we sat in the holding area upstairs together.

Q. Did you discuss the case at all with Mr. Dickerman?

A. Not really.

Q. Not really?

A. Well, we talked a little bit about times and where we were going to stay last night and coming back here, and we talked about everything from the weather, to soup, to nuts. Not very much about the case.

Q. Okay. Was your meeting with Mr. Dickerman and Mr. Feldman the first time you had met Mr. Dickerman?

A. Yes.

Q. After that meeting, did you have any further contact with Mr. Dickerman before yesterday?

A. No.

Q. Have you communicated with him by letter at any time since that initial meeting?

A. Never.

Q. Okay. So the only attorney you’ve ever communicated with about this case is Attorney Larry Feldman, right?

A. No. The attorney sitting in front of us that we’ve named.

Q. The attorneys who are paid by the government?

A. Paid by the government, yes.

Q. Okay. To get convictions. Okay, all right.

MR. ZONEN: Is that a question?

MR. MESEREAU: I withdraw that.

MR. ZONEN: If it is, I’m going to object to it as argumentative.

MR. MESEREAU: I withdraw that. I withdraw

that.

THE COURT: Objection's sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you have any knowledge of Larry Feldman filing any claim against Los Angeles County?

A. I read that, I think, on The Smoking Gun, or somewhere on the Internet, but he's never said that to me.

Q. Okay. Now, after your meeting at the Los Angeles Department of Children & Family Services that you have described, did you have any other meetings with Mr. Feldman about this matter?

A. Other than what I've described?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did you and Mr. Feldman ever jointly appear with anyone in the Santa Barbara Sheriff's Office to discuss this case?

A. No.

Q. After the meeting you had at the Department of Children & Family Services, you spoke to the Santa Barbara Sheriffs at some point, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And approximately when was that?

A. I received a call from Detective Paul Zelis on June 13, 2003.

Q. That was the first contact after the DCFS meeting you had, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Okay. Did you have any knowledge of Attorney Larry Feldman contacting the Santa Barbara Sheriffs at any time after the DCFS meeting?

A. I have no knowledge of that.

Q. Did you ever discuss that possibility with him?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever discuss with Attorney Feldman whether or not he had talked to Mr. Sneddon after the DCFS interview?

A. I don’t think we ever talked about that.

Q. Never?

A. I don’t have any recollection of that at all.

Q. Okay. So you’ve never heard anything about that as you sit here today?

A. I’m sorry, about Mr. Feldman talking to Mr. Sneddon?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, I think that, as I said before, prior to the call to -- from Detective Zelis, I believe that Mr. Feldman called the D.A.’s Office. I don’t know if he personally talked to Mr. Sneddon or not.

Q. Now, your understanding of any contact Mr. Feldman had in this case would have come from Mr. Feldman, correct?

MR. ZONEN: Contact with whom? Objection; vague.

MR. MESEREAU: I’m sorry, let me rephrase it.

Q. After the DCFS meeting that you have described, you learned at some point that Attorney Feldman spoke to prosecutors in this case, correct?

MR. ZONEN: Unless this conversation was in his presence, I’ll object as hearsay and lack of foundation.

MR. MESEREAU: State of mind, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I’ll allow the question. “Yes” or “no” answer only.

THE WITNESS: Could you repeat the question?

THE COURT: Do you want it read back?

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: The only -- I’m sorry, but I’m not sure which prosecutor or prosecutors or assistant. I don’t -- I know he called Mr. Sneddon’s office. I don’t have a recollection if he called directly to him.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Do you have any knowledge of when the Arvizos first met Attorney Larry Feldman?

A. I vaguely remember. I think it was a month or two before I saw them.

Q. Okay. And correct me if I’m wrong, but you’re suggesting to the jury that sometime after your last interview on June 11th, the Arvizos in some form contacted the police, correct?

A. I have no idea how that happened.

Q. Okay. Okay. But based on what you’ve just said, and I’m referring exactly to your understanding, that the Arvizos had talked to Mr. Feldman for a month or two before you got involved, right?

A. And I’m very vague about it. It could be a couple weeks, but some period of time before I got involved.

MR. ZONEN: Judge, I’m going to object as lack of foundation, unless he was involved in those conversations.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Clearly, it was your understanding that the Arvizos had spoke to Attorney Larry Feldman before Mr. Feldman contacted you about this case, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And based on what you’ve just told the jury, it was approximately a month after your first interview with any of the Arvizos that any report was made to any agency, true?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; vague. I’m not sure which agency, which report and by whom? By Feldman? By the Arvizos? By the police?

THE COURT: All right. That’s enough.

The objection is overruled.

Read the question back to him.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: The first interview was on May 15th with mother. The first interview with the children was May 29th. The report was made on June 12th.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: That’s the report to DCFS, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And it’s your understanding that any contact with Santa Barbara, be it sheriffs or prosecutors, was after your meeting at DCFS, correct?

A. That’s my understanding.

Q. Okay. Clearly, it was always your understanding that the Arvizos first went to lawyers before they ever went to any police office, correct?

A. It’s my understanding that they went to attorneys before they went to the police department. That’s my understanding.

Q. And was it your understanding that they first went to Attorney Dickerman before they went to Attorney Feldman?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you have indicated that you were retained by Attorney Larry Feldman to work with him on his civil suit that he filed against Mr. Jackson in 1993, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Was it your understanding that Mr. Feldman was in contact with Mr. Sneddon in 1993?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; lack of foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I have no information about that at all. I don’t have any memory of that, any information about that.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Regarding your work on the 1993 case for Attorney Larry Feldman, when did your work cease?

A. Let me help you out by telling you what my work was. My work was to review the videotapes that were made between the victim --

Q. No, I’m -- go ahead.

A. -- and Dr. Richard Gardner.

Q. Okay.

A. And to review those tapes, those videotapes, and to view them and analyze them to give my feedback to Mr. Feldman.

Q. To your knowledge, no criminal case was ever filed against Mr. Jackson based on that ‘93 case, correct?

A. That’s my understanding.

MR. MESEREAU: All right. Let me take just one more second, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: I asked you at the 4301 beginning of my cross-examination about someone named Lee Hausner, correct --

A. Yes.

Q. -- who you met?

A. I know Lee.

Q. And Lee has referred, I think you said, something like six to eight patients to you?

A. I'm probably estimating around that.

Q. Do you know whether or not Lee Hausner referred the '93 case against Mr. Jackson to Mr. Feldman?

A. I'm almost sure she did not.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I have no further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you if you knew whether or not criminal charges had been filed against Mr. Jackson as a result of that '93 investigation, and you said no --

A. Correct.

Q. -- that they had not been.

A. That's my understanding.

Q. Do you know why not?

A. I understand a settlement --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection. Irrelevant; foundation; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained. And relevance.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Doctor, you made a reference to -- or counsel made a reference to 40 percent false accusations. What is that in reference to?

A. I was specifically talking about young children. I was referring to the numerous cases that were filed in the 1980s in preschools where we had infants and toddlers alleging molestation, and I was talking about the -- the incredible number of high-conflict divorce cases where there were allegations of molestation with very young children, pre-verbal children, under the age of three and four.

I was not talking about extrafamilial sexual abuse. I wasn’t talking about older children. I was specifically referring to those cases.

Q. What do you mean by extrafamilial sexual abuse?

A. Outside the family. Where the perpetrator is not a member of the family.

Q. What is your understanding about the percentage of false allegations in those types of cases involving older children?

A. My experience, my clinical experience, my collegial experience, is that there’s very, very few false allegations made with alleged perpetrators outside the family by a child over the age of five.

Q. And involving specifically allegations of sexual abuse involving boys, adolescent boys, what are the difficulties involved in making a false allegation --

A. Well --

Q. -- or sustaining it?

A. A pre-adolescent or adolescent boy is hypersensitive about his sexuality. It would be extremely unusual for a child who's developmentally at a stage where he's trying to figure out who he is, and to actually become a man, to make an allegation which would suggest that he's had inappropriate sexual relationships with a male. It would be extremely rare because these children are so protective and so guilt-ridden and shamed by any behavior that's extraordinary and extra-normal. So it would be highly unusual in my experience for a 12- or 13-year-old to make false allegations regarding a male perpetrator.

Q. All right. Doctor, based on your experience of as many years as you've been dealing with this, have you had any personal dealings or associations with cases where you believed there was a false allegation by an adolescent child motivated by profit?

A. Well, I've had some experience where I've had some young girls actually allege molestation by stepfathers to get out of the home sometimes, or fathers, and they have been recanted fairly quickly after investigations began.

Q. Are there difficulties in a child maintaining false allegations, from a practical standpoint?

A. In my experience, a child who is going to lie and fabricate cannot be consistent and hold that very long, because children are impulsive, they can't delay gratification. You can't tell a child, "Years from now, if you lie, something good will happen." Children are very much living in the now. They don't maintain consistent allegations when they start feeling as if the disadvantages of making those allegations seriously outweigh any advantages.

MR. ZONEN: No further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Other than Mr. Jackson, how many cases of alleged molestation have you worked on involving well-known celebrities?

A. Probably less than half a dozen.

Q. Have you ever published an article about sexual allegations against celebrities?

A. I don't think so. I don't recall ever publishing anything like that.

Q. In any of your books, have you ever authored anything about the subject of sexual allegations made against celebrities?

A. Well, I -- I may have referred to cases, but I didn’t refer to a personal concern.

Q. You said something about children who are making false allegations tend to be inconsistent when they describe those false allegations, correct?

A. No. What I said was, in fact, it’s the opposite. Children who make false allegations are usually very consistent and almost scripted in what they say. They exaggerate, they embellish, they take every opportunity to make a positive into a negative.

Children who have been molested tend to be inconsistent. They have problems with memory retrieval. Their data storage is not great. They don’t remember dates and times, and they don’t remember exactly what happened. And they don’t tend to embellish and exaggerate. When you interview these children and you ask them if something happened, they won’t say, “Oh, yeah, that happened too.” They’ll say, “No, that didn’t happen.”

Children who fabricate will all of a sudden tell you that everything happened to them by everybody, and so they exaggerate because they don’t know intellectually when to stop.

Q. So what you’re telling the jury is, in your experience, exaggeration and embellishment can be signs of false allegations of sexual abuse?

A. That is correct.

Q. And if you were investigating an allegation of sexual abuse, and if you, as a professional, were to learn that there was a history of false allegations before, would that be something that you would consider?

A. A false allegation of sexual abuse?

Q. Yes.

A. And the false allegations have been determined to be false?

Q. Or you think they're false, because you see a lot of exaggeration and embellishment in what the children say.

A. Well, you can't simplify it. These are just two factors. So I'm saying that children tend to do these things. They tend to exaggerate and embellish. That does not predict that they are lying. But if children do embellish and exaggerate, I'd be suspect of what the motivation is for making the comments.

Q. And if, in any of these cases, there is no physical evidence to support the allegation of sexual abuse, the decision regarding whether or not you believe the allegation is true is really a subjective one, right?

A. Well, there's rarely evidence in these kinds of cases. I've been involved in thousands. Rarely see evidence, physical evidence, like trauma to the genitals, for example. It’s subjective evaluation based on an assessment and many data sources to actually determine what happened.

Q. Doctor, in cases involving sexual abuse in the criminal courts, you’re seeing more DNA evidence all the time used in these cases, correct?

A. In some sexual abuse cases, yes.

Q. You’re seeing evidence of semen, DNA, and things of that sort, correct?

A. In some of the cases, yes.

Q. And if you don’t have any physical evidence, it becomes pretty much a subjective determination regarding credibility, correct?

A. Well, there may be other evidence which is more objective. But certainly if you don’t have the physical evidence, you’re missing one -- the physical trauma, you’re missing one piece. But sexual abuse is not physically traumatic. Fondling does not leave marks and bruises and semen.

Q. But sexual abuse can leave marks or bruises or semen, true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Depending on the nature of it?

A. Yes, it can.

Q. And if it leaves marks or bruises or semen and there’s evidence of that, it would support a claim, correct?

A. That’s correct.
Q. Now, when you say exaggeration or embellishment can be indications of a false claim, that could certainly include stories changing, could it not?
A. Well, as I said before, stories changing suggests that the child may be actually telling the truth, because children cannot retain memories very well. Their storage retrieval system is not very sophisticated. And as you can tell, even us professionals can’t remember everything we did a year ago, let alone two years ago.
So it’s very hard for a child to do that, and that would not be predictive whatsoever of a false claim.
THE COURT: All right. Let’s take a break.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: You may proceed.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.
Q. Dr. Katz, are you suggesting to the jury that you don’t often see false claims of sexual abuse by teenagers?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you published any articles on that subject?
A. I have not.
Q. What research have you done on that subject?

A. I have read probably all the current research on “Jeopardy in the Courtroom,” which cites all the research regarding children in the courtroom regarding molestation.

Q. Now, tell me what research you’ve done into how many civil cases have been filed by plaintiffs who are teenagers in the area of sexual abuse and how many have been won or lost?

A. I have no research about that.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Doctor, do you have personal experiences involving your own caseload over the past 20-plus years that you’ve been doing this where you believe there were cases that were allegations, false allegations, of molestation that were motivated by profit?

A. In addition to all the cases that I’ve seen - I’ve supervised numerous interns and other professionals - I don’t recall seeing any adolescents or preadolescents who were making allegations for profit.

I do and have been involved with lawsuits where children have alleged molestation, and there have been civil suits and they’ve been awarded damages. So that wasn’t the motivation, but they did proceed with the civil case and they were awarded damages.

Q. All right. But in terms of where you believe that the allegation itself was false --

A. No.

Q. -- that was motivated by profit?

A. No.

MR. ZONEN: No further questions.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. You may step down.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. ZONEN: Call William Dickerman to the stand, please.

THE COURT: Come to the front of the courtroom, please.

When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing, face the clerk here, and raise your right hand.

WILLIAM DICKERMAN

Having so affirmed, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Respectfully, I'd prefer to take an affirmation.

THE COURT: You may.

THE CLERK: All right. Do you solemnly affirm that you will well and truly answer the questions propounded to you under the subject of penalty of perjury?

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Thank you.

Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: William Dickerman; D-i-c-k-e-r-m-a-n.

(Discussion held off the record at counsel table.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Dickerman, good afternoon.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Sir, what is your current occupation?

A. I’m an attorney at law.

Q. And you’ve been an attorney for how long?

A. Since 1977.

Q. It won’t be a long direct examination. I don’t think I have much voice left, so we’ll keep it brief.

THE COURT: You need to be closer to the mike, Mr. Dickerman.

And they’re not hearing you either, probably because of your cold.

THE WITNESS: Is that better now?

THE COURT: Yes, thanks.

MR. ZONEN: Is that better now?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Sir, what kind of a practice do you have?
A. I’m a civil litigator/trial lawyer.
Q. Are you a sole practitioner or do you work in a law firm?
A. I am a sole practitioner.
Q. What kinds of cases do you handle typically?
A. Well, generally civil, or strictly civil rather than criminal, which means anything from contract breaches, to torts, negligence cases, unfair competition, copyright infringement. A whole broad array of noncriminal cases.
Q. Do you know Jamie Masada?
A. I do.
Q. Is he is a client of yours?
A. Yes.
Q. And you have represented him at different times over the years?
A. I have.
Q. Do you know Janet Arvizo?
A. I do.
Q. Is she a client, or was she a client of yours?
A. She was, and I believe she thinks she still is, so I’m assuming that she is.
Q. Okay. When did you first meet Janet Arvizo?

A. February 21st, I think, 2003.

(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)

MR. ZONEN: Excuse me.

Q. I’m sorry, tell me the date of your first meeting with her.

A. February 21st, 2003.

Q. 2003. And who was it who introduced you to her?

A. Jamie Masada.

Q. And what was your understanding of the nature of the problem?

A. Well, I have to be careful about disclosing any attorney-client privilege. And it’s my understanding that Miss Arvizo and her family have not waived the privilege, so I’ve got to be careful about saying what I was told.

Q. Let me ask you differently, then. Did you meet with her on a few occasions?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was Mr. Masada present on those occasions?

A. Some he was; some he was not. The initial meetings he was.

Q. Approximately how many meetings did you have with Ms. Arvizo where Jamie Masada was present?

A. I’d say a total of three or four in either my office or at The Laugh Factory, and -- oh, gosh, there were other times during the representation when we were all together.

Q. Okay. Did -- you did have a meeting with her at The Laugh Factory; is that correct?

A. I believe there were at least two at The Laugh Factory.

Q. What are the dates of those, if you know, or if you have them written down?

A. One of them I know was February 25th. And there was another one that I -- I don’t know the date of, but I believe it was not very long after that date.

Q. Did you engage in efforts to do things or perform services on behalf of Miss Arvizo?

A. Yes.

Q. Did that involve writing letters?

A. Yes.

Q. To whom did you write letters?

A. Well, the first letter I wrote was to Mr. Geragos, who I understood was representing Mr. Jackson at the time. And there was a whole series of letters to him.

After Mr. Geragos, I wrote -- or I’m not sure, maybe it was even before Mr. Geragos, I was writing letters to various media outlets with regard to the “Living with Michael Jackson” show.

Q. What was the extent of the problem as you expressed it to Mr. Geragos?

A. There were a number of problems that I expressed to Geragos. And I remember I wrote a letter on March 26th that covered three or four or five of those things.

Q. Was that the first letter that you wrote?

A. I believe so.

Q. All right. Go ahead.

A. The most serious issue, as I recall, was an intimidation/harassment/surveillance issue that I expressed to him. I was asking him or directing him to cut it out, or to have Mr. Jackson’s people stop surveilling, harassing, intimidating my clients.

Q. And what else did you ask for? Did you ask specifically for anything to be returned?

A. Yes, I believe in that letter, and in several others soon thereafter, I asked for the return of passports, visas, birth certificates. There may have been some other papers.

Q. All right. And did you ask, as well, for other possessions that belonged to the Arvizo family?

A. I don’t know if it was in that first letter. In one, at least one letter -- in fact, several letters, I asked for return of clothing that had apparently been -- not been returned to Gavin when they left Neverland, including tap shoes, shirts, socks, perhaps one or two other things.

Q. Okay. Were you aware as to whether or not their possessions, in other words, the contents of their apartment, had been moved to some location?

A. I had been told that they had been moved to some location.

Q. Did you make some effort to notify Mr. Geragos of that fact and to ask that their possessions be returned?

A. Yes, I believe it was in that same letter and others thereafter that I asked not only -- well, asked that they be returned, but preliminarily, to get a listing of what those items were, where they were, who had control over them. I wanted a whole listing of things so we would know what there was and what to do with it.

MR. ZONEN: All right. May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Mr. Dickerman, I’m going to show you two exhibits. Exhibit No. 625 and Exhibit No. 630 both appear to be a collection of materials. Could you take them both? And let’s start with 625. Take a moment, if you will, and look through 625, and tell me if you recognize the content of that exhibit.

A. I do recognize the content.

Q. All right. And what is that collection of letters?

A. These are letters to -- mostly to Mr. Geragos, and at least one from him, with regard to those efforts that you just asked about.

Q. All right. Did Mr. Geragos acknowledge to you that they had Miss Arvizo’s passport?

A. I don’t believe he ever acknowledged it.

Q. Did he ever acknowledge that he had any -- or they had any of her other possessions, including the content of her apartment?

A. At some point he did state that they did have the items in storage.

Q. For the period of time that you were engaged in these communications by mail with Mr. Geragos -- a period of what appears to be a couple months; is that correct?

A. The first one was March 26th and his last letter to me apparently was June 2nd, so more than a couple months.

Q. Were you successful in getting Miss Arvizo and her family’s possessions returned to them?

A. Not at all.

Q. Did Mr. Geragos ever tell you where they were?

A. I don’t believe so. I think he simply referred to -- or referred the matter to Mr. Miller, Brad Miller, who then got in touch with me.

Q. All right. And when was that, the date of that?

A. Well, on June 2nd, he wrote that -- well, he asked to have my clients, quote, “assume 4318 responsibility for the lockers." I don't know that I knew at that time which lockers that he was talking about.

But then on June 12th, or thereabouts, I received from Brad Miller a letter in which he specified for the first time who had moved the items and where they were in storage.

Q. All right. Up until that point, did Mr. Geragos ever tell you where your clients' possessions had been taken?

A. No. No.

Q. What was your understanding of the extent of those possessions?

A. Well, again, without breaching attorney-client privilege --

Q. Just on the basis of your communication with Mr. Geragos.

A. Well, he had suggested to me that there might be two vaults' worth of material, and my understanding was that there was considerably less than that. Of course, I don't know what he meant by a "vault," but I was under the impression that there was not very much that we were talking about at all.

Q. Was it all the furnishings of an apartment?

A. That was my understanding.

Q. Was this different from your request for materials to be sent back that included clothing, dance shoes and passports?

A. Well, the -- yes. The only things that I asked him to deliver, and repeatedly, many, many times, was the items that were recently transportable, the passports, the visas, the birth certificates and the clothing.

Q. Did you learn whether or not your clients' possessions were actually delivered to your office at some point in time?

A. Yes. I got a phone message the day -- or the day -- I think it was the day that they were brought over. The office manager was irate that certain things had been delivered or attempted to be delivered, furniture, boxes and whatnot, and it was a day that I was out for a religious holiday. So I was very surprised to find that this had happened. And I was told that those materials had been told to be returned, that they were not off-loaded. And I was quite upset about that, because I had made no arrangements with Mr. Geragos or anybody else for those things to be delivered at any time.

Q. Did you have a message on your voice mail or your answer phone that -- answer phone is what I mean to say, indicating that you would not be in the office on that particular day?

A. Absolutely. Yes, I did.

Q. That's the day that these things were delivered?

A. That's the day that they were delivered.

Q. Were they actually received or accepted by the office manager?

A. No.

Q. Or the building manager?

A. They were not.

Q. Did you talk with Mr. Geragos thereafter about that?

A. I don’t believe I spoke with him about it. But we did have an exchange of letters.

Q. Again, during that entire -- I think we’re talking about eight to ten weeks, was anything ever delivered to you, where you took possession of it, or, to your knowledge, your client did?

A. Not a single item.

Q. Did you have actual verbal conversation with Mr. Geragos during that period of time?

A. I believe there was at least one, perhaps two.

Q. Did you, in the course of those conversations, ask him about your clients’ passports?

A. Yes.

Q. And is this passports for each member of the family?

A. I think so. May I refer to --

Q. Yes, please.

A. Yes, the passports of the entire family.

Q. What did Mr. Geragos tell you about the passports, if anything?

A. I don’t recall specifically, without looking at the document that embodies a memo, of what I talked to him about, but I don’t think he knew what I was talking about. I remember him --

Q. Well, you have a number of letters to him included in this packet that is 625 where you ask him about passports, do you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask him to check into it?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask him about visas as well?

A. I don’t remember. But again, there is a memo of a phone conversation I had with him, and it would be in that -- and that memo has been produced to everybody involved in the case, as far as I know.

Q. Mr. Dickerman, at any time during the eight to ten weeks that you were dealing with Mr. Geragos and ultimately communication with Mr. Miller, did he ever tell you, “Yes, we are in possession of these passports, and we will return them to you and your clients immediately”?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever acknowledge being in possession of those passports?

A. No.

Q. Did he ever acknowledge those passports existed?

A. No.

Q. Those communications, 625, that you’ve looked at, are those letters accurate reproductions of the communications between you and Mr. Geragos in writing, and in return, Mr. Geragos back to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, turn to the next group of letters, please. That’s 630; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Excuse me.

630 is a collection of what kind of materials, please?

A. These are letters to and from -- well, from me to various attorneys, media outlets, with regard to trying to -- with regard to the Bashir show “Living with Michael Jackson.”

Q. And among the people you wrote letters to are whom?

A. There was Granada Television. Granada Media Group. The British firm, law firm, of Addleshaw and Goddard. David LeGrand at Hale, Lane, which is a firm -- law firm in Las Vegas.

Q. Addleshaw and Goddard is where, what location?

A. In London.

Q. In London, okay.

A. And finally, the Broadcasting Standards Commission in London.

Q. All right. The purpose of these communications was what?

A. Well, there are various purposes for the different ones.

Q. Okay. Were you -- what did they concern in general?

A. They all concerned the “Living with Michael Jackson” television program.

Q. All right. What was your concern about that?

A. Well, the concern as to Granada was that Granada and ITV, which was I believe a corporation associated with Granada in England, they cease and desist from using any program, tape, interview or film footage, whether it was used in the “Living with Michael Jackson” program or not, for any purpose whatsoever unless they could provide valid consents by my clients, who had been shot in that video or in that program.

Q. All right. Did all of these communications effectively deal with some issue pertaining to the screening of “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there any mention made to you by any of the people with whom you communicated over this issue that they, in fact, represented the Arvizo family or any of the Arvizo children in any claims against those who produced the documentary “Living with Michael Jackson"?

A. Yes, the Addleshaw-Goddard firm, especially -- or particularly Michelle Boote, who I understood was a lawyer with that firm, stated numerous times that that firm had been requested by Ms. Arvizo to represent her in this complaint.
Q. Was your purpose in this communication effectively to tell them that they were not?
A. Yes, and to keep them from moving forward with anything that they were doing on the complaint supposedly on her behalf.
Q. And -- all right. And did you instruct them not to proceed on her behalf in any other representation?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you do that?
A. Because it was my understanding that she had never given any consent for them to do so.
Q. And was there a reason that you didn't want them representing her?
A. Because they weren't asked to represent her, and she didn't want them representing her.
Q. Okay. Was it your understanding that you would be representing her on that particular issue dealing with the ramifications of the documentary "Living with Michael Jackson"?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, you sent -- that collection of documents that you're looking at, No. 630, is that, in fact, a complete collection, if you can tell, of all the communications that you had with Addleshaw-Goddard and with Mr. David LeGross?

A. It was LeGrand.
Q. LeGrand, I'm sorry. As well as BBC?
A. Well, I know there were a number of communications. I can't be sure this is all of them. I certainly produced all of them, as far as I knew. I believe so.
Q. To the extent that you're looking at a collection of documents, each of the documents that you see in that exhibit, 630, is certainly one of those letters; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Either to you or from you?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Did you file a lawsuit on behalf of Janet Arvizo or her family?
A. No.
Q. At some point in time, did you refer this matter to another attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Who was that other attorney?
A. Larry Feldman.
Q. And why did you do that?
A. Excuse me.
I began representing the Arvizos in 4326

February. And by the time I met with Mr. Feldman, it was the beginning of May. In that period of time I had learned a lot of things. There were a lot of allegations being made, and I realized that the best thing for my clients to do, and for me personally as their attorney, was to get some expert input as to matters of Michael Jackson.

The initial things I didn’t think I really needed to do that with, but as things developed, I wanted to get some input. So I met with Mr. Feldman, whom, by the way, I knew -- not “by the way.” It was very important. I knew that he was -- by reputation, he was one of the top trial lawyers in California, if not the United States. And actually, previously, not knowing him except by reputation, I had referred a case to him, tried to refer a case to him that I could not handle for various reasons of an old client of mine.

And I knew that he was the go-to guy with regard to Michael Jackson matters. Of course, I knew about the 1993 case, so I met with him, with the idea of picking his brain, actually, not to refer any matters to him. And afterwards, he met with them, and they -- we all associated together. The Arvizos hired both him and me.

Q. All right. Have you filed a lawsuit as of this time on behalf of the Arvizos or anybody else?

A. No.

Q. Is it the case that the extent of your dealings with them so far, in terms of your communicating with others, has been for purposes of getting their property returned or dealing with the consequences of “Living with Michael Jackson,” the documentary?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have an understanding with Mr. Feldman that should there be a lawsuit in the future, that --

THE COURT: They’re not hearing you.

MR. ZONEN: I’m sorry?

THE COURT: Behind; these people can’t hear you.

MR. ZONEN: I’m terribly sorry.

Q. Is there an arrangement that, should there be a lawsuit in the future, that there would be compensation for you in any form of a settlement even if you’re not participating in that lawsuit? Do you know what I mean?

A. Well, we have an agreement.

Q. Okay.

A. It doesn’t say anything about participation or not. We were retained together, and I have a fee-sharing arrangement with Mr. Feldman.

Q. Which means what?

A. Which means I will get -- if there is such a lawsuit anytime in the future, that I will be entitled to a sliding scale, depending on whether there's a settlement or a judgment.

Q. Okay. What kind of lawsuit do you anticipate?

A. I don't anticipate any lawsuit. My understanding is that there isn't one in the offing. Nobody's talking about one. And I suppose if there were to be one -- well, that would be speculation.

MR. ZONEN: Okay. I have no further questions.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning. Or good afternoon, I guess.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Mr. Dickerman, my name is Tom Mesereau. I speak for Mr. Jackson.

A. All right.

Q. You just told the jury you have a fee-sharing arrangement with Attorney Larry Feldman, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And fee-sharing arrangements among attorneys are a fairly standard type of thing, are they not?

A. Under certain circumstances, yes.

Q. And typically in a fee-sharing arrangement, the understanding is the following: Attorney 1 refers the case to Attorney 2. Attorney 2 files a lawsuit. And if there’s a settlement or a judgment or any amount of money recovered, then Attorney 2 has to give Attorney 1 a percentage of the recovery the attorney gets, right?

A. Under circumstances as they often are, yes.

Q. It’s typically called “a referral fee,” right?

A. There are situations where there are referral fees, and there are situations where the attorney would be involved in the lawsuit and that’s how he would be compensated.

Q. In your typical referral fee arrangement, the referring attorney, being the attorney that sends the business to the other attorney, has an arrangement where, if the other attorney collects money, he gives a percentage to the attorney that referred the matter, right?

A. In any strict referral fee arrangement, yes.

Q. But what you’re telling the jury is your arrangement with Larry Feldman is not a strict referral fee arrangement, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Your agreement with Larry Feldman is that you both will share in any fees collected, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that would mean if tomorrow, or next month, or this summer, you and Mr. Feldman decide to file a civil suit against Mr. Jackson, you have an understanding that if any money is obtained, you’ll get a piece of that money, right?

A. Yes.

Q. When were you retained by Janet Arvizo?

A. Do you mean when a fee agreement was signed?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, there are a couple of different ones, and they were both around March 24th, 2003.

Q. Was that the first date you met her?

A. No. We met February 21st.

Q. And who was at that first meeting on February 21st?

A. Mr. Masada, Ms. Arvizo, I was, and I think the three children were there, maybe in and out. I believe I met them there, but I don’t think they were in on the meeting.

Q. Why was Masada in the meeting?

A. Well, Mr. Masada was the one who had brought the people to me, and my understanding was that there was no way that they were going to talk to me without him there.

Q. Okay.

A. He was greasing the rails, as it were, to get them to trust me enough to talk to me. They had no reason to talk to me otherwise.

Q. Okay. And you had represented Masada for many years, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many years had you represented Jamie Masada at the point where you first met the Arvizos?

A. I think I began representing Mr. Masada in 1991. Perhaps 1990. So that would be about 12 years.

Q. Had you represented Mr. Masada in any lawsuits?

A. Yes.

Q. How many?

A. I couldn’t tell you precisely.

Q. How about generally?

A. Fewer than ten. Between five and ten, probably. I shouldn’t say that. I represented him in many matters. How many have been lawsuits, I can think of three off the top of my head. So there were probably five.

Q. Approximately five civil lawsuits?

A. I would say so.

Q. Okay. And are you a civil litigator?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you litigate civil suits from start to finish?

A. Yes.

Q. And would that mean that you will litigate the case either to a settlement or a trial?

A. Which case? You mean generally speaking?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you’ve indicated you represented Mr. Masada in matters other than the civil lawsuits you’ve just described, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Generally, what did those matters entail?

A. Business matters, generally speaking.

Q. Would you consider yourself to be Mr. Masada’s principal business lawyer?

A. Well, he has told me I am. From time to time he’s had me coordinate everything, so, yes.

Q. And would that mean you draft documents for Mr. Masada?

A. I have done that. I’m not a transactional attorney, so if there’s something major to draft that does not involve litigation, probably not.

Q. Do you often attend business meetings involving Mr. Masada?

A. No.

Q. Do you draft articles in the corporation for Mr. Masada?

A. No. When I say “business attorney,” I’m assuming that you mean handling business litigation for him.

Q. Oh, okay. Do you typically write business letters for Mr. Masada?

A. I don’t know what you mean by “typically.” I have done so.

Q. Okay. Are they typically litigation-type 4333 letters or something else?

A. Both.

Q. Okay. So you do both civil litigation for him and you give general business advice, right?

A. A little of the latter.

Q. All right. And at the time you first met the Arvizos, you had represented Mr. Masada for approximately 12 years, correct?

A. On and off, yes.

Q. Are you the lawyer for The Laugh Factory?

A. I don't know what that means.

Q. Do you do legal work for The Laugh Factory?

A. I have.

Q. Okay. What kind of business claims have you handled for Masada?

A. Well, I think that's attorney-client privilege, and since he hasn't waived the privilege, I really can't go into specifics.

Q. Let's refer to filed documents, pleadings with the civil court. What kinds of lawsuits have you represented him in?

MR. ZONEN: I'll object as exceeding the scope of the direct examination.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did the Arvizos retain your services or did Mr. Masada?

A. The Arvizos.

Q. Okay. And would it be correct to say that at the time you were representing the Arvizos, you were also representing Masada in other matters?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, the documents the prosecutor has given you in the form of exhibits in no shape or form come close to the number of letters you sent or received on behalf of the Arvizos, correct?

A. Not correct.

Q. Well, are they all of them?

A. No.

Q. On March 27th, you sent a letter to the executive vice-president and general counsel of Walt Disney & Company, correct?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a copy of the letter?

A. It might.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes, that’s a copy of a letter I wrote.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Does that appear to be the first letter you ever sent on behalf of the Arvizos; do you think?

A. If that’s dated March 27th, I think the 26th to Geragos is the first one. Actually, I’m not -- excuse me. There were a number of letters written with regard to the “Living with Michael Jackson” show --

Q. Okay.

A. -- that may have been well before that. I don’t know. If you show them to me, obviously I did.

Q. But they retain you on the 24th, and you sent a letter to Mark Geragos on the 26th, right?

A. Well, when you say “retain,” they signed an agreement on the 24th. As I said, they may have signed -- they did sign one earlier that covered different matters. And that’s just the formal retaining. That doesn’t mean I wasn’t their attorney. I was their attorney, as far as I understood, whenever they were talking to me about these matters, whether they signed an agreement or not.

Q. Now, without going into any attorney-client privileged information, which is obviously confidential, when you wrote a letter to Geragos on the 26th, which is two days after you were retained, the basis for your information in the letter had to have been your client, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you suggested in the letter that Mr. Jackson had relentlessly hounded and harassed the children, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You never witnessed that yourself, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You said that Mr. Jackson had hounded, harassed the mother almost daily since they left Neverland, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You never witnessed that. You just wrote a letter based on the information given to you, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You suggested that Mr. Jay Jackson had been harassed, correct?

A. Can you point me to where I said that?

Q. Sure. Right in the middle of that Paragraph No. 1.

A. Yes.

Q. Was Jay Jackson your client at the time?

A. No.

Q. You suggested in the letter to Mr. Geragos on March 26th that there had been banging on the Arvizo’s door at all hours, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And certainly you never personally witnessed that, right?

A. Right.

Q. That came from your discussions with your clients, right?

A. Right.

Q. You said disturbing notes had been left, correct?

A. Are you in the same paragraph?

Q. Yes. A little further down.

A. Yes.

Q. And that information came from your clients, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You said on March 26th, your clients believed that Mr. Jackson was illegally eavesdropping on their phone conversations, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was your understanding they weren’t living at Neverland at the time, right?

A. Right.

Q. That information, of course, came from your clients, right?

A. Right.

Q. At no time in that letter to Mark Geragos of March 26th did you ever mention anything about child molestation, right?

A. Right.

Q. Now, you talked about wanting passports and visas returned, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And at some point you learned that Mr. Geragos had turned the passports in to this court, correct?

A. I think so. But that might have been a few weeks ago. Or even last week. I don’t even know how I learned about it, but --

Q. But you heard about it at some point, right?

A. I think so. It rings a bell.

Q. That Mr. Geragos had arranged to deposit those passports in this courthouse?

MR. ZONEN: I don’t know that this witness has personal knowledge. Lack-of-foundation objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Nowhere in this letter of March 26th that you wrote to Mr. Geragos on behalf of the Arvizos is there any mention of alcohol, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you ask for a return in the last paragraph of the papers they have signed, including passport and visa applications, correct?

A. Not in the last paragraph of the letter.

Q. Paragraph No. 2 on the first page, which is the very bottom.

A. Oh.

Q. I’m sorry. I should have said the first page.

A. Yes.

Q. Was it your understanding they had signed passport and visa applications?

A. I did not know about anything that they had signed other -- I didn’t know about whether they had signed passports or visa applications.

Q. Well, you asked for signed documents in connection with a legal action in Britain concerning “Living with Michael Jackson,” right?

A. Yes, but that wasn’t passports or visas.

Q. Was it your understanding that the Arvizos had signed documents involving the show “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. There was one document that purportedly had been signed, that I was aware of, by Miss Arvizo with regard to that action in Britain.

Q. Now, in this letter of March 26th to Mr. Geragos, there is no mention of the Arvizo family ever being falsely imprisoned, correct?

A. I believe that’s correct.

Q. And in this letter of March 26th to Attorney Mark Geragos, there’s no mention of the Arvizo family ever being kidnapped, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. In this letter of March 26th, 2003, to Mr. Geragos that you wrote, there’s no mention of any extortion, right?

A. I believe that’s correct. I haven’t read this word for word, but it sounds right.

Q. Okay. When you sent this letter to Mr. Geragos on March 26th, 2003, two days after you had been retained by the Arvizos, did you ever call the police to complain about false imprisonment, kidnapping, molestation or alcohol?

A. No.
Q. Now, you asked for the return of personal property to the Arvizos in this March 26th, 2003, letter to Geragos, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And your understanding was that this personal property was stored somewhere, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. How did you know it was stored somewhere?
A. I don’t recall specifically how I learned -- well, without violating the attorney-client privilege, I really can’t go into it more.
Q. Okay. Okay. But clearly the letter says you want the keys to all locations and facilities in which this property has been stored, right?
A. Where are you?
Q. Page two, the very beginning.
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Now, in this letter you wrote on March 26th, you said that your clients wanted copies of all tapes, films, audio recordings, photographs, images on film, et cetera, of your clients, the Arvizos, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And the reason for that was, you, as their lawyer, thought that any tapes or recordings of the Arvizos may have monetary value, correct?

A. Well, that gets into the work-product doctrine, my opinions and thoughts, and I’m not waiving that.

Q. Okay.

A. So I can’t tell you what I was thinking or why I was thinking it.

Q. But you wanted the tape or film of the Arvizos that was made in the home in the San Fernando Valley within the last two months, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Have you ever seen that?

A. No.

Q. All right. You also wanted Mr. Geragos, in your letter of March 26th, 2003, to provide you with any releases that may have been signed by any Arvizo concerning the show “Living with Michael Jackson,” right?

A. Yes.

Q. And please tell the jury what you meant by “release” in that letter of March 26th.

A. Well, typically before a production is mounted, whether it’s television or movies or anything that depicts an individual -- I shouldn’t say “generally.” Very often, if people are smart, they get a release from the person who’s the subject of the show, and that then protects the producers and everybody else involved with the show from liability from the individual who is depicted.

Q. Was it your understanding releases had been signed?

A. It’s my understanding that some releases, some purported releases, had been signed for some purpose.

Q. Okay.

A. Some --

Q. And you wanted those back, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You made a statement that the Arvizos were hereby revoking any release they had signed in favor of Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were making a claim that any such release was obtained by fraud or undue influence, correct?

A. Well, more fully, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation, false pretenses and/or duress.

Q. Okay. But you mention specifically the word “fraud,” don’t you?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, as a civil litigator, you’re aware of how long one has to file a fraud claim against someone else in a civil suit, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And what I’m referring to is what is called a statute of limitations, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. What is the statute of limitations for filing a claim for fraud in civil court?

A. Three years from the fraud or from the time that the plaintiff should have known about it.

Q. And based on the date of your letter, Janet Arvizo would have till approximately some date in 2006 to file a fraud claim against Mr. Jackson if she chose to, correct?

A. I don’t know. I don’t know when the actionable events would have occurred or what exactly the fraud action would have involved.

Q. Well, you refer to fraud, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You refer to fraud in a specific context, correct?

A. Right.

Q. The context in which you refer to fraud is a suggestion that any releases signed were fraudulently induced, true?

A. Right. So it would be three years from the fraudulent inducement or the time when the plaintiff should have discovered it.

Q. Okay. And you threaten Mr. Geragos with a civil restraining order, true, in the last paragraph?

A. Well, I wouldn’t say “threaten.” I say that this is what we intended to do.

Q. Did you ever do that?

A. It wasn’t against Mr. Geragos.
Q. It involved Mr. Jackson, true?
A. Yes.
Q. You were threatening to seek a civil restraining order against Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. I’ll take issue again with your description of “threat.”
Q. Well --
A. But we don’t need to quibble about that. I suppose that’s essentially true.
Q. When you used the following words, “His failure to heed this demand will force my clients to seek a civil restraining order and perhaps to vindicate their rights in other legal ways,” that was a form of a legal threat, wasn’t it?
A. All right.
Q. You said if the items weren’t returned by April 1st, 2003, you would seek a civil restraining order, right?
A. No, there is not a restraining order with regard to return of items. The restraining order would only be related to the improper conduct, the harassment, the intimidation.
Q. Okay. Did you ever seek that civil restraining order?
A. No.
Q. You have told the jury that along with communicating with Mr. Geragos about your clients’ allegations of misconduct by Mr. Jackson, you were also writing to other parties about the Bashir documentary, true?

A. Right.

Q. And who were those parties?

A. Generally speaking, they were the parties that were producing, broadcasting and other ways exploiting the show “Living with Michael Jackson.” So there was ABC, and I think Disney is ABC’s parent, and the National Enquirer’s parent company, I think it’s American Media. There was, as I noted before, the communications with Mr. LeGrand, who was Mr. Jackson’s attorney supposedly with regard to the British action. I think there were -- I know there was some communication with FOX about a subsequent production after “Living with Michael Jackson.” Various media outlets.

Q. Now, the day after your first letter to Mr. Geragos on March 26th - and I’m referring to March 27th now, okay? - you wrote a letter to the executive vice-president, general counsel of Walt Disney, true? That’s the letter I just showed you.

A. Well, I don’t recall specifically who it was written to, but I did write to Disney.

Q. And you asked them to let you know when your clients had given any legal consent to use the footage of the Arvizos in the film “Living with Michael Jackson,” right?

A. Without having a copy of the document, I can't vouch for what you're saying.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the letter again?

A. Most certainly.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the letter?

A. I briefly saw what you pointed out in the paragraph.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection of what you wrote in the letter on March 27, 2003, to the Walt Disney company?

A. Yes.

Q. You asked them to please let you know whether such legal consent, for example, via release, was in fact given to ABC, or Granada, or anyone else involved in the program, right?

A. Yes.

Q. At that point you didn't know whether they had given releases or not, true?

A. I didn't know, that's correct.

Q. On March 31st, 2003, you did a memo to your file about a phone call from Mark Geragos, right?

A. I don't recall the date, but I know there was a typed memo to the file about a conversation with Mr. Geragos.

Q. And that's when you -- excuse me, let me rephrase that.

In that call to Mark Geragos that's referred to in that memo, you talk about him telling you he thinks there either is a vault or two of storage with the contents of the Arvizos' property, right?

A. If you give me a copy of that, or give me a moment to try to dig up my own, I will be able to answer that.

Q. I can show it to you, if it's easier.

A. It will be a little quicker.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to review that memo?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about the phone call with Mr. Geragos?

A. Not really. It refreshes my recollection as to the memo that I typed or had typed after the conversation.

Q. Well, according to your memo, you said Mr. Geragos told you he thought there were passports, true?

A. Yes.

Q. According to your memo, Janet Arvizo told you the harassing behavior had just stopped, correct?

A. I really need to see that again, or I have to find my own copy.

Q. I can show you mine, if you want.

A. Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you taken a look at the memo?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about your discussions with Mr. Geragos?

A. It refreshes my recollection of the memo. I don’t recall specifically having the contents of the conversation. It was a long time ago.

Q. Was it your understanding that Janet told you that the harassment had just stopped?

A. If it says that there, then, yes, it did. She did.

Q. Well, it says that there, doesn’t it?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. All right. You talked to Mr. Geragos about the passports in a phone conversation, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And he told you he thought they existed,

right?

A. Yes.

Q. You also asked him how to get in touch with Bashir, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And he said he would try to help you do that, right?

A. Can you quote that language? I know he mentioned something about Granada.

Q. “I also asked him about Granada, whether he could find out how to get in touch with Bashir. He said he thought it was Granada Productions, and I told him I knew of Granada Television and Granada LPC.” Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. “He said he would try to get me a sheet showing the proper company,” right?

A. Okay.

Q. How would you describe your relationship with Mr. Geragos at this point?

A. That was March 27th?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, at that point he had not turned hostile.

Q. Okay.

A. So I would say it was just a regular old relationship with opposing counsel.

Q. At what point do you think he turned hostile?

A. Well, he didn’t respond to any of the requests, except in that phone conversation where he -- whatever he said about the passports. He never returned anything. He didn’t respond to letters. You go through these letters and I keep on recounting, “I’ve written to you this date, this date, this date, this date, this date. Every time I’ve asked you, say, ‘Please return these things, you don’t respond, you don’t give them to me, you don’t give me the contents of the storage. There’s no reason not to return the passports, the visas, the birth certificates. You can get those to me right away.”

And then especially when he pulls this shenanigan of having the items delivered to my office -- not “the items,” but apparently two vaults of furniture in boxes and whatnot that I had specifically never asked to have returned on a date that anybody who had called my office would know I wasn’t going to be there, when we had no arrangements whatsoever. And then he has the nerve to write me later on that I had given consent somehow, which of course I never had. That was probably long past the time where I thought he had turned hostile.

But obviously he wasn’t responding, and it was very surprising to me to have a lawyer of 4351 supposedly his caliber being such a hostile and oppositional, adversarial person, when there was really nothing at that point that I knew to be adversarial about.

Q. What you’re telling the jury is that a truck came to your office or somebody had been instructed to deliver the things that you requested and nobody would accept them at your office, right?

A. I wasn’t there. All I know is what the manager of the facility told me.

Q. Okay. And what you learned from the manager was that a truck of furniture and goods arrived, and that nobody would accept them, true?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, in all of these conversations you had with Mark Geragos on behalf of the Arvizos, at no time did you mention to him anything about child molestation, correct?

A. Well, I don’t think I had more than one or two conversations.

Q. And you never mentioned anything about child molestation, correct?

A. That’s correct. That wasn’t the purpose of the communication.

Q. You never mentioned anything about wine allegedly being given to any of the Arvizo children, correct?

A. Correct. There was no reason to do that.

Q. The prosecutor, on direct examination of you, talked about your writing letters to England, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you started communicating with a company called Granada Television, Ltd., around April 3rd, 2003, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And you wrote to that company to tell them that they were not to use any film footage or likeness of the Arvizos without their consent,
right?
A. Without providing valid consents, as I had described previously in the letter.
Q. And in that letter, you said your clients had advised you they never signed any consent form, right? This is a letter of April 3rd, 2003, to Granada Television, Ltd.
A. I'm looking at the letter.
Q. Okay. If you don't have it, I can show it to you.
A. I've got it.
That's correct.
Q. You didn't want them taping, filming, interviewing, exhibiting, selling, licensing or exploiting any of the footage involving the Arvizos,
correct?
A. With regard to "Living with Michael Jackson," that's correct.

Q. Yes. Your position was that any such footage was owned by your clients, and if it had any value, that they owned that value, right?

A. No, my position was that they had not given their consent to be either taped, filmed, broadcast or exploited in any other way.

Q. You --

A. And we were seek --

Q. Excuse me. Sorry.

A. The purpose of all these communications with regard to "Living with Michael Jackson" was to stop the exploitation of the Arvizo family.

Q. You wanted any footage returned to you, right?

A. I don't see in this letter requesting that anything be returned.

Q. Do you ever recall requesting that any footage or photographs of the Arvizos be returned to you?

A. I think I wrote something to that effect in the letter to Geragos on March 26th like we just discussed. I may have later on to somebody else, but certainly didn't in this April 3rd letter to Granada.

Q. Did you want Mr. Geragos to deliver items to your office?

A. Yes. The passports, the visas, the 4354 clothing, the birth certificates.

Q. How about furniture?

A. No. Never asked him. Never arranged for it. We never discussed it.

Q. Are you saying that the Arvizos had no problem with the furniture remaining in storage as long as Mr. Jackson was paying for it?

A. Well, it was unknown to me who was paying for it. It was unknown where the -- to me, where these things were stored. And by far, as indicated in these letters, the most important thing to be returned were the passports, visas, birth certificates, Gavin’s undergarments, his tap shoes, and the other items that I specified in letter after letter, and we can go through each of those letters if you want to see me specifying them, over and over and over again, asking for only those items.

And as to the materials, the items that were stored, asking for a list of items that were stored, information as to where they were stored, who had the key, who had control, so that we could dispose of those items as my clients wished.

Q. And your client, Mrs. Arvizo, told you she had very little furniture that anybody could have taken, correct?

A. Again, I -- she hasn’t waived the attorney-client privilege, so for me to say anything that isn’t in these letters would be beyond what I’m ethically and legally allowed to tell you.

Q. Well, if there is a privilege that you were honoring, why did you write on April 8th the following to Mr. Geragos: “She tells me that contrary to what you said about there being a truckload, she had very few possessions, since she lived in a bachelor apartment. She does not believe that much, if any, furniture was removed”?

A. Well, to write a letter to an attorney is not a violation of the attorney-client privilege. Otherwise, one lawyer could never write a letter to another lawyer making any demand on behalf of his client, because then you’d be waiving the attorney-client privilege, which I cannot. It’s impossible for me to waive her privilege. And in order to get things done, obviously I’ve got to describe certain things that I’m told, otherwise there could be no communication.

Q. You wrote a letter to Mr. Geragos on April 3rd, 2003, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. In that letter, you never mention anything about molestation, correct?

A. That’s correct. The only purpose of the letter was to get the items that I had written about before.

Q. In the April 3rd letter, 2003, you mention nothing about alcohol, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. You mention nothing about false imprisonment, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You mention nothing about any alleged kidnapping, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You mentioning nothing about any alleged extortion, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And as of April 3rd, 2003, you have never called the police on behalf of the Arvizos, correct?

A. Not correct.

Q. You didn’t call the police to report false imprisonment, molestation, or extortion?

A. That’s not what you asked. You’d asked if I had ever called the police.

Q. When did you call the police?

A. I was interested to find out what was happening with the investigation, and I called, I guess it was the sheriff’s office, spoke to -- I don’t know. I know I called. I don’t know if I spoke to Sergeant Robel.

Q. Not during this time period, sir.

A. No. I never called the police to report anything about the Arvizos.

Q. You’re talking about calling the police at a much later date to find out about this case, correct?

A. Right. But your question wasn't limited, and I wanted to make sure that I'm exactly accurate, to the extent that I can.

Q. When did you call Mr. Robel, if you know?

A. It seems to me it was sometime after June '03. Maybe October.

Q. October of 2003?

A. Maybe June, maybe October. I know I've produced for subpoena a sheet of something regarding a phone call to him.

Q. And this would have been after you entered into a legal fee arrangement with Attorney Larry Feldman, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Approximately when did you enter into the fee arrangement with Attorney Larry Feldman?

A. Probably early May.

Q. So you enter into a fee arrangement with Attorney Larry Feldman in May, and possibly a month later, you called the sheriffs to find out about an investigation; is that correct?

A. I -- I should probably take back the "June." I recall, I think October. But you've got the notes. So if it's June, it's there.

Q. Okay. But right now we're on April 3rd.

A. Let me clear up something, though, if I might. I don't know what the significance is of a 4358 fee arrangement with Larry Feldman. I previously had fee agreements with the Arvizos that were substantially more lucrative to me than they were later on, and what they did was they retained both of us. It was not they retained Feldman, who then agreed to give me a share of whatever recovery there was.

Q. Up to this very date, as you sit here today, you have a fee arrangement with Mr. Feldman, as you testified, correct?

A. As far as I'm concerned, yes.

Q. Okay. You then wrote a letter to Mr. Geragos on April 8th, 2003, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Again, you discussed your clients' possessions, right?

A. Yes. And other things as well.

Q. You talk about allegations of harassment, correct?

A. Right.

Q. You say that the harassment has not ceased, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. But in your internal memo to yourself of March 31st, 2003, you say that Janet has told you the harassment has ceased, right?

A. As of that day, she said she was no longer being harassed. I guess it picked up after that, or it was a lull in the harassment.

Q. You just got that information from Janet, true?

A. Just got what information?

Q. The information about harassment resuming comes from Janet, correct?

A. Perhaps other of the family as well.

Q. And nowhere in that letter of April 8th, 2003, do you mention molestation, correct?

A. I think I can short-circuit this. I never mentioned molestation, kidnapping, alcohol or any of those.

Q. False imprisonment?

A. Or false imprisonment to Mr. Geragos. That was not the purpose of any of these letters. All of these letters were for the purpose of him getting things back to my clients and stopping the harassment.

Q. So in all of these letters, you represent -- excuse me, you identify various claims against Mr. Jackson, like harassment, and wanting property returned, and not wanting unauthorized use of the Bashir material, but in none of them do you mention the things I've just described, molestation, alcohol, false imprisonment, extortion, kidnapping, correct?

A. I've just said that.

Q. Okay. When you mentioned requests for clothes, you’re talking about shirts, tap shoes, underwear, socks, et cetera, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Obviously, you’re told by your client that that stuff’s missing, right?

A. Right.

Q. When you were retained by the Arvizos, was it your understanding that there was litigation going on in Great Britain?

A. Well, I don’t know exactly where, if that is on the timeline. Assuming that February 21st is when I was first retained, because I was, according to my understanding of the law, their attorney when they came to talk to me on that date, I’m sure I did not know -- I shouldn’t say “I’m not sure” -- I shouldn’t say “I’m sure.” I don’t know. I don’t recall being told about it.

Q. You were considering filing a lawsuit on behalf of the Arvizos against various studios, if necessary, right?

A. Well, again, that goes into the attorney work product, which is privileged from discovery, and so I guess I should decline to answer that.

Q. Well, you wrote to ABC in New York on behalf of the Arvizos on April 11, 2003, correct?

A. I don’t know.

Q. I can show you the letter, if it’s easier.

A. Sure, why don’t you.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that letter?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that a letter you wrote to a lawyer in ABC in New York named Zucker?

A. Yes.

Q. That was on April 11th, 2003, correct?

A. I didn’t look at the date, but if you say so, that’s fine.

Q. You made the statement, “My clients do not wish to make a claim against ABC if one is not founded,” right?

A. Right.

Q. That means they were contemplating making one if it had any justification, correct?

A. Right. And that claim was to get Gavin’s face off television and other media, to stop the exploitation.

Q. You wrote to Mr. Geragos again on April 11th, 2003, right?

A. Yes.

Q. The subject of that letter is your desire that no footage involving the Arvizos be used by anyone associated with Michael Jackson, right?

A. Well, it was with regard to a contemplated program by FOX.

Q. How did you learn that FOX was going to broadcast something about Michael Jackson?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. But what you told Mr. Geragos was that if there was any such program, they were not to use your clients’ footage without their consent, right?

A. No. It said that there was no consent and therefore they may not use that footage.

Q. The reason for all of this, Mr. Dickerman, was the Arvizos wanted to be paid if the footage was used, right?

A. I can’t say what was in their head. That was never communicated to me --

Q. Okay.

A. -- ever, under any stretch of the imagination.

If -- I’ll tell you, if I thought so, I would have been demanding money. I would have said, “Give me a call, and let’s talk about what can be done,” or we would have had a phone conversation. If you want money, this is not the way to go about it.

Q. Mr. Dickerman, the way to go about getting money is to tell people not to use the footage and start the process of negotiation right there, correct?

A. That’s not the way that I would do it.

Q. Okay. All right.

A. Especially with a fellow who was as hostile as Mr. Geragos was. That’s not at all how I would do it.

Q. But you were writing to other lawyers around the country, including Mr. Zucker in New York, and lawyers in England, and lawyers in Los Angeles, in Burbank, right?

A. I did write to other lawyers. But I can tell you this: There was never a request for money. And the reason there was no request for money is because I was never told -- in fact, much to the contrary. I was never told to seek money for any purpose from anyone with regard to Michael Jackson, period.

Q. Did Mr. Masada, your client for many years, ever say words to the effect to you, “They’re making millions and these poor people are getting none of the money”?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. But obviously he’s the one that brought them to you, right?

A. I don’t know what you mean by “obviously,” but Mr. Masada brought them to me, yes.

Q. Okay. All right. You got a letter from Mr. Geragos on April 15th asking you where to deliver the items in storage, right?

A. Yes.

Q. At that point you certainly knew they were in storage, correct?

A. I knew that he was saying that they were in storage.

Q. Well, were you representing Jay Jackson at this point?

A. No.

Q. On April 16th, Mr. Dickerman, you wrote to the head of legal affairs at Granada Media Group in England, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You continued to complain about use of the footage involving the Arvizos, correct?

A. I wouldn’t say “complain.” I set forth the facts, drew conclusions and made a suggestion to Granada that their position was not right, and demanded that they cease and desist using “Living with Michael Jackson,” et cetera.

Q. Now, you also wrote to the Globe newspaper on behalf of the Arvizos, correct?

A. Sounds familiar.

Q. You complained about their taking photographs of the Arvizos, right?

A. I don’t recall specifically what I said in the letter. But if you show me the letter, I can answer the question.

Q. I don’t have that letter, but I have their response to you. Do you have your letter you wrote regarding the Globe newspaper?

A. Give me a minute or two. I --
Q. Yes.
A. What’s the date?
Q. I have a letter from them of April 16th, 2003. It references a letter you wrote to Michael Kahana, Esquire.
A. That letter sounds familiar, and I don’t seem to be able to put my hands on it.
Q. Were you claiming that the Arvizos had a copyright interest in photographs taken of them that appeared in the media?
A. I don’t know. Depends on what the letter said.
Q. Okay.
A. I do recall writing to, I thought it was either The Globe or The National Enquirer regarding a photograph of Janet Arvizo that I believe to have been improperly obtained and published.
MR. ZONEN: May I have a moment with counsel?
THE COURT: Let’s take a break.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: You may proceed.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.
Q. Mr. Dickerman, Larry Feldman is known as one of the --

THE BAILIFF: Can you turn your microphone on?

MR. MESEREAU: Sorry. Sorry. Let me start again.

Q. Mr. Dickerman, Larry Feldman is known as one of the top plaintiff’s civil litigators in America, correct?

A. I don’t know about America, but I would say certainly California.

Q. And typically, a plaintiff’s civil litigator will file a lawsuit on behalf of a plaintiff, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And try to seek damages -- excuse me, try to seek monetary damages in that lawsuit, right?

A. Yes. But I should say, while he’s known as a plaintiff’s lawyer, I know him also to have defended major lawsuits, and he’s now with a major New York firm, so he is certainly doing a lot of defense work.

Q. He started doing a lot of defense work in recent years, did he not?

A. I don’t know.

Q. But he became very well known in Los Angeles for winning huge financial damage awards in civil cases, correct?

A. I would say that’s probably true.

Q. A lot of them were types of personal injury cases, correct?

A. I don’t really know, beyond the ‘93 case, and I’ve been reading his name, and I think he was the -- the president -- I don’t know if it was California State Bar or the L.A. County Bar. I don’t know the specific cases. I know of one railroad case that was a big deal, but -- if I were -- if my memory were refreshed, I would know some of these other cases. But offhand I don’t.

Q. Typically in a plaintiff’s civil case, the lawyer gets a percentage of whatever the lawyer recovers for the client, correct?

A. Only if it’s a contingency case. If that’s the arrangement, for a percentage. That’s typical in auto accident cases. It’s typical in other accident cases usually.

I can’t say what’s typical in a molestation case, or any other particular case. It just depends on whether the plaintiff has the money to pay the fees or prefers to go on a contingency.

Very often I have turned people away from contingency fees, because I tell them, “You got a strong case and you’re going to be very unhappy if you pay me a percentage after I don’t do $100,000 worth of work. You’re better off, if you got the money, to pay me hourly to do that.” And so it varies from case to case.

Q. If the client doesn’t have a lot of money to pay the lawyer in a plaintiff’s civil case, typically what the lawyer does is pay the costs, litigate the case, and if money comes in, either through a settlement or a judgment in a trial, the lawyer gets a percentage of that recovery, right?

A. That’s right.

Q. And even though you’re aware of Mr. Feldman doing defense work, you’re also aware of him pursuing large multi-million-dollar damage claims on behalf of civil plaintiffs, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you’re aware of him doing that on behalf of plaintiffs who can’t afford to pay legal fees, correct?

A. I don’t know. I don’t know who pays him what or how it’s done.

Q. Now, you produced some handwritten notes, which you were subpoenaed to produce in this case, true?

A. Yes.

Q. Some of the notes you produced mention the J.C. Penney case, right?

A. I know at least one of the pages says that, yes.

Q. Were you involved in the J.C. Penney litigation on behalf of the Arvizos?

A. Not at all.

Q. Okay. Do you know why you refer to the J.C.

Penney case in your notes?

A. Do you want to refer to some specific notes?

Q. I have a page I can show you.

A. I’ve got my originals here of a conversation that I had with Mr. Sneddon on January 9th. Is that the one you’re referring to?

Q. I think it’s more like January 8th. It says “Liebler” in the corner.

A. Well, at the top of that previous page it says 1-8, but near the middle it says 1-9. So I’m assuming that’s a conversation I had on the 9th.

Q. To your knowledge, had the J.C. Penney case concluded by the time you were hired?

A. I know nothing about the J.C. Penney case. I know it arose, there was some conversation about it, and I have no involvement in it. It seems to me that it resolved some time ago. I don’t know. One, two years or more. I don’t know.

Q. Was it your understanding that that was a plaintiff’s contingency fee case where the lawyer gets a percentage of the recovery?

A. I have no idea what their fee arrangement was.

Q. Okay. When was the last letter you sent Mark Geragos regarding the Arvizos?

A. Well, if Exhibit 625 has all my letters to Geragos, that would be May 29, 2003.

Q. And you continued to communicate with Michael Jackson’s lawyer named David LeGrand, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And your letters to David LeGrand went through July of 2003, correct?

A. I don’t have the date memorized. But if you’ve got a letter that says that, then that would be the case.

Q. I have a letter July 9th. Do you want to see that?

A. I have a letter of July 9th from him. I don’t know if I wrote to him after that or not.

Q. Okay. You’re continuing to write letters on behalf of the Arvizos through July of 2003, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And to make a long story short, none of your letters ever discussed the subjects I identified before, molestation, false imprisonment, kidnapping, harm to children, that kind of thing, correct?

A. They never did. That wasn’t the purpose of any of the communications. All these communications were for the purpose of getting things done, not for making allegations about something that would be handled in some other form.

Q. Well, you mentioned harassment in some of your early letters, correct?

A. Right.

Q. But you never mentioned anything about alcohol in any of them, correct?

A. Well, first of all, the Arvizos were gone from Neverland by March 26th, is my understanding. And the letters regarding humiliation, intimidation, surveillance on March 26th and thereafter was about continuing behavior after they left Neverland.

Q. Okay.

A. I was writing -- seeking for him to get Jackson and his people to stop doing what they were doing. To do affirmative things. Stop, return things, provide lists. Not to make allegations of things that Geragos would have nothing to do with in any event.

Q. Was it your understanding at some point that furniture and material was returned to the Arvizos by Brad Miller?

A. I -- I don’t have any personal knowledge of any return of those things.

Q. Did you ever see a receipt from a storage locker?

A. I don’t recall seeing one.

Q. Was it your understanding that while you were representing the Arvizos, Mr. Geragos paid rent for the Arvizos in East Los Angeles?

A. I have no such understanding.

Q. Did you ever hear anything about that?

A. About Geragos paying rent?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did you ever hear about anybody associated with Mr. Jackson paying the Arvizo rent in East Los Angeles?

A. I don’t recall hearing of any such --

Q. Did you ever communicate about that to anybody?

A. To the extent that I communicated about anything with my clients, that would be protected by attorney-client privilege. But I don’t recall communicating about that with anybody else.

Q. Have you referred any clients to Mr. Feldman since you referred the Arvizos?

A. No.

Q. When did you last talk to Mr. Feldman about this case?

A. Yesterday.

Q. Did you talk about what you were going to say in court?

A. No. I think all we talked about was whether Miss Arvizo had waived the attorney-client privilege.

Q. And that discussion was yesterday?

A. And I think we said something about the -- about the fee arrangement. Specifically I can’t recall. I was sitting upstairs, and I was returning calls from the office.

Q. Now, as a civil litigator, you’re aware that if you obtain a criminal conviction in a case of alleged child molestation, any parallel civil case is automatically won on liability, right?

A. Actually, I've heard that recently. But not having ever been involved in such a case, I can't say that I know that for sure. I haven't researched the law on it.

Q. But you certainly know that if someone has a judgment of a criminal conviction against them for sexual assault, you can use that in a civil court to establish liability and not have to incur the expenses and the time involved in a trial on liability, right?

A. I would assume that to be the case.

Q. The only issue at that point would be how much money you get in a civil courtroom, correct?

A. I don't know if there are other issues, but I think as the judgment, that's true of any criminal action, that you don't then have to go, once again, and prove exactly what was proved with a higher burden of proof.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Dickerman, before we took the break, Mr. Mesereau had asked you about a letter that you had sent to Michael Kahan, or Kahana, and we took the break and we came back and he didn’t follow up on that document.

Have you had a chance to see that document dated April 3rd, 2003?

A. I did. I found it in my file.

Q. Mr. Dickerman asked you if, in fact, you made a demand for royalties for photographs published in the Globe; is that correct?

A. Do you mean Mr. Mesereau?

Q. I’m sorry, Mr. Mesereau asked that of you.

A. I don’t recall if he asked that or not.

Q. Did you, in fact, make a demand for royalties in this letter?

A. No, I -- I -- I never made a demand for money on behalf of the Arvizos in any letter, in any communication, for any purpose under the sun.

Q. What did you ask the Globe newspaper to do in this case? I’m assuming the Globe is a newspaper.

A. Yeah, it’s a tabloid.

Q. What did you ask them to do in this letter?

A. I’ll quote the last paragraph. “Unless the Globe and American Media can provide valid consents, as described above,” that’s referring to consent by my clients to be in the Globe, “the Arvizos demand that the Globe and American Media immediately cease and desist from using or in any other way exploiting photographs of any of my clients.

"My clients further demand the Globe and American Media cease and desist from any further mention of them in any publications," close quote.

Q. You asked that they take them out of the newspaper and not put them back in again, is that right?

A. That was it. That was -- the concern was to stop exploiting them, period.

Q. Did not ask for money?

A. No.

MR. ZONEN: No further questions.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. You may step down. Call your next witness.

MR. SNEDDON: The witness is on his way down, Your Honor.

THE BAILIFF: He is on his way.

MR. SNEDDON: He's on his way.

MR. MESEREAU: Who is the next witness?

MR. SNEDDON: Jeff Klapakis.

THE COURT: You know, I was thinking that between the comedians and the lawyers, I kind of like the comedians better.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: You don't have to respond.

(Laughter.)

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Your Honor, while we're waiting, there are a couple of exhibits that have not yet been admitted that I'll ask to be admitted at this time.
THE COURT: All right.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: The first one is the notebook. Madam Clerk has it. It's Exhibit No. 769. That was the one notebook that counsel had an objection to, but we researched it, and I believe found sufficient foundation was laid for that.
THE COURT: No. 769?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes. And I can show Madam Clerk the exhibit.
THE COURT: I'm sorry, are you objecting to this exhibit or just remaining --
MR. SANGER: I'll submit it.
THE COURT: All right. It's admitted.
Come forward, please.
You're already under oath. You may be seated.

JEFF KLAPAKIS
Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. SNEDDON:
Q. Lieutenant, you previously testified in this case?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And you understand you're still under oath?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And just as a refresher, since it's been a couple of weeks probably since you were back, would you tell the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, you are employed by the sheriff's department in what capacity?

A. I am the lieutenant currently in charge of the North County Investigations Division.

Q. And with regard to this particular case against the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson, what is your particular assignment or role?

A. I am in charge of the overseeing of the entire investigation.

Q. And so Sergeant Robel, then, would work underneath you, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And under your direction?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, with regard to -- we're going to talk a little bit about forensics, okay?

A. Okay.

Q. And of the decisions that were made in this case with regard to the processing of certain exhibits.

A. All right.

Q. Now, generally what’s the relationship between how items are sent for processing for forensic purposes in the office? Who makes that decision?

A. Well, generally the investigator who seizes an item, say pursuant to a search warrant, will -- once packaging and booking it, will fill out a form for the forensic unit to do a latent comparison, or whatever type of forensic science they want on the evidence.

Q. In this particular case, who made those decisions?

A. I did.

Q. Now, with regard to forensic examinations, are some examinations -- some items done -- forensically examined within the sheriff’s department?

A. Yes.

Q. And are some done and sent to outside agencies?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you give the jury just a general idea of what kind would be sent out and what kind would be done inside?

A. Well, certainly an examination of items for latent fingerprints, we have that expertise within the sheriff’s department. An examination of an item of evidence for biological fluids we would send out to the Department of Justice, who has that experience, where we don’t.

Q. Now, with regard to this particular case, the Michael Jackson case, People versus Michael Jackson, after -- you were present when the search warrant was executed on November the 18th of 2003, correct?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And in conjunction with that search warrant, a number of items were taken and brought back to the sheriff’s department, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And shortly after that, some plan was put in effect to basically document or inventory what it was that was taken; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And who did you assign that particular task to?

A. Well, when we seized those items, that was part of the -- I’m not quite sure I understand exactly what point in time you’re talking about.

Q. Right after you got back from the search warrant, okay? There were certain items that were placed into bags and certain containers that had items that hadn’t been looked at yet, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And did you assign somebody the responsibility of going through those items and seeing what there was inside and documenting that through reports?

A. Yes.

Q. And who did you assign that responsibility to?

A. Detective Bonner.

Q. And that particular process, from -- let’s say from the day of the search till -- how long did that take?

A. Well, it’s -- it’s -- it’s always been an ongoing process. There’s lots of items of evidence.

Q. Well, let me go back. Only as to the stuff taken from Neverland Valley Ranch, not as to any subsequent search warrants.

A. I would say it’s taken Detective Bonner probably a couple of months to go over all that material and examine it.

Q. Now, were you involved in developing a -- what might be called a forensic game plan for the processing of the items that were taken from the Neverland Valley Ranch on November 18?

A. Yes, I was part of that.

Q. And what was your role in that plan?

A. As well as providing input and asking questions, I was the ultimate person to make the last decision on what we were going to do.

Q. And with regard to the particular plan, what did you do in your capacity as the person in charge of making these decisions to help you make those kinds of decisions? Did you do any research? Did you do any checking? Did you have people do things so they could give you advice as to what the decision should be?

A. Yes, I conferred with my forensic unit. We talked about the type of materials that we had, and that we had seized from the ranch.

One of the things we decided to do was to go out and get a similar type of material, adult material magazine, and practice with it. Again, we're talking about different forms of paper. We wanted to make sure that any processes that we did to develop and stabilize latent prints would not be destroyed by a previous process. So, that was one of the things that we went out and did, and practiced with that.

Q. When did you commence that portion of your planning stages on the game plan?

A. Well, the first part of the game plan was to photograph some of the materials. And we started on that process. At that point in time, I stopped the forensic unit, and I asked them to go over the materials with an alternate light source in hopes of developing or finding any biological fluids.

Q. And when specifically do you recall, in terms of from November the 18th of 2003, was it that the alternative light source was used to process the 4382 materials that still remained in the sheriff’s department custody?

A. I’d say December or January. December ‘03 to January ‘04.

Q. And were you aware of the fact, in your capacity as the lead person in making these forensic decisions, that certain items were taken to the Department of Justice in the month of February?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Was that under your -- your direction that they be taken there?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, let’s go back just a second to the testing protocol. You told the ladies and gentlemen of the jury one of the things that you directed staff to do was to buy various magazines and to experiment with them; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, was that particular experimentation or process development directly related to a particular type of forensic examination, or to more than one type that you anticipated?

A. Multiple types.

Q. And what would be the multiple types that you had in mind?

A. Certainly super gluing, and using other types of -- I’m not a forensic scientist, but super gluing those would be one of them. Using a process called ninhydrin would be another one. Certainly fingerprint powder, to see if that developed any. We wanted to do -- also examine it with the naked eye as -- without any powders or anything on it by using a -- what we refer to as a Scenescope.

Q. So most of the things that you just talked about were the processes directly related to the latent print examination, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, in connection with developing the process that was eventually used to process latent prints or process the magazines that may or may not have developed latent prints, did you consult with any outside agencies in the development of that protocol?

A. Yes.

Q. Who did you consult with?

A. The FBI.

Q. Now, the jury’s heard a lot about several organizations, and I want to just digress for just a moment and talk about this a little bit. The FBI is a federal agency, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Or as Mr. Mesereau would call them, they’re the government?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, where are their labs that deal with the fingerprint and latent examinations?

A. Quantico, Virginia.

Q. Now, we’ve also heard another branch of government called the Department of Justice, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And when you use the Department of Justice, what are you talking about?

A. That’s a state lab. California state lab.

Q. And with regard to that particular lab, do they have local facilities?

A. Yes. Small, but yes.

Q. Do they provide a full range of forensic assistance at the local lab?

A. No.

Q. Are there certain things that are sent to the local lab, but then have to be sent up to the Department of Justice elsewhere?

A. Yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, does the Department of Justice do latent fingerprint examinations?

A. I don’t believe they do those. At least we have never used them for that.

Q. Do they do DNA work?

A. Yes, they do the preliminaries. And then I believe that they send those out to Richmond, I believe.

Q. In a lab in Richmond?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, after the -- you've told the ladies and gentlemen of the jury that certain materials were sent to the Department of Justice locally for a forensic examination in February?

A. That's right.

Q. Those materials, particularly those materials that were contained within the Exhibit 470, which is the briefcase --

A. Okay.

Q. -- that you refer to as 317. You have the briefcase in mind?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And the materials in it that I'm talking about in mind?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, those particular materials, what happened to them between the time that the -- some of those materials were removed in February, what remained in the briefcase, and the other materials? Where were they, to your knowledge?

A. Well, a lot of the materials were kept at DOJ, and I believe they were locked up in a safe.

Q. Those are the items removed from 317?

A. That's correct.

Q. Or 470, in our case here.

A. Yes.

Q. And the ones that remained in your custody and control, what happened to those?

A. I believe that those were entered into evidence in the grand jury.

Q. And to your knowledge, were those retained by the grand jury?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, at some point, you received the items back from the Department of Justice, the local Department of Justice, that had been sent in February. Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall when you got them back?

A. The latter part of July, almost August.

Q. And when you got those materials back, most of those were magazines; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And was a decision made at some point after that as to how, and in what priority, certain materials would be processed?

A. Yes, based on the testing protocol that we had done, plus our conferring with the FBI, we developed our own protocol to what would work best in trying to develop and stabilize any latent prints on the magazines. And then that, I believe, was in August ‘04. In conference with your office, my office, we developed prioritizations of which magazines to do first.

Q. Do you have an estimate of how many magazines were involved here?

A. Hundred-plus.
Q. Have you ever had a situation to do latent examination on 100 magazines in a case?
A. Not every page.
Q. Now, you said that there was a meeting between your department and the District Attorney’s Office --
A. Right.
Q. -- with regard to prioritization.
What decisions were made with regard to how -- what month was that?
A. August, ‘04.
Q. And with regard to that, what prioritization was developed for the processing of the magazines in this case that were seized from Neverland Ranch on November the 18th?
A. Prior to -- the priority was placed on Item 317, the magazines from the briefcase.
Q. And thereafter, what was the priority to be?
A. I believe -- and any other magazines found within Mr. Jackson’s bedroom. Bedroom, den, room.
Q. Upstairs or downstairs?
A. Yes. Bathroom as well.
Q. Now, did you or anybody under your direction take steps to obtain the release of the magazines and the briefcase that we refer to in this case as 470, and you refer to as 317 from the grand jury?
A. Yes.

Q. And what occurred in that connection?

A. Detective Bonner -- we had to get a court order to get it out of the grand jury. In order to do that process, we -- I believe the Court requested that we replace what we took out with photographs. Detective Bonner -- and I believe the defense had to review that as well, before we can get the court order. I sent Detective Bonner to the Court, who took photographs of the items from the grand jury. And then in October we received a court order and got the magazines out.

Q. Now, you've indicated to the jury that certain materials were returned to your possession and control from the Department of Justice in around July of 2004.

A. Yes.

Q. And you've indicated to the jury that you got some -- you got the other materials from 470 from the grand jury in October of '04?

A. Right.

Q. Had some processing of latent prints begun before you actually got the remaining materials from the grand jury?

A. No. We were doing other phases of the forensics. Photographing, splitting the pages, putting them into separate binders. We were doing a lot of preprocessing before we went into the magazine.

Q. Okay. So it was part of the protocol process for examination, but it wasn’t the actual examination process. It was the prep process?
A. Yes.
Q. But you had begun that process before you got the materials back from the grand jury?
A. I believe we had started that process in January, with some items that neither went to DOJ or neither went to the grand jury. So....
Q. So it was just an ongoing situation?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, just to give the ladies and gentlemen of the jury some idea, you’re a head -- your title is what?
A. Lieutenant.
Q. And you’re in charge of what?
A. Criminal Investigations Division.
Q. Now, during the time from, let’s say, January of 2004 till the time of October of 2004, were there other major events that required you to take personnel off this case to become involved in major investigations?
A. Especially my forensics personnel, yes.
Q. And what was that?
A. We -- in July, we had a homicide. In September -- and this is ‘04. September ‘04, we had had an officer-involved shooting that resulted in a justifiable homicide. And in October ‘04, we had 4390 a -- another homicide.

Q. Now, with regard to the process of beginning the examination of the magazines that you’ve already described, the prep, and you’ve already indicated when the actual latent comparison process began, did you learn at some point that there was a deadline set for the completion of the project?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall when it was you learned that there was a deadline set?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. When we discussed the magazines, I believe in October, ‘04. But that wasn’t the date. I was given December 12th, I believe.

Q. So you basically had ten weeks to complete the process?

A. Yes.

Q. When you found that out, did you have to bring extra personnel in to help process all these?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, the FBI has a lab in Quantico that you’ve said does do latent print examinations, correct?

A. It’s quite a big lab, yeah.

Q. And was any discussion had with regard to sending some or all of these materials to FBI?

A. We talked about it.

Q. And was there a reason why it wasn’t done?

A. Yes. I felt that we had already begun some processes with some of the materials. And by sending -- piecemealing out things to do, I would lose control over the evidence. And I -- I wanted to have accountability over this evidence. So I had the utmost confidence in my staff, given the time constraints, and -- to handle the job. And so I chose to keep it in-house.

Q. In your experience over the years that you’ve dealt with the FBI in fingerprints, does it take them a while -- did they have to prioritize your request with other requests from other agencies?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And you indicated that you didn’t think that the Department of Justice, the State Department of Justice, did latent examinations at this point in time?

A. I’m sure they will do them for smaller agencies. But again, it’s a prioritization process, and we have -- we’re a mid level agency, and we’re fully capable of doing that kind of work.

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you. I have no further questions.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good afternoon.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Approximately 69 personnel did a search on Neverland Ranch, correct?

A. Approximately 69 persons were involved in the operation, yes.

Q. And how many were sheriffs, if you know?

A. I would say 90 percent.

Q. Have you ever done a search with that many sheriffs before?

A. I was involved in a peripheral investigation with the City of Guadalupe where we basically took over the town, so, yes, I'd have to say.

Q. Your typical homicide investigation in Santa Barbara County, you don't use 69 sheriffs for a search, do you, of a home?

A. No.

Q. And your typical homicide investigation in Santa Barbara County, you don't even come close to using that number in a search of a home, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. It was done here because Mr. Jackson is a celebrity, correct?

A. That's not why it was done.

Q. The fact that Mr. Jackson is known as a megastar around the world has nothing to do with taking 69 people to search his home?

A. There were a lot of other operations going on in regards to the search that required additional personnel.

Q. Were you in charge of the search?

A. Yes, sir, I was.

Q. And isn’t it true that your office contacted the media before the search?

A. That is not correct.

Q. Do you remember an operations plan you put together to have people read before the search?

A. Yes.

Q. Did it talk about media observing the search?

A. One of the personnel that we had there was a public information officer; that the sole purpose of having him there was, once we conducted the search, we thought the word might get out.

Q. Before you conducted the search, did you make plans for any type of press conference?

A. I -- I believe the sheriff’s department was involved in that process, yes. I didn’t. Your question was did I.

Q. Let me rephrase it.

A. Okay.

Q. Before approximately 69 people searched Mr. Jackson’s home and surrounding location --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- plans were already in effect by the Santa Barbara Sheriff’s Department to conduct a press conference, right?

A. I believe that they planned that.

Q. Did that have anything to do with the fact that Mr. Jackson is a megastar?

A. I believe that we do that for all newsworthy stories that we become involved in.

Q. You haven’t answered my question. Let me rephrase it.

A. The answer is no, then.

Q. So the planning of a press conference by the sheriff’s department before the search of Mr. Jackson’s home and the plans specifically directed at a press conference had nothing to do with the fact that Mr. Jackson is perceived as a megastar, correct?

A. You know, I -- maybe it was. I’m not -- I’m not sure I can answer that. I mean, it was involved with who it was and the case, the type of case that we were investigating. It’s a newsworthy item.

Q. Did the fact that Mr. Jackson is perceived as a well-known celebrity internationally have anything to do with the number of people involved in the search?

MR. SNEDDON: Objection as asked and answered, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained. Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Who planned the press conference prior to the search?

A. Well, I’d have to say Sergeant Chris Pappas was involved in that, but I’m not -- I’m not sure. I was involved in a different aspect of it. I think that they were talking about the potential of the media getting involved in this and so they wanted to have a plan in place.

Q. How fast after the search began was there any press conference?

A. Mr. Mesereau, I couldn’t tell you that. I was so engrossed in the events on the ranch that I wasn’t paying attention to what was going on outside.

Q. Do you recall your participating in any press conference related to the search of Mr. Jackson’s home?

A. No, I don’t believe I was.

Q. Was anyone from your office involved in that press conference, to your knowledge?

A. There was a press conference with -- with, I believe, the public information officer outside of our office.

Q. Before you conducted your search, press releases had already been printed regarding the search, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object. No foundation.

THE COURT: Foundation is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not, before you conducted the search of Mr.

Jackson's home with approximately 69 personnel, any press releases had already been prepared regarding the search?

A. No, I do not know that.

Q. Did you ever see such a press release at any time that you've been involved in this case?

A. It's possible I have. I can't tell you when. Certainly -- I don't believe I saw one prior to the service of the search warrant.

Q. Were the people who searched Mr. Jackson's residence instructed in advance how to handle the media?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object to this as immaterial, irrelevant, and beyond the scope of the direct examination.

THE COURT: Did you go into the search on direct?

MR. SNEDDON: I just asked him if he was there. I didn't go into any of the details of it. Just to lay the foundation for what he did to process the stuff forensically.

MR. MESEREAU: He did go into the search, Your Honor. Not the media issue, but he did go into the search.

THE COURT: All right. I'll allow the question.

Do you want it reread?

THE WITNESS: Please.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Who did the instructing, if you know?

A. Probably myself, Sergeant Koopmans, possibly Sergeant Robel.

Q. Did you say probably yourself?

A. Probably my -- we had an operations briefing where several persons involved in different aspects of the operation gave briefings on their aspect.

Q. Did you engage in any such briefing?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When was that?

A. The morning of the search.

Q. When you arrived at Neverland to commence the search, did you see any representatives of the media present?

A. I saw a car on the side of the road. There wasn’t an insignia on it.

Q. Did you see any helicopters flying above?

A. No.

Q. At some point did you see them?

A. At some point there were several helicopters there.

Q. Do you have any idea who notified them about the search?

A. I have no idea.

Q. No clue at all, right?

A. I have none.

Q. Do you have any knowledge that anyone in the sheriff’s department notified the media about the search of Mr. Jackson’s home?

A. I have no knowledge of that.

Q. Okay. Regarding forensic work at Mr. Jackson’s home, did you put into place any safeguards to avoid contamination of evidence?

A. All of our personnel are trained, so that is a safeguard in and of itself. We proceeded as cautiously as we could through this large estate. We put people in charge who had more experience than the others who directed them. And from that standpoint, I believe our investigators who were doing the actual searching were wearing gloves.

Q. Is there any other safeguard that you recall putting into place before the search regarding possible contamination?

A. None -- it escapes me at this point.

Q. Do you know what people were wearing on their shoes before they walked through his home?

A. I don’t believe they were wearing anything other than the shoes.

Q. What kind of shoes were they wearing?

A. I -- I couldn’t tell you.

Q. Were you in Mr. Jackson’s home during the day of the search?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. How many people were in Mr. Jackson’s home on the day of the search that were part of your operation?

A. Inside his main house?

Q. Yes.

A. I would say inside his main house, we had - it changed - anywhere from 15 to 25 at any one particular time.

Q. How many people in total out of the 69 that were involved in the search of Mr. Jackson’s residence entered his house that day, if you know?

A. Again, the main house?

Q. Yes, please.

A. Well, we kept a log of people that were entering in the house. I myself entered and exited several times. So I cannot give you an adequate answer to that question.

Q. It was more than 25, was it not?

A. That were conducting the search in the main house?

Q. That went into his house at any time during the day.

A. I’d have to say yes.

Q. Was it more than 45, to your knowledge?

A. I’d say that possibly could be correct. We were conducting interviews in the house, so, yes. And you’re talking just our personnel or perhaps ranch employees as well?

Q. No, your personnel.

A. Then I’d say you’re probably -- somewhere around that.

Q. Close to 45?

A. I’m assuming, yes.

Q. You have never been in an investigation where 45 people were allowed to walk into someone’s home, correct?

A. In a home, no.

Q. This was the first time, correct?

A. It’s the first time I’ve been involved in something, or an estate this size, that we had that many people.

Q. Did the fact that Mr. Jackson is a well-known celebrity have anything to do with the number of people you allowed into his home on that day?

A. No.

Q. In your typical homicide investigation, 45 people don’t enter a residence, correct?

A. No, they do not.

Q. What were the hours you conducted that search during the first day?

A. I believe eight or nine o’clock in the morning till 11:30 at night.

Q. You then conducted a second search of Mr. Jackson’s home, correct?

A. In, I believe, November ‘04.

Q. And what were the hours that you kept in that search?

A. I believe we entered about nine o'clock in the morning and left in the afternoon time.

Q. That search was actually in December, wasn't it? December 4th sound right?

A. It could. It's possible, yes.

Q. Now, both of those searches were done by surprise, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Special efforts were taken to make sure that Mr. Jackson or his family did not know the search was going to be conducted, right?

A. We didn't publicize it.

Q. But special efforts were taken to make sure Mr. Jackson and his family didn't know about either of these searches in advance, correct?

A. No more special than we do in any other search warrant. So I don't -- if you're -- I didn't do anything different.

Q. Let me ask the question again.

A. Okay.

Q. I don't think I've gotten an answer, but --

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object to counsel's comments, and it's argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Were you in charge of the second search on or about December 4th, 2004?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you agree that within minutes of the search of Mr. Jackson’s residence on December 4th, 2004, the press knew about it?

A. I wouldn’t say minutes. I’d say that the press eventually found out.

Q. They seemed to know very quickly, correct?

A. Within an hour.

Q. Do you have any idea who notified them?

A. I have suspicions.

Q. Do you think somebody in the sheriff’s department notified them?

A. No.

Q. Was a press release prepared regarding that search?

A. I don’t believe so, but I’m not sure on that.

Q. Have you ever seen a press release regarding that search?

A. I have not personally seen it, no.

Q. So are you telling the jury that there were efforts made in advance to deal with the media before the first search but not before the second search?

A. What I’m telling you is that my job was not involved in that aspect of it. That was turned over to our public information officer. My responsibility was the service of the search at Neverland, and that’s where my operation stayed.

Q. As the one in charge of both search teams, did you have any involvement with your public information office?

A. Just notifying, notifying them that we would be conducting a search on that day, and at Neverland Valley Ranch.

Q. Were you ever asked to review in advance any information designed to be published by your public information office about either search?

A. I do not recall -- again, I do not recall reading a press release, as you call it, prior to the service of any search warrant at Neverland.

Q. What safeguards were taken to preserve evidence that you seized from Neverland on November 18th, 2003?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as asked and answered.

MR. MESEREAU: I asked about contamination, Your Honor. I think my question is broader. But I could rephrase if the Court wants.

THE COURT: All right. Rephrase.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: With the exception of issues of contamination, what safeguards were taken to preserve evidence seized at Neverland on November 18th, 2003?

A. Well, initially, we videotaped our entry into the residence. We also videotaped and used still photography. We also did that at the conclusion of our search. The people that entered into the residence were logged in, and logged out. Those people entering the residence that were going to conduct searches were wearing gloves on their hands.

Q. Anything else you can think of?

A. No.

Q. Were there any safeguards you put into place to try and preserve any DNA evidence that might exist?

A. I -- the only -- other than collecting the materials, the adult material, the magazines and the bedding from Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, my only involvement was directing my forensic unit -- was assisting to get the search warrant for that material and directing them what we were to take. They handled the operation themselves.

Q. Did you say you were in charge of obtaining evidence from Mr. Jackson’s bedroom for possible DNA testing?

A. I was aware that there was bedding material and a bed in his bedroom that was not part of the original search warrant. I then --

Q. Was that material obtained for DNA testing?

A. I believe that it was.

Q. When, if you know?

A. I do not know the exact date. It was 4405 submitted to the DOJ lab, I believe.

Q. Was it obtained in the search on November 18th, to your knowledge?

A. The bedding?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes. There was other materials too, I believe, that were submitted.

Q. And when was this material submitted to DNA testing?

A. Again, I can’t give you the exact date. Sometime early part of 2004.

Q. You never even asked for Mr. Jackson’s DNA until December 4th, 2004, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. That was over one year after the initial search, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. To your knowledge, did the FBI do any DNA testing in this case?

A. To my knowledge, no.

Q. Did you direct the FBI to do any particular kinds of forensic analysis in the case?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what were those types of forensic analysis?

A. They assisted us with some of the computers that we had found, particularly the Macs.

Q. Anything else you asked them to do?

A. I believe I asked them to do some background information on some of the other people involved in this investigation.

Q. How much time did the State Department of Justice spend on forensics testing in this case, if you know?

A. I do not know that.

Q. You made some statements that the FBI assisted you, right?

A. Yes.

Q. What does “assistance” mean?

A. Well, they provided me some information, again, on backgrounds of persons that became involved in this case. They sent out -- I believe that they call it a cart unit. That is their forensic computer examination team that assisted us in forensically examining these Mac computers that we were not able to do ourselves.

THE COURT: Counsel, I’d like to stop a couple minutes early, because I’ve been asked to. The attorneys need to talk to me. Right?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. We’re going to stop. (To the jury) Tomorrow, don’t come here.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: (To the jury) I’ll see you Friday morning, 8:30.

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: All right, Counsel. I was just giving Mr. Oxman some medical advice.

MR. SNEDDON: I thought you were giving him his thousand dollars back.

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, do we go in your chambers? You want to go to chambers?

MR. SNEDDON: The matter I’m talking about doesn’t need to go into chambers.

THE COURT: Did you want to go into chambers?

MR. MESEREAU: If it’s the issue we talked about, I’d like to go in chambers.

MR. SNEDDON: Okay, this should be done in open court.

Your Honor, I wanted to tell the Court, because I made some representations to the Court a few days ago, and I notified counsel last night, we have had to juggle the way we’re going to put on evidence in this case. And I want the Court to know that we intend to start putting on the 1108 evidence on Monday. Instead of two weeks, like I said originally. And these sort of things are beyond our control.

In any case, that’s what we’re going to do.

I wanted the Court to know that, because you asked us about the instructions and stuff.

THE COURT: The instructions.

MR. SNEDDON: And I wanted to tell the Court that we had -- we reviewed that and we already submitted our instructions in that regard, and specifically the CALJICs, and that’s what we --

THE COURT: Tell me what ones -- I mean, you have submitted --

MR. SNEDDON: I will single them out. I don’t -- I just talked --

THE COURT: Friday you could give me the ones you’re singling out?

MR. SNEDDON: I will, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And Counsel, you could give me something Friday?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. SNEDDON: That’s what I wanted to do. I wanted to make the Court aware of that. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: And you wanted to -- is that it?

MR. SNEDDON: I -- yeah, I guess so. Mr. Mesereau?

THE COURT: All right. Court’s in recess.

(The proceedings adjourned at 2:30 p.m.)

REPORTER’S TRANSCRIPT OF PROCEEDINGS

FRIDAY, APRIL 1, 2005

8:30 A.M.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone.

COUNSEL AT COUNSEL TABLE: (In unison) Good morning, Your Honor.

THE JURY: (In unison) Good morning

THE COURT: Counsel, you may proceed.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

JEFF KLAPAKIS

Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Mr. Klapakis, did you suggest last week that because of your discussions with the FBI you delayed fingerprint analysis for a year?

A. “Last week,” do you mean Wednesday?

Q. Oh, that’s right. That’s right. You’re right. How about Wednesday, did you suggest that the FBI -- your discussions with the FBI had something to do with a one-year delay in analyzing fingerprints?

A. No, my discussion with the FBI had to do with basically doing background investigations for us as well as computer work for us.

Q. Did you suggest that the Department of Justice and the State of California does not do fingerprint analysis?

A. What I suggested was that their priorities are for other agencies, and we can do fingerprints ourselves.

Q. But they do do fingerprint analysis, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And at times your office will use the Department of Justice to do fingerprint analysis, correct?

A. I believe that we have, but it’s very rare. We do it ourselves.

Q. Do you know somebody named George Levine of the Department of Justice?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Who is George Levine?

A. He’s an examiner with the Department of Justice.

Q. And what does he do, to your knowledge?

A. Well, he does a lot of things, but I believe fingerprints is one of them.

Q. And how long have you known him?

A. Oh, I think George has been with the agency longer than I have been with the sheriff's department. So over 20 years.

Q. Have you worked with him on fingerprint analysis before?

A. Yes, I believe we have.

Q. Now, did you suggest to the jury that because it took so long to separate pages out of magazines that fingerprint analysis in this case needed to be delayed for a year?

A. That's not what I suggested.

Q. What did you suggest when you told the jury about the laborious process of removing pages from magazines?

A. Well, that it was a multi-phase process, and that we wanted to -- there were several things that we had to do. We wanted to maintain control over the evidence, and not piecemeal it out. And because portions of the magazines were in different locations, we had to do those phases at different times.

Q. And are you saying that contributed to a delay in analyzing fingerprints?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. Okay. And how long was the delay in analyzing fingerprints that you would attribute to separating out pages from magazines?

A. I'm not quite sure I understand the question.

Q. You've said that separating pages out from magazines caused a delay in analyzing fingerprints, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. The delay was approximately one year, correct?

A. Approximately.

Q. Are you attributing that delay exclusively to your need to separate out pages from magazines?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Now, as the head of the search of Mr. Jackson’s residence, you were in charge of determining what forensic tests would be done of anything found in the residence, true?

A. I was part of that process, yes.

Q. Did you ask for any forensic tests on any bottles that seemed to contain alcoholic beverages?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if any forensic tests were done on bottles that seemed to contain alcoholic beverages found at Mr. Jackson’s residence?

A. I don’t believe we did.

Q. You saw bottles that seemed to contain alcoholic beverages in the wine cellar, correct?

A. I believe some of the investigators did, yes.

Q. And you found bottles that seemed to contain alcoholic beverages in the kitchen, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And they appeared to be in unlocked areas, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You found bottles that seemed to contain alcoholic beverages in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, true?

A. Yes, there was a bottle of alcohol in his bedroom.

Q. Do you know if any forensic tests were ever done on any bottles that seemed to contain alcoholic beverages in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Did it ever occur to you that trying to determine whose fingerprints were on bottles of that sort might have merit in the investigation?

A. Well, it would -- my belief is, is that we were talking about something that occurred eight months prior to the service of the search warrant, so the answer would be no.

Q. How long do fingerprints tend to last on surfaces, based upon your experience as a police officer?

A. They can last that long, at least.

Q. They can last many years, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Given what you had heard about potential charges, did it ever occur to you that trying to see whose fingerprints were on glasses or bottles, glasses that seemed to have contained or are used to contain alcoholic beverages or bottles that seem to contain alcoholic beverages, might be relevant?

A. We didn’t at the time.

Q. Okay. Did you do it at any time?

A. No.

Q. When the search went on in Michael Jackson’s home, did you have a particular location where you had either a desk or a chair?

A. Did I?

Q. Yes.

A. I believe -- I’m not quite sure I understand. Did I have a desk or a chair?

Q. Did you -- as head of the search, did you have a central location in the residence of Mr. Jackson where people came back and forth to report to you?

A. No. I don’t believe I had a central location, no.

Q. So were you essentially walking around the residence during the entire search?

A. I was moving about the estate, yes.

Q. Okay. And were you supervising what people who reported to you were doing?

A. I along with others.

Q. Okay. Was your function primarily a supervisory function?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever ask for any fingerprint analysis of items of furniture in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask for any fingerprint analysis of various boxes you saw in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask for a fingerprint analysis of a lot of the mannequin-type toys you found in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask for a fingerprint analysis of anything you saw on the floor in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. If some magazine material was found on the floor, yes, we would have, but --

Q. Was the fingerprint analysis you requested only directed at magazines?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. Did you ever request any fingerprint analysis of anything you saw hanging on the wall?

A. No.

Q. How about the railing on the stairs going into Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. No.

Q. How about any of the doors you have to go through to enter Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. No.

Q. Now, other than fingerprints and DNA analysis, is there any other type of forensic test you wanted done during the day of that search?

A. During the day of the search, no.

Q. Were the forensic tests that you asked to be done limited to looking for DNA and looking for fingerprints?

A. Well, we -- I also believe that photography is part of forensic work, and so we photographed the different rooms of the estate and different things of that nature, but limiting it to that, yes.

Q. Was any effort ever made to see if you could find fibers, hair or material, in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom that you could link to any of the Arvizos?

A. Well, when we took the bedding from Mr. Jackson’s bed, I wasn’t limiting it to biological fluids. I was limiting -- basically, I wanted a complete analysis of anything that they found out there. So, we took the -- all the bedding and left it to the examiners to determine what evidence might be on that bed.

Q. And clearly, you never found any of the Arvizos’ DNA in that bedding, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And you never found their hair or fibers in that bedding, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And you never found any of their prints on any furniture linked to Mr. Jackson’s bed, correct?

A. That’s correct.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions at this time.

THE COURT: Redirect?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Let’s go back to some of the things you were talking about last Wednesday that Mr. Mesereau was asking you about, and specifically the execution of the search warrant.

You were asked by Mr. Mesereau about what you typically do in a typical murder case. Not that there’s really a typical murder case. But with regard to a murder case that occurs in a residence, all right? When you have a murder case that occurs in a residence, what are you legally required to do in order to process the crime scene?

A. We have to obtain a search warrant.

Q. And when you obtain a search warrant from a judge to allow you to process the crime scene of a residence, are there ordinarily any time limitations placed upon you in terms of how long you can remain at the residence to complete the process of the crime scene?

A. No. We could -- it could take a day, it could take a week. Whatever it takes to process the scene.

Q. And have there been cases involving your agency in which crime scenes have been secured and processed over the -- over days and weeks?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever, in your experience, and to your knowledge with the sheriff’s department, had a residence and a ranch of the size of Mr. Jackson’s that you’ve had to ever search?
A. No.
Q. And just so the jury’s clear on this, there was more than one building searched that day, correct?
A. There were several.
Q. In addition to his residence?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you consider the residence a typical search by your department?
A. No.
Q. Why?
A. Well, it involved a very large main house on the estate. It also involved different buildings on the estate. It -- the estate, the house, was packed with a lot of things that we had to go through. We had to make sure that we were very careful with them. And the search also conducted was in different locations within the estate.
Q. Did you know at the time that you executed the search warrant on November the 18th, 2003, whether or not Mr. Jackson was present on the ranch?

A. We were not aware that he was on the ranch.
Q. Now, with regard to the time constraints given to you with the execution of the search warrant on Mr. Jackson’s ranch, what time constraints were you given on that?
A. I was told that I had to be done within a day.
Q. And how did that come about?
A. Well, I had asked you if we could write in the search warrant that we could take a couple of days or more to conduct this search, because of the size of the estate, plus the other things involved in this investigation, other searches. And through that discussion, it was decided that we were going to have to do it within one day, so as not to burden the ranch and its employees with our presence longer than that.

Q. And was there some relationship between the amount of time and the number of personnel that you needed to do it within the time constraints that you were given?

A. Well, based on the size of the estate, we felt that in order to get it done within that time frame, we had to have an abundance of personnel. It wasn’t just the search.

Q. All right. Now, with regard to the questions Mr. Mesereau asked you about whether you gave any instructions to the people who were under your supervision during the execution of the search warrant; do you recall that question?

A. Yes.

Q. What were your instructions to your people?

A. Do not talk to the press.

Q. You were also asked by Mr. Mesereau whether or not you had -- whether or not there were media that were -- that came outside the ranch on the second search warrant that was executed almost a year later in December of 2004. Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to the source of the information that was given to the media, to your knowledge, was the sheriff’s department responsible for that?

A. No, we were not.

Q. And to your knowledge, was it somebody connected outside of the sheriff and law enforcement community?

A. That’s what I believe.

Q. Now, Mr. Mesereau asked you several questions about items that were found at certain locations and used the word “unlocked.” To your knowledge, was the wine cellar unlocked when you folks first got into the building on the morning of the 18th of November?

A. The wine cellar was locked.

Q. And with regard to the closets in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom where the alcohol was located, to your knowledge, was that locked or unlocked at the time it was first approached by your folks?

A. His bedroom was locked and alarmed.
Q. And the closet in which the two bottles of alcohol were found, was that closet locked or unlocked at the time that your folks first approached that closet and opened it?
A. The -- I'm not sure of the location you're talking about.
Q. Downstairs in the master suite.
A. The master suite was locked.
Q. And the closets in the master suite?
A. I'm not sure of that. I know I wasn't the one of first ones to enter into the master suite. I know the -- I was -- excuse me, I was the first -- one of the first ones to enter the master suite. But as to the closets, I can't tell you.
Q. All right.
A. One closet was locked. It was on the -- it was on the left side library, or left side bathroom, excuse me. There was a locked door there.
Q. The one with the Jacuzzi-type tub?
A. Next to the safe. Yes.
Q. Okay. Now, before you executed the search warrant or before the search warrant was executed on November 18th, were you aware of the interviews that had been conducted with the Arvizo children?

A. Yes.
Q. And were you aware of the information that they had provided about the interior of Mr. Jackson's bedroom suite area?
A. Yes.
Q. At the time that you were executing your search warrant on November the 18th of 2003, how much time had elapsed between the time that you had information that the crimes were committed and the time you were executing the warrant?
A. Nine months. Eight, nine months.
Q. Now, at that time, Mr. Mesereau asked you whether or not you took any prints off the balcony or whether you looked for hair or fibers or anything else. Was there a reason that wasn't really an important part of the investigation at that particular stage in time?

A. It just didn’t enter into the investigation at that particular time.

Q. Why?

A. Well, we were -- we had certain information regarding the crimes. We went in to the search looking for those things. Our search was limited in time, and we were doing several other things, interviews, other searches in other locations. The -- this investigation was atypical because it entered into other -- other crimes, other overt acts in which we had to investigate.

Q. With regard to the presence of the Arvizo children in Mr. Jackson’s master bedroom and in the suite itself, at the time you were executing the search warrant, can you tell us whether or not there was any doubt in the investigators’ minds that they had actually been in those rooms?

A. No, they described it uniquely, and it -- we actually knew where we were going when we --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for hearsay and speculation. And also it’s improper.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. SNEDDON: Judge, what’s the basis? Because I may be able to cure it. Because I didn’t think it was hearsay.

THE COURT: Well, you’re talking about what was in the other investigators’ minds.

MR. SNEDDON: I’m sorry, then I can cure it.

Q. With regard to what was in your mind as the lead investigator during the course of the execution of this search warrant, were you aware of the information that the Arvizo children had provided to you?

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to that information, did that have an impact on you with regard to trying to prove whether or not they were ever in those rooms?

A. No, they had described it. And when we entered the room, it fit their description.

Q. All right. Mr. Mesereau asked you one other -- another question with regard to whether -- you were trying to explain what -- he uses the word “delay” in the processing of the print. And you answered the question, “No.” Why was there no -- you didn’t consider that to be a delay of over a year?

A. As Mr. Mesereau stated, latents can stay on an object for a long time. We were protecting the items of evidence. They were in different locations. We were conducting our processes as we were able to. And ultimately we were able to develop and stabilize the latents that we felt were on the items of evidence.

Q. Were there other items that were taken that you believe could have been processed for forensic evidence?

A. Sure. We could have fingerprinted some alcohol bottles or other things like that, but we didn’t.

Q. With regard to this particular case, there are a number of books that are in evidence.

A. Yes.

Q. You’re aware of that?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there a conscious decision made with regard to those particular books and processing them for the latent prints?

A. Right. The -- the books, in a discussion with Mr. Zonen, was -- we determined not to conduct a latent fingerprint examination on them, because the process to do so would have, one, destroyed the book and made the pages toxic. Mr. Zonen preferred to keep the book in its original condition, and so the decision was made not to attempt the latent search on them.

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you. Nothing further.

MR. MESEREAU: May I just take one second, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel

table.)

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Your investigation, I'm talking about you personally, Lieutenant, began approximately June 13th, 2003, when you were contacted by Attorney Larry Feldman, true?

A. No. I started this in February.

Q. Okay.

A. If that's -- I began in February 2003.

Q. Okay. But in the operations plan that was developed and typed up for the search that you were in charge of, you attached a case timeline, correct?

A. The sergeant who developed the ops plan did, yes.

Q. And that was Sergeant Eric Koopmans, correct?

A. Koopmans, yes.

Q. Did he develop that plan with your assistance?

A. Certainly mine. Sergeant Roble's.

Q. With respect to that search, you talk about you being contacted by Attorney Larry Feldman on Friday, June 13th, 2003, correct?

A. I believe that was the date.

Q. Okay. Do you know why that timeline doesn't include the investigation you were doing much earlier?

A. The ops plan is basically the synopsis, a brief synopsis, of giving the investigators some background on our investigation. I can't tell you why it didn't have the February information.

Q. And the timeline associated with the operations plan doesn't include the fact that you personally called the Department of Children & Family Services and asked them not to interview the Arvizos, correct?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, this is beyond the scope of the redirect. I object.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You may step down.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Your Honor, we’ll call as our next witness Jack Green.

THE COURT: When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing. Face the clerk and raise your right hand.

JACK GREEN

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: Okay. My name is Jack Green; G-r-e-e-n.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Sir, would you speak into the microphone?

THE WITNESS: Okay.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Green.

A. Good morning.

Q. How are you employed?

A. I’m the president of Affordable Telephone Systems in Ventura, California.

Q. And what is Affordable Telephone Systems?

A. We’re an AT&T equipment dealer.

Q. And what do you do for Affordable Telephone Systems as the president?

A. Run the operation.

Q. All right. Do you actually go out to sites and perform services in relation to telephones themselves?

A. I do. Uh-huh.

Q. And how long have you been doing this?

A. 20 years.

Q. Do you have a background in -- do you have any training in the area of telephone systems?

A. I do.
Q. Could you describe that for me, please?
A. I was trained by AT&T Corporation.
Q. All right. How long ago?
A. In 1984 to 1990.
Q. What kind of training did you receive?
A. Technical training on their systems from their corporate trainers.
Q. And how long did this training take place, over what period of time?
A. Over the course of ten years.
Q. All right. And I take it you’ve had some hands-on experience with this subject matter?
A. Correct.
Q. Over the 20 years you have performed services for telephone systems?

A. Yes, I have.
Q. On -- you know, could you even estimate how many times?
A. Oh, geez, thousands.
Q. Okay. On December 3rd, 2004, did you visit Neverland Ranch in Los Olivos, California?
A. I did.
Q. And did you have an assignment when you went out to the ranch that day?
A. I did.
Q. What was your assignment?
A. To inspect the telephone system at the ranch. And to give information on how the phone system was configured, programmed and would operate.
Q. Were you accompanied by law enforcement officers on that date?
A. I was.
Q. And did you perform that task?
A. I did.
Q. First of all, tell me, what type of system does Neverland Ranch have, what type of telephone system?
A. It’s manufactured by AT&T. It’s called a Merlin II system is the model. It’s a -- we call it a key system, a hybrid key system.

Q. Okay. Are you familiar with the Merlin II system from AT&T?

A. I am.

Q. Have you serviced that system before?

A. I have.

Q. So tell me what you did. How did you go about inspecting the system?

A. We -- we inspected and looked at how many telephone lines that were -- from the telephone company on the property, were installed in the system. We logged and inventoried all of the telephones at each location on the system on the property, and looked at how the system was programmed in terms of how you could make a call out, how you could receive a call. You know, the typical aspects of how the system would work.

Q. And how many lines did you find that system included, how many different telephone lines?

A. On the property, there's a total of 24 telephone lines or numbers, telephone numbers that come onto the property. Of those 24 lines, there are eight lines that's connected to the Merlin II system.

Q. Okay. And the remaining 24 -- I guess we have 16 lines remaining.

A. Correct.

Q. Tell me about those.

A. There's one -- there was one line that was not -- that was not on the system of the eight. There were 15 lines that were connected to modems or computers or, you know, other things.

Q. Okay. Were all of those 15 lines being used?

A. They had dial tone. I don't know if they were being used. There was dial tone at what we call the demarc. Some of them might have been used; some of them might not have been used.

Q. What did you say, the demarc, or the --

A. The demarcation point from Verizon.

Q. I see. And where is that located?

A. That’s located in the garage, where the telephone equipment was at.
Q. Did you have access to the entire property?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you visit the various outbuildings as well as the main residence?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you inspect the phones at each of those --
A. Yes.
Q. -- locations?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And did you inspect a phone that was located in what’s known as Mr. Jackson’s personal bedroom?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Green, I show you -- go ahead and help yourself to some water.
A. Yeah, I appreciate that.
Q. I show you People’s Exhibit No. 165. Can you identify that for me, please?
A. That is a Merlin 34 button telephone.
Q. Is that the phone that you saw that day?
A. Yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. May I have the Elmo, Your Honor?
Do you have that laser pointer?
MR. SNEDDON: Yeah.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I believe this exhibit’s already in evidence, Your Honor. Am I correct in that?
THE COURT: What number is it?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: 165.
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you.
Q. All right. Mr. Green, can you just briefly describe for the jury how this telephone works?
A. Sure. This telephone -- okay. All right.
You have -- if you lift the handset and you want to make a call out, this system is programmed, what we call in the phone industry, pooled. What I mean by that is all eight lines on the phone system, on all the other phones on the property, they -- they are a ten-button phone, except this phone. On this phone, you have your telephone lines that are on each button here. Each of the eight lines.

So, if I -- from this telephone, I can manually push this black button right here, or any of these black buttons, and I can manually select any one of the eight lines that I want to make a call out on.

On the -- I don't know if I'm jumping ahead, but on the other telephone sets, they don't have the lines that appear individually on a button. You just -- you just press a pooled button, and the telephone system selects at random a line that you're going to call out on. And you enter an account code and then you get a dial tone and you make that outside call, and you can -- from the ranch.

Q. All right. So the other phones on the ranch -- well, let me start with, was there another phone that had similar capabilities on the ranch?

A. Yes. There were two phones -- yes, there are two phones on the ranch that you could select a line to call out on, or -- or listen in to a telephone conversation on. That other telephone set was in the -- I would call it the administrative office on the ranch. It's a larger console, larger than this.

Q. Okay. And was that in a separate building from the main house?

A. Yes. Yes, it was.

Q. Can you tell me -- approximate its location in relation to the main house?

A. Yeah. It was in what I call the big administrative office. It wasn't a security office. It was up the hill. It was the -- it was the administrative office, the best I know it.

Q. All right. Now, if I understand correctly, the other phones on the property, you could not select which line you were going to use?

A. Correct. The other phones on the property looked just like this phone, except this row and this row of buttons were not there. It’s a ten-button phone. So it looked exactly like this, minus -- if I could just draw down here, exit that off.

Q. You’re indicating the right-hand portion of the phone, those buttons were gone?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, but you still could not -- you have these eight buttons, or it looks like --

A. The line buttons.

Q. Yeah, two lines of buttons on the left. They had those buttons?

A. Yes.

Q. Would that allow that person on a -- let’s say in the guest room, would that allow that person to select a particular line?

A. No. No, all you could do is lift the handset, press the pooled button, and the phone system would select a line.

Q. Okay.

A. The phone cabinet, I’ll call it a CPU.

Q. You also mentioned that in order to get an outside line you needed to enter a code. What did you mean by that?

A. An account code.

Q. All right.

A. The phone system was restricted to where you couldn’t just pick it up, have dial tone and place a call. You had to enter an account code.

Q. So if an individual did not have the account code, then it would be impossible for them to talk to an outside party off the ranch?

A. That’s -- yes, to my knowledge. Uh-huh.

Q. All right. Now, can you tell me what the term “barging” means?

A. Yes, we referred to it in telephone -- it’s our term that I want to -- I want to join a conversation that’s in place or I want to listen to a conversation in place.

Or in business, since this is a business phone system, it was transferred for office business use, if I was on line 1, and I wanted you to join me in that conversation, you could press the line 1 button, and you could join the conversation.

Q. Okay. So in a business setting, that would let a secretary barge in a conversation; would that be a reasonable use --
A. Yes, or --
Q. -- in business?
A. Sure. Or join the conversation.
Q. All right. Did this phone have barging capabilities?
A. Yes.
Q. Could you listen to this phone surreptitiously, and I mean secretly without letting the parties know that you were a third party listening in on that conversation?
A. Yes.
Q. And how would you do that?
A. Well, from this telephone, if I saw that somebody -- if a telephone (sic) on the property was on the phone, I would see -- on one of these line buttons, I would see it lit. There would be a red light lit. And so if I wanted to listen in on that conversation, all I'd have to do is press this black button, lift the handset, press this black button, and I could listen to the conversation, because I've got what we call line access. I can select the line I want to listen in on on this. Or I could press the speakerphone button, and mute it, mute the microphone, and press the line I wanted to listen in on.

Q. All right. And if you -- well, let me strike that. Does that phone have instructions on how to do that?
A. This phone right here?
Q. Yeah.
A. No. Not on the telephone it doesn't.

Q. All right. So if you didn’t know how to do that, you wouldn’t be able to barge in without the other people’s knowledge, is that fair to say, if you didn’t have some kind of idea about how this phone worked?

A. True.

MR. SANGER: I’m going to object. That calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “True.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And would it be any difficulty -- would there be any difficulty in connecting a recording device to this phone?

MR. SANGER: Objection; that calls for speculation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I think he’s an expert in this area.

MR. SANGER: Then it’s vague as phrased.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: You could do that, yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And I believe you said 4443 one of the ways you could listen in was on the speakerphone?

A. Yes. If you didn’t want to hold the handset, all you had to do is just press the speakerphone, and then press the “line” button, and you could sit there and listen to the conversation without -- hands-free without lifting the handset.

Q. Would you also want to hit the “mute” button?

A. You could also hit the “mute” button so that it mutes the microphone on this telephone, so the caller that you are listening in on wouldn’t hear any background noise.

Q. So they couldn’t hear you breathing, or talking, or anything like that?

A. Correct. Correct.

Q. All right. Mr. Green, did you bring -- did you make a report in this case?

A. Yes. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you bring that with you today?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I could just have a moment with counsel.

(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Green, I show you People’s Exhibit 298.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Is this a refined version of your report that you prepared in this case?

MR. SANGER: Well, I’m going to object to that question.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

Q. Can you identify this exhibit, then?

A. Yes. Those are the telephone numbers that I found on the property.

Q. All right. And there are two groupings of them.

And I’ll put this on the Elmo.

A. May I refer to my report?

Q. Yes, you may. Why don’t you check and make sure that these are correct, the correct numbers.

A. Uh-huh. They’re right here.

Q. There is one additional number on there?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that the private number that you mentioned?

A. Correct.

(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Mr. Green, I’m going to ask you to write that private number on this exhibit at the bottom portion of it.

All right. So does this list contain a complete listing of all the telephone numbers that you found in the various systems at Neverland Ranch?

A. That’s correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Ask to admit People’s Exhibit 298 at this time, Your Honor.

MR. SANGER: Your Honor, I’m going to object and I’d like to approach on a very specific issue, please.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll sustain the objection at this point.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. Mr. Green, may I have the copy of the report that you brought with you?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. I’m going to ask to have this marked as an exhibit as well.

Q. Mr. Green, I show you Exhibit No. 299.

A. Okay.

Q. Would you identify that for me, please?

THE COURT: Is that the new number?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That’s the new exhibit number, yes.

THE WITNESS: This is the report that I made on December 3rd from Neverland Ranch and my inspection on the phone system.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is that a complete copy of your report?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There appears to be some handwritten items on that particular report. Did you make those notations?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

MR. SANGER: I’m going to object on the grounds of relevancy and it’s hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Well, I’m laying --

THE COURT: Just a minute.
Overruled. The answer was, “Yes, I did.”
Next question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And did you prepare this report pursuant to your duties as the president of Affordable Telephone Systems Incorporated?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And have you prepared similar reports concerning telephone systems as part of your duties at Affordable Telephone Systems?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: I’m going to object; relevancy.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can make an offer of proof, if you like.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And so was this prepared during the course of your business activities at Affordable Telephone Systems?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Was this report prepared at or near the time of the event that you described in analyzing this system and visiting Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes. I prepared -- you know, I prepared this information at the ranch as I was -- as I was taking my notes.

Q. And then did you reduce it to a writing when you got back to your office?

A. Yes.

Q. As far as the handwritten notes on here, what do those designate?

MR. SANGER: Objection; calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you write those handwritten notes on there pursuant to the information that you were preparing for this particular report?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it just some additional handwritten information pertaining to this particular report?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: Objection. Asked and answered; leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: This is foundational.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was it done pursuant to your preparation of this report as a business record?

A. Yes.

Q. And was it also done at or near the time of the events that are on this -- reported on this particular report?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this report trustworthy?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: Objection.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Why do you say that?

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. SANGER: Move to strike.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you have a duty when you prepare these reports to accurately depict the information that you've observed when you go out to the actual location?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: Objection. Lack of foundation; and leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: On which grounds?

THE COURT: Leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It's for foundation, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, your -- the objection was sustained. Ask your next question.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Ask to admit No. 299 as a business record, Your Honor.

MR. SANGER: Objection. Hearsay; no foundation.

THE COURT: I'm just trying to look at some of your earlier testimony.

When did you go out and make that report?

THE WITNESS: On December 3rd, 2004.

THE COURT: And who requested that you go out to make that report?

THE WITNESS: The Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department.

THE COURT: All right. It's not a business record. It was done in preparation of litigation and it's not admissible under the business records.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

Q. We'll do this -- this will take a little bit of time.

A. Okay.

Q. But I do need to get the information.

MR. SANGER: Excuse me, move to strike counsel's remarks.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That’s fine. I’ll go to the next question.

THE COURT: Wait a minute. Just a moment. I’ll strike the remarks.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Tell me --

THE COURT: You know, I don’t like to have conferences, but I need -- I don’t know what the problem with this record is that’s causing all this difficulty. So would you come up here and tell me?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

THE COURT: It’s amazing what a little conference will do occasionally here. The problem, which I didn’t get, maybe you got, was that those are all Mr. Jackson’s private phone numbers, and he doesn’t want to receive all of those telephone calls. So that was the only problem. And so we’re going to work with this as best we can, as long as we can, without revealing his personal phone numbers. And I don’t know if we’ll succeed in doing that, but that’s what we’re going to try to do here.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And that’s fine, Your Honor.

The People would seek -- ask to admit at this time Exhibit No. 298.

MR. SANGER: And I don’t have an objection to the foundation being laid for 298, but I’d ask the Court just procedurally to delay receiving it until we work this out.

THE COURT: They’re having trouble in the back hearing you.

MR. SANGER: I’m sorry, the thing’s turned off.

Yes, Your Honor, I was just saying I don’t have any objection to the foundation for 298 based on this witness’s testimony at this point. I’d just ask the Court to delay receiving it in evidence until we work out the details.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And that’s fine.

THE COURT: I'll make that ruling; that the parties agree that the foundation is laid, and we'll not admit it at this point until we can do something with the phone numbers.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine. Thank you, Your Honor. No further questions.

MR. SANGER: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. SANGER: Okay.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SANGER:

Q. Mr. Green, how are you?

A. Good. Pretty good.

Q. All right. Let's just clear up a couple things right off the bat here. First of all, this phone system, this Merlin phone system that you saw at Neverland Ranch, is a fairly standard business kind of phone system, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And the Merlin phone system that you saw, that particular configuration, was really one that was developed and used primarily in the 1980s; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Phone systems have actually progressed quite a bit farther than what you see there, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that's the kind of phone system that in the late '80s you might have found in executive offices, insurance companies, lawyers, and so on; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right.

A. It was designed for business use.

Q. And in your experience with Affordable Telephone Systems in Ventura, have you had occasion over the last 20 years to install phone systems on large estates?

A. Yes. Yes, I have.

Q. Have you ever installed a phone system on an estate as large as Mr. Jackson's?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Have you installed a phone system on an estate that involved a working ranch?

A. I probably have. I don't recall at this point.

Q. Okay. What I'm getting at is, where you have a number of operations going on besides a residence, is there anything unusual about seeing a business kind of telephone system on a working ranch?

A. Oh, no. Not at all. It's -- no.

Q. Okay. And what you might do, I think you're doing okay, but try to talk real close to the microphone there.

A. Okay.

Q. Because it is hard for everybody to hear. All right. And particularly with regard to the Merlin system, it would not be unusual to see a Merlin system like that installed in a working ranch somewhere in the 1980s, correct?

A. No, not at all.

Q. And the fact that this phone system has not been switched out for a brand-new system is also not unusual; is that correct?

A. Not at all.

Q. All right. So you would expect at working ranches and other business locations that there are probably some Merlin systems still around; is that correct?

A. Oh, sure. Hundreds, thousands.

Q. All right. Now, you mentioned that -- you were asked, is it possible to attach a recording device to this telephone system, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see a recording device attached to this telephone system?

A. No.

Q. All right. And in fact, it's possible to attach a recording device to just about any telephone system, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. So there's nothing in particular that makes this phone system any more susceptible to being attached to a recording device than any other, correct?

A. No.

Q. Now, another thing we talked about here was being able to pick up a line that’s either in use or not in use on this particular phone, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. In a typical telephone installation in a home, where you have more than one extension, is it usually possible to pick up a line that’s in use in the system?

A. Yes.

Q. So people who have two or three extension phones in their home generally have just exactly that system. You pick it up -- if it’s in use in the kitchen and you pick it up in the bedroom, you can listen in, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Home systems that have more than one line often have that same capability. You can pick up line 1 -- let’s say you have two lines. You can pick up line 1 or line 2 if it’s in use, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. All right. Now, the history of business phones, without going into unnecessary detail, before Merlin involved a couple of different kinds of technology I want to go over with you, okay? The first one is, for those of us old enough to remember all this, it involved the business phones that had the four, five lines with the buttons at the bottom and a “hold” button at the end, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And there might be actually an intercom button on one end, and the “hold” button on the end, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And under those old systems, if anybody in the property that was governed by this phone system, whether it be a residence, a ranch or a business, if anybody was on line 1, everybody else on the phone system could see that from their phone, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And they could just push the button and pick it up, and they'd be on line 1, and they could listen in, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. Now, in those days, there were speakerphones, somewhat primitive, as I recall. But it would also be possible to put a call on a speakerphone that same way and listen, correct?

A. Correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'm going to object. It's irrelevant to phone systems that existed before this phone line.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. SANGER: Thank you.

Q. After that -- let me withdraw that. At the same time as that more rudimentary system existed there was the PBX system; is that correct?

A. Right, there were two types. After that, the equipment that you're describing was called 1A key. And then they developed a key system and a PBX system at the same time. The PBX was simply a larger model of a key system.

Q. Okay. And the PBX system continued into existence into the 1980s, correct?

A. Yes, and it's still today. Uh-huh.

Q. PBX system would allow an operator to answer the phone, and then switch the calls from one place to another throughout the system, correct?

A. Correct. Or an individual could do it.

Q. All right. When the hybrid key system came along, which is the Merlin system, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. It was a system that allowed more flexibility than the PBX system, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So it would allow a -- it would allow you to have a master console -- or in this case you have a master console and you have sort of a junior master console, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And the junior master console was the one that was found in Mr. Jackson’s living room area of the first floor of his bedroom suite, correct?
A. That’s correct.
Q. And that allowed people to answer the phone at different locations; is that correct?
A. Back up there. You lost me.
Q. You could answer the phone in the administration building with the big console, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And you could join phone calls from one point to another?
A. That is correct.
Q. And to the extent that you have the eight lines here, you could do the same with this phone, is that right?
A. That is correct.
Q. Now, since that time, technology has continued to march on, since the ‘80s, I take it, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. And I don’t want to go into all the details, but there are more sophisticated telephone systems that are much simpler than this, so you don’t have to have all these buttons in order to make them work, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. Now, you mentioned that there were eight lines that were on the direct system -- well, let me withdraw that. There were eight lines that were on this system that could be used by people in Mr. Jackson’s house; is that correct?

A. That’s correct.
Q. You examined the phone equipment throughout his house; is that right?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And you noticed that were extension phones?
A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And by the “extension phone,” we’re talking about the phones that simply had buttons that allowed you to pick up and get an available line?

A. That’s correct. Ten -- the other phones were ten-button phones.

Q. All right. And those phones could also receive a call if somebody were to direct it to that particular extension; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. So if somebody answered the phone, they could say, “I want to put this call through to the library, because I believe Mr. Jackson’s in his library and it’s for him, so I’ll connect it to the library,” right?

A. Right, they could -- yes, they could transfer the call to the library, yes.

Q. All right. And the phones that were at the 4459 ranch were at various locations throughout the house --

A. Yes.

Q. -- correct?

In the children’s living area; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. The library?

A. Yes.

Q. The kitchen?

A. Yes.

Q. The maids’ room?

A. Yes.

Q. The maids’ break room.

And then on into Mr. Jackson’s personal office in the adjoining building?

A. Yes.

Q. The security office at the end of that building; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Upstairs in the video library?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. And you could also get the -- or the phone system also included the front gate, the little guard house at the front gate; is that correct?

A. I didn't examine that. I'm sure it did. I'm sure there was a phone out there, but I didn't --

Q. You mentioned an administration building, which was up on the top of the hill, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So it was outside the manicured lawn area that surrounded Mr. Jackson's private residence; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And the administration building also is the fire department, they have a fire truck up there?

A. I believe so. I believe so.

Q. So you had phone capability in the administration building for the various administrators, the fire department, and so on, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. The administration building, there's an executive assistant or staff person up there who had a desk in the main administration building, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that desk is where the main console existed for this phone system; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, in the -- you mentioned that you needed to have some kind of code to call out; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that unusual for a Merlin system?

A. No. It's quite common.

Q. All right. So many systems you have to push "9" to call out?

A. Some you have to press "9." And an account code is -- is able to be programmed in so that you can eliminate phone abuse. People -- unauthorized people making calls you don't want to make calls on your phone system.

Q. Now, you were out there with sheriffs who had a search warrant, correct?
A. Yes, that’s correct.
Q. So you were not chatting with the -- with Mr. Jackson, I imagine?
A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. And you weren’t chatting with his staff about how they set the phone system up or how it was set up when they --
A. That’s correct.
Q. -- first came to work at the ranch?
A. That’s correct.
Q. So you weren’t able to determine whether or not there were separate account numbers or there was just one number that everybody was given to get an outside line?
A. That’s correct.
Q. All right.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; assumes everyone was given a number.

THE COURT: Overruled.
MR. SANGER: Did the answer -- I think the answer came in.
THE COURT: It did. He said, “That’s correct.”
Q. BY MR. SANGER: So based on your analysis of this system, there could have been one number that would allow anybody on this Merlin phone system, wherever the extensions were throughout the ranch, it would allow somebody to hit the number, and get an outside line, correct?
A. That’s correct.
Q. All right. Did you determine -- let me withdraw that. So if somebody were able to make a phone call to an outside number, for instance, somebody were able to call their, let’s say, boyfriend in Los Angeles from this phone, if they did it unassisted, they would have to have the code, whatever it was, to get that outside line, correct?
A. Not from this phone. But from all the other phones, yes.
Q. Okay. Okay. Good point. Thank you. I’m talking about the extension phones, and I guess I’m pointing to that one.

A. Yes.

Q. But this phone, you can just pick up an outside line, correct?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And we’ll come back to that. But as far as the extension phones are concerned, the ones that -- other than the administration building and this phone, if you want to get an outside line, you put in whatever the code is --

A. Correct.

Q. -- one number, or two numbers, or whatever it is?

A. Correct.

Q. You get the outside line and then you can call wherever you want, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. All right. So if somebody were, say, on an extension phone at someplace on the ranch and they were able to call, as I say, for instance, their boyfriend in Los Angeles, you would expect that they would know how to enter that code to get the outside line, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And if somebody could enter that code and get an outside line to call their boyfriend in Los Angeles, they could enter that code, get an outside line, and call 9-1-1, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. There’s no restriction on calling 9-1-1 from any phone in this phone system other than simply knowing the code to call out, correct?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: If I could have just one moment, Your Honor.

Q. By the way, you mentioned the eight numbers, and then you said there were 16 other numbers, one of which was a direct line to Mr. Jackson’s area in what’s called the bathroom, but there’s a sitting area and all that off the main floor --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- of the bedroom, correct?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Other than that direct number, did you ever figure out where on the ranch those other numbers, the other 15 numbers went?

A. No.

Q. So when you say they came into the main -- you didn't say "switch box," and I'm going to say that and I'm sure it's wrong, but the main -- what did you call the telephone closet?

A. Demarc. Verizon's telephone demarc.

Q. Okay. So the lines come in from off the property, from the telephone lines off the property that service the rest of the world, and they come in to the property, anybody's property, they come in to a telephone box or telephone closet, correct?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And that's what you're calling the demarc?

A. Correct.

Q. And you know that these other 15 lines came in there, you just never traced them out to see exactly where they went, correct?

A. Correct. We put -- I made sure that they had actual dial tone and -- on the block. And from my test set, you know, I have a code that I can dial and -- when I hear dial tone, and I can get a recording from the phone company that tells me what that telephone number is.

So I verified that those -- that those telephone numbers Mr. Jackson was being billed for those telephone numbers, he had live dial tone. Now, where it went, I don't know.

Q. In other words, you take your phone -- you have a headset that has clips on it?

A. Called a butt set.

Q. All right.

A. It's a lineman -- a lineman's test set.

Q. A lineman's test set, okay. And you simply clip that onto a line, correct, and then you dial a number, which we won't say, because everybody will go home and do it?

A. Right.

Q. And it will automatically - it’s kind of cool - automatically tell you what phone number that is, right?

A. Exactly.

Q. And you verified that these are, in fact, phone numbers coming into the property, you just never traced them to see exactly whatever phones there were, if any, that were hooked up to them?

A. Right, they weren’t in the phone system.

Q. They were not in the Merlin phone system?

A. Correct.

Q. But you don’t know if there was another phone someplace, at the zoo, or someplace else that --

A. That’s correct.

Q. -- that might have had that number.

All right. Okay. I have no further questions. Thank you.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Green, did you go to the various outbuildings and check all the phones?

A. Yes. We checked the -- we looked for phones in the -- in all of the buildings. And the only phones that we saw were the Merlin ten-button phones.

Q. Okay.

A. We didn’t see any other phones that weren’t of the Merlin phone system.

Q. All right. So based on your inspection of the property, all the phones were hooked into the Merlin system, with the exception of the 15 which you couldn’t find a location for?

A. Those 15 lines. They could have been connected.

Q. And you had one private line?

A. That’s correct. They could have been connected to computers, other types of devices. Security. I’m sure some of those lines were security lines connected to the security companies, et cetera, et cetera. But we were not able to gain any information as to what they were connected to.

Q. Okay. And when you say “security,” do you mean telephone lines as security or some kind of computer or alarm line?

A. Alarm line. Computer. You know, for dialing out on the Internet. You know, anything that took a telephone line.

Q. But not something you communicate on in the normal telephone fashion, talk to somebody on?

A. Well, they could have been used for that. They could have been. They could have been used for a computer to dial out to the Internet. They could have been used for the alarm lines for the security system that Mr. Jackson had on the ranch.

Q. Okay. But you didn’t find a source for that?

A. No. And they might not have been connected to anything.

Q. All right. Now, just as far as the exhibit that we’ve admitted here, there appears to be eight numbers at the top of this exhibit.

A. Yes.

Q. Which are those numbers for?

A. Those are the telephone lines connected to the Merlin system at Neverland Ranch.

Q. And then there’s -- below that there appear to be 15 lines. Those are the ones that you just talked about --

A. Right.

Q. -- that don’t hook into the Merlin system?

A. Right, those are the wild lines.

Q. And the handwritten one on the bottom is the private line?

A. Right. That’s Mr. Jackson’s private phone.

Q. And where did you find that phone that was hooked into a private line?

A. That phone was in his rooming quarters downstairs in the bathroom to the left where the closet was.

Q. Okay. And this phone was also in the downstairs area?

A. Yes. In the same -- in the same place.

Q. Same general vicinity?

A. Correct.

Q. Was this in the bathroom? If you recall.

A. No, I think it was just outside the bathroom door.

Q. All right.

A. Just right outside the bathroom door.

Q. All right. Now --

THE COURT: Counsel, take our break.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Very good.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Mr. Green, when was the last year that the Merlin II system was made, if you know?

A. I can speculate. I don’t know the exact date.

Q. Can you approximate?

A. Yes. It was taken out of production in probably the early ‘90s. ‘92, ‘93, maybe ‘94.

Q. And as far as the lines that we’ve talked about, those eight lines, if an individual called from outside Neverland, called one of those eight numbers, where would that phone ring, or where could it ring, maybe to begin with that question?

A. Okay. It could ring at the 34-button in Mr. Jackson’s living quarters --

Q. Okay.

A. -- at the console.

Q. All right.

A. And it could be programmed also to ring at any of the other telephones, if it was programmed to ring there. So it could ring at every single telephone, or only at one or two. Typically, it rings at the console, or the -- or the 34-button phone. But it could ring -- and you could do that on a line-by-line basis.

Q. Okay. And do you know how this particular phone system was set up in terms of incoming calls?

A. No, because we weren’t allowed to have any incoming calls ring in so we could test that.

Q. And -- but typically it would be either the console or the 34-button phone?

A. Yes. On a -- on an estate situation, you know, usually the calls are screened. They come into the console and are screened and then transferred to wherever they want to go.

Q. Mr. Sanger used the example of a home phone system as far as similarity regarding listening in to a phone conversation.

A. Yes.

Q. Is this phone system really similar in terms of its barging capabilities?

MR. SANGER: Objection, leading, Your Honor; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: It’s different in that on the Merlin system, if you were barging in on -- if you’re barging in on a call, the caller on the -- the person on the other phone would not know that you were -- there would be no audio knowledge that they were being listened to.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So you could listen secretly without any input, audio input, on the phone line?

A. Correct.

Q. And at a home system, when someone picks up the phone and is listening in, is there typically some audio input that is noticeable to the other two parties that are conversing?

A. More so, uh-huh.

Q. And would the “mute” button also contribute to the secrecy of listening to those calls?

A. If you were using the speakerphone, yes.

Q. Does the “mute” button also work on the handset microphone?

A. No.

Q. Okay. So just on the speakerphone.

A. Yes.

Q. As far as other people's ability to listen in on your conversations, does this system -- is this system set up where any of the outside lines at Neverland, and I mean just the lines that don't involve either the 34-button phone or the phone at the office, could any of those lines listen in?

A. No.

Q. So would that be another dissimilarity between home systems and this system?

MR. SANGER: Objection. Leading, Your Honor.

THE COURT: It's overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: No, because you would have no way on the other phones of selecting the line, no. It has privacy. You couldn't -- from any of those other phones, you couldn't listen in on another conversation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SANGER:

Q. Okay. Just a few.

First of all, you could listen in on other lines on the phone system from the console in the administration building, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that console is pretty much out in the open, there, in the staff area of the administration office, correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Assumes facts; and no foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, it was -- when I inspected it, it was in a locked office.

Q. BY MR. SANGER: When you say "a locked office," though, the administration building, the lock was on the front door of the administration building, correct?

A. No, there's an office inside the administration building, as I call it. I don't know if I'm, you know, using the right terminology, but there was an office inside there that was locked.

Q. That's your recollection?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you take a picture of this?

A. The detective had to have the ranch manager unlock the door for us to go in.

Q. All right. And it was -- there was a desk, somebody working at this area, correct?

A. There was no one in there.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. There could have been. There was no one in there at that time.

Q. Let me ask the question again, just so we're clear. It appeared to be a working area where somebody had a desk, correct?

A. That's correct, yes.

Q. And the point is, whoever had access to that phone would be able to listen in on phone calls as well; is that correct?

A. Yes, that's correct.

Q. And you would expect -- from your testimony, you would expect that that's one of the places that the phone would ring so that phone calls could be directed throughout the ranch, correct?

A. Yes. The lines all had to ring at the console. That was a must.

Q. All right. So not only could ring there, but you believe it did ring there at that console in the administration building, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. The phone in Mr. Jackson's -- what we call -- it's a blank screen, I'm kind of pointing randomly here.

The phone that was up on the board, what we call a junior console in Mr. Jackson's living area, the phone did not ring there; is that correct, sir?

A. I don’t know, because we didn’t test any incoming calls.
Q. All right. And you can -- as you said, you can program any of the other phones to -- to be able to answer the phone from that location; is that correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. So if there was a phone, for instance, in that guard shack -- you said you didn’t go down and look, but assume there was a phone there that appeared to be one of the extension phones, you could program that phone to ring so that the person at the guard shack could answer the phone there, correct?
A. That is correct, yes, sir.
Q. All right. You indicated these phones were last made in the early ‘90s, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. But there are replacement parts and replacement phones that can be obtained if your equipment breaks down?

A. Yes, there’s still refurbished equipment out there. You know, it -- there’s millions of Merlin systems out there that was produced. It was the most widely sold telephone system in the world, and there’s readily available parts.
Q. Okay. And the most widely phone system -- sold system in the world, this Merlin system, had that “mute” capability on all of the phones that were sold throughout the world, correct, if they were --
A. Yes.
Q. -- if they were this kind?
A. If you were on the speakerphone.
Q. Yeah, the speakerphone had a “mute.”
A. That is correct.
Q. Now, almost all office or commercial kinds of telephone systems today, in fact, have that “mute” button; is that right?
A. Yes. Oh, yes.
Q. So there’s nothing nefarious about the “mute” button, is there?

A. No, no, it's standard.

Q. All right. Thank you. You did mention one other thing. You said something about an alarm system. Did you determine whether or not there was an alarm system in place at Neverland?

A. There was an alarm panel in the garage. And, you know, I did not go in to the alarm system to see what lines were attached to it, no.

Q. All right.

A. That wasn't my area of responsibility.

Q. I understand. In your work in the telephone industry and as a -- the president of a telephone company in Ventura, do you have occasion to work with alarm companies when they install --

A. Yes.

Q. -- alarm systems?

And I think what we need to do, I've got to avoid talking over you. And if you could wait just an extra beat before you answer, otherwise the court reporter gets her fingers caught in the keys there.

A. Okay.

Q. When you work with an alarm system -- let me back up.

When you go out to install a phone system at the same time that an alarm system is being put in place, do you work with the alarm company?

A. We do.

Q. All right. And one of the things that you often do is make sure that they have a telephone line, a secure telephone line, so that the alarm system can automatically call out to the alarm company or to a law enforcement agency; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. And so you saw some phone lines that you thought the phone lines might -- in fact, one or more of them might be associated with the alarm function at the ranch; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And based on your experience in installing telephone systems, is there anything unusual, in a large ranch property, for the owner of the property to have an alarm system hooked up to the telephone system?

A. No, you wouldn’t have it hooked up to the telephone system. You would have a telephone line hooked up to the alarm system.

Q. Okay. I’m sorry.

A. But you wouldn’t have --

Q. Let me withdraw that so I don’t make it any more complicated. I understand what you’re saying. So, what I meant was, have the alarm system hooked up to a telephone line. You’ve restated it correctly.

Is there anything unusual, in a large ranch operation, whereby the owner of the property has an alarm system hooked up to a telephone line that goes off the property?

A. No.

Q. And you’ve seen that. You’ve seen that in your work, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there anything unusual about the owner and the family having an alarm system around the immediate area where they reside to secure their own personal safety where they are living?

A. No.

Q. So you see that from time to time, that there will be a system that’s set up in the living quarters actually where the family resides; is that correct?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: All right. Okay. No further questions.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Just one further question.

THE COURT: Yes.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Green, as far as this barging system works in the Merlin system as compared to a home system, is this barging system different only in the fact that it has a “mute” button, or is there an additional feature that allows you to secretly listen to other phone calls?

MR. SANGER: Objection. That’s compound; leading; and beyond the scope of cross, recross.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: There is a bit of a difference. On the Merlin system, if I barge in, the party that I barge in to cannot see any light, any visual indication or audio indication that I am listening, unless he hears some background noise in the back of me, or he hears me breathing.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So there won’t be a click?

A. There won’t be a click. There won’t be anything.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you. I have no further questions.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SANGER:

Q. Oh, and on that -- if I may, Your Honor -- there’s no reason -- you have absolutely no information to suggest that this phone system was installed for the purpose of listening in on other people, do you?

A. No, sir.

Q. In fact, it looks like a phone system that was installed sometime in the late ‘80s and has just been maintained there on this property ever since, correct?

A. Yes.

MR. SANGER: Okay. Thank you. No further questions.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: No further questions.

THE COURT: You may step down. Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. SNEDDON: Would you ask Mr. Feldman to come in, please?

THE BAILIFF: We already did it.

MR. SNEDDON: He’s on his way in from outside, but --

THE COURT: Come to the front of the courtroom, please.

When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing, face the clerk and raise your right hand.

LARRY FELDMAN

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: Larry Feldman. F-e-l-d-m-a-n; Larry is L-a-r-r-y.

THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Feldman.

A. Good morning.

Q. You’re an attorney licensed --

A. Right.

Q. -- to practice law in California?

A. I am.

Q. And how long have you been an attorney?

A. Since 1969.

Q. And would you share with the ladies and gentlemen of the jury your academic preparation to become a lawyer. Spare us the high school part.

Just --

A. I went to -- ultimately graduated from Cal-State Northridge, where I’m proud to say I’m getting the Alumni of the Year Award this year.

And thereafter I went to Loyola University in Los Angeles, where I graduated in 1969 as the editor-in-chief for The Law Review and No. 1 in my class.

Q. All right. And I assume you took and passed the bar?

A. I took and passed the bar.

Q. And in your practice, where are you currently employed?

A. Currently, I am at a law firm called Kaye, Scholer. K-a-y-e, S-c-h-o-l-e-r. It is in Century City in Los Angeles.

Q. And does it have offices in other locations?

A. It does. All over the world. Its main office is in New York, but it has offices in Shanghai, and Washington D.C., Chicago, Los Angeles. I’m probably forgetting some.

Q. What is the lawyer size of the firm?

A. About 600 lawyers.

Q. Now, prior to the time that you -- how long have you been with Kaye, Scholer?

A. Since January of 2004.

Q. And prior to that, what firm were you associated with?

A. Prior to that, I had my own law firm, which had different names from the time I joined it right out of law school. But ultimately when -- as of January 2004, it was Fogel, Feldman, Ostrov, Ringler & Clemens.

Q. And were you the senior partner of that firm at that time?

A. I was the head of that law firm.

Q. Just give the ladies and gentlemen of the jury some idea of the type of practice of law that you’re involved in.

A. I have been a trial lawyer all of my life. I started in this firm that I ultimately was the senior partner of right out of law school. I started trying primarily cases for injured federal workers, railroad workers and seamen. It was called The Federal Employers Liability Act, and The Jones Act. And I did other kinds of, like, automobile cases, but very rarely.

It was -- primarily I practiced a lot in federal court, some in state court, and tried a lot of cases in those years. And then slowly but surely my practice developed. I started doing a much broader array of cases, from representing labor unions, to representing people involved in wrongful discharge cases, African-Americans who had been discriminated against big companies. Currently, right now, representing a class action in Washington D.C., the largest class action of African-Americans who have not been promoted appropriately.

I represent -- on the other side of the coin, I represent the Oakland Raiders in their many courtroom battles. I represent -- I have represented a lot of entertainment people suing studios. I have defended studios. I have represented individual people who have legal malpractice claims against lawyers. And I have defended lawyers who have been accused of malpractice. I have sued rock groups and defended rock groups.

And so my practice really has grown from what it once was into an array of cases, from really getting, at this stage of my life, some wonderful cases to handle as a lawyer.

Q. And did you, at one time, represent the late Johnnie Cochran?

A. I did represent Johnnie Cochran for ten years in a legal matter from the day, or thereabouts, when he became involved in O.J. Simpson till the end of that. Till 2000 and -- January 2004 I represented Johnnie.

Q. What professional organizations have you been associated with and participated in?

A. I was the president of the Los Angeles County Bar Association. I was the president of the Los Angeles Trial Lawyers Association. I was an officer in the American Board of Trial Advocates, which is an organization that you have to be invited into and have to have a certain skill level in trials and in representing people.

I am what they call a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers, which is limited to 1 percent of the lawyers in the United States.

Another organization that you have to be invited into to get into.

The International Academy of Trial Lawyers, where I am -- which is limited to the top 500 lawyers, theoretically, in the world.

I mean, I don’t know who’s making these judgments, but that’s sort of --

Q. It’s nice to be invited, even though you don’t understand the standards.

A. It’s one club you want to be invited into.

But I’m sure there’s somebody else who deserves to be in this club who for some reason doesn’t get in.

Q. And are there some committees that you operate in on a statewide basis?

A. Yes. I’ve been appointed to -- by the governor to assist in selecting judges for the Southern California area. I have been appointed by the chief justice of the California Supreme Court, both chief justices, Malcolm Lucas, who was the chief justice originally, who had a blue ribbon committee of lawyers throughout the state, with judges, who are trying to improve the system of justice for -- so there would be better access to the Court for people.

Fancy people, big corporations, don’t have any problems using the courts. But little people have a lot of trouble getting through these courts, and the chief justice had a committee, as we moved into the millenium, to try to figure out how to better access courts for individuals who couldn’t higher fancy lawyers.

And then just recently the current chief justice of the Supreme Court asked me to be on a committee to help with the discipline of lawyers.

There is a lot of criticisms that lawyers who should be disciplined aren’t disciplined and that the public doesn’t feel like we’re disciplining our own lawyers.

And the State Bar is in charge of this system as it exists right now. And there are these State Bar judges who judge it, and there’s -- I’ve been asked to be on this committee to look at these issues and try to develop a better system for making sure that lawyers who need to be punished are punished and that we have the right people in place who can punish them appropriately.

Q. And have you done some teaching in your spare time?

A. In my spare time, when I'm not in Santa Maria testifying, I do. I am -- I taught last week at Loyola. I do a lot of teaching to judges, to lawyers, to law students, on different things about the law, from ethics, to how to try a lawsuit, a whole potpourri of different things.

I've written a lot about -- articles and chapters in books about how to try lawsuits or some aspect of some part of a case that I may have tried.

Q. Let's turn to a specific case, if we can, and I'd like to focus your attention to the year 1993 and '94, if we can.

Are you familiar with a then young boy by the name of Jordan Chandler?

A. I am.

Q. And how did you become involved -- by the way, did you know -- when you first met Jordan Chandler, do you recall how old he was?

A. He was 13, as I recall.

Q. And how did you become involved with Jordan Chandler? Tell us.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Calls for a narrative, sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Well, describe to us, then, the first contact you had with regard to Jordan Chandler.

A. A lawyer --

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection. To the extent it calls for hearsay, I'm going to object.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: A lawyer in the community referred his -- the parents, and -- are we using his name?

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Yeah.

A. We're using his name?

Q. Jordan Chandler, yeah.

A. Okay. Who used Jordie -- who brought Jordie to me, a lawyer who was representing the father of Jordie at the time. If I recall, Jordie was being represented at the time, for like 20 minutes or so, by Gloria Allred. They wanted to switch lawyers. And he asked me to interview the family, and I did.

Q. And as a result of the interviews and what other actions you also took, did you eventually end up filing a lawsuit against the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson?

A. I did.

Q. On behalf of Jordan Chandler?

A. I did file a lawsuit.

Q. On behalf of the family also, members of the family?

A. You know, without seeing the lawsuit, the mother and father, if I recall correctly -- I could be wrong about this, without seeing the lawsuit. I thought the mother and father were just the guardians and didn't have their own claims that we asserted. I don't think we ever asserted any claims on behalf of the mother and mother. We just asserted them on behalf of Jordie.

And the parents in the Chandler case were divorced, and there was a lot of acrimony between mom and dad, and in order to keep peace between mom and dad, I came up with the idea that there should be a joint guardianship, and I think we took -- that's what we did.

Q. All right. With regard to that particular case, which would have been, I guess, Chandler versus Jackson, correct?

A. It was.

Q. That would have been the heading? You did file a formal lawsuit?

A. I did.

Q. And what jurisdiction was that lawsuit filed?

A. Los Angeles Superior Court.

Q. And in that particular lawsuit, do you remember how many causes of action you alleged?

A. I think seven, roughly seven causes of action.

MR. MESEREAU: Relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may proceed.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And with regard to the causes of action, what was the nature of the causes of action alleged against the defendant Mr. Jackson?

A. The sexual molestation of Jordie Chandler.

Q. Now, did that particular case, the case of Chandler versus Jackson, eventually result in a settlement?

A. There was.

Q. And with regard to that particular settlement, was there a particular form that the settlement took?

A. “Form” meaning a contract?

Q. Well, a contract or some other document to --

A. Yeah, there was a lot of documents that surrounded that settlement.

Q. And with regard to the settlement, was it -- you’ve heard - I’m sure you’re familiar more than I am - the term “confession of judgment”?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that particular form of document used in the settlement of the Chandler versus Jackson lawsuit?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: What’s the relevance, Counsel?

MR. SNEDDON: The form of the settlement in terms -- I mean, the form of the settlement -- do you want me to go ahead and speak out, or do you want to approach the bench?

THE COURT: I asked you the question.

MR. SNEDDON: All right. Then as I understand it, there are settlements that are done by way of contract, and there are settlements that are done by way of confession of judgment.

THE COURT: What's the relevancy?

MR. SNEDDON: The legal effect of the judgment, plus the --

THE COURT: All right. You may ask the question.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. I'm -- you're far more capable than I am of delineating the differences, but is there a difference between a civil settlement that results from a contract and one that results from a confession of judgment?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Would you explain to the jury what the difference is and what the legal effect is?

A. Yes. In a confession of judgment, it is as though we went to trial and had a lawsuit and the jury came back with a verdict and we had a judgment, or the Judge came back with a finding.

And when the Judge says somebody's at fault, and "Here's your damages," you put it into a judgment. And when you have a judgment, you can file that judgment in the county and then you can execute on that judgment, so that if -- and just as an example, and I'll just make this number up, let's say you had it for one dollar, a judgment for a dollar. Well, if you have a judgment, you could just go and take somebody's house or take somebody's car, or go to their bank account and literally take that dollar out to satisfy the judgment.

If you just have a release or a contract, then you -- all you get left with, if the person doesn't pay you the dollar, is a something that says, "I promise to pay you a dollar." And then you got to start all over and prove that person breached that contract.

So in the Michael Jackson case, because there were payments going to take place --

Q. Let's stay away from all that area, okay?

Just tell us about --

A. All right. Well, that's the best I can tell you the difference.

Q. All right. So -- but in the Michael Jackson case, you got a confession of judgment?

A. I got a confession of judgment.

Q. Now, with regard to the case of Chandler versus Jackson, all right --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you told us the causes of action involved child molestation, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Had you handled other child molestation cases prior to the Chandler versus Jackson case?

A. The answer is, to the best of my recollection, I had never handled a -- what I would call a civil child molestation case sexually. If what you're asking -- I don't want to -- I did handle, on the defense side, a family that was accused of abuse of a child.

Q. Physical abuse.

A. It wasn't sexual abuse. So, if the question is sexual molestation, to the best of my recollection, I have never handled a sexual molestation case before Michael Jackson and since Michael Jackson.

Q. Now, at the time that you were representing Jordan Chandler back in 1993 and '94, were you aware, your own personal knowledge, whether or not the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office was involved in investigating the sexual abuse allegations against Mr. Jackson?

A. I do, and they were.

Q. And of your own personal knowledge, were you aware of the fact that at some point in time later, that the Santa Barbara County District Attorney's Office joined that investigation?

A. Yes.

Q. During the time that you were representing Mr. Chandler, the child Chandler, not the father Chandler, the child, Jordan Chandler, during the time that you were representing him, were either -- let's just go one at a time so we don't get a compound problem. But was the Los Angeles District

Attorney's Office given an opportunity to talk to your client?

A. The Los Angeles County District Attorneys, they talked to my client, they certainly did. They talked to him all they wanted.

Q. And then later, when the Santa Barbara District Attorney's Office joined in the investigation, were they allowed access to your client for interview purposes?

A. I mean, you know, I could be wrong. I think you were. Or I don't know about you, but I thought you were. I thought, but I don't remember that, frankly, whether you were or you weren't. I know when the police wanted to talk to Jordie during that period of time, they had access to him, so which ones I can't recall.

Q. Was there a time in which there was a 4500 request for your client, Jordan Chandler, to appear before the Santa Barbara County Grand Jury?

A. Gee, I can't remember that really. There may have been. I just don't remember.

Q. To your knowledge, did your client appear before the Santa Barbara County Grand Jury?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Was there some point in time where your client decided that he did not want to participate in an investigation by --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; and calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Are you aware, as a practicing lawyer in the State of California, that a juvenile who has been the alleged victim of a child molestation cannot be forced to testify --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and relevancy; and mis -- and misstates the law.

MR. SNEDDON: No, it doesn't mis -- I'm asking his professional legal opinion, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: Calls for a legal conclusion.

THE COURT: I'll allow the question, but I'm going to have you rephrase it because of the -- of the way you asked it. I'll allow this subject matter to be questioned.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: With regard to your practice of law and in your civil litigation, and with regard to your representation of Jordan Chandler in the Chandler versus Jackson lawsuit, okay --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- were you aware or did you become aware of the fact that there is a code section dealing with the -- with a minor’s right to refuse to testify in a criminal prosecution?

A. I was aware of one in ‘93.

Q. And you were aware of that while you were representing Jordan Chandler?

A. I was.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Speak more into the microphone.

THE WITNESS: What do you want me to do?

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Speak more into the microphone.

THE WITNESS: Oh.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Now, I guess the last question I have, and I’m probably taking it too much for granted, but with regard to the lawsuit involving Chandler versus Jackson, was that resolved in Chandler’s favor?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE WITNESS: It was -- oop.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike. Vague; no foundation; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: You may answer.

A. It was absolutely resolved in Mr. -- in Jordie Chandler’s favor.

Q. All right. Let’s fast-forward, if we can, to the year 2003.

Are you familiar with an attorney by the name of Bill Dickerman?

A. I am.

Q. And have you ever had contact with Mr.

Dickerman?

A. Before then or --

Q. No, in 2003.

A. Yes.

Q. Had you ever had any prior contact with Mr. Dickerman of any kind?

A. Yes, he, I believe, tried to refer me a case or cases in the past. Most of the cases I get are from other lawyers who refer me business, and I know that he did. I can't remember what the case was about, and I know I didn't take it, but at least on one occasion, if not more, he had called me and asked me to help him in cases that he was involved with.

Q. Okay. Now, before we get too far down the road with Mr. Dickerman, I neglected to show you a photograph.

Your Honor, I've had a photograph marked as 7-76, 776 for identification purposes. I'm approaching the witness. I've shown it to counsel.

Mr. Feldman, do you recognize the person depicted in that photograph?

A. I do.

Q. Who is that?

A. Jordie Chandler.

Q. Is that an accurate depiction of what Jordie Chandler looked like?

A. He was much better looking, I can tell you, at that age. He was adorable. That's kind of blurry.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; move to strike the gratuitous remarks.

THE COURT: Stricken.

MR. SNEDDON: Move that 776 be admitted into evidence, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The answer was stricken to the question as to whether or not it was an accurate picture of Jordan Chandler. That hasn't been answered.

MR. SNEDDON: I thought you were just striking the last part.

THE COURT: I struck the whole thing.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Is that photograph, 776, an accurate depiction of Jordan Chandler at or about the time that you knew him?

A. Yes.

THE COURT: All right. It's admitted.

MR. SNEDDON: May I publish it, Your Honor?

THE BAILIFF: "Input 4," Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Mr. Feldman, the exhibit that is on the Elmo there, 776, that's the one you just identified as the individual depicted as Jordan Chandler, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. Thank you very much.

Now, let's get back to Mr. Dickerman. You indicated that you had at least one prior referral from him that you recall. Now, let's just talk about something in general.

You say you get a referral. Is there ordinarily, in the practice of law when somebody refers you a case, an agreement called a referral agreement?

A. Yeah. Depending on what kind of case, obviously, that's being referred, but the answer is yes.

Q. Could you explain to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury how that referral agreement usually works, in general terms?

A. Yeah, sure. If -- there are two ways, generally, lawyers make their money. One is a contingent fee agreement, where they only receive payment if they are successful. And if they're not successful, they don't get paid. The second is just a straight hourly kind of payment where you get paid for every hour that you work.

In the contingent field, when a lawyer referrs another lawyer in the contingent field, some lawyers, not all, want to participate in some fashion, some way, and they then request the referral fee. And the State Bar rules say that’s legal and you can do that, as long as you tell the client in advance and the client consents to that referral agreement.

Q. Now --

A. And it’s traditionally done. Not “traditionally,” but depends where the case is coming from and who the lawyer is, and, you know, it’s a whole variety of things.

Q. In 2003, did Mr. Dickerman refer you a case?

A. He did.

Q. And with regard to that particular case, was there one of these referral agreements formed between you and he?

A. Ultimately, yes. Not right at the beginning. But ultimately, yes.

Q. As part of the referral process, did you have a conversation with Mr. Dickerman?

A. Yeah, I’m sure I did. I must have.

Q. The first contact was by phone?

A. Oh, yeah. The first contact with Mr. Dickerman clearly was by phone.

Q. And did you eventually have an in-person conversation with him?

A. In general. You’re not talking about the referral fee now. You’re talking about just --

Q. Yeah, I’m talking about --

A. In general, yeah, sure. I mean, he called me. He told me stuff. He then wanted to come in and talk to me.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; move to strike.

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: I’m not going to say what he said.

MR. SNEDDON: I know, and you didn’t.

Q. Okay. So he had a telephone conversation with you, and he told you some things over the phone?

A. That’s right.

Q. All right. As a result of that telephone call, did you then have an in-person meeting with

Mr. Dickerman?

A. As a result of that, I had an in-person meeting, yes.

Q. Do you recall whether or not, at the time that you had the first in-person meeting with Mr. Dickerman or the first meeting in person - the sentence the other way was bad - with Mr.

Dickerman --

A. Yes.

Q. -- do you recall whether or not the clients that he was referring to you were present?

A. I don’t think they were in the first meeting.

Q. Now, at some point after that, then, did you meet the individuals that were the subject of the case referred to you by Mr. Dickerman?

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to those -- the clients, do you recall their names?

A. Yes.

Q. Who were they?

A. Janet Arvizo, her daughter Davellin, her son Gavin, and her son Star.

Q. Now, let me go back. I neglected to ask you one other question about referral agreements. Does the fact that you take a referral agreement from another lawyer obligate you to continue that case to a point of filing a cause of action or taking some form of action?

A. Absolutely not. Absolutely not.

Q. You had a meeting involving the family where you met them?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall whether Mr. Dickerman was present or not?

A. My guess is he was, because I assume he brought them to me and brought them to my office, and he had contact, a lot of contact, with them before he came to me, so I’m assuming he did. I’m almost sure he was there. I would never have met with them without him being there.

Q. And do you recall where the meeting took place?

A. In my office. This is when I was at Fogel, Feldman. This is not my new job, but when I had my old law firm.

Q. Where was that office located?

A. In Santa Monica.

Q. Now, as a result of that first conversation with the Arvizo family, did you decide to take a form of -- a course of action of any kind?

A. Well, sure, of some kind.

Q. All right.

A. I mean --

Q. What would you categorize, in terms of the way you handle cases, as the process that you felt was going on at this point?

A. The process that I follow in my law office at all times is people come in, they tell a -- the factual story. We then -- depends on the case, but generally speaking we then will do research, legal research, especially in a case like this, to see and try to understand what the law is.

And because of the nature of the potential defendants at that time, which was ABC, this Martin Bashir, whatever his company was called, it involved Michael Jackson, we were going to make sure we knew what we were doing before we started. And so after we sort of heard this version of the facts, of some facts anyway, that's the next step that we did.

We also I think got -- we were shown letters. Mr. Dickerman had letters that he had written to the BBC in England, and he wrote letters to Mark Geragos, and Geragos to him, I can't recall which way they went, but -- so we had those, and we were trying to make heads or tails in a legal sense, which nobody had done up to that point in time, to try to focus on what is this about and where -- are we interested in taking any more steps.

Q. Now, with regard to the legal research that you did, what was the research that you did?

A. We had to research -- the fundamental issue was that Martin Bashir had done a tape at Mr. Jackson’s house that Ms. Arvizo had told us --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay, as well as narrative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Just what are the issues that you were researching as a result of your conversation with the Arvizo family?
A. Well, the -- whether or not Martin Bashir or

ABC had to have consent to put the children on television.
Q. Now, with regard to other aspects of the information provided to you by the Arvizo family in this meeting, did you decide on another course of action that you felt you needed to do to determine whether you were going to represent this family?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. That’s leading; move to strike.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Yes.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And what did you do in that connection?
A. I decided at some point in time that I had to make some heads or tails out of what was being told to me by Mrs. Arvizo, by Star, the young boy, and Gavin. And I concluded that I wasn’t going to be able to do --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; impermissible opinion; no foundation; relevance; hearsay.
MR. SNEDDON: Judge --
THE COURT: The question, though, was what did he do next, so he answered that. So his thoughts aren’t being called for at this point.
MR. SNEDDON: Judge, I believe under 1250 of the Evidence Code --

THE COURT: This just relates to the question and answer, Counsel. The question didn’t call for his thoughts. Don’t look at me like that.

MR. SNEDDON: I -- Judge, I was thinking of the next question I was going to ask. If you took it the wrong way, I'm sorry, but I wasn't --

THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

MR. SNEDDON: I mean, it's --

Q. All right. So you -- you decided on a course of action?

A. I did.

Q. As a result of the information given to you?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that course of action?

A. The course of action was to allow an expert, which I was not, to spend some time with all three of them. Davellin wasn't really the issue, but Janet, Star and Gavin, and let some expert figure out, if he could, what was happening.

Q. All right. Did you contact somebody to help you make that evaluation?

A. I did.

Q. And who was that?

A. Dr. Stanley Katz.

Q. And are you familiar -- were you familiar with Dr. Katz prior to the time that you decided to use him in the case --

A. Yes.

Q. -- involving the case that Mr. Dickerman had referred to you?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was your prior contact with Dr. Katz?

A. In 1987, I was defending a family who had been wrongfully accused of abusing a child, and the court so found, but -- and Dr. Katz, the first time I met him, was an expert that we hired for the defense to assist in that trial, and he testified in that case.

Q. Did you hire Dr. Katz or did he participate in the case of Chandler versus Jackson?

A. Yeah, in Chandler versus -- well, "participate." Chandler versus Jackson moved very quickly, because he was a minor.

Q. Did you retain him?

A. So I retained him, yes.

Q. And did he play any role in the case itself? It never went to trial, correct?

A. The case never went to trial. We never got that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

MR. SNEDDON: I'll move on, Your Honor. It's not a problem.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of your contacts with Dr. Katz, did you decide to send the Arvizo family to Dr. Katz?

A. Yes.

Q. In 2003?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, do you recall when that was, approximately, what month it was?

A. Either May or June, in that time frame, of 2003.

Q. At some point in time, did you receive a report back from Dr. Katz about his initial contacts with the family?

A. Oral. I got an oral -- I had an oral conversation with him.

Q. Do you recall whether it was in person or over the phone?

A. I think it was in person, quite frankly. I think he came to my office.

Q. Now, after you received this report, did you do anything?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do?

A. I called the Arvizo family, Mrs. Arvizo and the three children, back into my office for a meeting.

Q. All right. And in that meeting, what was the topic discussed?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay.

MR. SNEDDON: All right.

THE COURT: Overruled. The subject matter only.

THE WITNESS: The subject matter only. The subject matter was the options -- well, what Dr. Katz had told me, and their -- the options that existed at that point for that family. Different courses of action that were available to them at that point in time.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, at this point I would ask the Court to be able to have the witness be able to recount those, and that it would be admissible under 1250 of the Evidence Code not only as to this witness's state of mind, but also as to the state of mind and actions of the Arvizo family.

MR. MESEREAU: And I object. Hearsay, foundation; relevance; and calls for improper conclusion; and 352.

THE COURT: Whose statements are you offering for the state of mind only?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, both. I mean, you're asking me, so I guess I can go beyond --

THE COURT: Just give me names.

MR. SNEDDON: All right. This witness, Mr. Feldman, with regard to his state of mind with regard to what the future of any lawsuit may be at this point; and secondly with regard to the Arvizos, any decision that they would have made regarding any lawsuits against any individuals at this point in time, which I believe is an issue in this case.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of your conversation with the Arvizos on this particular day, what was the next step that you took in evaluating this case?

A. Well, the next step I took was, after -- I won't say what I said. I understand the ruling. They went back and saw Dr. Katz again. And I then went to the head of the --

Q. Let's just stop there for just a second, Mr. Feldman.

A. All right.

Q. So as a result of the conversations that you had with the Arvizos, there was a decision to go back to see Dr. Katz with the family again, correct?
A. Their decision to; that they wanted to go back and see him again.
Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, did that happen?
A. Yes.
Q. And to your knowledge, did you then find out the results of Dr. Katz' subsequent conversations with the family?
A. Yes.
Q. And as a result of those conversations with Dr. Katz, did you decide on a further course of conduct that you felt needed to be done?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: Yes.
THE COURT: You may answer.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What did you do?
A. I then believed that -- Dr. Katz believed he had a report, and I then went to the head of --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; hearsay.
THE COURT: His belief is stricken. The question is, "What did you do?"
THE WITNESS: I went to the head of the Department of Children Services, Los Angeles County, a fellow by the name of David Saunders, who was the head of the Department of Children & Family Services.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And did you contact him prior to going down to the department?
A. I did.
Q. By what form?
A. Well, that's a good question. I contacted him first between the meeting where I called the Arvizos into my office after Dr. Katz talked to me and before they went back. I talked to him and alerted him to a possibility that I might need to talk to him.

Q. And then after that?

A. And what I can’t remember is if I saw him at a social gathering where we were both at, or did that by phone. I just -- it was one or the other, but I definitely met with him or talked to him and told him that -- I didn’t tell him what it involved. I just told him it was a high-profile thing, and if it happened, I needed to have secrecy.

Q. All right. Now, with regard to after your second conversation with Dr. Katz, did you actually go down to the Los Angeles County Department of Child & Family Services?

A. Yeah, well, I did then definitely call him and talk to him again.

Q. Before you went down there?

A. Before I went down, and then after talking to him and telling him what it was --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained. Well, not asked and answered, but it’s not responsive.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: So you had a telephone call with him?

A. I did have a telephone call.

Q. And after that telephone call, did you go down there, and with whom?

A. I went down there with a colleague of mine from my office and Dr. Katz.

Q. And what was the purpose for the three of you going down to the L.A. County Department of Child & Family Services?

A. I wanted to get absolute assurance from the head of the department that there would be no leaks of anything that they decided to do or not do in connection with the report that Dr. Katz was going to make.

Q. Now, are you familiar with the law in the State of California that requires certain psychologists or psychiatrists to make a mandatory report --

A. I am.

Q. -- when they suspect child abuse or child --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I am aware of that.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And was this the purpose for the three of you going down to the L.A. department?

A. The purpose was for him to report, but he could have done it on a hotline like was done in ‘93. This time it was to have it guaranteed it was never going to leak out to the press.

Q. Okay. Now, as a result of this conversation, were you directed to another agency?

A. Well, he directed me into a room with two people. That’s where he directed me.

Q. You had a conversation with those people?

A. I had a conversation with those people.

Q. And as a result of that conversation, were you directed to another agency? Let me put it this way: Did they take the report?

A. They didn’t take the report, and they didn’t direct us to another agency. They --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Now, after you left the agency, did you decide on a course of action?

A. Yes.

Q. And was this regarding and connected with Dr. Katz’ responsibility as a mandated reporter?

A. Yes, because I felt he still hadn’t reported because they didn’t take the report.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection. Move to strike; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: After “Yes” is stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Who did you call?

A. I called you.

Q. Okay. And as a result of that conversation, were you eventually contacted by somebody else?

A. My recollection is that I was contacted by a police officer. Or he may have been a sheriff. I don't know what he was, but he was some law enforcement person.

Q. Now, during the course of the conversation between you and I, did the subject of a civil lawsuit against Michael Jackson in connection with the substance of the mandated report come up?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, "Yes."

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And in that connection, was there a representation made by you to me concerning a civil lawsuit?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, "Yes."

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And with regard to that representation - and, Your Honor, I'm offering this under 1250 - what was said by you to me?

A. No lawsuit. I would not file a lawsuit. And there was no plans to file a lawsuit. And that you would investigate it and make up your own mind. Not you, but the police.

Q. Now, do you currently -- at some point in time did you feel you represented the Arvizo family in some kind of litigation?

A. That's a great question. I've thought about it. Yeah, I mean -- yes, I guess -- I don't know about some litigation. I certainly represented them in everything I did, because I'm a lawyer and I was doing it as a lawyer. So, yes. The answer is yes.

Q. With regard to the information and the substance of the original conversation with the Arvizo family, did you feel that you represented them at least at some point with regard to the exploration of the issues involving the Bashir tape and things of that nature?

A. Yes. For sure.

Q. And was there a certain point in time where that representation ended?

A. Yes.

Q. And when was that?

A. Approximately -- I terminated them, my relationship with them sometime in October, I think, if not sooner. I think effectively it was August or September, somewhere in that time, of ‘03, and then shortly thereafter I wrote a letter terminating my relationship, confirming that I was not their lawyer and that I wasn’t going to proceed with anything.

Q. And at any point in time from the time you first met the Arvizo family and to the time you wrote the letter saying you were not going to represent them, which would have been somewhere around October of 2003, did you ever file an action on their behalf?

A. No, never have.

Q. Now, subsequently, in the year 2004, you did some legal work for the Arvizo family, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you -- and you have made appearances in court on representing the family; is that correct?

A. Well, I haven’t physically made any appearance, but I have occasionally done things, very limited, for them.

Q. And have you done that for other clients before?

A. Oh, yeah. I was --

Q. Is there a term in the legal profession that we call that?

A. Yes.

Q. What’s it called?

A. Dumb.

Q. That wasn’t exactly the one I had in mind.

A. Pro bono. Pro bono. Stupid.

Q. And do you consider what you did with the Arvizos after the point that you were no longer officially their lawyer to be pro bono work for the family?

A. Yeah. Absolutely. I never expected to get paid, and I’ve done very limited stuff, and the stuff that I’ve done is just stuff that I felt that I should do. That nobody was going to do it for them, and I got this thing rolling and I ought to do it, and I have very limitedly done things.

Q. Is one of the things that you did for them was to file a claim with the Los Angeles County Department of Child & Family Services?

A. That I did for both of us, because of again, because I was upset that the county did that, so we filed a claim.

Q. Why did you file a claim against Los Angeles County on behalf of Janet Arvizo?

A. Because the County of Los Angeles has a sworn obligation to protect children. And here, they swore -- I went to the head to get this thing protected, and the minute Mr. Jackson gets arrested, the first thing that happens is that county leaks out a report that was created and written after he was arrested, a memo. It comes out, it quickly gets on the news, and quickly blasts this family. And I thought, of all the things that I’ve seen as a lawyer --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; nonresponsive; giving a narrative; impermissible opinion.

THE COURT: It is responsive, but it is a narrative answer. So I’ll sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. So with regard to this particular claim that you filed, it’s not a lawsuit, right?

A. It was a claim.

Q. And that’s required when you sue a governmental agency, to file a claim first?

A. Yes.

Q. And then what is the -- we’ve heard this term thrown around in the courtroom in relationship to other things, what’s the “statute of limitations” for an individual to actually bring the lawsuit once the claim is filed?

A. You have 180 days to file the claim from the event. And then -- so you have to have a claim on file if you were ever going to do anything. And then once they deny the claim, you have another 180 days, essentially, to bring a lawsuit once it’s denied.

Q. And as a result of that claim that you filed on behalf of Janet Arvizo, has the second 180 days elapsed?

A. It has as to Janet, and it has as to Davellin. I don’t think it has, frankly, as to the minors. But it certainly has as to -- Janet couldn’t file a lawsuit today and her daughter couldn’t file a lawsuit today.

Q. And that’s because they have a certain number of years after they reach the age of majority, 18, to file a claim or a lawsuit?

A. That’s my understanding. Once they file a claim it protects their rights, I think. You know, I really -- this was a claim that asked for an apology.

Q. So they were never seeking monetary damages?

A. Well, who knows? But, I mean, there really --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; move to strike.

THE WITNESS: I don’t know what --

THE COURT: Just a moment.

The objection is sustained. Any answer is stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: At the time that you made the written claim to the County of Los Angeles, did you demand monetary damages?

A. It had -- it probably said words in there, whatever the damages are. It didn’t have a number, I can tell you that. And it had -- I mean, you can’t file a lawsuit without the claim. I mean, there’s no such thing as a lawsuit for an apology. So it said some -- if I saw it, if you had it, I could tell you, but it was really to conduct a -- get the county to do something, for the next kid.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike the gratuitous remarks at the end; nonresponsive; impermissible opinion.

THE COURT: I'll strike the last sentence.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: During the time that you -- since you first met Janet Arvizo --

A. Yes.

Q. -- and the Arvizo family, were you ever asked to file a lawsuit against Michael Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; calls for inadmissible hearsay; no foundation.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I have never been asked to file any lawsuit against Michael Jackson.

MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: May I take just a second, Your Honor? I have to get some materials.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Feldman.

A. Good morning, sir.

Q. Mr. Feldman, if Gavin Arvizo decided at some point in the future to sue Mr. Jackson for alleged sexual abuse, how much time would he have to file that action?

A. I think he'd have till his 20th birthday.

Q. If Star Arvizo decided in the future to sue Mr. Jackson for alleged sexual abuse, how much time would he have to file that lawsuit?

A. I think the answer's the same. 20.

Q. If, at the end of this trial, they were to decide, you know, "We'd like to sue," they'd have plenty of time to do it, wouldn't they?

A. "They" meaning the boy --

Q. Gavin.

A. Not Janet.

Q. Gavin and Star.

A. The two boys?

Q. Yes.

A. If they wanted to at the end of the trial, they could sue, sure.

Q. Isn’t it true that a judgment of conviction in a criminal case for anything related to child molestation could be dispositive in a parallel civil suit alleged for the same facts?

A. As long as it’s a felony conviction, that’s right.

Q. In other words, if Mr. Jackson were convicted of felony child molestation in this case, either Gavin Arvizo or Star Arvizo could use that conviction to essentially win a civil case regarding similar alleged facts against Mr. Jackson?

A. That’s correct.

Q. If there were a conviction for felony child molestation in this case, and if Star or Gavin elected to sue in a civil case based on the similar alleged facts of sexual abuse, essentially the only issue remaining would be how much money you get, correct?

A. Probably. I think that’s -- it’s close enough. I mean, nothing is that simple, as just stated. You know it as well as I. But essentially I think that’s what would happen.

Q. Well, you would have to follow certain civil procedures in civil court, but essentially, Mr. Feldman, you could take the judgment of conviction, you could walk into civil court, you could lodge it with the court, you could ask a judge to determine that liability has been established, true?

A. Yes. You get these problems with appeals, and the impact of appeals, and it’s a complicated thing, but the answer is ultimately yes.

Q. And one of the reasons for that is that the burden of proof in a criminal case is proof beyond a reasonable doubt. The burden of proof in a civil case is preponderance of the evidence, and if you have proof beyond a reasonable doubt, you automatically have proof by a preponderance of the evidence, as you would need to have it in civil court, true?

A. That’s the theory.

Q. Well, that’s correct, right?

A. Yeah, that’s the theory behind it.

Q. All right. Now, let’s assume there was a conviction in this case and that Mr. Jackson were convicted of felony child molestation, and let’s assume that Gavin and Star then decided, “We want to file a civil suit for millions of dollars in civil court,” okay?

A. Yeah.

Q. On similar alleged facts. And let’s assume the process you’ve just identified, where you walk into civil court, you follow rules, and you essentially establish to a civil court judge that liability exists.

If that were to happen, whoever the civil lawyer was representing the Arvizos would have avoided costs of investigation, experts, depositions, filing fees, messenger fees, all sorts of legal fees, right?

A. Well, look, I don’t want to open that hypothetical. You’d have to be nuts to do that, what you’re saying, as a civil lawyer.

Q. Sir --

A. You’d have to be nuts.

Q. Sir, did you tell a grand jury in Santa Barbara County that you had incurred tremendous costs of expenses during your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson in 1993?

A. I did. And it was true.

Q. And if liability were established through a criminal conviction, a civil litigator could avoid most of those costs, correct?

A. Some of those costs. Not most. Some. I mean, certainly some you would avoid.

Q. You could avoid of lot of investigative costs, correct?

A. You know, it’s -- can I --

Q. Just answer my question, if you would, please.

A. I can’t answer it that way. If I could explain to you why. You know, I’ll tell you why I can’t, and you can ask me the next question and you can get to the answer.

Q. Is your answer you would not avoid investigative costs?

A. No, it’s the amount of investigative costs we’re talking about.

Q. Okay. Did you tell the jury today that when you were in front of the grand jury you mentioned the enormous amount of expenses and legal fees you had incurred in 1993 litigating that case until it settled?

MR. SNEDDON: Object. Asked and answered, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I’m not -- I’ll sustain the objection if you’re asking him what he previously testified to --

MR. MESEREAU: Yes.

THE COURT: -- today. I mean, you’re saying, “What did you just testify to on direct?”

MR. MESEREAU: I couldn’t -- to be honest, Your Honor, I couldn’t tell if he had actually addressed that issue. It’s a long answer.

THE WITNESS: I’m happy to -- the legal fees wouldn’t change. The costs would change. We’re just debating how much those costs change. But the costs would change. The legal fees would be the same. If you’re on a contingent fee, you don’t get paid any more if you work a lot or work a little.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: But if you were to gauge your legal fees at hours, sir, and you didn’t have to prove liability, you would save a tremendous amount in legal fees, wouldn’t you?

A. Well, sir, I keep trying to tell you, that ain’t the way it works, and you want to keep saying it is. Now, I can tell you how it works, and then you can get to what you want to get.

Q. If you had to try a civil case on liability, Mr. Feldman, it could go months, couldn’t it?

A. Sure.

Q. If you have a judgment of felony conviction in a criminal case and you walk into civil court and establish it, you don’t have a trial in civil court for months on liability, correct?

A. You have to --

Q. Yes or no?

A. You could, if you -- you know, you could. I can't answer it the way you want me to answer. I'm happy to explain it to you, and maybe we can get to the answer.

Q. Would a judgment of felony conviction in criminal court possibly eliminate a trial on liability in civil court for similarly alleged facts? Yes or no.

A. Do you count punitive damages in "liability," or not?

Q. Sir, I'm asking you to answer my question.

A. Well, I can't -- I can't answer it this way. Liability has a lot of aspects to it, sir, and one of the things is the finding of malice.

Q. Okay.

A. And that's separate from what you're talking about.

Q. In other words, if you could avoid the liability phase of a civil case, you wouldn't save some time in legal fees?

A. Of course you would save some time, and you would save some money. We're just talking about how much. You keep saying it's -- there's -- it would be a total saving, and I'm trying to explain to you that's not what would happen. It wouldn't go down that way.

Q. You wouldn't have to prove liability, because it would have been proven in a criminal court, correct, or not?

A. You'd have to prove malice, though.

Q. Correct or not, Mr. Feldman?

A. Well, how many times can I go through this with you?

Q. Are you saying if you get a judgment of conviction in criminal court for felony child molestation and you then walk into civil court with civil allegations based on the same facts, you still have to establish liability? Is that what you're saying?

A. Not liability as to that aspect. But for malice, you would still have to prove it.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, what is the statute of limitations for civil fraud?

A. Civil fraud?

Q. Yes.

A. Three years from discovery.

Q. Okay. Were you aware that Attorney William Dickerman wrote letters on behalf of Janet Arvizo to Attorney Mark Geragos alleging fraud?

A. Not sitting here. I thought it was over their belongings, or something, that he wrote letters.

Q. You thought the letters were only about belongings?

A. You know what? I don’t know. I’m guessing. Show me the letters and maybe it will refresh my memory. I remember there was letters to Mark Geragos, and that’s what was significant to me. What was in them, I can’t remember, unless you show me the letters.

Q. Do you recall at some point during your relationship with Prosecutor Sneddon, Mr. Sneddon spoke to the media and said, “If they’re going to sue, I hope they don’t do it until after the criminal case is done”?

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object to the word “relationship.”

THE WITNESS: I don’t even remember it happening.

THE COURT: Just a moment.
You’re asking him what Mr. Sneddon said, if he --

MR. MESEREAU: If he was aware of it.

THE COURT: That’s not how you phrased it.

MR. SNEDDON: No.

THE COURT: I’ll sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Feldman, Prosecutor Sneddon asked you about a technical term in civil litigation called “confession of judgment”?

A. Yes.

Q. Right?
A. Right.
Q. Now, in the civil case where you represented Mr. Chandler and his parents against Mr. Jackson, there was a cross-complaint, was there not?
A. There was?
Q. Mr. Jackson sued for extortion, didn’t he?
A. I don’t know. I know he claimed -- I know that his investigator, Mr. Pellicano, claimed extortion.
Q. You don’t recall?

A. I’m not saying it didn’t happen. I just don’t recall.
Q. Okay. And typically, in a settlement like the one described by Prosecutor Sneddon, if someone agrees to pay money to the other side, the other side would like the payment of that money secured by what is called a confession of judgment, correct?
A. That’s right. When it’s paid over time, that’s correct.
Q. Okay. And the purpose of a confession of judgment is that if the paying party stops paying, you can run into civil court and obtain what is called a certified judgment so you can then collect on their assets?
A. Correct.
Q. Right?
A. That’s right.
Q. And if you didn’t have that confession of judgment, your only remedy would be to then file another lawsuit for breach of contract, correct?
A. That’s right.
Q. So what Mr. Sneddon was talking to you about was ways that you have to collect money that you’re owed in a settlement, true?
A. I don’t know what he was talking to me about. He asked me questions, and I answered the best I could. What you’ve said is true, and that’s what I thought I just said.

Q. And typically in a civil settlement, and you've done many of them, obviously, there is a provision in the settlement agreement which says that neither side admits liability, or words to that effect, correct?

A. Generally. Not every one, but generally that's true.

Q. And essentially what that means is neither side admits wrongdoing, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And the confession of judgment has nothing to do with an admission of wrongdoing or liability?

A. Well, it would have the same impact if you had to file it. It would be a judgment for that amount. I don't know what impact it's going to later be. I've never handled a case where you filed a confession of judgment, and then somebody tried to use that in another case to say you admitted something. I frankly don't know the answer.

Q. It's never used to say someone admitted something. It's simply used to collect the money you're owed, right?

A. Sir, I just told you, I've never researched that issue, and -- so you can't -- you got the wrong person. I've never had someone where I had to go use it.

I didn't have to use it with Mr. Jackson, so I can't tell you the answer. I know it's -- it is -- my concern was the making sure, if the money wasn't paid by Mr. Jackson, we could go into court and start seizing his assets. That didn't happen. He paid. It never happened.

Q. Would you agree that in many civil settlements of civil cases, you will have both the provision that says neither side admits wrongdoing or liability as well as a confession of judgment?

A. It's rare you get a confession of judgment. It is very -- typical that you get neither party admits wrongdoing in a release. It's typical. You don't need the confession, because you usually exchange the release and the money at the same time. So there isn't that issue.

Q. But you need a confession of judgment if you want to secure payments to be made in the future, right?

A. That you need. That’s right. And that’s what we got.

Q. And if payments are to be made in the future by any settling party, you would almost be foolish not to have a confession of judgment, correct?

A. I don’t know. We’ll let somebody else worry about who’s foolish. We did it. We thought it was the appropriate thing. We demanded it. We got it.

Q. Please answer my question, Mr. Feldman.

A. I don’t know what’s foolish for lawyers to do. I mean, I haven’t thought about it. It’s a good practice - I did it - to get it. I mean, I demand to get it for my clients. That’s all I can tell you.

Q. You demand to get it for your clients because if payments were to stop, you would have a faster way --

A. Sure.

Q. -- to obtain that value than you would if you had to sue for breach of a settlement agreement, right?

A. Yes. That’s what I think I’m saying.

Q. And when you have your clients get a confession of judgment in a settlement agreement in a civil case, typically there also is a provision where neither side admits any wrongdoing to each other, right?

A. The settlement agreement will say that, that’s correct.

Q. And that’s what you had in 1993 in the Chandler case, correct?

A. We had the settlement language that said that, and we had a confession of judgment.

Q. You had settlement language that said neither side admits wrongdoing to the other, and you also had the confession of judgment you just described, true?

A. True.

Q. Now, did I hear you say, in response to the prosecutor's questions, you stopped representing Janet Arvizo in the fall of 2003?

A. The first time.

Q. Pardon me?

A. The first time.

Q. That's the first time you stopped?

A. That's the first time I stopped.

Q. Okay. Now, as I look at pleadings filed by your law firm in this case, I count no less than four lawyers representing the Arvizos well into 2005, correct?

A. That's why I answered the question the way I did. I said that's the first time that I terminated the relationship with Ms. Arvizo.

Q. And in 2005, you have represented the Arvizos in documents filed in this particular criminal case, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. A lawyer named Julian Brew from your firm has also represented the Arvizos in documents filed in this criminal case in 2005, correct?

A. Well, my law firm, because of me, has done this for the -- Miss Arvizo, we've done it for her parents, we've -- and for the newborn baby. I think those are the three people. But I may be wrong.

Q. Let me rephrase the question.

A. Mr. Brew works for me. I mean, I don't want to demean him. I mean, he works with me.

Q. Mr. Brew is a lawyer with your law firm, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. He has represented the Arvizos in the year 2005, correct?

A. The law firm has represented her, and he's one of the people, to be technical.

Q. Sir, you work for or your partner with approximately a 600-person law firm, correct?

A. He's one of the lawyers that worked on this case. That's what I said.

Q. That's Julian Brew, correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. A lawyer named Theodore Maya has also worked for the Arvizos in the year 2005 in this case, true?

A. True.

Q. A lawyer named Robert Turner has also worked for the Arvizos --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in this case, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Those are four lawyers with your 600-plus law firm, true?

A. True.

THE COURT: All right. It’s break time.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Mr. Feldman, you’ve testified that you had filed, as a lawyer for the Arvizos, a Notice of Claim against Los Angeles County, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And the purpose of filing that notice of claim was to preserve the right to sue in the future if you desire to, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you told the jury that at this point, in your opinion, Gavin Arvizo and Star Arvizo still have time to file a lawsuit against Los Angeles County, correct?

A. I believe that’s right.

Q. The lawsuit you’re referring to, if it ever occurred, would be separate and apart, or could be separate and apart from any lawsuit against Mr. Jackson in the future, true?

A. I think it would have to be separate and apart. I don’t think you could join the two. But it would be -- I think the simple question is -- the simple answer is yes.

Q. And as we speak, then, those two young men still have a right to sue Mr. Jackson, and they still have a right to sue Los Angeles County in a separate action, true?

A. True.

Q. And by filing your Notice of Claim, you preserved that right for them, true?

A. That's what I did. Against the county.

Q. Against the County of Los Angeles?

A. Yeah. It had nothing to do with Mr. Jackson.

Q. Okay. Now, you've indicated you know -- excuse me, let me rephrase that.

How long have you known Attorney William Dickerman?

A. Well, certainly since 2003. He tells me that he brought a case to me that I rejected, and I can't tell you when that happened. I sort of vaguely remember it happening, but I can't place it. I never met him till he walked into my office. I think that's the first time I ever saw him.

Q. Did you testify this morning that you have or had a referral arrangement with him with respect to the Arvizos?

A. You know, loosely. I think there was an agreement with the Arvizos that he was a party to. You need the consent -- under the State Bar rules, you have to have a client's consent to have -- and he was in that agreement, and exactly what we said about him I don't know. But I know he expected, if there was money, to get money for -- from me, from her, I don't know where. I can't remember the details of it, but --

Q. Do you recall him having what is called a joint legal services agreement with you?

A. Vis-a-vis the Arvizos?

Q. Yes.

A. He could have. I mean, I don't know what he had. He had -- he wanted to be involved if I was going to bring a case. And how those financial terms were worked out with him, I don't know. And what -- he was -- he wanted to be involved with the family, because he said he had this great relationship with the family, so I was there to do the legal work, and it never went anyplace.

Q. He also wanted money, true?

A. He wanted money, I’m sure of that. I’m sure of that.

Q. You had a lot of communications with him after he referred the Arvizos to you, true?

A. Well, we certainly had some. I don’t know about “a lot.” I certainly had some with him.

Q. There were faxes and letters going back and forth from his office to you for many months after he referred the Arvizos to you, right?

A. Could be. We certainly were trying to get his file and what he had in his file from the time he had the case till the time we were done with it initially.

Q. And just to clarify what you just said, are you saying you’re not sure if Attorney William Dickerman had a legal services agreement with you?

A. What do you mean by “a legal services agreement”?

Q. Well, let me get --

A. That I pay him to do legal services for me?

Q. He does legal work with you for the Arvizos.

A. I don’t know -- is there something I’m missing about what I’m saying and you’re asking?

Q. I don’t think so.

A. I thought he wanted to get paid for the work he thought I would let him do in the Arvizo case. If I took the Arvizo case - I don’t want to break his heart - he wasn’t going to do very much work if I was the lawyer on the case, but he wanted to get paid. That’s the point. And how we memorialized that, I don’t remember. It was in the agreement, and she consented to however we memorialized what he would get if there was money to be had.

Q. But Prosecutor Sneddon asked you questions about a referral agreement between lawyers, correct?

A. He asked me questions about a referral fee, yes.

Q. And what you’re describing now is not a simple referral fee arrangement, true?

A. Well, I’m describing -- I don’t remember the way this worked. If you showed it to me, I could. But I don’t think it mattered. I was going to be the lead lawyer, and he was -- I guess if we gave him a task to do, he would do it.

Q. And just to clarify things, that's something different from a strict referral fee arrangement, true?

A. It can or cannot be, frankly. You can do it both ways. I mean, I don't think the form it takes -- I think what's important is that the two lawyers have to decide how they are going to divide fees, and on what basis, and that the -- the most important thing is the client consents to whatever the arrangement is.

Q. And your typical referral fee arrangement involves one lawyer referring a case to another lawyer, and if the lawyer who gets the case makes any money on it, that lawyer gives a percentage to the lawyer that referred the case to him or her, correct?

A. That certainly happens frequently.

Q. That's your typical referral arrangement, isn't it?

A. That was at one time my typical -- are you asking me now personally, or just in general?

Q. Just generally speaking.

A. Generally, I think that is the way lawyers get a case. They send it to somebody else and they get a referral fee, and they don't have to do any work.

Q. Now, in Los Angeles County, you're known as one of the most successful plaintiffs' lawyers, correct?

A. Say it again for the press. I want to -- that's the nicest thing anybody's said about me in this case.

Q. Is that true?

A. I think so.

Q. You've had numerous multi-million-dollar awards that you have obtained for your clients, correct?

A. I have.

Q. You have numerous multi-million-dollar settlements you’ve obtained for your clients, correct?

A. I have.

Q. And in most of those situations, you had what is called a contingency fee arrangement, correct?

A. Oh, I’m sure. Yeah. Over the life of my legal career, that’s absolutely right.

Q. And generally speaking, in a contingency fee arrangement, the plaintiffs’ lawyer in these cases, namely you, get a percentage of whatever is recovered for the client, true?

A. Yes.

Q. And in a strict contingency fee arrangement, if the lawyer doesn’t obtain any money for the client, the lawyer might not get paid anything, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. So there’s an incentive for that lawyer to get as big a recovery as possible, because the bigger the recovery for the client, the bigger the fee for the lawyer, correct?

A. That’s the theory.

Q. And you have a fairly standard contingency fee arrangement that you’ve used through the years, correct?

A. I -- I have.

Q. In the Chandler case, the parents, who you’ve described as divorced, both signed your fee agreement, true?

A. They did. Well, I mean, you’re saying that. I -- it looks like you’re looking at something. If you tell me -- I hope they did. I don’t remember.

Q. Would it refresh your --

A. But it would have been smart on my part to get both of them to sign it.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if you looked at your fee agreement?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Is that all of it?
MR. MESEREAU: (Nods head up and down.)
Q. Mr. Feldman, have you had a chance to look at that fee agreement?
A. I have.

Q. Is it true that June Chandler and Evan Chandler signed that agreement?
A. They did.
Q. They retained your services, correct?
A. They did on behalf of their son. I --
Q. Now, to your knowledge, the father had been divorced from the mother since 1986, correct?
A. I don’t know the date, but they were -- the parents were divorced. The father was remarried.
Q. The mother remarried also, true?
A. Yeah, I think that is right. Except I think they were separated at the time. The mother was separated from her husband. She could have been divorced, but she did -- I think she remarried.
Q. Now, the father had not only been divorced for a number of years from the mother, he had given up all custody to the mother at that time, true?
MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object as irrelevant.
MR. MESEREAU: I believe the prosecutor raised these issues, Your Honor.
THE COURT: What’s the relevancy?
MR. MESEREAU: Who he’s really representing, and what their influence is on the litigation, what their influence is on the settlement and what their motives are, and what example it sets to everyone else.
THE COURT: All right. The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You represented both parents on behalf of the minor, Mr. Chandler, correct?
A. My memory is both parents were the guardian ad litems for the minor. I don’t remember if -- representing the parents separately and apart in a separate lawsuit against anybody. I -- I think we only had them as guardian ad litems because the young minor can’t bring a lawsuit. It has to be done through someone. And originally it was done through the parents and then ultimately through a judge, retired judge became the guardian.

Q. And you had in that particular case ethical obligations to both the parents and the minor in your representation, true?

A. I suspect at some level there was -- I certainly had an attorney-client privilege with them.

Q. Well, without going into the amount of any settlement, isn’t it true that both parents wanted money for themselves as well?

A. They didn’t want it. The defense wanted them to have it, and they accepted it, because the defendant -- that was the defendant’s idea.

Q. Did the parents -- without going into the amounts --

A. Sure.

Q. -- did the parents for Mr. Chandler accept money in the settlement?

A. They did accept money. That’s a fair statement.

Q. Okay. That would include a father who didn’t even have the legal right to see the child, right?

A. I’m not sure that’s right, you know, because he had the child. At that time that I came in the case, the child was living with the father, so you may be right in some -- there may be an order out there, but at the time I came in the case, the father -- the boy lived with his dad and his dad’s wife, as I recall.

Q. Okay. Now, at some point -- excuse me, let me rephrase that. The mother’s name is June Chandler, correct?

A. Correct. Or at least it was.

Q. Okay. To your knowledge, has it changed?

A. No. But I don’t know.

Q. Okay. At some point she married someone named David Schwartz, correct?

A. Sometime she married David Schwartz.

Q. When you were representing June Chandler, she was either married to or living with David Schwartz, true?

A. I'm not sure, you know, what the situation was. I don't think -- their relationship was strained, I can tell you that --

Q. Okay.

A. -- at that point in time. I have a recollection he wasn't living in the house at the time I met her, but there was still a relationship, because I can picture him in my office with her, with Evan Chandler, and with Evan Chandler's wife, and Jordie.

Q. Now, at some point when it became clear that you were seeking money from Mr. Jackson, David Schwartz then filed his own suit against Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I think that's right. I think he did. I don't know when that happened, but now that you mentioned -- not by me. I wasn't -- somebody else.

Q. And you were in communication with that attorney representing David Schwartz, correct?

A. Who was the lawyer? I don't remember. Who was the lawyer in that --

Q. I'm questioning you. So I'm just asking you.

A. Oh, you don't want to answer my questions. It's not so much fun. Okay.

Q. Do you recall that June Chandler's ex-husband then tried to sue Michael Jackson as well?

A. I wouldn't have remembered it, but now that you've said it, I kind of remember that he did.

And I almost remember the name of the lawyer who had it, because he was a guy I used to litigate against. But I may be wrong.

Q. In response to Prosecutor Sneddon's questions, you indicated that the case was referred to you by a lawyer for the Chandler family, correct?

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. SNEDDON: It's vague as to what case.

MR. MESEREAU: Let me rephrase it. If it's vague, I'll rephrase.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Regarding your representation of Mr. Chandler, Mrs. Chandler, and their son, did you say, in response to the prosecutor's questions, that that case was referred to you by another lawyer for the family?

A. What I want to correct is, if you take the "family" part out of it, I can answer it. Yes, it was referred to me by a lawyer, but that lawyer who referred it to me wasn't representing the family, per se.

Q. Was representing the father?

A. He was representing the father.

Q. His name was Barry Rothman, correct?

A. No, no, no, no. No.

Q. Who referred the case to you?

A. The guy that referred to me was a criminal defense lawyer, who was Bob Shapiro, who was defending the father where these -- long before I ever got in the case, there was these charges of extortion going back and forth between the father and the Jackson camp, and it was long before I got in the case.

In that case there was a criminal defense lawyer representing the father, and that criminal defense lawyer brought the family to me. But he was only representing the father, and he was only representing him criminally.

Q. Okay. Now, and Robert Shapiro, of course, is the Robert Shapiro who defended O.J. Simpson, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. He was defending the father against claims that the father had tried to extort money from Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Time out. I think that’s wrong. Let me go back. He may have been the lawyer not for the father, but for -- now I got -- I think he represented Rothman, the lawyer, the lawyer who was in the case before I ever got in the case. I think he, too, was accused of extortion by someone on the Jackson side.

Q. Okay.

A. And I think he -- one of them -- and I think Richard Hirsch, who was also a criminal defense lawyer, represented the father, or -- that’s what I think really happened. But somehow Shapiro and Richard Hirsch, who are two criminal defense lawyers, advised the family that they had the wrong civil lawyer and they should come see me. And that’s basically how I got there.

Q. They advised the family that Gloria Allred was the wrong lawyer and they should come to you, correct?

A. That’s what I understand.

Q. Okay. Now, there was a lawyer named Barry Rothman involved, correct?

A. Before Gloria Allred.

Q. And Barry Rothman represented the father, true?

A. Well, that’s a good question, who he represented. I thought he -- he represented probably the father and Jordie, I suspect. I mean, it’s unclear to me, that whole deal.

Q. And Rothman is a lawyer that was accused of extortion by people associated with Mr. Jackson as well, correct?

A. I think both Rothman and Jackson -- I mean, “Rothman and Jackson,” I’m sorry.

Rothman and Evan Chandler were accused of extortion by the Jackson side. I don’t know who on the Jackson side.

Q. And Attorney Barry Rothman has since been disbarred, correct?

A. I don’t know. Has he?

Q. Yes.

A. I didn't know him before, I don't know him now. And if he is, he is. I don't know.

Q. So you don't know him at all?

A. I don't know Barry Rothman.

Q. You had various meetings with him during this litigation, did you not?

A. No.

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object as immaterial and irrelevant.

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: No, I -- well, it -- oh, it was sustained, so....

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You typically enter into a contingency fee agreement at the beginning of your relationship with the client, correct?

A. At the early stages, yes.

Q. And the obvious purpose of that is, before you want to do any work, you want to make sure you're going to get paid if certain things happen, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And before I go any further, you talked about people you have represented in your practice. You've also represented oil companies in recent years, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You've defended oil companies accused by the State of California of overcharging consumers, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you've represented them quite successfully, haven't you?

A. Well, that was one I represented, and it was a very successful --

Q. It was a long trial, true?

A. It was a long trial.

Q. Okay.

A. First time and only time in my life that I ever did anything like that.

Q. Okay. And what year was that?

A. Let's see. I defended them -- is this important? I mean, I can’t remember. Let’s see, I have enough trouble remembering who I’m representing today.

Let’s see, I represented them, I want to say late -- let’s see. Somewhere around late ‘90s, 2000. I mean, it could have been -- it’s one way or the other. I can’t -- I was called in just to try the lawsuit. And the case had been going on for like 20 years, believe it or not, and -- and so I just -- I can’t give it -- if it’s important, I could figure it out, but it’s somewhere then.

Q. Somewhere where?

A. Somewhere 1999, 2000, 2001. 1998. It -- you know, a few years ago this happened.

Q. Now, in the 1993 case, you retained Stanley Katz, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. When had you first met Stanley Katz?

A. 1987.

Q. And that was in relation to a civil lawsuit?

A. No. I represented -- in fact, my wife really represented -- and she wasn’t my wife then. But I got called in to represent the -- a former grandson of the President of the United States who was being accused of physical abuse, him and his wife. And I knew nothing about that kind of a field, never done anything like that, but ultimately, I did it.

And Stanley Katz, who I never knew of or heard of, was an expert on the case. And if you ask me what -- I don’t even remember what he testified to, but he did testify. And it was a case downtown in the criminal courts building.

Q. So this was a case where two adults were accused of abusing a child?

A. Yeah, by the Department of Children Services.

Q. And you and -- excuse me. You defended the --

A. I defended --

Q. -- the parents, true?

A. The parents, yes.

Q. And you did it successfully, correct?

A. I did it successfully.

Q. Stanley Katz was an expert for you --

A. He was.

Q. -- right? So Stanley Katz knew that in this particular case, adults were falsely charged with sexual assault, correct?

A. No. Well, charged by the government, not by the kid. The kids -- there was a baby, it was one-year-old. He wasn’t accusing anybody of doing anything. This was the county. The kid was abused, there was no issue, Mr. Mesereau. The child was abused. The question is, did the maid abuse the child or did these parents abuse the child? And in my view and in the Court’s view, the maid did it, and we proved it.

Q. But just to get it in the record --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- you, with the assistance of Stanley Katz, defended two adults against false claims of abuse, correct?

A. By the government, yes.

Q. Okay.

A. And I do remember what he sort of testified to, if it’s important to you.

Q. When were these false claims by the government initially filed; do you know?

A. Yeah. I assume it’s 1987, because that’s when I did it.

Q. How long were you involved in that case with Stanley Katz?

A. Well, Stanley Katz testified. He was on the stand and got off the stand. But, I mean, the case was ongoing. And I think we tried it -- took like five days or so to try it, six days. And that was it.

Q. And was that tried in front of a judge or a jury?

A. Judge.

Q. Was that in the administrative courts or the criminal courts?

A. It was in the criminal court building. A regular judge.

Q. Was it a criminal case where a jury was waived?

A. No, it was a dependency case. They were trying to take the children -- the child away from these parents who had adopted this child.

Q. And it was just solely a judge who decided the government’s claims of abuse were false against your clients, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. All right. Now, at some point you call

Lieutenant Klapakis in this case, correct?

A. I called him or he called me.

Q. Okay. Do you know about when that was?

A. Yeah. About. I mean, it was in -- I’m going to say around June of ‘03. I think he must have called me. I don’t think I would have called him. I never heard of him.

Q. It was approximately June 13th, 2003, correct?

A. I wouldn’t disagree with that. I don’t have an independent recollection of the day, but I wouldn’t disagree about the time frame.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a police report?

A. If you tell me -- unless that day is critical to you, I’ll look at it. I don’t know, is it a police report of what he says about me?

Q. Yes.

A. I don’t know. It’s up to you. It’s your show. I don’t remember the precise day. I’d accept it’s about that time. If you told me it was the 14th, I’d believe you. And if you told me it was the 12th, I’d believe you.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I --

A. You got to show me. I know that trick. Show me the document and I’ll tell you if it refreshes my recollection. How do I know unless you show it?

It doesn’t refresh my memory.

Q. Have you had a chance to look at the report?

A. I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about the day that you spoke to Lieutenant Klapakis?

A. I know I spoke to him. It doesn’t refresh my recollection about the date. But as I said, I can’t argue with that date.

Q. Had you spoken with Lieutenant Klapakis before that date, to your knowledge?

A. You know, not by name. I mean, I don’t know the person, to my knowledge. But I wouldn’t know him if he’s in this courtroom.

Q. Have you met with anyone representing the government to discuss your testimony in this case?

A. In a loose way. When you say -- I mean, the government interviewed me about my testimony.

Q. When did anyone with the government last interview you about your testimony?

A. I guess yesterday.

Q. And who was in the meeting?

A. Mr. Sneddon.

Q. Anyone else?

A. No.

Q. How long was the meeting?

A. Besides locking myself up in his office and having to set the alarm because I couldn’t get out because it was after hours. If you don’t count that time, it was probably an hour and a half, maybe two hours, somewhere in that range.

Q. Was Mr. Sneddon alone?

A. Yeah, I thought I said that.

Q. There was no sheriff present?

A. No.

Q. No other prosecutor present?

A. No.

Q. Okay. So you and Mr. Sneddon, for an hour and a half yesterday, discussed your testimony, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you shown any documents by Mr. Sneddon to help you prepare for your testimony?

A. No.

Q. At any time did any representative of the government send you documents to review to prepare you for your testimony?

A. They -- take out the prepare me for my -- they did send me my grand jury transcript.

Q. And did you review that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. When did you review it?

A. Within the last week or ten days. Two weeks. Something like that. I mean, at some point when I got it, I read it.

Q. When did you last talk to Stanley Katz?

A. He called me when he left here from testifying on the way home.

Q. Did you talk to him before that?

A. He called me while he was waiting up -- well, I don't know where he was waiting, but he was waiting to testify, and he called me. Or I think he called me. He called me -- Dickerman called me and he had a cell phone. They were both in some room together. And I said, "Is Katz with you?" And he said, "Yes." And he had previously called me, and so I returned his call after I got done talking to Dickerman.

Q. Let me just get this straight. You talked to Mr. Katz?

A. Doctor. Doctor.

Q. You talked to Dr. Katz after he testified here, right?

A. After he testified, he called me on the way back to L.A.

Q. You talked to him as he was waiting to testify, correct?

A. I talked to him while he was waiting to testify.

Q. You talked to Mr. Dickerman as he was waiting to testify, correct?

A. I talked to Mr. Dickerman while he was waiting to testify.

Q. Did you talk to Mr. Katz before he came here to testify?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. I can’t tell you the day. I can tell you that he called me and wanted to come to my office and meet with me.

Q. Did you --

A. I can’t remember when it was. It was sometime during the -- this trial. I can’t picture exactly when it was.

Q. Did you talk to Mr. Dickerman before he came here to testify?

A. No, I don’t think so. You don’t mean ever. You mean -- I mean, I talked to Dickerman a lot at one point, and then we really haven’t had contact. And then we had contact that day, the day while he was here, and that’s about it, that I remember. I mean, I can’t swear we didn’t have a minute conversation at some point.

Q. So Stanley Katz wanted to come to your office to talk about this case?

A. Yes.

Q. And approximately when did he make that request?

A. Within the last couple of weeks. Maybe a month. It’s between two weeks and a month.

Q. To your knowledge, has Stanley Katz ever met with Bill Dickerman, other than the fact they were in the same room waiting to testify and both spoke to you on the phone at essentially the same time?

A. Well, Katz came to see me to tell me that he --

Q. I’m not asking you what he said. Just --

A. No, let me just -- let me think to myself. When he came to visit me after the first meeting he had with the family -- I think he had two meetings with the family, but I won’t even swear to that. But I think he did. But -- and maybe he had more. But in between one of these meetings that he had with the family where he was interviewing, he came to see me, Dr. Katz, and it is possible that Dickerman was in that meeting. It is possible he wasn't in that meeting. I don't know. And that would be the only time that I can think of that they possibly could have been together.

Q. When did that meeting occur?

A. Do you mean the day?

Q. Not the specific day. Just roughly.

A. That meeting happened -- if I knew the day I went to the Department of Children Services, which has got to be -- if you tell me that this lieutenant called me on the 13th, I would guess I went to Children Services around the 12th of June. 11th, 12th of June. So that would mean that that meeting happened before then, and after, say, June 1st. So, in that time frame.

Q. Is it your understanding that other than interviewing members of the Arvizo family, Dr. Katz did not pursue any other independent investigation?

A. That's all -- that's all I know he did.

Q. Okay. To your knowledge, are you related to anyone who has referred patients to Dr. Katz?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Okay. You don't know of any --

A. That referred patients to Dr. Katz?

Q. Anyone who you are related to by marriage that referred patients to Dr. Katz.

A. Oh, my wife. I'm married to my wife, and I think she used Dr. Katz. She headed up a law firm that defended children, and represented tens of thousands of children, and I think they, from time to time, might have used Dr. Katz. I don't know if she did or didn't. I mean, she certainly --

Q. But you think she did?

A. Yeah. I mean, I know at times in her life she did. She's the one that introduced me to Dr. Katz in 1987, so she was a fan of Dr. Katz.

Q. And it was your understanding they had some kind of business relationship, but you don't know what it is, right?

A. My wife and Dr. Katz? Well, they didn't have a business relationship. She would refer clients. She defended people accused of abuse. She represented children against their parents when parents were abusing them. And she headed up a public interest law firm, and she would use Dr. Katz, and --

Q. Okay.

A. -- hopefully it was totally business.

(Laughter.)

Q. Did you ever learn that Dr. Katz was secretly recorded by the Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department in a phone conversation?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you learn about that?

A. He told me.

Q. Did he tell you that on a number of occasions he referred to "the lawsuit" in discussing the Arvizos?

MR. SNEDDON: This is hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Did he --

THE COURT: Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: I just got to ask him, did he tell me what about that?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: That in that secretly recorded conversation with a sheriff's representative, he, on a number of occasions in discussing the Arvizos, referred to "the lawsuit"?

A. Did he tell the sheriff that, or did he tell the Arvizos that?

Q. The sheriffs that.

A. Oh. I don't know.

Q. You don't know about that?

A. I don't know one way or the other about that.

Q. But he told you he was secretly recorded, right?

A. He told me that he was secretly recorded by the sheriffs, yes.

Q. All right. To your knowledge, have you ever been secretly recorded in this case?
A. I hope not.
THE COURT: You need to speak closer to the microphone.
THE WITNESS: I hope not. I don’t know of any recordings, no.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you have any knowledge, other than what Mr. Katz told you, about the sheriffs secretly recording people in phone conversations in this investigation?
A. No, I really don’t. I just know he said he was recorded. I know it was secret. He didn’t know about it, so I guess it was a secret from him.
Q. How long, in your mind, did you represent the Arvizos?
A. Boy, that’s the toughest question you’ve asked. I can tell you I represented them from May to the time I referred it to the police, or referred it to Mr. Sneddon and the police took over. And I had no contact, the best that I can recall, with the Arvizos, and that ultimately culminated in a letter from me to them terminating my relationship with them. I didn’t want any responsibility. I didn’t -- and I didn’t talk to them again until after the news hit of the search of Neverland and the pending arrest of Mr. Jackson. And it was sometime after that that I heard from them again. But up -- so from my perspective, I terminated our relationship legally, as a lawyer should do, in writing, telling them they could do what they want, “But don’t look to me to represent you.”

Q. And if you chose to in the future, Mr. Feldman, nothing would prevent you from representing them again, correct?
A. If I wanted to?
Q. Yes.
A. If I wanted to, nothing.
Q. Now, have you represented Mr. Jay Jackson in your legal work?
A. Well, only to the extent as I -- he has talked to me about issues of you guys trying to get into --

Q. Objection.

I’m not asking you what he’s talked to you about. I’m just asking, have you represented Jay Jackson as a lawyer?

A. Well, when you say “represented,” he has called me in my capacity as a lawyer, and I have given him advice as a lawyer.

Q. And approximately when did you give Jay Jackson advice as a lawyer?

A. Well, I don’t know. Let’s see. After they got married, which I don’t remember when, but it was after they got married. And it was -- you would know better. It was in connection with a search warrant. Or, not a search warrant. A subpoena you served on his military records, and that’s the only time that I think I can remember talking to him.

Q. Well, you certainly were advising him as a lawyer as of approximately November 15th, 2004, correct?

A. I don’t know the date. I just --

Q. Well, your firm, in a legal proceeding in this case, took the position that a fax from Jay Jackson to you dated November 15th, 2004, was confidential, right?

A. If Jay Jackson communicates with me, it’s in the attorney-client. That’s what I said. And everything he told me is privileged, just like any other lawyer.

Q. Do you know whether or not your law firm has taken a position in this case that a fax from Jay Jackson to you of November 15th, 2004, is confidential and privileged?

A. Well, I hope so, since it is.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object.

THE COURT: Sustained. You’re not allowed to go into attorney-client privilege without my permission.

MR. MESEREAU: I’m not going into it, Your Honor. Just their position.

THE COURT: Well, even claiming the privilege is improper, to raise it in front of the jury. We’ve gone over this before.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You have represented the parents of Janet Arvizo in this case, correct?

A. Her parents.

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. You represented them in an attempt to prevent us from seeing if she deposited money into her parents’ account, true?

A. I prevented you from getting into their -- these parents’ bank records.

Q. Correct.

A. That’s right.

Q. And in doing that, sir, you tried to prevent us from seeing, if Janet got checks or David Arvizo got checks, whether they deposited them into her parents’ account?

A. No, Mr. Mesereau, I prevented you from dragging in these poor parents, who don’t even speak English, into this melee.

Q. Do you know --

A. That’s all I tried to do. I don’t know anything about Janet doing anything. I’m only telling you -- you asked me what I did. That’s what I tried to do is prevent them from getting dragged in. If you look at your subpoena, it’s pretty broad.

Q. Sir, you can’t prevent the parents from being subpoenaed as witnesses in this case, can you?

A. No.

Q. And you haven’t even tried to do that.

A. And I wouldn’t.

Q. The only thing you tried to do was stop us from seeing whether Janet put money into her parents’ account?

MR. SNEDDON: I object as argumentative.

THE WITNESS: That’s not true.

THE COURT: Just a minute.

There's a lot of law and motion in this case that took place outside the presence of the jury, and there's various legal reasons why things were done, and I did them. And it's improper for you to be attacking a witness on that issue.

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, Your Honor. I will -- I withdraw the question.

May I just ask about the scope of his representation, just when he did it, when he represented the parents? Not scope, Your Honor. The dates of it.

THE COURT: I'm not sure if that's a privileged matter or not. That's why I'm concerned.

MR. MESEREAU: It would have to do with statements he's made before, Your Honor, about representing the Arvizos. I'm just trying to find out roughly when he represented the parents.

THE COURT: No. I don't see any relevancy.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Your Honor, may I ask if he still does?

THE COURT: No. I don't see any relevance to --

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

THE COURT: -- to people he represents, when he represented them. If I'm missing something, you can approach the bench. I'm, you know, trying to see from this standpoint what the relevancy could be, but I can't see it.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: (To the jury) Okay. You can talk.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

THE COURT: All right. After reviewing with Mr. Mesereau his reason, I'm going to allow a question that I didn't a moment ago.

You may ask it.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Feldman, during what approximate period of time did you represent the parents of Janet Arvizo in this case?

A. I can't give you the date. The event was when they were served with a subpoena, their bank got served with a subpoena to get all of their checks and all of their financial records. And whenever you served that subpoena, that is when I represented them.

Q. Do you currently, as far as you’re concerned, represent either of the parents of Janet Arvizo?

A. I do not represent either of the parents of Janet Arvizo, as far as I’m concerned.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a pleading just so you can identify a time that you were representing the parents?

A. Sure. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: Would that be all right, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

Q. Mr. Feldman, have you had a chance to review that document?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And does it refresh your recollection about the period of time during which you represented David and Maria Ventura, the parents of Janet?

A. Approximately.

Q. And approximately what was the period during which you represented and your firm represented David and Maria Ventura?

A. Approximately the end of December of 2004 to January 2005. Three, four weeks.

Q. That would be till approximately what, January 14th?

A. I thought that’s the date of the hearing that we had, yes.

Q. Okay. And after that hearing, did your representation cease as far as you’re concerned?

A. Yes. It was just for that limited purpose on that subpoena.

Q. Okay. How many meetings do you think you’ve had with Mr. Sneddon about this criminal case?

A. And I'm going to interpret "meetings" face to face. Is that what we're talking about?

Q. Let's start with that.

A. I would say three, four, maybe five at the most, including yesterday.

Q. And how many times do you think you've spoken on the telephone with Prosecutor Sneddon about this criminal case?

A. Well, I don't know. Maybe -- at least two or three times I've been scheduled to come, and he's called me to tell me I'm not coming. So that's three.

We haven't had a lot of phone calls. I can't -- frankly, I called him when I called him to say, "Here's the case. Do what you want with it." And maybe -- I don't know. You know, five, six. Something. Not a lot. I mean, I don't know, something like that.

Q. How many times do you think you met with Mr. Sneddon regarding your representation of Mr. Chandler in 1993?

A. I don't know if I ever met with him in '93. With Mr. Sneddon?

Q. Yes.

A. '93 I was on my own, without -- I was handling --

Q. You certainly spoke to him.

A. I was handling the case. I'm sure I spoke with him, but I don't think I ever met with him. Maybe I did. I could have. I just can't remember, Mr. Mesereau. It's so long ago. I mean, that's 12 years ago. I just don't -- I just don't have an independent memory of whether I did or didn't. Because the case was also in L.A., and, you know, I was dealing with the L.A. lawyers, criminal lawyers.

Q. Would it be accurate to say that you at least talked to Mr. Sneddon a number of times in 1993 about your representation of Mr. Chandler?

A. You know, not Mr. -- "Mr. Chandler" now is little Jordie, who's now a Mister, or is it his father we're talking about? When you say "Mr. Chandler," Jordie? Who are we talking about?

Q. Any of them.

A. You know, I don't think -- it could have happened. I can't deny it. I just have no recollection of it one way or the other. I don't remember having many -- any real discussions with Mr. Sneddon on the case.

Q. Do you remember meeting with any other prosecutor besides Mr. Sneddon at any time regarding this current case?

A. Yes.

Q. And who would that be?

A. Mr. Zonen.

Q. How many times do you think you've met with Mr. Zonen about this case?

A. A couple maybe. Maybe. I don't remember. You know, I can remember one. I've seen him, though. I mean, this isn't just the second time I've seen him, so it must have been more, but I just -- nothing stands out in my mind about meeting with him.

Q. Have you had phone conversations with Prosecutor Zonen about this case?

A. Yes.

Q. Approximately how many do you think?

A. A few.

Q. Have you had any other meetings with any other prosecutor on this case besides Prosecutor Sneddon and Prosecutor Zonen?

A. Some prosecutor that -- my records got subpoenaed to the court, and somebody -- some prosecutor, said he was a prosecutor, called me about it, whether I had filed the documents or didn't file the documents. I mean, I can remember that kind of stuff.

Q. Have you had any meetings with representatives of the sheriff's department involving this case?

A. I'll answer that in a second. I just want to go back to something that just --

Q. Sure.

A. There was a real issue in this case before it ever got to trial. I didn't want to do anything, and there was an issue -- so I do think I talked to Mr. Zonen more about, "Why don't you do the objecting and leave me out of this. My law firm doesn't want to do this, I don't want to do this," and he couldn't represent the victims, so that's how I -- so before I ever acted, I wanted the D.A. to do all the legal work. Not me.

Q. I understand. And that saved you a lot of money, correct?

A. Pardon me?

Q. That could save you a lot of money in the future?

A. It would save me lot of aggravation and energy, I could tell you that. Not "in the future." Period. I didn't want to do it. I'm not representing these people, so -- but, you know, so I would talk to Mr. Zonen. I want to just amend that, because I would talk to him, and he would say he can't do that, and I'd wind up either doing it or not doing it. So there were those kind of conversations.

Now, back to the sheriffs. Who did I talk to? This lieutenant, I guess, called me. I talked to him. When I went to the grand jury, there was somebody who, you know, brought me up here on the freeway and drove me up here to -- or I followed through some parking lot to get to where the secret grand jury was, so somebody talked to me while I was sitting around waiting, those kind of things.

But no sheriff has ever interviewed me. No police officer, to my knowledge, has ever come down and interviewed me or anything.

Q. How many meetings with any representative of the sheriff's department do you think you've had in this case?

A. Meetings other than getting me here, logistics kind of things?

Q. Sure.

A. None, I don’t think.
Q. You’ve never been interviewed by any sheriffs in this case?
A. If I was, I don’t remember it.
Q. How many phone conversations do you think you’ve had with any sheriff in this case?
A. I mean, I don’t know who are the sheriffs and who are the police.
Q. How about the name “Klapakis”?
A. Well, he -- obviously you showed me something that says he called me. But in deference to the lieutenant, I wouldn’t have remembered that. But you did show me that, so he obviously called me. But that’s about it. I don’t -- They -- the police cut me out of this case the minute I gave it to them. They -- in fact, that’s why we severed our relationship. I severed the relationship. I was out of this.
Q. Do you remember you were interviewed on January 16th, 2004, on the NBC Today Show by Matt Lauer?
A. I went on The Today Show and Matt Lauer interviewed me.
Q. Do you remember that?
A. And if -- that’s right before the gag order was issued. I don’t remember the date that the gag order was issued, but it was right about that time.

Q. Remember you were asked by Mr. Lauer if you were going to join Mr. Sneddon on the prosecution team, and you said, “I have no comment”?
A. I did. I did.
Q. Other than your grand jury transcripts, have you reviewed any other documents to prepare for your testimony today?
A. No.
Q. Now, you have represented Gavin Arvizo in other proceedings in Los Angeles other than what you have identified, correct?
A. I have?
Q. Yes.
A. Gavin Arvizo?
Q. Yes.

A. What is that? No.

Q. Have you ever represented Gavin Arvizo in an attempt to stop his juvenile records from being produced?

A. No. I mean, I wrote a letter, I think. No, not on Gavin. Not that I know of. I didn't even know he had a juvenile record.

Q. Well, my question is, have you or your firm ever written to Judge Nash in Los Angeles?

A. Oh, that's a different story. That's not his juvenile records.

Q. Why don't you explain.

A. That's his Department of Children's Services records. Yes. I wrote to Judge Nash, who heads up that department, and said that those records should remain confidential, because they are confidential under the law. And that children ought to be able to go to the Department of Children's Services and tell whatever they want to tell and it ought not be used in any public forum.

Q. When did you represent --

A. Whenever somebody was trying to get them.

Q. And over what period of time was this, do you think?

A. How long you were trying to get them?

Q. I'm just asking -- let me rephrase the question. Over what period of time do you think you represented any of the Arvizo children in that particular area?

A. From the moment I found out the -- Judge Nash wrote to me and said they were trying to get -- I don't want to get this confused, because also my recollection is they were trying to get Jordie's records.

And I got a letter from Judge Nash. I didn't solicit it. He wrote to me and wanted to know whether or not on behalf of these children, it was either you -- maybe it was the press. I don't remember who wanted to get these records. Somebody wanted to get these confidential records.

And I wrote on behalf of Jordie and I wrote on behalf of Arvizos probably, that we did object. We -- that’s what we did. We didn’t have a hearing or anything. But, I mean --

Q. You also wrote on behalf of Gavin, Star, and Davellin to prevent release of juvenile court records, true?

A. Do you mean criminal records, like juvenile criminal?

Q. Juvenile court records. Yes or no, sir?

A. Well, I don’t know what you mean by it, so I can’t answer it yes or no. I just told you what I remember. It was the Department of Children’s Services. I don’t even know that Gavin had -- I mean, I can’t help you, because --

MR. SNEDDON: Unless counsel is going to produce something to show in good faith that he’s asking that question, I object to the question and ask that the question and the answer be stricken.

MR. MESEREAU: I have some correspondence that I was going to try to refresh the recollection of the witness, Your Honor.

But I can move on, if the Court wants me.

THE COURT: The question’s ambiguous, since the juvenile court covers several jurisdictions.

MR. SNEDDON: Does that mean my motion is granted, then, Your Honor, to strike?

THE COURT: Strike his answer?

MR. SNEDDON: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: No.

Go ahead. Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Feldman, have you represented Gavin, Star and Davellin Arvizo in proceedings in the Juvenile Division of the Superior Court of Los Angeles when representatives of the media tried to obtain any juvenile court records they might have?

A. Well, you keep saying -- I don’t know that they have any criminal juvenile court. That’s what I think about the juvenile court, as a criminal court for juveniles. I -- to my knowledge, I never heard of this, to this second, that there was -- I did represent them in the Department -- in the dependency court in the County of Los Angeles. And in that, I objected to the media, to you, or anyone else, ever seeing those records. Yes. They’re supposed to be confidential. Now, I don’t know what happened.

Q. Now, would it refresh your recollection on this issue if I show you a letter to you from the Superior Court, Juvenile Division, Los Angeles?

A. Yes. Judge Nash?

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: I don’t know if it will refresh my recollection, but I’ll try.

Yeah, but it’s -- no, let me see. Let me see.

Yeah, yeah. I’m right. It’s just what I told you. Judge Nash is the supervising judge --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Feldman, let me just -- please.

A. Oh.

Q. Have you had a chance to look at that letter?

A. I have. I have. And it’s exactly what I’ve said.

Q. Is it a letter to you of February 5th, 2004 --

A. I didn’t look at the date.

Q. -- Re In the Matter of Gavin, Star, and Davellin Arvizo,” from Terry Tran, Research Attorney, from the Office of the Presiding Judge --

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to counsel reading this. The question is does it refresh his recollection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to review the letter?

A. I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about whether or not you represented the Arvizo children on that issue?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as vague.

THE WITNESS: What’s --

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Feldman, does that letter refresh your recollection about whether or not you ever represented Gavin, Star or Davellin Arvizo on the issue of whether or not any juvenile records should be disclosed from the L.A. Superior Court?

A. Sir, I am going to tell you that does refresh my recollection, and it says exactly what I just told you. The news media was trying to get their records from dependency court. Judge Nash is the head of the whole juvenile system for Los Angeles at that time. He was the presiding judge. He asked me if I objected, and I did object, and I do object, and I will always object for these child dependency records to ever leave that courthouse, because children are supposed to be able to go there and be protected, not have to worry about the media or you, or anybody else attacking those children.

Q. You did represent them on that issue, true?

A. That’s true.

Q. Thank you.

Do you know how long you represented the Arvizo children on that issue?

A. Oh, you know, I got a lot of letters on that. It wasn’t just one. So you showed me one. What was the date? You said February ‘05? But if you asked me, I would have said I got one before that, frankly.

Q. February 5th, 2004.

A. Oh, ‘04. That would be more likely.

And over the period of time -- I mean, I know Judge Nash, and so over time I think they had written me letters, like I said, on behalf of the Arvizos and on behalf of the Chandlers asking for whether we objected to him releasing it to the media. I think there’s a procedure that they have to do that. But I may be wrong on that. This is not my field.

Q. You told the jury that at some point you personally contacted the Los Angeles Department of Children & Family Services regarding this particular matter, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you did that with Stanley Katz, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. To your knowledge, was Mr. Dickerman involved in that approach?

A. Did Dickerman go with us, was that the -- I don’t know what you mean.

Q. We’ll start with that. Did Dickerman go with you?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Did Dickerman discuss it with you?

A. I am sure that -- I mean, I didn’t just do this, because when you do this, there could be serious ramifications for the family.

Q. I’m just asking you, sir, to answer the question.

A. Well, I’m trying to remember.

Q. Did Mr. Dickerman participate with you in any event?

A. He didn’t go with me, I can tell you that. Whether or not I ever discussed it with him, I thought --

Q. Pardon me?

A. I mean, that’s hard to remember. I certainly should have. I mean, in the normal course, I should have told him that this was what I was going to do, and this is what I thought might or possibly could happen. I mean, because I had to tell the parents what was happening, or the mother.

Q. Do you have any knowledge of the case Janet filed against J.C. Penney?

A. Just what I read.

Q. Have you ever been in contact with any lawyers for Janet Arvizo who represented her in the J.C. Penney matter?

A. Well, when you say “contact,” yeah, I tried to --

MR. SNEDDON: Excuse me, I’m going to object as immaterial.

THE COURT: Just a minute.

Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember ever meeting someone named Jamie Masada in your office?

A. I remember Mr. Masada coming to my office for the first meeting and me not letting him in my office. That's --

Q. Did he remain in the lobby, to your knowledge?

A. He did. I wouldn't let him in.

Q. Was it your understanding that he had transported the Arvizos to your office?

A. I don't know how they got to my office, but he was there with Mr. Dickerman, and I wasn't letting him in.

Q. You weren't letting him in because it could affect the attorney-client privilege, right?

A. That's right.

Q. Explain that, if the members of the jury don't know, what you meant.

A. Sure.

Q. Why don't you explain that.

A. Give me break, huh?

The privilege is sacrosanct. If you tell me something as a lawyer, I can never tell anybody what you've told me. If I have a third party in that room with me, then that privilege, there is no privilege. It no longer remains confidential. So good lawyers will never let somebody other than the client in their office to talk to them because you lose the privilege if they want to tell you something.

The exception to that, sort of, is with children, because children have to act through a guardian, so you'd have their parents in with you. But generally that's what it is.

Mr. Masada wanted to, because I think he was a friend of theirs is what I gathered at the time, wanted to be there to give them moral support or whatever, and it wasn't going to happen on my watch. And I said that he could not come in, and he accepted that, and I guess he sat out there. I can't frankly -- I don't remember Mr. Masada, other than that.

Q. All right. Have you talked to him on the phone at any time?

A. Masada?

Q. Yes.

A. Not that I know of. I don't think I did.

Q. Okay. Was it your understanding he was a friend of the Arvizos when you met him?

A. You know, I didn't know if he was a friend of theirs, or a friend of Dickerman's, or a friend of both. I frankly didn't quite get where he fit in all this at that point. I knew he was a friend of Dickerman's, and I just couldn't -- I didn't know really.

Q. Okay. Who contacted you about testifying before the grand jury?

A. I guess Mr. Sneddon. Either Mr. Sneddon or Mr. Zonen. One of them.

Q. Before you testified to the grand jury, did you discuss your testimony with Prosecutor Sneddon?

A. Let's see. That's a good question. I mean, I can tell you nobody -- I just -- not that day, that's for sure. I mean, I don't -- I don't really remember that, frankly. I know I didn't that day. I just sat down in some room, and they called me in and they asked me questions.

Q. Did you discuss your testimony that you gave before the grand jury with anyone associated with the prosecution before you gave it?

A. I should know that. I don't remember that. I mean, I don't remember it, frankly. They may have called me at some time on the phone, but there wasn't any in-depth conversation about this, that I can remember, in anticipation of my testimony.

Q. Did anyone ever tell you what questions they were going to ask you in the grand jury room?

A. No.

Q. No one ever even came close to the subject?

A. The subject came up about the privilege, and I was very concerned about the privilege, and that I remember talking to somebody about.

Q. Well, you took the position it was waived in that proceeding, didn't you?

A. I didn't take the position. The prosecution took the position it was waived. And it was. But I was concerned long before it got waived when I was told that I might go -- that they wanted me.

I like being a lawyer, Mr. Mesereau. I don't like being a witness. You might understand that. And I'm much more comfortable where you are than where I am right now.

And so when -- when it was approached that I was going to become a witness and testify, I was concerned about the privilege, and I wasn't about to testify unless there was a written waiver by the children and the Arvizo -- Miss Arvizo, if they were planning on asking me what she said to me, and where we are, and what I did, and why I did it. And they obtained a written waiver.

Q. We can move on from that subject.

A. Okay.

Q. In May of 2004, you represented Janet Arvizo in an attempt to stop NBC from obtaining West Covina Police Department records, correct, of Janet?

A. Yes. I sent them a letter, I mean, saying she objected to it.

Q. Did you do anything besides send a letter?

A. We certainly -- to my recollection, we didn't file anything. I think we sent a letter.

They said, "If you object" -- they sent a letter. I think the police sent a letter or something, said they were going to release it, if you object or don't object. So we objected, because she didn't want her picture -- it was about her picture, the mug shot of her picture going on television. She was worried about.

And we got assurance that nobody was going to do that, put her picture on television, since she -- her privacy was being invaded already. And so we -- once we got assurance that wasn't going to happen, I think that's what we did. So we objected, and I think the lawyers for the media gave us that assurance that nobody would do that, or something. That's what the concern was.

Q. When you filed your claim against Los Angeles County --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on behalf of Janet Arvizo, Star Arvizo, Gavin Arvizo, and Davellin Arvizo, where did you file it?

A. The County of Los Angeles.

Q. Did you have any further correspondence with them after you filed it?

A. With the county?

Q. Yes.

A. Yeah. I think so. We wanted them to investigate and they weren't investigating how this thing got leaked, and -- so I had several letters back and forth with Mr. Saunders, and then when we filed the claim, some claims adjuster for the county I think sent a letter.

Q. Now, Mr. Feldman, you previously told the jury that you don't have knowledge of the J.C. Penney case, correct?

A. No, I didn't say that. How could I not? It was all over the news. I mean, I hear it every day. I mean, I don't have any -- I mean, I didn't say that.

Q. Well, Mr. Feldman, in June of 2004, you tried to stop the release of records involving the J.C. Penney case on behalf of the Arvizos, correct?

A. We wanted the records for Janet. Mr. -- the lawyer that represented him -- them took the position we couldn't have them unless we gave them to Janet's husband. And since Janet's husband was having a love affair with the media at that time, and he was on television every day, we weren't going to let those records go out to him because we thought he would use them against her. And so we were trying to get the records, and we never got them.

Q. But you tried to stop the City of West Covina from releasing arrest records of Janet in that case?

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object as asked and answered.

THE WITNESS: It was the picture. It was the picture.

THE COURT: Objection sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Let me just take a second, Your Honor, just to look at my notes.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Feldman, do you remember telling two individuals, Michael Viner and Larry King, that Janet is making up these allegations?

A. Absolutely not. Are you kidding?

Q. Do you remember meeting with those two individuals at The Grill in Beverly Hills?

A. No. Never met with them.

Q. Do you know who Michael Viner is?

A. I couldn't pick him out. I know who he is. I think the answer is I wouldn't know him if he was sitting in the jury box. But I know who he is by name. He's -- he's a publisher or something, or a writer, or -- I don't know. Viner Books, right? Something like that.

I certainly know who Larry King is.

Q. You did have a meeting with him and Larry King, right?

A. I have never had a meeting with Michael Viner in my life.

Q. So approximately nine months ago, you didn't meet with Mr. King and Mr. Viner, correct?

A. I absolutely have never had a meeting with Michael Viner in my life.

Q. Okay. And did you ever tell Larry King that these allegations against Mr. Jackson are false?

A. Absolutely not.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions.

THE WITNESS: I don’t even know.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
THE WITNESS: The proverbial answer.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. SNEDDON:
Q. Mr. Feldman, let’s go back to the -- and clarify something, if we can.
You were involved at one time in the dependency court involving a case where there was a baby who was alleged to have been abused; is that correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And was the abuse, the nature of the abuse in that case sexual or physical?
A. Physical.
Q. And how old was this baby?
A. 13 months or -- 12 months or 13 months. It was an infant.
Q. And this was in the dependency court, correct?
A. This was in the dependency court. These parents had just adopted this child, and the County of Los Angeles was trying to take the child away from these parents.

Q. So the lawsuit involved the County of Los Angeles and the individuals who were accused, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You indicated to the Court and to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury that at some point you did represent, to oppose a subpoena duces tecum the parents of the Arvizos, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And what exactly was the objection that you had to that?
A. It was invading their privacy, two grandparents of this little boy, who all of a sudden the defense wants to get all of their financial records, every check they’ve ever written, every bank account they’ve ever done business in.
Q. Was there --

A. I thought it was overly broad and unfair to these grandparents, since I'm one myself, to get dragged into this thing.

Q. Did the scope of the records that were requested go far beyond the time frame of the events involved in this case?

A. I thought it was the most overbroad, overreaching thing, and we objected and brought it to the Court, to Judge Melville's attention. And frankly, I don't recall what the Judge ruled, but that's what we did.

Q. Okay. I want to go back to the Jordan Chandler versus Michael Jackson lawsuit, if we can for a moment.

A. Sure.

Q. I want to go to that point in time where the case has been settled, it's been resolved, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall having a meeting after the case had been resolved and settled in favor of your client, with members or representatives of the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office and the Santa Barbara District Attorney's Office in your office?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Well, it's leading. I'll sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Do you recall whether or not you ever had a meeting with representatives of the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office and the Santa Barbara District Attorney's Office in your office after the case had been resolved in favor of your client?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and beyond the scope; no foundation.

THE COURT: It's the same question. Maybe we just ought to call it refreshing his memory.

MR. SNEDDON: I said "whether or not," Your Honor. That doesn't make it leading.

THE COURT: All right. I was trying to be humorous.

MR. SNEDDON: Oh, I guess I lost my humor this morning. You were trying to read my mind once before.

THE COURT: Let’s take a break.

(Recess taken.)

MR. SNEDDON: Judge, I think I can rephrase the question so we can move on. If that’s okay with the Court.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Mr. Feldman, I’d like to direct your attention to that point in time after you had resolved the case of Chandler versus Jackson, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall at any point having a discussion with representatives of any District Attorney’s Office with regard to your client, Jordan Chandler, appearing before a grand jury?

A. Vaguely, yes. Vaguely, yes.

Q. Do you recall -- do you recall the substance of that conversation?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; relevance; and beyond the scope.

THE WITNESS: This is --

THE COURT: You may answer “yes” or “no.”

THE WITNESS: I mean, I can’t --

THE COURT: “Yes” or “no.”

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: You have to lean into the microphone.

A. Oh.

THE COURT: Do you want the question?

THE WITNESS: Well, yes, and no, Your Honor. I mean, I remember the substance.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Okay. To your knowledge, after the case of Chandler versus Jackson was resolved, did your client, Jordan Chandler, ever appear before a grand jury?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: To my knowledge, he never appeared before a grand jury.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Now, you were asked by -- just before Mr. Mesereau finished his examination, about a purported conversation between you and Mr. King and Mr. Viner, or Veener?

A. Viner.

Q. Viner?

A. Viner is what he said.

Q. Yes. And do you recall any such meeting?

A. I never met with Mr. Viner. I did once meet with Mr. King. I do remember meeting with Mr. King, but I can tell you there wasn't a meeting with Viner.

Q. Were there other people present?

A. Well, we were in the delicatessen in Beverly Hills, so there were a lot of other people around.

Q. Where -- were you having breakfast, lunch, dinner? You were in a deli, I assume you were eating.

A. I was having breakfast with his -- with a producer from their show, who --

Q. Whose show?

A. Larry King's show, and he was sitting at a table, like over here, with --

Q. Indicating to your right?

A. Right. With six of his pals that he had breakfast with.

Q. And were you with somebody else?

A. Yes.

Q. Who were you with?

A. I was with his producer.

Q. Who is?

A. Whose name was, or is, Nancy Baker, I think her name was.

Q. Is that the only time you ever recall being in any kind of close proximity with Mr. Viner?

A. Well, I'm not even sure he was one of these guys. I didn't have any discussion with any of those guys about anything, I can tell you. They were trying to get me to come on their show. That’s all we ever possibly talked about, is -- I knew Mr. King. I’ve run into him since this, I mean, at different events.

Q. By “Mr. King,” you’re talking about Larry King?

A. Right.

Q. The guy’s on --

A. We say hello to each other. We see each other. Talk to each other. Never having talked about this case, and they did want me to come on their program. I mean, I do remember them talking to me about that.

But I can tell you that I didn’t tell them, and I didn’t tell anybody else, anything about what anybody tells me, because it is absolutely privileged, and it would be absolutely improper. And if anybody says that, that person is lying. Can’t make it clearer than that.

Q. Let me just ask you a couple other questions, or at least one other question about the Chandler versus Jackson lawsuit.

You indicated in response to one of Mr. Mesereau’s questions that the defendant in that case, which would have been Mr. Jackson, were the ones who wanted the parents to share in the financial or monetary settlement of the case?

A. That’s right.

Q. Now, that seems counterintuitive. Can you explain to us why that happened?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: The reason it happened was because Mr. Jackson’s legal team wanted confidentiality. They didn’t want anybody ever talking about this. And they were concerned if, in fact, the parents weren’t getting money --

MR. MESEREAU: I’m going to object, this is nonresponsive. And move to strike.

THE WITNESS: They said this, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: And calls for speculation and it’s hearsay.

THE COURT: No, the question was, “Can you explain why that happened,” and that’s what he’s explaining. So --

THE WITNESS: They told us that they wanted the parents to get the money so that the parents would be bound by the settlement agreement, so that the parents couldn’t talk, that the parents couldn’t write a book, the parents couldn’t go -- I mean, we weren’t precluded from talking to the police. We were just -- they weren’t able to write a book. They weren’t able to go on television. They weren’t able to do anything. And they wanted the parents bound.

And it’s because of that that I brought in a retired Court of Appeal Judge to become the new guardian ad litems, because I didn’t want the parents taking anything away from the child.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Now, at the time that you were introduced to the Arvizo family, did you or were you aware of the fact that Gavin Arvizo had had cancer?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you given information about the severity of the cancer that he had?

A. Yes. Very severe. Life-threatening.

Q. And did the advice that you gave to the Arvizo family during the time that you did represent them involve considerations about Gavin’s health?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and beyond the scope; and foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, could I --

THE COURT: It’s beyond the scope.

MR. SNEDDON: Beyond the scope?

Q. Mr. Feldman, based upon -- well, let me go back and lay one foundational thing. Did you, during the course -- and I don’t obviously want you to disclose anything that was said, but as a foundational matter, during the course of the time that you did represent the Arvizo family, and Gavin

Arvizo in particular, did you have discussions with Gavin?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection as beyond the scope.

MR. SNEDDON: Well, I --

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, “Yes.” Next question.

MR. SNEDDON: All right.

Q. Based upon your conversations with Gavin and those of the family, and your experience in civil suits as a trial lawyer, as an experienced litigator, are you able to tell the ladies and gentlemen of the jury whether, in your opinion, Gavin Arvizo has any interest in pursuing a suit against Michael Jackson over these molestation charges?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; beyond the scope; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. SNEDDON: Is that a foundational thing, Your Honor, or just in total?

THE COURT: All of them. No, that’s not a proper question.

MR. SNEDDON: All right.

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you a question as to -- when he was asking you about criminal cases versus civil cases, and why in your opinion it would be foolish to go criminal first before you would go civil. Do you recall that?

A. He was saying it’s easier to go criminal than go civil. That’s what he was --

Q. And you said it was foolish?

A. Oh, I said it’s foolish?

Q. Yeah, not him.

A. Oh, I said it’s foolish. Yeah, well, if I said it or not, I think it is foolish.

Q. All right. Explain why.

A. Well, part of it is what he just said. As a lawyer, I want to control what happens. I want to protect this child. The only person that was ever going to be my client, even though they all signed a retainer, was this child, and -- Gavin, and I wanted to do what’s best for Gavin.

The District Attorney represents the People. They have to prove it by beyond a reasonable doubt. As Mr. Mesereau says, in a civil case, you only have to prove it by a preponderance of the evidence, more likely than not.

And so I would never, if it was -- if I was going to do a civil case, ever want the District Attorney, the police, any criminal case, involved with a civil case.

In a civil case -- in a criminal case defendants have Fifth Amendment rights, and they don’t have to testify. In a civil case, things are different, and I would never want to do what Mr. Mesereau said. It is almost inhumane, when you have a cancer victim, to have him go through a criminal trial, and then maybe he gets convicted, and then all of a sudden, now he’s going to do it again and spend these -- these years of his life. I wouldn’t do it. I wouldn’t be a part of doing it. And I don’t know many lawyers in this -- who practice good law would ever suggest that the District Attorney start and handle the case.

I didn’t do it in ‘93. I wouldn’t have done it in 2003. And I won’t ever do it.

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you. No further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Mr. Feldman, do you know that Gavin is not only in remission, he’s playing football?

A. I know he’s in remission. But I know that stress can impact cancer. And --

Q. But you knew he was in remission a long time ago?

A. I know -- I didn’t know where he was. He’s better today than he was when I first met Gavin. Gavin’s done wonderful physically over the last -- how long has this been? Almost two years now. He’s doing much better. If you saw him then compared to seeing him now.

Q. Have you ever been a criminal prosecutor yourself?

A. A criminal prosecutor?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Are you aware that criminal prosecutors often look to see if civil lawyers are trying to use the criminal process to win their cases for them?

A. Say that one more time.

Q. Are you aware that prosecutors often, when approached by civil lawyers, are wary to see if civil lawyers are trying to use them to win their cases for them in the criminal courts?

A. I wouldn't have any idea what they do.

Q. You're not changing what you told the jury earlier, that if you have a judgment of a criminal conviction, you can go into civil court and use it to establish liability just with the document?

A. I'm not changing what I said. If you had a criminal -- we're talking about -- no, I wouldn't change that.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. The deadly "one more question."

A. Yeah, I've heard it.

Q. You know, it's an occupational hazard.

A. Yes, I know.

Q. Let's just get back to this thing that Mr. Mesereau was just talking about, the impact of a criminal conviction.

For you, as a trial lawyer, could you explain to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury what the difference is between compensatory damages and punitive damages?

A. Yeah. In compensatory, you're trying to make a person whole. The jury assesses what is the losses. In the grownup, you know, it would be loss of income, medical bills, home care, things of that nature. And pain and suffering or emotional distress. That's what we call compensatory, and what the law says about that is the purpose is to make somebody whole.

Punitive damages are something that is on top of that. It is to punish someone who needs to be punished for bad behavior. In certain places in the law -- not in all cases. Most cases you can't get them, but in certain places under the law, sexual molestation would be one. Assault and battery would be another. Fraud, where somebody is guilty of what we call malice, or fraud, or oppression, is another. And in those, the law says you got a higher standard of care, still not as high as a criminal case, but you have to prove malice.

And in order to prove malice, you have to prove fault. And it's a different fault than the fault that's in a criminal -- because I don't know what exactly you have to prove in a criminal case, so I don't want to get too far ahead of myself here.

But it doesn't just follow that you wouldn't have to go back to starting to prove things all over again if you were to be in a civil case. And you can't tell. You know, a lot of criminal cases wind up hung juries. I mean, it's just not the way most civil lawyers do things, and --

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you. No further questions.

THE WITNESS: (To Mr. Mesereau) Well, there goes that last question, huh? If you'd raise your hand, I'd stop.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Mr. Feldman, if you're going in front of a civil jury, and you're trying to prove that the civil defendant acted with malice --

A. Yes.

Q. -- don't you think it might affect that jury if the civil defendant is a convicted felon?

A. I think it helps. Yeah. Sure.
Q. Of course it helps, doesn't it?
A. Of course it helps. But that's -- you know, you got to balance this about a kid who's got cancer and who's sick and --

Q. That's not what we're talking about, Mr. Feldman. I asked you, if you go into civil court and are trying to prove malice to get punitive damages, and the defendant is a convicted felon, you have a much easier road, don't you?
A. I -- yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.
MR. SNEDDON: I keep my word.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Call your next witness.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: People call Jesus Salas.
THE BAILIFF: He's on his way in.
THE COURT: Come to the front of the courtroom, please.
When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing. Face the clerk and raise your right hand.

JESUS SALAS
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: My name is Jesus Salas. J-e-s-u-s; Salas, S-a-l-a-s.
THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Salas.
A. Good afternoon.
Q. In the year 2003, Mr. Salas, who were you employed by?

A. I was employed by Neverland Valley Ranch.
Q. And who was your employer?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Michael Jackson?
A. Michael Jackson, yes.
Q. The man seated to my right?
A. That is correct.
Q. Mr. Salas, how long -- well, let me back up. When did you cease to work for Neverland Valley Ranch? When did you stop working there?
A. It was late June 2003.
Q. And how many years did you work at Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. 20 years.
Q. Did you work there before Mr. Jackson bought that property?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And what did you do during your years at 4613 working at Neverland Ranch? What were you employed doing?

A. I was outside on-grounds maintenance supervisor.
Q. You were a supervisor of grounds maintenance?
A. Right.
Q. And what did that involve?
A. Keeping up the place, you know, maintaining the place, and anything that -- any activities that needed to be done on the grounds.
Q. Did you have people working under you?
A. Yes.
Q. And how many?
A. I believe it was about 15 people, something like that.
Q. 15?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Who did you report to during that period of time?
A. We had a ranch manager.
Q. And at some point, did you change jobs?
A. Yes, I did.

Q. When was that?
A. It was -- I would say it was in the middle of 2002.
Q. And what job did you take up? What was your new job at that time?

A. I was assigned to be the house manager for Mr. Jackson.
Q. Was that a promotion?
A. I would say yes.
Q. Okay. More responsibility?
A. More responsibility.
Q. And what did you do as the house manager?
A. Making sure that the house was -- making sure that everything that the house needed to be done. I was just to make sure that everything was there for Mr. Jackson and his guests.
Q. And when you say “the house,” what structure or structures do you mean with specificity, specifically?
A. It was the main house and guest units, theater. Anything involved with the facilities of Mr. Jackson.
Q. How many people did you have working under you as house manager?
A. Eight people.
Q. And what were their various employments? What did they do?
A. House -- house maids and cooks.
Q. So who did you report to when you were house manager?
A. We also have a ranch manager. But I also report to Mr. Jackson.
Q. Did you report directly to Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. And whereabouts did you work? What was -- in your day-to-day life as house manager, your employment as house manager, tell me about -- give me an idea of what you would do in a given day.
A. Well, we did the various of things, you know. Making sure that the place was clean. Making sure that we had everything stocked, supplies. And making sure that the guesthouse was clean. Stuff like that. Just keeping up with the place.

Q. Did you have an office or anything of that nature?

A. Yes. There's an office in the house.

Q. And where is that located?

A. It's in the back of the house, as you first go into the main, the back door on the left side.

Q. When Mr. Jackson was on the property, how often would you have contact with him, as house manager?

A. Daily basis.

Q. More than once a day, or -- give me an idea, if you would.

A. Sometimes it was once. Sometimes it was more than that. It depends.

Q. And if Mr. Jackson wanted something done, let's say he wanted flowers in a certain place at the house, who would take care of that?

A. It was -- that responsibility, it was some other people who was in charge of the flowers.

Q. Okay. Would he -- who would he tell that he wanted the flowers in that particular place?

A. Mr. Jackson will tell anybody that he wanted to first.

Q. Okay. As far as keeping the kitchen stocked, was that one of your jobs?

A. Yes.

Q. What about alcohol on the ranch, was that your job as well, to keep alcohol stocked?

A. I had to make sure that we had what he needed or anything that needed to be in the house.

Q. Can you characterize for me what level of service Mr. Jackson expected at Neverland Ranch?

A. The best.

Q. What were your daily hours like?

A. It was pretty long hours. 7 a.m. to -- to 1:00 or 2:00 in the morning. 3:00 sometimes.

Q. Was that a normal day for you to work such long hours?

A. It was not normal. But it was a requirement that we had it -- to get things done.

Q. And can you characterize for me the expectation that Mr. Jackson had concerning the level of service?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; calls for speculation.

THE WITNESS: When you say “expectation,” could you specify it a little bit?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Just a moment.

THE COURT: Okay, he’s asked you to clarify.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You said that the services for Mr. Jackson was first class?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; misstates the evidence.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can’t recall exactly what you said. What did you say about the level of service?

A. That he expected the best.

Q. He expected the best. Okay. And if he didn’t get the best, would he let you know that?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was Mr. Jackson shy about telling somebody, an employee, that he was displeased about something?

A. Not necessarily. He would tell you the way -- he will make you understand what he wanted.

Q. Did he ever fire people?

A. Not that I’m aware of.

Q. Was he ever responsible for firing someone?

A. No.

Q. You don’t know if he ever wanted someone fired?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was anybody fired during the period of time that you worked there?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell me, was anybody fired when you worked as a house manager?

A. No, nobody.

Q. While you worked at Neverland, were you ever asked to maintain any level of secrecy about what happened at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: There’s -- there’s a procedure that when you are hired at Neverland Valley Ranch you do sign some confidentiality forms.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And when you agree to that form, what are you agreeing to?

A. To respect the policy.

Q. What is the policy?

A. Of not talking anything that you shouldn’t talk about, Neverland.

Q. Okay. Are you allowed to talk about anything that happens on Neverland off the Neverland property?

A. No, you’re not.

Q. Why did you -- why did you leave your employment at Neverland?

A. The reason I left -- it was many things involving that. And I became to the point that I say, you know, “This -- it’s time for me to move on.” There was some things that I didn’t like about how things were running there. So it was a lot of stress, and I say, “Okay, it’s time for me to move on.”

Q. Whose decision was it to leave Neverland?

A. It was my decision.

Q. When you were working at Neverland as the house manager, did you have occasion to go into Mr. Jackson’s private quarters?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Were you -- did you have occasions where you went upstairs into the bedroom area?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there any notification system that signaled Mr. Jackson when someone was coming into his room?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you describe it for me?

A. It was a doorbell as you come through the hallway. You can tell when somebody was approaching to the door.

Q. And what kind of sound did it make?

A. It’s a bell.

Q. Just a bell?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Now, as you entered Mr. Jackson’s room, tell me about the first level.

A. He had a big T.V. upstairs. There was some couches.

Q. Were there windows in that area?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they have any window coverings?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Generally speaking, would Mr. Jackson keep those -- well, let me, first of all, strike that. Let me ask you, what type of window coverings are we talking about?

A. Shutters.

Q. Shutters?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Were there any curtains?

A. No.

Q. Typically would the shutters be open, closed, or something in between? You tell me.

A. They were closed.

Q. They usually were closed?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Could people from outside see inside Mr. Jackson’s room?

A. No.

Q. Was it generally dark in there?

A. Pretty much.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; move to strike.
THE COURT: Overruled.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor?
MR. MESEREAU: May I see what counsel’s --
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes, certainly.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Mr. Salas, I show you People’s Exhibit No. 338. Can you identify that photograph for me, please?
A. Yes. That’s Gavin, Star, and the sister.
Q. Okay.
A. Davellin.
Q. Davellin?
A. Davellin.
Q. Are those the Arvizo children?
A. That is correct.
Q. I show you People’s Exhibit No. 3. Have you ever seen that individual?
A. I probably have. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. If you -- does he look at all like somebody you’ve ever seen at Neverland Ranch?
A. Yes.
Q. He does?
A. Uh-huh.

Q. But you don’t know his name?
A. No. I don’t remember his name.
Q. I show you People’s Exhibit No. 17. Do you recognize that picture?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And who is that?
A. Dieter.
Q. Dieter?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Was he a visitor at Neverland Ranch?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. I show you People’s Exhibit No. 18. Can you identify that photograph?
A. That’s Mr. Ronald.
Q. Ronald?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. This photograph is maybe not so good, but

I’ll show it to you anyway. People’s Exhibit 19. Are you able to identify that individual?

A. Yes. Can’t remember his name. Sorry.

Q. Okay. We’ll talk about him.

People’s Exhibit No. 20. Do you recognize him?

A. That’s Frank Tyson.

Q. Frank Tyson.

People’s Exhibit No. 21, I show you that. Can you recognize that?

A. That is Aldo.

Q. Aldo?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And then I have three exhibits which we haven’t introduced yet. Exhibit 46, do you recognize that photograph?

A. I do, but I don’t remember his name.

Q. People’s Exhibit 45?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you recognize that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember his name?

A. No.

Q. And People’s Exhibit 47, do you recognize that photograph?

A. Yes, I do. Don’t remember his name.

Q. All right. Good enough.

First of all, going back to 47, how do you recognize this picture? Where have you seen that face before?

A. At Neverland Valley Ranch.

Q. And have you seen this person at Neverland Valley Ranch on -- give me an idea of how many times he’s visited there.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: They can’t hear you, sir, in the back.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: How many times has this individual visited at Neverland Valley Ranch, if you know?

A. I’m not quite sure how many times. But he was there quite a few times.

Q. Quite a few times?

Did this individual associate with Mr. Jackson while he was at Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Showing you Exhibit 45, can you tell me how many times this individual was at Neverland?

A. About the same amount of times.

Q. A number of times?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he also associate with Mr. Jackson?

A. That is correct.

Q. People's Exhibit 46, same question. Was he -- how many times did he come to Neverland?

A. Same answer.

Q. Many times?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did he also associate with Mr. Jackson?

A. That's correct.

Q. Thank you.

Those last three photographs that I showed you, Mr. Salas, is there anything that these three individuals have in common?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Can you tell me, do those three individuals have anything in common concerning the area where they live?

A. They --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE WITNESS: They live in Los Olivos.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. So, let's go back to the Arvizo family. Or -- I think I'll begin with a different photograph.

Could I have the Elmo on, please, Your Honor?

All right. Showing you People's Exhibit No. 3, you previously identified that photograph as someone that you've seen at Neverland Valley Ranch; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Can you tell me approximately -- if you have seen that individual at Neverland Valley Ranch on more than one occasion.

A. I believe I have, but I’m not quite sure how many times.

Q. Okay. Can you tell me if that individual had any association with Michael Jackson while he was at Neverland Valley Ranch?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can --

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I believe they did.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

Q. Showing you Exhibit No. 20. I believe you’ve identified this as whom?

A. Frank Tyson.

Q. And how long have you known Frank Tyson?

A. I know Frank Tyson for quite a few years already.

Q. Can you give me an idea how old he was when you first met him?

A. Not quite sure how old he was, but he was pretty young.

Q. Okay. Can you estimate?

A. He was probably about 18 years, or something like that.

Q. 18 years old?

A. Something like that.

Q. When you first met him?

A. Right.

Q. Do you know how old he is now?

A. I don’t.

Q. Okay. And where did you meet him?

A. At Neverland Valley Ranch.

Q. And did he associate with Mr. Jackson while he was at Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. How often?

A. I would say pretty often.

Q. Do you know what his relationship was with

Mr. Jackson?

A. Just a friend, I believe.

Q. Okay. Have you ever described him as Mr. Jackson’s right-hand man?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: At one point, yes, sir, he was.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: When was he Mr. Jackson’s right-hand man?

A. Don’t remember exactly the year that he was, but I believe it was probably around ‘90. I want to say that. Not quite sure of the year, you know.

Q. 1990?

A. Somewhere around there.

Q. So that would have been 15 years ago?

A. Something like that, I would say. Maybe less than that.

Q. How old do you think he is now?

A. I’m not sure. I don’t know. I honestly don’t know.

Q. How many years have you known him?

A. Well, I want to say it was about 15 years since the first time I met him.

Q. All right. Now, why did you characterize him as “Mr. Jackson’s right-hand man”?

A. Because at one point he came to the ranch and he is the one that was giving orders as to what to do around the property.

Q. When he was there in 2003 -- well, let me back up. Was Frank Tyson on the ranch in 2003?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And when he was there in 2003, did he also give orders as to what should go on at the ranch?

A. No.

Q. Didn’t he also give you some orders, Mr. Salas?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That’s impeachment.

MR. MESEREAU: Misstates the evidence. It’s asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes, he did. I mean, he did, but not the same orders as when he was the first time. This was more like for Mr. Jackson.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: More like he was giving you orders for Mr. Jackson; is that what you’re saying?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike. The prosecutor didn’t let him finish his answer. And that’s leading.

THE COURT: Actually, he’s just repeating what the witness said. Would you phrase a new question, please?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes. Thank you.

Q. Why do you say that he was giving you orders for Mr. Jackson?

A. Because many times, if things that needed to be done, or anything that need -- to Mr. Jackson to be notified, he would said, “I will take care of that.” So that’s how I realized that he was also giving orders.

Q. Did you ever see Mr. Jackson give Frank Tyson orders or --

A. No, no, I didn’t.

Q. And did Mr. Jackson spend time with Frank Tyson in 2003?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you characterize how often they would spend time together when they were at the ranch?

A. I would say, I don’t know, about once a day or something like that. All depends.

Q. Once a day they would get together?

A. On occasions. Not always, okay?

Q. I’m just asking you for what you saw.

A. Right.

Q. Okay. So when you’d see them get together during the day, can you tell me, whereabouts would they meet on the ranch? Where would you see them?

A. Many times it was in his office. Many times it was in the video library. Not in the video library. The library at the house.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. Sometimes in Mr. Jackson’s room.

Q. When you say “his office,” do you mean Mr. Jackson’s office?

A. Mr. Jackson’s office, yes.

Q. Can you tell me, how would you characterize their relationship, based upon what you saw, the years of seeing them together?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer. Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: Yes. Go ahead and ask the question again, please.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: My question is, how would you character -- how would you describe their relationship, based on all the years that you saw Mr. Tyson and Mr. Jackson associating with one another?

A. I would say that it was some friend relationship, bonded together.

Q. How would you characterize it in terms of closeness?

A. What do you mean by that?

Q. Well, were they close friends or distant friends? You know what I mean, I think.

A. No, I think at one point they were pretty close friends.

Q. Did they still appear to be friends in 2003?

A. Not really.

Q. Not really?

A. No.

Q. Well, Mr. Tyson was a guest in 2003, wasn’t he?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And he was -- did Mr. Jackson allow guests on the ranch when he didn’t want them there?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading question.
THE COURT: It’s argumentative.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Jackson allowed anybody on the ranch who he was not friends with?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If Mr. Jackson did not want somebody on the ranch, would he keep them out?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is there a security gate at Neverland Ranch?
A. Yes, there is.
Q. And does someone have to get permission to get into Neverland Ranch?

A. Absolutely.
Q. And if Mr. Jackson says, “Don’t let this person in,” will that person get into Neverland Ranch?
A. No.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, “No.”
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Now, during this time in 2003, was Mr. Jackson still meeting with Frank on about a daily basis?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Misstates the evidence; move to strike; it’s leading.
THE COURT: Assumes facts. I’ll sustain the objection.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.
Q. When Mr. Jackson and Mr. Tyson -- well, let me back up.
In early 2003, January, February, March 2003, where was Mr. Tyson living?
A. He was living -- he was at the video library.
Q. At Neverland Ranch?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. He had his own bedroom there?

A. They had a bed upstairs, yes.

Q. And during that period of time in 2003, would you see Mr. Jackson and Mr. Tyson together?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: Occasionally, yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You would see them together?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Tyson have an office set up at Neverland Valley Ranch during that period of time?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Where was his office?

A. It was in the video library.

Q. Was there anybody else who had an office in the same area?

A. Yes. That was Vinnie.

Q. Who?

A. Vinnie.

Q. Vinnie?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Who is Vinnie?

A. Vinnie was a friend of Frank Tyson. Or I guess, I should say.

Q. Where was Vinnie living during that time?

A. He was living in the same area, same place.

Q. I show you grand jury exhibit -- or, sorry, People's Exhibit No. 19. Can you identify that photo?

A. Yes, that's Vinnie.

Q. All right. Do you know what the office that Vinnie and Frank had in the video library was being used for? Do you know what they were using that office for during that period of time?

A. No, I don't.

Q. That was in the house; is that true?

A. That was at the video library.

Q. Is that in the house?

A. That is outside the main house.

Q. Okay. And where is it?

A. That is above Mr. Jackson's office, upstairs.

Q. Okay. So is that connected in some way by any building to the main house?

A. Yes, they're all bonded together.

Q. They're all part of the same structure?

A. Right.

Q. And would Mr. Jackson go up into the video library during that period of time, in early 2003?

A. I would say occasional.

Q. And why didn't you know what was going on up there? Why didn't you know what Frank and Vinnie were doing up there if you were the house manager?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; no foundation; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: It wasn't my business to find out what they were doing up there.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Were you ever discouraged from asking those kinds of questions?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: Not really.

MR. MESEREAU: Withdraw the objection.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: (To the jury) You know, we are -- I think we're at a point where we'll stop, because we have to take up a motion with the attorneys before the end of the day. So I'll let you go early. We'll see you on Monday morning at 8:30.

If you haven't seen the wildflower displays -- I went out yesterday. It's really worth seeing. Highway 58 out of -- up by Lake Santa Margarita. If you go out on that, it's just carpets and carpets of yellow and spotted with blue, and it's just a nice way to relax. I recommend it.

Thanks. I'll see you -- remember next Wednesday we're dark.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Salas? You come this way.
THE WITNESS: Oh. Somebody needs to guide me.

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Sanger, you had a motion you wanted to make?
MR. SANGER: Yes, Your Honor. There’s actually two things. But the first is a motion regarding prosecutorial misconduct, and the issue is the admonishment by the prosecutors to their witnesses to conform to the courts orders. In particular, in this case, we have several witnesses, Louise Palanker, who discussed her testimony with Jamie Masada, and perhaps vice versa, but at least there’s clear evidence of that. We have Bill Dickerman, who talked with Dr. Katz. We had Larry Feldman, who talked with Mr. Dickerman and Dr. Katz. And it is up to the parties who call the witnesses to admonish them to conform to the courts orders.

The courts already admonished the prosecution that they need to do that with regard to the gag order and going outside and talking to the press. That may have occurred, actually, since the Court made that admonishment. But in particular, at this point, I’m addressing the discussion of testimony between witnesses who are witnesses called by the prosecution.

The prosecutor has sufficient staff, including a witness coordinator, to take care of this, sheriff’s personnel and the D.A.s themselves. It seems to be a consistent problem, and as a result of that, I believe it rises to the level of prosecutorial misconduct. It could be conveniently forgotten, but it just couldn’t be innocently forgotten after all this time, and the repetition of the -- of the misconduct on the part of the witnesses that we’ve heard.

So I’d ask the Court to fashion an appropriate remedy. Remedy number one, of course, in any misconduct situation, prosecutorial misconduct situation, is a mistrial. And depending on how the Court rules on that, I have a proposed curative instruction. But the Court would have to rule on the first remedy before we get to that, I believe.

I can go ahead and give the Court a quick idea, because I don’t want to spend unnecessary time. If the Court denied the motion for mistrial, I think a proper curative instruction is along the lines of other instructions, that the Court can advise the jury that witnesses called by a particular party, in this case the prosecution, are supposed to be admonished by the -- by the lawyers calling them to conform to the courts order.

And if the jury finds that they have not conformed to the courts orders particularly in this case, not to discuss their testimony with other witnesses, that the jury can draw an adverse inference from that as to the credibility of the witnesses, and as to the strength of their testimony. And that the jury, if they find that to be true, can disregard the entire testimony of the witness, unless the review of all the facts in the case supports the testimony of that witness.

And that would be the alternative, but I propose that only in the event that the Court denied the motion for mistrial.

THE COURT: Counsel?

MR. SNEDDON: Well, first of all, Your Honor, I don’t think there’s any evidence that they were discussing their trial testimony. The discussion was they had conversations. There’s no evidence at all that I can hear of that they talked about -- about their trial testimony. And even in the case of Palanker, she didn’t discuss her trial testimony. She discussed some observations about the behavior of one of the lawyers in the courtroom.

And --

THE COURT: When did she do that?

MR. SNEDDON: I’m sorry?

THE COURT: When did she do that?

MR. SNEDDON: When Mr. Masada testified -- when counsel asked Mr. Masada, he was trying to get him to say that she said something about the pathological liar thing, but she really didn’t. She really said something else. She said -- I don’t want to describe it again, but I can if you want me to, about counsel’s behavior, that he was --

THE COURT: Did she say that outside the courtroom?

MR. SNEDDON: Yes, sir. It wasn’t --

THE COURT: I don’t -- I haven’t watched this --

MR. SNEDDON: No, no. Let me go back. I --

THE COURT: I’m missing something.

MR. SNEDDON: The whole thing -- these ought to be put in writing, if there’s a motion, and we ought to be able to respond in writing. It would be more efficient.

THE COURT: Let’s do this. I think that’s a good way to do it. Why don’t you put something in writing for Monday morning, and --

MR. SANGER: My free time on the weekend while I’m looking at the flowers?

THE COURT: Yes. If you want -- if you look at the flowers, I’ll give you till Tuesday.

(Laughter.)

MR. SANGER: There’s an incentive. I’ll do both and try to get it for you on Monday, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And then you’ll have to respond by Tuesday.

MR. SANGER: Okay. The other matter --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SANGER: -- it was simply that we had submitted, I believe, by remote control proposed instructions on the 1108 and 1101, and I believe the Court got it, although I was sitting here --

THE COURT: Yes, I did. I received it.

MR. SANGER: And I believe the prosecution indicated they were relying on the straight CALJICs.

THE COURT: They showed me theirs. They pulled -- did you show each other what you had given me?

MR. SANGER: They served it.

MR. SNEDDON: I gave the clerk the copies of the ones that we had given you, but they already had a copy of those previous. They're the standard 1108, 1101 instructions.

THE COURT: The only reason I asked that is there's a little more. You gave a couple of -- there's more than just the key instruction. There's some others that may or may not be given. It gave a package. And I'm not saying it's outside of the framework, it's just -- there's a couple more -- I just want to be sure everyone's looking at the same instructions.

MR. SANGER: I do not know which instructions they selected out. And we did serve ours, I believe, on the prosecution. I'm sure we did.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, they can tell you the numbers. They are CALJIC instructions. Standard 1101, 1108. And that there were a couple of additional ones that are connected to it. I'm not saying they're not connected.

MR. SNEDDON: The burden of proof, yes, sir.

THE COURT: The burden of proof.

MR. SNEDDON: CALJIC says you have to give that when you give that instruction, yes, sir.

THE COURT: And I think there was one other, too.

MR. SNEDDON: Well, the standard of proof upon -- I'll take care of it, Your Honor. There's no use wasting the courts time with that.

THE COURT: What I thought we would do -- I won't give any instructions until we've all had a chance to discuss which ones should be given.

MR. SANGER: My understanding is the prosecution is going to call their first 1108 witness on Monday. Obviously this witness will still be going. So hopefully we’ll have a chance to take that up at the 9:45 break, or something.

THE COURT: We’ll take it up before we call 1108 witnesses, so that --

MR. SANGER: Very well.

THE COURT: Because I want to do that.

MR. SANGER: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. We’ll see you on Monday.

(The proceedings adjourned at 2:30 p.m.)

THE COURT: Good morning.
THE JURY: (In unison) Good morning.
COUNSEL AT COUNSEL TABLE: (In unison) Good morning, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Are you all feeling like I am?
A JUROR: Probably.
THE COURT: That damn time change.
(Laughter.)
THE COURT: All right. Counsel, call your next witness.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor. We still have Jesus Salas on the stand.

JESUS SALAS
Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

THE COURT: Please be seated. You're still under oath.

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Salas.
A. Good morning.

Q. I'm not sure exactly where I left off, but I'd like to begin by going back to generalities about Neverland.
As far as your relationship with Mr. Jackson concerning your employment as house manager, can you characterize the level of control that Mr. Jackson maintained over Neverland and over the main house?
A. I would say pretty high.
Q. And as far as in terms of how demanding he could be, could you characterize that as well?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can be more specific.
Q. How demanding he was about the level of his service that was provided to him by his employers.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who was it that determined what -- which guests -- well, let me back up.
How was it determined, if you know, whether a guest would be coming to Neverland or not?
A. I did not know that.
Q. Okay. And would guests of Neverland be allowed to bring their own guests to Neverland; do you know?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; foundation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If you know.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I do not know that either.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. The guests of Neverland would be whose guests?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Foundation is sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you know if people were allowed on Neverland without Mr. Jackson’s permission?

A. I believe that if they weren’t allowed by Mr. Jackson, I don’t think they would come in.

Q. Okay. And do you know who would determine how long a guest was allowed to stay at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; calls for speculation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It’s a foundational question.

THE COURT: You may answer that “yes” or “no.”

THE WITNESS: I believe they didn’t have no time --

THE COURT: Just a moment. He’s just asking if you have the knowledge. He’s not asking you what the knowledge is. Do you know who determined how long a guest could stay? Yes or no.

THE WITNESS: No, I didn’t.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: How were children treated at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Can you -- when you were at Neverland, Mr. Salas, when you were house manager, did you observe at any time Mr. Jackson with child guests?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did Mr. Jackson ever inform you of the level of the service he expected of his child guests?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: He was -- he always expected the best, to be treated the best.

Q. BY MR AUCHINCLOSS: If a child wanted something at Neverland, had a request, or let’s say food, a movie, any special request of that nature, would that request be fulfilled by the employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you know if that’s the way Mr. Jackson wanted it?

A. That is correct.

Q. How do you know that?

A. Because of what he told me, that -- whatever the guests needed, we needed to provide that for them.

Q. And did you notice whether or not this level of service or treatment as far as the children went, did you notice if it affected those kids’ behavior in any way?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you ever have a chance to observe the children -- well, let me ask you this: Were the children basically given whatever they wanted?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Salas, please characterize for me, if you would, in general, the level of service and -- well, I think you’ve said before that the children were allowed the best treatment, the best service, true?

A. That is correct.

Q. Give me an example. What are you talking about when you say that?

A. Well, the best service I’m talking about, if they wanted to see a movie and have their meal at the theater or any of that kind of stuff, I mean, they -- I would make sure that they would get it that way. Or if they wanted to eat like anywhere else, if they wanted to eat. If guests called me, or the kids called me, they wanted to eat in the train depot, I would make sure that that’s where they get their meal, or whatever they asked for.
Q. If they wanted candy, were they given candy?
A. Absolutely.
Q. If they wanted to play at the amusement park, could they do it?
A. Absolutely.
Q. Were there any rules about that?
A. No.
Q. As far as when and how they would play?
A. Well, there was some rules, you know, for their safety, you know.
Q. Yes.
A. Yes. But other than that, there wasn’t any other rules.
Q. Did you have golf carts at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Were the children allowed to use them?
A. There was some kids that they were allowed to use them.

Q. Who decided who got to use the golf carts?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Are you aware who allowed the children these privileges of using the golf carts?
A. I had some control on that. We had security or we’d have security there. Many times kids, they were told they weren’t allowed to drive certain cars, but they were some kids that they were allowed to drive them.
Q. If Mr. Jackson said, “Let this kid drive a golf cart,” would that kid be allowed to drive the golf cart?
A. I would say yes.

Q. Tell me about the theater at Neverland. Could you describe it for me?
A. Well, it's a full-sized theater with a candy bar, ice cream. It's got pretty much anything that a kid can enjoy.
Q. Are there any unusual features as far as where you can watch the movie?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection.
THE WITNESS: Yes, there's an upstairs --
THE COURT: Just a moment.
MR. MESEREAU: Vague and foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Go ahead.
A. There's an upstairs room where people can sit up there and watch the movie if they want to.
Q. Are there any beds in the theater?
A. Yes, there's two rooms downstairs with two facilities for kids that they can sit in there or lay in bed and watch a movie, if that's what they want.
Q. Is the theater ever closed? I mean, does it have hours, I guess is my question? Is it --
A. Pretty much when Mr. Jackson is on the property, we always kept the place open.
Q. When he had some what?
A. When Mr. Jackson is on property.
Q. I see.
A. We pretty much keep the place open for -- you know, for guests or himself.
Q. All night long?
A. All night long.
Q. Was there one person who made all the main decisions about what happened at Neverland?
A. Well, there is the ranch manager there.
Q. Yes. And was there one person in charge of the ranch manager?
A. Yes.
Q. And did that person make all the main decisions at Neverland?

A. Yes, I believe so.
Q. And who was that?

A. That would be Mr. Jackson.
Q. Now, you spoke a little bit last week about Mr. Jackson's room. Was there -- I believe you testified there was a combination to get in that room?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Was that combination ever changed?
A. Not too often, but yes, it did.
Q. How often would that combination change?
A. I believe the time that I was there, I think it was about two times that we changed it.
Q. Okay. Now, when you say you were there, are you referring to the time -- the full 20 years you were there, or just the year or so that you were house manager?
A. Just when I was the house manager.
Q. And was there a combination to get into the main house?
A. Yes, there was.
Q. And would that ever change?
A. That one got changed more often.
Q. How often, if you could tell us?
A. I would say that we changed that about every two months, somewhere -- somewhere along that.
Q. Were -- do you know if certain people were given the combinations -- the combination to Mr. Jackson's bedroom?

A. Not to my knowledge.
Q. Do you know if certain people were given the combination to the Jackson house, the main entry into the home?
A. Yes. Pretty much all his guests have access to the house so they had to have the combination.
Q. And who would give them that combination?
A. Myself personal.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. All right. Could we have the "Input 4," Your Honor?
Q. All right. Mr. Salas, I show you People's Exhibit No. 20. We've shown this to you before. You've identified it as Frank Tyson. You mentioned that at some point during your employment, Mr. Tyson -- you mentioned something about a problem with Mr. Jackson that Mr. Tyson had.

Do you recall that testimony?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. How do you know about that problem?
A. I believe about Mr. Jackson’s frustrations.
Q. Okay. You were present when Mr. Jackson expressed some from frustrations?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Yes, I did.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And what was -- can you tell us what he was frustrated about?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll withdraw and reask.
THE COURT: Okay.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did Mr. Jackson tell you what he was frustrated about? That’s yes or no.
A. Yes.
Q. What -- did Mr. Jackson tell you what was frustrating him?
A. He did not know about Frank bringing people at Neverland Valley without his permission.
Q. Okay. Bringing guests without Mr. Jackson’s permission?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was it that informed Mr. Jackson of this issue?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Okay. And you have previously identified People’s Exhibit 35 as the Arvizo family; is that right?
A. That is correct.
Q. You recall the time when the Arvizo family visited Mr. Jackson in the year 2003?
A. Yes.
Q. Was this frustration that Mr. Jackson expressed with Mr. Tyson before, or after, or during the time that the Arvizo family was present at Neverland in 2003?

A. That was after the family was there.
Q. After the family left?
A. Yes.

Q. All right. I show you People’s Exhibit No. 17. You’ve previously identified this individual as Dieter.

Tell me, when was the first time you met Mr. -- Dieter, do you know his last name? Maybe I’ll ask you that question first.

A. No, I don’t remember his last name.

Q. We’ll just refer to him as “Dieter.” When was the first time you met Dieter?

A. I believe it was early or mid 2002.

Q. Okay. And where did you meet him?

A. I met him at Neverland Valley.

Q. Can you tell me about the circumstances? How is it that you met him, under what circumstances?

A. Well, he came to the ranch as a guest, and stayed there for a while. That’s how I met him.

Q. Okay. So, we’re in mid 2002. Dieter comes and visits. Do you know how long he visited for?

A. Not exactly sure, but I believe he stayed there for a couple of weeks the first time he came.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson there at the time?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson there before Dieter came on the property, if you recall?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. When Dieter left the property, do you know if Mr. Jackson left with him?

A. I’m not exactly sure if they did. But there was a few times that they left together.

Q. Okay. So Dieter visited the property again after that first time?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times, if you can estimate?

A. Not exactly sure, but he came, I don’t know, maybe about three or four times after that. Something like that.

Q. All right. And you said that -- some of those times. Do you know how many times Mr. Jackson left with him, when Dieter left?

A. I don’t.

Q. Do you know how many times Dieter arrived on the property with Mr. Jackson, if at all?

A. I would say about a couple times.

Q. Show you People’s Exhibit 18, which you’ve identified as Ronald. Do you know Ronald’s last name?

A. I believe his last name is Konister.

Q. Konister?

A. Something like that.

Q. Okay. We’ll refer to him as “Ronald.” How -- when was the first time you met Ronald?

A. It was at the same time I met Dieter.

Q. Did Dieter come on the property with Ronald in that period, the first visit he came?

A. They both came together.

Q. Did they leave together?

A. Yes.

Q. And when -- did Ronald ever come back to the property after that?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. How many times?

A. He came back about -- I believe about another couple times.

Q. And during the times that he visited the ranch, did Ronald ever come to the ranch with Mr. Jackson?

A. I believe he came once, if I can recall.

Q. Did he ever leave the ranch with Mr. Jackson?

A. I -- I’m going to say no on that one.

Q. Okay. And while Mr. -- while Ronald was on the property, was -- I think you said the first time Ronald came with Dieter, and they were there the entire time together; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. During those subsequent visits of Ronald, was Dieter on the property?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Did you ever see these two men together?

A. Yes.

Q. How often?

A. Daily basis.

Q. Daily basis?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did you ever see these two men with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How often?

A. Oh, I'm going to say at least they try to have a meeting once a day.

Q. Do you know what Ronald's -- well, let me back up.

Do you know what Dieter's relationship was to Mr. Jackson?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know if it was -- dealt with friendship, business, or a combination?

A. I would say it was more business.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because of what they were discussing about business in Europe.

Q. You heard them talking about business?

A. Yes.

Q. What about Ronald, how would you characterize Ronald's relationship on the same continuum?

A. Same category.

Q. Mostly business?

A. Mostly business.

Q. During the time that the Arvizo family was on the property, was at Neverland in 2003, did you ever observe Ronald on the property at the same time?

A. Yes.

Q. How about Dieter?

A. The same.

Q. And how long were they on the property when the Arvizos were there, if you know, or can estimate?

A. I'd say about two weeks.

Q. Is that two weeks total, one continuous time, or two weeks total different times?

A. It was one continuous time.

Q. What about Frank, was he on the property during the period of time in 2003 when the Arvizo family was on the property?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And about how much -- same question, about how much time was he on the property when the Arvizos were there?

A. Well, he was living there. He was all the time there.

Q. Okay. So whenever the Arvizos were on the ranch, Frank was there?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever heard of an individual by the name of Malnik? Malnik?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was he a visitor? Was that a man?

A. Yes, it’s a man.

Q. Did you meet him?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he ever a visitor at the ranch?

A. At the time that I was there he only came once, I believe.

Q. For how long?

A. I don’t know. A couple weeks.

Q. Was that time that Mr. Malnik visited the ranch, did that coincide with any time that the Arvizos were there?

A. Yes.

Q. I’m showing you People’s Exhibit 3. You didn’t know this individual’s name last week. But you did recognize him. Was this individual on the ranch at any time during the period that the Arvizos were at Neverland?

A. I don’t believe he was there around that time.

Q. Okay. Do you remember if he was there -- you did testify that he had been at Neverland before?

A. Right.

Q. Was he there before or after the Arvizos were there, if you recall?

A. I don’t recall. He was there before.

Q. All right. Do you know an individual by the name of Zia?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is Zia?

A. My understanding, he is a lawyer.

Q. Have you met him?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you meet him?

A. At the ranch.

Q. Do you know who he works for?

A. Not exactly. My understanding, he was working for Mr. Jackson.

Q. Was Zia -- well, let me back up. How many times did Zia visit Neverland where you saw him there?

A. I saw him there a couple of times.

Q. Did -- any of the time that Zia was on Neverland, did that coincide with any of the time that the Arvizos were there in 2003?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see Zia during that period of time when he was visiting the ranch in 2003 talking with Mr. Jackson?

A. I believe, yes, they did have a meeting one time.

Q. Okay. Let's talk a little bit about the Arvizos, okay? In 2003, what members of the Arvizo family were visiting Neverland?

A. It was just the kids and the mother.

Q. Okay. So the three children, Davellin, Star, Gavin, and the mother?

A. And the mother.

Q. Do you know her name?

A. Janet.

Q. Okay. Did you participate in bringing them to Neverland in any fashion on that visit, first visit, in 2003 I'm talking about?

A. Yes, I picked them up at Santa Barbara Airport.

Q. Okay. And was Mr. Jackson with them at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. And you drove to Neverland Ranch?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, you testified that you would stay very late pursuant to your employment at Neverland.

A. Yes.

Q. And you'd arrive pretty early, around 7:00, I think you said?

A. That is correct.

Q. Were you in a position to see who spent the night in Mr. Jackson's room?

A. Yes, I was aware of who was sleeping there.

Q. Okay. And during the time that the Arvizo boys, or let's say the Arvizo children, were at Neverland Ranch, can you tell me where the two boys would sleep?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague as to time.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'm talking about the period in 2003. The visit in 2003.

MR. MESEREAU: I repeat the objection. It's vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: In 2003, you said that you brought the Arvizo family to Neverland. How long did they stay on that -- on that particular visit?

A. Not exactly sure how long they stayed. But I would say they stayed a week or two, something like that.

Q. And did they -- they then left the ranch for a period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. How long did they leave the ranch for, about, before they came back?

A. I would say about another two weeks.

Q. Okay.

A. Something like that.

Q. And then when they came back to the ranch, how long did they stay?

A. That time, I believe they stayed about another, I would say, two weeks, three weeks. Somewhere around there.

Q. All right. When they left that time, did they return to the ranch?

A. Yes, they came once again.

Q. Okay. And how long did they stay the third time?

A. About another week.

Q. Okay. When they left the third time, how long -- did they ever return to the ranch?

A. That was the last time I saw them.

Q. Okay. Now, this period of these visits that you've just described, of visiting the ranch, leaving, visiting, leaving, visiting, and visiting one third time, over what period of time did all of these visits take, if you can estimate in terms of weeks, months? How many weeks or months did it take for all of these visits to take place?

A. I would say about five weeks, something like that.

Q. All right. Now, tell me how detailed your recollections are about exact dates and exact periods of time concerning this, the visits by the Arvizos.

A. I -- I don't remember the dates, okay.

Q. Okay.

A. It's just --

Q. Are you giving us your best estimates?

A. That is the best.

Q. Are you -- but are you exactly sure about the time periods and the amount of time?

A. I'm pretty sure about the time of them being there. But not exact --

Q. When you say "the time," do you mean the dates, or the amount of time?

A. The amount of time.

Q. Okay. So during this period of time that -- these three visits that you talked about that the Arvizos visited Neverland, was Mr. Jackson there during that period of time?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Do you know if he was there the entire time or if he had periods where he was gone?

A. I would say that he was there most of the time. Pretty much all the time.

Q. Okay. Are you sure whether or not he -- do you have a specific recollection of whether he left or not and came back; do you know?

A. I don't.

Q. During the time -- these three visits -- during that period of time in which Mr. Jackson was on the property, on Neverland - okay? - can you tell me where the Arvizo boys slept?

MR. MESEREAU: Again, vague as to time. Vague as to what visit. Vague as to what portion of the visit.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can tighten that up.

Q. Let's do them one at a time, okay? We'll do the first one. During the first visit in 2003 of the Arvizo family, during the period of time that Mr. Jackson was on the property, can you tell me where the Arvizo boys slept?
A. There was times that they slept in the guesthouse. Okay. There were times that they sleep with -- with Mr. Jackson.
Q. Okay. And during the time that -- during this second visit when they left and came back, can you tell me, during that second visit, where did the Arvizo boys sleep?
A. That would be about the same. They sleep with Mr. Jackson. Most of the time I believe that they were trying to sleep with Mr. Jackson.
Q. And same question for the third visit.
A. And that's going to be the same answer.
Q. Okay. Now, you said that they had a guest room.
A. That is correct.
Q. Did -- let me ask you, first of all, while you were manager, house manager, did you notice if any other children slept in Mr. Jackson's room, other than the Arvizos?
A. There was some other kids.
Q. Was it unusual for a kid who was sleeping in Mr. Jackson's room to also have a guest room?
A. No, not really.

Q. Did you see Mr. Jackson interact with these children who spent the night in his room?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Foundational question.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: He would spend time, because he would play with them.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And while -- and I'm just talking about the year that you were house manager. While you were house manager, how often would he play with these children?
A. I would say anytime that he had some spare time he would play with the kids.
Q. Okay. Would it be -- you tell me. Would it be daily?
A. He would try to be with them daily.
Q. As far as the children visiting the ranch, did you notice whether or not Mr. Jackson formed -- appeared to form any special bonds with certain children?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Over the period of time, and I'm talking just about the time that you were manager of the ranch, you mentioned that you would see the children play with Mr. Jackson, true?

A. That is correct.
Q. Where would you see them play?
A. Well, they would go to the park. They would go for a walk. They would go bike riding. Or they have quads, and they would ride the quads everywhere.
Q. Quads, what -- what are quads?
A. The four-wheelers.
Q. Those are motorized vehicles?
A. Right.
Q. Did you see them in the house?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see them having meals together?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Would you see this on a daily basis?
A. Pretty much.
Q. So over that period of time, did you notice whether or not he formed any special bonds with certain children?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague and foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: These children who spent the night in Mr. Jackson’s room, did they share any common characteristics?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Go ahead and ask me the question again.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. The question is, the children that spent the night in Mr. Jackson’s room that you’ve talked about, did they share anything in common, any common characteristics?
MR. MESEREAU: Vague; foundation.
Objection.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did they have anything in common?
Sorry.
THE COURT: All right. Objection sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you know if these children, whether or not -- did you notice the age of these children?
A. They were around 10, 11. Around that age.
Q. Did you notice what gender they were?
A. No, I don’t.
Q. Did you notice whether they were boys or girls?
A. Well, yes, they were mostly boys.
Q. Did you ever see anyone else sleep in Mr. Jackson’s room other than these children?
A. Pretty much it was just the boys. That’s about it.
Q. You previously testified that there was alcohol on Neverland, true?

A. That is correct.
Q. And I think you said you were somewhat responsible for stocking the alcohol at Neverland as house manager?
A. That is correct.
Q. Did Mr. Jackson drink?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. Are you aware of what his drinks of choice were, what he liked to drink, in terms of alcohol?

A. Well, he drink wine and vodka also.

Q. Okay. Where was the wine stored on the property?

A. Most of the wine, it was in the wine cellar. We also have wine in the house.

Q. Where in the house?

A. In the refrigerators.

Q. In the kitchen area?

A. Right.

Q. And the vodka, where was that kept?

A. In the kitchen.

Q. Okay. Was there any -- was it any secret at Neverland that Mr. Jackson drank alcoholic beverages?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; calls for speculation; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Salas, were you ever told by anybody that Mr. Jackson’s drinking was to be concealed from anybody?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: On which basis, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Hearsay.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you see Mr. Jackson drinking at Neverland?

A. I never saw him drinking.

Q. Have you ever seen him exhibiting the effects of drinking?

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. Well, lately it was on a pretty much regular basis.

Q. A regular basis?

A. Right.

Q. Did you ever see Mr. Jackson where he appeared to have been drinking a great deal, that he appeared to be drunk?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see him appear to be drunk -- well, let me ask you this: Was there ever any effort that you saw to conceal this fact that Mr. Jackson had been drinking, that he was drunk, to conceal that fact from his children?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; leading; foundation.

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Salas, when you saw Mr. Jackson when he was drunk, did you ever see him in the presence -- in that condition, in the presence of his children?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. On more than one occasion?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me how many or approximate?

A. Well, I couldn’t tell you exactly how many times, but it was quite a few times.

Q. During that period of time -- and tell me -- let’s get time specific here. What time frame are we talking about? Is this when you were house manager?

A. That is correct.

Q. During that period of time did you ever see Mr. Jackson make any effort to conceal his condition from his children?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: I’m going to allow an answer to that question, but again, it’s a foundational question.

So it can only be answered “yes” or “no.”

I’ll have the court reporter read it back to you.

We’re asking do you have this knowledge.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: Can you ask me the question a different way?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Sure.

Q. My question is, during the period of time when you saw Mr. Jackson when he was drunk in the presence of his children, did Mr. Jackson do anything to hide the fact that he had been drinking or that he was drunk when that occurred, when you saw that?

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Not to my knowledge.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You said that wine is stored in the wine cellar. Is there any hard liquor that's ever kept in the wine cellar?

A. Yes.

Q. What kind of hard liquor?

A. There's some whiskey, I believe. Some tequila. Pretty much that's it.

Q. And was there whiskey and tequila in the wine cellar during the time that the Arvizo children were there in 2003?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see kids go into the wine cellar, any kids, during your period of time as house manager?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you ever see the Arvizo kids go into the wine cellar?

A. I never saw them down in the wine cellar.

Q. Did you ever see them come out of the wine cellar?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did you ever have any reports, as house manager, that the Arvizo children were in the wine cellar?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Not specifically the Arvizo kids.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Have you ever served wine or any alcoholic beverage to Mr. Jackson when he was in the presence of children?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. On more than one occasion?

A. I would say that was a couple times.

Q. Do you remember any of the children that were with him when you served him alcoholic beverages, or wine, let's say?

A. I’m not exactly what kids were in there, but I know the Arvizos were there, the kids, and some other kids that were there as well.
Q. Okay. Now, tell me, was there a time when you brought him some wine and four glasses?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Tell me -- you said there was a couple of times that you brought Mr. Jackson wine in the presence of children. Tell me about the first one you remember. When was it?
A. It was at nighttime.
Q. Do you remember when it was in terms of the year that you served as house manager, approximately?
A. Well, it was -- I would say it was January somewhere. January, somewhere around there.
Q. Of 2002, 2003?
A. 2003.
Q. And about what time of night?
A. It was about -- I would say it was about nine o’clock.
Q. And where did you go, what room?
A. I went to Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, upstairs.
Q. And what did you bring to Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?
A. I brought some glasses, and some wine.
Q. What type of wine; do you remember?
A. I don’t remember the type of wine.
Q. Do you remember whether it was red or white?
A. I want to say that it was a white wine.
Q. What type of glasses did you bring?

A. Glass -- it was just glass wines.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. Glass wines.
Q. Wine glass?
A. No, let me back up. It was just glasses, normal glasses.
Q. Normal glasses?
A. Yes.
Q. Were they tall glasses or short glasses?
A. Short glasses.

Q. Can you describe them?
A. Short glasses.
Q. And who ordered this wine?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Did you talk to him personally?
A. Yes.
Q. What did he tell you?
A. He called me and asked me to bring some glasses to his room and some wine.
Q. Did he tell you how many glasses?
A. Yes.
Q. How many?
A. Four of them.
Q. All right. So you brought the -- and did you do as he ordered you to do?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And when you delivered this wine, did you deliver it to his bedroom?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you deliver it to the lower portion of his bedroom or the upstairs portion?
A. Just to the lower portion.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson or any of the children present when you delivered this wine?
A. Yes, there were.
Q. Who was present?
A. The kids that were there. Gavin, and I believe it was also Frank's brothers, the ones that were there. But let me tell you something else. He also ordered some sodas with that.
Q. Okay. So what do you mean, "some sodas"?
A. He also asked me to bring some sodas with that order.
Q. Tell me what you mean by "sodas."
A. Yes, just the normal soda cans.
Q. Soda drinks?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, you have previously talked to the sheriffs about this incident, haven't you?
A. Right. Right.
Q. And described for them that you brought a bottle of wine and glasses?
A. Uh-huh.

Q. Let me back up. Let me back up.
So you brought some wine and glasses, and some sodas?

A. Uh-huh.
Q. Let's move on to the second incident first, okay?
Tell me about the second incident. When did that occur?
A. That was -- it was also -- it was also nighttime.
Q. Nighttime?
A. Right.
Q. About what time?
A. That time it was about around eleven o'clock. Somewhere around 11:00.
Q. And was this before or after the incident that you just described?
A. That was after.
Q. And who placed the order on this occasion?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. And what did he order?
A. Some more wine.
Q. Okay. Did he also ask for glasses?
A. Yes.
Q. How many glasses?
A. This time I believe it was just one glass.
It was just for him.
Q. Okay. And who was present when that -- when you delivered that wine?
A. I'm not exactly sure who was there, but I believe this time it was himself at night.

Q. But I'm talking about -- you said there were two times that children were present when you served him. I'm talking about the second time that children were present.
A. Yeah, that time I'm not exactly who was there, how many of the kids were there.
Q. You're not sure?
A. No, I'm not sure.
Q. All right. Now, let's go back to this time -- this first incident where you said that you served wine and soda. You have been interviewed about this by the sheriff's department, right?

A. That is correct.
Q. And you were interviewed back in, I believe it was, 2003; is that right?
A. That's correct.
Q. And when you talked to the sheriff's department about this, you never mentioned anything about any soda?
A. No, I didn't.
Q. And why is that?
A. I don't know. It just -- it just flip out right now to my mind.
Q. You just remembered it just this second?
A. Right.
Q. And you said that you came back and the bottle of wine was empty?
A. That is correct.

Q. Was there any other liquor you brought?
A. No, that was the second time --
Q. I'm talking about the first time.
A. No, that was it.
Q. And when you came back, was the bottle empty?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. Okay. The wine cellar. You said you didn't ever have any complaints of -- hear of any complaints regarding the Arvizos. Did you ever have any other complaints of any other children in the wine cellar?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you know which children they were?
A. When I was given those complaints, it was about the kids from Los Olivos.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. If I could have the Elmo again, Your Honor, please.
Q. Showing you People's Exhibit 45. Is that one of the kids you're talking about?
A. Yes.
Q. 46?
A. Yes.
Q. That's one of the kids?
A. That's correct.
Q. And 47.

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Are there any other kids that you're referring to, or is that everybody that we're talking about?

A. No, I did get some other complaints about some other kids which wasn't these kids.

Q. Okay. Now, these three kids that -- I think you've identified them as being from Los Olivos previously, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. We'll call them "the Los Olivos boys," okay?

A. Okay.

Q. Now, the Los Olivos boys, you said you had a complaint, complaints regarding them in the wine cellar. What was the nature of the complaint?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It's offered to explain conduct.

THE COURT: Whose conduct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Salas's. And I can tell you at sidebar where I'm going, if you like.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you personally ever see the Los Olivos boys in the wine cellar?

A. Not in the wine cellar, but I saw them come out.

Q. You saw them coming out of the wine cellar. And when you saw them coming out of the wine cellar, what time of day are we talking about?

A. Early in the morning, around eight o'clock in the morning.

Q. And during that previous -- let's say the ten hours -- well, let's see, let me back up. Do you know if Mr. Jackson was in the wine cellar with them?

A. That early morning, or late night, early morning, Mr. Jackson was with the kids.

Q. And when you saw these kids come out of the within cellar, did you notice whether or not they exhibited any signs of being intoxicated?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Yes, I did.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Tell me what you saw.
A. When I saw the boys coming out of the arcade, which is where the wine cellar is, the kids weren’t acting normal. So I approached one of them, and I said, “Are you okay?” That’s when I noticed that the kids were drunk.
Q. How drunk were they, if you could characterize it?
A. I would say that they were -- what would you call it? I mean, you can tell that they were drunk. I mean, I could see that they had been drinking.
Q. What were they doing that made you believe they’d been drinking?
A. The way they were acting. I mean, they weren’t just normal. Something was wrong with the kids.

Q. Did you notice any other times when these three boys had been drinking, and it was apparent to you that they had been drinking?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; relevance; foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You have may answer.
THE WITNESS: Your question was what date?
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: No, my question -- you’ve told us about one incident where you noticed the three Los Olivos boys had been drinking. I want to know if you ever observed a second time that these same boys had been drinking.
A. Yes, there was a second time.
Q. And when was that?
A. I want to say it was -- it was after that one. Not exactly sure, you know, how many weeks after that. But I would say it was two, three weeks after that one.
Q. And when was the first time, approximately?
A. I want to say it was in October when I saw those kids the first time.
Q. 2002? 2003? You tell me.
A. It was 2002, I believe.
Q. Okay. And where did you see these boys the second time when they appeared to have been drinking?

A. At the house.

Q. Inside the house?

A. Yes. Well, they were everywhere, but, yes, they were in the house.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson on the property at that time?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Had these boys been spending any time with Mr. Jackson that day?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Had you observed whether or not Mr. Jackson had spent any time with these boys earlier that day?

A. I don't believe that day he spent time with them. They were alone.

Q. Okay. Did you see the boys all -- during the entire time they were on the property?

A. Yes.

Q. You were with them the entire time?

A. No.

Q. So do you know whether or not they spent time with Mr. Jackson for certain?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; foundation.

THE COURT: Argumentative; sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. So what portion of that day did you spend actually observing the boys? Let me back up. Let me back up. How long were these boys on the property that particular day?

A. They were there till twelve o'clock, one o'clock.

Q. At night?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Or one o'clock in the morning, I guess?

A. One o'clock in the morning, yes.

Q. And when did they arrive?

A. They arrived around noontime.

Q. And how much of that time -- so that's about 12 hours, right?

A. Right.

Q. How many of those hours were they in a place that you could see them, where you were actually seeing them?

A. Well, they were back and forth, and they were everywhere, so I really didn’t have a control of watching them or any of that stuff.

Q. Okay.

A. But they were back and forth in the house, back at the park, different places.

Q. Do you know where they got their alcohol?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Were you responsible for cleaning the wine cellar?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you observe any other incidents where Mr. Jackson was in the wine cellar with children? I mean, did that happen on other occasions? And I’m confining this just to the time you were house manager.

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Do you know? You don’t recall any other times?

A. Not that I can remember.

Q. Okay. Now, during the time that you were house manager, did you ever observe any adult magazines in Mr. Jackson’s private quarters?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did these magazines feature nudity?

A. Yes.

Q. And where were these -- which room were these magazines in?

A. They were on the first floor on the left side in one of the bathrooms.

Q. Were those magazines there in that bathroom during the time that the Arvizos were at Neverland?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Madam Clerk, may I double-check with you? I have three items I’m marking. I want to double-check and make sure these numbers haven’t been used. 777, 778, and 779.

THE CLERK: No, they haven’t.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you.

May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. Mr. Salas, I show you People's Exhibit 777. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. Yes. These are some statues that were in Mr. Jackson's office.

Q. I show you People's Exhibit 778. Would you please identify that for me?

A. Yes, they were also in his office.

Q. And People's Exhibit 779?

A. Yes. That is correct. They were in his office.

Q. Okay. Thank you. Can you tell me where these statues were located?

A. They were located in Mr. Jackson's office. They were placed on different stands.

Q. Were they on display?

A. Yes.

Q. Over what period of time are we talking about?

A. Well, they have been there a long time.

Q. Were they there the entire time you were house manager?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they there during the time that the Arvizos were present on the property?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they there -- did Mr. Jackson's children ever visit that office?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Your Honor, I'd like to offer into evidence People's Exhibit 777, 778 and 779 at this time.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted. All three.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. If I may publish these, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Showing you People's Exhibit 777, is that an accurate depiction of one of the dolls that you saw in Mr. Jackson's office?

A. That is correct.

Q. Or statues. Whatever they are.

778, there are two photographs there. Do those photographs accurately depict the dolls that were present during the period of time that you were house manager in Mr. Jackson’s office?

A. Yes.

Q. And 779; same questions. Were those -- are those accurate depictions of what you observed in Mr. Jackson’s office during the time that you were house manager?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. Going back to the period of time when the Arvizos were on the property, was there -- and I want to talk about the first visit, the first visit in 2003, after you picked up the Arvizos from the airport.

You previously testified that they were at Neverland for a period of approximately two weeks.

Mr. Salas, during that period of time did you observe the Arvizo family to be restricted in any way?

A. That is correct.

Q. In what way were they restricted?

A. I believe they weren’t allowed to leave Neverland Valley Ranch.

Q. And why do you say that?

A. Because I had a talk to the mother and she’s the one that told me.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection, that’s hearsay. Move to strike.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Goes to state of mind. Also offered to explain this witness’s conduct later.

THE COURT: I will admit it for the limited purpose of explaining the conduct of Jesus. It’s not to be used for the truth of the matter asserted by Janet.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

Q. So at some point, did you personally help the Arvizo family to get out of Neverland?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How did you do that?

A. I took them down to L.A.

Q. You drove them personally?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you take -- use -- I take it you used one of Mr. Jackson’s cars?

A. That is correct. I got a phone call from her, and she wanted to talk to me about something.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It’s offered for the same purpose.

THE COURT: It’s nonresponsive. Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. So tell me what precipitated your conduct of helping the Arvizos by taking them off the property. What happened? What was it that made you do that?

A. Like I said, she called me at my office and wanted to talk to me. So I came over, and I thought it was something that I needed to take care of, you know, in the room. And she asked me to --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection, hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I’ll admit it for the limited purpose again to explain what he’s doing, not for the truth of the matter that she asserted.

THE WITNESS: So she asked me -- she told me if I can drive them down to L.A., that she wanted to leave the property. So I ask her, you know, “What’s the reason? Why do you want to leave the property?” She was very --

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: Sustained after he started on another subject.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. Can you tell me what her emotional state was at the time?

A. She was very upset.

Q. How was she demonstrating that she was upset?

A. Crying.

Q. What time of -- what time of the day or evening are we talking about here when this happened?

A. We’re talking about nighttime.

Q. Nighttime?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she express any -- did she express any fear while you were talking to her?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: When you were talking to her, did she appear to be fearful of something?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Tell me about any other emotional -- expressions of emotion that she had, if you noticed any.

A. Well, she looks very preoccupied. She was just -- she wasn’t comfortable there. She just wanted to leave the property.

THE COURT: All right. Let’s take our break.

THE COURT: Go ahead, Counsel.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Before I continue where I left off with the Arvizos, Mr. Salas, I wanted to ask you a couple of questions about -- one involving the wine cellar.

At some time during your occupation as the house manager, was there a safe that was put in to keep some of the keys to various places, including the wine cellar?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. And where was that safe put in?

A. It was in the -- inside the house in what we call the maids’ room.

Q. When was that safe put in?

A. It was during the time that we noticed the kids were having access to alcohol.

Q. The Los Olivos boys?
A. That is correct.
Q. And can you help me out with the time frame in terms of what we’re -- 2002 or 2003?
A. 2003.
Q. 2003?
A. Yes.
Q. You said that it was October of 2002 when the problem occurred with the Los Olivos boys.
A. Yes, but we didn’t took action until after that. It took us a while to put the key away.
Q. Have you previously told detectives that it was in the -- it was around December of 2002 that the safe was put in?

A. I must have said that. I mean, I could be wrong.
Q. Do you have a clear recollection of exactly when the safe went in?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Do you recall that the safe was there when the Arvizos were there?
A. Yes, it was in, the safe.
Q. All right. And the wine cellar key, was it kept in that safe?
A. That is correct.
Q. All right. So when you took the Arvizos from Neverland, what car did you use?
A. I used the Rolls Royce.
Q. And who was it that decided to use that particular car? Whose decision was that?
A. It was my decision.
Q. Had you previously done some driving for Mr. Jackson? I know you previously testified you did the limo drive to Neverland. But other than that, had you previously done some driving for Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And did you previously use that car on occasion?
A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell anybody that you were taking the Jacksons -- or did you tell anybody that you were taking the Arvizos off property?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Who did you tell?

A. I told Mr. Jackson’s bodyguard, Chris Carter.

Q. And why did you tell Chris?

A. Because it was not my decision to make to take the family off the property without telling somebody.

Q. Okay. Was Dieter on the property at the time?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Was Ronald on the property at the time?

A. No, he wasn’t.

Q. Was Frank on the property at the time?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Was there a reason you didn’t tell Dieter or Frank that you were taking them off the property?

A. It was late, and the reason I didn’t told them, it was because I didn’t know who to tell, so I told Chris about the situation.

Q. Okay.

A. And so --

Q. Did Miss Arvizo express to you, during that period of time, that she was fearful of anything?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did Miss Arvizo express concern to you over any particular individuals at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Yes, she did.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who was she concerned about?

A. It was Dieter and Ronald.

Q. Was she concerned about Frank at all?

A. She didn’t really say too much about Frank.

Q. So you drive her off the property. Where did you take her and her children?

A. Down south, L.A.

Q. Did you take her to a residence?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it a house or an apartment?

A. It was a house.

Q. And was it the place -- did she direct you to the location where she wanted to go?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you get in any trouble for taking the Arvizos off the property?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Tell me about that.

A. Well, the next day, I was told that they weren't supposed to leave the property.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can ask a couple of other questions that will tighten it up, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. I'll strike the answer.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And this answer will be offered in furtherance.

Q. Who told you you were in trouble?

A. The first person that told me, it was Frank.

Q. Frank Tyson?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And what did Frank tell you?

A. He told me not -- that they weren't supposed to leave the property. They were supposed to be notified first.

Q. Who was supposed to be notified first?

A. Him.

Q. Did he tell you how to handle yourself in the future?

A. Yes, he did.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'll rephrase.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did he make any remarks to you concerning the future?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did he say?

A. Not to make -- I mean, if it was a second time, not to do that anymore.

Q. Not to let the Arvizos off the property if they come back?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did anybody else tell you that you did the wrong thing?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. Dieter.

Q. What did Dieter tell you?

A. Same thing.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same purpose.

THE COURT: Overruled. It's admitted for the limited purpose under the conspiracy instruction that I talked to you about earlier. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Tell us what Dieter told you.

A. He told me the same thing; that next time I should tell them about the situation first.

Q. Did the Arvizos -- well, let me back up. When Miss Arvizo was talking to you about her desire to leave the ranch, did you speak English with her?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you ever speak with her in a different language?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Are you fluent in Spanish?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Do you know if she is?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Around -- well, let's talk about when they returned to the property. You said a short time after the first -- they first left Neverland, the Arvizos returned.

A. That's correct.

Q. Were you there when that happened?

A. Yes.

Q. And when they returned to the property, did Mrs. Arvizo ever ask you to transport her off the property on that occasion, on the second visit?

A. Yes, she --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Also offered to explain conduct.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. And I'll admit it for the limited purpose of explaining his behavior. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: What was your answer?

A. Yes. Yes, I was.

Q. And when did she make that request of you, in relationship to the time that she arrived?

A. I would say it was -- it was about a week when she asked me again.

Q. And did you take her off the property that time?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Why not?

A. Because I was told not to do that anymore.

Q. Now, at some point the Arvizos left Neverland --

A. Yes, they did.

Q. -- for the final time.

Have you ever seen them since that time?

A. That was the last time I saw them.

Q. Do you recall when you were first interviewed about the general facts that you've just described for us by law enforcement?

A. Yes.

Q. And was there anything special about that particular day when you first spoke to law enforcement?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: When you said about special, what do you mean?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was there anything unusual that happened on that date --

A. Yes.

Q. -- that you're aware of?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. What was it?

A. That was when the police came over to Mr. Jackson's house.

Q. The day of the search warrant?

A. The day of the search, yes.

Q. Do you remember what month that was?

A. It was November.

Q. Okay. So you told the police about this, helping the Arvizos, on the same day as the search warrant was issued, or executed, I should say; is that accurate?

A. That is correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Mr. Salas. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Okay. Cross-examine?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning.

A. Good morning.

Q. Is it Mr. Salas or Salazar?

A. Salas.

Q. Salas, okay. My name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Michael Jackson, okay?
We haven't spoken before, right?

A. I believe we have. Didn't you call me one time or something like that?

Q. I didn't. That was an investigator.

A. It wasn't you.

Q. Okay. You spoke to one of our investigators named Jesus Castillo, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you spoke to him around January 9th, 2005, right?

A. Must have been, yes.

Q. Okay. Okay. And do you know -- where did that interview take place; do you know?

A. Yes. Was it the Holiday Inn, Santa Maria?

Q. Okay. And approximately how long do you remember speaking with our investigator, Jesus Castillo?

A. It took, I would say, about half an hour.

Q. Okay. And do you remember you told Mr. Castillo that when you told the police that you remembered Gavin and Star sleeping in Mr. Jackson's room, you meant the lower portion of the two-level suite, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You told Mr. Castillo that Mr. Jackson’s room has an upstairs portion and a downstairs, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you told him that you never saw Gavin or Star sleeping in Mr. Jackson’s bed located upstairs, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll object; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: That is correct. I never saw them sleeping in the bed. I saw them out of bed, not sleeping.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Right. The only place you ever saw Gavin or Star sleeping was in the downstairs portion of Mr. Jackson’s room, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: That is correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. And you remember many guests of Mr. Jackson sleeping in his room, sometimes upstairs and sometimes downstairs, right?

A. That is correct, if you’re talking about the boys, yes.

Q. Yeah. He had guests come and sleep from time to time --

A. That is correct.

Q. -- in that suite, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Sometimes you’d see them upstairs, sometimes you’d see them downstairs, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Now, one time you suspected that Gavin might have been drinking at a dinner table, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. But you never saw Gavin drinking, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And his family used to have dinner at the dinner table, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. His mother used to have dinner at the dinner table, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, the prosecutor asked you questions about whether or not children have a lot of freedom at Neverland, right?
A. Right.
Q. And your answer was basically they do, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And so do their parents have freedom at Neverland, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. The prosecutor asked you about something along the lines of first-class service. Do you remember that?
A. Yes.
Q. And you said that Mr. Jackson liked to have his guests get high-quality service, right?
A. That is correct.

Q. But when you said that, you were also including adult guests, correct?
A. Right.
Q. And when you were there and you saw Janet Arvizo there, she was getting first-class service, true?
A. Yes, she was.
Q. Do you remember a period of time when Janet Arvizo was there with her former husband, David Arvizo? Do you remember that?
A. One time, yes.
Q. And they both were entitled to first-class service, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. And when Janet came with just her children, she had all the privileges that guests get at Neverland, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. She was able to enter the main residence, right?

A. Yes.
Q. She was able to order food when she wanted, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. She could sit at the dinner table at the main house and have dinner, or lunch, or breakfast, right?
A. That is correct.

Q. She also was allowed to enter the kitchen and sit at that bar area and order breakfast when she chose, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. She also ordered room service when she wanted, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And do you know which quarters she stayed in?
A. If I remember, it was on Unit 4.
Q. And that’s one of the most beautiful rooms on that property, isn’t it?
A. Yes, it is.
Q. It’s a room where Elizabeth Taylor and Marlon Brando request to stay, or used to request to stay from time to time, correct?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevancy.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Janet was entitled to the same service that guests like Elizabeth Taylor and Marlon Brando would get, correct?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevancy.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And when you told the jury that the theater would be open day and night, adult guests also were allowed to go into the theater day or night, right?

A. That is correct.
Q. And when you told the prosecutor that there was some rooms in the theater with beds in them, adults could use those rooms, true?
A. That is correct.
Q. The prosecutor talked about candy and sodas and food being available at all hours of date. They were also available for adult guests, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And isn't it true that Mr. Jackson wanted his adult guests to have special, classy service, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, you saw kids at Neverland visiting when Mr. Jackson wasn't there, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And typically, if kids visited Neverland when Mr. Jackson wasn't there, there were rules that were supposed to be followed for safety, as you said, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And typically, it was their parents or whatever adults were with them that appeared to be in charge of them, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you saw busloads of children from various locations visit Neverland from time to time, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, Mr. Jackson wasn't in charge of all of those busloads of children, was he?

A. No, he wasn't.

Q. In fact, most of the time when lots of kids would visit Neverland, some other adult appeared to be in charge of those kids, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And adults and children would visit Neverland and be given tours of Neverland, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Who typically would give those tours?

A. We assigned different people, employees of Neverland Valley.

Q. And tell the jury how a tour would be conducted when children and adults would visit Neverland.

A. They were --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Relevancy; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: They would arrive at Neverland Valley Ranch, park on the outside parking lot, walk to the train station. And from there, they were picked up either by train or walk, whatever they preferred to do, okay, take them back to the theater. Enjoy, you know, the petting zoo. They were allowed to visit where they wanted to. I mean, we had a schedule for them and took them everywhere, the property, to show them the place and enjoy the place. And they ended up at the theater and at the park.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And you would schedule lots of tours from time to time, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Sometimes you'd have a couple of hundred children visiting with adults, correct?

A. That is correct. Sometimes more than that.

Q. What's the largest number of kids you remember visiting at one time to Neverland?

A. I would say about 300, 300 kids.

Q. And did they come with adults who were in charge of them?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And did you arrange tours for these children as well?

A. Yes. We assigned the personnel to give them a tour, yes.

Q. Okay. And sometimes, if Michael Jackson was on the premises, he would come out and say hello, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. But he never was in charge of what these kids did, right?

A. That is correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague as to "kids."

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer's in. Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Who would prepare the schedule to indicate whether children were coming to Neverland on a particular day?

A. I believe that came from L.A. office.

Q. And would it be posted somewhere?

A. Yes. All Neverland personnel got a schedule of the kids coming to Neverland.

Q. And would you get a schedule typically the day before or that morning?

A. Normally we got it, like, two days before, a day before, yes.

Q. And as part of your work, you had to look at the future schedule every day, didn’t you?

A. That is correct.

Q. Because almost every day something unusual or special would be going on at Neverland, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And how long did you work at Neverland?

A. The total was 20 years.

Q. During that 20-year period, would it be accurate to say that many, many thousands of children came through, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. They came from Los Angeles, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. They came from Santa Barbara, right?

A. Right.

Q. They came from foreign countries, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Based upon your experience over 20 years, Neverland was a real attraction for children around the world, wasn’t it?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. And you considered a major part of your responsibility to be making sure that Neverland was kept up properly so that when children from all over the world came, they’d have a good time, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Over 20 years, it may have been hundreds of thousands of children you saw visit, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, the prosecutor asked you about the time Janet Arvizo asked you to drive her to Los Angeles, okay?

A. Correct.

Q. You told Jesus Castillo, our investigator, that at no time did anyone forcibly keep her at Neverland Ranch, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And at no time was she ever locked in her room, right?

A. Not that I was aware of.

Q. And at no time was she kept at Neverland Ranch against her will, right?

A. That is exactly what I said, yes.

Q. She called you upset and asked you to take her home and you did so, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You took her, yourself, in December; is that correct? Do you remember what month you took her yourself in the Rolls Royce?

A. It was December or January, somewhere around there. Pretty bad on dates.

Q. And then she came back, what, in less than a week?

A. I would say in about a couple weeks, thereabout.

Q. She came back, and then, a few weeks later, wanted to leave again, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you arranged transportation for her to leave again, right?

A. Yes, I had to call a limo.

Q. And that was, as far as you know, the last time you ever saw the Arvizos, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. When you drove Ms. Arvizo and her children in the Rolls Royce, she never made any complaints about the way she'd been treated at Neverland, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. She never said she'd been abused at Neverland, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. She never said her children had been taken advantage of at Neverland, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. But she didn't seem to like Dieter or

Ronald, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And she told you she was concerned about media attention on her family, right?

A. She mentioned about that, yes.

Q. Her concerns to you were media attention and the fact that she didn’t like Dieter, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. She never complained about anything else, did she?

A. No.

Q. In fact, she told you she respected and liked Michael Jackson, right?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. She never complained to you about Michael Jackson at all, did she?

A. Never.

Q. When you drove her in the Rolls Royce, she was in the front seat with you, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Her children were in the back seat, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you and she spoke during that three-hour trip, right?

A. She didn’t spoke too much, but, yes, she did.

Q. Did you speak to her very much when she used to stay at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And in -- on that trip, excuse me, Janet Arvizo never complained that she was being taken out of the country against her will, did she?

A. No, she never said anything.

Q. Do you remember when she returned, you think, within the next couple of weeks?

A. It was in the next couple of weeks, yes.

Q. Do you remember seeing her suddenly show up with her children again?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know what time of day that was?

A. I believe it was afternoon.

Q. Did you talk to her when you saw her return?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You never got the impression she was there against her will at that point, did you?

A. No, I didn’t.

Q. The last time Janet and the kids left Neverland, do you know who drove them home?

A. Yes, I called a limousine service.

Q. So you took her in a Rolls Royce one time, and the last time it was a limousine service that you arranged, true?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you remember any other times that Janet and the children left Neverland?

A. That was the last time I saw them.

Q. So you’re only personally aware of two times where they left Neverland; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. That you had anything to do with?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you about a safe that was brought onto the property to lock keys. Do you remember that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And if you remember, whose idea was it to put a safe where the keys could be locked?

A. It was the ranch manager idea and my idea.

Q. Did you discuss it with Michael Jackson?

A. No, we never did.

Q. You just ordered a safe?

A. We just ordered a safe.

Q. And you put the keys in the safe?

A. That is correct.

Q. And before that, where were the keys kept?

A. They were kept in the same room, behind the -- behind the door to the entry to the room, yes.

Q. Is that the entrance to the wine cellar?

A. No, no, no. That’s the entrance to the maids’ room.

Q. Okay. Okay. But they were hung out in open view, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Do you remember Frank Tyson’s sister, Marie

Nicole?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember her staying at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember her walking around the property and playing with Michael Jackson?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. Was it your impression that the family was close to Michael Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see Frank Tyson’s parents visit from time to time?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And do you remember their names?
A. I don’t. Sorry.
Q. Did you see Frank Tyson’s brothers visit from time to time?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. You talked about a combination to Mr. Jackson’s room. Remember that?

A. Yes.
Q. And did you always have that combination?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Do you know if anyone else had it, to your knowledge?
A. Ranch manager.
Q. What about staff who cleaned the room? Did they typically have it?
A. Yes. Yes. We have -- we had another guy there that also had it, know the combination of the room.
Q. And that combination was changed periodically, right?
A. My time there, we changed it about a couple times.
Q. Okay. Do you remember it being changed because too many people seemed to have it?
A. We noticed there was so many kids going into the room, so we figured we change the combination, yes.
Q. Do you remember Michael Jackson complaining that Frank was going into his bedroom when Michael was out of town?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Was it your understanding that Frank could get into that room on occasion?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not Frank seemed like he could get into Michael's bedroom from time to time?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever observe Frank in Michael Jackson's bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever see Marie Nicole in Michael Jackson's bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. And again, when I say "bedroom," we're talking about two levels, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. It's a rather large area, isn't it?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And on the lower level, people can sit down and enjoy themselves, can't they?
A. That is correct. Yes.
Q. What do you recall there being on the lower level of Michael Jackson's bedroom when you were working there?
A. I just recall that it was a peaceful area that people can sit and enjoy themselves there. Fireplace or -- it was pretty peaceful place to be.
Q. And he would entertain people in the lower portion of his bedroom, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.
Q. People would get served food there, correct?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. People would get served drinks there, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And you say there's a fireplace?
A. There's a fireplace there.
Q. People would sit around the fireplace and chat, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And sometimes they did it when Mr. Jackson was there, and sometimes they did it when he wasn't there, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Foundation; assumes facts.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer. Do you want the question read back?

MR. MESEREAU: Do you want -- I'm sorry.

THE WITNESS: Answer it?

THE COURT: Yes. Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: No, I understood the question.

Pretty much when Mr. Jackson wasn't there, nobody was allowed to go into his room.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: There were times when he let people in, weren't there?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. And they would have some fun when Mr. Jackson wasn't even there, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. Now, approximately what year did you start working at Neverland?

A. Since the beginning, do you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. I would say in '83, 1983.

Q. '83?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. So, there was a point in time where your daughter used to visit Neverland, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And what is her name?

A. Sandra.

Q. Sandra used to visit when she was approximately five years old, right?

A. Five, six, yes.

Q. She used to play with Michael Jackson, right?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. He used to give her gifts, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Now, normally do people who work at

Neverland bring their children there very often?

A. We have -- they have what is called "Family Day," yes.

Q. And please tell the jury what "Family Day" is.

A. Family Day is a day where it's open for the employees to bring all your family and have access to all the facilities there, yes.

Q. And how often does that happen?

A. Once a year at least.

Q. And that's a big event at Neverland, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And Michael Jackson closes Neverland off for other visits and lets all of the help and their family take over pretty much, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it starts in the morning, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. Goes late into the evening, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you mentioned a petting zoo before. Please tell the jury what the petting zoo is.

A. The petting zoo is a place where they have just little animals for kids, where they can go and play with the animals. We have -- I mean, they have a variety of animals where kids can, pretty safe, go and touch the animals.

Q. And what kind of animals do you have in the petting zoo?

A. Well, they have llamas. They have deers. They are rabbits. They have pigs. Birds. What else do they have? They have lots of animals.

Q. And the petting zoo is primarily designed for kids, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And then you have a larger zoo, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And please tell the jury what's in the larger zoo.

A. Well, that's where you can find the big animals. Like you can find elephants, lions, chimpanzees. You can find llamas and different other animals. Wolfs. Stuff like that.

Q. You got giraffes, right?

A. Giraffes.

Q. There’s a camel?

A. Right, exactly.

Q. And typically, at least once a day, the trainers walk two elephants through the property, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And they walk the elephants through the property, and very often guests, if they follow the rules, can feed them, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And Mr. Jackson will pay for bags of doughnuts and goodies to give to the elephants, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Is that a once-a-day affair?

A. Yes, pretty much once a day.

Q. Okay. It’s usually a big thing for kids and their parents, right?

A. Right.

Q. Now, as part of your duties at Neverland, you often would pay for toys for kids, correct?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. And you would be reimbursed, typically, if you spent your own money on toys, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You would get a reimbursement check of -- for as much as $11,000 from time to time, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And what kind of rules did you follow as far as buying toys for kids is concerned?

A. Really wasn’t any rules. We just went and bought some toys.

Q. But the prosecutor asked you questions about how influential Mr. Jackson was in running affairs. Didn’t he give you a lot of flexibility in just going out, buying hundreds of toys, and then just charging him for it?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And where would you go buy those toys?

A. Toys-R-Us.

Q. Okay. Would you drive there yourself?

A. Pretty much Mr. Jackson came along or with the kids or some adults, yes.

Q. And Mr. Jackson would from time to time let you drive parents and their children to Toys-R-Us, right?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. And he would tell you to buy them whatever they'd like, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You'd spend thousands of dollars on these kids, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And that was one of your responsibilities as ranch manager, right?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. To try and take care of the children as best you could, right?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. Now, what are the safety regulations in effect at the zoo, to your knowledge?

A. Well, there's certain regulations for the zoo, especially with the big animals. Again, for the safety of the guests or kids, yes.

Q. And you have all these amusement rides as well, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Please tell the jury what amusements rides you have for the kids and the parents.

A. Well, there's different rides. The Ferris wheel. They have the merry-go-round. They have a big slide. They have a -- oh, got -- they have the Sea Dragon. They have various rides also for kids, for small kids, yes.

Q. And when you have these busloads of kids and adults show up and they want to use the rides, what safety precautions do you have?

A. Well, we have a -- we just got to make sure that the kids don't get hurt. We have regulations for that. We have personnel there guiding the kids and taking care of the kids so nobody gets hurt.

Q. And the personnel specialize in the amusement park portion of Neverland, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And are they in charge of maintaining the rides, making sure the machinery's okay?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And were they under your supervision?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Who was supervising the people who run the amusement park?

A. There's -- Neverland has different groups of people, you know, like departments, what we call it, and it was the person in charge of the amusement park.

Q. Just like there's a group in charge of the petting zoo and the bigger zoo, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And when these children and these adults visit Neverland, these different groups are all available to make sure kids are safe, right?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. Now, when you have hundreds of children running around Neverland, they can sometimes get into all kinds of mischievous situations, right?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. You've seen kids caught in the house in various rooms, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And they've been politely asked to leave, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You've seen kids trying to get in doors they're not supposed to get through, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You've seen kids trying to get into the arcade whenever they can, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And kids are sometimes caught with things in their hands, little things they found in the main house and they have -- you have to take them away from them, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And it's never been your understanding that Mr. Jackson is personally supervising all of this, right?

A. No.

Q. In fact, he’s amazingly generous in letting people come into his home and go through it, and see it, right?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. And this is a large home that has a lot of beautiful antiques, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. A lot of family pictures, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. He has things he’s collected from all over the world, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And he often lets whoever visits come through the house so they can see all of this, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And when he has guests stay over in the guest quarters, I believe you said that they pretty much can walk into that main house when they want, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. He has staff available all the time to prepare a meal for them if they want one, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And in that kitchen area, you have unlocked -- an unlocked refrigerator area, correct?

A. That’s correct. It’s open.

Q. And they can go in there all the time and get sodas, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Juice, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Milk?

A. Whatever their choice is.

Q. And you’ll find wine in there, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And he lets his adult guests go in there and get wine when they choose, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And glasses are nearby if they want a glass, right?

A. Yes.

Q. It’s a very large refrigerator area, isn’t it?

A. It is.

Q. How many glass doors do you think are on that large refrigerated area?

A. Oh, God. About six, eight, something like that.

Q. Six or eight transparent doors they can go into to get all kinds of beer, wine, soda, milk, orange juice, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And there’s a menu that’s posted on a blackboard most days, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And what do you typically find on that menu?

A. You find the menu for the food or whatever the people wants to use.

Q. There’s usually some special dishes that the staff are preparing for that day, right?

A. Exactly, yes. Right.

Q. And there also is a standard menu that Michael Jackson printed up that he gives that people have to order from, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And you got sandwiches and soup and stuff like that, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And on that bar area where people can come anytime of day, you can sit there and just ask whoever is there to prepare eggs or an omelet, whatever you want, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And there are homemade buns and doughnuts that are put on there every day, right?

A. Right.

Q. Anytime of day, 24 hours a day, you can go into that main house and get what you want, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Even when Mr. Jackson is upstairs with his children, very often people will come downstairs to either see the house or get something to eat, right?

A. That is correct, yes.
Q. The prosecutor asked you about candy and ice cream and stuff like that. That’s available to everybody, isn’t it?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. It’s not just available to children. It’s available for adults as well, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And when you walk into that theater, you’ve got a whole candy/ice cream area in the front, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And typically, Mr. Jackson will have one of his people there just to serve whatever people want, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. Ice cream sandwiches, ice cream cones, right?
A. Whatever they prefer, yes.
Q. There’s a big popcorn area, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And you will see sometimes visitors looking at movies anytime of day, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And there’s a huge collection of movies they can sometimes choose from, right?
A. Right.
Q. And other times there are just a couple that you can choose for the day, right?

A. That is correct, yes.
Q. Okay. There are other areas of Neverland people want to see, right?
A. Right.
Q. There are areas where they can see Mr. Jackson’s costumes that he’s worn on music tours, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. There are areas where they can see his glove? Kids love to see the gloves he’s worn, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. In fact, some of the memorabilia from his musical tours around the world are actually in an area not far from the wine cellar; correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You also have sleeping bags stored down in the area near where the wine cellar is, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did you work there before Mr. Jackson purchased the property?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. That wine cellar area was already there when Mr. Jackson purchased the property, right?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Now, there is a procedures manual at Neverland that, at least on paper, identifies what people are supposed to do or not do, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And security is a concern there, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. Because if you really look at the perimeter of Neverland, you can get in those fences, can’t you?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. In fact, it’s -- it’s easy for anyone to go in or out of those three-rail fences anytime, right?

A. Absolutely.

Q. And you’ve caught people on the property who tried to get over to Neverland and find Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Many times.

Q. And there are roads around the property where cars drive at high speeds, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And there is also a concern that children will somehow wander on the road, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Let me get back to Janet Arvizo. Didn’t she complain one time that she felt Frank and Vinnie were separating her from Michael Jackson?

A. I don’t recall her telling me that, no.

Q. Did she complain that Dieter and Ronald were separating her from Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. She appeared not to like Dieter or Ronald at all, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. When Janet and the children would arrive on the property, were they given assistance in transporting their luggage to their rooms?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Who would help Janet transport her luggage to her rooms?

A. Many times it was security, Neverland Valley security, or myself.

Q. And would Janet pretty much tell you what to carry from her car or however she got there?

A. No, not really.

Q. Who would assign the rooms to the Arvizos when they visited and stayed at Neverland?

A. I did.

Q. And what would determine, for you, what room to put them in?

A. It would depend. Many times we had some other guests on the property. And if we have one available, that was the only one that was going to be for them. And many times I ask them, “Okay, which room do you guys want to stay in?” So that’s how I decided.

Q. Did anyone ever complain about the room that they were placed in?

A. No, not really.

Q. Did the kids ever complain?

A. No.

Q. The rooms they were placed in, as far as you’re concerned, were all beautiful rooms, weren’t they?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. They were cleaned every day, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And they had constant room service if they wanted it, right?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. Mr. Jackson wanted them treated just as well as any other guests, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How many times, Mr. Salas, has the prosecution contacted you to talk to you about the case?

A. A couple times.

Q. And how many times did you meet with representatives of the sheriff’s department?

A. A couple times.

Q. They never asked you if you ever brought nonalcoholic beverages for the Arvizo children, did they? They never asked you that question, did they?

A. No, they didn’t.

Q. Now, I think you said that Michael Jackson appeared frustrated at what Frank was doing on the property from time to time, right?

A. That is correct. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

MR. MESEREAU: I don’t think it does, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “Yes.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Michael Jackson was frustrated that Frank was bringing guests to Neverland without him knowing about it, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And how old was Frank at the time, do you think?

A. I’m not sure how old was he. I will say he was about, what, 35.

Q. Early twenties?

A. Somewhere around there, yes.

Q. To your knowledge, how was Frank able to bring guests to the property without Michael Jackson knowing about it?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: It was his own decision.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: But what would Frank do, if you know, to bring guests onto the property without Michael Jackson knowing about it?

A. What he would do there?
Q. Yes.
A. Just have fun at Neverland.
Q. Oh, no, excuse me. I didn't state it properly. It's my mistake.
If Frank wanted to bring guests onto the property without Michael Jackson knowing about it, what would he do?
A. He would just call security and tell -- let security know that he had some guests coming in, or tell me.
Q. Would he typically tell them that Michael wants them visiting?
A. No, he never said that.
Q. He just said he wanted them to visit, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. And he would bring a number of female guests from time to time, correct?
A. Correct.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevance.
THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, "Correct."
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: In fact, he tried to bring a lot of girls onto the property, didn't he?
A. That is correct.
Q. He used to brag to them that he was a friend to Michael Jackson, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Hearsay; relevance.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Now, you mentioned someone named Malnik visited the property one time, right?
A. Right.
Q. Did you speak to him?
A. Not in a conversation, no, I didn't.
Q. You just saw him?
A. Just saw him, say hi. And that was it.
Q. The prosecutor mentioned someone named Zia, right?
A. That's correct. That is correct.
Q. Did you see Zia on the property?
A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you talk to him?

A. Just for a short time. Not --

Q. And Zia was, to your knowledge, Mr. Jackson’s attorney, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see him there often?

A. No, I only saw him there a couple times.

Q. And what did you see him doing?

A. Just had a meeting with Mr. Jackson.

Q. Okay. You would see all kinds of people visit from time to time to meet with Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase.

Q. The prosecutor has limited his questions to you to Dieter, Ronald, Frank. Mr. Jackson didn’t spend all of his time meeting with these people, did he?

A. Not all the time, no.

Q. Mr. Jackson from time to time would have numerous visitors to Neverland to see him, correct?

A. That is correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague as to time.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: That is correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You would often see a full schedule of people visiting Neverland to see Mr. Jackson, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: That is correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you recall Mr. Jackson doing work in his studio at Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. And what do you recall seeing him doing?

A. Doing some recording. Dancing. Practicing.

Yes.

Q. Did you watch him practice dance?

A. No, I didn’t.
Q. And how did you know he was practicing dance? Would he tell you?
A. Right.
Q. And would he tell you not to let anyone in, that he’s doing his creative work?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Because of his work, yes, he did not want to be bothered, yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you also see him teaching kids how to dance from time to time?
A. I never saw that.
Q. Okay. How about in his recording studio, would he bring kids and adults into his recording studio to see it?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And didn’t he used to show them how he does his work in his recording studio?
A. Yes.
Q. And sometimes he wanted to just be left alone in there, right?
A. That is correct. Yes.
Q. And when he wanted to be left alone, he’d spend hours and hours in there, right?

A. That’s correct, yes.
Q. Okay. Now, you would see Mr. Jackson awake on his property at all different hours, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Sometimes he gets up at 3:00 in the morning, doesn’t he?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And he will take walks alone on his property, right?
A. That’s right.
Q. That’s how he does a lot of his composing, right?
A. That is correct.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You’d also see Mr. Jackson from time to time driving alone on his property, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Would you know in advance if Mr. Jackson was going to leave the property to go somewhere?

A. Yes.

Q. And who would you -- who would tell you that Mr. Jackson was leaving the property?

A. Sometimes I found out about -- by his bodyguard.

Q. Okay. And what are some of the other ways that you would find out Mr. Jackson might be either leaving the property or going out of town?

A. By Mr. Jackson.

Q. Okay. Did you speak to Mr. Jackson every day when he was there?

A. Pretty much, yes.

Q. When he wasn’t there, who would you speak to?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Ambiguous; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: When he wasn’t there, well, nobody is -- the ranch manager.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Let me ask you this: When Mr. Jackson’s out of town, which you saw him do quite often during your 20 years there, right?

A. Right.

Q. You saw him go on music tours, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you saw him travel to various cities in America, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And he would travel to various cities around the world, right?

A. Yes.

Q. When he’s not there, does the place pretty much run the way it runs when he’s there?

A. It runs the same way.

Q. And that’s because there are various procedures in effect to make sure it runs properly, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. When Mr. Jackson’s there, he’s not walking around the property just running everything, is he?

A. No, no.

Q. In fact, very often when he’s there, you hardly see him, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Because Mr. Jackson is doing his creative work for hours and hours on end, right?

A. Correct.

Q. So how does the place sort of run when he’s not there? I mean, if you can explain it.

A. Because of the people in charge of running the place, so we’ll -- the place always running the same, so -- whether he’s there or not.

Q. And even if he’s there, you have to report to other individuals to get information, don’t you?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. So when the prosecutor asked you about your reporting directly to Michael Jackson, you didn’t mean you’re talking to him all day about what’s going on?

A. No.

Q. And if you report to him on a given day, it might be just one time, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. In response to the prosecutor’s questions, you mentioned some things about Frank saying he’ll take care of things, correct?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. But Frank also used to brag about how close he was to Michael Jackson, didn’t he?

A. Right.

Q. You didn’t get the impression he was always telling the truth, did you?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; calls for a conclusion.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said, in response to the prosecutor’s questions, that on occasion you would see Frank and Michael Jackson together, right?

A. Right.

Q. But you also often saw Frank not around Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. And you often saw Mr. Jackson without Frank, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And you didn't really know what work Frank was doing, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. But from time to time, he would try and brag that he was in the music business, right?

A. Correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: I want to ask you a little more about security at Neverland, okay? It's about 2800 acres of property, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Very spread out over hills, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And it's surrounded by these fences that you said anybody could come in, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You have a front gate that you have to stop at if you're driving in, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you have to push a button and identify who you are, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And people at that security gate typically have a list of who's supposed to be allowed in, right?

A. Right.

Q. And I think what you said is that Frank would often call the people at that gate and say, "Let so and so in," right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you did indicate there had been efforts by people to drive and get onto the property and find Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Right.

Q. And you have some security guards who patrol the property a bit, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And they don’t have weapons, right?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Because Michael Jackson doesn’t want weapons on his property, right?

A. Correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Foundation; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not Mr. Jackson has a policy that he doesn’t want weapons on his property?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And he’s typically very concerned about his children’s safety, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You said that Frank was staying in the video library, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And was there a bed in there?

A. It’s a couch that turns into a bed, yes.

Q. Is that where he would stay when he visited?

A. Correct.

Q. There were long periods of time Frank wasn’t even there, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection as to -- vague as to time.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Let’s go to 2003. I’ll rephrase it, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Let’s take the year 2003. There were periods of time you wouldn’t even see Frank on the property, right?

A. There was some times, yes.

Q. And there are times you would also see him, correct?

A. Correct. Yes.

Q. There were times you would see Dieter on the property, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And there were times you wouldn’t see him at all, right?

A. Correct. Yes.

Q. There were times you’d see Ron on the property, correct?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. And there were times you wouldn't see him at all?

A. Right.

Q. And during this period of time, you had your constant visitors on a daily basis to the property, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You had many other people who had scheduled meetings with Michael Jackson, right?

A. Right. Yes.

Q. And you also had your periodic tours of children and adults to Neverland, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You indicated that you think that Mr. Jackson was at Neverland when the Arvizos visited in 2003, right?

A. Right.

Q. You're not sure that he was there every day, though, are you?

A. That is right, yes.

Q. If there were days he wasn't there when the Arvizos were there in 2003, you're just not sure, correct?

That's a bad question. Let me -- I don't think I could answer that one.

In 2003 when the Arvizos were at Neverland, sometimes Michael Jackson was there and sometimes he wasn't, right?

A. That is correct. There was days that he was not there, yes.

Q. There were times he was out of town, right?

A. Right.

Q. There were times he was gone from the premises during the day, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. There were times he was in his studio, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. There were times he was doing his dance routines, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. There were times he was taking children around Neverland on a tour, right?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. And there would be constant meetings of one form or another involving Michael Jackson with other people, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. The prosecutor asked you about Michael Jackson playing with kids. Michael Jackson plays with kids all the time at Neverland, doesn't he?

A. Yes, he does.

Q. He often acts like a kid himself, doesn't he?

A. Yes.

Q. And he takes pride particularly in bringing inner city kids to Neverland to have fun, doesn't he?

A. Correct. Yes.

Q. We're talking about kids from poverty, kids from broken homes, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. He sometimes personally arranges those visits himself, doesn't he?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not Michael Jackson sometimes personally arranges visits by kids to Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. And typically when these busloads of kids get to Neverland, they all want to see Michael Jackson, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And sometimes you schedule all these kids and these adults to be at a certain location to wait for Michael to come out and see them, right?

A. That is correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'll object as cumulative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Isn't that true?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And he would call you and arrange to have toys available for all these kids when they would visit, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you would typically have all the kids assemble on the property, and staff would start distributing toys to them, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And very often in the middle of the toy distribution, Michael comes out to see the kids, right?

A. On some occasion, yes.

Q. And you'll see them running to Michael. They want to see him; they want to touch him, right?

A. Correct.

Q. The adults will do the same, correct?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. Now, the prosecutor asked you what these children do at Neverland, and you talked about bike riding.

A. Yes.

Q. What did you mean by bike riding?

A. He's got so many toys, they can just take off on the quad-runners, scooters. That's what I meant.

Q. And you never got the impression Michael Jackson was supervising the bike riding, did you?

A. No.

Q. People on the property who worked for Mr. Jackson take care of that, don't they?

A. Especially security, yes.

Q. And also you expect the parents or the adults in charge to have some responsibility, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You talked about quads, okay. And what did you mean by that?

A. They have those four-wheelers that they can go off, off the road. That's --

Q. And they typically ride on the roads at Neverland, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And who supervises that, typically?

A. Oh, themself. Themselves or security.
Q. You have never thought Michael Jackson was walking around supervising who got into those vehicles, did you?
A. No, no.
Q. He doesn’t seem to supervise any of that, does he?
A. No, he doesn’t.
Q. Okay. He assumes staff on the premises will, right?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Objection. No foundation, as to what Mr. Jackson assumes. Calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You told the prosecutor that sometimes Michael Jackson would play with kids on a daily basis, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And you would see him playing with kids all over the premises, right?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you see Michael Jackson take these kids to the petting zoo?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see him take them to the bigger zoo?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see him take them to the arcade?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see him take them to the theater?
A. Yes.
Q. How about ride with them on the train?
A. Correct.
Q. Okay. This went on all the time, didn’t it?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. Now, the prosecutor asked you questions about Mr. Jackson appearing intoxicated, okay?
A. Right.
Q. Now, you never saw him drinking, right?
A. No, I didn’t.
Q. And were you aware that there were times when he had a prescription drug problem?

A. Yes, I -- yes, I was.
Q. And he had gotten a lot of injections from various physicians?
A. That is correct, yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you know Michael Jackson had -- excuse me, let me rephrase. Did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson at various times had a prescription drug problem?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. And did you know he was treated for that?
A. Yes.
Q. When you saw him appearing intoxicated, you don’t know what the cause was, correct?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. You knew he had suffered severe burns on his body, didn’t you?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Foundation; relevance.
THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you know whether or not, during one entertainment event, Mr. Jackson suffered severe burns all over his body?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Ob -- I’ll --
THE WITNESS: Yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you know he was being treated for that?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague as to time.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson was being treated by physicians with medication because he’d been badly burned?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague as to time.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: At any time?
A. Yes.
Q. That was common knowledge at Neverland, was it not?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll object and move to strike the last answer. Still vague as to time.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During the year 2002, were you aware -- excuse me. During the year 2002, do you know whether or not Michael Jackson was being treated by various physicians for health problems?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Vague as to “health problems.”

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll object as to foundation.

THE COURT: The answer -- the question calls for a “yes” or “no” answer. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And during the year 2002, were you aware that Mr. Jackson --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection to the form of the question. “Were you aware” assumes facts.

THE COURT: You have to let him finish the question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During the year 2002, were you aware -- excuse me. During the year 2002, did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson was taking medications for a broken leg?

A. Yes.

Q. During the year 2002, did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson was taking medications for a foot problem?

A. Yes.

Q. And during the year 2002, did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson had recurring problems because he had been badly burned?

A. Yes.

Q. During the year 2002, did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson had back problems?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m going to object as to foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During the year 2003, did you know whether or not Mr. Jackson was taking prescription drugs for a leg problem?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not Mr. Jackson took prescription drugs in the year 2003 while you were working there?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you recall seeing Mr. Jackson’s children in his bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. They would be in there a lot during the time you worked there, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. You would see his children at the lower level, right?

A. Correct.

Q. You would see them in his bedroom upstairs, right?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. Did you typically spend much time with Mr. Jackson’s children?

A. I would say I didn’t spend too much time with them because -- but saw them, I mean, every day there, yes.

Q. Every day?

A. Yes.

Q. And you would mainly see them in the main house?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you see them on the property also?

A. Yes.

Q. But you saw them in his room quite often, didn’t you?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know anything about an alarm system that one has to use to get into Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague as to “one has to use” an alarm system.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And have you set off that alarm from time to time?
A. No, not really.
Q. Have you heard the alarm go off?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Do you know much about that alarm system?
A. I know about it, but I -- you know, not -- didn’t get involved in that too much.
Q. It’s not something that you would typically handle?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Okay. Have you seen Mr. Jackson entertain adults at his home in the evening?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. He does that quite often, doesn’t he?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And when he does that, you often see adults drinking alcohol, don’t you?
A. Right.

Q. You see staff serving them alcohol, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. And they’re free to go into the kitchen area and grab alcohol if they want to, typically, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. You’ve also seen them served alcohol in his bedroom, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You’ve seen adults sitting in the lower level of his bedroom drinking, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And typically there would be an order placed by someone, and staff will bring alcohol into his bedroom for that purpose, right?
A. Right.
Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you about complaints involving kids in the wine cellar, right?
A. Right.
Q. During the 20 years you worked at Neverland, that area you call the wine cellar was always a wine cellar, was it not?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And this is the area that you said, close by, has an area which has Mr. Jackson's memorabilia from tours around the world, right?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. And in that area nearby is where you can see his costumes, his gloves, and things of that sort, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And typically kids and adults want to go there and see all these costumes from his very successful music career, right?

A. That is right, yes.

Q. And once in a while, somebody will bring people down to that cellar area so they can see all that memorabilia, right?

A. Right.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Misstates the evidence that the memorabilia is in the cellar area.

MR. MESEREAU: That's what he testified to, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No, it's not. Rephrase your question.

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, sir.

Q. Let's take the area that we've identified as the wine cellar, okay? You got to go down the stairs to get there, right?

A. Right, yes.

Q. When you get down those stairs, where do you see the wine cellar when you reach the foot of the stairs?

A. It's on the wall. Placed on the wall.

Q. There are other areas around the wine cellar which have other purposes in the house, right?

A. Right.

Q. And doesn't one of those areas have costumes, gloves, and memorabilia from Mr. Jackson's tours?

A. Not specifically in that area.

Q. Well, it's not far away, though, right?

A. It's outside there.

Q. But you can certainly -- from time to time, he has stored stuff there, hasn't he?

A. Yes. I would say that, yes.

Q. And sometimes people have gone down to look at that stuff, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And there’s some other areas at Neverland where that stuff is stored as well, right?

A. The main part, yes.

Q. Because there’s a ton of stuff.

A. Yes.

Q. From a long, successful career.

A. Yes.

Q. Now, during the 20 years you’ve been at Neverland, there have been very few complaints about children being in the wine cellar, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. You’re talking about maybe a couple over a 20-year period, right?

A. That is correct, during my time there, yes.

Q. Mr. Jackson’s policy is not to let kids in the wine cellar, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. The prosecutor talked about young boys from Los Olivos, and you identified their pictures, right?

A. Right.

Q. And you’ve seen them there with their parents from time to time, haven’t you?

A. No, not with their parents.

Q. The parents have visited?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. But they also have come from time to time on their own, correct?

A. Themself, yes.

Q. And they’ve come from time to time when Mr. Jackson wasn’t even there, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And people on the property know them, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And generally nobody objects to their visiting Neverland, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. They sometimes come alone and they sometimes come with their parents, right?

A. Yes.

Q. They’re really neighbors, aren’t they?

A. Yes.

Q. And once in a while they’ve gotten into some trouble there, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. They’ve been known as mischievous kids, right?

A. Right.

Q. They’ve been caught in various places around Neverland, haven’t they?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. They’ve been caught in rooms, true?

A. Correct.

Q. They were caught playing hide-and-seek in the house, weren’t they?

A. Right, yes.

Q. Now, if you catch kids playing hide-and-seek in the house or getting into trouble, typically what do you do?

A. Well, you try to explain to them that -- you know, if you caught them doing something they’re not supposed to be doing, you just let them know that, you know, that’s not what they should be -- you know, that there’s some certain things that, you know, they’re allowed to do, there’s things that they’re not allowed to do, so we let them know.

Q. But like -- let’s take these kids from Los Olivos that are neighbors who are allowed on the property, and sometimes their parents aren’t there. Who kind of watches them when they come alone?

A. Pretty much nobody. They’re on their own.

Q. Do people on the property keep an eye on them, or what happens?

A. Well, you know, I would say yes, security, just for safety reasons, yes. Or the staff personnel if they’re at the amusement park, yes.

Q. If they go into the main house, which they do from time to time, who would be in the main house typically, who might see them?

A. I would say that will be the maids, the cooks, yes. Or myself.

Q. And if they start going upstairs into the bedrooms, who are they likely to run into?

A. Well, they'll run into the doors. They can't go in.

Q. Besides the doors, who might they see? Will they see the people who are cleaning?

A. Yes, they might run into maids or somebody else from the house staff. Yes.

Q. And how many kids are we talking about?

A. We're talking about the --

Q. Three?

A. Three kids, yes.

Q. All right. And how long have they been coming onto the property, to your knowledge? Excuse me, let me rephrase that.

When you were working there, for how long a period of time do you remember their coming freely on and off the property?

A. They would come in frequently.

Q. Regularly?

A. Yes.

Q. Would it be in the evening, morning, weekends? What would it be?

A. It would be weekends or days, yes.

Q. And how would they get on? Would they go through the main gate?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And do people in the main gate know them?

A. Yes.

Q. And do they typically just let them walk onto the property?

A. Yes.

Q. Would somebody drive them anywhere?

A. Well, sometimes they drove to the place, so -- yes, they drove their own car.

Q. And how old were these young boys?

A. Young kids; 15, 16.

Q. 15, 16?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And they're the ones that got in trouble from time to time?

A. Right.

Q. All right. Would anyone call their parents up typically and say, “Your teenaged kids are in trouble”?

A. Not my knowledge.

Q. Okay. Were they ever asked to leave the property, to your knowledge?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Actually, Mr. Jackson didn’t want them to get in trouble with their parents, did he?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Calls for speculation; no foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Let me ask you a few more questions about the Arvizos at Neverland.

You saw the Arvizo children roaming freely around Neverland when they stayed there, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. They’d use the amusement rides when they chose, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. They’d go into the theater when they wanted to, right?

A. Right.

Q. They jumped on the train when they wanted to, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And they would visit the zoo when they chose, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Did you ever see the mother supervising the children at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see her keeping an eye on the children at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. When you saw them at the zoo, do you recall the mother ever being with them?

A. No.

Q. When you saw the Arvizo children at the amusement park on the rides, did you ever see the mother with them?

A. No.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; cumulative.

THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: No.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you saw the Arvizo children on the train, did you ever see their mother with them?
A. No.
Q. When you saw the Arvizo children in the theater, did you see the mother with them?
A. No.
Q. But you saw the mother eating in the main house, didn’t you?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And you saw her walking around the property, right?
A. Right.
Q. Would you describe the Arvizo children as mischievous?

A. At some point.
Q. Well, they got in trouble at the amusement park, didn’t they?
A. Yes.
Q. Tell the jury what happened.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; 403.
THE COURT: The objection is overruled. But we’re going to take our break, so we’ll start with that question when we come back.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: Counsel? Go ahead.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.
Q. Just a couple more questions.
You mentioned that the Arvizo family returned to Neverland a number of times in 2003, right?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. Do you know how they got to Neverland?
A. I believe they did on the limo.
Q. A limo?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it your impression that the Arvizos had access to a limousine service when they wanted to?
MR AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.
MR. MESEREAU: I think there is a foundation, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'll sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You indicated that on at least one occasion you called a limousine service so the Arvizos could leave Neverland, right?

A. That is correct. Yes.

Q. And you said on the other occasion you took Michael's Rolls Royce and drove them yourself, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And that was in the middle of the night when Janet wanted to leave, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And I believe you said on other occasions when the Arvizos left Neverland, it was your understanding they always had a limousine, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Do you know who would arrange for the limousines to transport the Arvizos?

A. I called them personally.

Q. You would do it personally?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times do you think you personally called a limousine service to transport the Arvizos?

A. I think it was around three times. Somewhere around there.

Q. Is there a particular limousine service that you would normally call?

A. It's out of Santa Barbara. And it's called -- what is it called? Limo Link, I believe.

Q. Okay. Now, you wouldn't discuss with Michael Jackson the fact that you wanted to call a limousine service, right?

A. No.

Q. You had enough authority to do that if you thought it was the appropriate thing to do, right?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. And was it your understanding that from time to time guests of Mr. Jackson would need a limousine?

A. Correct.

Q. And you would get a call from someone asking for you to arrange for a limousine, correct?

A. That is correct, yes.
Q. Actually, Mr. Jackson was pretty generous with arranging for limousines to take his guests off the property, wasn’t he?
A. Correct, yes.
Q. Do you recall Janet Arvizo from time to time leaving the premises to go into town?
A. I believe there was only one time.
Q. And did she talk to you about that?
A. Yes, she did.
Q. Was it your understanding she was getting a body wax that day?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And was it arranged for a limousine to take her to the body wax place?
A. No, it wasn’t.

Q. How did she get to the body wax place?
A. I sent one of the maids with her.
Q. So you arranged for a maid to drive her to the body wax?
A. That, yes.
Q. That was a salon, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And was that in Los Olivos, if you know?
A. Los Olivos or Solvang, somewhere in there.
Q. Okay. Okay. She was away for quite a while that day, correct?
A. Correct, yes.
Q. Do you recall it being three or four hours?
A. Somewhere around there, yes.
Q. Now, did Janet tell you she wanted to get a body wax at a salon that day?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Why did you arrange for one of the maids to drive Janet Arvizo off the premises to get a body wax?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Foundation; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know why one of the maids drove Janet Arvizo off the premises to get a body wax?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Were you in charge of the maid who drove Janet Arvizo off the premises to get a body wax?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. Did you ask the maid to do that?
A. Yes, I did.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Why did you ask the maid to do that?
A. Well, I figured it was a --
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Hearsay; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know which car the maid used?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevance.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Just a couple more questions. Do you recall -- do you recall Mr. Jackson traveling to Florida during 2003?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall Mr. Jackson traveling to Las Vegas during 2003?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall him traveling anywhere else, if you can recall?

A. Pretty much, that I can remember was just Florida and Vegas.
Q. Okay. Finally, the prosecutor asked you questions about some beds in the theater. Remember that?
A. Correct.
Q. Aren’t those hospital beds for handicapped kids?
A. Yes, they are.
MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Salas, those hospital beds in the theater, does Mr. Jackson use those beds personally?
A. Occasionally, yes, to watch a movie.
Q. Do other kids who were not handicapped use those beds?
A. Yes, they do.
Q. As far as the limousines go, you testified on direct examination that you were told not to let the Arvizos off the property unless you got approval; is that correct?
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. And you said that you arranged for three limousines -- three times that you arranged for limousines to transport the Arvizos off the property?

A. That I can remember, yes.
Q. Okay. Was this all -- those three times, were they all in 2003 during that period of time you’ve testified about?
A. I believe it was one time in 2002.
Q. Okay. So the other two times that you ordered a limousine service to transport the Arvizos, did you get permission from somebody at the ranch to let them off the property?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Who did you get permission from?
A. I got permission from -- it was Frank, yes.
Q. All right. You talked a little bit about a time at the dinner table when you suspected that Gavin had been drinking. Do you remember --
A. Correct.
Q. -- testifying about that?
Was Michael Jackson present at the dinner table that night?
A. No, he was not.
Q. Was Frank present at the dinner table that night?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. And did you ultimately determine whether Gavin had been drinking that night?
A. Didn’t really specify that, but I -- just by the way he was acting, I knew that he was drinking.
Q. Was there another time when you saw Gavin when he appeared to be drinking?

A. That was the only time.

Q. And that only time that you saw him drinking, that he appeared to be intoxicated, what was he doing that made you think that?

A. The way he was acting, just not normal. Just his reactions.

Q. Had you had occasion to see Gavin a number of times before that or after that when he was acting normal, in your opinion?

A. Ask the question again.

Q. I guess my question is, did you have a good frame of reference for judging whether Gavin was acting normal or not?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: That was the only time I saw that I noticed that.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. So my question was, did you spend enough time around Gavin to feel as if you could make a call as to whether or not he was acting drunk or not? Do you understand that question?

A. Yes, I do. I would say yes, I --

Q. Okay. And how was he acting that made you think he was -- how was he acting differently on that evening that made you think he was drunk?

A. Pretty simple. Just when somebody's drunk, I mean, you can tell by the way they look, their reaction, of the way they look, the way they talk. Just verbal, the way he was talking.

Q. Was it obvious to you he'd been drinking?

A. I would say yes.

Q. And you said Frank was at the table. Who else was at the table that night?

A. I believe it was Vinnie and some of Frank's guests, I believe it was. A couple girls, something like that.

Q. Was Gavin's mother around?

A. No, she was not.

Q. Now, as far as where the kids slept -- and maybe I’ll back up, because I don’t think I asked this question.

What time of day was it that you saw Gavin where you thought he’d been drinking?

A. I would say it was about around nine o’clock, nighttime.

Q. Nighttime?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson on the property at that time?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. When children slept in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, do you know, personally know, where they slept in the bedroom, as far as where they slept, upstairs or downstairs? Did you see it?

A. I didn’t see exactly who slept on Mr. Jackson’s bed, but I know there was kids there and -- yes.

Q. So you never spent the night in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, I take it?

A. No.

Q. So you don’t know where the kids slept after you left the room?

A. No.

Q. But you were in the room at times when kids were there?

A. Right. Yes.

Q. And in terms of these kids, were they all boys that slept in Mr. Jackson’s room?

A. Pretty much, yes.

Q. Now, Mr. Mesereau asked you about the first-class treatment that everyone received at Neverland. And you basically said that the adults got first-class treatment, too?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. So did the kids get the same first-class treatment that the adults did?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Were they basically treated just like the adults?

A. Just like the adults.

Q. And these kids, when they were at Neverland during the 20 years you were there, did these kids ever have supervision?

A. Do you mean by --

Q. By Neverland. Any organized supervision of these children while they were at Neverland?

A. We really didn’t have supervision. They had security that would keep an eye on the guests, or even the Neverland staff working at certain places, they had to make sure that the kids were safe. Not supervising them, but just for safety.

Q. Okay. So if an employee was around and saw something dangerous, they might intervene; is that fair to say?

A. Of course, yes.

Q. But the employees, they weren’t running around supervising these kids where they were?

A. No.

Q. They were allowed to run around wherever they wanted, do whatever they wanted?

A. Absolutely.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Some of this is offered as impeachment.

THE COURT: Well, that was leading, so....

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

Q. Now, as far as the busloads of children go, were these children treated differently than the children who were guests at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Were the busloads of children allowed to spend the night in Michael Jackson’s room?

A. None of those kids spent the night in his room.

Q. Okay. Were they given the access code to the house?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Were they allowed to -- were these children, did they bring their own supervision with them, adult supervision?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Was it organized? Were they organized as to where they would go and how they would spend their time at Neverland?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson even there when those busloads of kids would arrive or be there?

A. Many times he was there. Many times he wasn't there.

Q. Okay. When he was there, would he always come out or sometimes come out?

A. Sometimes come out.

Q. So there were times busloads of kids would arrive and Mr. Jackson wouldn't even come out to say hi?

A. Yes. There was times that he --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, "Yes." Next question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: As far as Janet, when she was -- when she left Neverland the first time with her family, in the interview with the sheriff's department, didn't you say that, "The whole family, they were not allowed to go nowhere"?

A. Yes. That's what I said, yes.

Q. And that, "They had them there always, and they were with supervision"?

A. According to what she told me, yes.

Q. Didn't you say Frank Tyson was one of the individuals involved in the handling of the Arvizo family?

A. Correct.

Q. And did you say that Salas -- did you say that ranch employees were required to go through Frank Tyson with questions or problems regarding the Arvizo family?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Did you also say that Tyson -- that you believed Tyson would then, in turn, go through Mr. Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: This is impeachment.

MR. MESEREAU: No foundation.
THE COURT: The objection is overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you say that Tyson would then, in turn, go through Mr. Jackson?
A. Correct, yes.
Q. Did you say that the Arvizo family was not being allowed to leave the Neverland Ranch even though the mother wished to leave with her children?
A. That’s correct, yes.
Q. In the grand jury, when you testified, you were asked this question: You were asked whether or not you believed Janet Arvizo and her family was being kept against their will. You said, “Yes”; is that true?
A. Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; leading.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered as impeachment.
THE COURT: Overruled. He said, “Yes.”
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And is that a true statement?
THE COURT: He said, “Yes.”
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.
Q. You said -- I believe when Mr. Mesereau was up here, you said that Mrs. Arvizo was never forcibly kept at Neverland; is that true?

A. That is correct, yes.
Q. So no one ever used physical force on her?
A. No.
Q. You said that when you took her home, that she told you that she was -- you told Mr. Mesereau that she was upset with the people at Neverland Ranch?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; misstates the evidence.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Upset with Ronald -- I believe it was Dieter.
THE COURT: Do you want to rephrase the question?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yeah.
Q. You told Mr. Mesereau that when you were taking Janet and the children home that first time, that she was upset with Dieter; is that correct?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Didn’t you also previously state that she said she was upset with Frank as well, or no? You tell me.

A. No.

Q. Now, you also told Mr. Mesereau that the -- at that time, when she left Neverland Ranch the first time, she was not angry at Michael Jackson?

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Okay. After she left Neverland that first time, did you ever talk to her about whether she was still angry at Michael Jackson?

A. No.

Q. Did you have much contact with her after that first time?

A. No.

Q. Do you have any idea whether she is angry at Michael Jackson today?

A. I have no idea.

Q. You mentioned that you allowed your daughter Sandra to visit Mr. Jackson at Neverland.

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. When was that?

A. ‘91, ‘92, somewhere around there maybe. Maybe later than that. I’m not quite sure.

Q. So early ‘90s?

A. I would say so, yes.

Q. Was it one occasion?

A. I believe it was about three times.

Q. Three times that she personally spent time with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Were all three of those occasions in ‘90, ‘91, in that early -- early 1990s?

A. It was during the same time, yes.

Q. Did you ever allow your daughter to sleep with Mr. Jackson?

A. She never slept over there.

Q. Okay. Would you ever allow your daughter to sleep with Mr. Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; leading; foundation.

THE COURT: It’s argumentative; sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Knowing what you know today, based upon all your time at Neverland, do you believe this place is a healthy place, would be a healthy place for your daughter to visit?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Opinion; foundation; relevance.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: This was offered as an opinion as to --

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is it true to say that the kids do get hurt at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; beyond the scope; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do kids ever get hurt at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Counsel asked the question.

MR. MESEREAU: I never asked that question.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Talked about safety.

THE COURT: All right. Quit talking to each other.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes, sir.

Q. You said that some people invade Neverland or come in from the outside, correct?

A. Correct, yes.

Q. How far is Neverland away from the nearest town?

A. Six miles.

Q. How do these people get out there?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If you know.

THE COURT: The foundation is sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Do you know how these people get out there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do they get out there?

A. Driving.

Q. Okay. So these people who visit -- who try to get into Neverland have a car?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is the car?

A. They park on the outside of the property.

Q. You also said that Janet complained about being separated from Michael, that Dieter was separating her from Michael. Yes?

A. Yes. That was her expression, yes.

Q. Didn’t she say that she was -- didn’t she complain that Dieter was separating her from Michael Jackson and her children?

A. Not exactly what she said. She said that she was being separated from Michael.

Q. Okay. But didn’t she reference her children when she was talking about that?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You say “not exactly.” What do you mean?

A. She never mentioned the kids.

Q. Did she ever complain about being separated from her kids?

A. No, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: When Janet was at Neverland --

THE COURT: Wait. There was an objection.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m sorry.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll withdraw the objection.

THE COURT: Go ahead, Counsel.

(Laughter.)

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: When Janet was at Neverland, did she -- well, let me strike that.

Do you know where Janet would spend most of her time while she was at Neverland?

A. She spent most of her time in the guesthouse.

Q. Do you know where she would take her meals?

A. Many times she -- most of the time she took it in the room. There was times that she went in the kitchen.

Q. When Mr. Mesereau asked you if things kind of run themselves or keep running at Neverland when Michael is not there, who is it that makes the determination in general about how Neverland is run as a ranch? Who is it that makes the ultimate call?

A. Okay, for the place would be run, I mean, we have a staff. We have a ranch manager.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. And that’s how we do it. I mean, that’s how they used to do it. Just do it together.

Q. Who tells the ranch manager how he wants that place run?

A. On the major decisions, I guess it comes from L.A. also.

Q. Does Michael have anything to do with how he wants that place run?

A. I’m not sure if he has something to do with that, but he will tell you what he likes.

Q. When Mr. Jackson is on the property, do the employees act differently?

A. No. They shouldn’t.

Q. There’s no difference between when he’s on the property or off the property?

A. No, because the place needs to run the same way whether he’s there or not.

Q. But isn’t Neverland Ranch run exactly the way Michael Jackson wants it?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading and asked and answered.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered as impeachment.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who is the person who ultimately makes the determination as to what happens at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. It’s been asked and answered a couple of times.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. Let me back off, then, and go to -- okay, so sometimes someone in Los Angeles makes the decision, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Who tells the person in Los Angeles what they want?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Have you ever seen guns on Neverland Ranch?
A. Not now, okay.
Q. Not now?
A. Before, at the beginning, yes.
Q. There were guns?
A. Yes.

Q. Tell me about it.
A. That was at the beginning when Mr. Jackson bought the place. Security was carrying guns.
Q. Was there a period of time when guns were not kept -- not -- the security was not armed?
A. Yes, it came to the point that I guess Mr. Jackson didn’t want any guns at the place, and nobody was carrying any weapons anymore.
Q. Did that ever change again?
A. No.
Q. Was there a time when a few people carried guns at Neverland?
A. Not that I was aware of.
Q. You said that when the Arvizo children were there, that Mr. Jackson was in constant meetings. You also said that he was constantly playing with the children.
A. That is correct, yes.
Q. So he was doing both of those things at the same time or --
A. Not at the same time. You know, when he was in meetings, he was in meetings. When he had some time free, he was playing with kids or he was by himself.
Q. Okay. Who was he having these constant meetings with? Who was there when he was having these constant meetings?
A. Hard to remember. Many people.

Q. Okay. How about -- was Frank Tyson one of them?
A. Not really.
Q. But he did have meetings with Frank?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You also said that Mr. Jackson was -- you answered some questions about him taking prescriptions, prescription medication.

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know the difference between somebody who is drunk and somebody who is taking some medication?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Go ahead.

A. No, I guess I don’t have a way of describing that.

Q. Well, were there times when you were serving Mr. Jackson alcohol when he appeared to be drunk?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know how often Mr. Jackson would have alcohol?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague as to time.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll be specific.

Q. During this period in early 2003.

A. He was having a regular basis.

Q. Daily?

A. I said regular basis.

Q. Could you smell alcohol on him when you saw him during these periods he appeared to be drunk?

A. No, I never got so close to him to be able to smell.

Q. You said that Mr. Jackson’s policy was not to let kids in the wine cellar. Was this a --

A. That is correct, yes.

Q. Was that a written policy?

A. That was a policy, yes.

Q. Was that -- was it okay for kids to be in the wine cellar if he was there?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I believe when he was there, I guess it was okay for the kids, yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. And did you testify that there were times when he was in the wine cellar with children?

A. Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; misstates the evidence.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll rephrase it.
Q. Were there times when he was in the wine cellar with children?
A. Yes.

Q. You have spoken to myself and various members of law enforcement in preparation for this case.
A. Correct.
Q. Has anyone ever told you to tell anything but the truth?
A. That is correct, nobody did.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. No.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Thank you. No further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Just briefly. During the 20 years you worked at Neverland for Mr. Jackson, it was always his policy that children are not to be in the wine cellar, true?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: That is correct, yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And Mr. Jackson sometimes would give people tours of his own home, correct?
A. That is correct.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; beyond the scope.
THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And obviously, as the owner of the home, he can take people anywhere he wants in his home, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, when you were driving Janet to Los Angeles, she never asked you to call the police, did she?

A. No.

Q. When you arranged for the limousine to take the Arvizos to Los Angeles, they never asked you to call the police, did they?

A. No.

Q. In fact, she never asked you to call the police at any time, did she?

A. No, she didn’t.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Nothing further.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, we’ll call Jason Francia to the stand, please.

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, before we start, is there an instruction?

THE COURT: Yes.

BAILIFF NARRON: Step up to the chair. Remain standing and face the clerk.

MR. FRANCIA: The clerk.

THE COURT: Raise your right hand, please.

JASON FRANCIA

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: Jason Francia. And spell my last name? F-r-a-n-c-i-a.

THE COURT: Mr. Francia, I’m going to ask you to sit back with the bailiff just for a moment.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: (To the witness) If you’ll just have a seat while I instruct, please.

(To the jury) Ah, I can see you again.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: Before -- I’m going to give you a special instruction now.

One of the things I want to mention before I give you these special instructions, though, is that

I know this daylight savings time is tough on us. I was noticing a few drooping eyelids along here. If you start, you know, feeling sleepy or something, hold up your hand, and maybe we'll stand up and stretch or something. It's really hard during these time changes, and I know that, so I just want you to know we can help you on that, too.

Okay. I'm now going to instruct you on two different types of evidence which you may hear. One relates to a prior uncharged sexual offenses. And two relates to a prior conduct -- to prior conduct leading to possible uncharged sexual offenses.

First, the instruction for the prior sexual offenses:

If you find that the defendant committed a prior sexual offense, you may, but are not required to infer that the defendant had a disposition to commit sexual offenses. If you find that the defendant had this disposition, you may, but are not required to infer that he was likely to commit and did commit the crime or crimes of which he is accused.

However, if you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the defendant committed a prior sexual offense, that is not sufficient, by itself, to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that he committed the charged crime.

If you determine an inference properly can be drawn from this evidence, this inference is simply one item for you to consider, along with all other evidence, in determining whether the defendant has been proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of the charged crime.

Unless you are otherwise instructed, you must not consider this evidence for any other purpose.

Within the meaning of the preceding instruction, the prosecution has the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the defendant committed sexual offenses other than for which he is on trial. You must not consider this evidence for any purpose unless you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the defendant committed sexual offenses.

If you find other crimes were committed by a preponderance of the evidence, you are nevertheless cautioned and reminded that before a defendant can be found guilty of any crime charged in this trial, the evidence of the whole must persuade you beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of that crime.

This is the second part of the evidence:

You will hear evidence that is being introduced for the purpose of showing conduct of the defendant leading to possible sexual offenses other than that for which he is on trial. This evidence, if believed, may not be considered by you to prove that Mr. Jackson is a person of bad character or that he has a disposition to commit crimes. It may be considered by you only for the limited purpose to determine if it tends to show a characteristic method, plan or scheme in the commission of criminal acts similar to the method, plan or scheme used in the commission of the offense in this case, which would further tend to show the existence of the intent, which is a necessary element of the crime or a motive for the commission of the crime charged.

For the limited purpose for which you may consider such evidence, you must weigh it in the same manner as you do all other evidence in this case. You are not permitted to consider such evidence for any other purpose.

“Preponderance of the evidence” means evidence that has more convincing force than that opposed to it. If the evidence is so evenly balanced that you are unable to find that the defendant -- that the evidence on either side of an issue preponderates, your finding on that issue must be against the party who had the burden of proving it. You should consider all of the evidence bearing upon every issue regardless of who produced it.

So, we are -- we have two possible types of evidence that you may hear, starting now. One relates to prior uncharged sexual offenses. That evidence, if the burden of proof - preponderance of the evidence is met - may be used to show a propensity to commit a similar crime.

The second type of evidence that you may hear is evidence that -- of conduct leading up to possible sexual offenses. And that may not be used to show a propensity to commit a crime. It can only be used to show the things that I mentioned to you. I won't go through them again.

Complicated, yes. I'll discuss it more with you later. It's just an advantage to have it given to you in advance of hearing the evidence.

MR. ZONEN: Was the witness sworn?

THE COURT: He was sworn. You may proceed.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Francia, good afternoon.

Sir, we've had to tell everybody so far that you need to stay fairly close to the microphone because it's hard to be heard in the far reaches of the courtroom otherwise.

Tell me, how old are you at this time?

A. 24.

Q. Where do you work? What kind of work do you do?

A. I sell auto parts right now. And I run a mentoring program for kind of like the probation department. Probation department refers kids to me, to my organization, and we mentor them through them not being truants and not committing crimes again.

Q. Let's start with the auto parts, and then we can go to the other ones.

A. Okay.

Q. What do you do in the auto parts store?

A. I literally sell parts. If somebody comes to me with a car that's broken, and then they ask for advice, and I just sell them a starter or an alternator, or so on, so forth.

Q. You've been doing that for about how long?

A. I did this prior, so six -- probably a little less than a year.

Q. Okay. Let's go to the mentoring program.

Who do you work for in the mentoring program?

A. Pete Taylor. It’s through a church that I belong to, but yet it’s still its kind of own identity. It’s Foursquare Youth Programs. That’s the official title.

Q. And the nature of the work, by “mentoring,” what do you mean?

A. I’m the lead mentor. And the ultimate goal is, let me see, the probation department kind of says these kids need to be mentored. They needed to go through three programs. Sometimes community service or community service, mentoring, or some sort of jobs program or something else. And I’m one of their steps to get off of probation.

So what we try to do is match them up with a mentor, and that’s my job, to try to match them up with mentors. And I take them out the first and third Saturdays of every month and we try -- just hang out with them and show them that there’s something more to life than crime, or than ditching, or than partying, or than drugs, or than anything else. There’s more to life. We show them there’s Frisbee golf. I’ve showed the guys how to change the oil and change a tire.

My wife is helping. And she shows them how to cook, make purses with the girls and --

Q. You’ve been doing this for how long?

A. I’ve been doing this, this exact job, for about six months. This type of work for probably since I was 18.

Q. Okay. When you were 18, did you start some kind of an internship program dealing with this?

A. Yeah, I have started an internship with Santa Maria Foursquare Church. Was -- and was pretty much training to be -- to work with junior high, to high school, to college-aged people. And I just -- I -- I wanted to be trained in that, because I have a passion for that, so I started that. I did that for about two and a half years with Santa Maria Foursquare Church.

Q. Did you ever work as a youth pastor?

A. Yeah. I did that in 2003 to 2004, from my understanding. I can’t really remember right now.

I’m kind of nervous, just to let you guys know.
Q. That’s okay. What is a youth pastor?
A. Well, I was a youth pastor. That was, I guess, my official title. But I worked with 13-year-olds to 25- or 26-year-olds. And pretty much -- it’s kind of like its own little church within a church. And you work with junior high and high schoolers. And then what I try to do is address the collegers in a different format. And then I’ve had the college students help me with the junior highers and high schoolers. So just talk about ethics, God, morals, and doing good.

Q. You’ve been doing htis consistently since age 18?
A. Yeah, pretty much.
Q. Tell us which church this is again, please.
A. The one I was a youth pastor, I did that through Oceano Foursquare. It was really known as Kings Way a long time ago. But pretty much Oceano Foursquare.
Q. Mr. Francia, you’ve been living in the Santa Maria area for how long?
A. In the Santa Maria area -- let me see. We moved up here in ‘88. Then I moved away when I graduated high school for like four months. And I’m still living here now.
Q. All right. You say “we” moved up here in ‘88. Who moved in ‘88?
A. My mom and I. It was just me and my mom.
Q. Based on what you tell us is your age, can I assume you were born in 1980?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. What type of work did your mother do when you moved up here?

A. She was working for Michael Jackson.
Q. All right. Is Michael Jackson in this courtroom today?
A. Yes.
Q. And could you --
A. He’s right there.
Q. By telling us what he’s --
A. He’s the light-complected gentleman.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. Could the record so reflect, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What type of work did your mother do for Michael Jackson?

A. She was a personal maid. At first she was just a maid. And from my understanding, my mom's just a hard worker and she moved up.

Q. Was she his maid prior to moving up here to Santa Maria?

A. I don't know if she was his full-on, like, personal maid and -- but she was, yeah. Yeah, she was his maid.

Q. From what period of time in Los Angeles was she working for Michael Jackson?

A. I think '86. But my mom tells me '85. I have no -- it's around '86, '85. I don't know.

Q. When did you first meet Mr. Jackson?

A. I was probably six. I think. Six or seven. And the reason I say that is just it was a long time ago.

Q. Did you ever have occasion to go to his residence in Los Angeles?

A. Yeah, the one in Encino, yeah. I went there probably a lot, like 10, 11, 12 times. I don't know. Often my mom -- it was just me and my mom, so a single mom and just me. She needed to babysit me pretty much, so we had nobody else; no dad, no brothers and sisters.

Q. Your father wasn't in the picture?

A. Correct.

Q. And there was no other kids; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. During the time that you were living in Los Angeles before moving up to Santa Maria, from the time your mother began working for Mr. Jackson, tell us approximately how often you went to his residence.

A. I'm sorry, can you repeat that?

Q. Tell us approximately how often you went to his residence.

A. Throughout my whole life of my --

Q. While living in Los Angeles.

A. Oh.

Q. Before moving to Santa Maria.

A. I went to Encino. He owned a lot of stuff. But I -- there’s an Encino, which is like the big mansion, and then there’s the, like, apartment hideaway thing. I think I went to Encino, which is the big mansion, I don’t know, about six, seven times.

Q. Did other members of the Jackson family reside at that location as well?

A. Yeah. Yeah.

Q. Can you tell us who lived there?

A. Mom and dad, I know that. I think they lived above the garages. I think. That’s where I met them.

Q. Okay.

A. I think Janet lived there as well. By -- I don’t know. Other than that, that’s all I remember.

Q. We’re talking about almost 20 years ago; is that correct?

A. Correct. Yeah. That -- yeah.

Q. Did you go to a different location where Michael Jackson lived in the Los Angeles area as well?

A. Yeah. In the Los Angeles area, yeah, like Hollywood.

Q. And can you describe that place for us?

A. Yeah. It was -- it didn’t have much furniture. It was probably the tenth floor, because you could look over pretty much a lot of Hollywood and Beverly Hills. I think it was Beverly Hills. Didn’t have a lot of furniture. Had a train set. Had a couple toys, telescope. Kitchen. But just not a lot of furniture. It was like a condo pretty much.

Q. And the reason that you would go to that location?

A. My mom had to clean everything. My mom was just a clean lady.

Q. Was she the only person cleaning his residence, as far as you knew?

A. No, there was other maids. But from my understanding, just my mom did a kickin’ job. She just did a really good job at cleaning, a really good job at working just as a whole. She was just a good worker.

Q. And there was nowhere to leave you when she went off to clean?

A. Yeah. Sometimes she may -- she would leave me with my aunt, but my aunt had to go to work as well. Everybody in my family was workers.

Q. Okay.

A. And even -- even -- shoot, even I helped my aunt at times.

Q. Now, on the occasions when you would go to the -- what was it called? The hideout or hideaway?

A. Yeah, my mom called it “the hideout.”

Q. Do you know why?

A. Probably because nobody knew about it. I don’t think it was registered.

MR. MESEREAU: Calls for speculation.

MR. ZONEN: Withdraw the question.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson ever mention the name of that place to you in any of his conversations to you?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. All right. Was that something you enjoyed doing, going to either of those two places?

A. The mansion I did, just because of the arcade. I was young. It was fun. There was toys.

Q. Tell us about the arcade at the mansion.

A. Shoot. It had an old karate game. It just had a lot of video games in there, and it was fun for kids. It was -- I think he even had a laser tag set. I don’t remember. But he had a lot of stuff, a lot of toys.

Q. There was a lot that you could do while you were there?

A. At the mansion, yeah.

Q. And you enjoyed doing that?

A. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: I’m sorry?

THE COURT: Overruled. Go ahead. Next question.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: At the other place, the place in Los Angeles, the hideaway, was that something you enjoyed doing?

A. Yes and no. There wasn’t that many toys. My mom wouldn’t let me go out anywhere else, and there wasn’t that many toys. It was a condo, so it’s not like I could play with the elevator all day long. There was not that many toys. There was just a train set. A train set gets boring. It just goes around in circles. And there wasn’t that many toys.

Q. Did you ever spend the night at either of those two locations?

A. Encino -- the mansion I didn’t, which is in Encino. And the hideaway we did, I believe, with my mom.

Q. All right. Do you know approximately how many occasions?

A. I don’t recall. I don’t remember.

Q. Were there beds or furniture there?

A. I don’t believe so. I think there was an L-shaped couch like one of those that you put in a corner. There was a chair. I know that, because -- stuff. There wasn’t that much furniture.

Q. How old were you when you moved to Santa Maria?

A. ‘88 or ‘89. Eight years old. Yeah. Because I stopped playing baseball. Played baseball for a little.

Q. When you moved to the Santa Maria area, what job did your mother have?

A. She was -- I believe her title, from what she told me, was Michael Jackson’s personal maid, and she had, like, all the keys. She was the best maid he had, I guess.

Q. Did you ever go to Neverland?

A. Yeah. Yeah, I did.

Q. Tell us approximately how old you were during that period of time.

A. I think when it first opened, it was just -- I went there. They probably had a party there. How old was I? Probably around nine. Eight.

Q. Approximately how many times do you think you went to Neverland?

A. Five, four. Five or four.

Q. Always with your mother?

A. Yeah. There was no other way to get up there, yeah.

Q. Did you ever spend the night at Neverland?

A. Yes. With -- yeah, I remember distinctly, because I think I was hearing bats or something, on the ranch, or something, and I couldn’t sleep, so -- but I was sleeping with my mom, like in the same room, in the same area with my mom, and, yeah. I couldn’t sleep.

Q. Were you ever in Michael Jackson’s bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. Two, I think. Two. I’m pretty sure.

Once -- one I know for sure, because we were all laying in the bed watching T.V.

Q. And who is “we were all”?

A. Michael and a bunch of other kids.

Q. Okay. Do you know how many?

A. I don’t. Seven. Six. But I don’t -- I don’t.

Q. Do you know any of the names?

A. I’m really bad at names. Even to this day. I called you “Mark” earlier.

Q. That’s not me.

A. Yeah, I know.

Q. Do you know how old you were when your mother stopped her employment at Neverland?

A. I’m thinking 11, because I was -- I remember hearing about -- I was playing in the pool, and she told me, “I quit.”

Q. You were playing in the pool where?

A. At a friend’s house, and when I was 11, I was friends with him.

Q. I’d like to go back to, if I could, please, the period of time in Los Angeles prior to moving up to Santa Maria.

Was there ever an occasion that you were with Michael Jackson where something happened that made you feel uncomfortable?

A. Yes.

Q. Did that happen more than once?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you have a recollection of these events?

A. Yeah.

Q. Let's begin with the first one. What happened?

A. Okay. Well, the first time that I felt uncomfortable with him was in the hideout, which is the place in Encino -- not in Encino, I'm sorry. In Hollywood. And -- shoot. I was seven and -- I don't know, at seven years old, I don't think -- okay. I may have not felt uncomfortable, but then now I think about it, that shouldn't have been done. But I didn't feel uncomfortable.

Q. What happened?

A. I was sitting on his lap, and I was young, and I was small. I'm still thin. I was even thinner then. Sitting on his lap, watching T.V., which that's normal enough in itself. And then we -- I was kind of facing the T.V., and he was facing the T.V. as well, so my back was to his chest. And it was -- there was just one chair, and there wasn't much furniture in that hideout place. And I was just sitting there watching T.V., and so was he. I think we were watching cartoons. And he just started tickling me, which, cool, shoot, I was a tickle guy. I tickled him back, but still kind of from the back, kind of reaching around.

And then we went to the floor, I think, but I can't completely remember right now. But we somehow got on the floor, tickling still, because I'm doing what -- these little kid things, you know, when you shimmy back and forth.

And then I'm tickling and he's tickling, and I'm tickling and he's tickling, and it eventually moved down to -- to -- to my little private region when you're a little kid. I don't know if you want me to call it specifically something, but around my crotch area. And I didn't -- you know, you're seven. I didn't think it was wrong. Well, I did.

Because he’s tickling, but I’m laughing, and I’m tickling him back, trying to get him to stop, but then I’m tickling too much. I’m laughing too much. And eventually it stopped. I don’t know how.

Q. Did he actually make contact with your genital area?

A. Not skin to skin, but, yeah. Yeah, he was on my clothes, yeah.

Q. Do you know for approximately how long?

A. Distinctly I can’t remember. It was a while, though.

Q. By a little while, can you give us a sense of it?

A. More than three minutes, less than 20. Less than ten minutes, I think.

Q. Okay.

A. But a while. It was -- it was tickling. It didn’t end soon. It didn’t end fast.

Q. But the amount of time that his hand was actually in the region of your genitalia?

A. I cannot remember.

Q. Okay. And you commented that this was not skin to skin touching; in other words, his hand directly on either your penis or testicles. Is that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: That it was not directly on your genitalia; is that correct?

A. Correct. It wasn’t -- he didn’t touch me. He was touching on top of the skin, but -- but not -- on top of my shorts, but still --

Q. Do you remember what you were wearing at the time?

A. Probably shorts. I don’t remember specifically. I think those orange shorts that my mom made me, because, again, we were poor, but my mom made me clothes. And I was always wearing shorts, always wearing shorts.

Q. And she had orange shorts that she had made for you?

A. Yeah, there was orange shorts that she made for me. And then she -- yeah.

Q. Were they shorts you wore a lot?

A. Probably, yeah. Because -- yeah.

Q. Did -- as you think back now, today, of course we're talking about quite some number of years ago, do you remember how you felt at the time this happened, if that was at all strange for you?

A. You know, I don't. It was -- I don't remember. At seven, it probably -- well, I probably did think it was weird, but not super weird. Just because you're tickling, and it's -- but I guess that would be weird. My fault.

Q. Was there another instance?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was that also at the hideout?

A. Yeah.

Q. Tell us what happened, please.

A. I was watching cartoons again, and probably in the same room, because I think there was only one room in that whole place.

And we somehow -- I was somehow -- there was a sleeping bag involved. I don't know -- I think I was on top of it. And I was watching T.V., laying down on the ground, and Michael was pretty much behind me, like spooning me. I don't know how we got there. I was like eight, eight and a half. It was a little while after. And again with the tickling. But this time it wasn't as long, and I was -- well, I'm sorry. It was longer, but I wasn't laughing as much, I guess.

Q. You were in a sleeping bag, or on a sleeping bag?

A. On, I think.

Q. Okay.

A. On, not in.

Q. All right. Do you remember -- you said this was in the hideout?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there a number of rooms in the hideout?

A. I think there was only one, I think. Yeah. I think there was only one, if I could -- hold on.

Let me -- there was a rest room. There was a kitchen. There was a big main room. And there was a room off to the left, if you’re looking out the window. Yeah, I think there was only one.

Q. All right. Where was your mother during this time?

A. Probably cleaning. She was always cleaning.

Q. But --

A. To this day she cleans.

Q. Do you know in what room at that point?

A. No, I don’t. I don’t know.

Q. Was she in the room with you at the time?

A. No, she wasn’t, or else she probably would have kicked my butt or something.

Q. In the private -- in the prior event that you described, was your mother in the room at that time?

A. No, she wasn’t in the room.

Q. But if you were at the hideout, then she was there; is that a correct statement?

A. Correct. Or sometimes she may have run down to get something to eat. Remembering now, there was a couple times that Michael actually asked her to get chips, or get something, or get something from downstairs, or maybe even from the lobby. That’s what I’m thinking.

Q. What was downstairs? Was that a --

A. I think there was probably like a restaurant or something downstairs, but I don’t really -- I have no clue.

Q. But the apartment that you’re describing is a single floor? There’s no upstairs or downstairs to it?

A. Oh, yeah.

Q. And this is a large building in Los Angeles?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. When do you think was the last time that you had been to that building?

A. When was the last time I was there?

Q. Yeah.

A. I’m thinking nine, eight.

Q. Age eight or age nine?

A. Yeah.

Q. Even after you moved up to Santa Maria?

A. I believe so. Just because my mom had no one to leave me up in Santa Maria with. We -- new town.

Q. Let me go back to the second event. In the second event we’re talking about, you were in a sleeping bag?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there a bed in that room?

A. No.

Q. Was that Mr. Jackson’s bedroom; do you know?

A. I don’t know.

Q. Was there a television in that room?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there more than one T.V. in that apartment, to your knowledge?

A. I don’t think so.

Q. Were you watching television at that time?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you remember if it was late at night or midday? Do you have any way of knowing?

A. It may have been midday, but I don’t know.

Q. Can you describe the building for us in general, in terms of how it was laid out?

A. Almost like a typical apartment or a condo. You walk in the front door, there’s a big living room. There’s -- there’s a telescope in there. There’s a bunch of toys. There’s a couch. And then there’s the kitchen.

Q. Okay. The room that has the couch, is that the room where the sleeping bag was?

A. No, the room that has the couch didn’t have any furniture but the chair, I think. I’m pretty sure.

Q. And now the sleeping bag itself, on the floor?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it a normal-sized sleeping bag?

A. I believe so. I would think so.

Q. You used the expression “spooning.” What does that mean?

A. Something that you do with your wife.

Something that you do with a girlfriend. Spooning. Like --

Q. Describe the position for us, if you would.

A. Wow. When somebody is holding you and you’re laying on your side and they’re holding you from behind.

Q. Okay.

A. Thanks.

Q. Was that the position that you were in with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were you in front or behind?

A. I was in front.

Q. Do you remember where his arms were?

A. I couldn’t specifically tell you.

Q. Was the tickling done again?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was this something that you and Mr. Jackson did frequently, tickling?

A. Whenever something happened.

Q. Okay. On this occasion, when he was tickling you, what happened?

A. We were tickling -- oh, he was tickling me at first, and I was just watching T.V. Probably cartoons again. And he was just tickling me from behind, and in my genital area. And I was laughing, and I was trying to tickle him back. And -- go ahead.

Q. His hands made contact with your genitalia?

A. From the top of the clothes.

Q. Do you remember what you were wearing on that occasion?

A. Probably shorts again.

Q. Simply because you do?

A. Simply because it’s hot in L.A., yeah, and I always wore shorts. I think every picture I have -- well, not “every,” but there was a lot of pictures of me wearing shorts when I was younger.

Q. Are you mindful of his hand reaching your crotch at the time; you were thinking about that at the time?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: I don’t even know what he asked me.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

THE WITNESS: I don’t understand, yeah.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

Q. Was it -- were you aware of it happening while it was happening?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

A. Yes.

Q. And how long was his hand there?

A. Two cartoons’ worth. A cartoon and a half worth.

Q. And you were watching cartoons on television at the time?

A. Yeah.

Q. How long is a cartoon? It’s been a while since I’ve seen one.

A. It’s been a while for me, too. Does anybody here watch cartoons?

Q. Tell us the best of your recollection. We can’t let them be witnesses at the moment.

A. A “Woody Woodpecker” I guess would last four, five minutes.

Q. Okay.

A. Five, six minutes.

Q. So the contact in the area of your genitalia was at least four or five minutes?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did it feel strange to you at the time?

A. Yes and no. “No” because -- “no” because it’s all fun, and it’s supposed to be innocent, and you’re a little kid, and you’re having fun, and -- you’re a little kid.

Q. Okay.

A. And “yes” it’s not right.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson ever give you money?

A. Yeah.

Q. On how many occasions did he give you money?

A. Pretty much at every tickle thing there was money.

Q. Explain that, what you mean by that, “at every tickle thing there was money.” Explain what you mean, please.

A. Every time I was being tickled, there was always some sort of money exchanged. Not exchanged. There was money given. It was just that.

Q. Before, after, during?

A. After. And it was kind of a, “Don’t tell your mom, about the money.”

Q. Well, what would he give you?

A. A hundred-dollar bill.

Q. A hundred-dollar bill?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did he do this on more than one occasion?

A. Yeah, because I had a lot of money. Well, I didn’t have a lot of money. My mom took the money, because she would find out that I got hundred-dollar bills, and then she’d get mad at me for taking some stranger’s -- well, not stranger’s, but somebody’s money.

Q. Do you remember if, in fact, you got the money on both of those two occasions?

A. Yeah. Yeah, I did.

Q. Were there ever any other occasions, whether in Los Angeles or any other occasion or any other location where something happened that made you feel uncomfortable?

A. Yeah.

Q. And where was that?

A. At the ranch.

Q. Do you remember how old you were?

A. Ten and a half, ten. I was older.

Q. And you have a recollection of this event?

A. Yeah.

Q. There’s water there also, if you need anything.

A. Oh, I was wondering. I thought it was coffee. I was hoping it wasn’t.

Q. No, it’s water. And feel free to take some if you need some.

A. Okay.

Q. You think you were about ten or ten and a half?

A. Yeah.

Q. It was prior to the time that your mother quit her job there?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you ever go back to Neverland after your mother quit her job there?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember where this event took place, where at Neverland?

A. What, the event?

Q. That made you feel uncomfortable.

A. Yeah. It was in the arcade room. There was a loft area.

Q. Describe what the arcade is.

A. A place where there's a bunch of video games, and there was a pool table, and I think there was a fireplace. I think that was up in the loft. I think. That was a long time ago. But, yeah, it's Street Fighter, the original one, in there, and pool tables, and a couple of other video games.

Q. On what part of the arcade were you at the time this happened?

A. I was in the loft.

Q. Upstairs?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was anybody else up there with you?

A. No.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson there?

A. Yeah.

Q. By "other people," I mean other people than you and Mr. Jackson.

A. It was just him and I.

Q. Do you recall approximately what time of day or evening it was?

A. No. Nighttime.

Q. Was your mother working that day?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there ever occasions when you were at Neverland and your mother wasn't working?

A. Yeah, when we'd have parties and stuff, but I think she'd still work, because she'd always walk around cleaning even though she wasn't dressed for it.

Q. Were there ever occasions when you were at Neverland and your mother was not there?

A. No, she was always there.

Q. On this occasion, was your mother in the arcade?

A. No.

Q. Was she working that day?

A. Probably.

Q. Do you remember where her assignment would have taken her? Did she go to specific locations?

A. In the ranch?

Q. Yes.

A. At the ranch area. She was cleaning everything.

Q. Okay.

A. She wasn't in the arcade.

Q. Okay. And what happened when you were in the arcade.

A. In the loft?

Q. Yes, please.

A. I think I was playing Sega Genesis.

Q. Tell us what that is, please.

A. It's -- it's a video game. I was just a video-game-playing kid.

Q. Okay.

A. There was a video game. There was a T.V. up there, I believe. It was a really big T.V., and I was playing, and then he started tickling me, and I think there was -- there was a couch up there, because we somehow managed to end up on the couch. It took a lot of counseling to get over, just to let you know.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; nonresponsive.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Let's see if we can restrict our answers just to the questions, if we can. I'll ask you some questions about that later.

You were on the couch. Do you know if both of you were sitting on the couch?

A. Hold on.

We were laying down on the couch.

Q. Okay. How were you laying down? How were you positioned relative to Mr. Jackson?

A. Probably about -- no, it was in the spooning position again.

Q. Okay. Was he behind you or in front of you?

A. Behind me.

Q. And then what happened?

A. We were tickling -- well, he was tickling and I was laughing. And -- and -- and we -- it was -- he was -- he was tickling me in the.... So much happening right now. Can we take a break or something?

MR. ZONEN: Can we take just a moment, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Sure.

MR. ZONEN: Just a break for a moment or two?

Q. Okay.

A. All right.

Q. You were on the couch, and you said in the spooning position?

A. Yeah.

Q. Tell us what happened, please, the best you can.

A. He was tickling me. And then I was wearing shorts again, I'm pretty sure, and, yeah, because he had to have reached under. We were tickling; I was laughing. He reached on my leg, and I'm still laughing, and he's tickling. And then he reached up and -- and to my privates, yeah.

Q. Did he actually touch your --

A. Yeah.

Q. Touch you?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did he touch your penis or your testicles?

A. I think option two, yeah.

Q. Your testicles?

A. Yeah, that one.

Q. For what period of time?

A. I don't remember. Three minutes, two minutes.

Q. Was it tickling?

A. Probably, because I think I was still laughing. But, you know, it may have been the other hand.

Q. Were you mindful of it at the time? Were you aware at the time he was doing it?

A. Yes.

Q. What were you thinking at the time? You’re now ten and a half years old. What were you thinking?

A. “I should probably go.”

Q. How did it end; do you know?

A. Either my mom -- I don’t -- I don’t remember how it ended.

Q. Do you have a sense of it?

A. Huh-uh.

Q. Do you remember getting up?

A. No.

Q. Did you think about it afterward?

A. Yeah. No, well, not instantly right afterwards. You’re ten. You don’t want to think about that stuff.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson still giving you money at that time?

A. That time I didn’t get any money.

Q. Did you tell anybody about that right afterward?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell your mother, ever?

A. No. I don’t even think to this day she knows.

Q. All right. At some point in time this became known to somebody; is that right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Who did you tell? Who was the first person you told about it?

A. Probably God. But --

Q. Let’s go to number two, then. Who was the second person?

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike that comment, Your Honor. Nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Well, it’s responsive. Overruled. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Who else did you --

A. Who did I tell? I forgot their names, but there was two detectives. Yeah, I told those two guys.

Q. Before or after your mother had quit her position at Neverland?

A. She had already quit.

Q. All right. At some point in time police came to you and said they wanted to talk to you; is that right?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: This is going to be hard for me to get through. Sorry.

THE COURT: Okay. The objection is overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Go ahead.

A. Yeah, they wanted to come and talk to me. I was 13. I was in eighth grade, I think. Yeah. I -- yeah.

Q. Around 1993?

A. Yeah. It was ‘93, I think, yeah.

Q. Did you know in advance that they wanted to speak with you?

A. No. Not until the big day that this crappiness started.

Q. Okay. At some point in time, they showed up?

A. Yeah. They showed up probably around 4:00, because I had judo practice at, like, 6:00.

Q. So it was about -- I’m sorry, you had judo practice afterward?

A. Yeah, I had to go to judo practice right after, and I don’t think I went because I was crying.

Q. So you think it was about four o’clock in the afternoon?

A. I think they came around four o’clock.

Q. Do you remember how many people came?

A. I think two. But I don’t remember.

Q. Was your mother present during the course of that interview?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if that interview was tape-recorded?

A. Yeah, it was tape-recorded because I listened to the tapes.

Q. You listened to it recently?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you know if a transcription had ever been prepared of that interview?

A. A trans -- yeah, it has been.

Q. And did you, in fact, review that transcription as well?

A. Yeah. While I was reading it, yeah.

Q. The people who were present during the course of that interview, you and how many detectives?

A. Two. Two detectives. Me and two other guys.

Q. They were both men?

A. Yeah.

Q. Had you ever -- did you know them prior to that time?

A. No. No.

Q. Have you seen either one of them since?

A. Yeah, I just bumped into one outside. We were talking a while. I was waiting for -- to be called up here.

Q. Okay. Just today, right before you testified you saw one of them?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you recognize him?

A. No, I didn’t. He said, “You probably don’t remember me.” And I said, “No.” And he told me who he was. And then I was like, “Hey, that was you.”

Q. Do you know where they were from, the agency?

A. The police?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. At the time that you were having that conversation?

A. No.

Q. I don’t mean now, but at the time you had the conversation with them.

A. No, I just knew they were police officers.

Q. Did you know they were tape-recording it at the time?
A. Yeah, because he showed me and -- he showed me the tape-recording. And the tape-recorder was sitting right in front.
Q. Did you know what it was all about at the time you sat down at the table with them?
A. I knew it was about Michael Jackson just because it was on T.V. all the time, and -- yeah.
Q. So there was already something going on in the news; is that correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. Did your mother know that you were entering an interview with them?
A. Yes. She had to have let me go.
Q. All right.
A. My mom knew where I was at all times.
Q. Do you remember where you were for this interview?
A. Yeah. At the juvenile hall, or the sheriff’s department.
Q. So it was over in the -- in where, in Santa Maria?
A. Yeah, in Santa Maria. Well, in Orcutt, but -- yeah, in the sheriff’s department.

Q. Do you recall how long that conversation was?
A. I don’t recall. An hour, hour and a half.
Q. All right. And that’s consistent with your having reviewed that tape-recording as well?
A. Right. Right.
Q. And your mother did know that you were going to be there; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Was she at the building at the time you were there?
A. I don’t think so. I think she was in our little studio apartment still.
Q. Okay. In the course of that interview, did you discuss with them what had happened to you?
A. Let me drink some water.
Q. Go ahead.
A. Pump?

Q. It's confusing. There's a button on the top.

A. I'm not a coffee drinker, sorry. It's a coffee thing, I think.

I'm sorry. What was the question again?

Q. Did you discuss with the detectives what had happened to you with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes. Eventually. But at first I didn't want to. I was fighting it with everything that I could.

Q. Why?

A. Because it's embarrassing. It's embarrassing now, and I'm 24 years old.

Q. Okay. Was it harder then, at age 13?

A. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; move to strike; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained; stricken.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Ultimately --

A. It was difficult for me.

Q. -- did you disclose to them the information that you gave us today?

A. Yes.

Q. At some point in time, did you have an interview or were you represented by a private lawyer?

A. At some point, yeah, in time I was.

Q. Do you remember the name of that lawyer?

A. Yeah, Terry -- Terry Cannon. And Kris Kallman.

Q. There were two lawyers who represented you?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you know if -- was this after this interview?

A. Yes, it was after this interview. It was like two months after this interview, I think.

Q. Were you ever called for a deposition?

A. I was never called for a deposition.

Q. Did you ever know a young man by the name of Jordan Chandler, or Jordie Chandler?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE WITNESS: Did I --

MR. MESEREAU: Relevance; foundation; move to strike.
THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Did I ever meet him?
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Yes.
A. I probably did, but I -- I don't remember names. I'm really bad with names. And I'm not --
Q. Do you know if you were being prepared at any time to give a deposition in a case involving Mr. Chandler?
A. No. What -- prepared by -- I don't know what you mean by "prepared."
Q. Did your attorneys ever talk to you about the possibility of your going in and giving a deposition?
A. No. I don't think so. I don't remember.
Q. At some point in time, was there a settlement of some kind of a case involving you and Mr. Jackson? We're not going to get into the specifics of the amounts, but was there a settlement?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know if a lawsuit was ever actually filed?

A. No. I don't think so, no. Because there was a settlement, so there was no lawsuit.
Q. All right. Did you have anything to do with it? In other words, did you say anything one way or the other about asking to have money?
A. No.
Q. But were you consulted in any way about what was going to happen on that?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Was -- did you go into counseling at this time?
A. Yeah.
Q. And --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.
THE WITNESS: Oh, I'm sorry.
MR. ZONEN: I think it's relevant.
MR. MESEREAU: And leading.
THE COURT: I'll allow the question. The question and answer was, “Yes.”

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: For what period of time did you stay in counseling?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; 352.

MR. ZONEN: I believe it’s appropriate under People vs. Bledsoe and Shirley.

THE COURT: Go ahead. I’ll allow the question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: For what period of time did you stay in counseling?

A. Shoot, like a week after the sheriffs interviewing me, or police, or whoever they were. And --

Q. That’s when it started?

A. Till I was 18, yeah.

Q. Till you were 18?

A. Yeah.

Q. Mr. Francia, recently have you been under surveillance?

A. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; 352.

THE WITNESS: We might be going there. I don’t know.

THE COURT: I’m not sure what the relevance is. Do you want to approach?

MR. ZONEN: Yes, I think so.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

THE COURT: Looks like it’s time for our afternoon break.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: For the record, the objection was sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Mr. Francia, you stated earlier, you gave the statement, “When all this,” and I think you used the word “crappiness began.” What were you referring to?

A. I guess coming out with it. Just because I had hidden it, and it was stowed away in a far off place. And that’s what I meant. It was time for it to come out.

Q. Were you aware of your mother going on television at some time back in 1993 or ‘94?

A. I knew about it when she was finally on T.V., yeah. I -- she told me --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Were you consulted about that prior to --

THE COURT: They can’t hear. Who didn’t hear back there? Counsel here?

MR. ZONEN: Is it on or off? I can’t tell. Is it on? It’s on.

Q. Were you consulted by anybody prior to your mother going on television?

A. Was I?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did it cause you problems when that happened?

A. Yeah.

Q. And in what way?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE WITNESS: It made --

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. ZONEN: I have no further questions.

THE WITNESS: Can I get a jacket? It’s cold over here. I think I heard them say it’s cold, too. Thanks.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good afternoon.

A. Hi.

Q. My name is Tom Mesereau, and I speak for Michael Jackson.

A. Okay.

Q. If anything I ask you is not clear, please don’t answer. Just say, “I don’t understand it,” okay? And I’ll try to rephrase it.

If you ever want to take a break, just say so, and if Judge Melville lets you, you can. But I don’t want you to answer anything I ask you unless it’s very clear to you what I’m asking you and you feel like you can answer it, okay?

A. Sounds good.
Q. So you know who I am, I’m on his side, okay?
A. Okay.
Q. We’ve never met before, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And we’ve never spoken before, right?
A. I don’t think so.
Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor mentioned the fact that your mother, at one point many years ago, went on the television show Hard Copy, right?

A. Correct.
Q. And at some point you learned about that, right?
A. At some point I learned about what?
Q. Your mom going on the television show Hard Copy?
A. At some point I learned about it, yes.
Q. Okay. And at some point you learned that she took $20,000 to go on the T.V. show Hard Copy, correct?
A. No.
Q. You don’t know anything about that?
A. I do not.
Q. You’ve never heard that to date?
A. I have heard of it today.
Q. When did you first learn that your mother have gone on the T.V. show Hard Copy and accepted $20,000?
A. Right now. Well, it may actually -- two days ago, I think.
Q. You never knew it until two days ago?
A. That is correct. The reason....
Q. Now, at some point, your mother met with someone from The National Enquirer, right?
A. I don’t know.
Q. You don’t know anything about that?

A. No.
Q. When did you first learn that your mom had gone on the T.V. show Hard Copy to talk about Mr. Jackson?
A. When did I first learn --
Q. Yes.

A. -- that my mom went on T.V?

Q. Yes.

A. On Hard Copy?

Q. Yes.

A. I think it was when I saw it on T.V.

Q. And that would have been when?

A. I have no clue.

Q. Do you have any idea what year?

A. No.

Q. Does more than ten years ago sound right to you?

A. If you told me five years ago, I'd say okay. This whole past -- all these incidents, yeah.

Q. Now, your mother at some point retained lawyers to represent you and she, correct?

A. I don't know if she got them. I don't think she did.

Q. Well, you were a -- really a little boy, right, when lawyers were suddenly with you?

A. I'm sorry?

Q. Weren't you very little, very young, when lawyers started appearing?

A. I was young when all of this stuff happened, yes.

Q. How old do you think you were when you first met a lawyer involving Mr. Jackson?

A. Were those two detectives lawyers?

Q. No. No, they're with the sheriff's --

A. They're just detectives?

Q. And you met them recently, haven't you?

A. No, I just met one of them right outside.

Q. Okay. One of the two detectives that first talked to you?

A. Yeah. We were talking about life.

Q. Okay. Now, when you first met them, you knew they were with law enforcement, right?

A. When I first met them?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't really know who they -- no, I don't -- I didn't think -- yes. I don't know. I didn't understand the question I guess.

Q. Okay. Just tell me if you don't understand a question.

A. Okay.

Q. You learned at some point your mother went on Hard Copy, correct?

A. I learned at some point that my mom went on Hard Copy.

Q. Yes.

A. Okay.

Q. And you saw it on T.V., right?

A. Right.

Q. And at some point you learned that your mother accepted $20,000 to be on Hard Copy, correct?

A. You already asked that.

MR. ZONEN: And I so object as asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you first, if you remember, talk to a lawyer about anything Mr. Jackson allegedly did?

A. What he -- when did I tell somebody or tell the lawyer? Repeat that.

Q. Yeah, when did you first meet a lawyer to talk about your claim regarding Mr. Jackson's behavior?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know approximately when it was?

A. I think the only -- I don't think I ever told Terry or Kris if he molested me or not.

Q. Okay. Now, Terry is who?

A. Terry?

Q. Terry is the lawyer?

A. Terry is a lawyer.

Q. That's Terry Cannon, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And Kris is who?

A. Kris -- I forgot his last name. He's a lawyer.

Q. You mentioned him in response to the prosecutor's questions. Didn't you say Kris was a lawyer?

A. I don't remember the prosecutor's questions.

Q. Do you have a lawyer named Kris?

A. Right now? No.

Q. Have you ever had a lawyer named Kris?

A. I believe so.

Q. And do you know Kris's last name?

A. That's what I just said. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Now, did I hear you just say you never told either lawyer that you had been molested?

A. I don't -- I'm sorry?

Q. Did I hear you just say that you never told either lawyer you'd been molested?

A. I said I didn't know. That's what I said.

Q. You told the lawyers you didn't know?

A. No, I told you I didn't know.

Q. You told me you didn't know whether or not you had told any lawyer you'd been molested, right?

A. Not any lawyer.

Q. Okay. I'm not understanding you.

A. I'm not understanding you either.

Q. Let me rephrase the question.

A. Okay.

Q. Did you ever tell Attorney Terry Cannon you'd been molested?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you ever tell Attorney Kris you'd been molested?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Approximately when did you do that?

A. I don't remember. I was young.

Q. Do you know approximately what year it would have been?

A. I'd go with '94 or '93 or '95.

Q. And how old were you in '93?

A. I was 13. Well, yeah. My birthday's May 30th, so --

Q. How old were you when you claim Mr. Jackson first tickled you improperly?

A. Seven and a half the first time.

MR. ZONEN: I'm going to object as vague when we're referring to the claim or the tickling.

MR. MESEREAU: I think I was -- I'll rephrase it if the Court wants me to. I think I was clear.

THE COURT: The objection's overruled. The answer was given.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Are you telling the jury that at some point -- excuse me. Let me start again.

As of today, you're telling this jury you've never told your mother what you claim Mr. Jackson did to you, right?

A. I believe in counseling. I never told her specifics on -- that I was molested, but I did in counseling tell her that I was molested.

Q. Okay.

A. But it was in -- shoot. It was a crying time for --

Q. Okay. I'm not asking you about the details. Just answer my questions.

A. It was just hard for me to remember because I was crying.

Q. Okay.

A. So -- I was young, and I was 14 or 15.

Q. So when you told the jury earlier that you never told your mother about this, that wasn't true, right?

A. I'm sorry, I probably spoke quickly.

Q. So when you told that to the jury, that was not really correct, right?

MR. ZONEN: I'm going to object as vague. What is "not," or "that"?

THE COURT: The objection's overruled. I'll have the court reporter read the question back to you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: And when I told "that" being --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Let me rephrase it. When you told the jury, in response to the prosecutor's questions, that you had never told your mother you were molested, that wasn't true, right?

A. I was mistaken.

Q. Okay.

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. In fact, you had told your mother that you were molested, right?

A. Yeah, I must have misunderstood his question with the -- with the details of it. I never told my mom that I was molested three times by Michael Jackson. My mom, I don’t even think to this day, knows that I was molested three times and the specifics of it. If she does, then she does, and that sucks.

Q. Your mother went on the T.V. show Hard Copy in the early ‘90s, right?

A. Okay. I --

Q. Do you know if that’s true?

A. She was on Hard Copy.

Q. She was on Hard Copy in 1993, was she not?

A. If you told me ‘94, I’d agree. I don’t know. I don’t know the exact year. I do not.

Q. Are you telling the jury that before your mother went on Hard Copy, you never discussed what you claim Mr. Jackson did to you with your mother?

A. Yeah, I’m pretty sure that I never told my mom that he molested me before Hard Copy.

Q. And before sheriffs came to talk to you for the first time, had you told anyone that you had been molested by Michael Jackson?

A. I don’t think so, no.

Q. They just kind of came one day and surprised you?

(Laughter.)

A. Yeah.

THE COURT: Just a moment, Counsel.

(To the audience) I’m not going to put up with that.

THE WITNESS: Thanks.

THE COURT: If there’s any laughing again, I’ll remove people from the courtroom.

Go ahead, Counsel.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. You have -- you all right?

A. Yeah. I was just a little tense. Sorry.

Q. You have reviewed the tape and transcript of your first interview with the sheriffs, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you review that interview?

A. Like when did I listen to the tapes again? Is that what you’re asking?

Q. Yes.
A. Sunday.
Q. And how did you get the tape?
A. Chris - I don’t know his last name - gave them to me.

Q. Is that the lawyer?
A. No. He’s not a lawyer, I don’t think.
Q. Is he a sheriff?
A. It’s a tall man.
Q. Is he a sheriff?
A. I don’t know. I believe so.
Q. How did you run into him?
A. I met him when I met all these gentlemen.
Q. The prosecutors?
A. Correct.
Q. Okay. So Chris was with the prosecutors when you met them last, right?
A. I’m sorry?
Q. Chris was with the prosecutors when you spoke to the prosecutors, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And Chris gave you a tape of your interview from 1993, correct?
A. I believe that’s the year, yes.
Q. And if you remember, who was at that interview in 1993?
A. I don’t remember. Two men. Detectives, I believe.
Q. And where did it take place?
A. I already answered that to him.
Q. Would you please answer it again for me? Where did it take place?
A. At the sheriff’s station, or the probation -- I think it was the sheriff’s.

Q. Was that in Santa Maria?
A. In Orcutt.
Q. In Orcutt, okay. You were given a copy of the tape to listen to, right?
A. Right.
Q. And you were given a transcript of the tape to read, right?

A. Yeah.
Q. And you did that, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And a Detective Russell Birchim from the Santa Barbara County Sheriff’s Department was present for that interview, right?
A. I don’t remember his name.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a copy of the transcript?
MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as to which interview. Talking about the 1993 one, or the recent one where he reviewed the transcript?
MR. MESEREAU: I’m talking about the 1993 one.
MR. ZONEN: I’m sorry.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Let’s get back to the 1993 interview.
A. Okay.
Q. You have recently reviewed a transcript of that interview, right?

A. In the ‘93 interview?
Q. Yes.
A. The tape and the transcript?
Q. Yes.
A. Have I reviewed them both?
Q. Yes.
A. Didn’t I answer you that already?
Q. Would you please clarify it? Because there’s been some confusion.
A. Yes, I have.
Q. You have listened to the tape and you’ve read the transcript, right?
A. Correct.
Q. But as you sit here today, you’re not sure who was at the interview with you in 1993, right?
A. I was 13 years old.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a copy of the transcript with the names of the people who were with you?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that transcript? Mr. Francia, have you had a chance to look at the transcript I just showed you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did it refresh your recollection about who was there for that interview?

A. Yeah. I just read it. It said Vince and Russell.

Q. Vince Neglia and Russell Birchim, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Okay. Now, did someone tell you to review that transcript before you testified?

A. Yes.

Q. Who told you to review that transcript before you testified?

A. I'm under some pressure. Mark -- it's not Mark. It's Russ. I'm so bad with names.

Q. Is it Prosecutor Zonen, who just asked you questions?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Okay. Did he tell you you'd be asked questions about that?

A. About --

Q. What you said in that interview in 1993?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did he tell you to study it carefully and make sure you knew what you said and didn't say, right?

A. Actually, he didn't say, "Study it carefully."

Q. Did he tell you to read it?

A. He told me to review it.

Q. Okay. Okay. Now, you were how old when you were interviewed in 1993?

A. I think on that, it says the date. I could tell you the -- I could tell you how old I was.

Q. Okay. The date was November 4th, 1993.

A. I was 13.

Q. 13. Okay. Is that the first time you were ever interviewed by any police officer regarding

Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you told the police that you and Mr. Jackson were talking to one another in that hideout area, right?

A. I -- I was kind of banging my -- I told the police that I was --

Q. Talking to Mr. Jackson at a place you described as the hideout.

A. Yes, I have talked to Jackson at the place, at the hideout.

Q. And that was a place where Mr. Jackson used to go when he didn’t want the public or the press or anyone knowing he was there, true?

A. I’m assuming that.

MR. ZONEN: Objection as speculative.

THE COURT: Just --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did Mr. Jackson ever tell you --

THE COURT: I haven’t ruled on it.

MR. MESEREAU: Oh, I thought you had, Your Honor. Sorry.

THE COURT: I’ll allow the question, and the answer was, “I assume that.”

Go ahead, Counsel.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did Mr. Jackson tell you that this was a place that he didn’t want the public or the press following him to?

A. I don’t know.

Q. Okay. All right. In that interview, you told the police that you were sitting on Mr. Jackson’s lap, right?

A. I’m sorry?

Q. In that interview, you told the police you were sitting on Mr. Jackson’s lap, correct?

A. In the ‘93 11 -- is that this one that you’re reviewing right now?

Q. Yes.

A. The one you showed me? Yes.

Q. Yes. And you told them that at one point, he started tickling you and you started tickling him, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And then you told the police, “I have this blackout. I can’t remember anything else,” right?
A. Yeah. I -- I tried to black everything out.

Q. I understand. But I just want to go forward and ask you some questions about it.
A. Oh, okay.
Q. But on that particular date, you told the police that you had blacked everything out after you and Mr. Jackson started tickling, right, tickling each other, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. You told the police you knew that Michael Jackson had a reputation of being nice to kids, right?
A. I’m sorry?
Q. You told the police that Mr. Jackson had a reputation for being very nice to kids, right?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: What did you tell the police about Mr. Jackson’s reputation?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; irrelevant.
THE WITNESS: I don’t remember.
MR. ZONEN: And hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You were in that apartment because your mother brought you there, right?
A. My mom did bring me there to the hideout.
Q. She brought you there and she was working in the apartment, correct?
A. Yeah.

Q. And how many rooms do you remember there being in that apartment?
A. I remember one, but I could be mistaken.
Q. The first time you claim you were improperly tickled, was that on a chair?
A. Yeah.
Q. And that was when your mom was cleaning the apartment, correct?
A. She wasn’t in the room.
Q. She wasn’t in the room then?
A. She was not in the room with me.

Q. You sure of that?

A. Yeah.

Q. Well, you told the police you had a blackout and didn’t remember anything after -- after you and Mr. Jackson were tickling each other, right?

A. I blocked it out. I didn’t blank it out. I just didn’t never want to repeat that stuff again.

Q. Okay. Do you remember, in one of your police interviews, the police telling you, “This is what happened, right?” And you said, “Well, I’ll have to work on that”? Do you remember using words like that?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Have you looked at the transcripts of both your police interviews?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Just looked at the one in ‘93?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. Okay. Now, you told the police you didn’t want to sit on the floor, right?

A. I don’t know what you’re talking about right now.

Q. Did you ever tell the police you wouldn’t want to sit on Mr. Jackson’s floor?

A. Are you talking about the hideout?

Q. Yes.

A. I -- yeah, I remember -- I don’t remember saying that. I remember hearing that on the tape.

Q. You did hear it on the tape, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And it’s your voice, right? Right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. You told the police.... Let’s talk about the first incident you claim happened, okay?

A. Okay.

Q. Now, you claim you both were clothed, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You claim you were sitting in Mr. Jackson’s lap, right?

A. On one leg, yeah.

Q. Okay. And you claim he started tickling you, right?

A. Right.

Q. You tickled back, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. And you were watching cartoons, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Had you ever watched cartoons with Mr. Jackson before?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Had you ever watched cartoons with him in Encino?
A. I’m sorry?
Q. Had you ever watched cartoons with Mr. Jackson in Encino?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. Do you remember either Mr. Jackson tickling you or tickling him at the home in Encino?
A. I don’t remember any of that in Encino.
Q. Where was your mother, if you know, when you say you were improperly tickled?
A. I don’t.
Q. Did she come back at some point?
A. I had to have left there with my mother, so I think she did.
Q. And how old were you on that particular day?
A. I answered that already, and I thought seven and a half. Seven, eight.
Q. Okay. You told the jury that you tickled each other and then you went to the floor and you don’t remember after that, correct?

A. I don’t remember after what?
Q. You went to the floor.
A. I don’t remember after he was playing with my balls.
Q. Well, that’s what you said later on. Earlier interviews you denied that, didn’t you?
MR. ZONEN: I think we’re vague now.
THE WITNESS: Yeah.
MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as vague.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Early in your interviews, you denied being touched in your private areas, didn't you?

A. Yeah. I was scared.

Q. They were pretty long interviews, weren't they?

A. I believe so. Yeah, they were. They were long in my time. To a kid, an hour's a long time.

Q. Do you remember in your first police interview in 1993 telling the police, "I'll just say this out flat. I don't remember him trying anything with me except for the tickling"? Do you remember that?

A. Do I remember saying that?

Q. Yes.

A. No. But I've heard that on the voice. Yeah, I was fighting them with everything I had.

Q. I understand. I understand. You told the police that at that apartment there was a humongous T.V., right?

A. In what apartment?

Q. Mr. Jackson's apartment, where you say you were improperly tickled, right?

A. The hideout?

Q. That's what you call the hideout. I'm calling it the apartment. You call it the hideout, right?

A. Okay. My mom called it the hideout. That's why I called it the hideout.

Q. You told the police in 1993 there was a humongous T.V., right?

A. I don't know.

Q. You said, "It was 46-inch, something like it"?

MR. ZONEN: I'm going to object as to hearsay.

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

Sustained.

You need to wait until I rule on the objection.

THE WITNESS: Oh, sorry.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember telling the police in that interview, "We started tickling each other and my mom just grabbed me and, ‘Let’s go’”?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a page of it?

A. Probably would.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. ZONEN: What page?

MR. MESEREAU: It would be page 26.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay. I see that.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that? Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the police in that interview?

A. No, not really.

Q. Well, on a number of occasions, you told them, “We tickled each other and then I left,” didn’t you, words to that effect?

A. Yeah. Again, I was fighting with everything I had.

Q. I’m not asking you what you were doing. I’m just asking if that’s true, okay? On a number of occasions, you said, “We just tickled each other and then I left,” right?

A. Okay.

Q. Is that correct?

A. Yes. And then I also told them that he molested me.

Q. On many occasions in that interview you denied being molested, didn’t you?

A. Yeah, at first.

Q. And the police kept leaning on you to admit you had been molested, true?

A. It wasn’t like a twisting the arm. It was -- I was again fighting. I didn’t want to be embarrassed at school. I didn’t want to be embarrassed anywhere. I was 13.

Q. So you were lying to the police?

A. Yeah. I was at first.

Q. Okay. Now, shortly after this -- let me rephrase that.

How long after this did you and your mother get lawyers and threaten to sue Mr. Jackson; do you know?

MR. ZONEN: Objection as compound, “you and your mother.” And vague.

THE COURT: Sustained. Compound.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember in that interview being asked, “Is Mr. Jackson touchy-feely?” And you said, “I don’t remember. I distinctly don’t remember”?

A. I don’t remember that interview.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that page?

A. If you show me the page, I’m still not going to remember.

Q. Well, you’ve --

A. I could -- if it says on the transcript, then I’ll say, okay, I said it when I was younger. But I don’t remember right now.

Q. But you’ve listened to the tape and read the transcript to prepare for today, correct?

A. This is pretty nerve-racking being here right now, so for me to say I’m prepared for this? I’m not prepared for this.

Q. Well, I do have to ask you questions, you understand that?

A. I totally understand.

Q. Okay. Now, you told police in that interview, they asked you if Mr. Jackson was touchy-feely, and you said, “I don’t remember. I distinctly don’t remember.” Remember that?

A. Do I remember that? No, I don’t remember that.

Q. Might it refresh your recollection if I just show you that page?

A. We just did this again.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Remember telling the police you just remember the tickling; it was fun?

A. It was fun to be tickled, to laugh. That’s fun.

Q. Okay. That’s what you told the police in that interview, correct?

A. What I’m telling you right now is that it’s fun to laugh. I don’t know what I told them.
Q. Might it refresh your recollection if I just show you a page of transcript?
A. I’ll agree with it if it says it on there, but I -- to remember that all right now, I don’t remember.
Q. You told the police Mr. Jackson never kissed you, right?
A. I remember saying that. I remember hearing that on the tape.
Q. And you told them that he just hugged you goodbye when you left with your mom, right?
A. At first. I believe that’s in the very beginning of the transcript.
Q. You were asked if you had met Brooke Shields by the police. Do you remember that?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever meet Brooke Shields?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; irrelevant.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Heck if I know.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember whether or not Mr. Jackson was dating Brooke Shields at that point in his life?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; speculative.
THE COURT: You may answer.
THE WITNESS: When I was --
THE COURT: The question is, do you know? Just “yes” or “no.”
THE WITNESS: Okay. I don’t know.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Now, at this point, do you know whether or not you’ve ever obtained money from Mr. Jackson?
A. One more time.
Q. At this point in time, do you know whether or not you’ve ever obtained money from Mr. Jackson other than what you just described?

A. Other than the money that he put down my pants?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes.
Q. At some point you and your mother settled a case with Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. I don't remember signing papers.
Q. You're how old today?
A. I'm 24.
Q. And you're telling the jury you don't know whether you and your mother ever reached a financial settlement with Mr. Jackson?
A. There was a financial settlement.
Q. Okay. And when did you learn about that?

A. I believe I was 17.
Q. Do you remember signing documents in that?
A. At 17, I don't remember.
Q. Okay. Do you remember looking at that agreement?
A. At 17, I did not look at that agreement.
Q. And now, at 17, you knew that your mother had already gone on television attacking Mr. Jackson, right?
A. When she was on Hard Copy, is that what you're talking about?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes. At 17, I heard she had already been on Hard Copy.
Q. And at some point she met with Attorney Larry Feldman, did she not?
A. I don't know.
Q. Okay. But at 17, you certainly knew that your mother had hired attorneys who were threatening to sue Mr. Jackson if they didn't get some money, right?
A. No, I do not.
Q. Didn't know anything about that at 17?
A. Call me a stupid kid. I didn't know.
Q. Okay. But you certainly learned about it at some point?
A. Yeah. I learned about it at some point.
Q. Which did you learn about the fact that your lawyers were threatening to go public and sue Mr. Jackson unless you and your mother got money?

A. All of that stuff I don’t know about. I knew that there was a settlement. I don’t know how they fought, or what they argued about, or what they talked about.
Q. You’ve never discussed it with your mom?
A. About -- I have never discussed what, the settlement?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, I have.
Q. Have you ever discussed how the settlement came about with your mom?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Okay. And do you remember reading a settlement document?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You were asked to sign a settlement document at some point, right?
A. Probably.
Q. And in that document, Mr. Jackson denied doing anything wrong, correct?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; assumes facts not in evidence.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not in that settlement document you signed Mr. Jackson denies ever doing anything wrong?

MR. ZONEN: Objection. No evidence he signed it, he viewed a document or signed a document.
THE COURT: The objection is sustained. He said -- when you asked him if he signed it, he said, “Probably.” So you haven’t established that he signed it.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
Q. At the age of 24, and as you sit here today, you don’t know if you ever signed a settlement document with Mr. Jackson?
A. That is correct.
Q. As you sit here today, at the age of 24, do you know if your mother ever signed a settlement document with Mr. Jackson?

A. I think she did.

Q. Do you know if any money has come your way through a settlement with Mr. Jackson?

A. Money has, yes.

Q. Okay. And when did you first learn about that?

A. I answered that I thought. At 17.

Q. Okay. And you've had many discussions with your mom about that, right?

A. No. We -- me and my mom have a weird relationship. Well, not a weird relationship. We just don't talk about much stuff.

Q. Okay. Do you remember constantly telling the people who interviewed you in 1993 that you didn't remember Mr. Jackson doing anything improper?

A. I don't remember now, but I -- in listening to the tapes, I remember when I was -- at first I was denying everything.

Q. You've told the police that he tickled you, you tickled him, you both laughed, and then you went home, right, early in the interview?

A. I think I told him that I blacked it out or -- yeah.

Q. And you told the police at one point as they tried to get you to say he had molested you, you said, "If I don't remember, I don't remember," right?

A. Yeah.

Q. The police kept trying to tell you to say that Mr. Jackson put his hands somewhere that was improper, right?

A. No, they didn't.

Q. Do you remember these long paragraph questions where they'd say, essentially, "Admit to us he did something improper"?

A. They said, "If he did something, then tell us." That's what I remember. You could give me that, and I'll read it.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you one of the paragraph questions they asked you?

A. Well, this is -- I'm telling you what I remember. It’s not going to change my memory.

Q. It’s not going to change your memory to look at the transcript?

A. No. What I remember is them telling me, “If he did something, then tell us.” And I was, “No, I’m not gay.” I was fighting it again.

Q. You repeatedly told them, “I have nothing to tell you. I don’t remember anything,” right?

A. I’m sorry?

Q. You repeatedly told them you had nothing to tell them because you didn’t remember anything improper?

A. In the very beginning, yeah.

Q. Yes. Now, in your response to the prosecutor’s questions about the first time you say you were improperly touched - okay? -

A. Okay.

Q. -- did you say words to the effect, “At some point we were on the floor”?

A. I believe I did, yeah.

Q. Okay. And then you said, in response to the prosecutor’s questions, “I can’t remember anything after that,” right?

A. I’m sorry?

Q. After saying that you went to the floor, earlier today --

A. Okay.

Q. -- you then said, “I don’t remember anything after that,” correct?

MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember anything that happened after you went to the floor during the first time you say you were improperly touched?

A. Isn’t that the same question that you just asked?

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, could the witness be instructed to respond?

MR. ZONEN: I’m not certain as to the --

THE COURT: Just a moment.

(To the witness) The problem we have is you don’t get to object to his questions. If the District Attorney wants to object, he can. If the District Attorney doesn’t object, then you just answer the question.

THE WITNESS: Okay.
THE COURT: Just a moment. I’ll have the question read back.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.
THE WITNESS: Sorry.
(Record read.)
THE WITNESS: After he touched me? Like in my genitalia?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you then go to the floor?

A. I thought we were already on the floor.
THE COURT: You’re asking him a different question.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
Q. Do you want the first question? Do you want the first question read back again? I’ll start again, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
Q. You said you were sitting in a chair with Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Okay. I was on his lap, yeah.
Q. You said you were tickling each other at one point, right?
A. Right.
Q. And at one point you said you went to the floor, correct?
A. Right.
Q. Were you tickling each other on the floor, as far as you remember?
A. As far as I remember, I believe so, yeah.
Q. And there was a lot of laughing going on, right?
A. Yeah. Yeah.
Q. And then at some point your mom came back, right?
A. Did I say that?

Q. I’m just asking you.
THE COURT: Just answer.

THE WITNESS: No, I’m literally asking you. No, I don’t think I said that.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Didn’t she come back at some point and then take you home?

A. She must have, yeah. She had to have taken me home.

Q. In your interview in 1993, the police asked you if Mr. Jackson rubbed your penis, and you said, “No,” correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. Right?

A. In the beginning, yeah.

Q. Well, pretty late in the interview, wasn’t it?

A. I have no clue.

Q. You said, “It was a tickling. He didn’t rub me there,” correct?

A. Oh. Okay. If we’re going that --

Q. Is that right?

A. Yeah, he was playing with my stuff, not rubbing it. In a stroking manner.

Q. I know the point you’re trying to make to the jury, but I’m just asking you the facts, okay?

MR. ZONEN: I think that’s argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You told the police that, “He never rubbed me there. It was just a tickling,” correct?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: One more time.

THE COURT: I’ll have the court reporter....

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: I don’t remember.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a transcript?

A. I don’t remember. I’ll say I don’t remember, but I’ll agree with what the transcript says.

Q. Okay. Well, I’m not trying to put words in your mouth. Would you like to look at it?

A. Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: All right.
MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?
MR. MESEREAU: 45.
MR. ZONEN: Thank you.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that transcript?
A. I did.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the police in that interview?

A. No. But in reading it, it said, “Well, yeah” in the very beginning of that sentence.
Q. It says, “Well, yeah, he’s not rubbing it, but tickling,” right?
A. That’s what it said, I believe.
Q. And you said it was on top of your pants; is that correct?
A. The first time --
Q. Yes.
A. -- that he molested me?
Q. The first time you say he molested you, you say it was on top of your pants, right?
A. Pants or shorts. My clothing.
Q. You said he never put his hands in your shorts, right?
A. Right now? Do I say he never -- no, he did it at the very end. The last time he molested me, he did put his hands in my shorts.
Q. Okay. We’re talking about the first time.
A. The first time he didn’t.
Q. Okay. And how much time elapsed, if you know, between the first time you say you were touched and the second time?
A. I’m guessing a year.
Q. And how much time elapsed between the second time you claim you were improperly touched and the third time?
A. I’m guessing two years.

Q. Okay. So let me just, for the record, get your ages each time. The first time you were around seven, right?

A. Sounds about right. Seven, seven and a half.

Q. The next time you were around eight?

A. Eight, eight and a half, or nine. Yeah.

Q. And the third time you're how old, do you think?

A. Ten, ten and a half.

Q. Okay. And did you have any contact with Mr. Jackson in between those three events you've described?

A. I believe I did.

Q. Now, let's talk about contact between the first event that you've described and the second. What kind of contact did you have with Mr. Jackson?

A. Actually, between the first time he molested me and the second time he molested me, I don't think there was contact between those two times.

Q. Now, has someone told you to make sure you use the word "molest" repeatedly in your testimony?

A. No.

Q. Have you discussed your testimony with any lawyer before you came in today?

A. No.

Q. Discussed it with your mom before you came in today?

A. No.

Q. Not at all?

A. Me and my mom?

Q. Yeah.

A. I haven't -- no. I haven't talked to her much.

Q. Does she know you're here today, to your knowledge?

A. Yeah, I think she does.

Q. You're not sure?

A. I'm pretty sure she does.

Q. Okay. Have you talked to her about it?

A. About me coming on the stand?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I have not.

Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you how long the tickling continued the first time, right?

A. Okay. Yes.

Q. But you didn’t time how long the tickling continued?
A. No, I didn’t have a stopwatch.
Q. You don’t really know how long it continued, do you?
A. I could go by Woody Woodpecker, but -- I could go by cartoons, but I didn’t have a -- I probably did have a watch on, but I didn’t time it.
Q. You’ve told the police nothing happened skin to skin, right?

A. At first.
Q. Well, you still say nothing -- there was no touching skin to skin --
MR. ZONEN: Objection.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: -- in the first event, right?
MR. ZONEN: Withdraw the objection.
THE WITNESS: Are we talking -- yes, we are talking the first event, so -- correct?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Yes. No skin-to-skin touching, correct?
A. Correct. I just sometimes get confused if you’re talking first event, second event, third event.
Q. Unless I say otherwise, let’s assume I’m talking about the first event. Okay?
A. Okay.
Q. Now, after that first event happened --
A. Okay.
Q. -- you claim you never told anyone about it, right?
A. Correct.
Q. After the second event happened, you claim you never told anyone about it, right?
A. After the second time it happened?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, I did not.
Q. After the third time it happened, you claim you never told anyone about it, and then suddenly the police came one day, right?

A. Right.
Q. Okay. Between the first and the second event, how often did you see Michael Jackson?

A. Between the first and the second?
Q. Yes.
A. I thought I said none. I didn't think I saw him in between 1 and 2.
Q. You didn't see him at all?
A. I don't think so. I don't remember.
Q. Okay. I mean, your mother still was working for Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And she used to clean his house, right?
A. Clean the mansion, yeah.
Q. And would you go over to the mansion with her, still, from time to time?
A. At times, yeah.
Q. Do you recall seeing Mr. Jackson anytime after -- or excuse me, between the first and the second event?
A. I don't recall it.
Q. Okay. The second event you've described -- actually, let me go back to the first one. You said you don't remember how it felt, you were too young, right?
A. I'm sorry?

Q. Yeah. Going back to the first event.
A. Okay.
Q. Correct me if I'm wrong, I think you said, "I don't remember how it felt. I was too young," right?
A. I believe that's what I said, yeah. When he was doing his interview or --
Q. Pardon me?
A. -- when he was asking me the questions?
Q. Yes. Yes.
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. And you don't recall -- excuse me. And the year you think that happened was when? When do you think?
A. The first time?
Q. Yes, please.
A. I'm thinking '87, '88.
Q. '87, '88?
A. Yeah, around there.

Q. Okay. 17, 18 years ago, right?
A. Right.
Q. Okay.
A. Well, yeah.
Q. You said that you've done some therapy, right?
A. That I've gone through counseling, yeah.
Q. Yes. And without going into what you said, because that's confidential --

A. Okay.
Q. -- have you done anything, exercises or anything, to try and refresh your memory about what happened in '87 or '88?
A. No.
Q. Okay. And has any representative of the police department been involved in any of your counseling sessions?
A. No, I don't think so. Well, there was the one time that the -- that I first met Mr. Sneddon, I think that's his name. And it wasn't a counseling session. But Mike Craft, which was my counselor, was there.
Q. Was there with Mr. Sneddon present?
A. I think he was there, but I was 13.
Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, was Mr. Sneddon talking to your counselor?
A. I don't know.
Q. Okay. This is 12 years ago, approximately?
A. In '93.
Q. Okay. Okay.
A. Or '94.
Q. Okay. But you don't know what your counselor or Mr. Sneddon said to each other, right? You wouldn't know?
A. I wouldn't know.
Q. Okay. Do you know how long Mr. Sneddon and your counselor met?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; assumes facts not in evidence, that they met.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I don't even know if they met.

I don’t even -- well, they had to have met because they were in the same room, if they were in the same room. But I don’t know.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know where they were in the same room?

A. Yeah, when they were in front of me.

Q. Do you know where that room was?

A. Yeah, it was in where I got my counseling. It was my counselor’s office.

Q. So Mr. Sneddon came to your counselor’s office, correct?

A. That’s what it -- I’m telling you this, because I think I remember meeting him there.

Q. Okay. Do you know if your counselor’s been in touch with Mr. Sneddon?

A. I don’t.

Q. Do you know if he’s spoken to Mr. Sneddon at any time other than that day?

A. I don’t.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, the second time you claim you were improperly tickled, you said you were lying on top of a sleeping bag, correct?

A. In or on, yeah.

Q. Well, you told the police it was on top. You were not in, right?

A. I think it says that on the transcripts.

Q. Okay. And that was a large sleeping bag that took up most of the floor, correct, as far as you remember?

A. I can’t see a sleeping bag taking up the whole floor in a room, now, because it’s gigantic. But I think I said that when I was younger.

Q. Okay. Do you remember mentioning Steven Segall to the police?

A. Yeah, I do.

Q. And why did you Steven Segall?

A. Why did I mention him? I don’t know. Because I played pool against him, I think.

Q. Was that with Michael Jackson?

A. I think he was there.

Q. Okay. Was that at Neverland; do you know?

A. I think it was -- yeah, I’m pretty sure it was at Neverland. It was at Neverland.

Q. Now, in the second event that you've described, you also claim that there was no skin-to-skin touching, correct?
A. On the second event, I don't -- yes, that is what I claim.
Q. And what you said was that that also began like tickling, correct?
A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. You were tickling each other, right?
A. I'm sorry?
Q. You were tickling each other at that point?
A. Yeah, it started off with him tickling me.
Q. Okay. And that was at the -- what you call the hideout as well, right, the second event?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Where was your mom at that point?
A. I don't know. Not in the room.
Q. Okay. All right. You're on the floor, and you're in that position you described, right?
A. What -- when he's kind of spooning in and holding me? Yeah.
Q. And he starts tickling you, right?
A. Correct.
Q. You tickle him back, right?
A. Probably.
Q. You're watching television, right?
A. Probably, yeah.
Q. Okay.
A. Yeah. Well, I mean -- I'm sorry. I am watching T.V., but I don't know whether I'm tickling him back or watching T.V.
Q. You're both laughing, right?
A. Probably.
Q. And then you say at some point he improperly tickled you in your private area, correct?
A. Yeah, he did.

Q. Do you remember telling the police it was -- it was no more than a 30-second thing?
A. I don't remember that.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a portion of the transcript of your police interview?

A. It wouldn't. I could look at it again, but it wouldn't make me remember.

Q. Do you want to give it a try?

A. Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. I did.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the police?

A. No.

Q. You don't remember their asking you if it was just like a passing thing, and you said, "It's no more than a 30-second thing"?

THE COURT: Counsel, that's not how you refresh recollection. He said it didn't refresh his recollection.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

Q. Do you remember telling the police, when they asked you how long it was, you don't know, "We were just laughing the whole time"?

A. No, I don't remember that.

Q. Okay. Okay. Do you remember being asked if anything improper happened at the ranch, and you said, "I was around too many people"?

A. I'm sorry?

Q. Do you remember police saying to you, "Did anything improper ever happen at the ranch?" And you said, "I was around too many people"?

A. I remember hearing that on the tape.

Q. Okay. But you don't remember saying that?

A. I don't remember saying that.

Q. Do you remember hearing your voice say that on the tape?

A. Correct.

Q. And in that 1993 interview, when it came to talking about what happened at the arcade, you didn't know if he'd really touched you improperly, right?

A. I knew.

Q. Well, you kept responding, "I don't know," and then you'd say, "If he really did touch, it was in the arcade"?

A. No --

Q. And you were asked, "Do you think he did it?" And you said, "I don't know"?

A. I knew.

Q. But you told the police you didn't know, correct?

A. I don't remember. If you bring that thing to me again, I'm going to -- yes.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at it?

A. Yes, bring it over.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: You should just drop one off. Okay.

MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?

MR. MESEREAU: That would be 57 and 58.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at those pages?

A. I did.

Q. Does looking at those pages refresh your recollection about what you have told the police --

A. No.

Q. -- in '93?

A. I was 13. Eleven years ago.

Q. You weren't even sure you were tickled at all. Remember that?

A. I don't remember that I -- I knew.

Q. Remember telling the police, "You guys are pushy"?

A. Yeah. I remember telling the police that.

Q. Okay. And after they kept pushing you, you finally said, "You know, I think he did tickle me," right?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember that? Do you remember at first saying you didn't know, and then after --

A. Yeah, I remember saying at first, "I don't know."

Q. And after telling the police, “You guys are pushy,” you eventually finally said, “Yes, he tickled me,” right?

A. I believe that’s how it went.

Q. Okay. You kind of went back and forth during the interview, didn’t you? One second you’d say, “He tickled me,” and the next second you’d say you’re not sure, right?

A. I was trying to figure out how to get out of there.

Q. I understand. And you remember exactly how you felt in 1993 during the interview, right?

A. The feeling of, yeah, crying and crappiness.

Q. Okay. Do you remember the police kept trying to get you to say he’s a molester?

A. No.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you what one officer said to you about that?

A. Bring it over.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

MR. ZONEN: Perhaps the witness could indicate whether it would refresh his recollection.

THE WITNESS: It wouldn’t.

THE COURT: When he said “Bring it over,” that sort of means like he’ll see if it refreshes his recollection.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: It’s a shortcut. Go ahead.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: We’re down to the last seconds here. Run.

(Laughter.)

MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?

MR. MESEREAU: 60.

MR. ZONEN: What line, please? It’s not numbered. Never mind.

MR. MESEREAU: Towards the bottom. Towards the bottom.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You’re 13 years old. You’re sitting there, and one officer said to you --

THE COURT: Wait a minute now. Are you going to ask him if it refreshes his memory?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that transcript? Does it refresh your recollection that an officer looked at you said --
THE COURT: Just a moment, Counsel.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
THE COURT: He said, no, it didn't refresh his recollection.
All right. This is the end of the day.

(Laughter.)
See you tomorrow.
THE COURT: Go to bed one hour early.
(The proceedings adjourned at 2:30 p.m.)

THE COURT: Good morning.
THE JURY: (In unison) Good morning.
THE COURT: Mr. Mesereau?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

JASON FRANCIA
Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

CROSS-EXAMINATION (Continued)
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mr. Francia, we were discussing yesterday your first interview with two police detectives which took place on November 3rd, 1993, okay?
A. Okay.
Q. That's where we left off.
Now, did you discuss your testimony yesterday with anyone after you left the courthouse?
A. Yeah.
Q. Who did you discuss it with?
A. My wife.
Q. Anyone else?
A. No.
Q. Did you discuss it with any prosecutor?

A. No, I was kind of nervous. I said, "How'd it go?" And they smiled and they said, "It went well."
Q. And which prosecutor told you that?
A. I can't specifically remember, but it was one of them.
Q. Okay. Did you discuss anything else with one of them?
A. No.
Q. Did you talk with any sheriff about your testimony?

A. No.

Q. Were you on the phone last night with anyone about your testimony?

A. No. I did tell my pastor this morning that I was on the stand, and if he could pray for me. But other than that, that was it.

Q. Anyone else?

A. Nope.

Q. Okay. Now, yesterday you told the jury that Mr. Jackson had given you some money, correct?

A. Right.

Q. And you told them he had given you hundred-dollar bills, right?

A. Right.

Q. Isn’t it true that when you were originally interviewed by the police, you told them that Mr. Jackson would give you money each time you read a book?

A. Yeah, he also said that, as well. Yeah, he’d give me $20, I think it was.

Q. And you told the police that you remember him having a room full of books, and you said every time you complete a book, he’ll pay you some money, right?

A. I don’t remember that, but I remember listening to it on the tape.

Q. But that was your voice on the tape, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You also told the police that Mr. Jackson told you one time that if you got A’s in school, he would also pay you every time you got an A, correct?

A. Yes. That is correct. I remember -- I don’t remember him saying that, but I remember it on the tape.

Q. And that was your voice on the tape?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Telling it to the police, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. When you met with the prosecutors before you testified, did anyone tell you not to mention that when you talked about money?

A. No.
Q. Okay. You just forgot?

A. I'm sorry?
Q. You just forgot yesterday?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; argumentative.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you were responding the prosecutor's questions --
THE COURT: Wait. He has a question pending.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh, I'm sorry.
THE COURT: I overruled the objection.
THE WITNESS: Can you repeat the question?
THE COURT: The question was, "You just forgot yesterday?"
THE WITNESS: I have no idea what you're referring to. I just forgot about what?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: About Mr. Jackson paying you money for, one, reading a book --
A. No --
Q. -- and, two, getting A's.
A. I didn't remember that, but I remember saying that on the tape.
Q. Okay. Okay. Now, following your interview with two police officers in November of 1993, to your knowledge, Mr. Jackson was never charged with a crime involving anything you said, correct?
A. I don't know.
Q. Okay. Did you ever hear anything about that?

A. I -- no.
Q. Okay. To this day, you're not sure if Mr. Jackson was ever charged with any crime involving --
A. I don't know.
Q. -- what you claim happened?
A. No.
Q. Okay. You also were interviewed a second time.

A. There’s a hand being raised behind you guys over there.

Q. You were interviewed a second time on March 24th, 1994. Do you remember that?

A. Again, I personally don’t remember, and I didn’t even really listen to that tape, so -- and I didn’t get a transcript for it either, so I didn’t even review it.

Q. You were given a tape of your second interview?

A. I was, but I did not listen to it.

Q. And who gave you that tape?

A. It came in the same packet as tape one and with the transcript.

Q. Do you remember present at that interview was Tom Sneddon?

A. I remember saying that yesterday, yeah. And I also remember saying that I was unsure if he was there or not.

Q. Okay. But you do remember now he was there, right?

A. I did not say that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a transcript?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Is this a transcript of ‘94?

MR. MESEREAU: (Nods head up and down.)

THE WITNESS: So these are the people that were there? I -- I can’t ask that.

THE COURT: He’s asking you to look at that and see if that refreshes your memory to see --

THE WITNESS: No, it does not refresh my memory.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: So you don’t remember if you were interviewed by Tom Sneddon and two district attorneys in ‘94?

A. I remember Mike Craft being there. That was the only person. And a woman being there. Other than that, I cannot -- because I think that was the first time I told a woman what happened.

Q. Do you remember someone named Lauren Weis from the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office being there --

A. I don't. I'm really bad at names.

Q. I have to complete the question. Thank you. Do you remember someone named Lauren Weis from the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office being present at that interview?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember someone named Bill Hodgeman from the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office being at that interview?

A. No.

Q. And you don't remember whether or not Mr. Sneddon was there, right?

A. I -- correct.

Q. Are you saying he wasn't there, or you just don't remember?

A. I don't remember whether he was there or not.

Q. Do you remember Russ Birchim being there?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you remember your own lawyer, Terry Cannon, being there?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you remember stating in that interview, "They made me come out with a lot more stuff I didn't want to say. They kept pushing. I wanted to get up and hit them in the head"? Do you remember that?

A. No.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the transcript of that?

A. Probably not. But you can show it to me anyway.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?

MR. MESEREAU: 30.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of the transcript?
A. I have.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you've said?
A. No, it does not.
Q. Do you remember anything you said in that interview at the moment?
A. Not really.
Q. Okay. All right. Do you remember in that interview telling the people who were present that at one point a woman came into a room where you and Michael were present?
A. No, I do not.
Q. Do you remember seeing Janet Jackson on one occasion?
A. I remember saying that, or do I remember seeing her?
Q. Do you remember seeing her?
A. I think I did meet her once.
Q. Do you remember where you met her?
A. I think it was at the mansion in Encino.

Q. Okay.
A. But I really -- like, I think that's where it was.
Q. Okay. Do you remember telling the sheriffs that the first time you were tickled by Mr. Jackson you think it lasted about 30 seconds?
A. Are we talking the first interview, second interview?
Q. Either one.
A. I do not remember.
Q. Okay. You do remember giving more information the second time, correct?
MR. ZONEN: "Second time?" Objection; vague.
MR. MESEREAU: Excuse me. He's correct. I'll withdraw it.
Q. You do recall giving more information during your second interview than you did in your first, right?
A. I do not recall.

Q. Okay. How did you meet Attorney Terry Cannon?

A. I can't -- I think I met them at Mike Craft's office.

Q. Excuse me, at whose office?

A. Mike Craft's, my counselor.

Q. Okay. And does Terry Cannon still represent you?

A. I don't think so, no.

Q. Well, you gave an interview with Mr. Zonen in December of 2004, correct?

A. Yes. That was the first time I think I met them.

Q. And Terry Cannon was present, correct?

A. You're right.

Q. And Terry Cannon at that time was working for the District Attorney's Office in San Diego, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. But he still came up to act like your lawyer, didn't he?

MR. ZONEN: I'll object to the expression, "act like your lawyer"; vague. Or argumentative.

THE COURT: Well, I guess instead of "like," it might be "as."

MR. MESEREAU: I'll rephrase it, Your Honor.

Q. Mr. Cannon was present at your interview with Ron Zonen on December 6th, 2004, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that interview, he was serving as your lawyer, correct?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know why he was there?

A. I didn't really know. I was asked by -- actually, I didn't even know how I met you guys. I was asked to be there, I think, and he was there.

Q. Okay. Did he give you any legal advice before that meeting?

A. Actually, he said, "You don't have to answer things if you don't want to," but I think that was just a -- man advice.

Q. So he was giving legal advice?

A. I don’t know if that’s legal advice or not.

Q. Did he discuss with you what you were going to say in that interview?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember when that interview began, you requested that your interview not be tape-recorded?

A. I don’t remember that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a report on that interview?

A. Okay. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that report?

A. I read the first paragraph.

Q. And does it refresh your recollection that you requested that your interview not be tape-recorded?

A. It does not, but I probably said that.

Q. Okay. You don’t know for sure, though?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And you had requested that Mr. Cannon be present at the interview, right?

A. You’re going to have to show me the paper probably.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: (Nods head up and down.)

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the report?

A. I did.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that you wanted Mr. Cannon present?

A. It does not refresh my recollection.

Q. Let me just try and get this straight. You don’t know why Mr. Cannon was there, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You didn’t ask him to be there, right?

A. I don’t remember whether I asked for him to be there or not. I probably did, only because he was a friend of mine and he knows more legal stuff than I do.
Q. Okay. Did you know he was working for a District Attorney’s Office at the time?
A. I believe I did, because we kept in touch --
Q. Okay.
A. -- after I was 18.
Q. All right. Now, Mr. Zonen began that interview by telling you about the current case involving Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I didn’t understand the question.
Q. Well, let me try and rephrase it.
A. Okay.
Q. At the beginning of that interview, Mr. Zonen gave you his summary of the current case against Mr. Jackson, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. And he told you about a family named “Arvizo,” right?
A. Really bad at names. If that’s -- he told me about a child molestation.
Q. Okay. That these were the charges against Mr. Jackson, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. Okay. Have you ever met Janet Arvizo?
A. I don’t know who that is.
Q. Ever met David Arvizo?
A. I don’t know who that is.
Q. Ever met Gavin Arvizo?
A. Oh, that -- I do know who that is. No, I have not met him.
Q. Have you ever met Star Arvizo?
A. I have never met an Arvizo I don’t think.
Q. Never met Davellin Arvizo, correct?
A. Right.
Q. Have you ever talked to any of the Arvizo family on the telephone?

A. No.

Q. Okay. But Mr. Zonen was telling you about the Arvizo family, was he not?

A. If that’s the child’s parents, then yes.

Q. Incidentally, after your second interview, which you don’t remember a lot about, to your knowledge, no criminal charges were ever filed against Mr. Jackson involving anything you had told anybody, right?

A. I don’t know.

Q. You still don’t know?

A. I -- are you talking about ‘94, the ‘94 interview?

Q. Yes.

A. Okay. And you’re asking if there was criminal charges pressed against Michael?

Q. I’m asking you what you know, okay? You’ve already indicated that after your ‘93 interview, no criminal charges were ever filed against Mr. Jackson involving anything you said, right?

A. I don’t know much. I don’t watch the news.

Q. And -- okay. And after your ‘94 interview, again, no criminal charges were ever filed against Mr. Jackson involving anything you said, right?

A. I don’t know.

Q. Okay. But at your ‘94 interview, you do remember Terry Cannon being present, right?

A. I don’t know. I don’t know who was present other than Michael Craft in ‘94.

Q. Okay. To your knowledge, was it your mom’s idea for you to have an attorney at that meeting?

A. To my knowledge, I don’t know.

Q. Okay. And again, just for the record, how old were you --

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as vague as to which meeting.

MR. MESEREAU: He’s correct. I’ll withdraw it.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: To your knowledge, was it your mother’s idea to have an attorney be present at the March 24th, 1994, interview?

A. To my knowledge, I have no clue.

Q. Okay.
A. When I was 13, I was really protected by my mom, so I didn't know much --
Q. Okay.
A. -- about anything.
Q. And certainly when you were 13, you didn't hire an attorney, someone else did, right?
A. I didn't -- probably.
Q. Okay. Okay. Do you remember meeting with Attorney Terry Cannon, with your mother, in 1994?
A. I do not remember, but I'm sure we did.
Q. Okay. All right. Do you remember meeting with any other attorneys that your mother had retained in 1994?

A. Other than Terry Cannon?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't remember. But there was another attorney, which is Kris Kallman.
Q. Okay. And Kris Kallman is the attorney who represented you in a settlement with Mr. Jackson, right?
A. I don't know whether it was Kris or Terry.
Q. And Kris also represented your mother, who wanted a settlement with Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. I don't know.
Q. Now, do you know whether or not your mother went to these attorneys after she learned that Mr. Jackson had settled with someone named Chandler?
A. I do not.
MR. ZONEN: Objection; lack of foundation.
THE COURT: Court reporter, was that an answer on there?
THE REPORTER: Yes.
THE COURT: I'll overrule the objection. The answer was, "I do not."
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Why didn't you want your interview in December of 2004 with the prosecutors tape-recorded?
A. I don't know.
Q. You don't have any idea why you made that request?

A. Tape-recording is weird. I don't know. No, I don't.

Q. Okay. Do you remember telling Prosecutor Zonen in the December 2004 interview regarding the first incident you described - okay? - that you and Mr. Jackson were in a tickle contest? Do you remember that?

A. I do not. I don't know whether it was the first interview or the second interview that we talked about Michael molesting me.

Q. Well, actually, in the December interview, you told Prosecutor Zonen that, in all three instances that you described where you claim you were inappropriately touched, every incident was preceded by a tickling contest between you and Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I don't know.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection just to show you the report?

A. You can show it to me, but I don't know whether it was the first or the second.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to review that page of the report?

A. I didn't read the whole page. I read that paragraph.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told Prosecutor Zonen in that December 6th, 2004, interview?

A. It doesn't -- I don't -- it doesn't help remembering, but --

Q. Well, you told him that all three events that you described were preceded by a tickling contest, correct?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You and Mr. Jackson were in a contest as to who could tickle the most, correct?

A. I just said I don't remember that. I don't mean to sound like I'm wasting your time, but this is kind of hard being up here, and --

Q. No, please don’t. Just respond to my questions, if you would, please.

A. Okay. Sorry.

Q. Now, on November 19th, 2004, Prosecutor Zonen and Auchincloss interviewed your mother at the District Attorney’s Office, right?

A. I don’t know. Me and my mother don’t talk about that stuff much.

Q. Well, you were present, weren’t you?

A. Now I remember, yes.

Q. Now you remember?

A. Yeah. I was present there.

Q. You not only were present, but you also requested that that not be tape-recorded, correct?

A. Probably.

Q. You don’t know?

A. I don’t know.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at that report?

A. No. But bring it on up.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: No, he said it wouldn’t.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You’re not willing to look at it?

A. It’s not about me willing. I’m willing to look at it, but it’s not going to help.

Q. Well, that was last November you had that interview with your mom and these prosecutors, correct?

A. Again, this is all difficult.

Q. I know it’s difficult, but you’re saying you don’t remember that interview?

A. You just said I met with my mom and I was there, and I didn’t remember until you said that, and then I remembered.

Q. Do you remember you and your mom both requested that the interview not be tape-recorded?

A. I do not.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to see what it says in the report about that?

A. Bring it over. It -- yeah. Bring it over.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the page of that report?
A. Yeah, I read the first paragraph.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about you and your mother both requesting no tape-recording?
A. No, it does not.
Q. Okay. You don't remember one way or the other about that?
A. Right.
Q. Okay. Okay. Now, on that particular day, and I'm referring to November 19th, 2004, you were interviewed as well, correct?
A. Was this when my mother was present?
Q. Yes.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you remember you were interviewed on that day?
A. I think I was just there for my mom.
Q. Well, actually, they interviewed your mom first and then they interviewed you second, correct?
A. I don't remember that.
Q. Okay. They interviewed you for about an hour, didn't they?
A. They may have.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the report about that?

A. No.
Q. You're not willing to look at it?
A. I'll look at it. I'll look at it, but no, it probably won't.
Q. You don't remember an hour interview on November 19th, 2004?
A. Again, the issue is it's all kind of blending in together.
Q. You do remember the December interview with Prosecutor Zonen, right?
A. You asked me that --
Q. Yes.

A. Go ahead, ask it again. Do I remember the December interview?
Q. Yes.
A. I remember it taking place. I don't remember what specific was asked.
Q. Actually, let me clarify the date.
A. Okay.
Q. Okay. I'm talking about the report. You were interviewed on October 18th, 2004, by prosecutors, right?
A. I'm sorry?
Q. You were interviewed on October 18th by prosecutors, correct?
A. Of 2004?
Q. Yes.
A. I believe that was the first time that I met these guys, but I don't know.

Q. And then you were interviewed approximately a month later on November 19th, right?
A. You got a bunch of hands raised behind you.
THE BAILIFF: Mr. Mesereau, could you check if it's on? I guess they can't hear you back there.
THE WITNESS: Sorry, that's what was kind of distracting me.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: I had mentioned a December date. Actually, you were interviewed in October and November of 2004, right?
A. October, November, December. I don't know.
Q. Okay. Do you remember having Terry Cannon --
A. They're raising their hands again.
THE COURT: Quit hitting my microphone.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh. Okay.
THE COURT: Beat the poor thing -- you know, what's happening, you have a book that's hitting the "off" button. I can see from here that you can't see, maybe.
MR. MESEREAU: I think it's on, but --
THE COURT: Gently.
THE WITNESS: Yeah, it's bad to hit mikes.
THE BAILIFF: Actually, it's -- when you step back and are at a far distance, it's hard to hear.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

Q. In your interview with the prosecutors on October 18th --

A. This is the first one?

Q. Well, first we have ‘93. Then we have ‘94.

A. Okay.

Q. Then we have October of 2004, and then November of 2004. Okay?

A. Okay.

Q. In your interview in October of 2004, you were asked about the third incident where you claim Mr. Jackson tickled your testicles, right?

A. I was probably asked that, yes.

Q. Do you remember you told the prosecutors it lasted for more than ten seconds, but you don’t know how much longer after that?

A. I don’t remember saying that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I showed you your report?

A. My report? No, it wouldn’t.

Q. Well, the police reports.

A. The police report. I’ll look at it, but it’s probably not going to help.

Q. Are you willing to give it a chance?

A. Yeah.

Q. Think it might help?

A. No. I’m sorry. But you can -- I’ll give it a shot.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the page of that report?

A. I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that you told the prosecutors it lasted more than ten seconds?

A. It does not help me remember.

Q. Don’t remember that at all?

A. No, but I could probably agree with it if it was in the report.

Q. Okay. Before either the October interview or the November interview with prosecutors, did you discuss what you were going to say in any of those interviews with your mother?

A. No.

Q. You would agree that Attorney Terry Cannon was present at both the October interview, 2004, and the November interview, 2004, right?

A. I can’t remember whether he was there on the November one with me and my mom.

Q. Did you discuss what you were going to say at either interview in advance with Attorney Terry Cannon?

A. I don’t think so.

Q. How did he end up showing up for any of those interviews, if you know?

A. I think he called me and said I might be subpoenaed for this. I can’t -- I think Kris called me and said I might be subpoenaed up here.

Q. Correct me if I’m wrong, I think you said yesterday that you never knew that your mother had gotten $20,000 from the television show Hard Copy to give an interview.

A. I think you’re wrong.

Q. Okay. Did you know that before you testified yesterday?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you first learn that your mother got $20,000 to give an interview with Hard Copy in the early ‘90s?

A. I think it was last Sunday.

Q. Okay. And I guess she told you that?

A. No.

Q. She’s never told you that?

A. That she received $20,000? She has never told me that.

Q. Did you know before last week that your mother had been paid to go on the television show Hard Copy?

A. I think I assumed it.
Q. Okay. But you didn’t know for sure?
A. I didn’t know for sure.
Q. Never discussed it with her?

A. I don’t think I did, no.
Q. Okay. All right. Now, you admitted that at the beginning of your first interview with sheriffs in ‘93, you said that Mr. Jackson had not touched your genital area, right?
A. I said that at the very beginning.
MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: It was only after you were pushed real hard by the sheriffs that you began to say anything like that, true?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And at one point a sheriff actually used a curse word to get you to say something, correct?
A. I don’t remember that, but you could show me the thing.
Q. Okay. But as you sit here today, you don’t remember, right?
A. I don’t remember the four-letter word. Everybody in junior high cussed.
Q. How about the word “bullshit”?
A. What about it?
Q. Do you remember a sheriff telling you that?
A. I don’t, but I think I remember listening to it on the tape.
Q. Do you remember in that interview one sheriff telling you, “Mr. Jackson is a molester,” and the other saying, “He makes great music, he’s a great guy, bullshit”? Do you remember that?

A. I don’t remember that specifically, but I think I remember hearing it on the tape, which was my voice, or his voice.
Q. You do remember a sheriff’s voice saying that, right?

A. I don’t remember right now of ‘93, but I remember listening to the tape.
Q. Okay. And a sheriff said that to you, correct?
A. I believe so.
Q. And the sheriffs complained that, “Mr. Jackson has a lot of money” in that interview, right?
A. I believe he did say that, but can I look at the paper?
Q. Sure.
May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the transcript?
A. I did.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what the sheriffs said to you about Mr. Jackson in the interview?

A. I don’t remember that specifically, but reading it in the transcript, I remember reading that in the transcript when I read it on Sunday, when I reviewed the tape.
Q. And even after sheriffs said to you, “He’s a molester, he’s a great guy, makes great music, bullshit, he has lots of money,” you still said he had never touched your genital area, right?
A. I believe so. Probably towards the beginning again.
Q. Do you remember the sheriff interviewing you wanted to know whether Mr. Jackson went under your pants or on top of your underwear, and you said, “I don’t know”?
A. I’m sorry?
Q. Do you remember the interviewing sheriff asked you, “Have you ever been touched under your pants or on top of your underwear?” And you said, “I don’t know”?
A. Were we talking about a specific incident?
Q. I’m just asking about the interview.
A. Oh. Then --

MR. ZONEN: I'll object as vague, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember in that interview, when you first said in response to the sheriffs questions, "Mr. Jackson touched me," you had no idea how long he had ever touched you?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; vague. Which incident?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During any incident?

THE COURT: Do you want to rephrase the whole question?

MR. MESEREAU: Sure.

Q. Do you remember in your first interview with the sheriffs when, after repeated questioning, you finally said, "Mr. Jackson touched me," do you remember not knowing how long he had ever touched you at any time?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you remember telling the sheriffs that Mr. Jackson, during your tickle games, used to pinch you in the stomach?

A. Tickling, pinching. Same thing.

Q. Okay. You did tell the sheriffs in your first interview you had never spent the night with Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I never slept in his bed with him.

Q. Okay. When did you last talk to Attorney Terry Cannon?

A. Yesterday.

Q. Did you talk about your testimony?

A. No.

Q. Did you talk about the case?

A. Nope.

Q. Did he call you --

A. Wait, actually, I'm sorry, I didn't talk about the case, but I talked about I was being nervous up here.

Q. Did you call him or did he call you?

A. He called me.

Q. When did you last talk to Attorney Terry Cannon before yesterday?
A. Um -- um, um, um, um. I really cannot remember the specific date.
Q. Now, in your interview of March 24th, 1994, you didn’t remember what cartoons you were watching when you claim you were improperly touched, right?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Did you know you were being tape-recorded in that interview?
A. You know what? I don’t know. Typically I’d remember that.
Q. And do you remember telling the interviewers that Michael Jackson tickled you in your stomach?
A. No.
Q. You don’t remember that?
A. No. Can I review that?
Q. Sure.
A. Is that -- it was being taped then? Or you can’t say. Okay, yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.

MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?
MR. MESEREAU: 58.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You remember telling the people interviewing you that Mr. Jackson did tickle you in your stomach, right?
A. I do not remember saying that, but I probably said that.
Q. Okay. Do you remember in that interview when you finally said Mr. Jackson had touched your penis, that you told the interviewers, “He tickled me there”? Right?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Do you remember you were asked, “What did he do with his hands?” And you said, “He tickled me.” Do you remember that?
A. “What did he do with his hands?” And I said, “He tickled me”?
Q. Yes.
A. That’s kind of vague. Like overall he tickled me, or what are you talking about?

Q. You were asked what Mr. Jackson did with your penis. Do you remember that? And you said, “He tickled me.” Do you remember that?

A. He did tickle me.

Q. Okay. You were asked to describe what Mr. Jackson did with his hands, and your response was, “He tickled me,” true?

A. I don’t know. I was probably crying then.

Q. Would you like to review the transcript, see if it refreshes your recollection?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: By the way, if you don’t remember the interview, how do you know you were crying?

A. Because I usually cry when we’re talking about the molestation.

Q. Okay. Okay. Again, do you remember saying to the police officers in response to their question, “What did he do with your penis?” You said, “He tickled me”?

A. I thought you were going to bring me that thing.

Q. Would you like to see it?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

A. Okay.

Q. Do you remember describing what Mr. Jackson did as tickling?

A. Do I remember describing what Michael Jackson did as tickling?

Q. Yes.

A. Like tickling my penis or --

Q. Yes.

A. Are we talking the first or second or third incident?

Q. I don’t know.

MR. ZONEN: Well, I’m going to object as vague.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember telling the interviewers in that second interview in 1994, when they asked you what Mr. Jackson did with your penis, you said, “He didn’t really touch it, he was above my shorts”? Do you remember that?

A. Are we talking first or second or third?

Q. I believe you were just answering their questions.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Counsel, you’re going to have to direct -- if you’re going to question in this manner, you’re going to have to direct it to specific times. There were three interviews.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I’m sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And you’re being unfair to the witness in my opinion.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Directing you to the second interview that you ever gave about these events, okay? And that was the interview --

A. In ‘94?

Q. Yes.

A. Okay.

Q. Yes. Okay?

A. I thought we were talking about 2004. I’m sorry.

Q. Okay. That’s my mistake, I apologize.

Let’s talk about the 1994 interview.

A. Okay.

Q. All right? Do you remember being asked the question, “Did Mr. Jackson touch your penis?” And you said, “He didn’t really touch it, he was above my shorts”?

A. I do not --

THE COURT: Wait. Just a minute.

THE WITNESS: I’m sorry.

THE COURT: I want you to approach.

MR. MESEREAU: Sure.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I'm going to try and direct my questions to a particular interview, one of the four that you had, and direct them to one of the three events that you have described when you claim Mr. Jackson improperly touched you, okay? Now, directing your attention to the second interview, which is in 1994 - okay? - and directing your attention to the first event that you have described where you claim Mr. Jackson improperly touched you - okay? - do you remember -- excuse me. Isn't it true that, when asked about the first event in that second interview, you said Mr. Jackson didn't really touch your penis?

A. I don't --

MR. ZONEN: What page?

MR. MESEREAU: 60.

THE WITNESS: No, I don't remember.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a page of that transcript?

A. Bring it over.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. I have. Well, not the tape. I've read those two little sentences there.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection of what you told the people who were interviewing you about that first event during the interview in 1994?

A. It does not refresh my memory. But in reading it --

THE COURT: Wait. That's the end of your answer.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Sorry.

THE COURT: Listen to the question and just answer the question asked.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You just don’t recall saying that, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Could you please describe, to the extent you remember, the sleeping bag in the apartment that you called the hideout?

A. Describe the bag itself?

Q. Yes. If you remember. How big it was, where it was, et cetera.

A. Near a window. If you’re looking at the T.V., to the right of the T.V.

Q. And there was no furniture in the apartment that you remember?

A. I did not say that.

Q. Okay. What did you say?

A. I said that there was an L-shaped couch in the hideout somewhere, in the living room, I believe.

Q. Okay. And at any time when you claim you were improperly touched, were you sitting on the couch?

A. No, I never said that either.

Q. During the events that you’ve described at the hideout --

A. Okay.

Q. -- where you say you were improperly tickled - okay? --

A. Okay.

Q. -- were you always on top of the sleeping bag?

A. No. The first time I was on a chair.

Q. Okay. The second time you were on a sleeping bag, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Did both of those instances start out as tickle contests?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And in both of those incidences that you’ve described, you recall it starting out as innocent sort of tickling and leading to an improper touching, right?

A. Right.

Q. Okay. Now, you've admitted that Mr. Jackson said he would pay you money for completing a book and also for getting A's in school, right?

A. I remember hearing that on the tape.

Q. Do you recall Mr. Jackson saying that to you?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you recall being paid for reading a book?

A. I wasn't a reader.

Q. Did you ever tell Mr. Jackson, if you remember, "I've completed a book"?

A. If I did, I don't know.

Q. Okay. Do you remember telling Mr. Jackson you got A's in school?

A. If I did get an A, it was probably in P.E.

Q. And do you remember telling that to Mr. Jackson?

A. I don't think I ever did. I don't know.

Q. Okay. Now, without going into any amounts, when did you ever receive any money?

A. From Michael?

Q. From a settlement --

A. Oh.

Q. -- in your case.

A. From the settlement?

Q. Without going into any amounts, just when did you first receive any money?

A. When I turned 18.

Q. Okay. Without going into any amounts, do you know if your mother has received any money from Mr. Jackson?

A. She has.

Q. Do you know approximately when she received money from a settlement?

A. I don't.

Q. Okay. Do you know if it was before you did?

A. I think it was.

Q. Okay. Have you ever been approached by anyone in the media who wanted to talk to you about anything involving Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did that happen?

A. Geez. When I was in junior high; when I was -- shoot, in ‘93 -- in ‘93, ‘94 I think. Recently. Well, actually, not recently. A couple years ago. They -- yeah, the media.

Q. Do you know how the media ever heard about you?

A. I don’t.

Q. Okay.

A. Actually, I talked to a media guy once.

Q. Who was that?

A. I don’t remember. He had a British accent. But I did not say anything about the case, or anything about Michael. What --

Q. And when did this happen?

MR. ZONEN: I’m not sure the witness had completed his answer.

MR. MESEREAU: Oh, I’m sorry, I thought he had.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Were you finished?

A. No, I wasn’t.

Q. My mistake.

THE COURT: Let’s just stop. There wasn’t any question pending. He was in a narrative for some reason. Next question.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know approximately when you spoke to a representative of the media?

A. I don’t. I know I was late to class, but I don’t. I was in -- probably ‘92 or ‘93.

Q. How about in recent -- the last couple years, anyone approach you, to your knowledge?

A. Well, to my knowledge, no. They tried to, but I somehow always evade them. Not on purpose. It just happens.

Q. In your second interview in 1994, you were asked, “Did you ever have any discussion with Michael Jackson about whether you should tell anybody about the things you described?” Remember that?

A. (Shakes head from side to side.)

Q. You don’t? Okay.

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Okay. Do you remember telling the interviewers, when you were asked do you remember anything that he said, you said, “No, I’m working on that”?

A. No.

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as to which interview; vague.

MR. MESEREAU: In the second interview, I’m sorry.

Q. In the second interview -- let me rephrase the question. I’ll withdraw it.

In the second interview in 1994 - okay? --

A. Okay.

Q. -- that was recorded - all right? - when asked if Mr. Jackson said anything to you about whether you should discuss what happened, do you remember telling the interviewers, “No, but I’m working on that”?

A. I do not remember that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the transcript?

A. No. But -- you could bring it over.

Q. Well, I can’t unless you’re willing to see if it refreshes your recollection.

A. Okay. Bring it over. I’ll give it a shot. I’ll read it just to see if it refreshes my memory.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. ZONEN: Page, Counsel?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes. Pages 105, 106.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to review those pages --

A. I have.

Q. -- of your transcript?

Do they refresh your recollection about what you said on that subject?

A. No, it does not.

Q. It doesn’t.
A. Sorry.
Q. Now, in that interview you indicated that you were aware that another boy had sued Mr. Jackson seeking money, right?
MR. ZONEN: I’m sorry, which interview? Objection.
MR. MESEREAU: I’m sorry, the second -- let me rephrase it.
Q. In the second interview that you gave in 1994 - okay? --
A. Okay.
Q. -- you indicated that you were aware that someone else had sued Mr. Jackson for money, correct?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at the transcript?
A. Probably not.
Q. Okay.
A. Both of them are really blurry. It was just hard for me at the time.
Q. Well, let me ask you this.
A. Okay.
Q. Looking back, when is the first time you recall you knew someone else had sued Mr. Jackson looking for money?
A. Probably 16.

Q. Excuse me?
A. I was probably 16. Because that’s when money started being an issue for me.
Q. Okay. Now, in your last interview with Prosecutor Zonen - and I’m talking about an interview on November 19th, 2004, okay? - Mr. Cannon was present, right?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Do you recall Mr. Cannon not wanting a defense investigator present?
A. No, I don’t recall.
Q. Did you know anything about that?

A. No.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. At this time, I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Francia, did you get any money from Mr. Jackson for reading a book?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you ever get any money from Mr. Jackson for getting A's?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Were grades a problem for you when you were in school about that time?

A. Shoot, through all my whole life, grades were a problem.

Q. Did you -- do you sometimes have difficulty with reading?

A. Yeah.

Q. At this time even?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. A lot of questions were asked of you by Mr. Mesereau that dealt with that first interview that took place in 1993, the first time that there was a disclosure. And you indicated, I believe, that what you said toward the end of the interview was very different than what you said at the beginning of the interview. Would you explain that for us, please? Why is that?

A. Why there was a difference in the beginning and --

Q. Yes.

A. Because in the beginning, I thought I could hold them off and make them go away. And they didn't go away. At all. It's kind of an issue when I was 13. I didn't want to tell anybody that I'd been molested; that I didn't want to tell anybody that anything ever happened to me. That's weird.

Q. Why?

A. Because you're 13. That's weird.

Q. What were the issues that you were dealing with at that time about that?

A. In fifth grade, I told my friends that I knew Michael Jackson, and I thought it was cool. My friends thought it was cool. They didn’t believe me. But they thought it was cool.

In junior high, it’s no longer cool to know somebody that had issues with kids, because then they’re going to make fun of you.

And even at the church, they made fun of me.

At the church, worse than school, they made fun of me.

Q. And you were actually teased?

A. Yeah.

Q. You said yesterday to one of Mr. Mesereau’s questions that you told the detective, “No, I’m not gay.” Did you make that statement to them?

A. I remember listening to it in the tape. I don’t recall saying that. But I remember listening to it on the tape.

Q. Do you recall whether or not that was an issue for you during the course of that interview, that that was one of your concerns, that people would see you as that?

A. Yes. That was a concern of mine.

Q. You mentioned yesterday to one of Mr. Mesereau’s questions that the defendant put the money down your pants. Would you describe that for us?

A. What do you want to know?

Q. Where did the money go? In other words, when he -- when he gave you money, did he hand it to you, or did he do something else? And if so, tell us what that is.

A. He put the money in my shorts, because I pulled it out, and that’s when my mom saw -- noticed that I had pulled money out of my shorts and she asked me where I got it from.

Q. Do you remember which of the three occasions this was?

A. I can’t remember whether it was the first or the second.

Q. But this was back when you were young?

A. Yeah.

Q. Seven or eight?

A. Seven or eight.

Q. You say in your shorts. What are we talking about? In a pocket?

A. I don’t think my mom put pockets on the shorts.

Q. That was a little more complicated?

A. She’s a good seamstress, but I don’t think for shorts.

Q. Tell us as best you can recall where would that money have been.

A. That would have been in my shorts.

Q. I’m sorry?

A. It would have been in my shorts.

Q. In the inside?

A. In the inside.

Q. Do you know if the money was in your underwear?

A. I don’t. I don’t know.

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you yesterday questions about whether you talked to your mother about what had happened, and if so, to what extent.

Did you ever have a conversation with your mother where you told her that you were molested?

A. I think I told her that I was molested in counseling, because then she shared that she was molested as well.

Q. Okay. Did you ever tell her the details of the molestation?

A. No.

Q. What had happened, how it happened, how often it happened, any of those types of details?

A. I don’t think so.

Q. To this day, have you ever?

A. To this day. My wife found out on the stand.

Q. The details you had not yet told your wife?

A. Right.

Q. Have you ever told anybody the details other than your therapist?

A. My pastor.
Q. Your pastor?
A. And I don’t think I told him the details.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. I have no further questions.
THE COURT: Recross?
MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. You may step down.
He needs to move away.
MR. SNEDDON: Don’t forget your jacket.
Call Kris Kallman, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Come forward to the witness stand, please. When you get to the witness stand, remain standing.
Face the clerk and raise your right hand.

KRIS KALLMAN
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.
THE WITNESS: My name is Kris, K-r-i-s, Kallman, K-a-l-l-m-a-n.
THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. SNEDDON:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Kallman.
A. Good morning, Mr. Sneddon.

Q. You’re an attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. Licensed to practice in the State of California?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And what is your brief educational background to prepare you for the practice of law in the State of California?

A. Well, I graduated from Santa Barbara High School. Went to Santa Barbara City College. Graduated from Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. Went to Pepperdine University Law School.

Q. Do you have a certain area of law that you specialize in?

A. Yes. I am a civil trial lawyer, and for the most part, I represent people that get injured due to the fault of another person or company.

Q. How long have you been practicing law in the State of California?

A. 29 years.

Q. And how long have you lived in Santa Barbara County?

A. My whole life, except when I was away at college.

Q. And where do you live in Santa Barbara County?

A. I live in Santa Barbara, on the mesa, in the city.

Q. Now, during the time that you’ve practiced law in Santa Barbara County, have you had associates that have practiced with you in your firm?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you a sole practitioner?

A. Essentially. Although I currently have two lawyers that office with me and they act as “of counsel.” They’re not employees, but they help me out on cases.

Q. Are you familiar with an attorney by the name of Terry Cannon?

A. I sure am.

Q. And how long have you known Mr. Cannon?

A. Oh, I’ve known Mr. Cannon for at least 20 years.

Q. And at some point in time prior to today, was Mr. Cannon one of the people who was associated with you in the practice of -- your civil practice?

A. Yes.

Q. And during what period of time was that; do you recall?

A. Well, the relevant period here would have been in the early to mid ‘90s.

Q. And at that time Mr. Cannon was practicing with you?

A. He was associating with me on certain cases.

Q. And do you recall where Mr. Cannon was residing at that particular point in time?

A. I believe he was living in Santa Barbara.

Q. Now, at some later time, did Mr. Cannon leave your association and take up the practice of law somewhere else?

A. Yes.

Q. To your knowledge, where was that?

A. In Oregon.

Q. And then after that, did Mr. Cannon come back?

A. He came back to San Luis Obispo County, and then moved to San Diego County.

Q. And at this particular point in time, do you know where Mr. Cannon is?

A. Not exactly this moment. But I happen to know that he bought a condominium here in Orcutt.

Q. And is he, once again, associated with you in the practice of law?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did you have occasion to represent Jason Francia in some litigation?

A. He and his mother, yes.

Q. And can you tell us, did you ever prepare a lawsuit on behalf of Jason Francia?

A. We prepared a Complaint, which is a document that’s the beginning of a lawsuit, yes.

Q. And when you say “we,” who’s “we”?

A. Mr. Cannon and myself.

Q. So Mr. Cannon was working with you on that particular case?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after the preparation of that document -- well, with regard to that document, what were the allegations set forth in the proposed Complaint to be filed?

A. Well, it's been --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Who was the individual that the Complaint was directed towards?

A. Mr. Jackson.

Q. At some point in time, did you have contact with individuals who were representing Mr. Jackson over the proposed filing of the criminal -- of the civil complaint?

A. Yes.

Q. And who did you make contact with?

A. Initially our contacts were with Johnnie Cochran and his associate, Carl Douglas.

Q. Do you recall approximately when it was when you first made contact with Mr. -- or when contact was made between you and Mr. Cochran and Mr. Douglas?

A. It was either late '94 or early '95.

Q. Did you, after your conversations with those individuals, file the civil lawsuit?

A. No.

Q. At some point in time later, were you then dealing with other lawyers with regard to the proposed filing of that civil lawsuit?

A. Yes. At some point, Mr. Jackson's representation was assumed by a lawyer named Zia Modabber, and a lawyer named Howard Weitzman.

Q. And do you recall approximately when it was that you then began contact with those particular individuals?

A. I believe it was in mid 1995.

Q. And the purpose of those contacts?

A. Well, the --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: The purpose of the contacts was that they knew that we had a Complaint that we were about to file in Santa Barbara County Superior Court, and they didn’t want us to do that.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation.

THE COURT: The answer is stricken.

Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of the conversations between these individuals, did you pursue your lawsuit?

A. Well, we never filed the lawsuit.

Q. Did you reach an agreement, a settlement agreement?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. Did you reach a settlement agreement in which Jason Francia received monetary compensation from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you receive -- did you reach an agreement in which Blanca Francia received monetary compensation from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. During the time that you were representing -- during the time that you had prepared a Complaint ready to be filed and you were in contact with attorneys representing Mr. Jackson, can you give the ladies and gentlemen of the jury an idea of how old Jason Francia was at that particular point in time?

A. Well, he was about 14 years old. He’s 24 now, as I understand it, and we’re talking about things that happened just about exactly ten years ago.

Q. And in your position as a civil litigator, at the time that an individual is of minority, at the age of 14, how do you deal with representing a person like that?

A. Well, a child --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may complete your answer.

THE WITNESS: A child, under California law, under the age of 18, is not permitted to enter into a contract. I suppose he or she could, but it wouldn’t be enforceable. So the only way a child can act legally is through a guardian ad litem. And it’s normally the parent and normally the mother.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Was that the case in this particular instance?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, during the course of the time that you were involved in obtaining a settlement from Mr. Jackson on behalf of the Francias, did you deal personally with Jason at any time?

A. Yeah. Sure.

Q. In what respect?

A. Well, I knew who he was, I met with him. I met with he and his mom. He was a teenaged boy, and a nice young man.

Q. Now, at some point in time was Jason required to sign some kind of documents in conjunction with the settlement?

A. Yes. When he turned 18, part of the condition was that he sign a confidentiality agreement.

Q. Now, with regard to the confidentiality -- and to your knowledge, did he sign that?

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to the confidentiality agreement, did it have a provision that required notice to Mr. Jackson in the event that Jason Francia talked to anybody?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I believe so, yes.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And what was the requirement notice in the confidentiality agreement with regard to notice to the defense?

A. I believe it’s five days.

Q. And were you at some point contacted by Mr. Zonen of our department with regard to interviewing your -- Jason Francia?

A. Yes.
Q. And in that particular case, did you indicate to Mr. Zonen that you would have to do something before you could agree with that?
A. Yes.
Q. And what was that?
A. Well, I'd have to notify somebody on Mr. Jackson's legal staff that they wanted to talk to him.

Q. And did you do that?
A. Yeah. Yes. Excuse me.
Q. And did you then grant permission for Mr. Zonen to have a conversation with your -- with Jason Francia?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, were you present during the conversations between Jason Francia and Mr. Zonen?
A. I don't think so. I think I was there, and then I think I had to go to another court or something like that. I don't remember being an integral part of any of those -- if there was more than one, I don't even know.
Q. And I'm talking about the conversations that occurred after you gave notice to the defense in this case, or gave notice to Mr. Jackson. To your knowledge, was Mr. Cannon present?
A. I believe so. At least for part of it. Again, I'm not certain.
Q. Do you remember when it was that you finally -- the year that you finally reached a settlement agreement with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes. It's been a long time. But it was a big deal. And I do remember --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.
THE COURT: The answer is stricken. Nonresponsive.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Just --
A. Yes.

Q. And what year was that, approximately?
A. It was either ‘95 or ‘96, I believe.
THE COURT: Counsel, we’ll take our break.

THE COURT: Counsel?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’ve just about completed my examination. But I would request if we could approach the bench for just one second. I don’t want to run afoul of the Court.

THE COURT: All right.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

THE COURT: (To the jury) All right. Knock it off.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, you may proceed.

MR. SNEDDON: All right.

Q. Mr. Kallman, I think I just have a couple questions left.

I think where we were headed before the break was you told us the approximate year in which the case actually reached a settlement.

And what I wanted to know was, after the settlement of the case, have you kept in contact with Jason over the years?

A. Yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, has Mr. Cannon kept in contact with Jason over the years?

A. I believe so.

Q. Now, with regard to the lawsuit that was contemplated against Mr. Jackson at the time, the basis of the -- of the nature of the representation of Jason Francia involved inappropriate sexual conduct against Jason by the defendant, Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please. Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Kallman.

A. Good morning.

Q. My name is Thomas Mesereau and I speak for

Mr. Jackson.

A. Pleasure to meet you.

Q. I want to ask you some questions about the settlement agreement you referred to in response to the prosecutor's questions, okay?

First of all, you had separate settlement agreements for the mother, Blanca Francia, and the son, Jason Francia, correct?

A. I believe so. I can tell you, I have not reviewed this material and it's been ten years, but I believe that was the case. Some of this I'm going to have to take your word for it.

Q. Well, I can show you a copy if you need it.

A. I don't disbelieve that.

Q. Okay. The settlement agreement with Blanca Francia was entered into approximately April 1st, 1996, right?

A. I don't know.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a copy of the agreement?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: That's what it says.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The settlement agreement with Jason Francia was entered into approximately June 1st, 1998, right?

A. Don't know.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a copy of it?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: That's what it says.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Now, that would suggest, wouldn't it, that the mother had agreed to get money for herself before there was any agreement for Jason to get money in a settlement, right?

A. No, it was all part of one global settlement.

Q. Then why would there be a two-year difference between the execution of those settlement agreements?

A. Remember when I told the jury that a minor can’t enter into a contract?

Q. Yes.

A. Jason wouldn’t have been able to sign before he was 18. My guess is that’s probably when he turned 18, and that’s what Mr. Weitzman and Modabber wanted.

Q. And then just for the jury’s benefit, why would the mother sign in ‘96?

A. She was an adult. She could sign.

Q. The point I’m making is that she had a separate settlement from her son.

A. Exactly. I mean -- yes. She got money.

Q. Yes. Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you some questions about provisions in the settlement agreement, okay? And one of the issues that was carefully negotiated by the people representing Mr. Jackson was that he deny any wrongdoing in that agreement, right?

A. Again, the best evidence of that would be what’s in the agreement. I don’t remember what’s in there.

Q. Okay. Well, let me -- the prosecutor read you a provision, asked you about it.

Let me ask you about this: There was language in that agreement that said, “The parties acknowledge that Jackson has elected to settle the claims solely in view of the potential impact any litigation could have in the future on his reputation, earnings and potential income, and not because of any alleged wrongful conduct on his part,” right?

A. If you’re asking me if that’s in the document, I’ll have to take your word for it. You don’t need to show it to me. It sounds pretty standard to me.

Q. The agreement further said -- excuse me, let me rephrase that.

Both agreements, the one involving Jason and the one involving Blanca, his mother, both had language which said, “This agreement shall not, in any manner, be construed as an admission by Jackson that he has acted wrongfully with respect to Francia, Blanca, or any other person, or at all, or that Francia or Blanca have any rights whatsoever against Jackson or Jackson’s releasees.” Sound familiar to you?

A. It sounds like standard language in virtually every release that I deal with. But, yes, it does sound familiar.
Q. Actually, there’s a whole separate paragraph entitled, “Denial of Claims by Mr. Jackson,” correct?
A. Don’t know.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a copy?
A. It would.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: It does refresh my recollection.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. And do you recall that language being in both agreements?
A. I believe so, yes, sir.
Q. Okay. In addition to the language that I have read, there’s further language which says, “Jackson specifically disclaims any liability to, and denies any wrongful acts against, Francia, Blanca or any other person and may continue to do so publicly, to the extent reasonably necessary, to respond to any inquiries in this regard.” Right?
A. Correct.
Q. It said further, “The parties acknowledge that Jackson is a public figure, and that his name, image and likeness have commercial value and are an important element of his earning capacity.” Right?
A. That’s true.
Q. And that language was in both settlement agreements, the one involving Blanca Francia and the one involving Jason Francia, correct?
A. I don’t remember that. I will take your word for it. You don't need to refresh my recollection. It sounds like it should be or would be.

Q. Now, Mr. Kallman, provisions in which a settling party denies liability are fairly standard in settlement agreements, right?

A. True.

Q. But the language that I just read to the jury is not standard language in a settlement agreement, is it?

A. This is not a standard case, or was not. And no, you're right. These were carefully drafted by a team of lawyers, and we agreed to the terms.

Q. And the reason those terms are different is because Mr. Jackson is an unusual individual in terms of his need to preserve his reputation and public image so he can earn a living, right?

MR. SNEDDON: Calls for speculation on this. It wasn't drafted by him. No foundation.

MR. MESEREAU: I think it was drafted by this witness.

THE COURT: All right. I'll sustain a foundation.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

Q. When you settled these matters - and I'm talking about matters involving Michael Jackson, Blanca Francia, and Jason Francia - you put in language involving denial of claims by Mr. Jackson that was not standard language in a typical settlement agreement, right?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object to the question as lack of foundation; that he put the language in there.

THE COURT: Well, that was the foundation I was looking for.

So I'll allow you to answer the question as long as you understand the limitations of your answer.

THE WITNESS: Well --

THE COURT: If you put the language in.

THE WITNESS: I didn’t draft that agreement.
THE COURT: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did lawyers from your office draft the agreement?
A. No.
Q. Who drafted the agreement?
A. Somebody in Mr. Modabber’s office, the Katten, Muchin, Zavis & Weitzman firm in Century City.
Q. Did you have any input into the language in the agreement?
A. Only to review it. And if there was language we found objectionable, we could strike it, I suppose.
Q. Okay.
A. But they wanted that in there, and I didn’t find it objectionable.
Q. Okay. Now, you made a statement, I believe, in response to the prosecutor’s questions, that if someone from law enforcement wanted to speak to your client, you had to first notify representatives of Mr. Jackson, true?

A. True.
Q. That -- really, that language is not in that agreement, is it?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Then why would you say it?
A. Because that’s part -- in one of the agreements, I have to give notice to the defense team. And I’ve given notice once to Mr. Sanger. And then when I got subpoenaed on Friday, I gave notice to Mr. Modabber down in Los Angeles.
Q. But the notice you’re supposed to give to the defense team does not involve requests by law enforcement to speak to your client, does it?
A. I assume that anybody from law enforcement that wants to talk to my client, there was a requirement to notify somebody from the defense team.
Q. Nowhere in those settlement agreements is there language to that effect, is there?
A. I have no idea.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as immaterial; irrelevant.

MR. MESEREAU: The prosecutor brought it up on direct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. And the answer came in as, “I have no idea.”

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: It would be against public policy for a civil litigator to put language in a settlement agreement precluding anyone from cooperating with law enforcement, wouldn’t it?

A. In my opinion, yes.

Q. Lawyers are not allowed to have language like that in settlement agreements, right?

A. Wrong.

Q. Pardon me?

A. No. It’s a notice requirement. It’s not a preclusion requirement.

Q. When did you last review the notice provisions in these agreements?

A. Probably in 1996 or 1997.

Q. Well, let me ask you this question: Did you talk with Mr. Sneddon about what questions he was going to ask you before you testified today?

A. No. I mean, we talked, but it was very, very general and I don’t think the conversation was more than five or ten minutes long.

Q. Okay. The notice provisions that you describe talk primarily about anyone who’s suing Mr. Jackson or if he’s contacted by the media, correct?

A. I don’t -- not the notice provisions I’m thinking about. I think there’s a specific provision -- it may not be in that agreement. Maybe it’s in another agreement, but there’s a provision that I’m supposed to contact either Johnnie Cochran or Zia Modabber or somebody on the defense team if there was a request to speak or interview my clients.

Q. But never in the agreement did it refer to law enforcement, right?

A. That I don’t remember. It’s been a long time.

Q. Okay. Okay. Now, you answered some questions about Terry Cannon.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did -- excuse me, you’re currently associated with Mr. Cannon, correct?

A. He is “of counsel” to my law firm.

Q. When did he become “of counsel” to your law firm.

A. He’s been “of counsel” twice. Once about ten years ago, during this period, and then again just recently, within the last two months.

Q. So he wasn’t “of counsel” to your law firm in October, November and December of last year, right?

A. I don’t believe so, but I can’t be sure.

Q. During October, November and December of last year, he was with the District Attorney’s Office in San Diego, wasn’t he?

A. Well, I know he recently retired from the San Diego D.A.’s Office. I don’t know precisely when he retired, but you’re right, it’s been recent.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

MR. SNEDDON: No questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. ZONEN: We’ll call Blanca Francia to the stand.

THE COURT: Come to the front of the courtroom, please.

When you get to the witness stand, remain standing. Face the clerk over here, and raise your right hand.

Remain standing.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Remain standing.

THE COURT: Face the clerk here. Right over here.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Right over there, please.

BLANCA FRANCIA

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes, I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: Blanca Francia. B-l-a-n-c-a; F-r-a-n-c-i-a.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Ma’am, you need to move over here, please.

THE WITNESS: Oh.

MR. ZONEN: Would you like her to spell her name again?

THE COURT: Did the court reporter get the spelling?

THE REPORTER: Yes.

THE COURT: That’s fine.

THE JURY: (In unison) We didn’t.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: Yes, please ask her to spell her name again.

MR. ZONEN: Could you please spell your name again?

THE WITNESS: B-l-a-n-c-a; F-r-a-n-c-i-a.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Miss Francia, good morning.

A. Good morning.

Q. Do you currently live in Santa Barbara County?

A. Yes.

Q. Up in the North County area?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Are you the mother of Jason Francia?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. What kind of work are you currently doing?

A. Caregiving.

Q. All right. What we need to do, we have a problem here. And it’s not just with you, a lot of witnesses. You have to be as close as you can get to the microphone so that you can be heard all the way to the back of the courtroom. Okay?

A. Okay.

Q. All right. Are you the mother of Jason Francia?

A. Yes.

Q. And what kind of work are you currently doing?

A. Caregiving.

Q. I’m sorry?

A. Caregiving.

Q. And what does that mean, a caregiver?

A. Taking care of elderly people. Disabled.

Q. Do you have a couple clients who you work for?

A. Yes.

Q. And are they disabled in some fashion?

A. Yes. I deal with one six years, almost six years, yeah.

Q. Okay.

A. And another one just recently, about a couple of months.

Q. And how long have you been doing this kind of work?

A. On and off, I’ve been doing it for about 15 years.

Q. And prior to that, what kind of work did you do?

A. Housekeeping. Housecleaning.

Q. And for what period of time did you do that work?

A. Since I came to the country.

Q. When did you come to the United States?

A. 1975.

Q. And from what country did you come from?

A. El Salvador.

Q. You have been to -- in this country continuously since 1975?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you been back to El Salvador to visit at all?

A. A couple of times.

Q. Your English, how did you learn English? Did you go to school?
A. No.
Q. How did you learn English?
A. Reading, and listening to people, and that's --
Q. How old were you when you came to this country?
A. About 21.
Q. Okay. Do you know Mr. Jackson, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you see him in this courtroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you indicate where he is sitting, please?
A. He's sitting right there.
MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, could the court record reflect that the witness has identified the defendant?
THE COURT: All right.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How do you know Mr. Jackson?
A. I work -- work about five years.
Q. When did you begin working for Mr. Jackson?
A. 1986.
Q. And where did you begin working for Mr. Jackson, at what location?
A. Havenhurst. Encino, California.
Q. Havenhurst is the name of the street?
A. Yes.
Q. And was there a house on that street --
A. Yes.
Q. -- where he lived?
All right. What were you doing for Mr. Jackson at the Havenhurst residence?
A. I was hired to be his personal housekeeper.
Q. Were there other members of the Jackson family living at the Havenhurst residence?
A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us who they were?

A. At that time Janet and LaToya, and his father and mother.

Q. Would you describe the Havenhurst residence for us, just briefly? A large home?

A. Their whole house? Yeah. He has his separate quarters in the house. But it was in the same house.

Q. Okay. Was it a large home?

A. Yes.

Q. And his quarters, were you responsible for just his quarters or did you clean in the whole house?

A. Well, yes, just his quarters. His place. But eventually when he will go out on tour, I will stay at the house and help the household.

Q. You would clean the rest of the house as well?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson ever have an additional residence other than the residence on Havenhurst?

A. After I was there for about a year, I think, or less than a year, he got another one. Like -- kind of an apartment, suite. Called it “The Hideout.”

Q. Where was that; do you know?

A. I know it’s on Wilshire. And I don’t know the other street.

Q. And describe that location for us, if you would.

A. What do you mean?

Q. Tell us what it was like, his apartment.

A. Oh.

Q. Or his residence. How many rooms in it; do you know? Do you recall?

A. Three. It had a master bedroom, and two other rooms, bedrooms.

Q. Did it have a living room?

A. Yes.

Q. I assume a kitchen?

A. Kitchen, and another little room.

Q. Okay. At least a couple bathrooms?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. You don’t recall --

A. No.

Q. -- how many bathrooms?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. It’s okay. Do you recall for what period of time you cleaned that residence?

A. For about a year.

Q. Was he living at that residence during that time, Mr. Jackson?

A. Yeah, he totally move his --

Q. I’m sorry?

A. He totally move from Encino to that hide -- to that place. He move his office to -- to near that location.

Q. Okay. Was there a bed at that residence?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. Never.

Q. The whole time that you were cleaning there?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. Did you go to a different location after the hideout? Was there yet another residence?

A. Yeah, he was in process to get a ranch.

Q. Okay.

A. In Los Olivos.

Q. And was that Neverland?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was that the ranch that he actually did purchase?

A. Uh-huh. Yes.

Q. Did he move to that ranch?

A. Eventually, yeah. But he was on and off. They sent me over here before he moved in. I mean --

Q. I’m not sure I understood that, “They sent me over here before he moved in.” Who is “they,” first of all?

A. Well, they arrange, Mr. Jackson and Bill Bray and one of the secretaries.

Q. Okay. Bill Bray was who?

A. His personal assistant I guess.

Q. All right. And you said, “They sent me here.” Where is “here”?
A. Santa Maria.
Q. Santa Maria. So did you actually move to Santa Maria?
A. Yeah. They pay me to move here.
Q. And did you move with your child?
A. Yes.
Q. Is Jason your only child?
A. My only son.
Q. Did Jason grow up with his father at all?
A. No.
Q. Has he had contact with his father at all?
A. No.
Q. How old was Jason when you moved to Santa Maria?
A. I guess about nine.
Q. About nine years old?
A. Eight or nine, yeah.
Q. Okay. Did you continue working for Mr. Jackson after you moved to Santa Maria?
A. Excuse me?
Q. Did you continuing to work for Mr. Jackson --
A. Yes.
Q. -- after you moved to Santa Maria?
A. Yes.
Q. And was that at Neverland?
A. Yes.

Q. All right. What were your responsibilities at Neverland? What did you do for Mr. Jackson?
A. To clean his room.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. To clean his bedroom. And taking care of his clothes and his personal stuff.
Q. All right.
A. His -- all his -- you know, whatever he needed. And to clean up and arrange all his clothes, press them, iron them, and, you know, everything.
Q. What was your schedule at Neverland? How often did you work there?

A. In the beginning, I think I was just -- he was there, I will come, you know, and work for three days, whatever time he will stay there, and then, you know, not to be there for another two days. But eventually he move to -- like to 9:00 to 5:00.

Q. Five days a week?

A. Five days a week. Six days.

Q. Six days? Did you ever work more than 9:00 to 5:00?

A. Yeah.

Q. Your hours, times, would they vary different days?

A. Yeah. Christmastime and -- you know, whatever time they needed me, because he was there.

Q. Were there occasions that you would work late?

A. Yes.

Q. And you say six days a week. Was that common?

A. Was that what?

Q. Was that a common event, that you would work six days a week?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. During that time, did you ever bring Jason with you to work? And by “this time,” I’m referring to at Neverland.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did you ever bring Jason to work with you at the Havenhurst residence in Encino?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Did you ever bring Jason to work with you at the hideout on Wilshire Boulevard?

A. Yeah.

Q. And why did you do that?

A. Well, the first time I didn’t know that I was allowed to do it. But Mr. Jackson asked me to -- to bring him.

Q. You said the first time. Where was that?

A. At the Encino house.

Q. At the Encino house?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did he say why?

A. He just told me to bring him.

Q. Okay. And did you bring him on occasion?

A. Yeah. From then on, he was there a lot of times.

Q. Okay. How often would you bring him to the residence at Encino?

A. Probably every weekend. And probably twice a month, then, different -- differently. I don’t remember.

Q. Was that schedule more or less at the hideout? Did you bring him to the hideout as often? More often?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Less often? What?

A. Not a lot of times, because he was in school, so probably on Saturday or Sundays.

Q. Did you continue cleaning at the hideout even after Mr. Jackson moved to Neverland in ‘88?

A. Yes.

Q. How often?

A. Probably every week. Sometimes twice a week.

Q. At Neverland, what were your specific responsibilities? What were your obligations? What did you do at Neverland?

A. Do you mean for him?

Q. Yes, for Mr. Jackson. Yes.

A. Like I said, taking care of his clothes, his room.

Q. Okay.

A. And right after he leave the room, I will have to clean it right away, because sometime he will stay there, you know, he’ll come out, and then he’ll go back in right away.

Q. Okay. Were your responsibilities beyond his room as well? In other words, did you clean the rest of the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever clean other buildings at Neverland?

A. Yes.
Q. The arcade?
A. The arcade, yeah.
Q. The theater?
A. The theater.
Q. Okay.
A. Yeah.
Q. Most of the time where did you work?
A. In the house.
Q. Were there other maids at Neverland --
A. Yes.
Q. -- who were -- there were other maids at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Yes, all right. At any given time, how many maids were working at Neverland at any given time?
A. Maybe about six.

Q. Were there others who had responsibility for cleaning Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?
A. No.
Q. You were the only one?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you have a key?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that the only way you got in?
A. Yeah.
Q. Was there a combination lock at any point?
A. No.
Q. Not while you were there? Is that a key that you carried around with you?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Would you just let yourself in?
A. Yes.
Q. How would you announce your presence? How would you let Mr. Jackson know you were coming in, if, in fact, he was there?
A. I’ll knock.
Q. Uh-huh. Now, could you describe the suite that is his bedroom? It’s actually more than one room; is that right?
A. Yeah. It’s two rooms. One downstairs and one upstairs.

Q. And is there a hallway that goes into it?
A. Closet.
Q. I'm sorry?

A. A closet.
Q. There's a closet, okay.
A. Yeah.
Q. When you go --
A. A walk-in closet.
Q. When you go into his suite, do you go through a door that is locked?
A. No.
Q. All right. Is there any way of securing his bedroom suite?
A. Well, his bedroom suite, with a key --
Q. Yes.
A. -- that I would have.
Q. Where is that door, the one that you unlock with the key that you carry?
A. In the hallway.
Q. In the hallway?
A. Yeah.
Q. So you unlock that door and you go through that door. And where do you find yourself at that point?
A. Yeah.
Q. I'm sorry?
A. Yes.
Q. Where are you? As soon as you walk through that door, the door that you unlock, where are you at that point? Are you in a room or a hallway?
A. In the bedroom.

Q. In the bedroom, all right.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Was there at that time some kind of an alarm or a bell?
A. Yeah, that's before you get to the door.
Q. Before you get to the door?
A. Yeah, that's in the hallway.
Q. All right. And you would announce your presence when you came in?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were there ever occasions that you would announce your presence and Mr. Jackson would be in the room?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were there ever occasions where you would announce your presence and he wasn’t there?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you try to go to his room when he wasn’t there to clean?

A. When he was there? When he wasn’t?

Q. Yeah, what did you try to do, what was your preference? To clean while he was there, or to clean while he wasn’t there?

A. I’ll -- well, sometimes he’ll be there and I’ll be cleaning.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. It didn’t matter.

Q. Okay. Where was his bed, incidentally, at 4991 that time? Where did he sleep?

A. As soon as you came into the bedroom, that’s his bed.

Q. So his bed was downstairs?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there another bed upstairs?

A. Yes.

Q. Which bed did he sleep in?

A. Downstairs.

Q. And you would make --

A. Most of the --

Q. And you would make that bed; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Did he ever have visitors over at his home?

A. Yeah.

Q. Visitors who stayed?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Visitors who stayed for periods of time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you know a person by the name of Wade Robeson?

A. Yeah.

Q. Who was Wade Robeson?

A. He was a young kid, a young little boy.

Q. How old was Wade Robeson when you first met him?

A. Probably eight. Seven or eight.

Q. Do you know where Mr. Robeson -- where Mr. Robeson - an eight-year-old - where Wade Robeson came from?

A. Yes. From a different country. I mean, from another country. Switzer --

Q. Do you know which country?

A. No, I don’t remember.

Q. But you recall that it was from a different country?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was it an English-speaking country or a country with a different language?

A. Different language.

Q. Did you ever talk to Wade Robeson?

A. A little bit.

Q. Was he there with family?

A. With his mother.

Q. Do you remember --

A. I think he has a little sister. I don’t remember.

Q. All right. Did Wade Robeson --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. The prosecutor didn’t let the witness finish.

MR. ZONEN: I’m sorry, I thought she had.

Q. Please go ahead, if you hadn’t finished that answer.

A. Excuse me?

Q. I think you said he has a little sister?

A. Yeah. I don’t remember, tell you the truth.

Q. Do you have a recollection of a sister?

A. I -- you know, I don’t remember, tell you the truth.

Q. Do you remember his mother?

A. His mother, yeah.

Q. Where did she stay when they were there?

A. In the guesthouse outside. They call them the guest quarters.

Q. The guest quarters?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you remember if Wade Robeson’s father was there?

A. No.

Q. Where did Wade Robeson stay?

A. In Mr. Jackson’s room.

Q. All right. In the bedroom?

A. Yeah.

Q. For what period of time was Wade Robeson visiting Mr. Jackson?

A. Weeks.

Q. Weeks?

A. Yeah.

Q. When he would come, would he stay -- what’s the longest that he would stay at any one time?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. ZONEN: Well, let me ask a couple preliminary questions.

Q. You’ve already told us that you cleaned Mr. Jackson’s room.

A. Yes.

Q. Were you the only one who cleaned Mr. Jackson’s room?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you go into Mr. Jackson’s room daily, every single day, when you were working?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you working at that period of time, as you said, at least five and sometimes six days a week?

A. Yeah.

Q. Would you be the first one in his room in the morning?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you have to fix his bed?

A. There were times when nobody knew that he was going to be there, and they call me at home, telling me, “He’s here, and so you have to come and clean up.”

Q. Did you see Wade Robeson there?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. Did you see him there for days at a time?

A. Yeah. Yes.

Q. Did you see where he was staying?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Where was he staying?

A. In Mr. Jackson’s room.

Q. All right. Did you see Wade Robeson’s belongings?

A. Yeah.

Q. What kind of belongings did he have?

A. He had clothes, little suitcase, kids’ suitcase, and his clothes in there.

Q. All right. Would you wash Michael Jackson’s clothing as part of your job?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you wash Wade Robeson’s clothing?

A. As well, yes.

Q. Always?

A. Yes.

Q. Whenever he was there?

A. Yes. I find them on the floor, so I’ll -- I’ll wash them.

Q. And his clothing was found on the floor in where?

A. Different places.

Q. Whose room?

A. Mr. Jackson’s room.

Q. All right. Would you find Mr. Jackson’s clothing there as well?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was your responsibility, your job, to simply gather up the clothing and launder it?

A. Yeah. Yes.

Q. And then return it to his room?

A. Uh-huh.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.

THE COURT: It's leading; sustained.

Stricken.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was there a place that -- where you kept Wade Robeson's clothing after you laundered it?

A. No, I put them together with his clothes and in his case, his little suitcase.

Q. Now, tell us how often Wade Robeson came to visit.

I have two questions and we'll do one at a time. Let me tell you both of them. How often he came, and how often -- how long he stayed each time he came. So let's start with the first one.

How often did he come, Wade Robeson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: How often did he come?

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How often did he come to Neverland to visit Mr. Jackson?

A. Uh --

MR. MESEREAU: Vague as to time; objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Well, tell me when he first came. You said he was eight years old. Do you remember what year that was?

Excuse me.

A. Probably --

Q. I'm sorry.

A. '99.

Q. '99 or '89?

A. '89, I mean.

Q. You quit working there when?

A. In '90 -- '91, I think. '91.

Q. '91. All right. So you think it might have been in 1989 that Mr. Robeson visited?

A. '89.

Q. Young Wade Robeson?

A. Yeah.

Q. And were you the one who was working for Mr. Jackson exclusively in his bedroom during that time?

A. Yes. One occasion I left and somebody else got in charge. The manager --

Q. Uh-huh.

A. -- got in charge of cleaning, you know, when I left for vacation.

Q. And for how long was that?

A. Probably about two weeks.

Q. All right. But for the rest of the time, you were there cleaning?

A. Yes.

Q. And during that period of time when Wade Robeson was there, were you able to see him?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you able to do his laundry?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you able to see him daily? Did you ever actually see him in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Daily?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. Daily?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you said that he first came, you think, in 1999?

A. Uh-huh yes.

Q. How many separate times? When was the last time he came? In other words, how long after the first visit was the final visit, to your knowledge?

A. I don’t remember. It was, I guess, about a year, less than a year before I left.

Q. So were the visits, then, over a period of time of one year?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you know how many separate times he came during that one-year period to visit?

A. He’ll be there for weeks, and then he’ll leave and come back after two weeks.

Q. And stay for how long?

A. For another week.

Q. Did he generally stay for at least a week?
A. Yes.
Q. Mr. -- Wade Robeson was there for quite some time?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. And during that time, are you aware of him staying anyplace other than Michael Jackson’s bedroom?
A. No. He’ll stay there as far as I know.
Q. Now, your obligation, of course, was not just to clean up, but to do the linens?
A. Yes.
Q. The sheets off the beds; is that right?
A. Change.
Q. You said that there were two beds --
A. Uh-huh, yeah.
Q. -- at least? Were there more than two beds in his suite or just two?
A. No, just two.
Q. Did you make the beds every single day?
A. Yes.
Q. During the time that Wade Robeson was there, how many beds did you make? One or more than one?
A. Just that one.
Q. The one that was Mr. Jackson’s bed?

A. Yeah. The one upstairs was rarely used.
Q. All of the visits when Wade Robeson came, was his mother there for all of the visits?
A. Sometimes.
Q. Were there some times that she was not there?
A. Yes.
Q. But Wade Robeson came by himself?
A. Yeah.
Q. Do you know how?
A. Mr. Jackson will bring him.
Q. He would bring him?
A. Yeah.
Q. And during that entire year of visits, did you ever see Wade Robeson’s father?
A. You know, that I don’t remember. I --
Q. You don’t have a picture of him in your mind?

A. No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.

THE COURT: Sustained. It’s stricken.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you have a picture of him in your mind?

A. Of the little boy?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. But she’s asked for clarification.

MR. ZONEN: Let me change the question, if I can. I’ll withdraw the question.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Can you describe Wade Robeson’s father to us?

A. No.

Q. And I think that you said that there might have been a sister. Do you recall a sister?

A. I don’t remember. So many kids there, I don’t remember.

Q. Okay. Was there ever an occasion, to your recollection, where any other child stayed with Mr. Jackson in his room while Wade Robeson was there?

A. No.

Q. Only Wade Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Was there ever an occasion where you walked into his room and you saw some kind of a separate sleeping arrangement, what you believe to be a separate sleeping arrangement for Wade Robeson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; leading; foundation.

THE COURT: I’ll sustain vague.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you ever see a sleeping bag on the floor?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see anything that causes you to believe that Wade Robeson was sleeping someplace other than in Michael Jackson's bed?

A. No.

Q. Was there an occasion that you went into Michael Jackson's room and came upon Michael Jackson and Wade Robeson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Did I what?

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Come into Michael Jackson's room and discover that Michael Jackson was there with Wade Robeson.

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. Was there an occasion when you went in and they were in the shower?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you ever come in and find them in a situation that made you uncomfortable?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you understand what I'm asking?

A. That I was what?

Q. Where you were uncomfortable. You found them and you were uncomfortable.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, I came one time and -- in the bedroom.

MR. ZONEN: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: And first I thought they were playing.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE WITNESS: And --

MR. MESEREAU: Nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. The question was "yes" or "no."

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Tell us what you heard when you first walked into the room.

A. Laughing.

Q. Okay.

A. And playing; like playing around.

Q. Okay. What did you do?

A. I came in, and I -- first I thought that they were playing in the bathtub, Jacuzzi, and I didn’t see them. And then I thought they were outside, playing outside the house; I mean, in his garden. And I walked and they were in the shower.

Q. You have to explain to us a little bit the layout here.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Is there a Jacuzzi inside his house, inside his bedroom?

A. Inside his bedroom, yeah.

Q. So explain that for us. Describe to us what you get to first. The shower? The Jacuzzi? Explain how it’s laid out.

A. First, you get to the bed. And then you get in the bathroom, they call it the ladies’ bathroom, and there’s a big Jacuzzi there.

Q. Okay. Was there a door that goes to that bathroom?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was the door open or was the door closed?

A. No, the door is open. It was open.

Q. And what did -- did you look into that door?

A. Which door?

Q. The door that goes to the bathroom.

A. Well, I have to go through there.

Q. Okay.

A. Yeah.

Q. What do you mean, you have to go through there?

A. To get to the bathroom.

Q. And did you do that?

A. Yeah.

Q. What did you see?

A. And then I was going to walk outside to the garden, but then --

Q. Okay.
A. -- on my way going, I peek, and it was in the shower.
Q. And what did you see?
A. And I hear this playing around. That’s where he was taking a shower, I guess.
Q. Okay.
A. With little Wade.
Q. What did you see? Tell me what you saw.
A. I -- what I saw, I -- just some clothes on the floor.
Q. You saw clothes on the floor in the bathroom or in the bedroom?
A. No, in the shower.
Q. In --
A. By the shower.
Q. By the shower. What clothing did you see on the floor?
A. Underwear.
Q. Underwear?
A. (Nods head up and down.)
Q. More than one pair?
A. Yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How many pair did you see?
A. Two.
Q. Two pair of underwear?

A. Yeah.
Q. Did you recognize the underwear?
A. Yeah.
Q. And how did you happen to recognize the underwear?
A. The -- Mr. Jackson’s, I knew they were white. And the little boy, they were colored.
Q. All right.
A. They were little underwear.
Q. Can you describe the little boy’s underwear?
A. They were little green underwear.
Q. Green underwear?
A. Uh-huh. Had like a neon color.

Q. Neon green?

A. Yeah.

Q. Just in case he lost them? You did his underwear previously, didn’t you? You had washed his underwear previously?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did you know Wade Robeson’s underwear?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay.

A. They have little, you know, characters, like Spiderman and things like that.

Q. Child’s?

A. Child’s.

Q. A small child’s underwear?

A. Yeah.

Q. And Mr. Jackson’s underwear you washed regularly as well?

A. Yeah.

Q. And his underwear was what type?

A. I don’t know. I think they call them briefs.

Q. And what color?

A. White.

Q. Okay. You say you found two pair. Where were they?

A. On the floor.

Q. Okay. And on the floor in the bathroom?

A. Yeah.

Q. Now, how far is the underwear from either the Jacuzzi or the shower?

A. Well, they’re right by -- they were right by the door, by the shower.

Q. Okay. Was water running?

A. Yeah.

Q. Excuse me. And the water was running in the -- in the shower?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you -- did you know that, that the water was running, when you first came into his bedroom suite?

A. Well, I heard the radio, and then eventually I hear the water going.

Q. I'm sorry, I heard the first part.

A. The radio. I heard the radio.
Q. You heard the radio?
A. Yeah, playing. And then eventually I hear the water going.
Q. And then you heard the water?
A. Yeah, because I hear two people, you know, playing.
Q. And you say you heard two people playing. What were the sounds that you heard?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you hear two voices?
A. Yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Leading; sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: For what period of time did you hear sounds?
A. Maybe about a minute.
Q. Did you recognize the voices that you heard?
A. Yeah.
Q. Whose voices were they?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Did you recognize the second voice?
A. Yeah.
Q. Whose voice was that?
A. The little kid, the --

Q. Wade?
A. Wade's, little boy.
Q. When you finally reached a spot where you could see in, was your vision obscured by anything?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; assumes facts not in evidence.
MR. ZONEN: Withdraw the evidence -- withdraw the question.
Q. In that bathroom, is there a shower curtain?
A. No.
Q. What is there in that bathroom?

A. A glass door.
Q. A glass door. Is it a glass door that is fogged or is it a glass door that is clear?
A. It’s clear, but at that time it was smoky.
Q. Okay. Smoky?
A. Cloudy.
Q. Cloudy? From the shower?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. When there’s no shower going, can you see through the glass?
A. Yeah.
Q. On this occasion when the shower was going, could you see through the glass?
A. No.
Q. Could you see any figure at all? What could you see?
MR. MESEREAU: Asked and answered.

THE WITNESS: I saw a figure.
MR. ZONEN: Hold on.
THE COURT: Just a minute.
The objection is overruled. “I saw a figure” is the answer. Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you see more than one figure?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. Did you recognize either of the figures that you saw?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. All right.
A. And the little kid.
Q. Was one figure larger than the other?
A. Yeah.
Q. Was the second figure the size of Wade Robeson?
A. Yeah. Yes.
Q. What did you do at that point?
A. That he was going to get mad, or --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What did you do at the time that you saw Mr. Jackson and Wade Robeson in the shower? What did you do then?

A. I was going to talk to them, but then I thought, “No, I better not,” so I just went back.

Q. Did you leave the room?
A. I -- yeah, I left the room.
Q. Did you tell Mr. Jackson that you had been in the room?
A. No.
Q. Did you back into the room at a later time?
A. Yeah, to clean the room.
Q. Miss Francia, was there ever an occasion where you saw your son Jason with Mr. Jackson and you were concerned?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Go ahead.
A. I was concerned for my son, yes.
Q. Can you tell us when that happened?
A. The first time, it was -- I think it was in Encino.
Q. Okay.
A. That I remember that I walked in, because I had the key to that room, too.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.
THE WITNESS: And I walked in --
THE COURT: Wait. Just a moment, please.
All right. No question was pending, so I’ll strike her answer.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. It was in Encino.

Do you remember when that was?
A. Do you mean the date?
Q. Or the year.
A. Probably ‘86. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. How old was Jason?
A. Probably about seven or eight, probably.
Seven.
Q. Seven. And what did you see that concerned you?

A. Well, I saw little things before that with other kids, and --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Just tell us what you saw --
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Just tell us what you saw with Jason.
A. Well, he was sitting on his lap.
Q. Okay. And what concerned you?
A. And I walked in, and he was sitting on his lap, and Mr. Jackson was just reclining, reclining to the back.
Q. Reclining?
A. Reclining to the back.
Q. Okay.
A. And having my son in his lap.
Q. And where was Jason positioned on his lap?
A. His legs.
Q. Okay. And what did you do?

A. I just told my son to get out. And he was -- I remember he say, “No, I’m fine.”
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You told your son to get out?
THE COURT: Just a moment. Stricken.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You told your son to get out?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did he do so?
A. No.
Q. What did you do then?
A. I think I push him, and -- oh, he was -- some kind of -- reading a book or coloring. And Mr. Jackson say, “I want him to read,” or “I’m reading a story,” something like that.
Q. Did you take your son off of his lap?
A. Yeah. Yes.
Q. Was there another occasion that you were concerned?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You can answer.

A. Yeah, I remember one time, too, at the Encino house that I want my son to stay downstairs, because he -- he will come and -- Mr. Jackson will come and, you know, probably wanted to be by himself, and I said, "You stay here," and I --

Q. You said that to who?

A. To my son, you know, to "Stay here. Stay here, because Michael is here, and," you know, "he probably want to be by himself."

And then he find out -- I guess Mr. Jackson find out that my son was there, and so he took him upstairs.

And I got mad, because my -- I told my son not to go with him, but I got concerned because my son --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: I'll strike the last sentence.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you go look for your son?

A. No.

Q. When did you next see your son?

A. What do you mean?

Q. On that day, on that occasion.

A. Oh. Well, I -- I did my cleaning, or whatever I was doing, and after, he came -- he came down.

Q. Okay. Let me ask you about the hideout. At the hideout, you had mentioned that there wasn't a bed. What did Mr. Jackson sleep in?

A. He sleeps in a sleeping bag.

Q. All right. The whole time that he was at the hideout?

A. Yeah. There was no bed.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. There was no bed there.

Q. Was there ever an occasion that you and your son stayed the night at the hideout?

A. No.

Q. You always left at the end of the day?

A. Yeah.

Q. And did you have an apartment that was someplace in Los Angeles at that time?

A. He?

Q. You.

A. Oh, yeah, I did.

Q. So during the time that you were going to the hideout regularly --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- you had an apartment.

And I think that you had testified that even after you moved to Santa Maria, there were still occasions that you went back to clean at the hideout?

A. Many times, yeah.

Q. Do you know for approximately how long after you moved to Santa Maria?

A. Probably a year.

Q. Okay. Now, what did he -- I asked you what he slept on, and you said a sleeping bag. Describe the sleeping bag for us. What kind of a sleeping bag was it?

A. A regular sleeping bag that you sleep on.

Q. Sleeping bag for one person? For two people? How big?

A. A regular one.

Q. Just a regular sleeping bag?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was that sleeping bag always open, or was it rolled up?

A. It was open.

Q. Always?

A. Well, when I made it, I would try to make it like a bed, you know.

Q. Were there any blankets on the sleeping bag or under the sleeping bag?

A. Yeah, there were blankets.

Q. Which? On the sleeping bag or --

A. On the sleeping bag, yes.

Q. Was the sleeping bag simply on the floor?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was there carpet on the floor?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see Jason on or in the sleeping bag?
A. One time.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson there?
A. Yes.
Q. Were they on the sleeping bag or were they in the sleeping bag?

A. They were on the sleeping bag, yeah.
Q. On top of the sleeping bag?
A. Yeah.
Q. Could you see their body -- bodies, both of them?
A. Not Mr. Jackson’s.
Q. Why not?
A. Because it was covered.
Q. Okay. So the sleeping bag covered Mr. Jackson?
A. Yeah.
Q. How about Jason? Where was Jason?
A. He was in the sleeping bag, too.
Q. He was in the sleeping bag. How were they positioned relative to each other? Do you know what I mean? Were they facing each other? Were they facing away from each other? Do you recall?
A. I remember this time he was this -- on this side, and my son was on this side. And I got there about three or four times, and one time he was -- my son was --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
THE COURT: It’s kind of hard to tell. Maybe you could start with another question.
MR. ZONEN: Yes, I can.
Q. I asked you initially how they were positioned. In other words, were they facing each other? Were they facing away from each other? Do you recall? When you saw them the first time.

A. The first time, my son was just laying there.
Q. Okay.

A. But on one time, because I was cooking for Mr. Jackson, I was doing some lunch, or snacks, or something --

Q. I'm sorry?

A. I was cooking some snacks.

Q. Snacks. Okay.

A. Popcorn.

Q. Okay.

A. I don't remember.

Q. Are we still talking about the same event, the same day?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So when --

A. Hmm?

Q. When you first saw your son in the sleeping bag with Mr. Jackson, did you say anything to your son at all when you first saw him in the sleeping bag?

A. I told him to come up, outside, and eat, because I wanted to feed him.

Q. Okay. And did he?

A. No.

Q. All right. What did you do?

A. He say, "I want to stay here."

Q. Okay. What did you do?

A. And -- well, I got mad. And I said, you know, "You got to get out to the kitchen," and he didn't wanted to.

Q. All right. Were you speaking with him in English or in Spanish at that time; do you recall?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Do you know what language -- what language do you speak with your son now?

A. Spanish.

Q. You speak Spanish?

A. Yeah.

Q. You've always spoke Spanish with him?

A. Yeah.

Q. His wife does or does not speak Spanish?

A. No.

Q. In her presence, what do you speak?

A. English.

Q. Okay. But he grew up speaking Spanish?

A. Yes.

Q. And he’s very fluent in Spanish?

A. Yes.

Q. When you asked him to come out to go eat, in what language was that?

A. I think I said it in Spanish. But then I want Mr. Jackson to understand what I was telling him to do, and so I guess I said it in Spanish and English. I don’t remember.

Q. So you’re not certain at this point?

A. No.

Q. All right. Did he get out of the sleeping bag?

A. No.

Q. What did you then do? Did you leave the room or --

A. I left the room and I proceed to do my stuff and --

Q. Okay. And what happened then?

A. Then I went back and -- and then he was eating, but he was -- oh, I took something to eat to him.

Q. Okay. When you came back out, was he still in the sleeping bag with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yeah.

Q. What were they doing in the sleeping bag? I don’t mean in the sleeping bag, but what were they doing in the room?

A. They were watching T.V.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: A time frame?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: At the time that you first came into that room, was the television on?

A. On, yes.

Q. Do you remember approximately what time of the day it was?

A. Probably was about 2:00, 1:00 or 2:00 in the afternoon.

Q. Was the room light or was the room dark?

A. It was dark. It gets really dark.

Q. But this was about 1:00 or 2:00 in the afternoon?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were there shades on the windows?

A. Draperies, curtains.

Q. Draperies. And were they drawn? Were they closed?

A. Closed.

Q. So the light was not in?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember what they were watching on television?

A. No.

Q. Do you know what Jason used to like to watch at that time?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE WITNESS: At that time --

MR. ZONEN: I'll withdraw the question.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How old was Jason, to your recollection, at that time, as best you can recall?

A. Probably like eight. Probably eight. That was --

Q. I'm sorry, go ahead.

A. -- before we move here to Santa -- to -- before he moved here to Neverland.

Q. It was before he moved to Neverland?

A. Yeah.

Q. And Jason was born on, if I'm not mistaken, May 30, 1980?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that his birth date?

A. Yes.

Q. When you moved to Neverland in 1988, he would have been about eight years old?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you believe this was before?

A. Oh, yeah. Yeah.

Q. Okay. Do you know if Mr. Jackson ever gave

Jason money?
A. Yeah.
Q. Do you know on how many occasions?
A. That I remember, because it was -- to me, it was a lot of money for a little kid. At the hideout he gave him some money.
Q. Do you know how much money he gave him?
A. From what I remember, it was two hundred-dollar bills.
Q. Two 100-dollar bills?
A. Two 100-dollar bills, yes.

Q. When did you first see that money?
A. After -- what happened was that I left the key at his apartment. And we were walking to get -- take the bus home, back home. My car key, I left it there. And we were going to walk to -- to the bus stop.
Q. Okay. Were you taking the bus back and forth?
A. No, I was driving. But I left the key, my car key there, and I didn't want to go back and knock at the door, because --
Q. You didn't have your key?
A. Yeah, Mr. Jackson wouldn't open the door.
Q. Okay.
A. So I remember we were walking to the bus stop, and he say -- my son told me he has money --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection.
THE WITNESS: -- in his pocket.
MR. MESEREAU: Nonresponsive.
THE COURT: Just a moment. True, there's no question pending. It's nonresponsive.
MR. ZONEN: All right.
Q. Where were you when you first saw the money?
A. At the bus stop.
Q. Okay. Did he give you the money, your son?
A. No.
Q. All right. How did you see the money?

A. Well, he say he had lots of money and that it was a secret.

Q. Okay. What did you say?

A. And I say, “What do you mean, a secret? How much money?” But I thought it was maybe two dollars.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Spontaneous declaration, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I’m going to allow the answer to the question of, “What did you say?” which I think is the objection you were making.

MR. MESEREAU: Has to do with third-party statements, Your Honor.

MR. ZONEN: I’m sorry.

THE COURT: I’m going to ask you to rephrase the question. The question you last asked where the objection came was, “And what did you say?” And she did say what she said. But then she was going to say something else.

MR. ZONEN: Yes. Thank you.

Q. What did your son say to you in response to your statement?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: That’s a spontaneous declaration.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ZONEN: That’s what I originally meant.

THE COURT: I will allow it on that basis.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. What did your son say?

A. That he has the money; that it was a secret; he wasn’t going to tell me.

Q. Okay.

A. But at this point I thought it was maybe two dollars or a dollar.

Q. Did you ask to see it?

A. And I say, “I want to see it.” And he say, “No, because Michael told me that it’s for me and not to tell you.” But like I say, I thought it was two dollars. I say, “How much is it?” And I pull it out of his pocket.

Q. It was in his pocket?

A. It was in his pocket. He said he put --
Q. Do you remember what he was wearing?
A. Pants.
Q. You believe it was pants?
A. Yeah. He says, “He put it in my pocket. Don’t take it out.”
So I pull it out, and I said, “$200?”
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you reach into his pocket?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you retrieve it?

A. Yeah.
Q. What was it?
A. It was two 100-dollar bills.
Q. Were there ever other occasions that you were aware of where Mr. Jackson gave your son money?
A. No.
Q. Was that the only occasion that you recall?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you ever see your son with money on other occasions?
A. I’ll give him allowances. And, you know, he’ll keep it -- you know, a dollar or two.
Q. Do you know who Macaulay Culkin is?
A. Yes.
Q. Who is Macaulay Culkin?
A. The little kid from the movies.
Q. Yes. Did you ever see Macaulay Culkin --
A. Yes.
Q. -- personally?
Where did you see him?
A. At the Neverland. At the ranch.
Q. Did he visit Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. How often did he visit Neverland?
A. I don’t remember. But it was a few times when I was there.

Q. More than once?

A. Yes.

Q. Over what period of time, from the first time to the last time?

A. Probably six months.

Q. Were you working that entire time?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you working in the same job you've already described for us, as Mr. Jackson's personal maid?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you cleaning his room?

A. Uh-huh. Yes.

Q. And doing his laundry?

A. Yes.

Q. When Mr. Culkin came -- well, it was Macaulay Culkin. How old was he when you first saw him, approximately?

A. I think about eight or nine. Probably eight.

Q. Was this before or after Wade Robeson was visiting?

A. After.

Q. Did they ever visit at the same time?

A. No. Not that I can remember.

Q. Did Wade Robeson continue to visit during the time that Macaulay Culkin was coming?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know where Macaulay Culkin stayed when he came to Neverland?

A. With Mr. Jackson.

Q. Did Macaulay Culkin come with any other family members that you recall?

A. Yeah, I remember him with his father and mother.

Q. Father and mother?

A. And the other kids.

Q. Other --

A. Brothers and sisters.

Q. Other siblings?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how many siblings he had, whether they were boys or girls?
A. No, I don’t remember.
Q. Do you know if it was more than one other sibling?
A. Yeah. More than one.
Q. Did he have at least one brother and one sister at least?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know the total number of brothers and sisters?
A. No. No. Probably five. I don’t remember.
Q. I asked you where Macaulay Culkin stayed, and you said with Mr. Jackson. How do you know that?

A. Because I’ll go to his bedroom and clean up after.
Q. Did you ever see Macaulay Culkin in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Were his possessions there in the bedroom?
A. Yeah. I don’t remember.
Q. That you don’t recall?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall if you ever washed his clothing as you did Wade Robeson’s?
A. Yeah.
Q. Would you have washed his clothing if his clothing was someplace other than his bedroom?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was it your responsibility to wash clothing from rooms other than Mr. Jackson’s bedroom?
A. No.
Q. If guests did not stay with Mr. Jackson, where would they have stayed?
A. In the guest rooms. They call them the outside guest rooms. You know, they’re like four -- four guest rooms outside.
MR. ZONEN: Could I have those photographs,

please? Oh. Thank you.

I'm sorry, did you say something?

MR. MESEREAU: I'm going to object as cumulative.

MR. ZONEN: Oh, okay. All right.

Q. And I think that you said it was for a number of months that Macaulay Culkin stayed?

A. Yeah. Weeks.

Q. I don't mean continuously. But what do you think was the longest period that you ever saw him there during that few-month period of time?

A. About a week.

Q. Okay. Do you know if he always came with his family?

A. Not always.

Q. How else did he come?

A. How often?

Q. How else, if he was not with his family? Was he with other people?

A. No.

Q. Did he come by himself?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have a recollection of how many times Macaulay Culkin came to visit Neverland by himself?

A. Maybe I remember about two times.

Q. All right. How old was Jason during the time that Macaulay Culkin was there?

A. At that time he was probably already ten.

Q. Jason was older than Macaulay Culkin?

A. Yeah.

Q. About how much older?

A. Probably a year or two. I don't know.

Q. During the time that Macaulay Culkin stayed in Mr. Jackson's bedroom, do you know if other members of his family also stayed in the bedroom with them?

A. Yeah, I think they did.

Q. On every occasion?

A. Not all the time.

Q. Are you aware --

A. When --
Q. I’m sorry, go ahead.
A. When he was by himself, he was there by himself with Mr. Jackson.
Q. Do you know of any occasions when Macaulay Culkin came to visit when he did not stay in Mr. Jackson’s room?
A. No.
Q. And on those occasions when Macaulay Culkin stayed in Mr. Jackson’s room, do you know if there was ever a separate sleeping arrangement, in other words, a separate bed or a separate sleeping bag that you would have to clean up?
A. No.
Q. Excuse me, I’m sorry.
Why did you leave Neverland, your employment at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you leave your employment at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Did you leave of your own volition?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember when it was you left Neverland?
A. May, I think.
Q. Of what year?
A. ‘91. ‘90 or ‘91. ‘91, I think.
Q. May of ‘91?
A. ‘91.
Q. All right. So you would have been employed by Mr. Jackson for a period of about five years?
A. Five years, yeah.
Q. Now, May of ‘91 your son would be turning 11; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know if you left before his 11th birthday?
A. Uh-huh. About.
Q. Did your son have any more association with Michael Jackson after you?

A. After?

Q. Yes, after you left.

A. No.

Q. Did you ever go back to Neverland after you left?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever visit with Mr. Jackson after you left?

A. No.

Q. Were you contacted by law enforcement at some time after you left Neverland, your employment at Neverland, for an interview?

A. Yeah. 1994 or ‘93. I don’t remember.

Q. ‘93 or ‘94? So it was already some time after you left Neverland; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. At least a year, and probably two?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

MR. ZONEN: Let me withdraw the question.

Q. How long after you left your employment at Neverland was it that law enforcement contacted you?

A. About two and a half years.

Q. Did you contact them or did they contact you?

A. They came to me.

Q. At the time they contacted you, did you know whether or not there was an investigation going on involving Mr. Jackson?

A. Yeah. Yes. I was -- kind of.

Q. Were you expecting to be contacted?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; relevance; foundation.

MR. ZONEN: Goes to her state of mind.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. Did it come as a surprise to you when you were contacted?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; leading.

THE COURT: And I’m going to back up a minute and change my ruling on the question, “Were you expecting to be contacted?” She may answer that “yes” or “no.” I’ll overrule the last objection.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you understand that? You may answer the question, “Were you expecting to be contacted?”
A. Yes and no.
Q. Did you ultimately give an interview with the sheriff’s office?
A. Yes.
Q. At some point in time were you called to give a deposition? Were you subpoenaed to give a deposition?
A. I was subpoenaed, yeah.
Q. All right. Now, do you know who it was who subpoenaed you to give a deposition?
A. Mr. Feldman.
Q. Was that Larry Feldman?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know who Larry Feldman represented at that time?

A. Yeah. Another little boy.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. Another little boy.
Q. Do you know that person’s name?
A. The -- the little boy?
Q. Yes, that he represented.
A. At that time I didn’t know. Now -- now I hear --
Q. What do you know the name to be?
A. Chandler. Chandler. Something like that. But I don’t know. I don’t know the first name.
Q. Did you know that child, Mr. Chandler?
A. No. No.
Q. “Mr.” You don’t know how old he was? You don’t know how old he was?
A. No.
Q. Did you know his first name?
A. No.
Q. Was this a child you were ever introduced to during the time that you were at Neverland?
A. No.
Q. And tell us what a deposition is. Having gone through one, what is it?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
MR. ZONEN: Well, let me withdraw that.
Q. Did you, in fact, go through a deposition?
A. Did I went through --

Q. Did you have a deposition? Did they take your deposition?
A. Yeah. Yes.
Q. Okay. And did you, in fact, give testimony in that deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, I asked you who it was who subpoenaed you, and you said it was Larry Feldman.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Were there other lawyers in the room asking you questions as well?
A. Yes.
Q. Who were the other lawyers? Do you remember any of their names?
A. I remember Johnnie Cochran, and there were about five or six.
Q. About five or six lawyers?
A. Yeah.
Q. All in the room at one time?
A. Yeah.
Q. And was Johnnie Cochran asking you questions?
A. Yes.
Q. Were other lawyers asking you questions as well?
A. I don’t remember. But I think there was one “Waysman” or “Wiseman.”
Q. Weitzman? Perhaps Howard Weitzman?

A. I don’t remember his last name. I mean --
Q. Do you know on which side Mr. Weitzman was?
A. With Mr. Cochran.
Q. He was with Mr. Cochran?
A. They were the two together, yeah.
Q. Who did Mr. Cochran and Mr. Weitzman represent?

A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Okay. Was Mr. Jackson present during that deposition?
A. No.
Q. Was he ever there during the deposition at any time?
A. No.
Q. Did that deposition go longer than one day?
A. Yeah.
Q. How many days did it go?
A. Two days.
Q. Do you know how many hours each day you were deposed?
A. No.
Q. Do you know if there were other lawyers sitting with Mr. Feldman, Larry Feldman, in other words, on his side, other than Mr. Feldman?
A. No.
Q. Was Mr. Feldman the only one asking you questions from that side?
A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever reviewed the transcript of that deposition?
A. No.
Q. Even back then?
A. Not that I remember.
Q. Do you remember what year it was, of that deposition?
A. ‘94, I think. Or ‘95.
Q. Was it before or after you had your first interview with law enforcement? Do you recall?
A. After.
Q. It was after? Do you remember approximately how long after?
A. No, I don’t remember the date or --
Q. Miss Francia, when you had this deposition that went on for two days, and you say that there were lawyers, a number of them in the room, did you have a lawyer with you?
A. No.
Q. Had you retained a lawyer at that time?
A. Not at that time, no.

Q. Did you give answers to questions that were put to you at that time.
A. Did I answer?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes.
Q. Did you -- did they explain to you that a deposition is the same thing as testifying?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Just a moment.
MR. ZONEN: I’ll withdraw the question.
THE COURT: Overrruled.
MR. ZONEN: I won’t withdraw the question.
THE COURT: You may answer.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did they explain to you that a deposition was the same thing as testifying?
A. No.
Q. Did you have to raise your hand to take an oath to tell the truth?
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. And you did do that?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. Did they ask you questions about -- questions similar to the questions I’ve asked you so far since you’ve been on the witness stand?
A. (Nods head up and down.)
Q. You have to answer out loud, if you would, please.
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Did they ask you about Wade Robeson?
A. Yes.
Q. Did they ask you if in fact you had seen them in the shower together?
A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the answers that you gave to those questions?
A. Kind of.
Q. Did you tell one of the attorneys that you did not see Wade Robeson in the shower?

A. Yeah, I probably did.
Q. All right. Was that accurate?
A. Well, at that time I guess I was tired and nervous, I guess.
Q. Did you tell them that you believed Wade Robeson was in the shower?
A. Yes, I told them that.
Q. Did you tell them about the underwear?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you tell them about hearing the voices?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you tell them about the music?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you do an interview for Hard Copy?
A. Yes.
Q. What is Hard Copy?
A. A program.
Q. A program?
A. Yeah.
Q. A program on what? On television?
A. On television, yeah.
Q. Was that a program that you had seen before that interview?

A. No.
Q. Had you ever watched Hard Copy before?
A. No.
Q. Do you know what kind of -- did you know -- before you were on it, did you know what kind of a program it was?
A. No.
Q. Were you -- did somebody contact you from Hard Copy?
A. Yeah.
Q. And do you remember who that was who contacted you?
A. That -- the lady who interview me.
Q. Okay. Do you happen to remember her name?
A. Yeah.
Q. What was her name?
A. Diane Dimond.
Q. Diane Dimond. Did you discuss with Miss Dimond what it was she wanted to talk with you about?

A. Yeah, we kind of talk about it.
Q. Okay. Did you agree to go on television?
A. Yeah.
Q. Was there some discussion with Miss Dimond about whether or not you would be paid or compensated for appearing on television?
A. Yeah. My friend and I went together.
Q. You went with a friend?

A. Yeah.
Q. Who was your friend?
A. One of -- one of the workers at Neverland.
Q. One of the workers at Neverland?
A. Yeah.
Q. What was her name?
A. Evangeline.
Q. Evangeline?
A. Yes.
Q. And what did she do at Neverland?
A. She was a housekeeper and a cook.
Q. A housekeeper and a cook?
A. And a cook, yeah. And she helped the cook.
Q. Okay. And you were talking with Diane Dimond with Evangeline?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. Why is that? Why was Evangeline there, or Vangie, was why she there?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: I'm not sure what you're looking for, foundation.
MR. MESEREAU: And speculation.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. ZONEN: I'll withdraw that, then. I understand that objection.
Q. Did you ask Evangeline to be there with you?
A. She was the one who contact, I believe, Diane Dimond.

Q. Did she -- she's the one who introduced you to Diane Dimond?
A. Yeah, she was the one who told me, you know, that she can get everything arranged.

Q. Okay. That she could arrange the interview?

A. The interview, yeah.

Q. And payment as well?

A. Yeah. She say, “I’ll help you.”

Q. What did you understand the interview to be about? What did they want to ask you about?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation.

MR. ZONEN: Withdraw the question.

Q. What was your belief that you were going to be telling them?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading.

THE WITNESS: About --

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What was your belief that you would be telling them?

A. About me working there.

Q. Working where?

A. At Neverland.

Q. Okay. Did you think they would be asking you questions about Michael Jackson?

A. No. I mean, that -- not the way they were asking me.

Q. How much money did they represent from Hard Copy -- how much money did they represent that they would give you for an interview?

A. How much money they gave me?

Q. Yes.

A. $20,000.

Q. $20,000.

A. Yes.

Q. And what were you going to do for $20,000? What were you going to say in this interview for $20,000?

A. Well, I -- I thought that it was going to be just talking about, you know, how it was working for him and how he was.

Q. Did that seem, to you, an unusually large amount of money?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How much money were you making a year at that time?
A. Less than $20,000.
Q. Less than $20,000?
A. Yeah, probably around 20.
THE COURT: All right. We’ll take our break.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: When we left off, I was asking some questions about the interview with Hard Copy. Did that interview finally take place?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you actually watch it on television when it was screened?
A. No.
THE BAILIFF: Can you turn your microphone on?
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I asked you about the interview with Hard Copy. You finally did that interview, did you not?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you watch it on television when it was screened?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever watched it?
A. No. I watch a little bit, you know, when I --
Q. Did you receive $20,000?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Do you know if your friend Evangeline got any money?
A. She didn’t get any money from them, no. I gave her some money.
Q. Was that interview -- was that interview with Hard Copy before or after your interview with the sheriff’s detectives?
A. After.
Q. Was it before or after your deposition with Larry Feldman and Johnnie Cochran?

A. Oh, before.

Q. It was before the deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember being asked some questions about the Hard Copy --

A. Yes.

Q. -- interview during that deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson ever have a nickname for your son, for Jason, that he used?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you ever hear Mr. Jackson call your son by a name other than Jason, his real name?

A. Yes.

Q. What name was that?

A. “Rubba.”

Q. “Rubba,” R-u-b-b-a, do you think?

A. I think.

Q. Is that what it sounds like?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you ever hear him call other kids “Rubba”?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he call Wade Robeson “Rubba”?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he call Macaulay Culkin “Rubba”?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you ever receive any gifts from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. What kind of gifts did you receive from him?

A. I don’t remember. They were a lot.

Q. Do you remember any of them?

A. He told me to get whatever I want, you know, like promotional things that he’ll get from the companies, or toys for my son.

Q. Do you mean if he had them in his possession?

A. Yeah. He will buy little stuff for me, too.

Q. And he would give them to you?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did he ever give you any furniture?
A. Yeah.
Q. What kind of furniture?
A. I remember one time he -- he had a table in the attic, and he say he doesn’t want it there. And I asked him if I could take it, and he said, “Yeah, sure. Take it.”
Q. The attic where?
A. The attic at Havenhurst.
Q. At Havenhurst?
A. Yeah.
Q. How long ago was that?
A. When I first started there, to work there.

Q. So ‘86?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. Any other things that you can remember that he gave you over the years?
A. Toys for my son.
Q. Toys for your son? Did he ever give you money?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. You don’t remember if he gave you money, or how much, or how often?
A. How often? No, I don’t remember.
Q. All right. When you had the deposition with Johnnie Cochran, did he ask you if you ever took something from --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; misstates the evidence. There were other lawyers involved.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may --
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: When you had the deposition --
It was overruled, Your Honor?
THE COURT: It was overruled. Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: When you had the deposition with Johnnie Cochran, did he or any other lawyer representing Michael Jackson ask you if you took something from Michael Jackson’s room?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Did they ask you about a watch?

A. Yeah.
Q. Do you remember the watch?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have a watch from Michael Jackson?
A. Did he have it?
Q. No. Did he ever give you a watch?
A. I got it from his room.
Q. What kind of a watch are we talking about?
A. It was a toy watch. You know, like I think it was from one of his commercials or something.
Q. Did you --
A. That I had it, and he look at it, and he say, “Oh, that’s nice.” And I say, “Yeah, I got it from your room.” And he didn’t -- I told one of the housekeepers that I -- “Oh, look what I got from his room.” But I guess I used to get stuff from his room and --
Q. Are you talking about promotional things?
A. Yeah. Things like that.
Q. What is a promotional item? What do you mean by that?
A. Like when he make a commercial. I think this watch was from Captain Eo.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. I think it was from one of his videos.
Q. Did he have his name on it?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did it have his picture on it?

A. Yes.
Q. What was that watch worth, do you think?
A. About $10, probably.
Q. At some time were you contacted by an attorney or did you retain an attorney?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; compound.
MR. ZONEN: I’ll withdraw the question.
Q. Did you ever retain an attorney?
A. I don’t understand.
Q. Oh. Did you ever hire a lawyer?
A. Oh. Did I personally went to a lawyer and say -- no.
Q. Okay. Do you know Terry Cannon?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you know Kris Kallman?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know them to be lawyers?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Did either of those two lawyers represent you?
A. Yes, at one time.
Q. Did they represent Jason?
A. Yes.
Q. How did that happen? How did you come into contact with these two lawyers?
A. Well, since I -- I was felt like --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; 352.
THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did Jason get subpoenaed to appear at a deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. How old was Jason at that time?
MR. ZONEN: We forgot the tags. Would you mark the next two exhibits in order, please?
THE WITNESS: Probably about 12.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did he actually get a subpoena to appear at a deposition?
A. No, they told me that they were going to subpoena him.
Q. Was that at the end of your deposition?
A. Yes, they told me they want him and myself at another office. Not there, but another office. Mr. Cochran told me.
Q. All right. Were you concerned about Jason giving a deposition?
A. At that time, yeah.
Q. Did you think he --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.
THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What were your concerns about Jason giving a deposition?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. 352; foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You can answer the question.

What was your concern?

A. That he -- being so young, that he was going to be embarrassed and teased by other kids.

Q. All right. At some point in time, did you talk with -- let me change that. At some point in time, did you agree to file a lawsuit against Michael Jackson?

A. Not at that time.

Q. Do you know if there was some kind of a settlement with Michael Jackson’s attorneys?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you receive -- and I’m not asking you how much, but did you receive compensation?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you receive payment?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Jason also receive payment?

A. Yeah. Yes.

Q. When did he receive his payment?

A. I believe it was his 18th birthday.

Q. His 18th birthday? I had asked you a question about the watch from his room. Did Mr. Jackson ever talk to you about being able to take things if you wanted to?

A. He never told me that.

Q. Did he say anything like that?

A. Oh. No.

Q. There was no conversation about that?

A. He told me that sometimes people gave him things, and that he’d display it, and then -- you know, and then he would like to get rid of it.

Q. Did you show him the watch?

A. Yeah. At one time I was wearing it, one of his jackets, and he say -- and he told me that it was his jacket. And I say, “Yeah, I was cold.” And he say, “Oh, that’s okay.”

MR. ZONEN: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I have two photographs

previously shown to counsel. I'd like to show you these two exhibits, if I can. Exhibit No. 781 and Exhibit No. 782.
And do you see the numbers here? This is 781 and that's 782. I'm going to put them both in front of you.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And then I'll go back.
781, would you pick that one up, please, and tell us what that photograph is? Take a look at it.
A. That was one of his school pictures.
Q. And who is "he"?
A. My son.
Q. Your son Jason. How old was Jason in that photograph?
A. I would say about ten.
Q. About ten years old? Do you remember that photograph being taken?

A. No.
Q. But you do recognize him?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that an accurate photograph of Jason when he was about ten years old?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Look at the another one now, please, I think 782. And what is that a photo of?
A. My son and I.
Q. All right. The two of you together?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Is that photograph dated?
A. Yes.
Q. Whose handwriting is that?
A. Mine.
Q. Okay. And what is the date on that?
A. 1994.
Q. And your son was -- what was the month on that?
A. The month is March.
Q. March? It's written in Spanish, is it not?
A. Yes.
Q. But it's March 19 --
A. '94.

Q. ‘94. And how old was he at that time?
A. About 14.
Q. All right. He would turn 14 in May of ‘94?

A. Uh-huh.
Q. So he was 13 at the time; is that right?
A. 13.
Q. Is that photograph an accurate photograph of your son at that time?
A. Yes.
MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, I would move both of those exhibits into evidence.
MR. MESEREAU: No objection.
THE COURT: They’re admitted.
MR. ZONEN: I’d ask to publish them at this time.
THE COURT: All right.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: We’ll start with 781.
Could we dim the lights, if we could?
And could you take a look over your shoulder and tell us, is that the photograph that you identified?
A. Yes.
Q. And how old was he at that time again?
A. About ten.
Q. About ten. And then the second photograph, 782. And he was at that point 13?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Was that about the time that he was being interviewed by law enforcement?
A. Yes, I think.
MR. ZONEN: Thank you. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.
If I may take a second, Your Honor, just to set up.
THE COURT: Yes, you may.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Ma’am, I’ll say good morning, but I think it’s afternoon. Okay?

My name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Mr. Jackson, okay? We met for the first time at the break, right? We’ve never spoken before that, right?

A. No.

Q. All right. Now, if anything -- if anything I ask you is unclear, please don’t answer it, okay? Just say you don’t understand. Okay?

A. Okay.

Q. And if you don’t understand, I’ll try and rephrase it --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- to make it more understandable, okay?

If you’re not sure about what I’m asking, just don’t answer. Just make sure it’s clear in your mind what I’m asking for, okay?

You know I’m on his side, okay?

A. Okay.

Q. Mr. Jackson, all right?

Now, you began working for Mr. Jackson in 1986; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know approximately what month that was?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And you stopped working for Mr. Jackson in approximately 1991, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you never worked for him since you stopped working in 1991, right?

A. No. I never went back.

Q. Okay. Now, you testified that in the apartment owned by Mr. Jackson that you referred to as “The Hideout,” there was no furniture, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Was there any bed in there at all?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And approximately when were you cleaning that apartment as part of your work?

A. Do you mean how long would it take me to clean or --

Q. No, no, let me rephrase it.

During what period of time do you remember you were going to that apartment and cleaning it?

A. Probably a year. I don’t remember.

Q. And would you go to clean that apartment when Mr. Jackson was not there?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Jackson going on what was called a “Bad” tour; do you remember that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Jackson produced an album and a videotape called “Bad”?

A. Yeah. Yes.

Q. And do you remember he was traveling on that tour from approximately September of 1987 to January of 1989?

A. Yes.

Q. And during that period of time he was often out of the country, wasn’t he?

A. Yes.

Q. And he told you about where he was going, didn’t he?

A. Yes.

Q. He told you he was going to Japan, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Australia, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And a lot of cities in America, right?

A. Yes.

Q. New York, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Indianapolis? Went to Texas? Georgia?

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as beyond the scope of her knowledge; lack of foundation.

THE WITNESS: I don’t know.

MR. MESEREAU: I think she’s answering she did know, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: He told me he was on tour,

but --

MR. ZONEN: There's an objection.

THE WITNESS: You know --

THE COURT: The only one she said she didn't know were the last two, so I'll overrule the objection.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: So you knew he traveled to Italy on that tour, correct?

MR. ZONEN: I'm going to object on lack of foundation or based on hearsay.

MR. MESEREAU: State of mind, Your Honor. I'll be happy to rephrase it if the Court wants.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you know that he traveled to Italy on that tour as well?

A. No.

Q. How about Austria?

A. I don't remember.

Q. And England?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember he went to a lot of countries --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on that tour? And he told you that, didn't he?

A. Yes.

Q. And that tour lasted almost a year and a half, didn't it?

A. Not really. I didn't stop seeing him for a year and a half.

Q. But he was out of the country much of the time, wasn't he?

A. Yeah.

Q. And he was out of Los Angeles much of the time?

A. Out of -- yes.

Q. Now, you didn't often see him -- excuse me. Let me rephrase that.

Do you remember him staying overnight at the hideout apartment?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And he didn't like to invite other people to that apartment, right?

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as speculative; lack of foundation.
MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase.
Q. Do you know whether or not Mr. Jackson liked to keep his presence at that apartment private?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; speculative.

THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I don’t know.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Okay. But you didn’t see him invite lots of people to that apartment, did he?
A. No, I didn’t see many people.
Q. Okay. And you were the only one that would clean that apartment, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And did you used to help Mr. Jackson prepare when he was leaving town for the “Bad” tour?
A. Yes.
Q. And what did you used to do for Mr. Jackson to help him?
A. Pack his stuff, his makeup, his clothes, and shine his shoes.
Q. And he went on approximately 123 concerts during that period, didn’t he?
A. I don’t know.
MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as lack of foundation.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know how many --
THE COURT: She said, “I don’t know,” so next question.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. When you used to clean the home at Havenhurst in Encino -- okay? Havenhurst is a street, right?

A. Yes.
Q. And that was where Michael Jackson’s parents lived --
A. Yes.
Q. -- right?

Did other family members live there at the time you were cleaning that house?

A. I think Janet was still there. And LaToya.

Q. Okay. So to your knowledge, at the time you cleaned that house, his parents, Janet, LaToya and Michael were living there, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And would you go there every day?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And were there other people besides you that cleaned the house?

A. Not at that time. They didn’t have a housekeeper. I mean, they have one, but it quit after about two months.

Q. Did you appear to be the primary housecleaner?

A. Well, while Mr. Jackson was on tour, I end up staying, cleaning the house too.

Q. Okay. So when he was out of town, you would still go there to work, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Now, would you bring Jason there when --

A. Yes.

Q. -- when Mr. Jackson was out of town?

A. Yeah.

Q. And where would Jason typically be when you worked at the house while Mr. Jackson was out of town; do you know?

A. Outside in the arcade room. At the house.

Q. Okay. And would you see Mr. Jackson’s parents when you used to clean the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Would you see Janet?

A. Sometimes.

Q. And how about LaToya?

A. Yeah, sometimes.

Q. Okay. And what areas of the house did you used to clean?

A. The whole house.

Q. Okay. Every day?

A. Yeah. If there was nothing else to do.

Q. Now, how long did you work -- excuse me.

Let me rephrase that. For how long a period of time did you clean the house at Havenhurst?

A. While he was on tour, I guess. I don’t remember. But it was many months, because Bill Bray told me that at least it’s going to be about six months that he was going to be out of -- out of the country, and either I be laid off or work at the house.

Q. Okay. And did there come a point in time when you stopped cleaning the house on Havenhurst?

A. Yes.

Q. And approximately when was that, if you remember?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Was it 1986, do you think?

A. No.

Q. 1987?

A. 1987, yeah.

Q. Do you think it was 1987?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. When you stopped cleaning the house at Havenhurst, you kept working for Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you do for Mr. Jackson after you stopped cleaning the house on Havenhurst?

A. Well, went back to my same routine. Cleaning his room and mainly being there. Even if I didn’t have anything to do, he wanted me in his room.

Q. Okay. And which room are you talking about now?

A. His bedroom.

Q. Okay. His bedroom now?

A. In Encino.

Q. In Encino, okay. Okay. So Mr. Jackson would leave town, but always wanted you to still come to the house and do your work, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said that Mr. Bray told you something about you might lose your work?

A. No, no, no. He told me that I either be laid off or -- well, probably it’s the same thing, or work at the house.

Q. Okay. Okay. When you stopped working at the house on Havenhurst, what were you doing then for Mr. Jackson?

A. When I stopped working at the Havenhurst -- do you mean at the house?

Q. Yes. You kept working for Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And what were you doing then?

A. The same thing I was hired to do for him. Pick up his clothes.

Q. And where were you doing that?

A. Cleaning his room. At the Havenhurst.

Q. No, no, after you stopped working at Havenhurst.

A. Oh.

Q. Okay?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. You worked at Havenhurst for a while, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And then at some point you stopped cleaning Havenhurst, didn’t you; is that right?

A. Yeah, but we still live there -- I mean, he still live there at the Havenhurst.

Q. Okay. I’m sorry. Maybe I’m confusing you. There was a point in time when you didn’t clean Havenhurst anymore; is that right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And approximately when was that, do you think?

A. No, I don’t remember.

Q. Okay. You did work at Neverland at one point, right?

A. Yeah, that was back after about three years.

Q. And when you worked at Neverland, were you still working at Havenhurst?

A. When I still working --

Q. I’m sorry?

A. -- at Neverland?

Q. Yes. Let me rephrase the question. When you were working for Mr. Jackson at Neverland - okay? - were you still doing work at the home on Havenhurst?

A. No.

Q. You were working full time at Neverland then, right?

A. No.

Q. No?

A. I would go to the hideout.

Q. Okay.

A. And sometime he will tell me to go to Havenhurst to get stuff, or retrieve something, or --

Q. So when you were living at Neverland and working at Neverland, you still would sometimes go to Havenhurst, right?

A. Yes. Sometimes.

Q. But most of the time you did your work at Neverland, right?

A. Neverland and the hideout.

Q. Okay. Okay. Now, Mr. Jackson was very generous to you, wasn’t he?

A. Yes.

Q. He gave you a couple of televisions; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you would also ask him from time to time if you could take something, and he would often say “Yes,” right?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. What are some of the things that you asked him that you’d like to have?

A. Knickknacks. And clothes. He gave me a couple of jackets from his tour, I think. I don’t remember. It was -- there were a lot of stuff.

Q. And did he give you any cash himself?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Didn’t he give you approximately $5,000 total at one point?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Wouldn’t he give you 500 or 300 or $200 at a time?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Do you remember saying that in your deposition with Mr. Feldman?

A. Yeah. I probably did, yeah.

Q. So let me ask you what you remember.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Jackson giving you 500 or 300 or $200 at a time?

A. He probably did, but at this time I don’t remember.

Q. Okay. Do you remember saying in your deposition that, in total, he may have given you $5,000?

A. I probably did.

Q. Okay. Does that sound accurate to you?

A. Yeah, probably, I did. It wasn’t that much, probably, but I don’t remember how much he gave me.

Q. Okay. But would you ask him for cash sometimes?

A. No.

Q. Would he just volunteer and give it to you?

A. I don’t remember that, you know. I don’t --

I don’t -- I think so, but I don’t remember.

Q. Okay. I’m probably not being clear. I’m asking why Mr. Jackson gave you money. Would you ask him for money once in a while?

A. I think I did -- I don’t remember.

Q. Okay. But you do remember him giving you money from time to time, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And you’re not sure of the total, right?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And did he give you money from time to time during the entire period that you worked for him?

A. Someone -- yeah.

Q. Okay. And you don’t recall him ever saying “No” if you ever told him you needed some money, did he?

A. No.

Q. Okay. He always was generous with you with money, wasn’t he?

A. Yeah. Yes.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, your deposition was taken in 1993, right? Do you remember that?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Okay.

A. But I think it was ‘94. I don’t remember.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you the transcript with a date on it? Would that help you remember?

A. I mean, I’ll read it and -- I know that it was that, but I don’t remember.

Q. If you saw the transcript, might that help you remember? Would you like to see it?

A. Yeah. I mean, you can put whatever that you want to and I will say probably.

Q. No, I don’t want to do that. Would it help refresh your recollection --

A. No.

Q. -- if I just show you the date on the deposition?

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, I’d be prepared to stipulate to the two dates of the transcript.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Sure.

MR. ZONEN: And the first date is December 15, 1993.

MR. SNEDDON: Can’t hear you.

MR. ZONEN: The first date --

MR. SNEDDON: Turn it on.

MR. ZONEN: We make this complicated, don’t we?

The first date is December 15, 1993. The date of the second day of the deposition was January 11, 1994. I would so stipulate.

MR. MESEREAU: So stipulated.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll approve that stipulation.

THE WITNESS: I do remember ‘94. But I don’t remember the dates.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Okay. Do you remember in your deposition saying you had never seen Mr. Jackson touch anyone improperly?

A. Yeah, I --

Q. Do you remember saying you never saw him touch anyone?

A. Yeah.

Q. You did say that, didn’t you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And in that deposition, you told the truth, right?

A. As -- as I recall it at that time, yeah.

Q. You told the truth at that time, right?

A. As I remember it.

Q. Yes. And you were under oath, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And you said that you had never seen Michael Jackson touch anyone in a sexual way, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And you said at no time while you worked for Michael Jackson did you ever see him have sexual contact with anyone, right?

A. When I say “sexual,” I mean sexual.

Q. But you did say under oath that you had never saw Mr. Jackson have sexual contact with anyone, right?

A. No. No.

Q. Isn’t that what you said?

A. Yeah, yeah, that’s what I said.

Q. Okay. Now, you mentioned that Mr. Jackson has a Jacuzzi, right?

A. Where at? At the Havenhurst?

Q. Well, let’s start with Havenhurst.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson have a Jacuzzi at Havenhurst?

A. Yes.

Q. And just tell the jury where the Jacuzzi was, please.

A. It’s outside his patio.
Q. Okay.
A. Outside of his bedroom.
Q. And did various family members use that Jacuzzi?
A. No.
Q. Did you ever see anyone use that Jacuzzi at Havenhurst?
A. Only Mr. Jackson.
Q. And it was outside?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Can you see that Jacuzzi from the house?
A. No.

Q. Can you see it from any windows?
A. Not from the house. From a separate -- from a separate -- from -- I think from up on the garage, you can see it, but it’s not a bedroom.
Q. Did you ever see Mr. Jackson in that Jacuzzi at Havenhurst?
A. I remember one time.
Q. One time seeing Mr. Jackson use the Jacuzzi at Havenhurst?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. But you didn’t see anyone else ever use it?
A. There was a little -- a boy there.
Q. Did you ever see his parents use the Jacuzzi?
A. Whose parents? Michael?
Q. Yeah.
A. No.
Q. Did you ever see Janet use it?
A. No.
Q. Ever see LaToya use it?
A. No.
Q. Ever see anyone use it besides Mr. Jackson?
A. No.
Q. All right. Was there a Jacuzzi at Neverland?
A. Well, inside his bedroom there is a bathroom with a Jacuzzi in it.

Q. Okay. And you saw Mr. Jackson use that Jacuzzi, didn’t you?
A. Yeah.
Q. Is it downstairs or upstairs in his bedroom area?
A. Downstairs.
Q. It’s downstairs; is that right?
A. His bedroom, yeah.
Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you questions about Mr. Robeson, okay?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And did you say that Mr. Jackson was sleeping on a bed in the lower level of his bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. You didn’t see him sleeping in the bedroom on the upper level?
A. No.
Q. And was it your belief that during the time you worked at Neverland, that Mr. Jackson only slept on the bed on the lower level?
A. Yes. There were times that the other bed was used.
Q. Okay.
A. But I never saw him in that bedroom.
Q. So you would see the bed upstairs used, but you didn’t know who had used it, right?
A. No.
Q. You would see the bed downstairs used, but you didn’t know who used it, right?

A. It was time when it was just one -- one bed was undone.
Q. Sometimes, right?
A. Sometimes.
Q. And sometimes there was a bed upstairs that seemed undone, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And you were responsible for making both beds, right?
A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Have you ever seen Mr. Jackson lying on his bed watching television?

A. Yeah. A couple of times.

Q. How many times did you see Mr. Jackson lying on his bed watching television?

A. Probably a couple of times.

Q. And you would see him watch videos also, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were you often in Mr. Jackson's room when he was watching television?

A. No.

Q. You typically cleaned his room when he wasn't there, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Is that true?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was your understanding that you were supposed to clean his room when he wasn't in there, right?

A. No.

Q. Was it your understanding that you weren't supposed to go in when Mr. Jackson was in the room?

A. Yeah. Sometimes I'll unlock his room and he'll be there, and he tell me that it was okay to come in.

Q. Okay. And sometimes you would unlock his door, he'd ask you not to come in, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Most of the time when you cleaned his room at Neverland, he wasn't in it, right?

A. Most of the time when he wasn't in?

Q. Let me rephrase. Let me rephrase. During the time you worked at Neverland, most of the time when you cleaned his room, he wasn't in there, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. You okay? Do you want some water?

A. Huh?

Q. Do you want some water?

A. No, that's okay.

Q. Was it your understanding that when you cleaned Mr. Jackson's room you were usually supposed to do it when he wasn't around?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. Okay. And if you opened the door and he was in there, you would ask for permission to come in, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, his bedroom is a very big area, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. How would you describe it?

A. Big.

Q. Very big, isn't it?

A. Uh-huh. Yeah.

Q. And how do you get into his bedroom? If you're going -- let me rephrase it. If you're going into Mr. Jackson's room, what do you have to do to get in?

A. Open the door with a key.

Q. Okay. And is that what you would typically do?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there any kind of a bell that would ring?

A. Yes.

Q. And would the bell always ring when you entered?

A. Yeah. But it -- it doesn't have a -- you know, it would ring just once.

Q. Right. Just one ring?

A. And then close, yeah.

Q. Would you then stop it? Would you shut the bell off?

A. I used to unplug it.

Q. You unplugged it. Okay. So you'd hear a ring, and then you would unplug it; is that right?

A. Well, you have to unplug it from the inside of the bedroom.

Q. So you'd open the door, right, with a key?

A. Yeah.
Q. The bell would go off, and then you would unplug it, right?
A. When I was there by myself, I used to unplug it.
Q. Okay. Okay. And then it would stop ringing, right?
A. And it would stop ringing, yeah.
Q. And then you would do your cleaning, right? Is that right?
A. No.
Q. Tell me what --
A. I’ll get there --
Q. Yes.
A. -- and then -- once I get there, I unplug it, because when people get close to it, it rings. But it rings, and then it rings one time, it doesn’t ring anymore.
Q. Okay. Okay. To stop it from ringing, you would unplug it?

A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. Okay. All right. Now, do you know who Quincy Jones is?
A. Yes.
Q. And who’s Quincy Jones?
A. A writer, I think.
Q. Okay. And his daughter used to visit Michael, right?
A. At Havenhurst.
MR. ZONEN: Beyond the scope of the direct, and irrelevant.
THE COURT: Overruled. Go ahead.
THE WITNESS: At Havenhurst?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Yes.
A. I think she was there a couple of times.
Q. Her name was Kidada, right?
A. I don’t know.
Q. But you saw her visit Michael, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever see -- do you know who Lionel Ritchie is?
A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see his daughter visit the Jacksons?
A. Not at Havenhurst.
Q. Okay. Did you see her visit Michael?
A. Him I remember visiting.

Q. You remember him visiting Michael. You don’t remember his daughter?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Before you testified today, did you meet with any prosecutor to discuss what you were going to be asked?
A. Yeah.
Q. And when did that meeting take place?
A. Saturday.
Q. And who did you meet with?
A. I don’t remember his name.
Q. Pardon me?
A. Ron, I think.
Q. Prosecutor Zonen?
A. And another one.
Q. Okay. And how long did the meeting take place?
A. Couple of hours.
Q. And how many people were there meeting with you?
A. Just the two of them.
Q. Did they tell you what they were going to ask you in court?
A. They -- they went to what I say before.
Q. Did they discuss the questions they were going to ask you today?
A. Kinda.
Q. And did they discuss your answers with you?

A. No. They told me about, you know, what I say in my deposition before, and if I remember, and there was stuff that I didn’t remember.
Q. Did they give you a copy of your deposition to look at?
A. No.
Q. Did they appear to be reading from your deposition?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did they have any documents they showed you?

A. Yeah. They gave me a paper of things that I say when I talk to another detective.

Q. Okay.

A. Not -- not at my deposition.

Q. Okay. So it was a paper that they gave you to look at?

A. Yeah.

Q. And what was on that paper, if you remember?

A. When I talked to the other detectives, they came, you know, at the beginning.

Q. Okay.

A. The first time.

Q. Do you remember meeting with a lawyer named Larry Feldman?

A. Yes.

Q. And you met with Larry Feldman before your deposition was taken, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And he came out to see you, didn't he? Let me rephrase it. Maybe you don't understand.

A. Yeah, I understand.

Q. You do?

A. But I don't remember. Yeah, I think he did. He came to my house, I think.

Q. He came to your house, didn't he?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. And he wanted to speak to you before your deposition was taken by him, right?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Okay. And obviously that was quite a while ago, right? Was that around 1993 sometime?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you remember how much time Larry Feldman spent with you?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember if it was a long time?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Was that the only time you met with Attorney Larry Feldman?

A. No. Then I was taken to L.A., and I --

Q. Did you meet with him again?

A. Yeah, for the deposition.

Q. Okay. And he was giving you some advice during the deposition, wasn't he?

A. I don't remember. I don't think so.

Q. Didn't he advise you from time to time during that deposition?

A. I don't remember. There were a lot of people talking to me at that one.

Q. And he was one of them talking to you, wasn't he?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said that deposition went more than a day, right?

A. Yeah. It was twice.

Q. Okay. And was it after that deposition that you first spoke to an attorney named Terry Cannon?

A. That was -- that was after. After when Mr. Cochran told me that my son was going to be subpoenaed and I would have to bring him.

Q. Okay. And then you went to hire an attorney, correct?

A. Then I -- yeah, then I talked to Terry.

Q. Okay. And has he been your lawyer ever since?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Has he been your son's lawyer ever since?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. When did you last talk to Terry Cannon?

A. I think it was December or November. I don't remember. It was in December.

Q. Last December?

A. Last December.

Q. Okay. Okay. And do you remember having a meeting with Prosecutor Zonen and Terry Cannon last year?

A. On December? It was -- Zonen? I don’t know his last name. He was a tall guy.
Q. Prosecutor Zonen, who you see right here --
A. Oh.
Q. -- do you remember meeting with him?
A. Oh. Yeah, I think he was -- he was there, too. That’s when they gave me that deposition.
Q. Okay. Okay. In your deposition, you said that you had never seen Mr. Jackson molest a child, right?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: In your deposition, you said under oath you had never seen Mr. Jackson molest a child, right?
A. Molest a child? No. Yeah, I say that.
Q. Okay. Was it after that deposition that you were interviewed by Hard Copy?
A. No.
Q. It was before?
A. Oh, before I met with him, with -- at my deposition? No, that interview was before.
Q. So the interview with Hard Copy was before the deposition --

A. Yes.
Q. -- right?
And that’s the interview you were paid $20,000 --
A. Yes.
Q. -- to do, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And that’s the interview that you had your friend Evangeline help you arrange, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And then after you were paid, you said you paid her some money, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. Okay. Did you ever talk to anyone from The National Enquirer?
A. No.
Q. Is Hard Copy the only media --
A. Yeah.

Q. -- group that you ever met with?

A. Yeah. I guess someone tried to -- someone contacted me from National Enquirer, I think, and from Los Angeles Time.

Q. In your deposition, you said the people from Hard Copy are not honest, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. When did you last talk to anyone from Hard Copy?

A. When did I -- recently?

Q. Let me rephrase it.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. After your interview with Hard Copy, did you ever talk to them again?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did you tell Attorney Larry Feldman that you were going to be interviewed by Hard Copy?

A. No.

Q. And Evangeline worked at Neverland, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell anyone else who worked at Neverland, besides Evangeline, that you were going to be paid to interview with Hard Copy?

A. No. Not that I remember.

Q. Now, at some point you learned -- let me rephrase that, excuse me. Let me start again. After your interview with Hard Copy appeared on television - okay? - at some point you learned that other employees at Neverland now wanted to be paid to go on television to talk about Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Did I know that?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. After you hired a lawyer --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- you learned that other employees at

Neverland started hiring lawyers, right?

MR. ZONEN: I'll object. Lack of foundation; speculative.

THE WITNESS: I don’t remember that.

THE COURT: Wait.

The objection’s overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you learn at some point after your Hard Copy interview was on television, that now other people who worked for Michael Jackson were hoping they could make money doing media interviews like you did?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; speculative.

THE WITNESS: No, I didn’t know that.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you discuss your Hard Copy interview with anyone besides Evangeline at Neverland?

A. I don’t remember, no.

Q. Okay.

A. No.

Q. Okay. Who did you work for at Neverland?

A. Did I work for?

Q. Besides Mr. Jackson. I mean, who did you work -- let me rephrase it.

Obviously you worked for Mr. Jackson, but did you report to other people?

A. Did I report to other people? Oh.

Q. As part of your job.

A. I was working as part of the household, housekeepers.

Q. And who did you work with; do you remember?

A. The workers? I don’t remember their names.

But I -- I --

Q. Okay. Now, the Hard Copy interview was in 1993, right?

A. Yes.

Q. It was in December of 1993, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you stopped working in 1991, right?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. So after you left -- after you stopped working for Mr. Jackson, you stayed in touch with some people who worked for Mr. Jackson, right?

A. No.

Q. What about Evangeline?

A. But she wasn’t working there no more.
Q. When did she stop?
A. Before me.
Q. Was she in touch with people at Neverland?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; speculation.
MR. MESEREAU: To your knowledge.
THE WITNESS: Not that I know.
MR. ZONEN: There’s an objection.
THE COURT: To her knowledge. I’ll limit it. She answered no, not that she knows.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you talk to any representative of the media before you had your deposition taken?

A. Did I -- did I talk --
Q. I’m -- yes, let me rephrase it.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And if I’m unclear, just tell me, and I’ll try and say it again.
You said your interview with Hard Copy was after the deposition, right?
A. No. It was before.
Q. It was before. Okay. How long before it, if you know?
A. About a month.
Q. Okay. Did you discuss the fact that you were going to be interviewed by Hard Copy with any attorney?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Do you remember Evangeline saying to you, “Would you like to go to The National Enquirer”?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Pardon me?
A. I don’t remember. I remember a guy called me, but he never told me that someone refer me or --
Q. But didn’t Evangeline suggest that you call The National Enquirer?
A. No.
Q. She didn’t? She didn’t ask you, “Do you want me to find The Enquirer?”

A. I don’t remember that, no.
Q. Would it refresh your memory if I just show you a transcript --
A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- of your deposition?
A. Oh, okay.
Q. Can I do that?
A. Yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?
MR. MESEREAU: 208.
Q. Have you had a chance to look at that page?
A. No. Oh.
(Laughter.)
Q. You’ve had a chance to look at the page, right?
A. Did I what?
Q. Have you had a chance to read that page of your deposition?
A. Before today?
Q. No, no, today.
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. Okay. I just showed you the page, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Have you had a chance to look at it?
A. Yeah.

Q. And does it refresh your memory about what Evangeline said to you?
A. You know, tell you the truth, I probably did at that time. And I remember at the time, but this time I don’t remember.
Q. Okay.
BAILIFF CORTEZ: Ma’am, speak into the mike.
THE WITNESS: Oops.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Didn’t you tell Evangeline that you were willing to talk to The Enquirer?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. Would it refresh your recollection just to look at the page?
A. No.
Q. It wouldn’t? So even if you read the page, it won’t help, do you think?

A. It won’t help me.

Q. Okay. Okay. But you don’t remember what you said to Evangeline about talking to The Enquirer?

A. I don’t even remember the whole sit -- I don’t remember.

Q. Okay.

A. It was a lot -- at that time, you know, it was --

Q. Evangeline called Hard Copy for you, right?

A. Uh-huh. Yeah, I think so.

Q. And she did it for you, right?

A. Yeah, I think she did.

Q. You wanted her to find a way to communicate with Hard Copy, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And you wanted to talk to either Hard Copy or The Enquirer, right?

A. I don’t remember if it was either of them, but I remember that I say yeah.

Q. Okay. Okay.

A. Because I think they approach her first, someone approach her. And she said, “Well, they want to talk to you, too.” That’s what I got.

Q. Did you have an understanding with Evangeline that if she arranged these interviews for you, that you would pay her?

A. That I would pay her?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did you believe she was just doing it as a friend?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. So you didn’t have any arrangement with her that you would split the money, right?

A. No.

Q. You gave her some money later on because you appreciated what she had done for you, right?

A. Yeah. Yeah, because of the trouble that she was going -- you know, she did, yeah.

Q. Okay. So you gave her money as a friend, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. There was no understanding before the interview with her how much she would get?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Okay. Now, Evangeline told you that she had reached Diane Dimond of Hard Copy, right; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. And Evangeline arranged for you to meet with Diane Dimond, right?
A. Yes.
Q. How many meetings did you have with Diane Dimond with Hard Copy?
A. I think it was just one.
Q. Do you remember going to the Hilton Hotel?
A. My -- yes.
Q. Is that where you saw Diane Dimond during a meeting?
A. Yes.
Q. And that’s the meeting Evangeline went with you to, right?
A. Yes.
Q. You told Diane Dimond during that interview that you never told anyone that you had ever seen Michael Jackson molesting boys, right?
A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. And it was Evangeline that negotiated how much money you were going to get, right?
A. Yes.
Q. You learned that you were going to get $20,000 from Evangeline, right?
A. From Hard Copy.
Q. Yeah.
A. Not from Evangeline.
Q. Let me rephrase it to make sure you understand.
A. Yeah.
Q. You learned from Evangeline that you were going to get $20,000 for the interview with Hard Copy, right?

A. Yeah.
Q. Is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Evangeline was supposed to speak to Hard Copy about the money you were going to get, right?
A. Yes.
Q. So she was really your assistant, wasn’t she?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. If you remember, how long was the meeting at the Hilton Hotel with Diane Dimond?
A. About three hours, probably.
Q. Okay. Were there other people at that meeting as well?

A. I don’t remember. I don’t think so.
Q. Do you know if you were given a contract to sign?
A. I signed it, but I don’t remember at what time I did, if it was during that time or after the interview.
Q. But you did sign the contract with Hard Copy --
A. Yeah.
Q. -- right?
A. Yes.
Q. How did you get that contract?
A. How did I what?
Q. How did you get a copy of that contract?
A. I guess they give it to me.
Q. Okay. Did Miss Dimond give it to you directly or did Evangeline give it to you?
A. No.
Q. Pardon me?
A. Miss Dimond gave it to me, I think.
Q. At the meeting?
A. I don’t remember. It was during the -- in the room.
Q. Okay. And you were asked to sign that contract in that room before you left, right?
A. Yeah, I guess so.
Q. Is that what you remember?

A. That’s what I remember. I don’t know.

Q. Okay. Okay. The day after you were interviewed by Hard Copy, Miss Dimond called you again, right?
A. The day after?
Q. Yes. The day after your interview with Hard Copy, Ms. Dimond called you again, right?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay.
A. I don’t remember her calling me, but I don’t remember if it was the next day or --
Q. Do you remember her wanting pictures of Michael Jackson?
A. Yeah.
Q. Ms. Dimond wanted you to get her pictures of Mr. Jackson, right?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Do you remember that?
A. I think I give it to her, but I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. Do you remember saying to Ms. Dimond you don’t have pictures of Michael Jackson?
A. I don’t -- ask that --
Q. I’m sorry, I may not be explaining it properly. Let me just rephrase the question. I’ll withdraw the question.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. The day after you interviewed with Hard Copy, Miss Dimond called you on the phone, right?

A. I don’t remember.
Q. Well, after the interview with Hard Copy, do you remember at some point in time Miss Dimond called you?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. Do you remember Miss Dimond ever asking you to get her pictures of Michael Jackson?
A. I don’t remember, but I give it to her sometimes. Or one time, I guess, she got some pictures of him.
Q. And was that part of your contract with the show Hard Copy, that you would give them pictures?

A. Yeah -- yes.
Q. Okay. And when they paid you $20,000, was part of what you had to do to give them pictures?
A. Yes. I guess.
Q. Do you remember sending any pictures of Mr. Jackson’s animals to Hard Copy?
A. I think all the pictures I got, I give her, it was me with animals, probably. But it was me mostly. Not of animals.
Q. Did you send pictures of Mr. Jackson’s lion?
A. No.
Q. How about his tiger?
A. Not -- I was in the picture, but it wasn’t by itself of the --
Q. Okay.
A. -- tiger.

Q. You gave Ms. Dimond a picture of your son with Mr. Jackson, right?
A. With Mr. Jackson? I don’t remember, but I -- no, I don’t remember.
Q. Would it refresh if I just show you the transcript of your deposition?
A. Uh-huh.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. ZONEN: Page number, Counsel?
MR. MESEREAU: 231.
MR. ZONEN: 231?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to review that page of your deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. And you said under oath during the deposition that you gave Ms. Dimond a picture of your son and Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And you could -- you didn’t think people would notice your son on the show, right?
A. Yeah. Probably. Probably, yes.
Q. You said in the deposition you didn’t think anybody would recognize who your son was on the Hard Copy show, right?

A. Yeah. Probably I said that.
Q. That’s what you said, right?

A. I probably -- yes.
Q. Okay. Now, at some point, you called Diane Dimond and she didn’t return your calls, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. You called her because you thought she had lied, right?
A. She had lied?
Q. Yes.
A. I didn’t like -- I thought that -- that Hard Copy interview thing was going to be shown on Hard Copy, and then I see my pictures everywhere, and even in The National Enquirer, and that’s what I thought that it was. You know, I didn’t know that they can sell the story to someone else. That’s how I felt.
Q. Do you remember telling Ms. Dimond that you had other pictures from Neverland Ranch --
A. I don’t remember.
Q. -- that you could get? Do you remember that?
A. No, I don’t remember.
Q. Do you remember Miss Dimond telling you she could send a messenger to get other pictures that you had of Mr. Jackson?
A. I don’t remember that.
Q. Okay. You gave Ms. Dimond pictures of Mr. Jackson after your interview, right?
A. I don’t remember.

Q. You don’t remember if you gave the pictures before or after the interview?
A. No, no, no. After -- of Mr. Jackson? No.
Q. Okay. I’m asking you when you gave pictures to Miss Dimond. Was it before the interview or after it?
A. Oh. I think it was after.
Q. The prosecutor asked you questions about Wade Robeson. Okay?

A. Uh-huh. Yes.

Q. Do you remember saying in your deposition that you saw Mr. Robeson sleeping in Mr. Jackson’s bed?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember you were asked how many times you saw that, and you said, “Maybe twice”?

A. I don’t remember that I say that, but I think that’s what it was.

Q. Maybe twice?

A. I remember -- I don’t remember what I say at the time, but I think that was the time -- I mean, that was the times.

Q. So you think you saw Mr. Robeson in Mr. Jackson’s bed maybe twice?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you think you saw Mr. Jackson in a shower with Mr. Robeson one time, right?

A. Yes.

Q. But you said the shower was fogged up and you couldn’t really see, right?

A. I saw the figure.

Q. You saw the figure. And you heard a lot of laughing, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you thought they were playing, right?

A. Yes.

Q. In your deposition, you said under oath you couldn’t tell whether they were touching each other or not, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you remember meeting Joy Robeson, who is Mr. Robeson’s mother?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you first meet Joy Robeson?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Do you know about when it was, what year?

A. No.

Q. Okay. You told the jury that you walked into the door at the hideout apartment and saw your son on Mr. Jackson’s lap one time, right?

A. Not at the hideout.

Q. Where was it?
A. Havenhurst.
Q. Okay. And you said your son was reading a book?
A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. Is that right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. The prosecutor asked you questions about finding money in your son’s pants, right?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. You found the money in his pockets, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you ever seen that Hard Copy interview that you did?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Has anyone from the prosecution tried to show it to you?
A. No.
Q. No? Okay.
A. I saw little hints. One day I got home and they were showing, you know, like little parts, what they going to show the next day. That’s what I saw.
Q. Okay. Do you remember stating that you thought Michael Jackson was very childlike?
A. Yeah. Yes.
Q. He very often acted like a child, in your mind, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember saying that he would let his chimpanzee sleep in his room?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember that?
A. Yeah.

Q. The chimpanzee’s name was “Bubbles,” right?
A. Yes.
Q. And Bubbles would sometimes stay in Mr. Jackson’s room, right?
A. Yes.
Q. You talked about Bubbles wearing a diaper, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You said the monkey didn’t like the diaper, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you would often clean after the monkey was in Mr. Jackson’s room, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You said at one time Bubbles got too old and then there was another monkey, right? Right?

A. I remember -- I don’t remember about the other monkey, but it was Bubbles.

Q. Mr. Jackson and a lot of children used to play with the monkey, didn’t they?

A. At Havenhurst he only had Bubbles.

Q. Okay. But children would come and play with the monkey, wouldn’t they?

A. Not at Havenhurst. Just one time.

Q. Where would you see Bubbles?

A. At Havenhurst, I think.

Q. Okay. Did you ever see Bubbles at Neverland?

A. I don’t remember. I think it was bigger at that time.

Q. Okay. But he was at Neverland, right?

A. He was at Neverland? I don’t remember.

Q. Okay. Okay. But you would often at Neverland see Mr. Jackson playing with kids, right?

A. Yes.

Q. He would play with kids all the time, wouldn’t he?

A. Yes.

Q. And kids would often visit Neverland, right? Is that true?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you -- excuse me, let me rephrase that. Do you remember a dance room where Mr. Jackson used to do dance routines?

A. A what?

Q. I’m sorry. Let me rephrase it. Do you remember a dance room --

A. Oh, a dance room, yeah.

Q. -- where Mr. Jackson used to practice dance routines?

A. Where at? Neverland?

Q. Anywhere.

A. Yes.

Q. Where was the dance room?

A. Behind the theater.

Q. At Neverland, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you used to see Mr. Jackson go there and practice dance, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. You also saw Mr. Jackson teaching children to dance, right?

A. Playing with the kids.

Q. Yes.

A. Yeah.

Q. And he used to teach children how he dances, right?

A. I don’t know if it was the children, but I see him with the kids.

Q. Okay. In the dance room, right?

A. In the dance room, yeah.

Q. Okay. Have you ever discussed your son’s claim that Mr. Jackson improperly touched him with your son? Have you ever had a discussion about that?

A. At one time, back in ‘94.

Q. Okay. You talked to your son about what he said --

A. I’m --

Q. I’m sorry, go ahead.

A. I say, “What’s going on?” And he say, “I just don’t want to talk about it.”

Q. This was in 1994?

A. ‘94, I think so.

Q. Have you ever discussed with your son his claims about Mr. Jackson?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. No. I -- I ask him that I was going to ask his counselor.

Q. Okay.

A. And he say no.

Q. Okay. So you've never discussed --

A. No.

Q. -- your son's claims with him?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Have you had a meeting with Prosecutor Sneddon?

A. Yeah, one time.

Q. And approximately when was that?

A. '93, I think.

Q. Okay. Have you met with Mr. Sneddon since 1993?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Have you had any meetings with any sheriffs to discuss your testimony?

A. Other than -- no.

Q. Okay. Have you ever had a meeting with any sheriff about what you're going to say today?

A. Other than Saturday, that, you know, they told me that I was going to come here.

Q. Okay. Okay. Was any lawyer at that meeting?

A. No.

Q. Okay.

THE COURT: Shall we take our break?

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Miss Francia, I'd like to ask you some questions about the deposition you gave on January 11th, 1994, okay?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Before you attended that deposition, you had been asked to bring the contract you had with Hard Copy with you to the deposition, right?

MR. ZONEN: I'm going to object as irrelevant.

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, I believe the prosecutor introduced the subject of Hard Copy.

MR. ZONEN: Not a contract.

THE COURT: The objection’s overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember that? Let me rephrase it.

A. Okay.

Q. Before you appeared at a sworn deposition on January 11th, 1994, you had been asked to bring a copy of the contract you had with Hard Copy to the deposition, right?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Do you remember at that deposition, you said you had destroyed the contract?

A. I don’t remember what I said or --

Q. Do you remember saying you’d gotten rid of it?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you the transcript?

A. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Miss Francia, have you had a chance to review those deposition pages?

A. Did I have a -- had I had a chance? No.

Q. I’m sorry, no. I just showed you some pages from the deposition, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have a chance to review that portion of the page that I showed you?

A. I haven’t read any of the deposition paper.

Q. Okay. Did you just read it when I showed it to you?

A. Yes.

Q. And does it remind you that you said you had gotten rid of the contract?

A. Yeah, I probably did.

Q. Okay. Do you remember saying that in the deposition?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Okay. Did you get rid of that contract at some point?
A. Yeah, I don’t have it anymore. Yeah, I don’t have it.
Q. Did you throw it out?
A. I think I -- yeah, I think I threw it away, or --
Q. Did you throw it out before the deposition of January 1994?
A. Yeah, I think I destroy -- I destroyed it.
Q. Okay. Do you remember stating in that deposition that you showed the contract to Larry Feldman?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember showing that contract to Attorney Larry Feldman?
A. No, I don’t remember.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the deposition page?
A. Yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Miss Francia, have you had a chance to look at that page of your deposition?
A. No.

Q. Okay. I just showed you a page of your deposition --
A. Oh, just now, yeah.
Q. Did you have a chance to read that page?
A. Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about your saying you let Larry Feldman see the contract?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. You don’t remember showing it to Larry Feldman?
A. No.
Q. Okay. And you met with Larry Feldman, what, twice?
A. Well, first it was here in Santa Maria. He came down.
Q. Okay.
A. And then I met with him when I went there twice.

Q. So is that three meetings you had with Attorney Larry Feldman?
A. Yes.
Q. And that would be in the early 1990s, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Did you go to him to get some advice?
A. No.
Q. Did you talk to him about what you were going to say on television?
A. No.

Q. You've talked to Santa Barbara Sheriff Russ Birchim a number of times, haven't you?
A. Russ Bir -- it was from Santa Barbara, but I don't remember the name.
Q. Do you know a Santa Barbara sheriff named Russ Birchim?
A. Russ --
Q. Do you know a Santa Barbara sheriff named Russ Birchim?
A. I don't remember the name of it, but it was a detective or sheriff.
Q. Do you remember when your son Jason first spoke to any police officer about what he claims happened with Michael Jackson?
A. I remember one of the times, but I don't know which time it was.
Q. At your deposition, you said that you went on Hard Copy after your son spoke to the police, right?
A. I don't remember if it was before or after.
Q. Okay. Would it refresh your recollection to just show you --
A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- the deposition?
May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page from your sworn deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it remind you that your son had talked to the police before you went on Hard Copy?
A. It doesn’t -- I don’t remember.
Q. Okay. Did you know your son was going to speak to any police officer about Mr. Jackson?
A. No.
Q. It happened without you knowing about it?
A. I didn’t know he was -- they were going to talk to him.
Q. Do you have any idea why the police wanted to talk to your son at that point in time?
A. No, I don’t remember. I think when they first talked to him, they came to the house and asked me if they could talk to him, but I don’t remember when was this.
Q. Do you know who told the police anything about your son?
A. I think they -- someone told me that they needed to talk to my son, or they need to talk to me about my son.
Q. Do you know if Larry Feldman, the attorney, contacted the police about your son?
A. No, I don’t know.
Q. Now, you worked approximately five years at the Havenhurst address, right?
A. Altogether --
MR. ZONEN: Misstatement of evidence; objection.

THE WITNESS: Altogether --
THE COURT: Just a moment.
I sustain the objection, Counsel.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
Q. You worked for approximately two years at Neverland, right?
A. Yeah.
MR. ZONEN: Objection; misstatement of evidence.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Is that true?
THE COURT: She answered “Yes” before.
THE WITNESS: Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh, I didn’t hear her. Thank you.

Q. Now, while you were at Neverland, you reported to someone named Norma Stakos, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And who was Norma Stakos?
A. One of the secretaries. She was a secretary.
Q. A secretary to who?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Okay. And you would speak to her from time to time, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. And do you remember she talked to you in 1991 about the fact that for the third time your wages had been garnished by a creditor?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; irrelevant.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. ZONEN: And hearsay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ask Miss Stakos on behalf of Mr. Jackson to help you with any bills you couldn’t pay?
A. No.
MR. ZONEN: Objection; irrelevant.
THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “No.”
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you have a discussion with Miss Stakos about the fact that she couldn’t pay you?
A. No, never did.
Q. You don’t know anything about a wage garnishment?
A. Yes.
Q. What do you know about that?
A. That --
MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as irrelevant.
MR. MESEREAU: I don’t think so, Your Honor.
THE COURT: I thought it was initially, but I changed my mind. So I’ll overrule the objection.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: What do you remember telling Miss Stakos about a wage garnishment?
A. About my taxes, not paying in time, and I need -- you know, they needed to wage - how do you call that? - take money out of my paycheck.

Q. Did Miss Stakos help you with that?

A. Well, she was the payroll, so she’s the one who took it off of my paycheck. But she never gave me money, or anybody gave me money to pay that.

Q. Do you remember you owed money to a store called Dearden’s?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And they were trying to garnish your wages, right?

A. Uh-huh. Yeah.

Q. And did you -- you asked Miss Stakos to help you straighten that out, right?

A. Not to straighten it, but to -- you know, just to pay off of my check.

Q. Okay. And did she work with you on that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And she did that for you on a couple of other occasions, right?

A. I remember two times. And I don’t remember more than that.

Q. Okay. And she had a problem at one point because you had a phony Social Security number, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And she helped you straighten that out, right?

A. No.

Q. You eventually got a proper Social Security number?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. But you did discuss that with Miss Stakos, right?

A. I don’t remember. But they knew that I was illegal, and Mr. Bray wanted to help me to get my papers.

Q. Okay. And that got straightened out, didn’t it?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. Did you know someone named Gayle

Goforth?

A. Yeah.

Q. And who was Gayle Goforth?

A. The housekeeper. One of the housekeepers. The head housekeeper of the house.

Q. And did you work with her?

A. Yes.

Q. For how long did you work with her?

A. Probably a year, a year and a half. Maybe a year.

Q. And at one point you admitted going into her purse, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And you went into her purse to see how much she was being paid, right?

A. Her purse was on top of the -- our desk, and she have her check on top of it.

Q. And you admitted going into her purse, right?

A. Yes.

Q. The purpose was to see what she was being paid, wasn’t it?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

A. I admitted to Mr. Jackson.

Q. Excuse me?

A. I told Mr. Jackson about it.

Q. Yes. And he -- he didn’t get you in any trouble or anything, did he?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Now, you got a coffee table from Mr. Jackson, didn’t you?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was a beautiful oak table, right?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. And where did that come from?

A. From Havenhurst.

Q. Okay. Did you ask for that?

A. Yes.

Q. And he said you could have it, didn’t he?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you ask him for the watch that you described before?

A. No.

Q. How did you end up with the watch?

A. I think it was one of the boxes that he get -- he get stuff from the companies, and I got it from there.

Q. Okay. And at some point did you tell Mr. Jackson you had taken a watch?

A. No, he saw it on me. I show it to him.

Q. And he had no problem with that, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And you indicated that he used to let you take lots of things from time to time, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And a lot of those things, I think you described as samples; is that correct?

A. Samples, and gifts, and things that he get from -- for himself.

Q. The oak coffee table had a signature on it, didn’t it?

A. A signature? Of him?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Didn’t it have a signature of him?

A. No.

Q. You tried to sell that at one point, right?

A. No.

Q. Still have it?

A. Yeah, it’s in the garage somewhere.

Q. Okay. When you left Neverland, who did you report to to tell them that you were leaving?

A. Who did I report?

Q. Yes.

A. I mean, I quit. I just --

Q. Yeah. When you quit, who did you go to and say, “I quit”?

A. I told that lady who was working there at that time. Gayle.

Q. And did you give her one day’s notice?

A. No.

Q. How much notice did you give?
A. No notice.
Q. Okay. You just left, right?
A. I just left.
Q. Okay. Now, on a couple of occasions you got in trouble for not doing your time card properly, correct?
A. A lot of occasions.
Q. Huh?
A. A lot of occasions for being late.
Q. Yes, you got in trouble for being late, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And you got in trouble for not properly doing your time card, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. But Mr. Jackson never yelled at you or did anything mean to you, did he?

A. No. No.
Q. But you didn’t get along with some of the help, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. You didn’t get along with Gayle Goforth, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. She’s the one whose purse you went into, right?
A. Yes.
Q. You and she just didn’t get along, right?
A. In the beginning we got along very nice.
Q. Do you remember complaints that you wouldn’t let anybody get near Mr. Jackson?
A. That I would get --
Q. Do you remember --
MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as hearsay --
THE WITNESS: That I would get --
MR. ZONEN: -- and vague.
THE COURT: Just a moment.
The objection’s overruled.
Do you want the question read back? Do you want me to repeat the question for you?
THE WITNESS: Yes, please.

THE COURT: I'll have the court reporter do it.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: No.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Never heard of that?

A. Complaints that I wouldn't let anybody?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. On the staff at Neverland?

A. Probably that I was the one allowed in his room, that I was -- I just wanted to do that --

Q. Okay.

A. -- myself.

Q. So you basically wouldn't let other people on the staff get near his room?

A. Yeah.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; misstatement of evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, "Yeah."

THE WITNESS: Because he told me that. He told me not to let anyone in his room.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you about the nickname "Rubba," okay?

A. Yes.

Q. "Rubba" is short for "Rubber Head," right?

A. I don't know.

Q. You never heard that?

A. I don't know.

Q. Okay.

A. I never hear that before.

Q. And Mr. Jackson used to call his cousins, Levon and Elijah, "Rubba," right?

A. He call the kids "Rubba," yeah.

Q. He also called kids "Rubber Head," or "Rubba," right?

A. Yeah.

Q. He'd also use "Apple Head," right?

A. I don't know.

Q. He'd use "Doo-Doo Head," right?

A. Yeah. I think I hear that one time.
Q. Okay. But it’s certainly a term that he used quite often, isn’t it?
A. “Rubba,” yeah.
Q. He used it on lots -- he used it for lots of children, including his own cousins, didn’t he?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. When is the last time you talked to Larry Feldman?
A. After the -- I mean, the last time I went over there and testified, or for the subpoena.
Q. So that was quite a while ago?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. Okay. Now, the prosecutor asked you questions about what you said in the deposition about what you could see in the shower, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And in the deposition you said under oath that all you could see was a shadow, right?

A. Yeah.
Q. Was that the truth?
A. A shadow, an image, yeah.
Q. That’s all you could see --
A. Yeah.
Q. -- in the shower, correct?
A. I hear two voices.
Q. You heard giggling and laughing, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And all you could see was a shadow through the glass?
A. The glass, yes.
Q. And that’s because the glass was fogged up, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. You only saw one person in the shower, right?
A. I saw him in the shower and the little kid.
Q. But in your deposition you said you could only see one person, but you heard giggling, right?
A. Yeah, but I hear two people --
Q. You heard two people. You could only see one through the glass, right?

A. Mostly, yeah. Mostly.

Q. Do you remember you were asked in your deposition, “Did you hear anything else other than Michael laughing?” And you said, “No”?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was that the truth?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember in the deposition saying you never saw anyone else in the shower but Mr. Jackson?

A. I don’t think I say that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the transcript?

A. Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. ZONEN: Page?

MR. MESEREAU: 401.

Q. Have you had a chance to look at that page of the deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your memory about what you said about the shower?

A. Yeah.

Q. You saw one person, Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Or it looked like him through the glass, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And the only voice you really heard was Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. No.

Q. That wasn’t correct?

A. I hear two -- two.

Q. You heard laughter?

A. Laughing and --

Q. And that was at Neverland, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You’ve seen Mr. Jackson in his Jacuzzi, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You've seen him playing in his Jacuzzi, correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. You've never seen him molesting anyone in his Jacuzzi, right?
A. No.
Q. Let me just make sure that's phrased properly. You've never seen Mr. Jackson improperly touch anyone in his Jacuzzi?
A. No.
Q. Never saw that, right?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Have you seen Mr. Jackson at Neverland tickling and playing with children?
A. Yes.
Q. You've seen him do that often, haven't you?
A. Playing, yeah. Playing a lot with the kids.
MR. ZONEN: I'll object to the compound nature of the question, "tickling and playing."
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You've seen Mr. --

MR. ZONEN: Move --
MR. MESEREAU: Oh.
MR. ZONEN: Move to strike the answer.
THE COURT: I think she clarified it in her answer.
MR. ZONEN: Okay. That's fine.
THE COURT: Go ahead, Counsel.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You've seen Mr. Jackson tickling children at Neverland, haven't you?
A. Not that I remember, no.
Q. You never saw him playing in the yard?
A. Playing in the yard, yeah. Not tickling --
MR. ZONEN: Objection to the use of "playing" and "tickling" interchangeably as compound.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. MESEREAU: All right. I'll move on.
Q. You've seen children at Neverland from an organization called Make-A-Wish Foundation, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And children from Make-A-Wish Foundation

often used to visit Neverland, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And they would crowd and climb all over Michael Jackson, right?
A. Play with him, yeah.
Q. Well, they would all just surround him, wouldn't they?

A. Yes.
Q. And you would see him play with them often, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. You would see those children running around Neverland a lot, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And Mr. Jackson used to run around with them, didn't he?
A. Yes.
Q. He used to take them to the theater to watch movies, didn't he?
A. Yes.
Q. And children would sometimes sit in his lap in the theater watching the movies, didn't they?
A. I --
Q. Did you ever see that?
A. I never see that. Because I --
Q. I'm sorry.
A. I was never there when he was there with kids.
Q. Okay. Okay. Now, have you participated in any event -- excuse me, during the time you worked at Neverland, did you participate in any large events when guests would come to Neverland?
A. In any events, like --
Q. Guests, parties, things of that sort?
A. Yeah, we used to have an employee barbecue or -- then we all would come.

Q. Do you remember any other big events at Neverland while you worked there?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember helping set up for guests who would visit?

A. Yes.
Q. That would happen a lot, wouldn’t it?
A. Yes.
Q. And when guests were going to visit Neverland, what would you do?
A. What do you mean?
Q. Yeah. What were your responsibilities when guests would visit Neverland? What kind of work would you do?
A. Help in the house, help the cooks, help to clean their bedrooms.
Q. Would you clean bedrooms other than Mr. Jackson’s?
A. Yeah, the guest rooms.
Q. And you used to see guests stay in the guest quarters from time to time, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you see Mr. Jackson’s children in the main house when you worked there?
A. If I see who?
Q. Did you ever see any children --
A. Oh.

Q. -- staying in the guest main house when you were there?
MR. ZONEN: Objection. “Guest main house”?
MR. MESEREAU: That didn’t come out too well. I withdraw that.
Q. When you worked at Neverland, did you see any children who used to stay there, besides what you’ve described?
MR. ZONEN: Stay where? Objection; vague.
MR. MESEREAU: Neverland.
THE WITNESS: Stay where, at the guest rooms?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Yes.
A. No. They will stay in the house, in the main house.
Q. Children usually stayed in the main house, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. And do you know someone named Frank Cascio?

A. Frank Cascio. No, I don’t remember.
Q. Do you know a family named “Cascio”?
A. No. I don’t remember.
Q. Do you know someone named Tyson?
A. No.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions at this time.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:
Q. Miss Francia, you told us that Mr. Jackson had mentioned to you about not letting people in his room. What exactly was it that Mr. Jackson told you in that regard?
A. Not to let people in; that people want to know about his business all the time, and not to let anybody get in there.
Q. Did he tell you people in particular?
A. No. Just everybody. Anybody.
Q. Was that something he said to you often?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you have a key to that room?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he tell you he wanted the room kept locked?
A. Yeah.
Q. During the time that you worked for him at Neverland, did you see people coming and going into his room?
A. No.
Q. During the time that you worked at Neverland, did that door stay locked fairly regularly?
A. Closed all the time.
Q. Were there ever people coming and going into his room that he did not give permission to come and go into the room?

A. No.
Q. Did Wade Robeson come and go into his room at will?

A. Yeah. Kids were allowed to go there.
Q. Other kids were allowed to come into his room?
A. Yeah.
Q. If he was there -- if he was not there, or only when he was there?
A. Kids were there when he was there.
Q. If he wasn’t there, they didn’t stay in his room?
A. They -- they never came when he wasn’t there.
Q. On those occasions that he was traveling, the “Bad” tour -- Mr. Mesereau was asking you about his travels during the “Bad” tour.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And he mentioned a period of time that exceeded a year and a half that he was on tour. Was he continuously away from California for a full year and a half, or would he come and go?
A. He’d come and go.
Q. There were times that he would return?
A. Yeah.
Q. And stay?
A. Yeah.
Q. Do you know the longest period of time that he would be away from his residence during that time?

A. Probably about three months.
Q. Three months? Was the residence both the Encino home and the hideout in L.A.?
A. It was mostly the hideout.
Q. Did that tour extend to the period of time after which he moved to Neverland Ranch, or was he completed with his tour by then; do you recall?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. You told Mr. Mesereau that you had answered a question in the deposition about seeing a shadow in the shower. What did you mean by that? What is a shadow? Tell me, what is a shadow?
A. An image.
Q. An image. All right. What did you see when you looked into that shower?

A. Mr. Jackson.

Q. All right. Did you see the shadow of Mr. Jackson, or did you see a person that looked like a shadow?

A. Through the glass.

Q. What did you see through the glass?

A. Mr. Jackson.

Q. The actual person?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. You didn’t see his shadow cast against a wall, or against the floor?

A. Huh-uh. No.

Q. All right. So what did you mean by the word “shadow”?

A. His image.

Q. His image. That’s what he looked like?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. And was the door blurred during that time?

A. Yeah.

MR. ZONEN: Excuse me. These are all next in order, please.

Q. At the time that you looked through the glass into the shower, were you able to see a second person in there?

A. I want to say yeah, but I don’t -- you know, I hear the laughing and the talking and, you know, playing, and I -- I didn’t see the actual person, but it was moving, you know, with him.

Q. Do you believe that you saw the image of a second person?

A. Yeah.

Q. But not as clearly as Mr. Jackson?

A. Not as clearly, no.

Q. Did you hear one voice or two?

A. Two.

Q. And were you clear about that?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you tell that to Mr. Feldman in the deposition?

A. Oh.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. I don’t remember.
Q. You don’t remember what you said?
A. No.
Q. The deposition was how many years ago?
A. More than ten years, I think.
Q. Okay. The portion that Mr. Mesereau asked you, when he showed you that transcript about one or two people, do you recall when in the deposition that question was asked of you? Was it the first day or the second day of the deposition?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Was it toward the end of the deposition?
A. I don’t know. I think so. I don’t remember.
Q. Before the deposition began, did they ask you if you wanted to testify in either English or Spanish?
A. I don’t think so.
Q. Did they simply assume that you would testify in English?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. This was 11 years ago?
A. Yes.
Q. Is your English as good as it is now?
A. A little better, I think.

Q. A little better now?
A. Yeah.
Q. Would you have preferred to have testified in Spanish at that time?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Were you comfortable in English at this time?
A. I wish it would have been in Spanish.
Q. Did you understand all of the questions that were asked of you during that deposition?
A. I was very confused.
Q. Were you confused as to some of the questions?

A. Yeah, and all the lawyers and --
Q. There were a lot of lawyers there, weren't there?
A. Yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; move to strike.
THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Were you intimidated during that deposition?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How did you feel during that deposition?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection --
THE WITNESS: I was uncomfortable.
MR. MESEREAU: -- knowledge; foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled. She said, "Uncomfortable."
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You remembered the monkey Bubbles -- excuse me, the chimp, the chimpanzee; is that right?
A. Bubbles, yes.
Q. Was Bubbles at more than one location?
A. I don't remember that. I think I remember that other little monkey. I think it was a different one. But I remember Bubbles at Havenhurst. And then he was taken to some kind of farm or trainer.
Q. Did Bubbles get a little too big?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did Bubbles get rambunctious, wild?
A. Wild.
Q. Did Bubbles ever bite you?
A. Yeah.
Q. On more than one occasion?
A. Twice.
Q. Twice?
At some time did you become a legal resident?
A. Yes.
Q. And you had told them at Neverland about your status?

A. Yeah.

Q. Is that correct?

A. It was at that time. At that time that I --

Q. While you were working at Neverland; is that correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. You mentioned about the coffee table. Where was the coffee table at the time that Mr. Jackson gave it to you?

A. Havenhurst.

Q. It was at Havenhurst. And where at Havenhurst?

A. It was at his dance floor.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. And on top, in the attic.

Q. In the attic?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was it being used as a coffee table or was it being stored?

A. No, it was being used. It just -- I guess the room was too small, and, you know, it was just in the way for everybody to -- I mean, for -- I guess for people to be there, and --

Q. How did the coffee table end up going to you?

A. Because he wanted it to move out. He wanted it to be moved out, out of there.

Q. He was getting rid of it?

A. Yes.

Q. And you knew that?

A. Well, he said, “Move it out of here,” and I asked him if I can take it.

Q. And what did he say?

A. And he said, “Yeah, take it.”

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you questions about your interview with Hard Copy.

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Were you interviewed by more than one person with Hard Copy?

A. No.

Q. Was that one person Diane Dimond?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have more than one conversation with her?

A. Do you mean personally?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, just one.

Q. Was there a conversation, like an interview, and then the interview on television?

A. No, that -- the same day we did everything. She came to the lobby of the hotel, and then we went upstairs and did it.

Q. She came to the lobby. So it was all on the same day?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Was the interview done at the hotel?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were there a number of questions that were asked of you during that interview?

A. There were many questions asking about who? Me?

Q. Were there a lot of questions that they asked?

A. Oh. Yeah.

Q. I say “they,” but actually, was it just Diane Dimond who asked you questions?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. Was anyone else asking you questions?

A. No, I don’t remember. I don’t think so.

Q. Did you know in advance what the questions were going to be?

A. No.

Q. Were you surprised by what the questions were?

A. Yeah. Yes.

Q. Did you know it was going to be about Michael Jackson?

A. No. I thought it was going to be about me working there.

Q. All right. That was the part that surprised

you?

A. Yeah.

Q. Were you upset about it?

A. Yeah, because then I start to answer, and I felt like I was just there, you know, answering questions that I didn’t know they were going to ask me.

Q. Okay. Did it upset you?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you tell them you were upset about that?

A. No.

Q. Were you truthful in your answers?

A. Yeah.

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you if it was true that you told Diane Dimond in this interview that you never saw Michael Jackson molest a child; is that correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. What else did you tell Diane Dimond in the interview?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Did you tell Diane Dimond about seeing him sleeping with boys?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you tell her that that concerned you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. These are leading questions.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was there any conversation with Diane Dimond regarding any of the boys that you testified to so far today?

A. I’m sorry, repeat?

Q. Was there any conversation with Diane Dimond regarding the testimony you’ve given today about any of those boys? You testified about Wade Robeson. You testified about Macaulay Culkin. Did you discuss either of those boys with Diane Dimond?

A. No, I said -- I think the only -- that I say that I see him is sleeping with the kids and being in the bathtub with them, playing.

Q. And you told Diane Dimond that?
A. Yeah, I think I did.
Q. Now, this is the bathtub or this is the shower?
A. I don’t remember if I told her about the shower. But I remember that I told him about the bathtub and the Jacuzzi, I think.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. I told her about the Jacuzzi and the bathtub, I think.
Q. And being there with boys?
A. Being with boys. Yeah, that I will clean up their -- you know, their toys in the bathtub.
Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you on cross-examination if you ever saw Michael Jackson in the Jacuzzi at the Havenhurst residence; is that correct?
A. Excuse me? Mr. --

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you if you saw Mr. Jackson in the Jacuzzi at the Havenhurst residence.
A. Uh-huh. Yeah.
Q. And you said, “Yes”?
A. Yeah.
Q. With a boy; is that true?
A. It wasn’t -- yeah.
Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you if you had seen Michael Jackson in bed with Wade Robeson twice, and you said, “Yes”?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you actually see Wade Robeson in bed with Michael Jackson?
A. Yeah. Yes.
Q. And that was on two different occasions?
A. Yes.
Q. That doesn’t include the times that you didn’t see them in bed, but you cleaned up after them?
A. Yeah.
Q. When were the two times that you actually saw him in bed with Wade Robeson?
A. When was the two times? Do you mean the dates?
Q. Well, I doubt you could do that, but -- could you do that? Do you know the dates?

A. No. No.
Q. Can you give me -- do you remember the two occasions when you saw them? Do you remember either of the two occasions?

A. Just simply be in bed with him.
Q. How did that happen, that you were there and they were in bed together? How did it happen that you saw them?
A. Watching T.V.
Q. They were watching T.V. Were they inside the bed or on top of the bed?
A. Inside the bed.
Q. Do you remember what they were wearing?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember if they were wearing anything?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; no foundation.
THE WITNESS: No.
THE COURT: Just a moment.
Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Could you see any clothing on either one of them?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Could you see any clothing on either one of them?
A. I saw from the waist up, so -- I don’t know if they had pajamas or --
Q. But from the waist up, were either one of them wearing anything?

A. No.
Q. They were both nude from the waist up?
A. Yeah.
Q. On both occasions?
A. On one occasion I remember.
Q. On one occasion?
A. On one occasion.
MR. ZONEN: May I have those photographs,

Counsel? Oh, thank you.
Q. I’d like to show you a series of photographs, if I may. These photographs are numbered consecutively 783 through 789.
May I approach the witness, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Let me begin with Photograph No. 783. Could you take a look at that photograph?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Do you recognize the content of that photograph?
A. Yeah.
Q. And what is that of?
A. This is Mr. Jackson.
Q. Oh, you need to use the microphone. I don’t think anybody can hear you.
783, then, is what, please?
A. Mr. Jackson’s bed.
Q. That’s his bedroom?

A. His bedroom, yeah.
Q. Is that upstairs or downstairs?
A. Downstairs.
Q. Does this show the bed?
A. Yes.
Q. 784, please, what is that?
A. That’s his bedroom.
Q. Upstairs or downstairs?
A. Downstairs.
Q. 785, what is that, please?
A. His bedroom.
Q. Upstairs or downstairs?
A. Downstairs.
Q. 786, what is that?
A. That’s the Jacuzzi.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. The Jacuzzi.
Q. First floor?
A. In the bathroom.
Q. Okay. And can you see where the shower is in that photograph?
A. I can just see the -- right here, the frame, the door frame.

Q. If I were to give you a pen and ask you to draw an arrow to where the shower goes, would you do that?
A. Yeah. I mean, the --
Q. Yes, go ahead.

Okay. And for the record, an arrow has been drawn to the far right side of this exhibit, No. 786.
No. 777, can you tell me what that is?
A. That’s the bathroom.
Q. The shower?
A. The shower.
Q. On the first floor?
A. Yes.
Q. No. 788, what is that, please?
A. That’s the shower, that’s the security -- I mean, the bedroom -- I mean, the closet.
Q. And that’s the garden?
A. And that’s the Jacuzzi.
Q. Okay. Now, we were looking at a few different things that you -- we’re going to go through this when we present it.
But in this photograph, which is No. 788, can you see both the Jacuzzi and the room that has the shower in it?
A. Yes. Right across from each other.
Q. Okay. And then finally, 789, if you’d look at that, please.
A. Yeah, this is the room upstairs.
Q. That’s the bedroom upstairs?
A. The bedroom upstairs, yes.
Q. And that has a bed as well?
A. Yeah.

Q. The photographs that I’ve just asked you to look at, which are No. 783 through 789, do each of these photographs accurately depict the subject matter contained in the photograph, which means are they accurate? Are the photographs accurate of those rooms and those locations?
A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, are these accurate as of 1993?

A. Do you mean --

Q. As of the time that you were there, last there, is it how it looked around the time when you were there?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Tell me what's different.

A. Well, the T.V. -- like, the bed is the same thing. And the television is the same. It's just more stuff in it.

Q. Just more stuff in it?

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And the one that you're looking at, as you say that, is 783.

All right. And 784, does that appear the same as you last saw it?

A. No.

Q. What's different?

A. There's more stuff in it.

Q. More stuff?

A. Yeah.

Q. But the furniture is in the same place?

A. Yes.

Q. 785?

A. Yeah. This wasn't here when I was there.

Q. I'm sorry?

A. It wasn't -- it wasn't like when I used to clean it.

Q. How was it different?

A. The paintings and this mannequin.

Q. All right. I'm going to withdraw this one.

I'm going to withdraw 785.

786. Take a look at 786.

A. Yeah, that's the same. I mean, that's the same, the same as far as the furniture, and even the towels and --

Q. Okay.

A. -- the toys.

Q. 787?

A. It's the same.

Q. Okay.

A. It's just crowded.

Q. 788?
A. Yeah, it’s the same.
Q. And seven -- let me see that again. All right. This was 789 that I showed you and originally called it 787.
Back to 789. So this is the same?
A. Yes.

Q. All right. Here is the real 787, with the shower. Is that the same?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And then 787 is the same?
A. Yes.
MR. ZONEN: Okay. Your Honor, I’m going to move into evidence 783, 784, 786, 787 and 788 and 789, and withdraw 785.
MR. MESEREAU: No objection.
THE COURT: They’re admitted.
MR. ZONEN: May I publish these at this time?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Mrs. Francia, this is a laser pen, and it sheds a laser beam. And you just go like that. Don’t show it in anybody’s eyes.
The first one is 783. And would you tell us what that is, please?
A. 783, this?
Q. Yes, that room.
A. Mr. Jackson’s bed and --
Q. Oh, we have a problem. Unfortunately, you’re going to have to turn back to use the microphone. Take a look at it, and then turn back to use the microphone so we can hear you.
A. That’s Mr. Jackson’s bed, and television.
And that’s the entrance, the stair that goes to the stairs, three. And then you go around to the bathroom.

Q. Okay. 784. And tell us what that is, please.
A. That’s the same. This will be the television cabinet.

Q. And this is the first floor again; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, did you say that there was some things that weren't there --

A. Yes.

Q. -- at the time that you last worked for Mr. Jackson. Show us what that is.

A. These pictures here.

Q. Those pictures right there. Anything else?

A. This horse.

Q. Okay. Now, Mr. Jackson did not have children of his own at that time, did he?

A. No.

Q. Okay. 786, please. Now, here's the one where I asked you to put an arrow. Do you recognize the arrow where you put it?

A. Yes.

Q. Show it.

A. Right there.

Q. What does that point to?

A. The shower.

Q. And where is the shower?

A. Right here. About right here.

Q. And you had told us earlier in your -- this is the first-floor bathroom; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you told us earlier in your testimony, that you had to come closer to be able to see into that room?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you show us in this picture where you were standing at the time that you actually looked into that room?

A. Probably about right here. So I can see in.

Q. All right. And then you said that there was also a Jacuzzi outside?

A. It's a shower. Right there.

Q. A shower. So is that on the other side of that wall, the back wall?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Next picture, please. And this, I think, is 787. And what is that?

A. That’s the shower.

Q. All right. Is that the same door that you recall?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And that’s the shower that you gave testimony to. And the last one, please. Two more. 788. And this is 788. Is that the same bathroom downstairs?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Do you have a better view of the room that has the shower?

A. Yes.

Q. Show us where that is, with the laser.

A. Right here.

Q. Okay. That’s the toilet that you can see?

A. Yes.

Q. And on the other side of the toilet is the shower?

A. Uh-huh. Right next to it.

Q. All right. Can you show us now where you were standing? Can you put the laser on where your feet were at the time you were standing?

A. Probably right here. Right here on this corner.

Q. Okay. And then finally, 789. And what is that, please?

A. That’s his -- that’s another room.

Q. That was the bed upstairs?

A. Uh-huh. Second floor.

Q. Now, Mr. Mesereau asked you about that bed. Sometimes it is slept in and sometimes it is not.

A. Yeah.

Q. During that period of time that Wade Robeson was coming and visiting, was that bed slept in a lot?

A. No.
Q. Was it slept in infrequently?
A. No, I always -- just only when a lot of kids were there.
Q. Okay. If it was just Wade Robeson, he didn't sleep in that bed?
A. No.
Q. How about Macaulay Culkin?
A. No.
Q. He didn't either?
A. No.
MR. ZONEN: Thank you.
I have no further questions, Your Honor. And these exhibits are in evidence. Yes, they are. Thank you. No further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Just very briefly.
When -- during the time you worked at Neverland, Mr. Jackson would often have guests in his room, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And people would often hang out on his bed and watch television, correct?

A. Yes.
Q. You would often serve them food, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And you would serve them drinks, right?
A. Yes.
Q. That went on at all hours of the day, correct?
A. Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you.
MR. ZONEN: And I have no further questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. You may step down. And we'll recess for the day. And there's no court tomorrow. I'll see you Thursday morning.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Mr. Chacon, in order for everybody to hear you, you’re going to need to lean into that microphone, okay? Would you do that for us?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Thank you.

Mr. Chacon, did you used to work at Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During what period of time?

A. Between ‘91 and ‘94.

Q. And prior to working at Neverland Valley Ranch, where -- what employment did you have?

A. I used to repo vehicles in Thousand Oaks.

Q. Is that where you’re from, Thousand Oaks?

A. Born and raised, yes, sir.

Q. And during the time that you were at Neverland Valley Ranch, what was your position?

A. Security.

Q. And could you describe to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury generally what your responsibilities were as a security officer?

A. Secure Neverland property, front gate, fence lines, around the main house, keeping intruders out, and also taking care of the temperatures in the animal areas.

Q. What shift did you work at the ranch?

A. Graveyard.

Q. Would you tell us what “graveyard,” what that entails? What are the hours?

A. From 10:00 till 6:00 in the morning.

Q. Now, do you recall a time when you were working at the Neverland Valley Ranch in which Mr. Jackson was the subject of an investigation?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And what years was that; do you recall?
A. I really don’t. I don’t recall.
Q. During the time that you were at the ranch, did you get subpoenaed to appear before the Santa Barbara County Grand Jury?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Do you recall when that was?
A. I believe it was in ‘94.
Q. Do you recall the month?
A. I’m guessing, could be probably May or something around there. I’m not sure.
Q. And do you know an individual by the name of Kassim Abdool?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who is Kassim Abdool?
A. He was at that time chief of security at Neverland.
Q. And at the time that you were subpoenaed before the grand jury, were you and Mr. Abdool carpooling back and forth to work?
A. Yes, sir, we were.
Q. And how long had you known Mr. Abdool?
A. Probably the duration of our employment at Neverland. Probably about three years. Three, four years. Something like that.

Q. And to your knowledge, did Mr. Abdool also get subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury?
A. Yes, sir, he did.
Q. And do you recall where you were directed to appear, which county?
A. Supposed to be in Los Angeles County. But I didn’t go to Los Angeles County.
Q. At some time prior to appearing before the grand jury, pursuant to subpoena, were you contacted by attorneys representing Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. On how many occasions?
A. I can remember two occasions that I was called to come before them.
Q. And do you recall who those attorneys were?

A. Mr. Steve Cochran, I believe, and I remember an Eric Mason. Mr. Sanger.
Q. Do you recall where the first meeting occurred?
A. It happened in Mr. Jackson’s outside office at Neverland.
Q. And do you recall when the second meeting occurred?
A. It happened in Santa Barbara at Mr. Sanger’s office.
Q. And were both of these meetings prior to the time you were to appear before the grand jury, your subpoena date?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, as a result of the receiving a subpoena to the grand jury, did you make contact with law enforcement?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And do you recall who it was you contacted?
A. I believe it was Mr. Birchim.
Q. And do you recall what agency Mr. Birchim worked for?
A. I believe it was the sheriff -- Santa Barbara Sheriff’s Department.
Q. And when you -- I’m sorry. When you contacted Mr. Birchim, did you have a conversation with him?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And did you relay to him certain information?
A. I did.
Q. And after that, did you have contact with any other -- was there more than one meeting with Mr. Birchim?
A. I’m sure there was, but I don’t remember. But I know there was more than two meetings with him.
Q. Now, you told the ladies and gentlemen of the jury that you did not appear before the Los Angeles County Grand Jury. Did you at some time make a statement under oath with regard to what you observed?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And do you recall when that was?

A. I believe it was ‘94. I’m not for certain. It’s been a while.

Q. Do you recall whether it was at or about the time when you were supposed to appear before the grand jury?

A. Oh. Yes, sir. It was probably the day after.

Q. And do you recall where it was that you were interviewed?

A. In Santa Barbara.

Q. And do you recall who was present during the time that you were interviewed?

A. Well, the only ones that I remember is yourself and Mr. Birchim.

Q. And was that statement given under oath?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, during the time that you were employed at Neverland Ranch, did you personally observe anything that you felt was inappropriate with regard to Mr. Jackson’s behavior --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- or conduct?

And do you recall approximately what year that was?

A. I want to say latter ‘92 or early ‘93. I am not -- I’m not positive.

Q. Do you recall what time of day or night it was?

A. It was -- well, I had come on graveyard shift, so it had to have been about probably midnight, or before midnight.

Q. And do you recall what the weather was like that night?

A. It was very nice. Very nice weather.

Q. Now, when you first came to work that evening, what were the first things that you did; do you recall?

A. I would come in and check out the radio. We carried radios and a flashlight. I would check my box for any memos that were generated. Then I would -- we had -- there was electric golf carts that we had to put on chargers for the night.

Q. At some time that evening, did you see Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And do you recall where Mr. Jackson was the first time that you saw him that evening?
A. He was headed for the Jacuzzi.
Q. And do you know whether or not he was alone or with someone?
A. He was with someone.
Q. And when you say he was with someone, do you know who that was?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who was that?
A. That was Jordie.
Q. And could you approximate the age of Jordie?
A. I want to say nine, ten years old.
Q. So he was with a child?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Not an adult?
A. No.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Now, I may have missed this or I may have asked this. When you say you saw Mr. Jackson in the company of this child, Jordie, what direction were they headed?
A. Towards the Jacuzzi.
Q. Is that an area near where you were putting things away?
A. It was close by. But from the area where I was at, the garage area, I had -- I had gone to the barbecue area, which was close, maybe ten feet, to the Jacuzzi.
Q. And did you -- were you able to see Mr. Jackson and the child in the Jacuzzi?
A. I couldn’t see them from where I was standing, but I could hear them in the water.
Q. Now, at some point, did you hear Mr. Jackson speak out?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And what --

Your Honor, this is not offered for the truth of the matter, but simply to explain the conduct that occurs thereafter?

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What did you hear Mr. Jackson say?

A. While in the Jacuzzi?

Q. Yes.

A. They were just -- just laughing, playing. I don’t remember what they were saying, but I know that they were talking and having fun.

Q. At some time did Mr. Jackson request something from the house?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: That was before --

THE COURT: Just a moment.

MR. SNEDDON: You have to wait for the Judge to rule, I’m sorry.

THE WITNESS: I’m sorry.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Okay. Now you can answer.

THE COURT: Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: No, sir.

Well, actually, that was -- I heard them --

I heard him when I was still hooking up the golf carts. He had called for security.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Okay. So at some point you heard Mr. Jackson yell for security?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where were you when that occurred?

A. I was in the garage area.

Q. Now, at some point that evening, did you see Mr. Jackson and the child, Jordie, leave the Jacuzzi?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Could you tell the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, were you able to observe where they went?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where did they go?

A. They were going to the outside rest room area by the rec room.

Q. And is the rec room near another building or attached to a building on the premises?

A. Well, it’s on its -- the rest room’s attached to the rec room. So it sits by itself. It’s two stories.

Q. All right. Are there other facilities inside of that building itself?

A. Just a game room, that’s all it was.

Q. Do you know what the game room is called?

A. Just -- no, I don’t.

Q. Describe the game room, if you would.

A. They had, like, probably maybe 20 different type of computer games, the first floor, and also with the top, the top floor had different type of games.

Q. Have you been in that building before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you know whether or not that building has a cellar?

A. A what, sir?

Q. A cellar?

A. Um, I want to say that had a wine cellar, yes, sir.

Q. All right. In any event, you saw Mr. Jackson and the child heading towards the rest room area; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you watch them the entire time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you see where they went?

A. They went inside the rest room.

Q. Now, where were you located when you observed this?

A. I was in the barbecue area, where I usually normally observe everything.

Q. That’s a security position you’re assigned?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, at the time that you saw Mr. Jackson and the boy go into the rest room area, did you at some point in time approach the rest room?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. Do you recall from the time that you saw Mr. Jackson and the child go into the rest room area, how long it was before you approached the area?
A. Probably a half an hour, maybe 35, 40 minutes.
Q. And then could you describe to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury where you went?
A. I went around the rec room that leads right behind the rest rooms. That's where I went.
Q. And what did you do when you got there? Well, when you got in that area, did you hear or see anything?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And which?
A. Well, I heard first that Mr. Jackson and the boy were inside a shower, the shower room in there.
Q. How many showers are there in the rest room?
A. There was only one shower.
Q. Let's just stop right there for just a second, before we go any further. Could you explain to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury the interior of the rest room area?
A. As you go in from the rec room, the women's rest room is on the left and the men's room is on the right. And as you go in, there's a dressing area, and it's open, and it leads into where the wash basins are at, pretty large area. And then it goes into another smaller room where there's a toilet and the showers.

Q. And you said "showers."
A. Shower. Excuse me, shower.
Q. All right. Now, you've indicated that you heard some people in the shower. Did you recognize the voices?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Whose voices did you recognize?
A. Mr. Jackson's and Jordie's.
Q. And did you look into the shower area?
A. Not right away. Not the first time that I came around, because I couldn't see anything. But I started to leave the area when I -- I was thinking,

I said, “What’s going on here?” You know, “There’s a grown man in a shower with a boy.”

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; move to strike.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. So you left?

A. Right.

Q. How far did you go?

A. I didn’t go too far, probably halfway around the rec room.

Q. All right. And did you decide to go back?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Why did you decide to go back?

A. I wanted to know what was going on in there.

Q. Why?

A. Because it wasn’t -- it wasn’t right.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; move to strike.

THE COURT: I’ll strike the question, “Why?” And the answer.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Okay. So you went back. When you went back, where did you go to?

A. I went back to the same area where the shower was located. There was a window, and I was able to see and they were no longer in the shower.

Q. So you looked into the window?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. And what did you see -- where did you see Mr. Jackson and the child at this point?

A. I saw them standing in the nude in the middle area, and Jordie was on the right, and he was on the left side. Standing, facing each other.

Q. Now, at the time that you saw that, what were the lighting conditions inside of the rest room?

A. Oh, it was litted up, just that area there. Not where the shower’s at, but that area, it was -- the lights were on.

Q. Did you have any difficulty seeing in there?

A. Not at all, sir.

Q. Now, from the point outside looking down inside, what did you see go on between the defendant, Mr. Jackson, and Jordan Chandler?

A. I saw that Mr. Jackson was caressing the boy’s hair, he was kissing him on his head, and his face, his lips. He started kissing him on the shoulders and started going down to his nipples. Started sucking his nipples. Started going down to his penis and putting it in his mouth. And about that time I just -- I left.

Q. Okay. You say you saw him go down and do what?

A. He put the little boy’s penis in his mouth.

Q. Did you actually see that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then you left?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where did you go?

A. I went back to the barbecue area.

Q. Do you recall, after you left that area and observed the things you’ve just related to the jury, did you see Mr. Jackson with the child again that evening?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And where were you when you saw them?

A. I was in the barbecue area.

Q. And where -- where were they when you saw them again?

A. They were coming out of the rest room.

Q. Now, from the time that you had left, when you had made your observations --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- and you left, till the time that they came out of the rest room, how much time had elapsed during that period of time?

A. Probably 20 minutes or 30 minutes.

Q. Now, when they came out of the rest room, could you describe what was going on?

A. Jordie was mounted on Michael’s back, piggybacked, and they were headed for the back of the -- the kitchen door to the main house.

Q. Did the child, Jordan, have any clothing on?

A. He had -- I believe it was like -- it was a towel. I believe it was a towel. It’s the type -- like it’s a rope, but it’s a towel.

Q. So a cloth robe or towel of some kind?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Okay. And what was Mr. Jackson wearing, if you recall?
A. Same.
Q. Could you see whether or not the child, Jordan, had any other clothing on or not?
A. No, sir. I didn't observe.
Q. And where did they go?
A. They went inside the house, the main house.

Q. And when they went inside the main house, did you hear or observe anything happen that you felt was unusual?
A. Yes, Mr. Jackson double-locked the door, the back door, which he normally never did. Security always went inside to secure the house inside and out.
Q. Now, you say -- you described to the jury that Mr. Jackson was kissing the boy --
A. Yes, sir.
Q. -- that you observed. How would you describe the kissing?
A. Well, it was very passionate. Very passionately he was kissing him.
Q. And did you see his hands during the time he was kissing him?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where were they?
A. They were all over his body.
Q. All right. I want to show you a couple of photographs, if we might, Mr. Chacon. I've shown these to counsel, Your Honor. The photographs are 790, 791, and 792. All right. Mr. Chacon, let's look at the photographs. First of all, let's start with 790. Do you recognize that?
A. 790?
Q. Yeah. I'm sorry, you have to turn it over on the back.

A. Oh, yes, sir.
Q. All right. Let's start with that. Do you recognize what's depicted in the photograph, 790?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what is that?

A. That's where the swimming pool's at, and it's -- you're facing at the rec room in front of you, and to the left is the garage area where the carts -- where I was hooking up the carts.

Q. Does that photograph depict a portion or some of the route that you took where you walked to the area that you observed Mr. Jackson and the child, Jordan?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, what I'd like you to do is to please take that black felt tip pen that I've given you there, and would you please just draw the path that you took that's covered by that photograph, that portion of it.

And does that photograph accurately depict the area of what you call the rec room at the time that you made the observations of Mr. Jackson and the child, Jordan?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Let's turn that one over and go to the next one that has "791" on it, okay? Do you recognize that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. What is 791?

A. It's the pool area, and directly in front is the rec room and the rest room. The rest rooms.

Q. Does the photograph, 791, show the area of the entrance into the bathroom area?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And does it show the Jacuzzi?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And does it show the approximate area of the -- where you made your observations?

A. Well, it's behind the -- just the other side of the Jacuzzi, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. With regard to that particular photograph -- and I'm going to ask you, does it accurately depict the area as you recall it in 1992 or '93 when you made your observations?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. I'm going to ask you, please, take that black marker, please, and if you would just circle the area that depicts the entrance into the rest room area?

And would you please put an “X” in the approximate area where it was that you made the observations of Mr. Jackson and the child?
Now, let’s take the last photograph, which is 792 for identification purposes. Do you recognize that photograph?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And can you tell the jury what that is, please?
A. It’s the barbecue area.
Q. Okay. Now, is that the area that you have made reference to in your testimony?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And does that photograph accurately depict that area as it was back when you were working at Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I move that 790, 791, and 792 be admitted into evidence.
MR. MESEREAU: No objection.
THE COURT: They’re admitted.
MR. SNEDDON: And, Your Honor, could we have the input for the Elmo, please?
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: This is a laser and I’m going to ask you to point to some things.
A. Okay.
Q. All right. This is the exhibit that’s been marked as Exhibit 790 for identification purposes, all right? Do you recognize that, Mr. Chacon?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Would you show the jury the black line that you placed on this particular exhibit?
Okay. It starts at the left-hand side of the photograph; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And moves - go ahead, just trace it - all the way to almost the right-hand side -- or the left-hand side of the building, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Would you tell the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, as you walk down past the side of that building that’s depicted in the far right-hand side of the photograph, People’s 790, what is down there?

A. There is a tennis court. It’s a sunken tennis court.
Q. And what are the lighting conditions? Is there a path that goes along there?
A. Yes, sir, there is.
Q. What are the lighting conditions along that path?
A. Around the back, there wasn’t.
Q. How about along the path itself?
A. Towards the -- behind the rest rooms, there was a path where there was just small little lights on the ground.
Q. Now, did you have a flashlight with you that night?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that part of your standard equipment --
A. Yes.
Q. -- that you carry on the graveyard shift?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. The building that’s depicted on the far right-hand side of the photograph - yes, sir, the one you’re showing the jury there - what is that building there?
A. That’s the rec room.
Q. And let’s go to 791, if we could. All right. Would you show the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, first of all, what you referred to as a Jacuzzi?
A. Right here.
Q. So that’s in the lower left-hand corner of the exhibit, 791?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, where is the entrance to the rest room?
A. Right in there.
Q. And it’s hard to see, but you drew a circle around that in black?
A. Yes, sir. Right there.
Q. And now, where -- on this photograph, if you can, can you show the approximate area of where it was that you have made the observations you described to the jury?

A. Well, this is the rest room in front, and on the side, about right in there. The path is right on the other side on the building there.

Q. On the back side of the building?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, let's show the next photograph and then I'll come back to this. This is 792 in evidence. Do you recognize that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what is that?

A. That's the barbecue area.

Q. Okay. Now, with regard to this particular photograph, where were you located in your position as a security officer on this evening when you observed the defendant and the child, Jordan, walk into the rest room?

A. I was about right in that area.

Q. So you're indicating to the right-hand side of the barbecue area, just to the right of the post?

A. Right. Yes, sir.

Q. The post on the -- and were you behind the barbecue itself or on the other side of it?

A. Well -- well, actually, I was like -- I was moving up and down the side of it, on the other side.

Q. On the outside of it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So not in the interior part, but --

A. Well, it was in the -- the interior is on the other side also. Because this is in the center.

Q. Just so we can get it clarified, which side of that were you on?

A. I was on -- I believe I was on that other side.

Q. Now, is the area of the -- let's go back to 791 for a second, if we could. You pointed out the Jacuzzi, and obviously there's a swimming pool also there.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, with regard to that area, is that area lit at night?

A. It is.
Q. Or was it then? Let’s put it that way.
A. Yeah, just a bit. Because the sidewalks had these lights, these small lights, as you went up through the path. And if I remember correctly, I guess there was some -- some lighting, but not that much. But you could see where you were walking, though.
MR. SNEDDON: Okay. All right. You can take that down.
I have three more photographs, I’ve shown them to counsel, that have been marked as 793, 794, and 795 for identification purposes. I’d like to show them to the witness.
THE COURT: All right.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Mr. Chacon, I’m going to show you the photograph marked as 793. You’ve seen that photograph before?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And do you recognize the person that you believe that that photograph depicts?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who is that?
A. Jordie.
Q. Is that a depiction of the child as you recall him back in those days?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And with regard to 794, it has two photographs on it, one at the top and one at the bottom. The one at the top is a singular photograph of an individual, and the one at the bottom has four people in that. Do you recognize the people in that photograph?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And again, who is that?
A. Jordie.
Q. And in the photograph at the bottom, there are a number of people depicted. Which of them do you recognize as Jordie?
A. This one here.
Q. Would you please take that black pen and just put an arrow towards -- start on the white, down below. Okay. Thank you.

And with regard to 795, do you recognize that?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And again, there are a number of people depicted in that photograph, correct?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And do you recognize anybody in that photograph?
A. Yes, sir, I do.
Q. Who would that be?
A. That’s Jordie.
Q. By “that” you mean who, in terms of -- there’s one, two, three, four, five people depicted.
A. The fifth one.
Q. All the way over to the left?
A. All the way over to the left.
Q. Are these accurate depictions of the child as you recall him back in those days?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. SNEDDON: Move that they be admitted into evidence, Your Honor.
MR. MESEREAU: No objection.
THE COURT: Admitted.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Now, Mr. Chacon, are you familiar with a child by the name -- a young boy by the name of Brett Barnes?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And have you seen Mr. Barnes before?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Have you seen him at the ranch before?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Have you seen him in the company of the defendant before?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. On how many occasions?
A. Numerous occasions. I couldn’t give you a figure.
Q. When Mr. Barnes was at the ranch, do you recall whether or not his parents were with him?
A. At times they were; at other times they weren’t.

Q. Now, with regard to the child you’ve described and identified as Jordan Chandler, and the child that you also saw as Brett Barnes, can you tell us what they look like?
A. Well, to me, I always got them confused, because they looked the same, similar. I know one was a little bit shorter than the other. But, you know, I always got them confused, but they looked -- they looked alike. Maybe one had hair a little bit shorter than the other.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; narrative.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Go ahead.
A. But I would get them -- I would -- they just looked the same to me.
MR. SNEDDON: All right. If we could have the Elmo again.
Q. I’m going to start backwards at 795. Now, would you use the -- thank you.

That’s the child you identified by the name of what?
A. Jordie.
Q. All right. And now 794. Let’s do the bottom one for right now.
Now, the bottom one, you put an arrow; is that correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Which is the child that you were identifying that you recognize as Jordie.
Okay. The one in the middle of the photograph?
A. Yes.
Q. In the front --
A. Yes, sir.
Q. -- right?
And let’s -- let me ask a question about the top photograph. With regard to that photograph, do you recognize that person?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. All right. Who’s that?
A. That’s Jordie.
Q. Okay. And lastly, that’s 793 in evidence.

And you’ve identified that individual as also Jordie, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. SNEDDON: All right. Thank you. We could have the lights again.

Q. Now, during the time of your employment at Neverland Valley Ranch -- let me go back a second, okay?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. With regard to the incidents that you just described to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury here involving Mr. Jackson and the child you’ve identified as Jordan, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Are those -- is that -- is that what you told the grand jury when you were interviewed back in 1994?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Now, let’s go on for just a moment. Did you see any other incidents involving Mr. Jackson and the child you described as Jordan?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. With regard to the second -- and let’s just call it the second incident. With regard to the second incident, do you recall how much time had elapsed between the two incidents?
A. I don’t recall, sir.
Q. Could you give us some idea whether it was weeks, months, or years?
A. Could have been weeks. Could have been a month. I’m not positive. It’s been a while.
Q. Okay. And let me go back just for one second before we move on to the second incident.

Was there another thing that occurred on the evening of the incident where you saw Mr. Jackson and the child, Jordan, in the rest room together that you had to actually make a report on?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And what was -- what was that?
A. Well --
Q. What happened?
A. Well, Kassim Abdool and myself, we were going around the house, the back side of the house, checking for anything that was open, the normal security checkup that we would do around the house. And we observed that the two French doors in the middle of the house were wide open.

Q. And so a note was made of that to your supervisor?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was your supervisor?

A. Lieutenant Wade. Kassim Abdool had written a report in regards to the French doors being open and we didn't close them.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike.

THE COURT: After "Lieutenant Wade" is stricken.

MR. SNEDDON: Okay.

Q. So a report was prepared of that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, the incident about the French doors being open, was that before or after you had observed Mr. Jackson?

A. After.

Q. It was later that evening?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Now we can move on. On the second incident - we're going to call it the second incident just for purposes of - what was it -- were you working graveyard again?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you recall approximately what time of the night it was?

A. It was in the evening, after ten o'clock when I come on.

Q. Where were you?

A. I was in the pool area. Barbecue area, pool area.

Q. And did you see Mr. Jackson that evening? Let me go back. Did you see Jordan that evening?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And the child you've identified as Brett, did you see him that evening?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were they?

A. They were in the rec room, playing with the machines.

Q. Was there any other children in the rec room?

A. Yes, I noticed a little girl, probably five, six years old. I didn’t know who she was, but I’m sure she was probably a sister of one of the boys.

Q. And did you at some point become aware of the fact -- let me ask you this. Prior -- when the children were in the rec room playing, to your knowledge, was Mr. Jackson on the premises?

A. No, sir.

Q. And did you become aware at some point in time that Mr. Jackson was on the premises?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you at some point see Mr. Jackson on the premises?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where was Mr. Jackson the first time you saw him?

A. He was coming out the back of his door -- the back door of his house, the main house.

Q. All right. And describe to the jury what you observed Mr. Jackson to do.

A. He kind of ran up to the rec room, and he was looking in from the outside, and he spotted Jordie in one of those little -- it’s like a car you play, a racing car. And Mr. Jackson went around the area where the rest rooms were at. There’s a back door that goes into the rec room, and he located Jordie back there, and he went to where Jordie was at and --

Q. Let’s just stop right there for just a second, okay? You saw him go into the rec room through a back door entrance?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you saw him go up to Jordan, where were the other children? Could you see?

A. Yeah, they were upstairs playing games.

Q. Were the lights on inside of the rec room?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any difficulty seeing in the rec room?

A. Oh, no. No, sir.

Q. And where were you located at the time you made these observations?

A. I was around the pool area, almost right directly in front of the rec room.

Q. Now, at that point in time when you saw Mr. Jackson go actually physically into the rec room, describe to the jury what you saw occur.

A. Well, I saw him enter through the back door of the rec room, and he went over to Jordie. He bent over and said something to him, and then he kissed him. And then they got out the back door and they ran over to Mr. Jackson's Moon Rover, and -- that was a golf cart that he had specially made for himself, and they took off.

Q. When you say he kissed him, did you see where he kissed him?

A. Not exactly, but I know he kissed him.

Q. Now, at some point that evening, did you see Mr. Jackson again?

A. Yes, sir. When they came back.

Q. When they came back. And where were you when they came back?

A. I was in the barbecue area.

Q. And when they came back, where did they -- physically, where did you see them when you --

A. They pulled up to what they called the breezeway, which is between the main office and the main house, the outside office and the main house.

Q. Okay.

A. Behind the back.

Q. And what did -- what -- was anybody else present when they drove up?

A. Kassim Abdool was coming from the security at that time also.

Q. So what did you see occur at that point in time?

A. Well, I saw that Mr. Jackson and Brett -- I mean Jordie got off the cart. And Kassim noticed that they were back, so he just headed back to the security -- security office. And Mr. Jackson and the boy were in front of the -- they call it the Peter Pan display. It's a window where Peter Pan lights up.

Q. Can you describe that? Where is that located, what building?

A. Well, it's the -- it's where the office is at, behind the main house. It's connected. There's a breezeway, but it's connected. And there's a display window, or a window where this Peter Pan display is at, where it lights up and you see Tinkerbell flying around the window.

Q. Okay. Could you describe to the jury the positions of the child and the defendant, Mr. Jackson?

A. Well, they were looking at the display, the Tinkerbell lighting up. And he was -- Jordie was in front, Mr. Jackson was in back, and he had his hands over like this, and --

Q. You're indicating over --

A. Over his back, towards the front.

Q. Okay.

A. And then he turned him around, kissed him. It was passionate, but it didn't last that long. And then his hands went down to his private areas. And then they ran inside the house.

Q. All right. You say he kissed him, and it was not very long but it was passionate. Where did he kiss the child?

A. In the mouth.

Q. And when you say "his hands went down," where did they go -- whose hands went down where?

A. Mr. Jackson's hands went down to his crotch area, the boy's.

Q. The boy's?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what -- how long -- how long do you estimate that this incident took?

A. It was -- it didn't take very long. Probably 10 seconds, 20 minutes. I'm not sure.

Q. And then at that point what did you see?

A. They went -- ran inside the back, the inside of the house.

Q. Both the child and Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. SNEDDON: Just a moment, Your Honor. Well, I must have misplaced it. Your Honor, I have one other photograph I'd like to have marked as 796 for identification purposes. And I've shown it to counsel.

Q. With regard to the exhibit, 796, do you recognize that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is -- what is that?

A. This is behind the house. This is behind the house. This is the office. And this is the breezeway.

Q. So when you talk about a breezeway in your testimony, this photograph depicts that breezeway?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And does it depict the office that you were talking about?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. What I want you to do is, on that photograph, just draw a little arrow and an "O" to the building that you indicated is the office, okay?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then just put a big "B" in the area that you call the breezeway. All right. Is that photograph an accurate depiction of the area as you recall it back when you observed these incidents?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. SNEDDON: All right. Move that it be admitted into evidence, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

MR. SNEDDON: Could we have the lights just briefly, Your Honor?

Q. All right. This is 796, the photograph we were just talking about, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you use that little red laser again, and indicate -- there's the "B" that you put, and that is the area that you consider the breezeway?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you also put an “O” with an arrow. Would you find that for the jury. All right. And that’s the area that you described as what?
A. The outer office where the display is on the window.
Q. Okay. All right. All right. That’s good. I just wanted to get those down so everybody can get an idea of what it was like. All right. We can have the lights again. Now, prior to the time -- let me ask you this: With regard to the testimony you’ve just related to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury here this morning, did you also describe those incidents to the -- when you were asked to make a statement under oath?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When you were subpoenaed to the grand jury?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, prior to the time that you appeared to give a statement under oath as to the events that you related here this morning, had you ever told anyone about what you saw?
A. No, sir.
Q. Had you ever mentioned it to anybody?
A. No, sir.
Q. Why not?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Well, a lot of things went through my mind, but one of the things was who would believe me?
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Why?
A. Well --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What else went through your mind?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Have you ever personally met anybody by the name of Blanca Francia?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever personally met anyone by the name of Phillipe LeMarque?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you met Wade Robeson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how did you meet Wade Robeson?

A. Just by being on the property and -- and him being on the property.

Q. How often was he on the property?

A. Numerous times, but I can’t give you a number of how many times.

Q. Mr. Chacon, when you left the ranch as an employee - okay? --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Oh, I had another question before we get there.

Were you armed?

A. No, sir.

Q. At the time that Mr. Jackson -- during the time that you became aware of the fact that Mr. Jackson was under investigation, were there any guards on the ranch property that were armed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how many?

A. There was about four or five of them.

Q. Were they people who had been employed by the ranch as security officers for -- prior to that time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, when you left the ranch, why did you leave?

A. I was forced to leave --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I was forced to leave because of the OSS, the bodyguards that came on the property that were armed, because we would not comply with whatever they wanted us to do or say, because we didn't -- we didn't -- we went to the grand jury, but they didn't know what we had said so they had put pressure on us to quit.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you ever tell anybody after you went to the grand jury what you had testified to in front of the grand jury?
A. After?
Q. Yeah. Anybody associated with Mr. Jackson.
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. Kassim Abdool.
Q. And that's the person you worked with?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Other than that, anybody else?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you at some point in time file a lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, you and other members of the staff?
A. Yes, sir, we did.
Q. And in that particular lawsuit, where was that tried?
A. Santa Maria, right here, sir.
Q. And did you lose that lawsuit?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. SNEDDON: I have no further questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.
//

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Chacon.
A. Good morning, sir.
Q. Mr. Chacon, my name is Tom Mesereau, and I speak for Mr. Jackson.
A. Yes, sir.
Q. I'd like to ask you a few questions about that lawsuit you lost. That was the longest civil trial in the history of Santa Maria, right?
A. I don't know, sir.
Q. It went about six months, didn't it?
A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. You sued Mr. Jackson and you wanted $16 million, right?
A. Well, I don't know about the 16 million.
Q. You wanted millions, true?
A. No, sir.
Q. Really?
A. Well, I don't know, sir. Whatever our attorney was -- he's the one who was speaking for us.
Q. Okay. We'll get into that.
You sued Mr. Jackson claiming you were wrongfully terminated, right?
A. That's correct, sir.
Q. He sued you claiming you had stolen property from him, true?

A. That's correct, sir.
Q. The jury found you were not wrongfully terminated by Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. But we were, sir.
Q. Answer my question, please. Did the Santa Maria jury find you were not wrongfully terminated by Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And they also found you had stolen property from Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. But I didn't, sir.
Q. Did the Santa Maria jury find you had stolen property from Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. A judgment was entered against you, Mr. Chacon, for $25,000, the value of what you had stolen, correct?
A. For candy bars, sir?
Q. A judgment was entered against you for $25,000, the value of what the Court found you had stolen, correct?
A. Well, if a candy bar is worth that much, yes, sir.
Q. That's not all you owe Mr. Jackson currently, is it?
A. No, sir. I don't owe him.
Q. In fact, Judge Zel Canter of this court, entered a judgment against you and your co-defendants for $1,473,117.61, correct?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. He ordered you pay all of Mr. Jackson’s legal fees and costs, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Have you ever paid any of that judgment, Mr. Chacon?
A. No, sir. I filed bankruptcy.
Q. Now, the jury found you not only stole from Mr. Jackson, but you acted maliciously, correct?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did a judge find you had acted with malice?
A. No, sir.
Q. Is there a judgment against you for acting with fraud against Mr. Jackson?
A. That I know of, no, sir.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at the judgment?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Oh, it’s there, sir. I didn’t know. Yes, sir.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that judgment, Mr. Chacon?
A. Do you mean right now?
Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.
Q. There is not only a judgment against you in favor of Mr. Jackson --
MR. SNEDDON: Wait a minute. I’m going to object. He asked to refresh his recollection. He should ask him if it did.
MR. MESEREAU: Sure.
THE COURT: That’s correct.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the judgment against you, Mr. Chacon?
A. I looked at that, yes, sir. But I don’t remember it.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection that there’s a judgment against you for fraud and malice --

A. No, sir.

Q. -- in favor of Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You never heard of that before?

A. Well, probably, but I don’t remember.

Q. After a six-month trial, you don’t remember?

A. Well, it’s been 12 years also, sir, or so.

Q. Do you remember stipulating and agreeing that you had personally acted with fraud, oppression and malice against Mr. Jackson?

A. Probably so, sir.

Q. You did that, didn’t you?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn’t stipulate that you had acted with fraud, oppression, and malice against Mr. Jackson in that case?

A. Well, yes, sir.

Q. After a six-month trial, this is a good way to get even with him, isn’t it?

MR. SNEDDON: Argumentative. Object, Your Honor. Move to strike.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you have any motive today, sir, to get even with Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember telling a therapist you’d rather get a million dollars from Mr. Jackson than work?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember being evaluated by a Ph.D. named Dr. Scott Gorsuch?

A. I don’t recall, sir.

Q. Do you recall being evaluated by a therapist in that lawsuit?

A. Probably at one point, but I don’t recall it, sir.

Q. Who was your lawyer in that case?

A. Mr. Ring from Santa Barbara.

Q. Do you remember, in response to being called a malinger, you said, “I’d like just a million from Mr. Jackson”?

A. That’s not true, sir.
Q. Never happened?
A. No, sir.
Q. Do you recall making statements you didn’t want to work again?
A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. After you left Mr. Jackson, you filed for disability, didn’t you?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You weren’t disabled, were you?
A. I think it was just unemployment, wasn’t it?
Q. Did you file for disability, Mr. Chacon, after you left Mr. Jackson’s employment?
A. It was unemployment, I believe it was.
Q. Okay. You had a deposition taken in that case under oath, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And that was not the first time you had ever been deposed, correct?
A. I don’t understand, sir, what you’re saying.
Q. You had had your deposition taken in lawsuits before that one, true?
A. No, sir. Not that I recall.
Q. That was the first deposition you’d ever had taken that you recall?
A. In my life?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Do you remember being asked if you were aware that your attorney wanted $16 million for you from Mr. Jackson and you said you understood that?
A. No, sir.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to show you a page from your deposition?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Where does it say 16 million? Oh, okay, I see that.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of your deposition?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Remember you said you were aware that your lawyer had asked for 16 million?

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to ask that counsel be directed to ask whether it refreshes his recollection before he reads.

MR. MESEREAU: I’m sorry. I will withdraw the question.

Q. Have you looked at that deposition?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were under oath at the time, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that you admitted you knew your lawyer had asked for $16 million?

A. No, sir.

Q. In fact, you said you didn’t think 16 million was enough, correct?

A. No, sir.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you your deposition?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: That’s on there.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that you didn’t think $16 million was enough to you?

A. No, sir, I don’t.

Q. You didn’t say that?

A. No, I mean, I don’t -- now I see it’s written down there, yes, sir.

Q. Well, how much did you want in the lawsuit, sir?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: In that lawsuit, you tried to extort Mr. Jackson, didn’t you?

A. No, sir.

MR. SNEDDON: Object; argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember being asked at the beginning of your deposition, “Have you ever been deposed before?” And you said, “Yes”?

A. No, I don’t recall, sir.

Q. Might it refresh your recollection to see that page?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay, sir.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does it remind you that you admitted you had been deposed before?

A. I -- I don’t remember. But it’s down there, yes, sir.

Q. Well, you’d been in other lawsuits before this, hadn’t --

THE COURT: Counsel, I believe it’s time for our break.

MR. MESEREAU: Oh.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: Counsel?

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Mr. Chacon, you mentioned to the jury someone named Kassim Abdool, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And was Kassim Abdool someone you worked with at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. And I believe you told the jury that he was the first person you talked to about your claim that Mr. Jackson was molesting young men, correct?
A. I believe so, yes, sir.
Q. Kassim Abdool joined you in that lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Kassim Abdool also had a judgment against him in favor of Mr. Jackson for $1,473,117.61, correct?
A. I believe so, sir, yes.
Q. Kassim Abdool joined you in trying to get millions from Mr. Jackson, right?
MR. SNEDDON: Object as argumentative, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Is that correct?
A. No, sir. No, sir.
Q. Oh, he didn't?

A. No, sir.
Q. He wasn't a plaintiff with you in that case?
A. Oh, he was, yes, sir.
Q. You're saying that Mr. Abdool was not looking for millions like you?
A. No, sir.
Q. How much did he want, Mr. Chacon?
A. There wasn't an amount, sir.
Q. After a six-month trial, your lawyer didn't ask the jury to award an amount for you, sir?
A. You'll have to ask Mr. Ring.
Q. You were sitting there, weren't you?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you hear him give a closing argument to the jury?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object; argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Are you telling this jury today, under oath, you don’t know how much your lawyer asked for in that six-month trial?
A. I saw it earlier when you showed --
MR. SNEDDON: Excuse me. I’m going to object as argumentative and immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: There was also someone named Adrian McManus who joined you in suing Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And Adrian McManus had worked at Neverland, right?
A. That’s correct, sir.
Q. And like you and Mr. Abdool, she lost the case, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. A Santa Maria jury ruled against her as well, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. Now, Adrian McManus was also found to have stolen property from Mr. Jackson, true?
A. No, sir.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the judgment?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial with regard to this witness’s testimony; beyond his knowledge; no foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you last talk to Adrian McManus?
A. Probably months; months ago.
Q. Did you talk about this case at all?
A. Only if I knew when I was coming down, and how she was doing.
Q. Is that all you discussed about this case?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long was the conversation?
A. Oh, couldn’t have lasted more than five minutes, because she was at work.

Q. When did you last talk to Kassim Abdool?

A. I have not, sir, at all.

Q. Not at all?

A. No.

Q. Okay. When's the last time you talked to him?

A. Probably the time when we left court here. Back then.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, when you sued Mr. Jackson, you had judgments against you in other cases, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object as immaterial.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you sued Mr. Jackson, the wages you were getting from Mr. Jackson were being partially garnished, correct?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object. Same objection.

MR. MESEREAU: Financial motive, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. You may answer.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They were being garnished because you wouldn't pay child support, true?

A. I was paying child support, sir.

Q. Then why were they garnished?

A. I assume that's the procedure they do when they want child support from you.

Q. You couldn't just send a check yourself?

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object to that --

THE COURT: Sustained; calls for a legal conclusion.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: At one point, you asked a Santa Barbara sheriff for money, true?

A. I don't recall, sir.

Q. Do you recall ever asking Mr. Birchim for some money?

A. No, sir.

Q. Are you saying it never happened?

A. I don't recall, sir.

Q. Okay. When did you last talk to Russ

Birchim?
A. This morning.
Q. Where did you talk to him?
A. Here at the courthouse.
Q. Did you talk about your testimony?
A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. So you’re not denying that you asked him for money and you’re not denying he gave it to you; you just don’t remember, right?
A. I don’t recall, sir.

Q. When did you first meet Russ Birchim?
A. I believe it was back in ‘93, I believe. I’m not sure.
Q. Ever hear of a company called Commercial Trade?
A. No, sir.
Q. You didn’t have a lawsuit with Commercial Trade in 1989?
MR. SNEDDON: Object as immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know someone named Judge Byrd?
A. No, sir.
Q. Judge Byrd had a judgment against you for a couple thousand dollars, didn’t she?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to this and ask the Court to admonish counsel.
THE COURT: The --
MR. MESEREAU: It’s all part of the financial motive, Your Honor.
THE COURT: There’s no time frame. The problem you’re asking about is when. I don’t know that. So I’ll sustain the objection on vagueness.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: At the time you sued Mr. Jackson for an amount you don’t remember, isn’t it true you had a judgment against you for $2600 by a Ms. Judge Byrd?

A. I don’t recall, sir.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you your deposition where you talked about it?
A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Oh, yes, sir.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that deposition page?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did it refresh your recollection?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who Judge Byrd is?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Do you know anything about a judgment she ever had against you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, when did you first tell Kassim Abdool, your co-plaintiff against Mr. Jackson, about this alleged molestation you witnessed?

A. Probably when -- when we -- when we knew that we were going to be subpoenaed to the grand jury.

Q. And approximately when was that?

A. I believe it was in ‘94 sometime.

Q. By the way, do you remember testifying that Sheriff Russ Birchim delivered money to you?

A. I don’t recall, sir.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you your deposition?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: It’s down there, but I don’t recall that, sir, at all.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Do you recall saying it?

A. No, sir, I don’t.

Q. Don’t recall anything about it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. It just is down there, right?

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object to the comment as argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember testifying under oath you asked Mr. Birchim for money?

A. I don’t recall, sir.

MR. SNEDDON: That’s been asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember asking for money so your wife could relocate?
A. Probably -- probably so, sir. Yes, sir.
Q. Okay. Do you remember wanting other bills paid?
A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. How long after you told Kassim Abdool, your co-plaintiff, about these alleged acts of molestation did you speak to anyone from law enforcement?
A. I don’t recall, sir.
Q. Was it years?
A. Oh, no. No, not years.
Q. How long was it?
A. Could have been weeks, days. I’m not certain, sir. It’s been a while.
Q. Did you review any documents to get ready to testify today?
A. No, sir.
Q. Anyone send you any documents to look at --
A. No.
Q. -- before you testified today?
A. No, sir.
Q. When did you last talk to Mr. Ring about your suit against Mr. Jackson?
A. I haven’t talked to Mr. Ring in years, sir.
Q. Okay. All right. Now, at the time you filed your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, you knew that other former employees at Neverland had sold stories to tabloids about Mr. Jackson, didn’t you?
A. Could you rephrase that, sir?
Q. Sure. At the time you filed your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, you were aware that other former employees at Neverland had sold stories to tabloids, correct?

A. I don’t understand the “others,” sir. Which others?
Q. Blanca Francia?
A. No, sir.

Q. Never heard of it?

A. Oh, yes, I heard of it. But I didn’t -- I wasn’t aware of that.

Q. Were you aware of anyone else at Neverland who was employed at one point trying to go to a tabloid to sell a story?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never heard anything about it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Did you ever hear anything about Adrian McManus doing that?

A. Well, we went to a tabloid.

Q. Which one?

A. It was The Star.

Q. And who was “we”?

A. It was myself, Adrian McManus, Kassim Abdool, and I guess that was it.

Q. And approximately when did you go to this tabloid?

A. We had met at Mr. Ring’s office in Santa Barbara.

Q. And after you met with your attorney, who represented you in the lawsuit, you went to a tabloid, correct?

A. Right. Yes, sir.

Q. And you wanted money for a story, true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did you meet with at the tabloid when you requested money?

A. Can you rephrase that, sir?

Q. Yes, sir. Who did you meet with when you went to a tabloid to request money?

A. Oh, there was myself, Kassim, Adrian, and whoever the reporter was, and Mr. Ring.

Q. Your lawyer was there with you, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did it with your lawyer because you thought that negative publicity would pressure Mr. Jackson into paying all of you money, right?

A. No.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “No.”

Next question.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You went to the tabloid before the case was tried to a jury, right?
A. I believe so, yes, sir.
Q. Had you filed a case before you went to the tabloid?
A. I don’t recall, but I believe so, sir.
Q. Did you sell a story to the tabloid?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you ever hire a broker to help you sell other stories to other tabloids?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you ever hear anything about McManus doing that?
A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. What other tabloids did you speak to?
A. None, sir.
Q. Just one?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Just Star?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. But you were aware that McManus went to other tabloids, true?
A. No, sir.
Q. Just Star?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you ever speak to anyone at Inside Edition?
A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. How about any other newspaper?
A. No, sir.
Q. Now, you wanted to sell information about Mr. Jackson allegedly acting wrongfully with young men, correct?
A. Yes, sir. To The Star.
Q. And you also wanted to sell information about his relationship with Lisa Marie Presley, correct?

A. No, sir.
Q. Never did that?
A. No, sir.
Q. Ever hear of any of your co-plaintiffs doing

that?

A. That I recall, I don't recall, sir.

Q. Don't recall it at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Was your story printed, to your knowledge?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Approximately when did that happen?

A. I don't know the date, sir.

Q. Any idea at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Can't even estimate, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. All right. How long after you told your co-plaintiff against Mr. Jackson, Mr. Kassim Abdool, about these alleged acts of molestation did you both go to a tabloid?

A. Oh, I -- it wasn't -- it wasn't right away. But I don't recall when it was.

Q. Okay. It was before you went to law enforcement, wasn't it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was it after it?

A. I believe so, sir. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Mr. Chacon, in late '93 and early '94, you told other people that Michael Jackson was innocent of molestation accusations, didn't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never told that to anyone at the ranch?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Are you familiar with a tabloid called Splash?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is Splash?

A. I believe it's a tabloid.

Q. Ever met with someone named Peter Burt from Splash?

A. I don't recall, sir.

Q. Are you saying you don't recall, or you don't -- you didn't?

A. I don't remember, sir, if I did or not.

Q. So you could have, but you don't remember?

A. Could have, but I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you know somebody named Sandy Domz?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was Sandy Domz?

A. She was one of the secretaries at Neverland Ranch.

Q. Okay. Do you recall Sandy Domz ever approaching a tabloid?

A. No, sir.

Q. Don’t know anything about it?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. Do you recall speaking to a book author named Gutierrez?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And approximately when did you speak to a book author named Gutierrez?

A. I believe that was before we went to Star, and -- but I don’t remember the -- I don’t remember the date or the time.

Q. Okay. Do you remember splitting money from any tabloids with any other employees or former employees of Neverland?

A. No, sir.

Q. You never split money for giving information to a T.V. show called Inside Edition?

A. That I recall, no, sir.

Q. So you’re not telling the jury you didn’t do it, you’re just saying, “I don’t recall”?

A. Well, I don’t -- I don’t think I did it or we did it, no, sir.

Q. You don’t know for sure?

A. I just don’t recall if we did or not, sir.

Q. You might have, but you don’t remember, right?

A. I don’t remember.

Q. Did you ever complain at Neverland that you should be paid more money than you were getting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember filing a claim for disability with EDD after you left Neverland?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Are you saying that didn’t happen?

A. Well, I filed for unemployment.

Q. Not disability?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. When is the last time you worked at Neverland; do you know?

A. It’s probably mid ‘94, I believe, or around there.

Q. Now, when you sued Mr. Jackson in Santa Maria, you also sued other people at Neverland, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. You sued James Van Norman, didn’t you?

A. Oh, yes, sir.

Q. You sued Tony Coleman?

A. Yes.

Q. You sued Marcus Johnson, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you sued Bill Bray, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Betty Bailey, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Andrew Merritt, right?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. And you were claiming that they had wrongfully interfered with your employment, correct?

A. Yes, sir, they did.

Q. And are these some of the people that you described as being bodyguards for Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, sir, the OSS.

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. You didn’t like the OSS being at Neverland, did you?

A. No, sir.

Q. You wanted to handle all of the security yourself, correct?

A. Well, there was a time that I was in charge, and I knew what I was doing, sir.

Q. And you felt they didn’t, right?

A. Well, they shouldn’t have interfered with my job.

Q. Okay. And obviously you lost that claim in front of a Santa Maria jury, correct?

A. Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The claims against the people in addition to Mr. Jackson who had worked at Neverland, you lost those claims, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, at the time you sued Mr. Jackson, you had complained that you couldn’t pay your rent, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever complain to anyone you couldn’t pay your rent?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never complained to any sheriff, right?

A. I don’t recall. I don’t think so, sir.

Q. Okay. But you don’t know for sure?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. All right. Now, when Mr. Jackson sued you for stealing his property, do you recall what property he was accusing you of stealing from him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the property?

A. It was candy bars from the theater. And the other stuff I’m not sure of, but I believe they were referring to my briefcase that had memos, my personal memos from my box at the security office.

Q. Anything else?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, the jury found that the material you stole was worth $25,000, correct?

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, they entered a judgment against you for $25,000 for maliciously converting Mr. Jackson’s property, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to this.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know what the amount was, Mr. Chacon?

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object. It's the same question, just asked a different way.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You were found to have stolen documents from Mr. Jackson, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object; asked and answered.

MR. MESEREAU: I don't think it is.

THE COURT: That question hasn't been asked, but the ruling that I made is that the issues that you can go into are not the issues of the lawsuit. It's the same as the J.C. Penney case. You can go into what he said, what he hasn't said, the same exact ruling, and you're --

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

THE COURT: The area you're in now has to do with the issues in the lawsuit. So I want you -- that's the line we're trying to walk here.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I'll move on, Your Honor.

Q. Do you know someone named Linda Allen, Mr. Chacon?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is Linda Allen?

A. She was my landlady in Lompoc.

Q. For how long?

A. Probably about a year. I'm not for certain of the length of time.

Q. When you were suing Mr. Jackson, you told Linda Allen you would soon be able to pay her the back rent you owed, right?

A. No, sir.

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object to that question. The same 403 ruling.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you do that, Mr. Chacon?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever tell Linda Allen, "I'm going to be a star witness against Michael Jackson"?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Ever tell Linda Allen you were going to be on the T.V. show Hard Copy to talk about Mr.

Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever tell Linda Allen you had a gun permit because you were a star witness against Michael Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. Ever tell Ms. Allen you were going to make two or three million dollars with your suit against Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. Ever will tell Linda Allen you were going to be driving a 450 Mercedes after you won your suit against Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. None of that rings a bell, right?

A. No. No.

Q. Okay. Now, in your meeting with the first tabloid that you talked to, okay, where Abdool was present, who else was there?

A. I believe Adrian McManus, Abdool, myself, Mr. Ring, and whoever represented that tabloid. I don’t know, sir.

Q. Who arranged the meeting?

A. Mr. Ring.

Q. Okay. Do you know someone named Gary Morgan?

A. I’ve heard the name before, yes, sir.

Q. Where have you heard the name?

A. Probably -- maybe he’s the one that represented the tabloid. I’m not sure.

Q. Okay. Did you ever talk to Gary Morgan?

A. I probably did, but I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Do you recall ever being interviewed by someone who claimed to be a media broker, meaning they could actually get you to various tabloids on T.V. or in print?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never heard of anything about that, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you draft a story for the tabloids at Mr. Ring’s office?

A. Probably, yes, sir. Probably did. I don't -- I don't recall, but I probably did.
Q. Why do you say you probably did?
A. Because it's kind of vague. It's been a long time, and I guess I did. I'm -- I would say I did, yes, sir.
Q. Well, it hasn't been much longer than the period of time you claim you remember these events about Mr. Jackson, true?
A. Well, I probably did, sir, draft that --
Q. Probably did, or you did?
A. I did.
MR. SNEDDON: It's argumentative.
THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was he did. Next question.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. And did you draft a story for Splash?
A. I believe that was the tabloid, sir.
Q. Okay. And after you drafted it, did you meet with somebody from Splash?

A. Whoever it was. I don't recall, sir.
Q. Were you personally interviewed by somebody from Splash?
A. We all were, sir.
Q. Jointly or individually?
A. Jointly.
Q. Okay. How long was the interview with Splash?
A. Could have been an hour or so. I'm not for certain how long.
Q. Do you recall telling anyone that you were using the money from Splash to help fund your lawsuit against Michael Jackson?
A. Yes, the money went directly to Mr. Ring.
Q. And that was approximately $17,000, wasn't it?
A. I don't know, sir. But whatever it was, he did get it.
Q. So can you estimate what it was?
A. I can't, sir.
Q. Okay. Did you get any money yourself as --
A. No, sir.
Q. Do you remember telling people you gave most of it to Mr. Ring, but you took about 500 bucks yourself?

A. Well, we had taken 500 bucks, but we gave it back to Mr. Ring, because he was our lawyer and he needed money.

Q. Okay. That was to fund the lawsuit where you sought millions from Michael Jackson, correct?

A. Well, that was the lawsuit, sir.

Q. That was the lawsuit you were trying to fund by selling stories to tabloids, true?

A. No, sir.

Q. No?

A. I really don’t understand your question.

Q. Sure, I’ll rephrase.

You were taking money from tabloids and using it to fund costs of your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson?

A. Oh. Yes, sir. I’m sorry.

Q. And before you went to Mr. Ring, you had told various people that you never saw anything inappropriate at Neverland, true?

A. No, sir.

Q. You told various people you’d never seen Michael Jackson molest anybody, true?

A. No, sir.

Q. So if anybody comes into court and says that, they’re just not telling the truth, right?

A. That’s correct, sir.

Q. Okay. When you first met with representatives of the sheriff’s department, did you tell them everything that you have said today about Mr. Jackson allegedly molesting young men?

A. Um, when you mean a sheriff, a certain sheriff, or at the sheriff’s department, or -- I don’t understand.

Q. Let me rephrase.

When you first spoke to a sheriff from Santa Barbara, did you tell that sheriff everything you’ve said today in court?

A. No, sir.

Q. The story has changed considerably since your first meeting with a sheriff, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to the use of the word “considerably” as argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would you agree that with each interview you do, you add more lurid facts about Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. You would agree your story about what you claim he did has changed through the years, has it not?

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn’t you just meet with Mr. Sneddon the other day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn’t you tell Mr. Sneddon you had new facts that you forgot in 1993?

MR. SNEDDON: Well, wait a minute. I’m going to object to that question. Your Honor, that’s not asked in good faith with regard to the -- I can’t do it without a speaking objection, but if we could approach the bench, because this is not right.

THE COURT: Overruled.

The question was, “Did you tell Mr. Sneddon you had new facts that you had forgot in 1993?”

THE WITNESS: Yes, I did.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You told Mr. Sneddon that you forgot to say certain things in 1993 about Mr. Jackson allegedly molesting young men, true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But now you remembered them in 2005, right?

A. Vaguely, yes, sir.

Q. And you said the person that remembered them with you is Kassim Abdool, true?

A. I haven’t talked to Kassim in years.

Q. Okay. When did you first start work at Neverland, Mr. Chacon?

A. I believe it was in ‘91, sir.

Q. Okay. You knew that in late ‘93 and early ‘94, the media was devoting a lot of attention to stories about Mr. Jackson at Neverland, correct?

A. Well, the media was always at Neverland at some time or other, sir.

Q. Before you chose to go to a tabloid, you knew that others were going to tabloids to try and tell stories about Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were the first, right?

A. That went to the media, to the tabloids?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when did you go?

A. It was probably ‘94 sometime.

Q. But you knew there was a lot of media attention before that, correct?

A. There always has been, sir.

Q. And you knew people were making money doing that, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. Weren’t aware of that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Thought they were doing it all for free, right, Mr. Chacon?

A. No, sir.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you think Mr. Jackson is an intimidating-looking individual?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember in your deposition you said you were entitled to damages because Mr. Jackson stared at you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Remember you said Mr. Jackson stared, and you didn’t know how to take it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you your deposition?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Okay. I remember.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: As part of your damage claim, do you remember saying that Mr. Jackson stared at you continuously?

A. Not continuously, sir.

Q. Well, you said “all the time,” right?

A. No, sir.

Q. You said no one else saw him staring at you, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. But it bothered you, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Why did you say it?

A. I guess just to say it.

Q. Okay. As part of your damage claim, you claimed that employees were threatening you at Neverland, right?

A. Yes, they were, sir.

Q. All right. And the jury didn’t believe that, did they?

MR. SNEDDON: I’ll object as argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you start working the graveyard shift at Neverland?

A. Immediately, sir, when I got hired on.

Q. Didn’t you gradually work your way into that?

A. Immediately I went to the graveyard. Then they shifted me to swings for a while, probably a month or so, and then I ended back on graveyard. As a matter of fact, I preferred to work graveyard, sir, because I had a second job.

Q. Where was the second job?

A. In Lompoc.

Q. What was that?

A. I worked for Wayne’s Tires.

Q. Do you remember problems with intruders while you worked at Neverland?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what problems with intruders do you remember?

A. Them coming on property and -- and we turned them over to the sheriff’s department.

Q. And how often do you remember that happening?

A. Probably several times, sir.
Q. Do you recall Mr. Jackson getting nervous about that?

A. No, sir.
Q. Did he seem to care about it, to you?
A. He wasn’t even there when we apprehended the people.
Q. He certainly learned about it, to your knowledge, correct?
A. I don’t know, sir.
Q. You never talked to him about it?
A. No, sir.
Q. And you were not aware of anyone else telling Mr. Jackson about these problems with intruders?
A. No, sir.
Q. All right. Sir, Mr. Jackson had some personal security guards because he was worried about these intruders being caught on the property, right?
A. I don’t believe so, sir.
Q. You and the other security people didn’t carry any weapons, right?
A. No, sir, we didn’t.
Q. And at times, that was a concern of Mr. Jackson’s, wasn’t it, that his security personnel there didn’t have any weapon to protect him?
A. I don’t know, sir.
Q. He had a general policy of not wanting people to carry weapons, true?

A. I don’t know, sir.
Q. You don’t know at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you ever see any of your security team carrying a weapon?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you know why?
A. No, sir.
Q. Had no idea at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. Never inquired?
A. No, sir.

Q. When you first joined up, did you ask anybody, “Do security people carry weapons at Neverland?”
A. No, sir.
Q. Were you given any manual to refer to when you worked at Neverland?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And what do you know about that manual?
MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object; vague.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. MESEREAU: It’s vague, I’ll rephrase.
Q. Are you telling the jury that when you started working security at Neverland, nobody told you, “We have a general policy of having security people not carry arms”?
A. Well, probably so, because nobody was carrying arms.

Q. Did you have a gun permit at the time?
A. No, sir.
Q. How many meetings did you have with representatives of the sheriff’s department before you think you told all the facts about what you say Mr. Jackson did with young men?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as argumentative; assumes facts.
THE COURT: Calls for a narrative. You can break that question down.
MR. MESEREAU: Sure.
Q. When was your first meeting with any representative of the sheriff’s department regarding what you claim you saw at Neverland?
A. I don’t recall, sir.
Q. Do you know approximately when it was?
A. No, sir, I don’t.
Q. Was it after you saw the events you described today?
A. I don’t recall, sir.
Q. Well, you’ve given the jury a detailed description of the events you claim you saw at Neverland, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. But you’ve forgotten when you talked to the sheriffs, correct?

A. Well, I know I talked to them, but I just don't recall exactly when it was at, sir.

Q. Do you know approximately when it was at?

A. It was in '94, I believe, sometime.

Q. Do you know how many meetings you've had with the sheriffs to date where you have talked about Mr. Jackson's inappropriate behavior?

A. Well, with the sheriffs, I didn't talk about this, the allegations. But with the grand jury, which I went to testify, that was the first time, and there was sheriffs present there.

Q. You testified before a Santa Barbara Grand Jury, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And after you testified, no criminal charges were brought, right?

A. Right, sir.

Q. You went to Los Angeles and talked to prosecutors --

A. No, sir.

Q. -- about what you claim -- you never did that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you tell Mr. Sneddon on direct examination that you were subpoenaed to a grand jury in Los Angeles?

A. Oh, yes, sir. But I didn't go.

Q. You didn't go. But you went down to be interviewed under oath instead of going, true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as a result of your interview under oath, no charges were ever brought in Los Angeles, right?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember testifying how upset you were at Neverland when you learned that other employees got raises and you didn't?

A. Yes, I believe there was one time.

Q. And tell the jury what that was all about.

A. Probably they had hired two or three security, and they -- I believe they paid them $12 an hour, and we were only getting $9 an hour.

Q. And did you complain about it to somebody?

A. Oh, yes, I did.

Q. Who?

A. Probably the lieutenant.

Q. And what happened?

A. Nothing ever happened.

Q. Was Mr. Abdool upset about that also, to your knowledge?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. And you and he met and talked about it, right?

A. Pardon me?

Q. You and he met and talked about it, correct?

A. Well, we all talked about that in security.

Q. You lodged a complaint, didn't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you think Mr. Jackson's security guards were being paid more than you?

A. The new ones, yes, sir.

Q. How did you know what they were getting paid?

A. I don't remember. I don't recall, sir, how we found out.

Q. When you told the jury you saw a young boy on Mr. Jackson's back, was that in the shower?

A. No, it was coming out, going towards his house.

Q. Was he on his shoulders?

A. You know, I don't recall if he was on his shoulders or on his back, like piggybacked, yes, sir.

Q. When you went to work at Neverland, you were asked to sign a confidentiality agreement, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And everybody who works at Neverland is asked to sign one, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the purpose, as explained to you, was that Mr. Jackson doesn't want employees just running to tabloids and telling stories, right?

A. Yes, sir, I believe so.

Q. When you went to a tabloid, you violated the agreement, correct?

MR. SNEDDON: Object, Your Honor, calls for a legal conclusion.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: No, sir.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You didn’t violate it all?

A. No, sir.

Q. So you thought going to a tabloid after you left your employment at Neverland was perfectly consistent with your confidentiality obligations to Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I don’t think I ever signed a confidentiality, sir.

Q. Sure about that?

A. I’m not for certain, but I don’t recall that I ever did.

Q. Weren’t you asked to?

A. I probably was. But at that time they didn’t have one for me.

Q. At the time you and Mr. Abdool and Ms. McManus and your lawyer went to the tabloid, your lawyer was trying to negotiate to get money from Mr. Jackson, wasn’t he?

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object. Lack of foundation and it assumes --

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: At the time you and Mr. Abdool and Ms. McManus and your lawyer went to a tabloid to give a story about Mr. Jackson, do you know whether or not your lawyer was trying to negotiate money from Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know whether or not your lawyer was trying to pressure Mr. Jackson by threatening bad publicity?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear of anything like that going on?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. So if that went on, you’d be shocked, true?

A. Probably not, sir.

Q. Probably not?

A. I guess not, no.

Q. Did you ever explain to Mr. Jackson yourself that you were having trouble making ends meet financially?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you explain to anyone at Neverland about that before you left?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. Without getting into any of your discussions with your lawyer, who of your group first went to that attorney?

A. Which attorney, sir?

Q. Ring. Mr. Ring.

A. Who first went to Mr. Ring?

Q. Yes.

A. Of us?

Q. Of you. Excuse me, let me rephrase the question. Make it clearer.

You, Mr. Abdool, Ms. McManus sued Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were represented by a lawyer in Santa Barbara named Mr. Ring, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he represented you throughout that six-month trial that you lost, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who first approached Mr. Ring about trying to get money from Mr. Jackson?

A. We all did, sir.

Q. Together?

A. We hired him, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Do you know how you found out about him?

A. I don’t recall, sir.

Q. Was he the only lawyer you talked to, or did you talk to some others?

A. I believe he was the only one we talked to, yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall whether you ever told anyone, “Mr. Jackson promised me if I did a good job, I would have a job at Neverland forever”?

A. No, sir.
Q. Did he ever say anything like that to you?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did anyone who hired you at Neverland?
A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. You met with Prosecutor Sneddon on April 6th, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Was anyone else at the meeting?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who?
A. Russ Birchim.
Q. Where did the meeting take place?
A. Here in Santa Maria.
Q. And who arranged the meeting?
A. I believe it was Mr. Sneddon.
Q. Did he call you on the phone?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did he tell you where to meet?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long was the meeting?
A. Probably less than an hour.
Q. Did you discuss anything you were going to say today?
A. I believe so, yes, sir.
Q. Did Mr. Sneddon tell you what questions he was going to ask you today?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you tell him what answers you were going to give to those questions?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you tell him anything about how you were going to respond?
A. I just told him that I would speak the truth.
Q. That’s it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long was the meeting?
A. Probably about -- less than an hour.
Q. So during the portion of that hour that you spoke, all you ever said was, “I’ll tell the truth, I’ll tell the truth, I’ll tell the truth,” or words to that effect?

A. No, sir. No, sir.

Q. Okay. He told you what questions he was going to ask you, correct?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. You told him what your responses were going to be, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was the -- excuse me. Before that meeting, when was the last time you had met with anyone from the prosecuting office here?

A. I didn't meet with anybody.

Q. Did you talk with anyone on the phone?

A. Yes, sir. I was --

Q. Who was that?

A. I believe it was a secretary from Mr. Sneddon's office.

Q. And what was that discussion about?

A. When I was supposed to be down here and how to get -- how to get to Santa Maria.

Q. How many meetings have you had with any representative of the sheriff's department in total to talk about your testimony?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object as vague as to time, a time period.

MR. MESEREAU: I'll rephrase it.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: In the last year, how many meetings have you had with anyone representing the Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department to talk about this case?

A. I haven't, sir.

Q. How about phone calls?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. You're aware of Mr. Jackson going on tour -- excuse me. Let me rephrase it. You're aware that Mr. Jackson periodically went on tour while you worked at Neverland, true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was your understanding he always had bodyguards with him, correct, on tour?

A. I understood that, yes, sir.
Q. Okay. You knew he was extremely concerned about his security, right?
A. His bodyguard security or security on the ranch?
Q. Well, Mr. Jackson was extremely concerned about security on the ranch, wasn't he?
A. I don't know, sir.
Q. You don't know?
A. No, sir.
Q. Even with these intruders, you're not sure if he was concerned?
A. Well, I'm sure he was concerned, but he was never there when we did apprehend them.
Q. Okay. You knew he had concerns about his personal security when he went on tour, right?
A. Oh, yes, sir. Yes, sir.
Q. And at all times that you worked on the ranch, you knew he had personal bodyguards when he went on tour, right?
A. When he went on tour, yes, sir.
Q. You knew he had personal protection when he went other places for other reasons, true?
A. I assume so, sir. I don't know.
Q. Do you remember complaining that Mr. Abdool got a raise when you didn't?
A. No, sir.

Q. Never happened?
A. No.
Q. When you left Neverland, you just stopped showing up for work, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You stopped showing up for work after you met with Attorney Ring, correct?
A. Probably so, yes, sir.
Q. You were disappointed that you weren't getting more money from tabloids, weren't you?
A. No, sir.
Q. Never complained to anybody about that?
A. No, sir.
Q. The first incident you claim you saw Mr. Jackson improperly touch a young man was when?
A. I don't recall. Between '92 and '93, I believe. I’m not for certain.

Q. Do you recall ever telling any representative of law enforcement the month or the year?

A. No, sir. I don’t -- no.

Q. And what shower are you claiming Mr. Jackson used when you say you looked in a shower and saw him acting inappropriately?

A. It was the outside rest rooms by the rec room.

Q. There were two of them, right?

A. Two rest rooms?

Q. Yes.

A. There was a women’s and a men’s room, I’m sorry.

Q. And which one do you claim you saw Mr. Jackson in?

A. In the men’s room, sir.

Q. Had you seen him in that men’s room before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. By the way, when you went to the Santa Barbara Grand Jury, you didn’t tell them everything you said today, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Everything?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell them everything you’ve told Mr. Sneddon?

A. Well, that one incident that I recalled I didn’t. I didn’t bring that up, no, sir.

Q. How long were you in front of a Santa Barbara Grand Jury?

A. Could have been a couple hours.

Q. And at some point, you called to see if anybody had charged Mr. Jackson with anything, didn’t you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never asked anyone?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never asked anyone in the sheriff’s department?

A. No, sir.

Q. Never asked Mr. Sneddon?
A. No, sir.
Q. To this day you’ve never asked that question, right?
A. No, sir.
Q. All right. When did you first learn Blanca Francia had sold a story to Hard Copy?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object. That question has been asked and answered and that assumes facts not in evidence.
MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase it.
THE COURT: All right.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever learn that Blanca Francia had told a story for $20,000 to the T.V. show Hard Copy?
A. No.
MR. SNEDDON: Object. Asked and answered.
THE COURT: All right. He answered it. It’s “No.” Next question.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever learn she had sold a story to Hard Copy, without knowing the amount she got?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When did you learn that?
A. Probably on the news.
Q. On the news when?

A. I don’t recall, sir. It was -- it was public knowledge.
Q. Did you see the show?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you hear about it right after it appeared on television?
A. No, sir.
Q. Were you employed when that was on television?
A. No, sir.
Q. Where were you working at that point?
A. Where was I working? That’s a good question. I believe I was already in Nevada by that time.
Q. And what were you doing there?
A. I was a substitute teacher at a high school and junior high.

Q. What year was this?
A. ‘96, ‘7, ‘8.
Q. Do you remember learning that security guards at the Jackson home in Encino had sold stories for $100,000?
A. No, sir, I didn’t know anything about that place.
Q. Never heard anything about that?
A. Well, I know they had security guards, but I never heard anything.
Q. Did you hear anything about security guards at the Encino home selling a story for $100,000?

A. No, sir.
Q. All right. Ever know someone named Quindoy?
A. I want to say that the Quindoys -- I believe they were chefs, I believe, but I’m not positive.
Q. They were what?
A. I believe they were cooks or chefs there at some property.
Q. Did you know them?
A. No, sir.
Q. Ever talk to them?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you know they had tried to sell stories to tabloids about Mr. Jackson?
A. No, sir.
Q. Had you ever heard anything about that as you sit here today?
A. Probably have, but I don’t recall.
Q. Okay. Now, at some point you claimed you were improperly subjected to electronic surveillance at Neverland, right?
A. Could you be a little bit more specific, sir?
Q. Sure.
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object. I’m going to object because of the 403 ruling, but more specifically because there are multiple defendants in the causes of action. It may be different as to different individuals.

MR. MESEREAU: I’m only talking about him, Your Honor. His claims against Mr. Jackson.

THE COURT: I’m going to allow the question, but I’m going to do so assuming it’s not related to specific allegations in the Complaint, which I already said you can’t directly go into.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Well, there were such -- there were such claims, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I know, but we’re not relitigating that issue. But he could have made a claim or his attorney could have made a claim.
You’re asking him not about claims his attorney made, but claims that he made.

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, I am.

THE COURT: I’m going to allow the question with that understanding.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: But you probably have to read it back to him.
Do you remember the question?

MR. MESEREAU: I can rephrase it.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll withdraw it.

Q. Do you remember claiming that you were emotionally distressed because you thought your telephone conversations were listened in to at Neverland?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you never knew whether or not there was a tap on any phone, correct?

A. Yes, I did, sir.

Q. Are you saying you did know there was a tap?

A. Yes, sir, I knew that they had equipment where they were listening in.

Q. Do you remember testifying under oath you didn’t know if your phone was tapped?

A. At home or at the ranch, sir?

Q. Either place.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever state under oath you didn’t know whether your phone was tapped?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I object to the question as vague as to place.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You claim you had been emotionally damaged because someone listened in to your calls at Neverland, right?

A. Emotionally damaged. Well, I probably -- probably didn’t say that, but I was upset because they were listening to my personal phone calls, sir.

Q. Okay. And your basis for saying that was that somebody had told you that was going on, right?

A. No, sir, I knew it was going on.

Q. You had no knowledge of electronic surveillance at the time, did you?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did you have a check done on the phones?

A. No, sir.

Q. When is the last time you talked to any tabloid about this case?

A. I have not, sir.

Q. You haven’t?

A. I haven’t talked to anyone.

Q. Are you planning to go to a tabloid after you testify?

A. No, sir. I just want to go home.

Q. Did you make a complaint that your employee file was unfairly looked at at Neverland?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who did you think had unfairly looked at your employee file?

A. The OSS, sir.

Q. That’s Mr. Jackson’s personal security guards?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any idea why they were suspicious of you?

A. No, sir.

Q. They were, weren’t they?

A. I don’t know, sir.

Q. Did you ever talk to them about why they wanted to see what was in your personnel file?

A. Yes, I approached them.

Q. This was around the time you went to a tabloid, wasn’t it?

A. No, sir.

Q. This was around the time you went to Mr.

Ring, wasn't it?

A. No, sir.

Q. It was very close to the time you left employment at Neverland, wasn't it?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember saying you thought Mr. Jackson should compensate you for the rest of your life?

A. No, sir.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to show you your deposition transcript?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Where is the beginning?

Oh, I must have, sir.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page in your deposition?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection that you testified under oath that you thought Mr. Jackson should compensate you for the rest of your life?

A. I must have said that, yes, sir, because it's on there.

Q. Now, was it the policy at Neverland to notify the local sheriffs if an intruder was caught on the property?

A. Yes, sir, that's correct.

Q. Did you personally notify the sheriffs at any time about an intruder being on the property?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you recall you personally apprehending any intruders?

A. Myself and Abdool, yes, sir.

Q. And what happened?

A. There was an intruder that came behind the pool area. It was a reporter. And we just apprehended him and took him down to the front gate and probably the security at the gate called the sheriffs.

Q. The pool area is right next to Mr. Jackson's house, isn't it?

A. Around the area, yes, sir.

Q. And how many people did you apprehend on that occasion?

A. One. One, sir.

Q. How far did that intruder have to travel to get to the pool area?

A. I don’t know which direction he came in, sir. Could have been -- could have been a mile, two miles, three miles. I don’t know, sir.

Q. And you also were involved in some other situations where intruders tried to get to Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And please describe those events.

A. Kind of vague, but I believe there was two -- two young people, a male and a female, I believe, and they were up by -- they were up by the -- by the theater.

Q. The theater would be up near the zoo area?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who caught them?

A. I believe it was mobile. I don’t know who it was that was on mobile that evening, that night, but it was mobile patrol.

Q. Did you ever steal a watch from Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever accused of that?

A. No, sir.

Q. You mentioned candy bars earlier, remember?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you think the jury awarded Mr. Jackson $25,000 against you because you took candy bars?

A. That’s what --

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object as argumentative.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Redirect?

MR. SNEDDON: Yes.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. All right. Let’s go back just for a second.

Mr. Chacon, were you subpoenaed to be here this morning?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You're under subpoena?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you want to come testify?

A. No, sir.

Q. When you testified before the grand jury, were you under subpoena?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you want to testify?

A. No, sir.

Q. Prior to your appearance before the grand jury, you told the ladies and gentlemen that you met with attorneys for Mr. Jackson; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And with regard to that conversation, did they want to know what you were going to say?

A. They did.

Q. And what did you tell them?

A. I said that I got subpoenaed, and if I got subpoenaed, that I would just speak the truth, but I didn't tell them what I knew, but they wanted to know.

Q. They wanted to know, but you wouldn't tell them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you told them you were going to tell the grand jury the truth?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you do that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, with regard to Mr. Mesereau saying that you added something to the events that occurred yesterday when you and I were talking, do you recall him asking you that question?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The new information you provided yesterday had nothing to do with the two events you've described to the jury, had they?

A. No, sir.

Q. There was nothing that changed about that, was there?

A. No, sir.
Q. In fact, the event that you indicated -- there was -- something that you remembered was something you were told by another person; wasn’t that correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And who was that other person?
A. Abdool.

Q. It was in no way connected to the testimony you gave concerning the two incidents you observed?
A. No, sir.
Q. Now, with regard -- just so the jury has a clear indication of the sequence here, you were subpoenaed to appear before the Santa Barbara County Grand Jury, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, when you actually gave your statement under oath, was there a line of jurors like this in the room?
A. Back in ninety --
Q. ‘94, when you came in.
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, how long after that was it that Mr. Ring became involved in the civil lawsuit? Let me put it this way: After you appeared before the Santa Barbara Grand Jury and gave a statement under oath, do you recall that?
A. Oh, yes, sir.
Q. And you went back to work at the ranch, did you not?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you worked at the ranch, Neverland Valley Ranch, for a while before you left there, correct?
A. Probably a month or so, or two. I’m not positive.

Q. Was it at that point that you became involved in the lawsuit with Mr. Ring?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Whose idea was it to go to the tabloid for the story?
A. Well, we probably talked about it, but we talked to Mr. Ring about it. I guess it was all of us in general.

Q. After you -- Mr. Mesereau asked you about your salary at the ranch. Do you recall that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you spoke about being dissatisfied with the wages that you were getting --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- compared to some people that had been hired afterward, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. After your conversations with Mr. Sanger and Steve Cochran about your grand jury appearance, were you offered a raise?

A. Yes, sir, I was.

Q. And it was before your testimony actually occurred before the grand jury, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So it was in between the time they found out you were going and the time that you actually appeared they offered you a raise?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Mr. Kassim also, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Actually, it’s Mr. Abdool.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, during the course of the -- let me ask you this: After you testified before the grand jury and gave your statement under oath about what you saw happen on those two incidents - okay? - did you receive threats?

A. Oh, yes, sir.

Q. In what form?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. SNEDDON: Judge, it’s what led to the lawsuit. And counsel was allowed to go into that.

THE COURT: All right. With that representation, I’ll change my ruling.

THE WITNESS: Could you --

MR. SNEDDON: Yes.

Q. You said you were threatened. In what form?

A. Verbally, and -- well, verbally, and somewhat physically by someone touching their -- Tony Coleman touching his weapon.

Q. Tony Coleman was who?
A. He was OSS.
Q. All right. Would you describe to the jury -- if you have to stand up, do it. Describe to the jury what Mr. Coleman did.

A. We were in the security office, and we were arguing about an intruder that came in, and he wanted to do it his way. And I said, “If you do it that way, we’re going to” -- “it’s not the procedure.”
And then he says, “Well, I’m going to do it my way because I’m here to oversee you.” And he touched -- he pulled his coat back and he touched his weapon, and he says, “I’m in charge here.” I believe that’s the words he used.
Q. Did he at any other time ever use his weapon to indicate a threat towards you?
A. No, sir, that was about the first time.
Q. Did you ever receive any phone calls of any kind that were threatening?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you report those to law enforcement?
A. Yes, I did, sir.
Q. How many occasions did that occur?
A. Several times. One time when we first started, somebody says --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive
THE COURT: After “several times,” sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Tell us about those threats that you received.
A. The first time I received it, they said, “I’m going to kill you.”
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, goes to the state of mind and to the reason for the lawsuit.
THE COURT: I’m going to overrule the objection as to state of mind.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Go ahead.
A. Someone called and said, “I’m going to kill you,” and hung up. And then other times we had calls at the house where they would either laugh or wouldn’t say words, but we knew that someone was -- I believe it was OSS behind this.

Q. Did you as a result -- did you take these things seriously?

A. Oh, yes, sir.

Q. Did you approach anyone with regard to obtaining a gun permit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who did you approach?

A. I asked Mr. Birchim and yourself for a gun permit. So I carried a concealed weapon permit for about two years, I believe it was.

Q. You indicated that you may have asked Sergeant or now Commander Birchim for money for your wife --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- do you recall? Do you remember why that was?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why was that?

A. Well, my wife’s sister-in-law had just died, and --

Q. That’s all right, I’ll withdraw the question. That’s okay. It’s not important. Mr. Mesereau asked you about - we’ll turn to a subject a little easier - about my conversation with you yesterday --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- with Mr. Birchim being there.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you told Mr. Mesereau how long the conversation lasted, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Mr. Birchim present during the entire conversation?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Were there portions of time before Mr. Birchim got there that you and I talked a little bit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did we talk about anything about this case?

A. No, sir. We talked about my military experience, and that you knew some people that I knew where I was born and raised.

Q. Had nothing to do with the case during the time Birchim wasn’t there?
A. No, sir.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE WITNESS: No, sir.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Now, when we were talking yesterday --
THE COURT: Sustained. Go ahead.
(Laughter.)
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: When we were talking yesterday and Mr. Mesereau asked you did I tell you what questions I was going to ask you today, do you recall him asking you that question?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What was the question that I actually asked you; do you remember?
A. I believe it was the incidents that took place, the two incidents that happened on the ranch.
Q. And I asked you just to describe them in your own words to me?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And Sergeant -- or Commander Birchim was there during that entire time?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Mr. Mesereau mentioned something about an individual called Victor Gutierrez. Do you remember that?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were you ever paid any money by Mr. Gutierrez?
A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever give him a statement at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. You indicated that the individuals who were on the ranch that were armed were called the OSS. Was that their official name, or was that a name that the security staff gave them?
A. I believe that’s -- it was used for them as a short title. Office of Special Services, but they used it as -- just call them OSS.

Q. And with regard to -- you told the jury that they interfered with you on how you did your job. In what respect? I mean, what was the tension or the friction between the two of you?

A. They just -- they just interfered in every aspect of our duty as security there. They would break the beams, the security beams, and they would cause us to run out there thinking it was an intruder. They would come by and laugh, and just make jokes, and/or sit out in their vehicle and stare at us inside the security office.

Q. With regard to the lawsuit itself that Mr. Mesereau has asked you a number of questions about, were you ever consulted about the amount of money that was going to be sued for?

A. No, sir.

Q. Whose judgment did you leave that decision?

A. Mr. Ring.

Q. Did you legit -- did you feel, yourself, that you were entitled to some money from Mr. Jackson because of the way you were treated on the ranch?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you still feel that way?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained; stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: You told the jury that you knew that you were being -- your telephones on the ranch were being monitored, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How did you know that?

A. It was common knowledge that -- in the main office where Sandy Domz worked at, there was a computer paper printout that -- you could hear, and it printed out the phone calls as they were made, either going out or coming in.

Q. Now, just a couple of more questions. With regard to the lawsuit, the trial, the civil lawsuit, were you -- or did you -- during that lawsuit, were you allowed or permitted to testify concerning the incidents you told this jury about this morning in that lawsuit?

A. No, sir. As a matter of fact, the judge said if I -- if we --
Q. You just weren't allowed to?

A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. Mr. Chacon, is there anything that you've told this jury this morning about what you saw out there on those two incidents that is anything but the truth?
A. It's the truth, sir.
MR. SNEDDON: No further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mr. Chacon, the prosecutor has just asked you to talk about problems you had with the OSS, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And the OSS was a nickname someone developed to call Mr. Jackson's personal bodyguards?
A. They themselves, sir.
Q. You wanted money to be awarded to you from a Santa Maria jury because of your problems with the personal security guards of Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Your claims were rejected, true?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You also claimed at the time $16 million wasn't enough for you, right?
A. I probably did, sir. Yes, sir.
Q. The prosecutor just asked you if you knew anything about the amounts you were seeking, and of course you did, right?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. You wanted money because you claim that people were calling your home and hanging up, correct?
A. That was part of it, sir, yes, sir.
Q. And a Santa Maria jury rejected that claim, correct?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said that someone named Coleman had put his hand on his gun because he didn’t like the way you wanted to handle an intruder; is that correct?
A. No, because he wanted to handle it.
Q. He was a personal security guard, correct?
A. OSS. Not a security guard.
Q. He was carrying a -- well, this group you call the OSS, they’re bodyguards for Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Yes, sir, they are.
Q. And they were carrying weapons, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And he was concerned about the intruder, correct?
A. No, sir.
Q. You sued also claiming you should get money because of what Mr. Coleman did on that day, correct?
A. He threatened me, yes, sir.

Q. And that was rejected by a Santa Maria jury as well, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you wanted money because you said Mr. Jackson stared at you on occasion, correct?
A. No, sir.
Q. Why did you say it?
A. Just to say it.
MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.
MR. SNEDDON: No questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
Call your next witness.
MR. ZONEN: Call Adrian McManus to the stand.
THE COURT: Come to the front of the courtroom, please.
When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing. Face the clerk over here and raise your right hand.

ADRIAN MARIE McMANUS
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.
THE WITNESS: Adrian Marie McManus;

A-d-r-i-a-n; M-a-r-i-e; M-c-M-a-n-u-s.
THE CLERK: Thank you.
MR. ZONEN: May I proceed?
THE COURT: Yes.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. ZONEN:
Q. Ms. McManus, good morning.
A. Good morning.
Q. Without telling us the location or the name of where you’re working, describe the kind of work you’re currently doing.
A. I work in a jewelry department where I sell diamonds.
Q. Is this a department store?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Is it in the Santa Maria area?
A. Yes.
Q. How long have you been working at that department store?
A. Seven years in July.
Q. You work in the diamond department, do you?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. There is such a thing as a diamond department?
A. Yes.
Q. They sell raw diamonds or finished diamonds or jewelry?

A. Fine diamonds, jewelry.
Q. All right.
A. It’s actually a lot of diamonds.
Q. Okay. Have you worked in that department the entire time?
A. No.
Q. Have you worked in other departments in that store as well?
A. Yes.
Q. Prior to that, what kind of work were you doing?

A. I was a merchandise assistant for the cosmetic department.

Q. At the same store?

A. Yes.

Q. For what period of time?

A. Probably the beginning of my employment. Maybe about four years.

Q. And prior to that, what kind of work were you doing?

A. Do you mean like after that or before that?

Q. Before working with this store.

A. I worked for Sears, and I ran -- I was in the cosmetic department.

Q. Did you ever work for Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you see Michael Jackson in this courtroom?

A. I don’t have my glasses. I forgot them upstairs.

Q. How far can you see?

A. I can’t see real far.

Q. Can you see me?

A. Yeah, blurry.

Q. I won’t ask that question, then.

Can you read, in the event we need to show you some documents?

A. No, I need to get my glasses.

Q. We’re going to have a break in a few minutes. I’ll reserve all those questions until we have that break.

You did work for Michael Jackson at some point, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. For what period of time did you work for Michael Jackson?

A. From, I think, August 29th of 1990 through July 31st of 1994.

Q. In what capacity? What kind of work did you do for Mr. Jackson?

A. At the beginning I was just a maid, regular housekeeper. Nine months later I was cleaning his bedroom.

Q. And did you continue that job for the duration of your employment?
A. Yes.

Q. Were you the only person cleaning his bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Tell me how that worked. Why were there not other people involved in cleaning his bedroom as well?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What were you told about who would be cleaning his bedroom?
A. I was just told that I was flexible and that I was the one to clean his bedroom.
Q. And that was that entire time after a few months after you commenced working for Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. So it was early ‘91?
A. I just know it was nine months after, because I started in ‘90, and --
Q. Now, up to that point, you were responsible for cleaning other locations at Neverland; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. What were those other locations? Tell us what your job included.
A. Before that time?
Q. Yes.
A. Cleaning the rec room, the ranch house, the guest units, the hill house, the main house, except his bedroom at that time.

Q. Do you know who the person was who was responsible for cleaning his bedroom before you?
A. Blanca Francia.
Q. And did you know Blanca Francia?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you the one who took over that job when she left?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you take over that job as soon as she left?

A. Yes.

Q. Describe to us what those responsibilities included, cleaning --

THE COURT: Let's take a break.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Thank you. Where we left off before the break, I was asking you about your responsibilities, once you assumed the position of being the personal maid for Michael Jackson.

And before I get to that, do you have your glasses?

A. Yes.

Q. Is Mr. Jackson here in the courtroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Could you identify him, please?

A. He's right here.

MR. ZONEN: And the record should reflect.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What were your responsibilities as his personal maid?

A. To pick up after Mr. Jackson, anything to do with his clothes, his -- washing his clothes, fixing his bed, cleaning his bedroom.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: I'm sorry, can you speak more into the microphone?

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You have to stay fairly close to the microphone to be able to be heard all the way to the back of the courtroom, if you will.

Describe his bedroom suite for us, please.

A. It was a very big room. There was a second level to it. There was a Jacuzzi on one side with a bathroom. A closet. Inside that closet was a secret closet.

The other side of the room there was a bathroom also, and another walk-in closet, and there was a stairway that led up to the second level.

Q. Were your responsibilities limited to that suite?

A. At one time, yes.

Q. All right. What if Mr. Jackson was gone for a while, if he was on tour, or out of town for a period of time, what would you do?

A. I still had to pick up the room, as far as keeping it dusted, and brassing, and cleaning the tub. There was still a lot to do.

Q. Were there responsibilities that went beyond the suite on those occasions?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson have monkeys during that period of time, or apes, or chimps, or --

A. Yes.

Q. -- primates?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they living in his room?

A. They weren’t living in his room, but they were brought into his room.

Q. Were there cages for them?

A. Some -- well, when I seen them, they were running around.

Q. Did you ever see cages in his room?

A. I don’t recall seeing cages in the room.

Q. Were you, on occasion, required to tend to the monkeys or clean up after the monkeys?

A. Yes.

Q. And describe what that obligation was.

A. Well, there was a little monkey, a chimp, and --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Relevance, Counsel?

MR. ZONEN: I’ll withdraw the question. Let me move on.

Q. Were you the personal maid for the balance of time that you were there?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Do you know a person by the name -- or did you know a person by the name of Wade Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was Wade Robeson?

A. He was a little boy that used to go to the ranch, and he was from Australia.

Q. How old was he when you saw him at the ranch?

A. I don’t know exact. Maybe 10, 11.

Q. Now, you have a son, do you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And your son at that time was approximately how old?

A. Maybe ten.

Q. About the same age as Wade Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. Did your son ever come with you to Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. On many occasions?

A. Yes.

Q. Did your son know Wade Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they, on occasion, play together?

A. Off and on.

Q. For what period of time did you see Wade Robeson there at the ranch; do you recall?

A. Are you talking about, like, months or --

Q. Well, for what period of time did Wade Robeson visit the ranch?

A. Are you talking about years or just the timing, like?

Q. From the earliest time that you saw him visit to, say, the last time you saw him visit, if you can recall, give us a sense of what period of time that was.

A. I would say probably 1992. I don’t know how many months.

Q. And did you see him there for a long period of time?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How often did he visit during that period of time? In other words, how many separate times did he come, to your recollection?

A. There were a lot of times. Come maybe for a week or the weekend.

Q. All right. And that was my next question.

A. Sorry.

Q. How long would he stay when he did come?

A. Sometimes a weekend, sometimes maybe a little longer.

Q. And during that period of time, where did -- where did Wade Robeson stay when he was at the house, when he was at the ranch?

A. In Mr. Jackson’s room.

Q. Were you the personal maid for Mr. Jackson during the entire time that Wade Robeson visited?

A. I believe so. Yes.

Q. Let me change that again.

During the period of time that you were the personal maid, was Wade Robeson visiting that entire time?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. I think you said among your responsibilities were to pick up after Mr. Jackson and wash clothing. Do you have a recollection as to whether or not you saw Wade Robeson’s personal possessions?

A. Sometimes.

Q. And I asked you where Wade Robeson stayed, and you said Mr. Jackson’s room. Do you know where he stayed in the room?

A. In the same bed as Mr. Jackson.

Q. Okay. Were there other beds in Mr. Jackson’s suite during that period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. Where were the other beds?

A. There was one upstairs in like -- I don’t know if you’d call it -- in like a loft.

Q. Was that bed ever used?

A. No.

Q. Do you have a recollection of ever changing sheets on that bed?

A. I did, you know, just to keep it kind of up, but not always.

Q. Do you have a recollection of anybody ever seeping in that bed; in other words, coming in and discovering that those sheets had simply been used, the bed had been used?

A. Yes.

Q. How often?

A. Maybe -- maybe once.

Q. During the entire time that you were the personal maid for Mr. Jackson?

A. I believe so.

Q. All right. Did you know Wade Robeson's parents, mother or father?

A. I don't ever remember meeting a father, but I remember the mother.

Q. And where did she stay when they were there?

A. In the guest unit.

Q. Did Wade Robeson have any brothers or sisters who came?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if Wade Robeson's mother ever stayed in Mr. Jackson's residence?

A. No. I recall her in the guest units.

Q. Did you see Wade Robeson in Mr. Jackson's residence?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who Macaulay Culkin is?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is Macaulay Culkin?

A. He was a little boy that used to come to the ranch.

Q. Do you know during what period of time Macaulay Culkin came to the ranch?

A. 1990, maybe, through maybe '93.

Q. He was there for extended periods as well?

A. Yes.

Q. And by "extended periods," what do we mean?

A. Sometimes a week. Sometimes longer.

Q. Did he visit frequently during that period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he ever there during the period of time that Wade Robeson was there?

A. I can't recall.

Q. Did Macaulay Culkin have brothers or sisters?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how many brothers or sisters he had?

A. I'm thinking maybe seven or eight.

Q. It was a large family?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever meet his parents?

A. Yes.

Q. Would all of them come to the ranch on occasion?

A. Sometimes.

Q. Were there occasions when Macaulay Culkin came by himself?

A. Sometimes.

Q. And on those occasions when he came by himself, how long, typically, would he stay?

A. The weekend. Sometimes his parents would show up later and they'd be there maybe a week.

Q. How old was Macaulay Culkin when he was visiting the ranch during that period of time?

A. Maybe 11. 10 or 11 maybe.

Q. At the earliest -- you gave us a period of time that was over two or three years. What was the youngest age you remember seeing him, as best you can recall?

A. Maybe ten.

Q. Okay. Was Macaulay Culkin -- do you know him to be an actor?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you seen things that he's been in, movies or television?

A. Maybe one.

Q. Do you know where Macaulay Culkin stayed when he was at the ranch?

A. In Mr. Jackson's room.

Q. And as I had asked previously, do you know where in Mr. Jackson's room he stayed?

A. In his bedroom, in his bed.

Q. And how do you know that?

A. Because when I would -- when I would go in the room the next day, there was just one bed that I had to fix.

Q. Do you know if Macaulay Culkin and Wade Robeson's visit would overlap on occasion, when both would be there at the same time?

A. Can you repeat that?

Q. I'm sorry?

A. Can you repeat it?

Q. If their visits would overlap, if they would be there at the same time. Do you have a recollection of seeing Macaulay Culkin and Wade Robeson there at the same time?

A. I could have.

Q. Do you know where Macaulay Culkin’s family stayed when they were at the ranch?

A. Usually at the guest units.

Q. And the guest units were a separate building?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if his brothers or sisters ever stayed overnight in Mr. Jackson’s personal residence, his personal suite?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Who is Jordan Chandler?

A. He’s another little boy that used to come to the ranch.

Q. Do you know what period of time he used to come to the ranch?

A. Maybe ‘93.

Q. Was it for as long a period of time as Mr. Culkin, Macaulay Culkin came to the ranch?

A. No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Can you tell us the period of time that Jordan Chandler visited at Neverland? In other words, at what time did it commence and at what time did it end, if at all, during your period of employment?

A. Maybe 1993 and maybe through ‘94. Maybe early, maybe late -- actually, maybe late ‘93.

Q. Who is Brett Barnes?

A. Another boy that used to come to the ranch.

Q. How old was Brett Barnes when he visited?

A. Probably maybe 11.

Q. For what period of time did Brett Barnes come to the ranch?

A. He was there quite a lot. Mid -- maybe 1993.

Q. Do you know approximately what period of time Brett Barnes would come and visit? In other words, over what period of time, measured in months, measured in years, measured in weeks, from the first visit to the last?

A. I would -- I’m thinking maybe 1992 through maybe 19 -- late 1993.
Q. When Brett Barnes came to the ranch, did he come with family?
A. Yes.
Q. And who in his family did he come to the ranch with?
A. With his mother and his sister.
Q. Did you ever meet Brett Barnes’ father?
A. I don’t believe there was a father in that picture. I have never seen a father.
Q. Brett Barnes has a sister, you say, who came?
A. Yes.
Q. How old was she?
A. I would say maybe 13.
Q. How frequently did Brett Barnes come to the ranch during that period of time?
A. A lot.
Q. And by “a lot,” what do we mean? Would it be more than one visit a month?
A. Yes.
Q. And when he came, how long did Brett Barnes stay?

A. Sometimes -- sometimes a week. Sometimes less than a week.
Q. Where did he stay when he came?
A. In Mr. Jackson’s room.
Q. Where did he sleep when he was there?
A. In Mr. Jackson’s bed.
Q. Do you have a recollection at any time either fixing a bed for Brett Barnes that was separate from Mr. Jackson’s bed or cleaning up after a bed separate from Mr. Jackson’s bed?
A. No.
Q. I had asked you about Jordan Chandler. When he came to Neverland Ranch, did he come with his family?
A. Jordan came with his mother and his little sister.

Q. Do you know how old the little sister was?
A. Maybe four.
Q. She was a small child?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever meet Jordan Chandler's father?
A. I never -- I never met -- I never seen his father around there. I never met him.
Q. During the visits when Jordan Chandler came, where did his mother and sister stay?
A. In the guest unit.
Q. And where did Jordan Chandler stay?
A. In Mr. Jackson's room.

Q. Consistently?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did Jordan Chandler sleep when he was in Mr. Jackson's room?
A. In Mr. Jackson's bed.
Q. Now, do you have a recollection of these four boys being there at the same time, Macaulay Culkin, Jordan Chandler, Brett Barnes, and Wade Robeson?
A. Um, I -- I kind of recall Brett being there with Jordie, at the same time. And, you know, it could have been Wade also, when Brett was there.
Q. Would that have been a common occurrence?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Not always.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you understand -- not always?
A. Not always.
Q. Do you have a recollection of specific events of all of them being there together or the two or the three that you mentioned?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I just recall seeing them

there at the same time, Brett and Jordie.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Brett and Jordie?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how many times you saw Brett and Jordie there together?

A. At least two times.

Q. During the entire period of time that you worked as Michael Jackson’s maid, personal maid, was it a frequent occasion that there would be one of those four boys there?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “Yes.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was there ever an occasion that one of those four boys was there and did not stay in Michael Jackson’s bedroom and bed?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was there ever an occasion that you personally witnessed during the time that you worked as his personal maid when any of those four boys stayed -- and you were on duty, where they stayed in the guesthouse and not in Mr. Jackson’s bed?

A. No.

Q. As part of your obligations and responsibilities as the maid, did you clean up in the bathrooms?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there a Jacuzzi in the bathroom?

A. It wasn’t in -- yes, but --

Q. Am I describing the room incorrectly or inaccurately?

A. Yeah, because it wasn’t really attached. It was just one room where the Jacuzzi was, and off to the side there was a bathroom and a shower.

MR. ZONEN: Just one second.

Q. During the period of time that you were working as Mr. Jackson’s personal maid, did you ever see behavior by Mr. Jackson toward any of these boys that concerned you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: And which of the four boys are we talking about?
A. Macaulay Culkin, Brett Barnes and Jordie Chandler.
Q. All right. Let’s begin with Macaulay Culkin. What is it that you saw that concerned you?
A. I was coming out of the bathroom by his bedroom, by Mr. Jackson’s bedroom. I was cleaning that bathroom. And when I came out, I saw Mr. Jackson and Macaulay in the library, and Mr. Jackson was kissing him on his cheek, and he had his hand kind of by his leg, kind of on his rear end.

Q. Did they know that you were there?
A. I don’t know --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you announce your presence to them?
A. No.
Q. Where were you at the time you witnessed this?
A. I was coming out of the bathroom by Mr. Jackson’s bedroom.
Q. All right. Is that on the first floor?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that where you were?
A. Yes.
Q. Were they on the first floor as well?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you -- did you note that they were in the room or had come into the room?
A. No.
Q. Were you surprised to see them?
A. Yes.
Q. Had you been cleaning in that room?
A. In the bathroom?
Q. Yes.

A. Yes.
Q. How did you come upon them? How did that happen?

A. I was leaving the bathroom, and when I walked out of the bathroom, I looked up and I saw.
Q. How far away from you were they?
A. I don’t know the feet. It was a little distance.
Q. Between the distance that you and I are at this moment?
A. Maybe a little further.
Q. All right. Let’s say to the back rail over here, behind me?
A. Probably a little further. Maybe a little further.
Q. Second or third row?
A. Maybe second row.
MR. ZONEN: Okay. And for the record, could we say that’s 30 feet, 25? The second row?
THE COURT: I’m not testifying.
(Laughter.)
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How far do you think that is in feet? Do you have any way of knowing?
A. No.
Q. All right. You did not hear them come into the room?
A. No.
Q. When you got to the position where you saw them, were either of them looking at you?

A. No.
Q. Were either of them facing you?
A. No.
Q. And you testified that you saw Michael Jackson kissing Macaulay Culkin?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE WITNESS: Yes.
THE COURT: Just a moment.
THE WITNESS: Oh, I’m sorry.
THE COURT: The objection is sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Where did he kiss him?
A. On the cheek.
Q. And where did he touch him?
A. Kind of like by his leg, and it went to his rear end.

Q. And how long did that last?

A. I don’t know how long. I just walked off.

Q. And you say you walked off.

A. Yes.

Q. Walked off where?

A. I went to the laundry room.

Q. All right. Were you in a position where you could do that without being seen?

A. I believe so.

Q. All right. Did you leave the -- literally leave the suite?

A. I was in the rest room and I left the rest room.

Q. Okay. Now, can you describe that for us, how you could do that without necessarily being seen or detected in his room? You didn’t have to walk by them or anything?

A. No. They were at a distance, so I just walked through the hall.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson ever mention to you anything about that?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever mention anything to him about that?

A. No.

Q. Was that the first thing that you had seen in terms of behavior toward a child that caused you concern?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see any other incidents that caused you concern in terms of Mr. Macaulay Culkin?

A. No.

Q. What was the next thing that you saw that caused you concern?

A. Brett Barnes.

Q. And what did you see?

A. Well, I was up in the video room, and Mr. Jackson had me taking videos out of the wall. There was -- the room was a video room. It was actually a soldier room. And he had me taking all of the videos out of the wall, and there was like -- I don’t know what you call them, like wood things that would hold the videos, and they had, like, screws in the wall. So I was pulling those all out because he had heard that you could see down into his bedroom.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike.

THE WITNESS: So --

THE COURT: Just a moment. I'll strike from the point where she said, "So I was pulling those out."

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. Why -- what were you pulling out from the walls?

A. Videotapes.

Q. Why were you doing that?

A. Because Mr. Jackson had heard that you could see down into his bedroom. There was like a little cubbyhole in the back of the walls up in that room, so he wanted to see if you could see down into his bedroom.

Q. So did you, in fact, remove videotapes?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you see down into the bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you show him that, or did he see that with you?

A. He was in his room, and where I was at was above his room, so he came up with Brett Barnes to that room.

Q. He came up to the room?

A. Up to the video room with Brett Barnes.

Q. While you were there?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And did you show him that spot while he was there?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, when did you see him doing something with Brett Barnes?

A. After that?

Q. Yes. Was it right after that?

A. It was kind of right after that, yeah.

Q. And where was he?

A. They were walking back down the stairs, and they went down through the hall by his bedroom, and

I kind of followed because it was very hot up there in that room. And I was on the landing after you get on the stairs, and I kind of looked over the landing, and he was walking away with Brett to his room, and I saw him put his hand on Brett’s rear end, and he gave Brett a kiss on the cheek.

Q. In like fashion to what you described you had seen with Macaulay Culkin?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Which of those incidents took place first, Macaulay Culkin or Brett Barnes?

A. Macaulay Culkin.

Q. How far away from them were you at that time? How far away from them? How far away?

A. With Brett?

Q. Yes.

A. Oh, gosh, not that far. Maybe from where I’m at to maybe the third row back.

Q. Okay. I’m done estimating distances, so we’ll leave it at that.

All right. Is that the only incident that you saw with Brett Barnes?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see an incident with anybody else?

A. With Jordan Chandler.

Q. And when was that?

A. Asking about the year?

Q. Relative to the incident that you saw with Brett Barnes.

A. God, I can’t even think of the year. Probably ‘93.

Q. Was it toward the end of your employment there?

A. Maybe -- maybe -- a little, maybe.

Q. And what did you see?

A. I was up in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom and I was -- I was on the second -- the loft area, and I was dusting. And I heard the chimes go off, so I knew somebody was coming into the bedroom.

Q. What does that mean, you heard the chimes go off? Where were there chimes?

A. There’s like a sensor, like it rings.

They're bells that ring when anybody's coming into Mr. Jackson's room, or if you leave the room, the chimes will go off.
Q. And when they go off, how long do they ring?
A. Until --
Q. If you walk through it, it will ring for how long?
A. For a while. For a little while, until I guess people are out of the area where you're seen.
Q. So once you clear, does it stop?
A. It will stop after, yeah.
Q. And the chimes going off meant what to you?
A. That somebody was coming into the room.
Q. All right. Was that an unusual occurrence while you were cleaning?
A. What, the chimes going off?
Q. Yes. Somebody coming into the room. If you were cleaning there during the day, would that startle you if that happened?
A. No.
Q. What did you do?
A. Well, I was upstairs, and I -- I heard talking, like voices. So I knew it was probably Michael and Jordie.

Q. Now, "upstairs" means -- there's a second bed up there?
A. Yes.
Q. Like a loft you said?
A. A loft, uh-huh.
Q. Were you cleaning at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Do you know if the bedroom door was open when you heard the chimes?
A. I believe so.
Q. And what happened then?
A. I kind of looked down from the stairs, from the stairs up there a little, and I saw Mr. Jackson with Jordie, and they were changing their clothes. Like -- I figured they were at the water fort. And I looked down and I saw Mr. Jackson kissing on -- on Jordie.
Q. What part?
A. His cheek, and then his mouth, and his hand was on his crotch.

Q. What was Jordie wearing at the time?

A. He had pants on.

Q. How long did that last?

A. I -- when I saw that, I was quiet, and I can't even say how long that lasted.

Q. What did you do?

A. I was kind of shocked, flushed, and I stood quiet where I was at.

Q. You didn't say anything?

A. I didn't say nothing.

Q. For you to go and leave that room where the loft is, you would have to walk down the stairs, would you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you have had to have walked past them?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. What did you do?

A. I stayed up there very quietly, I didn't say anything. I stood very quietly. And I waited for them to leave the room.

Q. And did they leave the room?

A. Yes.

Q. How was Jordie Chandler dressed at the time?

A. I just remember he had pants on, and they were changing shirts. He had pants on and so did Mr. Jackson.

Q. And when you said his hand was on Jordie Chandler's crotch, on the outside of the pants or on the inside of the pants?

A. On the outside.

Q. Was he kissing him the entire time that you were watching?

A. From what I saw, yes.

Q. Where exactly were you at the time that you heard the chimes?

A. Upstairs in the top loft.

Q. And do you know where in that room?

A. Kind of by the stairs. By the stairs. I was dusting the stairs.

Q. So right at the top landing?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you stay up there until Jordie Chandler and Mr. Jackson left the room?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you then go downstairs?
A. Yes. After I heard the chimes go off, I knew they had left, and I waited and then I left.
Q. How long after this happened did you leave your employment with Michael Jackson?
A. Well, I left July. I don’t know, like, the months. I know I left July 31st of ‘94.
Q. Did you ever see any incidents involving Wade Robeson? You told us about Brett Barnes, and Jordan Chandler, and Macaulay Culkin. Did you ever see an incident involving Wade Robeson?
A. No.
Q. I started to ask you a bit ago about the Jacuzzi. There’s a Jacuzzi that’s located in the master bedroom suite. Describe for us where that is.
A. When you go into Mr. Jackson’s room, right when you go down the steps, there’s steps in his room, there’s a rest room like on that side, like right-hand side, where if you go around his bed, there’s another area where there’s another rest room, and there’s a Jacuzzi.

Q. How large?
A. Oh, God, it’s big. It’s big.
Q. Would it hold more than one person?
A. Yes.
Q. Comfortably?
A. Yes.
Q. Was water kept in that Jacuzzi all the time?
A. No.
Q. What were your responsibilities with regard to cleaning the Jacuzzi?
A. I would have to clean the Jacuzzi off and on, run the water in it. But there were times when I had to let the water out of the Jacuzzi.
Q. All right. And were there things in the Jacuzzi on occasion?
A. Yes.
Q. Like what?
A. Like Mr. Jackson’s undershorts, and a little boy's undershorts.

Q. Do you know which boys had been staying there during that time?

A. A lot of the little boys were staying there at that time.

Q. You wouldn't know which boy's it was, the undershorts?

A. Brett -- it could -- Brett. Jordie. Macaulay. That happened frequently.

Q. They'd actually be in the Jacuzzi in the water?

A. They'd be in the water, or sometimes they'd be on the floor by the Jacuzzi.

Q. And these were underpants?

A. Yes.

Q. And you could tell the difference between the boy's underpants and Mr. Jackson's underpants?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have to clean them?

A. Yes, I washed them.

Q. Did you, on occasion, wash the children's underwear as well?

A. At times, yes.

Q. If it was left behind?

A. Yes.

Q. You'd pick it up and wash it?

A. Yes.

Q. These four boys during the time that they were staying at Neverland, how did their behavior -- how was their behavior?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

MR. ZONEN: As to "behavior" or as to "boys"? I'll object to the objection as vague. Or I'll reask the question.

THE COURT: Well, it's compound, I think.

MR. ZONEN: I'll reask the question.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: During the period of time that you were working as Mr. Jackson's personal maid, did you have an opportunity to observe the behavior of the children who were frequent visitors at Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. And did that include the four boys that we’re talking about so far?

A. Yes.

Q. Did it include other children who were frequent visitors at Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And I’m not asking you questions about busloads of kids who would arrive for a day and leave at the end of the day. I’m asking about the ones who were Mr. Jackson’s personal guests and who stayed for periods of time. Do you understand that?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Was there anything about that behavior that was unique, in your mind?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; relevance; and leading.

THE COURT: The thing I’m having a problem with is not the vague, but the fact that you’re asking about all of the boys as oppose -- as to their behavior.

MR. ZONEN: I’ll make that easier.

Q. Macaulay Culkin, what was his behavior like when he was at Neverland Ranch?

A. He was very, very wild.

Q. Describe what you mean by that.

A. For us maids?

Q. Yes.

A. He was a lot of work when he -- when he was around there.

Q. What does that mean, “a lot of work”?

A. He was destructive. I mean, throwing popcorn at Mr. Jackson. Soda, from the top, being thrown at Mr. Jackson’s head.

Q. The top of what?

A. At the top of the theater. Like a projection room way up on the top.

Q. Did you actually witness that?

A. Yes.

Q. So there’s apparently two stories at the theater?

A. Yes.

Q. And is the upper story open in such a way that you can actually have contact with somebody below you?

A. Yes. They will -- yes.

Q. Open in what way?

A. There were windows up in the top-top. I don’t know if you call it a -- I don’t know if it was called maybe a viewing room. And if you were up there, you had to take a stairway to get up to the top, and you could open these windows.

Q. What did you see him do?

A. He threw sodas. I had just made popcorn, because he asked for popcorn, and he wanted a soda. So I gave it to him. And he went upstairs, and he dumped it on Mr. Jackson’s head, along with the popcorn.

Q. All right. Did that create a mess?

A. Yes.

Q. Mess for you to clean up?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that a unique event with regard to Mr. Macaulay Culkin?

A. Was it unique?

Q. Well, were you always cleaning up after him?

A. Yeah, but certain kids made it worse. And he was one of them.

Q. All right. Which other kids were a problem?

A. Jordie Chandler.

Q. What did Jordie do?

A. Um --

Q. Before I get to Jordie Chandler, let me ask you another incident about the popcorn and the soda. What did Mr. Jackson say to Macaulay Culkin when he poured popcorn and soda from the second story on top of him?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Go ahead.

A. It was like a joke. It was funny.

Q. He didn’t discipline him?

A. No.

Q. He didn’t tell him, “That’s inappropriate”?

A. No.

Q. Nor did he help you clean up, I assume.

A. No.

Q. And Jordie Chandler, describe his behavior for us during the time that he was there.

A. He was rude.

Q. In what way?

A. Very demanding.

Q. In what way demanding?

A. Like if I was in the laundry room washing clothes, he’d come and say, “Where’s my shirt?” You know, “I want my shirt.” Just not nice to where you ask, “Do you have my shirt?” Just kind of “Give it to me now,” like that.

Q. Was his behavior like that fairly consistently during the entire time that you were exposed to him?

A. Yes.

Q. Brett Barnes, how did he behave?

A. That little boy, I -- he was not a rude little boy. He was pretty well-behaved.

Q. The entire time?

A. Yes.

Q. Wade Robeson, how did he behave?

A. He was kind of wild, too. Not as much as Macaulay. Just wild, tear everything up. Leave messes all over, you know. Just --

Q. Were you ever encouraged to discipline these kids in any way?

A. No.

Q. Were you discouraged from doing so?

A. Yes.

Q. In what way?

A. Well, I was told by Norma Stakos that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Her state of mind to explain her behavior.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you ever go up to any child and say, “Don’t do that. That’s inappropriate”?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see any employee or hear of any employee go up to a child and say, “Don’t do that. That’s inappropriate”?

A. No.

Q. Other than Brett Barnes, was the behavior of the three children that you described consistently bad the entire time they were there?

A. Yes.

Q. Did that include times when they were in the presence of Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever hear Michael Jackson discipline them in any way or tell them not to behave in such a destructive fashion?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell anybody about the events that you saw, the three incidents that you testified to involving those three children, Brett Barnes, Macaulay Culkin and Jordie Chandler?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the first person you discussed that with?

A. Lawyers I had. Lawyers.

Q. The lawyer who was representing you?

A. Yes.

Q. Which lawyer was that?

A. Michael Ring.

Q. Had you told anybody about those events prior to that?

A. I believe I talked to Kiki Fournier. I didn’t even know -- I think it might have been after I -- it might have been after I had left.

Q. Now, you worked there, I believe you said, about four years; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Why did you leave there?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: When Mr. Jackson had that Jordie Chandler molestation case, whatever, bodyguards were brought -- brought to the ranch.

They weren’t the regular security people. These people were called OSS, Office of Special Services. And there were a lot of these guys, and they started harassing --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Narrative; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Well, “OSS” stands for Office of what?

A. Of Special Services.

Q. All right. Who were these people? Do you know their names?

A. There was one, Jimmy Van Norman. Tony Coleman. Marcus Johnson. Jerome Johnson.

Q. Were these people armed with weapons?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And they came to the ranch after the commencement of the Jordan Chandler investigation?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you know when the Jordan Chandler investigation began?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there a search that was conducted at Neverland by Los Angeles Police Department?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you present at the time that happened?

A. I -- yes, but I -- yes, but I had called in sick that day and I had to go back to the ranch.

Q. You had called in sick that day?

A. I was sick on that day.

Q. By coincidence, or you knew there was going to be a search?

A. No, I didn’t know. I did not know. I just was sick and I called in sick.

Q. And had anybody heard of anything in advance of that search?

A. No.

Q. There had been no talk about that at all?

A. No.

Q. Fair to say there was probably considerable talk thereafter?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you interviewed by anybody from law enforcement during this investigation?

A. Um --
Q. I think the question that I asked was, had you been interviewed by anybody from law enforcement during the course of that investigation?

A. I believe so.
Q. All right. Did you become aware of the fact that there had been a lawsuit filed on behalf of Jordan Chandler?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you called to testify in a deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you, in fact, give a deposition to attorneys representing both Mr. Jackson and Mr. Chandler?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember who those attorneys were?
A. Larry Feldman, Howard Weitzman, and some lady named, I think, Jan Faye or --
Q. Were you still employed at Neverland during that time?
A. Yes.
Q. During the course of that deposition, were you asked if you observed any behavior by Michael Jackson directed toward Jordie Chandler or anybody else that you thought was inappropriate or any form of sexual behavior?
A. Yes.
Q. How did you answer that question?
A. I didn’t tell the truth.
Q. What did you say?
A. I said I didn’t see anything.
Q. All right. Why did you say that in this deposition?

A. Because when -- when I had taken over the job for Mr. Jackson’s room, Mr. Jackson had threatened me.
Q. What did he say to you?
A. He had told me, “You know, Adrian, if you ever say or you do something that I don’t like, all I have to do is tell Bill Bray or Norma Stakos, and they will take care of you, but it wouldn’t come from me. “

Q. Were you concerned about that statement?

A. I was very concerned with that.

Q. That was what, three years earlier?

A. That was right when I took the bedroom.

Q. Why did you continue to work there after that statement?

A. I don’t know. I -- I got caught up, I guess, in -- my husband was laid off, and we had a house payment, and I just stayed.

Q. What was your salary at Neverland?

A. I worked 40 hours a week, but I started at 7.50 an hour.

Q. What was your salary at the time that you left Neverland?

A. I left at 8.86 an hour.

Q. In the four years, your salary went up $1.80 an hour?

A. Yes.

Q. What hours did you maintain at Neverland? What was your schedule?

A. Sometimes 8:30 to 5:00. Sometimes 8:30 till one o’clock in the morning. You never knew, kind of, when you were going to go home.

Q. Every day you went to Neverland, you didn’t know if you would go home at 5:00?

A. Right.

Q. How often was it that you were asked to stay after 5:00?

A. There were a lot of times.

Q. In a week period, how many days in that week would you expect to stay after 5:00?

A. You just never knew. It depended if there were guests. Sometimes it could have been two times. Three times. You just didn’t know when you were going to go home.

Q. And you could stay actually until the early morning?

A. Yes.

Q. And then come back the next day at 9:00?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you ever asked to work weekends?

A. Yes.

Q. If you were asked to work on an evening or on a weekend, and you didn’t want to, would you just simply say, “I can’t do that tonight”?

A. No.

Q. Why?

A. Because you were scheduled and you had to show up.

Q. Now, you started talking about OCC -- OSS. A little dyslexia here, excuse me. OSS. And you named the people who were involved in OSS; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Up until that time, had there been people armed at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Were each of those people armed with weapons?

A. I believe so.

Q. How was their behavior toward you?

A. They were terrible.

Q. How did they behave toward you? What did they do?

A. Jimmy Van Norman would --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague as to time and individuals.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Let’s begin with Jimmy, then. I’ll withdraw the question. Ask you specifically about Jimmy Van Norman. All right.

And from the time that he came on working until the time you quit was approximately how many months?

A. I would say maybe six or seven months, maybe.

Q. During that time, was his behavior toward you fairly consistent?

A. Yes.

Q. And describe things he would do to you, or with you.

A. He called my home one morning when I was still kind of asleep, and he woke me up with a phone call. And I was going to take my son to school that day. It was a Monday, I remember. And he said, “Adrian” --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Goes to her state of mind and explaining her conduct.

THE COURT: The state of mind being why she left?

MR. ZONEN: And commenced a lawsuit.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll overrule the objection.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. What happened in this call?

A. He called my home early in the morning, and he said, “Adrian?” And I said, “Yes?” And he says, “You sound different.” And I said, “Well, I just woke up” You know, I hadn’t had coffee. My voice was a little bit rough.

And he says something about what kind of underwear I wear, and when was the last time I got “it”; that apparently I needed it.

Q. Did you recognize the voice when he called?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did he have to identify himself?

A. No, he didn’t. But I knew it was him.

Q. What did you do when you said that?

A. I changed the subject, because I thought maybe Mr. Jackson needed something and maybe he was just calling to -- to get Mr. Jackson to talk to me or something. I didn’t know.

Q. Did he ultimately communicate a message to you from Mr. Jackson?

A. Sometimes -- not him, but sometimes the other ones would.

Q. But on that occasion, that particular call, did he ultimately communicate a communication from Mr. Jackson?

A. No, he didn’t.

Q. Did he ever tell you why he was calling?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did you hang up that phone call?

A. Actually, he got another call, and the phone was ringing in the back, which I knew was a Merlin phone, because I knew the sounds of the phones, and he said, “Darn, I’ll call you right back.”

Q. Did he call you right back?

A. He didn't call back.

Q. Had you received more than that one phone call from this person, Van Norman?

A. I did receive another call later, and I -- and I don't know the month. Right now I can't think of the month. And it was Jimmy, and he --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Same reason.

THE COURT: Well, you know, I'm not getting to her state of mind either. All of that testimony I let in for her state of mind I let in at your request for her state of mind.

MR. ZONEN: Let me withdraw the last question and let me move on.

THE COURT: I need an offer as to why I've let other testimony in.

MR. ZONEN: Let me withdraw that question right now and move on.

Q. Did you quit your job at Neverland?

A. Yes, I did quit.

Q. Why did you quit?

A. Because I was being sexually harassed. I had death threats. I was being chased in the house with a stun gun. More like abuse. And mentally I could not deal with it.

Q. Was this all the new collection of guards that had been brought in?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever talk with Mr. Jackson about what was going on?

A. I don't believe so, with that.

Q. And why not?

A. I believe he left. He had left later, maybe in February. And Marcus Johnson left with him with the bodyguards, but there was still bodyguards around, so Mr. Jackson wasn't really around where you could tell him, so --

Q. What made you decide to file a lawsuit against Mr. Jackson?

A. When I realized that I didn't have to work in a job where I was being sexually harassed, and abused, and having to deal with death threats and --

Q. Did you talk with Mr. -- who was your attorney? Who represented you?

A. Actually, we had Michael Gray and Michael Barber, and we had Michael Ring and Kelly Frances.

Q. All from the same firm?

A. At the time, yes.

Q. Who was the lead attorney in that case?

A. Michael Barber. And Michael Ring (sic) ended up, I guess, getting out of it. I don’t know what happened there, but Michael Ring ended up taking over.

Q. Michael Ring?

A. Michael Ring.

Q. Was he the one who tried the case?

A. Yes.

Q. That case went on for quite some number of months, didn’t it?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. Did you quit your job before or after seeking counsel from Michael Ring or any other lawyer?

A. I believe I quit my job first while I went out on doctor’s care.

Q. You were not the only plaintiff in that suit, were you?

A. No.

Q. Who were the other plaintiffs?

A. There was Melanie Bagnall, Kassim Abdool, Sandie Domz, and Ralph Chacon.

Q. Was there a counterclaim that was filed against you? Were you accused of anything?

A. Yes.

Q. What were you accused of?

A. I believe of -- of, I think, taking Super Soaker water guns. Taking candy, balloons, posters, sunglasses.

Q. Were you accused of taking a drawing?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Tell us about the drawing.

A. The drawing, actually, I had found it in the trash outside by the rec room. It was a trash area there. And I had taken trash out from the house, from the kitchen, and I saw it in there. There was a bag out there, and it was just open and it was a sketch. It wasn't a big sketch. It was a small sketch.

Q. About how big?

A. Oh, gosh. Probably -- I don't even know. Maybe about that big. Maybe like that. It wasn't very big.

Q. Six inches by five inches --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- something like that?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: Yeah, something like that.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Can you give us an estimate on the record, the size of it? Because you were holding your hands out.

A. Maybe three-by-five. I don't know. Something like that.

Q. All right. You said you found it in the trash?

A. Yes.

Q. Where?

A. Outside. Outside by the rec room. There was a trash area back there.

Q. Did you know who did the drawing?

A. I didn't know who did it, but I thought -- well, maybe. I was really -- I don't know who did it.

Q. Who did you believe did it?

A. Um --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.

MR. ZONEN: Explains why she took it.

THE COURT: Actually, you know, we're having the same problem that when Mr. Mesereau was asking questions. You seem to be going into the allegations in the Complaint, which -- the facts of the lawsuit, which I've said we can't do. So I'm going to ask you to go into a different area.

MR. ZONEN: All right.

Q. After many months in trial, was there a resolution to that case?

A. Yes.

Q. What happened?

A. We lost.

Q. Each of you?

A. Yes.

Q. As to all counts?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there a judgment against you?

A. Yes.

Q. For a great deal of money?

A. Yes.

Q. How much?

A. 1.6 million.

Q. Did you go into bankruptcy afterward?

A. No.

Q. So that debt still exists today?

A. Yes.

Q. You owe Mr. Jackson $1.6 million?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that for all the attorney's fees and the court costs?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you paid any part of that?

A. A lien was put on my paycheck when I was working at Sears and there was money taken out, but I don't recall how much.

Q. Okay. Is there a lien currently on your paycheck where you currently work?

A. For the lawsuit?

Q. For this lawsuit.

A. No.

Q. Do you anticipate that will happen?

A. I don't --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Are you concerned that that will happen?

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Had there been a deposition that was taken of you prior to the commencement of that lawsuit?

A. Do you mean like before, with Jordie Chandler?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes.
Q. In the course of that deposition, did you disclose the events that took place that you’ve disclosed to this jury?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Are you talking about the Jordie Chandler lawsuit, deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. Was there a subsequent -- another deposition that was done in the lawsuit of your case, Kassim Abdool and everyone else against Michael Jackson and everyone else?
A. Yes.
Q. In that deposition, did you disclose what you saw?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. At some point during the course of that lawsuit, either before the commencement of trial or during, were you involved with others in selling a story to a tabloid?
A. Yes.
Q. Which tabloid was it?
A. Actually, there was a man named Gary Morgan, and he was from Splash.
Q. What is Splash?

A. I don’t know -- I don’t know if he’s affiliated with different -- I’m not even really sure. I just know that he sold stuff.
Q. But it was a tabloid?
A. I believe so.
Q. Did you actually have an interview with them?
A. Yes.
Q. Did they give you money?
A. Me personally?
Q. Yes.
A. They were -- well, can I explain, because I don’t --

Q. Who did the interview? In other words, how many of the plaintiffs involved that you've identified did this interview?

A. Everybody was there, including our attorney.

Q. Did he participate in the interview as well, your attorney?

A. He was there with -- yeah.

Q. Who is it who negotiated what would be paid?

A. I believe Michael Ring.

Q. Did you have any say in that at all?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was it understood that some of the money would be going to you, or all of the money?

A. From what I recall, all of the money went into a trust in Michael Ring's name in order to fight the lawsuit against Mr. Jackson.

Q. Did any of that money actually go to you?

A. At one time, yes.

Q. And how much was that?

A. A thousand dollars.

Q. Do you know how much money in total was turned over to Michael Ring?

A. I would honestly -- I mean, my best recollection, I'd say probably maybe 32,000 or more.

Q. And did that go to finance the lawsuit?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you involved in another lawsuit at that time or prior to that time?

A. Yes.

Q. What was that?

A. Well, it had to do with my husband's sister-in-law.

Q. And what happened?

A. My husband was -- my husband had two half brothers. They had different fathers. And one of the half brothers was real close with my husband, and he ended up diabetic and he lost his eyes and his kidneys and they had him on dialysis. He went blind.

And he was married, and his wife and him, I guess they had a very -- a relationship that wasn't very good. From what I understand, she started fooling around with a radio talk show guy, and she got pregnant --

Q. Tell us what happened with regard to the lawsuit.
A. I'm sorry.
Q. Who was suing who?
THE COURT: How many lawsuits are we going to cover?
(Laughter.)
THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
We got sued.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Okay. For what? The resolution of his estate?
A. Actually, my husband was left as a beneficiary, and my husband got kind of fed up with her. And that was a family thing on their side of the family. And I kind of just got drug into it, but --
Q. Did you have counsel representing you in this lawsuit?
A. No, we didn't.
Q. Was it a jury trial?
A. No.
Q. Was it a court trial?
A. Yes.
Q. You were representing yourself?
A. Yes.
Q. Was the other side represented by counsel?
A. Yes.

Q. Was there a judgment entered against you or your husband?
A. I believe 17,000 from each one of us.
Q. Was this from money from the estate?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you pay that?
A. I made payments, and I don't even recall how much I made payments for. And then I couldn't do it no longer.
Q. All right. Did you lose your home in this process?
A. No. We sold our home.
Q. And are renting today?
A. Yes.

Q. Do you know anybody in the Arvizo family? Do you know that name?
A. No.
Q. Do you know a Janet Arvizo?
A. No.
Q. Gavin Arvizo?
A. No.
Q. Star Arvizo?
A. No.
Q. Davellin Arvizo?
A. No.
Q. I had asked you earlier about a drawing. Was that drawing sold to someone during the course of your litigation?

A. Yes.
Q. And who was it sold to?
A. Well, actually, at Michael Ring’s office, our attorney, Gary Morgan had asked if we had any photographs or pictures or something, and I said, “Well,” you know, “there’s a sketch that I found, I found in the trash.” I told him, “You can have it.” It was just a sketch. It wasn’t a -- it wasn’t a Polaroid, you know, it was just ink. And I gave it to him. And I guess he went and sold it.
Q. Who sold it?
A. Gary Morgan.
Q. And Gary Morgan is who?
A. He’s from Splash.
Q. Did you get any money for that?
A. Actually, I think that when -- I believe that’s where that thousand dollars might have come from.
Q. From the sale of that picture?
A. I think so.
Q. Did you represent that as a drawing that had been done by Michael Jackson?
A. I believe I might have said it, that I thought it was done by Michael Jackson.
Q. Did you believe it was?
A. I did.
Q. Why did you have it in the first place? Why did you take it?

A. Because I found it in the trash and I figured it was in the trash, so if something's in the trash, I mean, somebody might not have wanted it.

Q. Did you take it because you believed he did it or did you take it because you liked it?

A. I took it because I liked it, because I liked to draw and I thought it was pretty neat.

Q. I'd like to show you a few exhibits, if I may.

Counsel, you've seen these.

MR. MESEREAU: Yeah.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I'd like to show you Exhibit 797 and 798. What are those two exhibits, 797 and 798?

A. They're -- they're -- it's an exhibit of a note that Mr. Jackson had given me on an index card, along with $300.

Q. Okay. Those are the two exhibits. One is the note and the other is what?

A. The $300.

Q. It's not actually $300 you have in front of you, is it?

A. Half.

Q. Well, it's a Xerox or a photocopy; is that right?

A. Right, a Xerox copy.

Q. Explain what that is. Where did that money come from?

A. Well, I have to tell a story in order for that to --

Q. Let me ask you a question and see if I can lead you in that direction. Who gave you the $300?

A. Mr. Jackson.

Q. When did he give you that $300?

A. After he had read my transcript from the Jordie Chandler deposition.

Q. All right. How did he happen to have your transcript from the Jordie Chandler deposition?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you give him that transcript?

A. Yes, because he called me at home and asked me --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: I'll strike after, "Yes."

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. Did you have a conversation with Mr. Jackson about your testimony during the Jordie Chandler deposition?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And that was the deposition you previously told us wherein you denied that anything had happened that you had seen; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. In the course of that conversation with Mr. Jackson, did he ask you if you had a copy of that transcript?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he ask to see it?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you give it to him?

A. Yes. Yes, I did.

Q. When did you give it to him? How long after that telephone conversation was it that you gave it to him?

A. I believe it might have been the next day.

Q. And how did you happen to have a copy of the transcript?

A. I had gotten it earlier than usual, than the usual wait for a transcript, and I believe I -- I believe I had called Jan, I think her name was Jan Faye, and then they had sent it to me, but I got it earlier than you would wait for a deposition.

Q. Had you already read that transcript before you gave it to Mr. Jackson?

A. Maybe parts of it.

Q. What was your next conversation with Mr. Jackson?

A. Are you talking about, like, on the phone or --

Q. Well, did you have a follow-up conversation about that transcript?

A. Yeah. He told me that he had read it.

Q. Did he give it back to you, the transcript?

A. Actually, I got it back. I told him I was going to take it.

Q. Did he give you anything?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did he give you?

A. The $300 and the little note.

Q. And the note says what?

A. It said, “Adrian, thanx for everything.”

Q. And the $300 were in what denominations?

A. In 100-dollar bills.

Q. Did you see anything unique about the hundred-dollar bills?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What was that?

A. The serial numbers were all, like, in sequence, which was really neat, because I had never seen anything like that, and I thought that was really neat.

Q. How did you happen to have a Xerox copy of them or a photocopy?

A. Because -- I thought it was so neat that I photocopied it, because I had never seen anything like that, you know, the sequence of bills like that.

Q. Did you keep the money?

A. Actually, when -- when he gave it to me, I called him up at the theater, he was in the theater, and I told him I didn’t want the money. And he asked me why. And I said, “I just” -- “I don’t want the money.”

Q. He didn’t give you the money in person?

A. He gave me the money, but it was in an index card and it was folded.

Q. Okay.

A. And he told me to read it, to open it. It was in his bedroom. He handed it to me in his room. And I didn’t open it right away, because I was cleaning.

And he kept saying, “Open it, open it, open it.” And I opened it after he left the room, and I saw the $300 and the note was all attached.

Q. And then you called him?

A. And I called them. He went to the theater and I called him.

Q. All right. What did you say to him?

A. And I told him, “I can’t take that money.” And he said, “Why?” And I said, “I just can’t take it.” And he said -- he kept asking, “Why?” And then he said, “Well, then give it to your son.”

Q. Did you do so?

A. I ended up giving my son some of the money, yeah.

Q. Did you keep the balance of it?

A. I kept some money. I don’t even recall how much.

Q. The Xeroxes that you’re looking at, the one of the note itself, does that accurately reproduce the note?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, the other one that shows the three hundred-dollar bills, can you tell us why it only shows half of the $100 bills?

A. I don’t understand the question.

Q. Well, as you look at that exhibit, do you see that only half of each $100 bill is depicted in that Xerox or that photocopy? Am I right?

A. Yeah, you’re right.

Q. And tell me why that is. Tell me why the Xerox doesn’t show the entire $100 bill.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

MR. ZONEN: Withdraw that question.

Q. Do you know why that is? When you -- go ahead.

A. Actually, when I photocopied, I photocopied both sides, you know, like the front side of the bills and then the back side of the bill. But in what I turned over in my deposition, the whole bills were there. I don’t know why it’s just half.

Q. You’ve never seen that before?

A. I’ve never seen this before.

Q. All right. To the extent that those are three $100 bills with consecutive numbers, do they appear to be the same $100 bills?

A. Yes.

Q. And they are, in fact, $100 bills with consecutive numbers; is that correct?
A. Yes.
MR. ZONEN: I move to introduce both of those exhibits into evidence.
MR. MESEREAU: I'll object; no foundation. She did not recognize the document.
THE COURT: I'll admit the documents.
MR. ZONEN: Thank you.
Q. I'd like to show you some additional photographs, if I may.
MR. MESEREAU: Could I see those?
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Showing you a photograph previously identified as 793, do you recognize the person in that photograph?
A. Kind of looks like Brett Barnes, but I'm not sure.
Q. Do you believe that might be Brett Barnes?
A. Kinda, yeah.
Q. Let me show you the photograph in 795. Let's start with 794. Two different photographs. The first with the child on the top, and the second with a number of children on the bottom. Start with the photograph with the child on the top. Do you know who that is?
A. That's Brett Barnes.

Q. And then the photograph on the bottom, do recognize any of the four people?
A. I can't -- no. I can't tell if that's Brett. He was little. I just --
THE REPORTER: I'm sorry, I can't hear you.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Speak into the microphone.
A. The first photo I believe is Brett Barnes. The second one I can't really tell.
Q. Let me show you Exhibit 795. Do you recognize anybody in that photograph?
A. Brett Barnes.
Q. And where is Brett Barnes in that photo?
A. Right here.
Q. All right. Who is he sitting next to in that photograph?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Do you know the other people in that photograph?

A. I think it's Carly in the middle. They look different, though, from when I seen them.
Q. Carly is the middle person?
A. Yeah, the sister of Brett.
Q. And the mother to her on the right side of her?
A. Right.
THE COURT: We're going to break a little early. Take our afternoon break.
(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: Go ahead.
MR. ZONEN: I have just a couple more questions.
Q. Is there a wine cellar at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. And where is the wine cellar?
A. It's in the rec room, the recreation room.
Q. All right. Is that sometimes called the arcade?
A. Yes.
Q. That's the building that's different from the residence?
A. Yes.
Q. Is there a door that secures the wine cellar?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that door kept locked, or was it kept locked during the time that you worked there?
A. It was always locked.
Q. Was it a key that opened that door or a combination lock?
A. It was a key.
Q. And do you know where the key was kept?
A. In the maids' room.
Q. And where was the maids' room?
A. In the main house.
Q. In the main house?
A. Yes.

Q. Was there more than one key to the door?
A. I believe there was.
Q. Did you ever have occasion to go down into the wine cellar?

A. Yes.

Q. For what reason?

A. To pick it up, clean. Just to make sure everything was cleaned up in there.

Q. And to do that, you have to first go get the key?

A. Right.

Q. All right. The room where the key was kept at that time, was that a room that was open to anybody in the public?

A. Well, it was the maids' room. The maids were usually in there. I mean, somebody could walk in there.

Q. But it wasn't a room that was generally one of the rooms on tour when people took a tour of Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Was it a room that somebody lived in or simply worked in? You said maids' room. What is the maids' room?

A. The maids' room is just like where the maids would go to take a break. It had a rest room and --

Q. Do you know if there were any other keys at that time?

A. I believe so.

Q. And do you know who else had those keys?

A. I believe security at that time had -- in their office, they had a key to that.

Q. You would pick up in the wine cellar on occasion?

A. Yes.

Q. What would require cleaning in the wine cellar? What do you mean by "pick up"?

A. Like, to go in there and to make sure that everything is -- sometimes you would have to brass. There was a lot of brass out there, so we'd have to brass, like, the sinks. So they had -- the faucets were of brass.

Q. All right. Cleaning is what you mean?

A. Just cleaning, yeah.

Q. I'm going to show you two photographs already shown to counsel. These two photographs are

No. 786 already in evidence, and No. 799 for identification, not yet in evidence.

No. 786, first of all, take a look at this photograph and tell us what that is.

A. That's Mr. Jackson's bedroom where the Jacuzzi is.

Q. Is that the Jacuzzi that you were referring to when you were describing having to clean that Jacuzzi?

A. Yes.

Q. 799, tell us what this photograph is.

A. This is the theater.

Q. Now, can you actually see windows up on that far wall on the theater?

A. Actually, you have the projection room right here, and there was a window right here, a room, a bedroom. There was two bedrooms. There was one on this side, and there was one I believe on the other side.

And there was an area where you go up some stairs on the side and would take you up, up high where you'd be like in a viewing room. And the viewing room would have -- I'm trying to think if that's it up there.

Q. You're pointing right now to what?

A. I believe that is probably the viewing room up above. It was up above the bedrooms.

Q. You were previously describing testimony of popcorn and Coke being thrown through windows above --

A. Right.

Q. -- in the theater.

A. Right.

Q. Are those windows shown in that particular photograph?

A. I believe it's up here.

Q. All right. Now, that photograph that you're looking at - which I believe I said was 799 - 799, is the subject matter of that photograph accurately depicted in the photograph? In other words, does it accurately portray what's inside?

A. I believe so, yes.

MR. ZONEN: I'd move to introduce 799 into evidence.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

MR. ZONEN: If I could publish 799 at this time.

Q. If you could, turn around and look at the screen behind you. And tell us, is that the photograph that you just viewed, 799?

A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. Is that the theater?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, on the desk in front of you, there's a laser pen, a laser pointer. If you can do that -- that's not it. That's it.

A. Okay.

Q. Don't --

A. Okay.

Q. Show us the windows that you were referring to.

A. The window from up above?

Q. Yes.

A. It would be up here.

Q. And that's the -- a viewing room?

A. I believe it was a viewing room, yes.

Q. And the stairway to get up there is where?

A. I believe it's on -- it used to be kind of like on the side as you're coming in the back out here. There was a stairway. It's been so long. I know there was a stairway on the side, and I'm thinking somewhere back here, that would take you up to the top.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Ma'am, you need to talk into that microphone.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: So you believe the stairway was on the side; is that what you said?

A. I believe it was on the side.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. No further questions.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please. Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good afternoon, Miss McManus.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. We haven't met. My name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Michael Jackson.

A. Okay.

Q. The prosecutor for the government mentioned a case you were involved in where you were sued by Rosalie Hill, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You were sued by Rosalie Hill as the guardian ad litem for two children, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. The children were Shane McManus and Megan McManus, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And the prosecutor for the government mentioned that you didn't have a lawyer representing you, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And that case was not tried before a jury, right?

A. Right.

Q. It was tried before a judge of the Santa Barbara Superior Court, correct?

A. I believe so.

Q. That was Judge Richard A. St. John, Judge of the Santa Barbara Superior Court, true?

A. I believe so.

Q. And you and your husband testified before Judge St. John, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. You told them your position under oath, correct?

A. I believe so.

Q. And after you told Judge St. John your position under oath, he found that you and your husband willfully and maliciously defrauded these children out of the money in the estate, true?

A. I believe so.

Q. Judge St. John found that that money was to be held in trust for the benefit of those two children, right?

A. Yes.
Q. He found that you and your husband dissipated those funds, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. He found that you and your husband violated that trust, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. He entered a judgment against you and your husband for $30,000 -- excuse me, 30,584.89, correct?
A. I believe so, but I believe it was -- I thought it was like separate, like -- I thought it was maybe 17 for me and 17 for my husband. Maybe -- I don’t know. Maybe that’s right, what you have there.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you Judge St. John’s judgment?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that judgment?
A. Right here? Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about the amount Judge St. John awarded the plaintiffs against you and your husband?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. It was $30,584.89, which was principal and interest due, correct?
A. I believe so.
Q. And after he entered that judgment, Judge St. John also awarded the plaintiffs attorney’s fees, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. He signed a separate judgment awarding the people who sued you and your husband $5,085.27 in attorney’s fees and costs, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. And in that judgment, Judge St. John also found, again, that you and your husband had willfully and maliciously stolen the money from those children, right?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: All right. Now, that lawsuit was before you sued Michael Jackson, correct?

A. I believe so.

Q. And who did you join with in your suit against Michael Jackson?

A. Kassim Abdool -- do you want the names?

Q. Yes, please.

A. Kassim Abdool, Ralph Chacon, Melanie Bagnall and Sandie Domz.

Q. And in that case you had a lawyer, right?

A. Yes.

Q. In fact, you had a number of lawyers, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you’ve already identified the lawyers that represented you and the other people that sued Michael Jackson with you, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, that case went to a jury, right?

A. Yes.

Q. That was a jury in this courthouse in Santa Maria, right?

A. Yes.

Q. In that particular case, a Santa Maria jury held that you had stolen from Michael Jackson, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And they awarded Mr. Jackson $35,000 for what you personally had stolen from him, right?

A. The sketch that I found in the trash, yes.

Q. That was a sketch he had done of Elvis Presley, right?

A. Well, I thought it looked like Elvis Presley, but I don’t really know for --

Q. But you tried to sell it to a tabloid, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You did sell it to a tabloid, correct?

A. Well, I gave it to Gary Morgan.
Q. You sold it to a tabloid, right?
A. I believe he did.
Q. You don't know for sure?
A. I don't know who he actually really sold it to, but --
Q. You certainly inquired at some point, correct?
A. I think I saw somewhere later that it was printed, but I don't remember like what, but it was printed.
Q. But when you sold it, you believed it was a sketch by Michael Jackson of Elvis Presley, right?
A. I thought so.
Q. And a Santa Maria jury held that you had stolen that from Michael Jackson, right?
A. That's what they thought, yeah.
Q. And that was their verdict, true?
A. I believe so.
Q. Okay. There was a finding that you had acted with fraud and malice against Michael Jackson in that case, correct?

A. I believe -- you know, it's been so long, I don't remember, but probably.
Q. You actually stipulated that you had engaged in fraud, oppression, and malicious conduct against Mr. Jackson, true?
A. You know what, I don't remember everything. It's been a while, but --
Q. Would it -- excuse me. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that judgment?
A. Sure. That's fine.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. ZONEN: May I see, Counsel?
(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)
MR. MESEREAU: Let me withdraw the question and ask it again.
Q. The jury found you had acted with fraud, oppression and malice against Mr. Jackson, true?
A. You know what? Honestly I don't really recall. I don't know.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if you see the judgment?
A. Well, sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to read that judgment?

A. Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about the jury in Santa Maria finding that you had acted with fraud, oppression, and malice against Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. That’s what they held, right?
A. That’s what they -- yeah.
Q. All right. Now, the total amount -- excuse me, let me start again.
The suit began when you and the others sued Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And after you and Ralph Chacon and Mr. Abdool and Ms. Bagnall sued Mr. Jackson, he responded with a countersuit, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And the countersuit was an allegation that you had stolen property from him, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. Okay. Mr. Jackson’s suit was a response to your suit, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Everything began when you and Mr. Chacon and Mr. Abdool filed the action, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And that’s the action where you were represented by Mr. Ring, correct?

A. Correct.
Q. Okay. At the end of the case, there was a judgment signed by Judge Zel Canter of the Superior Court of Santa Barbara in Santa Maria against you and Mr. Chacon and Mr. Abdool and Melanie Bagnall and Sandie Domz for $1,473,117.61, right?
A. I believe it was more. I -- I thought it was 1.6 million each person.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you --

A. Sure.

Q. -- this?

May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay. All right. Uh-huh.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that judgment?

A. Yes.

Q. And does it refresh your recollection about the amount?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, do you recall that Mr. Jackson was entitled to have a hearing on what are called punitive damages after he won the jury verdict, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And Mr. Jackson agreed to waive that portion of the trial, correct?

A. I believe so.

Q. He did it in return for one dollar, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, the prosecutor asked you some questions about a deposition that you appeared at in the Jordie Chandler lawsuit, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And I believe you told the jury that you had lied under oath in that lawsuit, correct?

A. Can you repeat that? I’m sorry.

Q. Yes, sure. I believe you told the jury that you lied under oath in that lawsuit, correct?

A. What jury? During our trial?

Q. No, let me start the question again. If you don’t understand anything I ask you, don’t answer, just ask me. I’ll try and rephrase.

A. Okay.

Q. In response to the prosecutor’s questions, you told the jury that you had appeared at a sworn deposition in the Jordie Chandler lawsuit, right?

A. Correct.

Q. That was a lawsuit that you knew Mr. Chandler’s parents had filed against Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And you appeared and testified under oath in a deposition, right?

A. Correct.
Q. And you were asked questions by a number of lawyers, including Larry Feldman, right?
A. Correct.
Q. That deposition took place on December 7th, 1993, right?
A. Yes. Correct.
Q. When have you last reviewed that deposition?
A. Actually, I never really went through it to really review it.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. I never really went through it to review it.
Q. Okay. Before I ask you some questions about that deposition, when did you last talk to any prosecutor about your testimony in this trial?
A. Last night.
Q. And who did you talk to about your testimony in this trial from the prosecution side?
A. Ron Zonen.
Q. That’s Prosecutor Zonen, who just asked you some questions?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Did he talk to you about what you were going to be asked today?
A. No.
Q. Was it a phone call or a meeting?
A. A meeting.
Q. Where did the meeting take place with Prosecutor Zonen?

A. In Santa Maria.
Q. And how long did the meeting last?
A. A little over three hours.
Q. Did Prosecutor Zonen give you anything to review before you testified today?
A. No.
Q. Did you review any documents to prepare for your testimony today?

A. Well, I -- I have my deposition from when I sued Mr. Jackson, and I did go over that.
Q. Now, that’s the deposition from your suit against Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Right.
Q. That’s not the deposition that you gave in the Chandler lawsuit, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, did you review the deposition you gave in your suit against Mr. Jackson to prepare for your testimony today?
A. Yes.
Q. But you didn’t review your deposition in the Chandler case to prepare for your testimony today?
A. Correct.
Q. Did Prosecutor Zonen ask you to review that deposition in your suit against Mr. Jackson to prepare for your testimony today?
A. No.

Q. Did he ask you to review any documents before you testified?
A. No.
Q. You spent three hours with him last night?
A. Yes.
Q. Did that take place at the District Attorney’s Office here?
A. No.
Q. Where did it take place?
A. Somewhere in Santa Maria, a home.
Q. Okay. Was Prosecutor Zonen the only one present, besides yourself?
A. No.
Q. Who else was there?
A. During that meeting?
Q. Yes, please.
A. Russ Birchim.
Q. That’s a -- Russ Birchim, a Santa Barbara sheriff?
A. I believe so.
Q. Was anyone else present?
A. Just them in the room.
Q. Okay. And during those three hours, they went over what you were going to be asked today, right?

A. Well, they went over my depo -- Ron went over my deposition.

Q. Did he point to specific pages in your deposition?

A. No.

Q. Well, your deposition is volume after volume after volume, isn't it?

A. Yeah.

Q. How many volumes was your deposition in your suit against Mr. Jackson?

A. You know what? I'm thinking I was deposed for eight days. That's what I think.

Q. Did Prosecutor Zonen bring a copy of that deposition with him to your meeting?

A. I think he had one.

Q. Okay. Did he appear to have all of the volumes to the deposition with him?

A. I really don't know.

Q. Okay. But he had specific parts he wanted to talk to you about, right?

A. Not really specific parts. Just kind of going through it, you know.

Q. Did you go through all those eight days of deposition with Prosecutor Zonen in three hours?

A. I don't believe so.

Q. Okay. Who chose what portions of the deposition you were going to look at during the three-hour meeting, if you know?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Okay. Correct me if I'm wrong, Prosecutor Zonen had portions of those deposition volumes he wanted to talk to you about, correct?

MR. ZONEN: Objection as to what he wanted to talk about. Vague and speculative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did Prosecutor Zonen point out certain portions of those volumes that he wanted -- that he appeared to want to discuss with you?

MR. ZONEN: Objection as to asked and answered and speculative as to what he appeared to want to ask.

THE COURT: I think you need to cut that question in half.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. All right.

THE COURT: I'll sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During your three-hour meeting last night with Prosecutor Zonen, you looked at seven or eight volumes of your deposition, right?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; assumes facts not in evidence that she looked at seven or eight volumes of anything.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, you lost me. Um, can you repeat it?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Yes, sure. During your three-hour meeting last night with Prosecutor Zonen, you went through volumes of the deposition you gave in your suit against Michael Jackson, correct?

A. I don't know if it was volumes. It was just whatever page had opened, you know.

Q. Who opened the pages?

A. It wasn't me.

Q. It was Prosecutor Zonen, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. And he seemed to have certain pages he wanted to talk to you about, correct?

MR. ZONEN: Objection as to what he wanted to talk about. Speculative.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I have no idea. I just was -- he was just going through it, period. I don't --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And was he asking you questions about what you said in that deposition?

A. No. He was just reading it.

Q. Okay. I'm going to ask you some questions about the deposition you gave in the Chandler suit --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- on December 7th, 1993, okay?

A. Sure.

Q. Do you remember you said under oath that you trust Mr. Jackson and you would leave your son alone with him?

A. I don’t recall any of that. I don’t recall -- I don’t know what I said, because I have not looked at that.

Q. Might it refresh your recollection if I just show you that page?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance -- excuse me. Have you had a chance to look at those pages of your deposition?

A. No. Oh, right now? Yes, I’m sorry. Sorry.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said in that deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. You said words to the effect, “I trust Mr. Jackson,” and you would leave your son alone with him, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. You were asked if you ever saw Jordie Chandler in Michael Jackson’s bedroom and you said, “No,” right?

A. Correct, I believe.

Q. You said you had never seen Brett Barnes sleep in Michael Jackson’s room, right?

A. Probably. I can’t recall everything in that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you?

A. I hate to have you keep coming back, but that’s fine.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said under oath in that deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. You said you had never seen Brett Barnes sleep in Michael Jackson's room, right?
A. Correct.
Q. You didn't recall when you had met Wade Robeson for the first time, right?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; hearsay.
MR. MESEREAU: I'll rephrase it. I'll withdraw it.
Q. Do you remember testifying under oath that you didn't recall when you met Wade Robeson for the first time?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Um, actually, I don't -- I don't recall. I didn't go over that, so I don't --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would it refresh your recollection if you look at that page?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of your deposition?
A. Yeah.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about your saying you don't know when you first met Wade Robeson?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember testifying you didn't know how many times Brett Barnes had been to the ranch?
A. Probably.
Q. Do you know if that's what you said?
A. I believe -- I don't know.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at the page?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. And you testified under oath you didn't know how many times Brett Barnes had been to the ranch, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. Do you remember testifying under oath that you didn't know where Brett Barnes slept?

A. I probably did. I don't remember.

Q. Might it refresh your recollection if I show you the page?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said under oath about whether you knew where Mr. Barnes slept?

A. Yeah.

Q. And what did you say?

A. I believe I said, "I don't know."

Q. Okay. Now, you knew you were under oath in this deposition, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Prosecutor Zonen discuss with you last night what you were going to say if confronted with this sworn deposition in trial?

A. No.

Q. Did the issue of what you had said under oath in the Chandler deposition ever come up during the three hours you spent last night with Government Prosecutor Zonen?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Do you remember being asked under oath in that deposition if you ever saw Jordie Chandler's clothes at the ranch?

A. I believe that I do recall that.

Q. Do you remember saying that you saw his mother bring them into Mr. Jackson's room in a suitcase?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember being asked questions by Mr. Feldman about the alarm system in Mr. Jackson’s room?
A. I don’t recall that.
Q. Remember telling him, “People like to kill celebrities, so you have to be careful with your life”?
A. I don’t recall that.
Q. Okay. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that portion of your deposition?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to review that page?

A. Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said under oath to Mr. Feldman on that subject?
A. Yes.
Q. You did say, “When you’re a celebrity, you live a different life than regular people. I mean, people like to kill celebrities, so, you know, he has to be careful, you know, with his life.” And then --
MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as to hearsay, reading from a deposition that’s not inconsistent with current testimony.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Now, are you telling the jury that throughout this deposition you committed perjury?
MR. ZONEN: Objection; calls for a legal conclusion.
MR. MESEREAU: I believe it was raised on direction examination by the prosecutor, Your Honor.
MR. ZONEN: Not issues of perjury.
THE COURT: I’ll sustain the objection to the question as phrased.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
Q. You told Prosecutor Zonen that you repeatedly lied under oath in that deposition, correct?

A. Are you -- what are you talking about?

Q. When Prosecutor Zonen asked you some questions today in court, remember that?
A. Okay, yes.
Q. He asked you if you had lied under oath in the Chandler deposition, right?
A. Right.
Q. You said you did, right?
A. Right.
Q. Do you know how many times you lied under oath in the Chandler deposition?
A. I believe the whole time I did not tell the truth on that.
Q. Did you believe you were committing a crime when you did that?
A. I really didn’t. I really didn’t think of it that way.
Q. Well, let me ask you this: So far, you’ve admitted you lied under oath in the Chandler deposition for what, a day?
A. Well, throughout that -- throughout that deposition, yes.
Q. And Judge St. John found that you lied in that trial, right?
MR. ZONEN: Objection. Asked and answered; argumentative.
THE COURT: The objection is sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And the jury found you didn’t tell the truth in your suit against Mr. Jackson, right?

MR. ZONEN: Objection. Asked and answered; and argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Mr. Mesereau, a few questions back, after you refreshed her recollection with the transcript about “you’re a celebrity,” I sustained an objection, and I was incorrect.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay.
THE COURT: Do you want to reask that question? I’ll reverse my ruling on that.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So what had happened is she'd refreshed her recollection, and then you wanted to --

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember I showed you the page of the deposition about what you said about "people try to kill celebrities"?

A. Yes.

Q. And did that refresh your recollection about what you said on that issue under oath?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. And as you recall, what did you say under oath on that issue?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; irrelevant.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I forgot.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would it refresh your recollection if I show it to you again?

A. Yes.

THE COURT: What I'm going to do is let you read it to her. That's what I stopped you from doing. And I'll allow you to do it.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And he's going to ask you if this is --

You ask her.

(Laughter.)

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. All right.

Q. Ms. McManus, this is what you said under oath: "But you have to understand now, when you're a celebrity, you live a different life than regular people. I mean, people like to kill celebrities, so, you know, he has to be careful, you know, with his life, and that little sensor benefits him for his life."

Remember saying that?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. Now, you weren't lying when you said that, were you?

A. No.

Q. In fact, you knew that Mr. Jackson is very nervous about his personal security, isn't he?

MR. ZONEN: Objection. Speculative as to what he is nervous about; lack of foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Repeat it, please.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You knew when you worked at Neverland that Mr. Jackson is extremely nervous about his security, isn't he?
A. I really don't know.
Q. Well, when you saw his bodyguards, right?
A. Are you talking --
Q. Huh?
A. Are you talking OSS or just security from the house?
Q. Let me rephrase it. I think I was too vague on that one.
A. Okay.
Q. During the time you worked at Neverland --
A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- was it your understanding that Mr. Jackson is someone who's very concerned about his personal security?
A. I really don't know. I mean -- I don't know.
Q. You knew he had personal bodyguards to protect him, right?
A. Yeah.
Q. You knew they traveled with him when he went on tours around the world, right?

A. Yeah.
Q. You knew they were often armed, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And you knew that he was always concerned about threats to his personal welfare, right?
A. I don't know about that. But, I mean, I don't want to answer that, because I don't know.
Q. Did it ever occur to you that he might be concerned about his personal welfare?
A. I -- I don't know. I --
Q. Okay. You testified under oath that twice you saw June Chandler bring her son Jordie's clothes in a suitcase into Mr. Jackson's room?

A. I don’t know if it was twice. I know at least once. I don’t remember what I said on that.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you that page?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of your sworn deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said on that subject?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say?

A. Twice.
Q. Okay. You testified that you saw Mrs. Chandler open the suitcase and take clothes out, right?
A. I -- you know what, I don’t recall.
Q. Do you remember saying that she would sit down on the floor, take clothes out of the suitcase, fold them? Do you remember that?
A. Honestly, no, I don’t remember.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that page?
A. Yeah. Sorry.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of your sworn deposition?
A. Yeah.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said on that subject?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say?
A. That she would fold the clothes.
Q. That she would bring the suitcase and get on the floor and --
A. And fold the clothes, yes.
Q. Remember testifying under oath that you were never there at night when Jordie Chandler was in the room?

A. You know what, I don't recall.
Q. Remember testifying you said you were never at Neverland at night when Jordie was there?
A. I don't recall that either.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that page?
A. Sure. Probably, yes.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of your sworn deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said about that subject?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you say?
A. That I wasn't there at night with Jordie.
Q. Now, there were many occasions where Jordie Chandler, his mother and sister would come to the ranch and stay, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. Do you remember what his sister's name was?
A. Lily.
Q. Did you ever talk to Lily?
A. I don't believe so.
Q. Do you know what his mother's name was?
A. June Chandler.

Q. Did you ever talk to June Chandler?
A. Yes.
Q. What were your typical hours working at Neverland?
A. They varied, actually.
Q. Was there a particular time you normally punched in?
A. Sometimes 8:30, sometimes 9:00 in the morning.
Q. Do you remember testifying that you have never seen Mr. Jackson in bed?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Might it refresh your recollection if I show you your deposition?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on that occasion?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you say?

A. That I didn't see him in his bed.

Q. You'd never seen Mr. Jackson in bed, right?

A. Right.

Q. What was your understanding about when you were supposed to be at Neverland to do your work?

A. Well, there was a schedule, and we kind of just followed the schedule. But then there were times that you didn't know when you were going to go home because of the guests being there late. So you come in at a certain time, but that didn't mean that you were going to leave at the time that you were scheduled.

Q. So how would you learn what time you had to be there?

A. I believe there was a schedule that was made. You know, like supervisor would make it. And you'd be on the schedule at maybe 8:30 or 9:00, sometimes maybe till 5:30 or 6:00. But then, like I said, if there were guests, you didn't know what time you were going to go home.

Q. Do you remember testifying you couldn't tell if Mr. Jordie Chandler ever took a shower with Mr. Jackson, right?

A. A shower with Jackson?

Q. Yes.

A. Perhaps.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that page?

A. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you taken a look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you say?

A. I said I didn’t -- I said I didn’t -- I don’t know, I just forgot. Sorry.

Q. You said you couldn’t tell if Mr. Jackson ever took a shower with Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I couldn’t tell. Right. Right.

Q. You said you’d never seen Mr. Jackson in a Jacuzzi, right?

A. In a Jacuzzi, like taking a bath in a Jacuzzi, is that what you’re talking about?

Q. You said you had never seen Mr. Jackson in his Jacuzzi?

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as hearsay if it’s not inconsistent with current testimony, also vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You testified under oath that you’d never seen Jordie Chandler get ready to go to bed, right?

A. Perhaps. Like I said, I haven’t gone over that, and I’m sorry.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you that page?

A. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you say about Mr. Chandler on that issue?

A. That I didn’t see him ready to go to bed.

Q. And you also said you'd never seen him get up in the morning, right?

A. Correct.

Q. The prosecutor asked you a couple of questions about whether Mr. Jackson ever played with a pet monkey in his bedroom, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And I believe you said he had; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Was that chimpanzee's name Max?

A. I believe so.

Q. When you had your deposition taken in the Chandler case, you said you'd never seen a chimpanzee in his bedroom, right?

A. Perhaps.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the deposition?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said under oath at that deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you say?

A. I said, "No."

Q. You said everybody plays with the chimpanzee but you've never seen it in Mr. Jackson's room, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. Did you work at Neverland when Blanca Francia was working there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And how long did you work at Neverland when Blanca Francia was also working there?

A. I would think maybe nine months.

Q. Did you share similar responsibilities with Blanca Francia?

A. Are you talking about Mr. Jackson's room, or just as a maid, as an aide?

Q. Let me rephrase it.

When you worked at Neverland, what did you understand Blanca Francia's responsibilities to be?

A. Blanca had Mr. Jackson's room. She was his personal maid. Although Blanca did help out with the other things in the house or the guest units.

She kind of did a lot of everything.

Q. And when you worked at Neverland, what did you understand your responsibilities to be?

A. Are you talking about the beginning or --

Q. Let's start at the beginning, sure.

A. Okay. When I started, I was just a regular maid, like everybody else. I was in the kitchen helping wash dishes. Set tables. I mean, actually a lot of different stuff. You know, cleaning the guest quarters, the theater, everything, except Mr. Jackson's room.

Q. When did you begin to clean Mr. Jackson's room?

A. Actually, about nine months after my employment, which was when Blanca quit.

Q. During the first nine months of your employment when Blanca was working there, did you ever go into Mr. Jackson's room?

A. I can't recall.

Q. Do you recall ever having similar responsibilities in Mr. Jackson's house to Blanca Francia?

A. At times, yeah, maybe.

Q. Were there times when she would clean Mr. Jackson's room on a given day, and on another day you would clean Mr. Jackson's room?

A. No. No.

Q. Okay. So you didn't go near his room for the first nine months you worked there, right?

A. Correct.

Q. During those nine months, did you and Blanca Francia speak to each other?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you speak to each other often during those first nine months?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever learn that Blanca Francia had sold a story to a television show?

A. Um, I heard she did.

Q. Did you hear she had sold a story for money to Hard Copy?

A. I heard she did.

Q. Okay. Did you and Blanca ever discuss that subject?

A. No.

Q. How many -- let me rephrase that. You sold the sketch to a tabloid, right?

A. Me personally?

Q. Yes.

A. Not me personally. Somebody else did.

Q. Well, they did it on your behalf, right?

A. Well, I would probably think so. I don't -- yeah.

Q. Well, how did that person get the sketch?

A. Gary Morgan had gone to our attorney's office, Mr. Ring, Michael Ring, and that's where he got it, from there, at the attorney's office.

Q. Did you bring the sketch to Mr. Ring's law office?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Ring, "I took this from Neverland Ranch"?

A. No, I -- actually, I don't even -- I don't even think Michael Ring -- I don't even think he saw it. I don't know if he saw it.

I told Gary Morgan that I got it out of the trash. And I told him he could have it. So that's kind of where that went. And I don't know what Gary --

Q. Well, you didn't really say he could have it, you sold it?

A. Actually, I told him he could have it. And he went and, I guess, sold it. And then I think he said something in the tabloid, I don't even know which one it was, something that I had told him that I got it out of Mr. Jackson's bedroom in the trash or something to that -- which was not correct.

Q. You’re telling the jury that Michael Jackson did a sketch of Elvis Presley and you picked it out of the trash?

A. I found it outside by the rec room in the trash, in the trash. And when I found it there, I thought, well, it was neat, so I took it. It was in the trash.

Q. Is that one of the items the Santa Maria jury found you had stolen?

A. Well, that’s what they --

MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you went to Mr. Ring, did you tell this attorney where you got the sketch?

A. I don’t even recall if I -- he probably heard during the deposition that -- because I think I was questioned about that during the deposition, and I did say that I found it in the trash. But I don’t remember -- I don’t remember telling him about that myself. It must have been, you know, at the deposition where I said I found it in the trash.

Q. Did you sell that sketch before you went to trial in your lawsuit against Michael Jackson?

A. Before I went to trial?

Q. Yes.

A. You know what? I don’t even know -- I really don’t know when that -- the timing. I don’t know if it was during the trial maybe, later during the trial.

Q. Let me ask you this: You’ve told the jury the money that came -- excuse me. Let me rephrase it.

You’ve told the jury the money that was obtained in return for that sketch helped fund your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you know when you did that that Mr. Jackson was alleging that you had stolen that sketch?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Let me ask you if this statement is accurate: You took what you were accused of stealing and sold it for money to fund your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, right?

A. I took what I found in the trash and gave it to Gary Morgan and he sold it.
Q. And at some point you knew you were accused of stealing that sketch of Elvis Presley, right?
A. I got accused of that, yes.
THE COURT: All right. Let’s end for today.

THE COURT: Good morning.

THE JURY: (In unison) Good morning.

THE COURT: You may proceed, Counsel.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

ADRIAN MARIE McMANUS
Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

CROSS-EXAMINATION (Continued)
BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Ms. McManus, your -- excuse me.

Ms. McManus, your deposition in the Chandler lawsuit was on December 7th, 1993, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And the Complaint you filed against Michael Jackson, along with Ralph Chacon, was December 2nd, 1994, a year later, approximately a year later, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. Okay. Would it refresh your recollection just to take a look at the Complaint?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Yeah.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

Q. Now, in that lawsuit, you were suing Mr. Jackson for a number of different claims, and one of the claims talked about you having appeared at a deposition taken by Larry Feldman, and the claim said that you were a potential material witness against Jackson in both the civil suit and a criminal investigation, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And what that really meant was, by filing that Complaint with that language, you were essentially threatening Mr. Jackson that you would change your testimony unless you were paid, right?

A. I'm not familiar with a lot of attorney language, so I really don't know how to answer that.

Q. How much money do you recall you were seeking from Mr. Jackson in that lawsuit?

A. That's another question I cannot answer. That was dealing with my attorney.

Q. Well, you were in court when he argued to the Santa Maria jury for millions of dollars, right?

A. I don't even know if I was there at that time. I could have been. I don't remember.

Q. You certainly must have discussed with your attorney during that six-month trial how much money you were trying to get for yourself from Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Honestly, I don't believe anybody knew how much money anybody would be getting out of a trial.

Q. But how much did you want?

A. I really didn't want anything. I just wanted justice for what I had gone through.

Q. You didn't want millions of dollars in that lawsuit?

A. I wanted justice. I didn't -- whatever -- I wanted justice.

Q. But your idea of justice was millions of bucks, right?

A. Well, that's not what I call justice.

Q. You file a lawsuit, you go through approximately eight days of depositions, all sorts of paperwork, and you're in trial for six months. You wanted millions, right?

A. Honestly, a simple "Sorry for what we did to you" would have been great for me.

Q. Did you ever write a letter to Mr. Jackson saying, "Mr. Jackson, I don't want to sue you. Just tell me you're sorry"?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Ever call Mr. Jackson and say, "Mr. Jackson,

I don’t really want to sue you. Just say you’re sorry”?
A. I didn’t have a number to contact Mr. Jackson.

Q. Okay. When did you first go to the police to tell them you had seen anything improper about Mr. Jackson?
A. I can’t recall the date. I don’t remember.
Q. It was after your deposition in the Chandler case, correct?
A. It might have been.
Q. Do you know approximately when you first talked to anyone from the Santa Barbara Sheriff’s Department about your claim that you’d seen Mr. Jackson do anything improper?
A. You know, it might have been when I talked to my attorney, Mr. Ring. It might have been sometime then, that I can recall.
Q. And when you did that, you thought going to the sheriffs would put pressure on Mr. Jackson to pay money in your civil case, right?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Did you go to the sheriffs with your attorney?
A. I don’t believe so.
Q. But certainly you went to an attorney before anyone from law enforcement, right?
A. Actually, I recall going to law enforcement to com -- to complain about the death threat that I got from James Van Norman and strange circumstances that were going on at Neverland Valley Ranch.
Q. But that was also to bolster your claim for millions of dollars, right?

A. That was before I even contacted an attorney.
Q. But by doing that, you were setting the stage for a lawsuit for millions of dollars against Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. No, I was not.
Q. You went to tabloids, a lawyer, and the sheriffs, all to get millions of bucks, right?

A. You’re wrong.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; compound.

THE COURT: The answer was, “You’re wrong.” Overruled. Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know Leslie Gomez?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Do you know she was the manager of McFrugal’s?

A. I think I know her as Beaver. That’s the name I think I’m thinking of.

Q. You told her you had never seen Michael Jackson act inappropriately with children, right?

A. I’ve never talked to her about Michael Jackson.

Q. You told Leslie Gomez that, “The suit by that kid,” meaning Mr. Chandler, “was a bunch of bull,” right?

A. I’ve never told -- I’ve never talked to her about anything to do with lawsuits or anything with Mr. Jackson.

Q. And do you know someone named Ludi Trujillo?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Ludi Trujillo is your former boss at Gottschalk’s, right?

A. No, she was not.

Q. Who is she?

A. She’s a girl that worked at Gottschalk’s. Just a lady.

Q. She didn’t have any position above you?

A. No, she did not.

Q. Okay. You talked to her about the Chandler lawsuit, didn’t you?

A. No, I did not.

Q. She asked you specifically if Mr. Jackson ever molested children, and you told her, “Of course Michael did not,” right?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You told her Michael Jackson was a great boss, didn’t you?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you know someone named Jamie Vail?

A. No, I don’t.
Q. Didn’t Jamie Vail live across the street from you?
A. Where was this? I don’t know the name.
Q. Okay. Do you remember telling someone named Jamie Vail that you loved Michael Jackson, you love working at the ranch, and you never believed any of the charges against him?

A. I don’t even know that person.
Q. Okay. Do you know who Gayle Goforth is?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. And who is Gayle Goforth?
A. She was a supervisor that worked at Neverland Valley Ranch.
Q. Do you remember Gayle asked you if there was anything to rumors about inappropriate conduct by Mr. Jackson?
A. She never -- we never talked about that, no.
Q. In the autumn of 1993, you told her there was no truth to those rumors about Mr. Jackson acting inappropriately, right?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Now, you and Ralph Chacon and Kassim Abdool started meeting secretly at Neverland to talk about your lawsuit, didn’t you?
A. No, we did not.
Q. You and Ralph Chacon and Kassim Abdool began to meet at Neverland to discuss the possibility of selling stories to the media, right?
A. No, we did not.
Q. Did you ever discuss selling a story to the media with Ralph Chacon?
A. No, I did not.
Q. When you were working at Neverland, did you ever learn that Ralph Chacon was thinking of selling any story about Michael Jackson to the media?

A. No.
Q. When did you first hear anything about Ralph Chacon’s willingness to go to the media with information about Michael Jackson?

A. The only time that we all sold a story was when we were already in our lawsuit with Mr. Jackson, which was with Mr. Ring, our attorney.

Q. Now, at some point, you learned that Blanca Francia had sold a story to Hard Copy, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. She sold her information before you sold yours, right?

A. I don’t recall when Bianca -- Blanca sold the story.

Q. Do you know someone named Charli Michaels?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Who is Charli Michaels?

A. She was a security guard for Neverland Valley Ranch.

Q. Did you ever hear information that Charli Michaels was trying to sell a story about Michael Jackson to the media?

A. No, I did not.

Q. To date, have you ever heard anything about that?

A. No.

Q. Ever have a discussion with Charli Michaels about the possibility of making money from information you’d learned at Neverland?

A. No. I only recall talking to Charli about her having sexual harassment with people at the ranch.

Q. Okay. So you and she never said anything about the possibility of making a buck from the media, correct?

A. No. No.

Q. Okay. Now, when you were at Neverland, you learned that security guards at the Encino home of the Jacksons on Havenhurst had sold stories for approximately $100,000, right?

A. No, I never heard that.

Q. You knew they had sold stories about Michael Jackson, didn’t you?

A. No.

MR. ZONEN: I’m going to object as asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know someone named Francine Orosco?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And who is Francine Orosco?

A. She was a maid for Neverland Valley Ranch.

Q. And at some point, she was a personal friend of yours, was she not?

A. We became friends, yes.

Q. Now, you knew that she became a witness against your claims in the lawsuit, right?

A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. She said you were never sexually harassed by anybody, right?

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Didn’t you repeatedly tell Francine Orosco that Michael Jackson was innocent of any charge of molestation?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you remember telling Francine Orosco that you were going to get big-time money in your lawsuit against Michael Jackson?

A. No, I did not.

Q. And you tried to convince her to say that she had seen acts of sexual harassment involving you, right?

A. No, I did not.

Q. While you worked at Neverland, Francine Orosco visited you at home, did she not?

A. Maybe one time.

Q. And you showed her a room in your house filled with watches, posters, clocks, sunglasses, T-shirts and other items you had taken from Neverland, correct?

A. No.

Q. You showed her laundry baskets filled with Michael Jackson’s clothes that you had taken from Neverland, right?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you remember one time at Neverland when a box of black felt hats came for Mr. Jackson?

A. I can’t recall that.

Q. Do you remember that box of hats had Michael Jackson’s name printed on the inside of the rim of the hats?

A. I know he had hats, but I don’t recall the hats being sent there.

Q. Do you remember taking a hat and saying you were going to bring it home?

A. No.

Q. Now, you used to take food home from the theater, did you not?

A. Food, like what are you talking about? Dinners?

Q. Candy?

A. No.

Q. Never took bags of candy home?

A. There was a time when -- you say “take,” you’re saying like -- you’re saying I’m just going to take it, that is not correct.

There was a time when Gayle Goforth, a supervisor, went down to the theater and took a lot of the candy from there, because it was expired. She brought it back to the maids, the maids’ room, and she let all the maids take candy that was expired. She also gave it to security. That was the only time.

Q. So you never stole any candy from Michael Jackson?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you remember around Christmastime when you worked at Neverland, Mr. Jackson used to purchase toys for needy children?

A. I believe he did.

Q. And they tended to be fairly expensive toys, did they not?

A. I really don’t know.

Q. You took some of those toys home, did you not?

A. No, I did not. That was Janelle Wahl.

Q. Pardon me?

A. That was Janelle Wahl that would take that.
Q. You never took any Super Soaker guns home?
A. No, sir.
Q. Now, these are the kinds of things the jury found that you had actually done, correct?
A. I don't believe so.
Q. Well, they found that you had stolen from Mr. Jackson, correct?
A. I believe it was what they thought I had stolen was that sketch that I found in the trash.

Q. And you're saying you didn't steal that either, right?
A. I didn't. I found it in the trash.
Q. That's the sketch of Elvis?
A. Yes.
Q. You complained at Neverland that you should be paid more, right?
A. I don't believe I did.
Q. Never said that to anybody?
A. I don't recall saying that.
Q. Okay. And you say you left voluntarily, correct?
A. I left after the harassment and the death threats, yes.
Q. And then you filed a claim for disability with EDD, right?
A. No.
MR. ZONEN: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Ralph Chacon stopped working at Neverland the same day you stopped, right?
A. I don't believe so.
Q. Kassim Abdool stopped working there the same day you stopped, didn't he?
A. I don't believe so.
Q. All -- excuse me.
Now, you sued someone named Bill Bray, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And who is Bill Bray?

A. He was the -- how would you say it? Maybe the top man for the Office of Special Services.

Q. You sued Betty Bailey, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was Betty Bailey?

A. She was maybe like his right hand.

Q. And you sued Mr. Jackson’s personal security people, right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You sued Jimmy Van Norman, right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Marcus Johnson, right?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Tony Coleman?

A. Yes.

Q. And Jerome J.J. Johnson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And at some point you approached Mr. Johnson about testifying for you, right?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Someone on your behalf did, right?

A. All I know is that I believe that, from what I understand, he jumped onto our side and decided to tell the truth about what was going on.

Q. And when you say he “decided to tell the truth,” you dropped your suit against him, right?

A. I believe we did.

Q. And the jury didn’t believe him either, right?

MR. ZONEN: Objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. ZONEN: He never testified. Assumes facts not in evidence that he testified.

THE COURT: I sustained your objection.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember when Mr. Johnson got in trouble for sending an extortion letter to Mr. Jackson asking for three million dollars?

A. I did learn of that through the later part of my deposition, which I knew nothing about.

Q. At the point where you learned about Mr.

Johnson’s $3 million extortion letter to Mr. Jackson, were you working with him on your lawsuit?
A. No.
Q. You stole commemorative Pepsi cans from Neverland, did you not?
A. No, I did not.
Q. You were accused of that, right?
A. No, I was not.
Q. Do you know someone name Peter Burt?
A. No, I do not.
Q. Never heard the name?
A. I’ve heard of the name, but I do not know him.

Q. Okay. You do know Sandie Domz, do you not?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. Who is Sandie Domz?
A. She was an office administrator, a secretary for Neverland Valley Ranch.
Q. You and the other plaintiffs in that lawsuit decided that she would go to the show Hard Copy to try and sell a story, correct?
A. Not that I ever recall.
Q. Are you saying that didn’t happen, or you just don’t remember?
A. That did not happen.
Q. So you never got together and said, “We’ll split money that we could get from Hard Copy”?
A. No, I did not.
MR. SANGER: Inside Edition.
(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How much in total did Mr. Ring collect on your behalf from tabloids or media?
A. From what I recall from my deposition, which there were stubs in my deposition, that showed, I’m thinking, maybe 32,000.
Q. Okay. Did any of that go to you?
A. 1,000.
Q. Now, you spent days being interviewed by a book author named Mr. Gutierrez, right?

A. Days being interviewed?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Were you interviewed by a book author named Mr. Gutierrez?

A. I never was interviewed, but I did meet with him.

Q. And approximately when did you meet with him?

A. You know, I cannot recall the date.

Q. Well, you certainly had a discussion with him about the fact that he was writing a book, didn’t you?

A. No, I did not.

Q. So when you met with him, you didn’t know he was writing a book?

A. No, when I met with him, he was going to try to help us in our lawsuit.

Q. Did you ever learn he was writing a book about Mr. Jackson?

A. I never -- I don’t recall him saying that he was writing a book. I don’t remember that.

Q. Did you give him information about Mr. Jackson?

A. Um, later I did.

Q. When you first talked to the Santa Barbara Sheriffs, you didn’t tell them about inappropriate behavior you’d seen by Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. Probably not.

Q. You waited to say that in your lawsuit, correct?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Going back to your deposition in the Chandler suit - okay? --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- you were asked if you’d ever seen Wade Robeson at the ranch without one of his parents, and you said, “No,” right?

A. I don’t -- I have not gone over that, so I do not recall what I’ve said or --

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to just take a look at the page?

A. Yeah.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?
A. Yes.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said under oath in that deposition?
A. Yes.
Q. And on that issue, what did you say?
A. “No.”
Q. You said you had never seen Wade Robeson at the ranch without one of his parents, right?

A. Correct.
Q. You were asked if you had ever seen Brett Barnes’ clothes in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, right?
A. If it’s there. Like I said, I have not gone over that.
Q. And your response was sometimes his mother would give you his clothes to wash, right?
A. Yeah, probably.
Q. Is that what you remember saying?
A. Like I said, I have not gone over that in probably ten years.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to just take a look at that page?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said?
A. Yes.
Q. And you said that his mother would give you his clothes, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You didn’t see his clothes in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, right?
A. Um --

Q. Excuse me, at that point in time, you said you didn’t see his clothes in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, his mother would give you his clothes, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You also said you’d never seen any of the Culkin boys’ clothes in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, right?

A. If it’s there, that’s probably what I said at that time.

Q. Let me just go back a little bit. You said that you saw Macaulay Culkin and his brother at Neverland, right?

A. I probably did.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at that page?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. May I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said on that topic?

A. Yes.

Q. You said that you had never seen the Culkin boys’ clothes in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You also told Mr. Feldman that you had never come to Mr. Jackson’s room in the morning and seen anything that indicated somebody may have slept on his floor, right?

A. I don’t recall. Sorry.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at that page?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Uh-huh.

MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that?

A. Yes.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection about what you said?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you say?

A. "No."

Q. Do you remember testifying that Mr. Jackson had never given you money?

A. I don't recall that. I don't --

Q. Did Mr. Jackson give you money from time to time?

A. No. There was just one time.

Q. Okay. And that was when you told the jury that you got 300 bucks to lie in a deposition?

A. That --

MR. ZONEN: Objection; misstates the testimony of the witness.

MR. MESEREAU: Let me rephrase that.

Q. Did you tell the jury that Mr. Jackson gave you $300 to lie in a deposition?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; misstatement of evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: What I said was the $300 was given to me after Mr. Jackson had read the transcripts of Jordie Chandler.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. And you interpreted that as a token of his appreciation?

A. Yes, for covering up for him.

Q. Okay. 300 bucks?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you remember being asked if you'd ever seen a woman in Mr. Jackson's bedroom?

A. I can't recall that.

Q. You said you had seen June Chandler in his bedroom, right?

A. I believe to bring in Jordie's clothes.

Q. Well, let me just go step by step. You testified under oath in the deposition that you had seen June Chandler in Mr. Jackson's bedroom, right?

A. To bring in his clothes, yes.

Q. You said you had never seen Mr. Jackson and June Chandler in any romantic relationship, right?

A. Correct.

Q. You weren't aware of her sleeping with Mr. Jackson, right?

A. No.

Q. But you saw her in his room?

A. To bring in the clothes, yes.

Q. Well, you didn't say "to bring in the clothes" in the deposition, right?

A. I don't know what's in the deposition.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at that page?

A. Sure.

MR. ZONEN: I'll object as irrelevant and hearsay.

MR. MESEREAU: I think the prosecution raised the issue of what was happening in that bedroom.

THE COURT: I'll allow you to refresh her recollection.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of your deposition?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said about June Chandler being in Mr. Jackson's room?

A. Yes.

Q. You said you had seen June Chandler in his room, right?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't explain it in terms of her coming there for clothes, or with clothes, right?

A. I guess not, no.

Q. You testified that you had seen Jordie Chandler and Michael Jackson together outside on a Jet Ski in the water, right?

A. I probably did.

Q. Do you remember that?

A. Slightly.

Q. You indicated you had seen Mr. Jackson in water balloon fights and squirt gun fights, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And you saw that once in a while, didn't you, while you worked there?

A. Yes.

Q. He would do that with kids all the time, wouldn't he?

A. Yeah, sometimes.

Q. Was it your impression that Mr. Jackson liked water balloon fights?

MR. ZONEN: I'll object as speculative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said you had never seen Mr. Jackson hold hands with anyone at the ranch, right?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Could I refresh your recollection --

A. Sure.

Q. -- by showing you the page?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said?

A. Yes.

Q. You said you'd never seen Michael Jackson hold hands with anybody at the ranch, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Now, there was approximately a one-year period between this deposition and the actual filing of your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Are you talking about Jordie Chandler?

Q. Well, approximately a one-year period between your deposition in the Chandler case and the filing of your lawsuit, correct?

A. I believe so.

Q. Now, the Chandler deposition was in December, and the next December you filed your lawsuit, right?

A. I know the Chandler one was probably December 7th of -- oh, gosh, I don’t know if it was ‘93 or ‘94. I don’t -- I’m not -- I don’t know the dates.

Q. Okay. We talked about a little earlier that December 7th, 1993, is the deposition in the Chandler case.

A. Okay.

Q. And your lawsuit is December 2nd, 1994?

A. Okay.

Q. Okay?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, how long after the Feldman deposition in the Chandler case did you to go a lawyer to talk about suing?

A. I don’t know how long after it was. I just -- I know I left Neverland in the end of July of ‘94. It might have been -- I don’t even want to guess because I’m not real -- I’m not sure.

Q. You must have had a lot of meetings with Mr. Ring before you actually finalized the lawsuit, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And do you know roughly when that started?

A. You know, in my head, I don’t know why I keep thinking 1995, but I don’t know.

Q. For how many months do you think you and Ralph Chacon and Kassim Abdool met with Mr. Ring before the action was filed?

A. I really can’t answer that, because I really don’t know.

Q. Approximately when did you stop working at Neverland?

A. The exact date -- my last day, I believe, was July the 31st of ‘94.

Q. Do you recall participating in an Inside Edition show?

A. I believe so.

Q. And when did you participate in a show about Mr. Jackson for Inside Edition?

A. I believe that had to do when we contacted Gary Morgan. That was all around the same time, so our lawsuit had already been going on.

Q. Do you remember meeting with representatives of Inside Edition?

A. I remember -- I remember those -- the people from Inside Edition showing up at our attorney’s office, so I guess, yeah.

Q. Did you meet with them with your lawyer?

A. Yes.

Q. And was Ralph Chacon in that meeting?

A. You know what, I really can’t recall.

Q. Was Kassim Abdool in that meeting?

A. I don’t want to say yes, because I can’t recall.

Q. But the subject was Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Do you remember trying to sell information about Mr. Jackson’s relationship with Ms. Presley?

A. There could have been something of that. Possibly, yes.

Q. You say, “Possibly, yes”?

A. Yeah.

Q. Well, I mean, you were actually trying to get money from tabloids in return for your giving them personal information about Mr. Jackson’s relationship with Miss Presley, right?

A. We were trying to get money to help with our lawsuit to fight Mr. Jackson.

Q. Do you recall ever going to anyone in the media and telling them you had inside information on Mr. Jackson’s relationship with Miss Presley?

A. I don’t recall that.

Q. Okay. Do you recall ever giving information to anyone in the media involving Miss Presley and Mr. Jackson?
A. I believe we probably did with Gary Morgan.
Q. And he was your media broker, wasn’t he?
A. I believe so.

Q. He was the one that you were using and Ralph Chacon was using to find media outlets to sell information to, right?
A. I believe so.
Q. Okay. And you met him through Attorney Ring; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Did you ever see any tabloids that quoted you about Mr. Jackson?
A. I -- I could have.
Q. You’re not sure?
A. I’m not real, real sure.
Q. Did you ever see any tabloids that quoted you about Mr. Jackson’s relationship with Miss Presley?
A. I could have. It’s been a long time. I kind of can’t remember.
Q. Do you remember Star magazine asking you to sign a contract whereby you would give them information about Mr. Jackson and his relationship with his wife, Lisa Marie Presley?
A. I remember something to do with Gary Morgan and something with Star, but I don’t remember everything that was discussed with that.
Q. Might it refresh your recollection if I just show you that document?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that document?
A. Yes.
Q. Does it appear to be a contract with Star magazine?

A. Yes.

Q. And you signed that, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And among other things, you agreed to provide information about Mr. Jackson’s relationship with Lisa Marie Presley, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And Ralph Chacon signed that, did he not?

A. I believe so.

Q. Now, you’ve heard the name Splash, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And who was Splash?

A. I really -- all I know about Splash is that it was linked up with Gary Morgan, so I don’t know a lot of this tabloid stuff. I don’t know.

Q. Well, Splash was an agency, was it not, that was retained by you to find media sources, right?

A. If it was retained, it would have been with Michael Ring, my attorney.

Q. Okay. You signed an agreement with Splash News and Picture Agency, right?

A. I believe so.

Q. And was your involvement with Splash always through Mr. Ring?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever deal with Splash directly?

A. No, I did not.

Q. How long were you working with Splash?

A. I have no idea. I don’t know the dates.

Q. At some point -- at some point did your relationship with Splash end?

A. I’m sure it did.

Q. Okay. Do you know approximately when?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Were you giving information to any tabloids or media sources during your trial?

A. Only through Splash.

Q. And that went on during the trial, right?

A. Probably sometime during the trial, yes.

Q. Do you recall trying to sell what you called “Mr. Jackson’s sex secrets”? Do you remember that?

A. I know something was written about that, but I know sometimes tabloids write other stuff that they like to put in, so I don't know.

Q. You were quoted in an issue of Star magazine titled "Five of His Closest Servants Tell All. Kinky Sex Secrets of Michael and Lisa Marie's Bedroom," right?

A. I don't believe I said that.

Q. Have you seen that article before?

A. I did during my deposition.

Q. Was that the first time you'd ever seen this article?

A. Yes.

Q. You are quoted in the article, correct?

A. I don't know. I could be. I don't know.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you --

A. Sure, you can.

MR. MESEREAU: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Kind of hard to see that.

Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that article?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about you being quoted in that article?

A. Yes.

Q. You were going to tabloids and saying that you were the only person with a key to Mr. Jackson's bedroom and you had information to sell, right?

A. Um, as I've said, I know we did interview -- the interview with Gary Morgan. But a lot of the times with those tabloids, those tabloids write other stuff and put it in there, and it makes it look like I said it, when I didn't say it. So I don't know how to answer that.

Q. Well, did he have authorization from you to quote you with various tabloids?

A. You know what, that's where I don't know.

He was dealing with Michael Ring, so I really don’t know. I kind of got stuck in the middle.

Q. Well, at some point you must have known that your quotes were appearing in tabloids regarding Mr. Jackson, true?

MR. ZONEN: Assumes facts not in evidence that there were quotes.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During the time you were represented by Attorney Ring, did you learn from time to time that your name and various quotes about Mr. Jackson were appearing in the media?

A. Just through the Gary Morgan deal. That’s all I recall.

Q. What I’m trying to find out is this: Did you sort of leave it to other people to sort of quote you when they wanted in the media?

A. Actually, sometimes you have no control over what people quote you in the media.

Q. But you’re not saying you had nothing to do with these quotes, are you?

A. I can’t answer that, because I don’t know what was quoted.

Q. Okay. You never learned?

A. No. Huh-uh.

Q. During your trial with Mr. Jackson, were you speaking to various newscasters?

A. Only Gary Morgan is all that I recall, and when we met with Victor Gutierrez, and that was it.

Q. Would he arrange meetings for you?

A. Victor Gutierrez?

Q. No, Mr. Morgan.

A. I believe he might have, through Mr. Ring.

Q. Was it -- let me rephrase that.

Was it typical during your relationship with Mr. Morgan that he would fax a story to you to have you review it, and ask you to see if you wanted any changes, and then you would fax it back?

A. What I recall is viewing one -- I don’t know what you call it, I don’t know if it was a transcript, and that’s the only thing I remember seeing.

Q. Did the group used to meet with Mr. Morgan?

A. The only time we all met was with Mr. Ring at his office.

Q. And you had a number of meetings with Mr. Ring, Mr. Morgan, and the group that was suing Michael Jackson, true?

A. Maybe two meetings that I can recall.

Q. And Ralph Chacon was at those meetings, right?

A. He might have been at one. I don’t know if he was at all of them.

Q. When did you last talk to Ralph Chacon?

A. It’s been a while. I don’t know, maybe -- I really can’t -- it’s been a while.

Q. When did you last talk to Kassim Abdool?

A. Actually, the last time I spoke with Kassim was during our verdict, when we lost, and I have not seen him since.

Q. How about Melanie Bagnall?

A. I see her off and on.

Q. Do you recall your being quoted in any Australian newspapers about Mr. Jackson’s private life?

A. No.

Q. Was it your understanding that Mr. Morgan was going to try and use your quotes in foreign newspapers about Mr. Jackson?

A. I have no idea.

Q. How many television shows do you think you appeared on where you purported to give private information about Michael Jackson?

A. The only thing that I can recall that I appeared on was maybe with Inside -- I think it was Inside Edition. There wasn’t an interview with me, but I think they captured me walking, maybe, with -- I don’t know if it was Kassim.

Q. Do you recall meeting with any representative of the media while you worked at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. And you're telling the jury that you never had any discussion with any employee while you worked at Neverland about what you could make by selling a story?

A. The only thing I recall when I worked at Neverland was one of the maids, Francine Orosco, had contacted the media. I don't know if it was -- it was one of the tabloids and they had offered her $2,000, and she was going to come out and talk, but they wanted her picture. And she was considering doing that. That's the only thing I ever remember with that.

Q. Finally, when did you last talk to anyone representing any media outlet about Mr. Jackson?

A. I have not interviewed with anybody about Mr. Jackson.

Q. I don't mean an interview. I mean when have you last spoken with anyone who purported to represent the media?

A. I haven't really been talking to anybody about anything in the -- with the media.

Q. Has anyone called you from the media?

A. I did get a call from somebody from London at my job, and they wanted to interview, and I told them no.

Q. When was that?

A. Maybe about -- within the last week.

Q. And you didn't interview because there is a court order in this case that you're not allowed to do that if you're a witness, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did you agree with them that on a future date you may speak to them?

A. I told them that I was not interested in doing any interviews, that I was under a gag order.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions at this time.

THE COURT: Redirect?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you some questions about an article that was in a tabloid that quotes you as saying that you have all kinds of information about kinky sex secrets between Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley. He showed you that article and asked you if it refreshed your recollection as to whether there was, in fact, such an article, and you said yes, it refreshed your recollection as to that article.

About the quotations in the article, are they accurate?

A. No, they are not.

Q. Did you ever give information about kinky sex secrets between Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley to any publication, any media, or any reporter?

A. No, never.

Q. Do you, in fact, have information of kinky sex secrets between Michael Jackson and Lisa Marie Presley?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Have you ever seen Michael Jackson with Lisa Marie Presley?

A. How do you mean, “seen”?

Q. Was she at the ranch during the period of time that you were there?

A. Yes, she was.

Q. Were they married during that time?

A. No.

Q. Were they visiting one another?

A. I believe so.

Q. Do you have any information at all that Lisa Marie Presley ever stayed with Michael Jackson in his room?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see any woman stay with Michael Jackson in his room in the four years you worked for him?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You stated in the deposition that you had never seen Michael Jackson hold hands with anyone.

Is that a correct statement?

A. No.

Q. Have you seen him holding hands with people?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Brett Barnes. The children that were at the ranch.

Q. You told Mr. Feldman during the deposition that you had never come into Mr. Jackson’s room and seen evidence that somebody had slept on the floor. Was that, in fact, a correct statement?

A. That’s correct.

Q. In fact, during the time that you had worked there, you had never seen any evidence that someone had slept on the floor?

A. Correct.

Q. You told Mr. Mesereau about June Chandler unpacking clothing in Mr. Jackson’s bedroom. Did that, in fact, happen?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. Explain that to us, please.

A. June Chandler had gone into Mr. Jackson’s room and brought in suitcases of Jordie Chandler’s clothes, since he was staying with Mr. Jackson in his bedroom.

Q. I guess that begs the question, Miss Chandler obviously knew that her son was sleeping in that room, correct?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Argumentative; sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did she do this on more than one occasion?

A. I believe so.

Q. Was there a dresser or a drawer set up for Jordie’s clothing?

A. No. The clothes would just get put anywhere in the room.

Q. Were there any -- was there any occasion that you saw June Chandler in Michael Jackson’s room when she was not attending to her child’s clothing?

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. You testified in the deposition that you had not seen Wade Robeson on the property without a parent. Was that a correct statement?

A. I'm sorry, you lost me.

Q. Had you ever seen Wade Robeson at Neverland without a parent?

A. No.

Q. Who was the parent that was always there?

A. His mother.

Q. And you never met the father?

A. No.

Q. Your initial conversations with the sheriff's office, were they at a time that you were still employed at Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. You testified in the deposition that Brett Barnes' mother would bring you his clothes to wash. Was that, in fact, true?

A. At times that was true.

Q. Was that always the manner in which you washed his clothes?

A. No.

Q. In what other ways would you be washing his clothes?

A. If they were left in Mr. Jackson's room, I would take them and wash them along with Mr. Jackson's clothes.

Q. You have testified in the Chandler deposition that you never saw Jordie and Michael Jackson in his bedroom together. Was that a correct statement?

A. No, it was not.

Q. Had you seen the two of them together in the bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. On more than one occasion?

A. Yes.

Q. Had you ever seen them in bed together?

A. Not in bed, no.

Q. You testified that you never saw Brett Barnes sleep in the bedroom with Michael Jackson.

You testified to that in the deposition, the Chandler deposition. Was that a correct statement?
A. No, it was not.
Q. Had you, in fact, seen Brett Barnes sleep in a bedroom with Michael Jackson?
A. He was staying with Mr. Jackson.
Q. Did you ever actually see either Michael Jackson or Brett Barnes in bed in Michael Jackson’s room?
A. One morning I might have seen them in bed, yes.
Q. Do you have a recollection of that?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you see?
A. I brought breakfast and they were sitting in the bed.
Q. Both of them together?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall how they were dressed?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Were they in the bed, under the covers, or --
A. Yes.
Q. They were in the bed under the covers?
A. Yes.
Q. You testified that you never saw Jordie Chandler either get ready for bed or get up in the morning. Were either of those statements true?

A. Yes.
Q. Both of them?
A. Yes.
Q. You testified that you never saw a chimp in his bedroom. Was that statement true?
A. No.
Q. In fact, you’d been bitten by a chimp in his bedroom; is that true?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you used to clean up after the monkeys?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever have to change their diapers?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Yes, I did.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you ever have to clean up monkey droppings on the floors?
A. Not on the floor. Just on the walls.
Q. On the walls?
A. Sometimes monkeys get wild.
Q. You actually have to clean up their --
A. Yes.
Q. -- mess on the walls?
A. Yes.
Q. You testified that you had never seen Jordie and Michael Jackson in the Jacuzzi. Is that a correct statement?

A. Yes.
Q. You had testified yesterday that you had testified in the Chandler lawsuit that you had no problems leaving your son with Michael Jackson. Was that true?
A. No.
Q. Were you, in fact, concerned about your son and Michael Jackson?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. Did you ever see Michael Jackson with your son behave in a way that concerned you?
A. Yes.
Q. What did he do?
A. Mr. Jackson would rub his fingers through my son's hair.
Q. Did that concern you at the time?
A. A little bit, yeah. I was a little upset.
MR. ZONEN: I have no further questions.
MR. MESEREAU: Very briefly.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. You tried to sell a story to a tabloid about Mr. Jackson putting his fingers through your son's hair, didn't you?
A. No, I did not.

Q. You tried to sell stories to tabloids about your son's experiences at Neverland, correct?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Do you recall Mr. Jackson living at Lisa Marie Presley's home during the week, and Lisa Marie Presley visiting on weekends during the time that you worked at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. You saw her there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Okay. Did you ever see Brooke Shields there before Lisa Marie Presley?

A. Yes, I -- I saw Brooke Shields, but I don't know if it was before.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Where did Brooke Shields stay when she stayed at Neverland Ranch?

A. In a guest unit.

MR. ZONEN: No further questions.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

THE COURT: Call your next witness.

MR. MESEREAU: Witness be subject to re-call, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Phillip LeMarque would be our next witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Remain standing. Raise your right hand. Face the clerk here.

PHILLIP LeMARQUE

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: My name is Phillip LeMarque. P-h-i-l-l-i-p; LeMarque, L-e-M-a-r-q-u-e.

MR. MESEREAU: Excuse me, Your Honor. I think we have that issue that was raised.

THE COURT: That doesn’t come up until your exam.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. LeMarque. Where did you work in 1991?

A. At the Neverland Valley.

Q. And who was your employer?

A. Michael Jackson.

Q. Is he the man seated to my right?

A. Yes.

Q. How long did you work at Neverland?

A. Oh, somewhere around ten months or more. Somewhere like that.

Q. And what did you do at Neverland?

A. Was in charge of the food. Majordomo of the food. And my wife was the cook.

Q. All right. What do you mean by “majordomo of the food”?

A. Well, in charge of serving the food and preparing and organizing for the guests and so forth.

Q. And you said your wife also worked there at the same time?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Where did you live while you were living -- or while you were working at Neverland?

A. We were living at the ranch.

Q. Whereabouts at the ranch?

A. It was a house which is maybe -- was by the zoo.

Q. Were you involved in serving the food as well as preparing it?

A. Yes.
Q. And you said you left your employment there after about ten months?
A. Yes, somewhere around ten months.

Q. Why did you leave Neverland? Why did you leave the employment there?
A. There was an issue happening with Norma Stakos, who was Michael's private secretary.
THE COURT: All right. We're going to take a break.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. We have a morning break.
(Recess taken.)

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: Counsel? Did you wish to address me?

MR. MESEREAU: Yeah, Your Honor. I believe the prosecutor filed a memorandum this morning regarding impeachment of this witness.

THE BAILIFF: No one can hear you.

MR. MESEREAU: Oh, I’m sorry.

Your Honor, the prosecutor filed a pleading this morning regarding impeachment of this particular witness.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: And he has, as I understand it, requested that the defense not mention the fact that this witness has been in the --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll ask --

MR. MESEREAU: -- the pornographic website business.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: May I object, and just ask that the Court -- the Court is aware of the issues. I don’t think it’s necessary to publish them.

THE COURT: That’s true. He did -- not in the terms you just stated.

For once you want to use “pornographic” when no one else wants to. It was the other way around recently.

But what -- your point being?

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, we can prove that this witness tried to use tabloid stories about Mr. Jackson --

THE COURT: What's your argument against his position? I understand what you can prove. I think his position is well-taken. What's your argument?

MR. MESEREAU: My argument is that what we would like to show, Your Honor, is that he tried to use information allegedly about Mr. Jackson to get into this business.

THE COURT: All right. I'll sustain his objection. You cannot impeach him based on the work he did on that --

MR. MESEREAU: Website?

THE COURT: -- website after these incidents. All right. Bring in the jury.

(The following proceedings were held in open court in the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: Go ahead, Counsel.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Mr. LeMarque, where we left off, we were talking about the reasons that you left your employment at Neverland.

A. The reason, there was some problem with Norma Stakos, who was Michael's secretary.

Q. What was that problem?

A. She wanted to have my wife to sign an affidavit stating that Bianca had been involved into looking into purses of other maids. And since my wife didn't see it, she didn't want to sign it.

Q. When you say Bianca was her name, do you know what her last name was?

A. No, I forgot.

Q. Did she have a different first name; do you know?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. Okay. And what was this woman Bianca's -- what was her job at Neverland?

A. She was the private maid for Michael. She was the only one who could enter his room.

Q. So the affidavit that your wife was asked to sign was a false affidavit?
A. Well, it was false as far as my wife was concerned, because she never saw Bianca looking into any purses so --
Q. Did she believe that Bianca looked into any purses?
A. No, of course she didn’t believe it.
Q. Okay. And how much time transpired between the time that your wife was asked to sign this false affidavit and the time that you were asked to leave Neverland?

A. We were -- we were not asked, really, to leave, but we had a conference with Norma a few days later, maybe three or four days, and Norma said I guess --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered to explain conduct only.
THE COURT: The question was how much time transpired between the signing of the affidavit, so it’s not responsive to the question.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That’s fine.
Q. So let’s go back to that first question. How much time between the time that you -- that your wife was asked to sign the false affidavit and the time that you actually left your employment at Neverland?
A. I would say four or five days.
Q. Okay.
A. Maybe a week. I don’t know.
Q. And were you terminated from your employment?
A. No, we came into --
Q. That’s just a “yes” or “no” question.
A. Yes.
Q. You were terminated?

A. (Nods head up and down.)

Q. Okay.

A. No. Yes and no.

Q. Yes and no. Okay. That’s fine.

A. Common agreement.

Q. Why do you say, “Yes and no”?

A. Because it was a common agreement that we decided, since we didn’t want to sign the affidavit, that was not a place for us to work.

Q. Okay. While you were at Neverland during that ten-month period, did you observe Mr. Jackson to have child visitors?

A. Yes.

Q. Would these children spend the night at Neverland?

A. Some of them, yes.

Q. Would any of them come with families?

A. Yes.

Q. Would any of them come by themselves?

A. I think on one occasion I saw.

Q. Did you notice whether or not Mr. Jackson would spend time equally with all the child visitors at Neverland?

A. No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did Mr. Jackson show any special preference towards the children that visited him at Neverland?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You may answer.

A. Yes.

Q. And was there anything in common that -- the children that Mr. Jackson showed preference to, was there anything in common that these children shared?

A. Yes.

Q. What was that?

A. Little boys around 10, 11 years old.

Q. How would Mr. Jackson show preference to these 10- or 11-year-old boys?

A. He would spend most of his time with them.

Q. Would he ever buy them gifts?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he buy them more gifts than the other children?
A. Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: I’m going to object. No foundation; move to strike.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can ask some additional questions on that.
THE COURT: On the question that he objected on, did he buy them more than any other children, I’ll sustain the foundation.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. Mr. LeMarque, were you ever asked by Mr. Jackson to go out and buy toys as gifts for these children?
A. Yes.
Q. On how many occasions?
A. I don’t -- several times.
Q. Okay. And can you characterize the number of gifts that you would buy, the number of toys?
A. I would go to Toys-R-Us and pick out toys for boys of 10, 11 years old.
Q. Were you instructed to buy such toys?
A. No, but I figured that was what they were for, so --
Q. And when you brought these toys to Mr. Jackson, did you have any occasion to see him give these toys as gifts to the children?
A. Well, usually they were put into an area or a tabletop where the kids would come in, you know, tear the papers off and pick up the toys.
Q. Did you see Mr. Jackson give more toys to the boys than the other children?
A. Yeah, they were mainly toys for boys.
Q. Okay. When Mr. Jackson had these children as guests at Neverland, what type of hours would they keep, in terms of time that they were spending together?
A. Sometimes all day, all night.
Q. Was it uncommon for him to stay up all night with the children?

A. Yeah, it was very common.
Q. Where did the children sleep? And I’m talking specifically about the 10- or 11-year-old boys.
A. Mainly with Michael.
Q. Whereabouts?
A. I don’t know, because we couldn’t get into his apartment, so --
Q. But somewhere in his private --
A. In his quarters, yeah.
Q. -- quarters?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Well, actually he didn’t finish the question. I’ll strike the answer and have you rephrase the question.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: My question was, you said that mainly they would sleep with Michael, and I was asking if that was in his private quarters.
A. Yes.
Q. During the time that you were employed at Neverland, did you ever see Michael Jackson sleep with anyone other than children?
A. No.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. LeMarque, I show you People’s Exhibit No. 721. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. Yes.
Q. Who is that in that photograph?
A. Macaulay Culkin.
Q. Did Macaulay Culkin visit Neverland while you were working there?
A. Yes.
Q. Was he a guest of Mr. Jackson’s?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he spend the night there?
A. Yes.
Q. I show you two photographs which I’ve previously shown to counsel. The first one is People’s Exhibit 800. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. Yes, this is the arcade.
Q. Okay. And is that a fair representation of the floor plan of the arcade when you were working there?
A. Yeah.
Q. Are there some differences in terms of the items that are in this picture --
A. Yes.
Q. -- than the items that were in the arcade back when you worked there?
A. Yes.
Q. What would that be?

A. Some of the artifacts here were not there. And some of the games have been changed. I mean, they were different, a little bit different.
Q. But the floor plan is essentially the same?
A. The floor plan is the same, yeah.
Q. I show you People’s Exhibit 801. Same question. Can you identify that for me?
A. That’s the arcade also. Different angle.
Q. And same distinctions?
A. Yeah. Some of the artifacts have been changed and so forth. The pool table was there. And some of the toy -- the games are different.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Ask that People’s 800 and 801 be admitted.
MR. MESEREAU: No objection.
THE COURT: Admitted.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. LeMarque, at some time during your employment, did you see something involving Mr. Jackson and one of these boys that upset you?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know the name of that boy?
A. Macaulay Culkin.
Q. And how long had you worked at Neverland when this incident occurred?
A. Well, I’m not too sure there. I mean, six, seven months maybe.

Q. Okay. Where did this incident occur?

A. In the arcade.
Q. What was the approximate time of it?
A. Three o’clock in the morning. 3:00 or 4:00 or something. 3:30, maybe.
Q. What was it that you brought you to the -- the arcade is the photos that I just showed you?
A. Yeah.
Q. What was it that brought you to the arcade at approximately three o’clock in the morning?
A. Well, I was called by the security that Michael wanted some french fries.
Q. Okay.
A. So --
Q. Were you asleep at the time?
A. Yeah.
Q. Was that uncommon for you to get a food order in the middle of the night?
A. It happened a few times. Not too often.
Q. Okay. Was this a telephone call that you received?
A. Was the -- yeah, I mean, we had the -- one of those remote control, I mean, phones.
Q. Okay. Intercom, or --
A. Yeah, on the radio.
Q. Radio?
A. Yeah, radio.
Q. And your instruction was to?
A. Well, yeah, at the time there was always a code for Michael. At the time it was “Silver Fox.” So they said that, “Silver Fox want some french fries.”

Q. Okay.
A. Okay. So --
Q. And was there a location you were told to bring these french fries to?
A. Not right away. When they were ready, I just called security again to find out where to deliver the french fries, and I was told to go to the teepee area. Which Michael wasn’t there, so I called again, and they said that he probably was in the arcade.

Q. Okay. Where was your wife during this time?
A. She was sleeping, home.
Q. Okay. So she stayed in bed and you went down to the kitchen and made the french fries?
A. Right. That’s correct.
Q. And you said you first heard they were at the teepee. Did you go to the teepees?
A. Yeah.
Q. And those are teepees located on Neverland?
A. Yeah, they are. On the grounds.
Q. And no one was there?
A. No.
Q. When did you learn that they -- that you were to deliver the french fries to the arcade?
A. Well, at that time I called security and I said, “Michael is not there. Where is he?” And they told me that he was at the arcade.

Q. Did you go to the arcade?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you see when you went to the arcade?
A. Michael was playing with Macaulay Culkin at one of the games, which was a Thriller, the games.
Q. Thriller?
A. Yeah. And he was holding the kid because the kid was small, couldn’t reach the controls, so I guess he was holding him with two hands. The kids were up so they could use the controls of the game.
Q. And what did you see that upset you?
A. His left hand was inside the pants of the kid.
Q. All right. I want you to tell the jury specifically how his hands were configured on the boy’s body.
A. Well, his right hand was holding the kid maybe mid-waist, and the left hand was down into the pants.
Q. Okay. Now, what type of pants was Macaulay wearing?
A. I forgot what they were. They probably were shorts or something.

Q. Were his hands, as far as you could tell, on the inside or the outside of the shorts?

A. They were inside.

Q. Were they coming in the shorts from the top or from the bottom?

A. From the bottom.

Q. Through one of the legs?

A. Bottom.

Q. Which hand was it that he was touching the boy with?

A. Left hand.

Q. When you saw this, what did you do?

A. I was shocked, and I almost dropped the french fries. And there was a game there, Tip-Top, and I backed out --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Denied.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: As far as the exact location of his hand, could you see where his hand was in the vicinity of Mr. Macaulay’s person?

A. Well, it was in the -- you know, in the crotch area.

Q. The crotch area?

And you said they were playing this video game. Did this video game create any sound?

A. Yeah, there was plenty of sound everywhere. I mean, all the machines were on and playing music and making sounds.

Q. Do other machines, or did other machines in that video arcade make sounds even though they weren’t being played at that time?

A. I think they were. I’m not recalling exactly, but it was very noisy.

Q. Okay.

A. Yeah. Everything was noisy there.

Q. And you said you almost dropped the french fries. What happened next?

A. Then I backed out, and --

Q. Backed out the door?

A. The door. Went outside, and I closed the door. And I realized that I still had to deliver the french fries, so then I opened the door. I made a lot of noise to make sure that Michael could hear me coming in. And I said, “Michael, your french fries are here.” And he said, “Drop them on this.” I forgot where it was, but probably on one of the machine tops.

Q. And did you leave?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: May I have the Elmo, Your Honor? “Input 4.”

Q. All right. Mr. LeMarque, I’m showing you People’s Exhibit No. 800, which you previously identified as a photograph of the arcade. Does this photograph depict in it anywhere the door that you entered that room?

A. Yeah. Yes. This one here.

Q. Oh, you’ve got it. Very good. You’re ahead of me.

Could you indicate again for me the area where it is?

A. I think it’s around here somewhere. Or here, I’m sorry. I don’t know. Can’t see too well, that.

Q. Let me show you the photograph -- if I may approach -- just so you can get a better look at it.

A. I don’t know. I think it’s -- there’s a lot of stuff in front of it. It’s probably -- I’m not sure where it is. It’s probably here.

Q. Okay.

A. Yeah.

Q. Right about there?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. I’ll show it....

Looking at the photograph a little closer, could you identify the area that appears to be the doorway?

A. Right here.

Q. Okay. Indicating in the very upper portion of the photograph just off center at the upper edge.

All right. So that's the door you entered in. And which direction was it that you were looking when you came in and you saw Mr. Jackson?
A. From here to here.
Q. Indicating from the left area of where the door is down to the --

A. Yeah.
Q. -- lower right-hand portion of the photograph?
A. Yeah. Here to here. Or here to here someplace.
Q. All right. I show you now People's Exhibit No. 801. Mr. LeMarque, does that show a different perspective --
A. Yes.
Q. -- of the same area?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that an approximate perspective of what you would have seen entering that door?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. So tell us, point out for us, if you would, the area where you saw Mr. Jackson and Macaulay Culkin.
A. Somewhere around there.
Q. All right.
A. Or maybe --
Q. Indicating --
A. Or maybe here.
Q. -- the video games just to the left of what appears to be an espresso machine.
A. This was not there.
Q. Yeah, the espresso machine was not there --
A. No.

Q. -- on the pool table?
A. No. Either this. This wasn't there.
Q. All right.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I think we can have the lights.
Q. Mr. LeMarque, did you ever tell this story -- or let me back up.

After you left Neverland, or at any time during close in time to the period that you saw these events, this event you just described, did you ever report it to any authorities, the police?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because nobody would have ever believed us.

Q. And why do you say that?

A. Because Michael was on the top of everything, and if we had come and said to the police, they would have said, “What kind of proof do you have?” So we couldn’t -- I mean, this wasn’t possible. It would be impossible to give.

Q. Did you ever consult an attorney or any other person that might have some background in the law as to what you should do?

A. Yes, and they told us the same thing.

Q. At some time after this event occurred, did -- were you ever approached by any tabloids?

A. Yes. Many.

Q. And did you ever sell this story to a tabloid?

A. We talked about it. And we had even some guy trying to sell the story for us, some sleazy guy that tried to make a deal with the tabloid. But at the last minute, we never took in a penny from anyone, because it was against our principles.

Q. This sleazy guy that you’re talking about, I’m not going to ask you to mention his name, but do you know if he ever profited from your story?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because we had an interview with him and our lawyer, Arnold Kessler, and he taped the conversation while it was a private conversation of the lawyer.

Q. Okay.

A. And he sold the story to the tabloid and he made some money with that story.

Q. Were you tempted yourself to sell your story to the tabloid?

A. Yes, we were tempted for the money, for sure. Everybody would be tempted. But we never did.

Q. Did you ultimately tell this story to the police?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. They came and interviewed you?
A. Yes.

Q. Were you honest with them?
A. Yeah.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.
THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mr. LeMarque, my name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Mr. Jackson.
You signed a statement in September of 1993 about what you had seen, right?
A. If I signed a statement, I forgot when was that, if I sign a statement.
Q. Do you remember hand-writing a statement about what you claimed you had seen --
A. I don’t remember that.
Q. -- Mr. Jackson doing with Mr. Culkin?
Remember saying, “I could not distinguish what he was really doing with his hand,” but you thought it was more than fondling?
A. I don’t remember that at all.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you a copy of the statement?
A. (Nods head up and down.)
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: I guess it’s correct.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Is that your handwriting?
A. Yeah.
Q. Is that your signature?
A. Yeah.

Q. The date is September 10th, 1993, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you remember saying you couldn’t distinguish what he was really doing with his hand?

A. I don’t recall that. But if it’s written, that’s --

Q. It’s what you wrote, isn’t it?

A. I guess.

Q. Well, is it your writing or not?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Okay. And you wrote those words, did you not?

A. I guess I did, but I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Now, you worked at the Neverland Ranch for how long?

A. Maybe ten months.

Q. Did you ever sue Mr. Jackson?

A. No. Not for -- we did sue for money he owed us, because Norma Stakos was supposed to pay us overtime, and she never did. And she was supposed to give us some references, good references for other job, and whenever we apply for a job, she never give the references and she never sent us the money. So at that time we sued for the money that was owed to us as overtime.

Q. Excuse me, I’m sorry. Did you finish?

A. Yeah.

Q. Where did you file your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson?

A. Santa Barbara court, I think.

Q. Did you hire a lawyer in Santa Barbara to do that?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the lawyer’s name?

A. Forgot.

Q. How long did the lawsuit go on?

A. It didn’t go on for very long.

Q. It settled fairly quickly, did it not?

A. Yes.

Q. You got money --

A. Yes.

Q. -- from Mr. Jackson, true?

A. We got money for time -- overtime due to us, the time we worked there.

Q. You wanted more than that, didn't you?

A. No.

Q. Now, you mentioned a sleazy guy was representing you, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. His name was?

A. He didn't represent us. He never represented us.

Q. You had meetings with him?

A. He was a friend, supposedly a friend.

Q. You had meetings with him, correct?

A. Yes, we did.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: His name was Paul Baressi, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. How did you meet Paul Baressi?

A. It was an old friend that Stella met years ago.

Q. And Stella is who?

A. My wife.

Q. Do you know how she met Paul Baressi?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How many times did you meet with Paul Baressi?

A. I can't recall. Several times.

Q. And Paul Baressi was in the adult film business, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: The Court's order.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said he was sleazy. Why did you say that to the jury?

A. Because he taped our conversation without our own knowledge while we had a conversation with our own private lawyer, and he sold that story to the tabloid.

Q. He was also trying to broker a deal for you with the tabloids, correct?

A. Well, that’s what he said. “I can get you a deal,” because he had a deal himself previously by telling stories about other people.

Q. But you had asked him to try and get a deal for you, hadn’t you?

A. No, I didn’t ask him. He came forwards.

Q. But you allowed him to do that, didn’t you?

A. Well, we didn’t allow him. We said, “Okay, we’ll listen to it,” because we were tempted by the money, for sure. Everybody would be tempted. But in the last minute, we didn’t do it.

Q. When -- excuse me. You didn’t do it because you found out he had already sold the story and taken the money himself, right?

A. At that time he didn’t do that. He didn’t sell the story yet.

Q. Let me just get this straight. You had discussions with Baressi, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. You had phone conversations with Baressi, right?

A. Correct.

Q. You discussed a price you’d be willing to accept?

A. No, we didn’t discuss price with him.

Q. Pardon me?

A. We didn’t discuss price with him.

Q. At one point you discussed the possibility of getting $100,000 with him, didn’t you?

A. That’s what he said to us, he probably can get $100,000, so we say we are interested.

Q. You actually upped it to 500, didn’t you?

A. I don’t remember if that was the case, but we were playing the game with him to see how far he could go, because we knew by then he was such a sleazy guy we wanted to see how far he could go. Because we never did it. We never took a penny from anyone.

Q. You upped the price to 500 from $100,000 at one point?

A. Yeah, to see if we were going to do it.

Q. You couldn’t get that kind of money, right?

A. I don’t know. We never pursued it.

Q. Mr. Baressi, on your behalf, approached a number of newspapers --

A. He didn’t work on our behalf, ever.

Q. Sir, I have to finish my question. On your behalf, Paul Baressi approached various newspapers and television shows to try and get hundreds of thousands of dollars for you and your wife, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; assumes facts not in evidence.

THE WITNESS: That’s not true.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Isn’t that right?

A. That’s not true. It’s a complete lie. He was trying to get deals for him, not for us.

Q. Didn’t you just tell the jury you were playing along with him to see how much you could get?

A. Well, at first, yeah, we were doing. But then we realized the guy was so sleazy, we were not going anywhere with him. So we backed out, and we said, “We are not game,” and he kept going, doing it.

Q. Did you have a discussion with Paul Baressi where you said, “We don’t want 100,000. We want 500,000”? Yes or no.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember having a discussion with Mr. Baressi where you learned the price would be higher if the story was Mr. Jackson’s hand was in the clothes rather than outside?

A. That was his own made-up stories, not my story.

Q. That statement was made in your discussion with Mr. Baressi, true?

A. I don’t recall that, but I think he did it himself. That’s what he said we could get if the hands went higher.

Q. Okay. Now, did you ever know anyone named Quindoy at Neverland?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; beyond the scope.

MR. MESEREAU: It fits in with the cross-examination, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That’s a good response.

(Laughter.)

MR. MESEREAU: I mean, it’s the same --

THE COURT: “Fits in with what I’m doing.”

Well, I don’t know the answer. I’ll allow the question and see how it fits.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You and your wife worked at Neverland, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you ever know a couple named Quindoy that worked at Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Ever hear the name?

A. Yes.

Q. Had they worked before you?

A. Yes.

Q. You learned that the Quindoys were trying to sell a story to the media, right?

A. No, we never --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Relevance; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

He did answer. The answer was, “Yes,” and then -- I’m sorry, the answer was, “No, we never.”

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: At one point you were trying to sell your story before the Quindoys did, correct?

A. No.

Q. Never talked about that with Mr. Baressi?

A. No.

Q. Who was the lawyer you retained when it came to dealing with the media?

A. We had a friend, his name was Arnold -- geez. I’m sorry, I have a blank right now. I have a blank with the name.

Q. Was his name Kessler?

A. Yes. That’s correct.

Q. Did he practice law in Los Angeles?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you meet with Mr. Kessler?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. He is not the lawyer that represented you in your suit against Mr. Jackson, is he?

A. We didn’t have a suit against Mr. Jackson.

We had a suit against the work, as far as work was concerned. We never sued Mr. Michael Jackson.

Q. You sued somebody.

A. We sued the MJ Corporation for overtime.

Q. That was Mr. Jackson’s company.

A. That’s the company, but that’s not Mr. Jackson. We didn’t sue him.

Q. It was Mr. Jackson’s company that hired you, wasn’t it?

A. Yes. For overtime.

Q. Okay. This was after you left your employment, true?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Okay. You hired Attorney Kessler, correct?

A. No, we didn’t hire him. He was a friend of ours. We ask him advice.

Q. You met with him a number of times about the possibility of selling a story to the media, true?

A. With Baressi.

Q. So Baressi was your friend, and Kessler was your friend, correct?

A. Yes, that’s correct.

Q. And after you met with Kessler, he started calling around trying to sell your story, true?

A. I’m not sure what he was doing. I don’t know. I never heard of it.

Q. Did you ever learn that he was doing anything to sell your story to anybody?

A. I was -- I don’t recall, but I think everybody was trying to sell our stories. Everybody else was trying to do that, so --

Q. And approximately what year was this?

A. I don’t recall. ‘92 or something. I --

Q. When did you leave Neverland?

A. The year? I don’t recall. ‘92, probably, at that time. Whatever. I’m not sure.

Q. In 1993, Baressi and Kessler were trying to sell your story, true?

A. I guess they were, but I was not aware of it.

Q. But you had many talks with the two of them about that?

A. Yeah, we did earlier. And then we stopped and they kept doing it. I don’t know what they were doing. I couldn’t keep track of them.

Q. Okay. When did you last talk to Kessler?

A. About that time. No, as a matter of fact, I talked to him two days ago because of what happened in the -- with what was going on, and I finally find his phone number, and I told him what was going on. And he was very upset about it.

Q. He’s still your buddy, right?

A. No, we haven’t talked since then.

Q. Did you talk to him about what you were going to say in court today?

A. No.

Q. Did you talk to him about this case?

A. Yeah, I said I was going to be on the stand.

Q. Okay. Did you call him or did he call you?

A. We called him.

Q. You and your wife?

A. My wife did.

Q. Okay. Were you on the conversation?

A. No.

Q. Was it just your wife that talked to him, as far as you know?

A. Yeah.

Q. Was she speaking on your behalf?

A. She was just telling him what was going on, that's all.

Q. Okay.

A. There was no behalf. There was just chat-chat.

Q. You knew that Mr. Kessler contacted The National Enquirer about your story, right?

A. No, I was not aware of that.

Q. You knew he contacted The Globe, right?

A. I was not aware of that either. We contacted them.

Q. You knew Inside Edition was contacted, correct?

A. Well, they contacted us directly also. So --

Q. How about Splash News Service?

A. No.

Q. Okay. When did you last see Macaulay Culkin?

A. At that time. When I was working at the ranch.

Q. So you've never really asked him if he was abused, have you?

A. No.

Q. You've never heard his side, have you?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever learned any time that he denies this event?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; assumes facts.

THE WITNESS: I --

THE COURT: Just a moment.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: He said he's never had any conversation. And foundation. He said he's had no conversation with Mr. Macaulay.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Have you followed this case in the media?

A. I don't.

Q. You don't follow it at all?

A. I never watch T.V., barely.

Q. Have you followed this case in the newspaper?

A. I read the newspaper briefly, the highlights, the headlines and so on. But it doesn't interest me.

Q. When did you last talk to Mr. Baressi?

A. He called my wife two months ago.

Q. Did your wife talk to him?

A. She said, "Go to hell."

Q. I'm not asking you what she said.

(Laughter.)

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: All right. Okay. Do you know -- are you aware of him still trying to sell stories on this case?

A. Yeah, he's still doing it.

Q. How do you know he's still doing it?

A. Because it's on the --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Foundation; hearsay.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. The question was, "How do you know he's still doing it?"

THE WITNESS: Pardon me?

THE COURT: You may answer that question. How do you --

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry, can you repeat that?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Yes. I'll ask the question again. You told the jury Mr. Baressi is still trying to sell stories, right?

A. Yes.

Q. How do you know that?

A. My son send me a copy through the Internet two days ago of what was in Splash.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you met with any prosecutor to talk about your testimony today, before today?

A. Yes.

Q. Who did you meet with?

A. The prosecutor right here.

Q. And is that Mr. Auchincloss?

A. Uh-huh. That’s correct.

Q. When did you meet with him?

A. When?

Q. Yes.

A. This morning.

Q. And where did you meet?

A. We meet in the witness room.

Q. Did he show you any documents?

A. Yes.

Q. What documents did he show you?

A. The documents that was shown here on the screen.

Q. Now, are you aware of an article appearing in The Globe newspaper on September 21st, 1993, that quotes you?

A. No. I never saw it.

Q. Never heard about it?

A. Never.

Q. Are you aware of that article quoting your wife?

A. No.

Q. Okay. So you never heard about that or looked at it, right?

A. No.

Q. Okay. No one ever told you about it, right?

A. No. My friends don’t read that kind of newspapers.

Q. Okay. All right. Before you took the stand today, had you ever heard that you were quoted in an article about Michael Jackson in The Globe newspaper?

A. No.

Q. How many times have you been interviewed by anyone with the sheriff’s department on this case?

A. Just one time in ‘93 or something.

Q. Just one time?

A. Yeah.

Q. Have you had many phone conversations with anybody from the sheriff’s department about the case?

A. No, not that I recall.

Q. Has anyone ever called you on the phone from the prosecution to talk about the case?

A. No. Just to tell us that we are going to be in court. That's all.

Q. Now, when did you last talk to Norma Stakos?

A. The last day that we left the ranch, Neverland.

Q. Did you sue her as well?

A. No.

Q. You just sued Mr. Jackson's company, right?

A. We sued Michael just for the overtime that we -- were owed to us.

Q. That's over a seven-month period?

A. Seven months what? I'm sorry, after -- after we left in --

Q. Yes.

A. I guess. I don't recall.

Q. Did you say you hadn't been ever paid for overtime while working at Neverland?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. And was that over a seven-month period or nine-month period? I can't remember.

A. Nine, ten, something like that.

Q. Okay. Had you ever made a claim for overtime while you were working?

A. Yes, we did. We settled with Norma at the time we left. She said she was going to give us money for the overtime and give us good references. And we sued when she didn't fill up the part that she said she was going to do.

Q. You felt she was obligated to give you and your wife a good reference for another job?

A. Why not?

Q. What if she didn't think you were competent?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevance.

THE WITNESS: She said she would do it. She said she was going to give us a good reference.

THE COURT: Just a moment. Just a moment. The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You felt that part of your agreement with Mr. Jackson’s company was that if they were contacted by anyone and asked if you were someone you should work with, they had to give you a good recommendation; is that correct?

A. No.

Q. And you never called the police about what you claim Mr. Jackson did to Mr. Culkin, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Now, you indicated you were asked to sign a document saying that a woman named Bianca looked inside someone’s purse, right?

A. That’s correct. I was not, myself. My wife was.

Q. That’s Blanca Francia, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you know her when she worked at Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Was she a friend of yours?

A. We didn’t have any friends. We couldn’t have any friends at the ranch. It was forbidden to be friends with the help. Because everybody was spying on each other, so there was no way to be friends with anyone.

Q. The spying was because people were looking for stories to sell, right?

A. No, because I think that’s --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE WITNESS: That’s not true.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll withdraw the objection.

(Laughter.)

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Are you saying it’s your wife that saw Blanca Francia go into someone’s purse?

A. She didn’t see her doing it. That’s why she didn’t want to sign it.

Q. Okay. Did you ever talk to Blanca Francia about whether or not she did put her hand in someone’s purse?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE WITNESS: I never did myself.

THE COURT: I couldn’t hear your objection, Counsel.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll withdraw it.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever ask Blanca Francia if she ever did, in fact, go into someone’s purse?

A. No, I never ask myself personally.

Q. Did you ever learn that she had admitted doing it?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Argumentative; assumes facts.

THE COURT: It’s overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I’m sorry. Say that again, please.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll withdraw the question and reask it.

Q. Did you ever learn that Blanca Francia admitted she had gone into someone’s purse?

A. I never heard of anything like this, no.

Q. Okay. What hours did you work at Neverland?

A. There was no set hours. It was whenever Michael was in residence or whenever guests were present.

Q. And where did you live when you were working at Neverland?

A. At the ranch. I mean, at the Neverland itself, in a private house.

Q. Okay. Now, you told the jury that you went to a lawyer and told the lawyer about what you claim you saw in the arcade, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Was that while you were working at Neverland?

A. After we left.

Q. You didn’t go to a lawyer right away to discuss what you had seen, did you?

A. No.

Q. Do you know what this particular lawyer specializes in?

A. General practice.
Q. Pardon me?
A. General practice.
Q. Okay. Had he represented you before?
A. No. He was just a friend.
Q. Had he given advice to you before?
A. No.
Q. How many meetings did you have with this lawyer about what you claim you saw in the arcade?
A. I think only one time.
Q. You had phone conversations with him, did you not?
A. Yes.
Q. You had phone conversations about the possibility of selling a story, correct?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Cumulative; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Approximately when do you claim you saw Mr. Jackson with Mr. Culkin in the arcade?

A. The time?
Q. Approximately, yes.
A. Maybe three o’clock, 3:00 a.m.
Q. No, let me rephrase it. It’s my mistake. Approximately what month and year do you claim you saw this happen?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. You continued to work at Neverland after you saw what you claim you saw, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Was your wife working at Neverland as well?
A. Yes.
Q. You never reported this to anyone there obviously, right?
A. No, we didn’t.
Q. You never went to Miss Stakos and said, “I saw something improper going on,” right?
A. We didn’t have to do that. She knew about it.
Q. So she was with you watching it?
A. No.

Q. You said that Mr. Baressi tape-recorded you, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Do you know how many times he did that?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Did you ever inquire as to how many times you had been secretly tape-recorded by him?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you ever ask him?

A. I didn't even know he did it until a few days ago.

Q. Who told you he did it?

A. Well, we heard about it from the news and all that, and this information came out, and so that's how we find out.

Q. I thought you didn't follow the news about the case.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you have any idea how many times you've been quoted in any tabloid about Michael Jackson?

A. I have no idea.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: The answer was, "I have no idea." I'll allow the question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would you agree that with time, your story about what you say Mr. Jackson did has changed?

A. I don't think so.

Q. When you wrote that handwritten statement that I showed you which had your signature and handwriting, were you being truthful?

A. I don't recall writing this at all, so I have no recollection of that.

Q. But you did admit that is your handwriting and signature, true?

A. Looks like my handwriting.

Q. Is it your signature?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn’t it true, Mr. LeMarque, that in 1993, you waited till you were out of personal bankruptcy to start selling the story?

A. My personal bankruptcy was about 18, 19, 20 years ago. Had nothing to do with this.

Q. Did you have any bankruptcy proceeding going on in the 1990s, sir?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Never filed a document in that regard, right?

A. No.

Q. Never were involved in a Chapter 7 action?

A. I was. Twenty years ago.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m going to object as improper impeachment.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Just a few questions, Mr. LeMarque. The action that you had against Mr. Jackson for overtime when you left Neverland, did Norma Stakos promise to pay you for your past overtime?

A. She did.

Q. When you left Neverland, did she promise to make good references for you in the future?

A. She did.

Q. When you left Neverland, did you ever receive the overtime payment that you were due?

A. She never did.

Q. Did you go to the California Labor Board to dispute that?

A. Yes. That’s where we went.

Q. Did you have to litigate it?

A. No, she settled right away.

Q. MJJ Productions settled right away?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you get what you felt you were entitled to?

A. Yes. We had the proof that we had worked overtime, so I had account of all the time we work, so --

Q. And as far as Mr. Kessler, was he working for you? Did you ever have to pay him for helping you with this tabloid business?

A. He was a friend. We just asked advice, that's all.

Q. So he was just working as a lawyer friend for you?

A. He was -- yeah.

Q. All right. I'm showing you People's Exhibit No. 802. Appears to be a copy of the handwritten note. Is that the note that counsel showed you a few moments ago?

A. Looks the same.

Q. Okay. I'd like you to read that over carefully. Take a moment. Just one page.

A. Okay.

Q. Okay? Does that represent a fair summation of the facts that you observed in the arcade during that period of time when you observed Macaulay Culkin and the defendant?

A. Yeah, that's basically what I saw.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. I'd ask to move 802 into evidence at this time, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And in that account, do you tell -- do you depict that Mr. Jackson's hand is in Mr. Culkin's shorts?

A. That's correct.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. If you would --

Does he have the document?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Uh-huh.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: If you would, please take a look at that document and read it to yourself.

A. I did already.
Q. All right. Okay. Now, you made two statements: One on September 10th, 1993, and one on what looks to be -- well, I guess that would be -- you make a second statement in the form of a P.S., right? Is that made the same day; do you know?
A. Looks the same.
Q. You first -- there’s a signature in the middle of the page. It says, “Phillip LeMarque, September 10th, 1993,” correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. There’s another signature towards the bottom of the page that says, “Phillip LeMarque, 9-10-93,” correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. You first wrote a statement about what you saw and then you added a P.S., correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Let’s look at the statement that appears at the beginning, okay? You say that Mr. Jackson had his left hand in the kid’s pants, right?
A. Correct.
Q. You say, “I couldn’t distinguish what he was really doing with his hand, but obviously it was more than fondling,” right?

A. Uh-huh.
Q. You then signed and dated that, true?
A. Correct.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m going to object if he’s just reading part of the statement. I’d ask that the entire statement be read before the signature line.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said up top the child was not disturbed by the action, right?
A. Correct.
Q. You said they were playing a game, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You said the kid was very involved with the game, right?
A. Correct.

Q. You said that Michael Jackson was holding Macaulay while he was playing the game, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. After you signed and dated that statement, you then chose to add something else, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And what you add was that “His left hand was in his pants under the shorts, left leg, all the way to the crotch,” correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You added that to what you had said earlier after you had signed your name to what you had said earlier, true?

A. Yeah.
Q. And when was this thing actually -- when was this statement actually done; do you know?
A. At the same time. It was just an addendum. Clarification.
Q. Why did you want an addendum to what you had already written down and signed?
A. I forgot at the time why I did it. I don’t have any other recollection of that anyway.
Q. You did it because you wanted to sell a story, right?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.
THE WITNESS: Absolutely false.
MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions.
THE COURT: Do you want to withdraw your objection, or --
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I think so. Sure, why not?

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Was this document prepared for the police?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. And was it prepared after the police interviewed you?
A. Well, it was prepared. I forgot exactly when, if it was at the same time or after. I have no recollection.

Q. But the police asked you to write out a statement?

A. A statement of what I saw.

Q. Okay. Do you recall if they asked you to put in the details, some more details as far as what you had told them?

A. As much as possible, yes. They wanted more details.

Q. Is that why the P.S. was added; do you know?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you. Nothing further.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Obviously this statement was written out after you talked to Mr. Baressi, true?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; vague.

THE WITNESS: I don’t think so.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll object as a vague question as far as time.

THE WITNESS: I don’t think so. I’m not sure.

THE COURT: Just a moment. You have to wait until I rule.

Overruled.

Now, read the question back to him.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The statement was written --

THE COURT: No, the court reporter.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: It’s probably after, yeah.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember I asked you earlier about that statement, and you told the jury you didn’t recall?

A. I have no recollection exactly, that’s for sure. But now it’s coming back, you know.

Q. It’s coming back when the prosecutor suggested you wrote it for the police, correct?

A. No, it’s coming back --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: All right. Just a moment.

You need to wait until the question is completed before you answer.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: And just hold on a second so if someone wants to object, they can.

And counsel needs to not step on his statements. The court reporter is struggling to keep the record straight.

All right. There actually is -- the objection was made after he answered, so I'm going to overrule that objection. You may ask your next question.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

Q. You now recall that you wrote the statement in September of 1993 in a police interview, right?

A. I'm starting to recall. See, I'm 70 years old this year, and my memory is faltering.

Q. Okay. I understand. Have you now fully recollected that you wrote this for the police?

A. It's coming back a little bit, and I think that, yeah.

Q. Are you sure?

A. Yeah.

Q. Isn't it true you wrote out the statement, you dated and signed it, and somebody wanted you to add something else, so you put in an addendum, and then signed and dated that the same day, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I don't recall very well when I made this statement, when I wrote it, and I don't recall why there was an addendum added to the statement.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. And the statement was written approximately how long after you left Neverland?

A. Whenever the police came, which might be a year after or two years. I don’t know.

Q. Well, the statement says September 10th, 1993 --

A. Okay. So --

Q. -- right?

And how long -- how much time had elapsed between your leaving Neverland and September 10th, 1993, if you know?

A. Probably a year. A little more than a year.

Q. And how much time had elapsed between when you saw what you claim you saw in the arcade and September 10th, ‘93?

A. 14 months. 12, 14 months.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Nothing further.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.

Call your next witness.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, because of some of the Court’s rulings this morning, we have no further witnesses at this time.

THE COURT: Are you trying to tell the jury they have to go home early today?

MR. SNEDDON: Unfortunately, I am, Your Honor. I apologize for that from the bottom of my heart.

THE COURT: That’s the bad news.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: You know, I have some photographs of the wildflowers that I took.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: All right. I can tell you’re not interested.

We’ll release you early today. It’s -- I think it’s been a pretty intense week. It doesn’t hurt to get a little time off here.

Let me just remind you of the seriousness of your conduct and the admonitions that I’ve made. The admonitions are that you can’t talk to anybody about this case, including each other, your family members, or anybody. You certainly can’t go to anyplace where the events that you hear about testified to occurred or are alleged to have occurred. You are not to listen to or read news accounts or watch T.V. concerning the case.

And, you know, I don’t think I should need to remind you of this, but I will, just so that I have a clean conscience. Everybody is watching you, you know. Your behavior, just as my own behavior, is under scrutiny, just as these attorneys’ behavior. Everything that happens is reported one way or another. So please be very serious about the responsibility that you’ve been given here.

And having that in mind, I would like you to go out and look at the wildflowers.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: Thank you.

And I’m going to stay with the attorneys. There’s a couple of issues that we need to take up, but you’re free to go. See you Monday at 8:30. And remember, Tuesday afternoon you’ll be off, too.

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, can Mr. Jackson depart, or is he --

THE COURT: Listen, the audience may leave if they want to. The Court is going to take up a couple of motions that have been pending. But anyone in the audience that would like to leave at this time, feel free to do that.

Mr. Jackson, if you would like to leave at this time, you may do so.

THE DEFENDANT: Thank you.

MR. SANGER: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.

THE DEFENDANT: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. During the last week or so, there have been some motions that have been pending. We have -- the first one is defendant’s motion for a mistrial, or, in the alternative, restrictive instructions. I've read and considered the points and authorities.

Do you wish to be heard?

MR. SANGER: Just briefly, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Now, just because you haven't said anything all week -- go ahead. I know it's just been building up and --

MR. SANGER: I'll try to behave myself, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. SANGER: The serious matter is, and we did brief it, but it was very brief, because it was an overnight, sort of a pocket thing.

THE COURT: Very good brief.

MR. SANGER: The briefer the better, I gather.

The point being, though, that the lawyers have to exercise control over the witnesses. They have to admonish the witnesses properly.

It is true a witness can do something contrary to the admonitions. This just happened to be a series of witnesses who all seemed to have done the same thing with each other, which is call each other either before or after their testimony.

And there were two particularly egregious instances of witnesses calling immediately after their testimony was over to discuss their testimony with the upcoming witness, and that was Miss Palanker calling Mr. Masada, and then Dr. Katz calling Mr. Feldman.

And that seemed to be such an egregious breach -- there had already been notice of this with the witnesses talking to each other, Dickerman and Katz, and -- I'm sorry, Palanker and Masada, and by the time we got to Dr. Katz calling Mr. Feldman, it seem to me that that was just too much. And anybody who's managing these witnesses and preparing them to come in here should have had a very large shot fired over their bow by virtue of this conduct and should have admonished their witnesses.

So I feel that it does taint their testimony when you have two people who are critical witnesses, according to the prosecution, like Dr. Katz and Mr. Feldman, for instance, who are talking about testimony that very seriously impairs the integrity of the process that the Court is trying to preserve. And therefore, we feel that a mistrial is the only appropriate remedy.

How can the jury otherwise consider this evidence as it should have been presented without being tainted by other witnesses?

If the Court were to deny that, then we did propose a curative instruction, and we would ask the Court to take that action at the very least.

Thank you.

THE COURT: Who’s speaking on behalf of the D.A.?

MR. SNEDDON: Judge, we filed a response in written form, and I don’t intend to go through it. It’s in there. And I’ll simply point out that unfortunately if Mr. Sanger -- there is nothing in this record that shows that they were talking about their testimony in this case.

And particularly in the case of Mrs. Palanker talking to Jamie Masada, it wasn’t the subject of the testimony that was the subject of the conversation. It was the subject of the behavior of the lawyer that was cross-examining her.

And I’d submit to the Court there is nothing improper about what these witnesses have done, nor showing that they discussed their testimony. Some of the conversations, the one involved a request from one lawyer to the other as to knowledge of whether or not there had been an attorney-client waiver and that was post-testimonial. It was an after-the-fact. And it seems to me that certainly one lawyer has a right, when they’re both involved in a case, to find out whether there was a waiver or not.

I’ll submit it on the basis of the other information that we provided to the Court from the transcripts and the authorities.

THE COURT: The motion for mistrial is denied.

The record is clear that there has been some conversation between witnesses. And I’ve asked counsel, both sides, to admonish their witnesses that -- before and after their testimony, unless they’re excused, that they are not to discuss -- well, what I’ve admonished is that they are bound by the protective order before their testimony and after, unless they’re excused.

I don’t -- in looking at the record, I don’t see evidence that they violated the protective order. That exists -- the lack of that evidence is that neither side pursued it with any detail as to what the discussions were. But I don’t think that would prevent the defense from commenting in their argument, if they wanted to, about the fact that they had been discussing their testimony with each other.

And whether or not I’ll give a special instruction on that I’ll put off until we decide all of our instructions. I’m not leaning in the direction of giving a special instruction in view of the lack of evidence that there was specific conversations about their testimony, but I also am not willing to say I won’t give that, and we still have a long way to go in this trial and a lot of witnesses in front of us.

So I’ll take that issue up on a discussion, Mr. Sanger, on the -- on whatever -- you may submit the same or different instructions when you submit your final instructions.

And that will be my ruling on that.

The next item would be the D.A.’s request for mandatory judicial notice of statutes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: There’s a discussion as to whether or not counsel is prepared on this.

MR. SANGER: Hold on. You don’t need to -- unless we’re addressing the Court, we don’t need to have that....

THE COURT: You know, I can just cut this short.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That’s fine.
THE COURT: I don’t think I’m going to give any instruction on this at this time. Whether or not I’ll give it in the final group of instructions will depend on our discussions at that time.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. I guess our request is just based upon the fact that there has been numerous questions asked and numerous answers given concerning these areas of the law, and I do think it’s important that the jury does ultimately understand the letter of the law, particularly with regard to the recording, the surreptitious recording of conversations, and that it is legal for police officers to surreptitiously record conversations.
So I don’t mind addressing that when we get into instructions, but we will be making that same motion at that time.

THE COURT: You may submit those. I don’t think it’s a time to give special instructions on that. I do give some instructions as we go along. I don’t think these are ones that I would give at this time.
And Mr. Sanger, that’s, I assume, satisfactory with you?
MR. SANGER: Yes, Your Honor.
THE COURT: The motion to prohibit testimony of 1108 witnesses for failure to comply with Penal Code Section 1054.7, do you wish to address that?
MR. SANGER: Well, I think the Court is taking this up now one at a time.
THE COURT: I am.
MR. SANGER: And so as long as the Court is cognizant of that, I don’t think we need a ruling right now. But we are confronted with a number of witnesses for whom we have not received reports until the very last second, and it’s causing a problem. It’s caused a problem today.
THE COURT: All right. The next one is the objection to admission of 1108 and 1101 evidence.

And I feel that was adequately argued back when we were arguing about whether or not I would allow the 1108 and 1101 evidence, and I don't see that any new issues have been raised there, so I'll deny that objection. It's made a matter of the record, which is what I think you intended there.

In my counting of all the things that were pending that are still out there, that would only leave one thing that's still out there that hasn't been dealt with, which was the supplemental declaration that I'd asked for from Miss Yu, which she provided me with, I'm sure she provided you with. This is a matter of statutorily sealed declarations. And I still have -- I'm still dealing with that. I'm not prepared to hear anything further on it. And I'm not prepared to make any rulings on it. That's not something I've had time to deal with, but I just wanted everyone to know that I know that's still out there.

And then I was going to ask you if there is anything else that I don't have on my list.

MR. SNEDDON: Judge, the only thing that I have -- well, the only thing I have is if I could ask the Court, do we have some kind of an update with regard to the computers, the Brad Miller computer and the Evvy Tavasci computer? And I say that to the Court because I'm estimating that we're getting -- not close, but I can see the light at the end of the tunnel with regard to us resting our case, and we'd certainly like to have access to that information before we do.

THE COURT: December or January, something like that?

MR. SNEDDON: I think the light's a little bit brighter than that, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. I wish -- you know, the person who's been helping me with that has been Jed, and he doesn't -- I have not been updated, so I can't update you.

Does counsel have any information?

MR. SANGER: The information that we have is that as of, I would say, weeks ago, if not a month ago - that’s off the top of my head - but I believe we provided everything we were requested to provide maybe two months ago. And I think what happened next is he was making additional inquiries based on the particular narrowing of the request by the District Attorney, but I have not heard anything further.

THE COURT: Do you know what --

MR. SNEDDON: Judge, I have a little different recollection.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SNEDDON: It’s not different, it’s just maybe updated. As I recall the last time that we talked, they had actually done the -- Mr. Roden had actually gone through, I believe it was - I may be confused about this - one of them. He had gone through and actually sorted out what the various types that he thought may or may not be privileged and that those were going to be submitted to the Court. And that he was in the process of doing that to the other computer.

I don’t really need an update today, but if maybe on Monday we could have Mr. Beebe here and get an update with regard to where we stand on that process, that would be helpful, probably, to both sides.

THE COURT: We’ll do that.

MR. SNEDDON: That would be fine with me. I just wanted to keep it on the radar screen for you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I’ll ask him about that today, and no later than Monday we’ll address it.

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Yes?

MR. ZONEN: The Court has four different SDT returns in the Court’s possession from Talk America, from Varig Airlines, from Von’s, and from Santa Ynez High School. I’ve consulted with Mr. Mesereau and Mr. Sanger. We are going to agree that those materials turned over to the Court in obedience with those subpoenas can be turned over to the District Attorney's Office. And we will make copies for both of us and immediately return it to the Court.

THE COURT: Is that your agreement?

MR. SANGER: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. I'll approve that agreement, and you may collect those items.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you.

All right. Then anything else?

MR. OXMAN: Your Honor, there's also some SDT returns from the defense.

THE BAILIFF: Can't hear you.

MR. OXMAN: There's some SDT returns from the defense. Just like permission to copy them.

THE COURT: They are subpoenas that come within the area that only you are allowed to see?

MR. OXMAN: Correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Had you sought permission to copy them? Is there a problem, or --

MR. OXMAN: No, I don't think there's any problem. Just wanted to clarify it and make sure.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MR. OXMAN: All right.

MR. ZONEN: We'll agree that our copy can be turned over to us under seal.

MR. OXMAN: We'll remain silent, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Court's in recess.

(The proceedings adjourned at 11:25 a.m.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Jones.

A. Good morning.

Q. Mr. Jones, in your employment history, have you ever worked for Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And is he the man seated to my right with the long black hair?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. What did you do for Michael Jackson?

A. I was vice-president of communications and community relations.

Q. And when did you begin working in that capacity for Mr. Jackson?

A. 1987.

Q. Can you tell me a little bit about what that title involves in terms of work?

A. Dealing with the media, and the community, and various other assignments.

Q. Such as?

A. Whatever came up. Getting -- arranging to get awards, arranging for coverage in newspapers, magazines. Assisting in the -- with the fan clubs, et cetera.

Q. All right. Would it be fair to say that you were the man in charge of public relations --

A. Yes.

Q. -- for Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many years did you work for Mr. Jackson?

A. 16 and a half.

Q. And how did your employment come to an end?

A. I received a letter one day saying that, “Thank you for your services. They’re no longer needed.”

Q. Did you ever receive any explanation as to why you were being terminated?

A. That, “We were restructuring” --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE WITNESS: -- “and going in a different direction.” That was in the letter.

THE COURT: Just a moment. Just a moment, please.

THE WITNESS: I don’t know what you’re saying.

THE COURT: All right. I’m going to overrule the objection, but I’ll limit the examination in that area.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. As far as your understanding as to why you were being terminated, can you tell us what you believe to be the reason why you were being terminated?

A. Well, I can only cite the letter that I received.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. No foundation; and irrelevant opinion.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll rephrase it.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Were you informed as to the reason for your termination with Michael Jackson as his man in charge of public relations?

A. No, because at all times --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: I'll allow the answer, "No."

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. So you were never given an explanation as to why you were being terminated?

A. At all times --

Q. That's a yes or no, question, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Overruled. The question was, "All right. So you were never given an explanation as to why you were being terminated?" Is that true?

THE WITNESS: The letter, yes. The letter. That's all I can say.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Now, one thing we have to be careful about in the question and answer of your examination is we have to be careful we don't talk over each other, so the reporter can get everything down.

A. Okay.

Q. And you have to be careful just to answer the question that's asked. All right?

A. Okay.

Q. Thank you.

So I believe you testified you were terminated late in 2004; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And since that time have you had any employment?

A. No.

Q. Have you been involved in any activity at this time concerning -- during that period of time since your termination that concerns your years of employment with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. What is that?

A. I went to the State of California and filed a complaint for my vacation pay.

Q. All right. Other than that, have you been involved in the writing of any memoirs of your years with Michael Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Is it --

THE COURT: You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And can you specifically tell me what you've been doing in terms of writing those memoirs?

A. Preparing a book.

Q. Preparing a book?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is the subject matter of that book?

A. My -- well, my years and -- my years with Michael Jackson.

Q. During your years of working with Michael Jackson, did you have occasion to spend time with him personally?

A. Seldom.

Q. Who was it that hired you?

A. Michael Jackson.

Q. Personally?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you ever travel with him?

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. I think on three tours, and perhaps on special occasions for events that I had arranged, such as the World Music Awards.

Q. Where was the World Music Awards?

A. Monaco.

Q. In Europe?

A. Yes.

Q. And when was that?

A. Now, I can't tell you an exact date. I'm not good on dates.

Q. All right. Can you approximate?

A. I would say approximately '92.

Q. How long did that trip take?

A. The trip probably lasted about ten days.

Q. And did you travel with Mr. Jackson to Monaco?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson bring any guests with him on that trip?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Jordie Chandler, his mother June Chandler, and her sister -- his -- Jordie’s sister.

Q. Did you personally see Mr. Jackson and Jordie Chandler together during that trip?

A. Of course.

Q. How often?

A. We -- well, whenever I saw one, I saw the other.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones, I show you People’s Exhibit 776. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. That’s Jordie Chandler.

Q. Now, you said whenever you saw Mr. Jackson, you saw Jordie Chandler with him?

A. Yes.

Q. How often would you see Mr. Jackson during that trip?

A. Well, I would say, doo-doo-doo-doo, in Monte Carlo maybe I saw them three or four times.

Q. Did you travel on the plane with them to Monaco?

A. Most definitely.

Q. Did you travel on the plane with them back to the United States?

A. I -- yes, I traveled on the plane with them from Monte Carlo to Paris, and then back to the United States.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson attend the World Music Awards?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you see him there?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see Mr. Jackson personally demonstrate any physical affection towards Jordie Chandler during this period?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you ever see any conduct involving any physical contact between Michael Jackson and Jordie Chandler?

A. Yes.

Q. How often?

A. On the flight back from --

Q. The question is, first of all, how often did you see this?

A. Well, just the one time.

Q. And you started to talk about the flight back?

A. Well, that’s when the -- can I make a correction?

Q. Yes.

A. Number one, I saw them together at the awards. And then on the flight back from Paris to Los Angeles.

Q. Okay. Were they in physical contact with one another at the awards?

A. He sat -- yes.

Q. And can you describe -- were they in physical contact during the flight back?

A. They were embraced into one another on -- sleeping on the airplane from Paris to Los Angeles.

Q. Now, going to the music awards, what was the nature of the physical contact that you saw with them at the World Music Awards?

A. Jordie sat on his lap.

Q. Where were you seated?

A. I sat a distance away from June, her daughter, and Jordie and Michael.

Q. How many feet away were you when you were observing Mr. Jackson and Mr. Chandler together?

A. Oh, I would say approximately 20 feet.

Q. And if you would describe for me in detail what you saw at the World Music Awards involving Mr. Chandler and Jackson?

A. Well, during the performance, he sat on his lap, Jordie sat on his lap. And the sister sat on the other lap, but at one time Linda Evans took the girl off of his lap and let her sit on her lap.

Q. Mr. Jones, during the World Music Awards when you were watching Mr. Jackson and Jordie Chandler sitting together, did you ever see Mr. Jackson lick Jordie Chandler's head?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you been interviewed by police officers concerning this matter?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Didn't you have an interview with Steve Robel and your attorney and myself last week in the victim/witness room --

A. Yes.

Q. -- concerning this incident?

A. Yes, yes, yes.

Q. At that meeting, didn't you tell Mr. Robel and myself and your attorney that you weren't sure if that happened?

A. I was very --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE WITNESS: I was adamant in saying I was not sure that that happened. I could -- I could definitely say that they were embraced in one another's arms on the flight, but I don't recall anything about head licking.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: My question is, didn't you say that you didn't remember that, but you weren't sure whether or not Mr. Jackson licked Jordie Chandler's head?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading, and argumentative, and misstates the evidence.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: This is impeachment, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I might have said that. But I don't recall.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You don't recall whether you said that?

A. No, I don't recall ever seeing any head licking, and I made that as adamant as I could.

Q. All right. So is it your testimony today that you don’t have a recollection of the head licking --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Argumentative, and asked and answered, and leading.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I don’t think I’ve gotten an answer yet.
THE COURT: Well, you haven’t got the question out, so go ahead and state your question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m trying to clarify the state of your memory, sir.
A. Sure.
Q. Is it your testimony today that you do not remember whether or not you saw any head licking?
A. No. I don’t remember having seen any head licking.
Q. Okay. So is it fair to say you were not saying it couldn’t have happened?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. MESEREAU: Calls for speculation.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Are you saying you just simply do not have a recollection of it?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Asked and answered; argumentative; and leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones, you said you’re writing a book in this case?
A. Sure.
Q. What is the title of that book?
A. “The Man Behind the Mask.”
Q. What is the complete title of that book?
A. “The Man” --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection. Hearsay; relevance.
THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Oh. “The Man Behind the Mask.” In all honesty, I don’t -- I can’t tell you the subtitle.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You don’t recall the name of your book?

A. No, I don’t recall the subtitle. I do know “An Insider’s View of the Rise and Fall of the King of Pop.” Maybe that’s it.

Q. Is the name of your book, “Michael Jackson, The Man in the Mirror, An Insider’s Account of the King of Pop’s Spectacular and Catastrophic Fall from Grace”?

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; hearsay.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That is not the title of your book?

A. The “Catastrophic” --

THE COURT: Just a moment. There’s an objection.

It’s overruled.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

THE WITNESS: “Catastrophic Fall” was taken out. It was a suggested title and I took that “Catastrophic” out. And it isn’t “The Man Behind the Mirror.” It’s “The Man Behind the Mask.” Maybe one of the suggested titles was that other that I did not approve of.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is your book presently at the publisher?

A. It is being edited, but the book is not complete. It is far from complete.

Q. Is your book presently at the publisher?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What’s the name of that publisher?

A. System, I think. My co-writer handled that end of it.

Q. And your book is currently being edited?

A. Yes.

Q. Has it been accepted by the publisher as a prospect for publication?

A. It has been, but it has not been approved by me.

Q. The manuscript that is at the publisher -- well, let me strike that.

Is the book that is being reviewed by your publisher currently an honest account of your years working with Michael Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; irrelevant opinion.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Have you reviewed the manuscript that is at the publisher's?

A. I have looked at a manuscript that has not been approved by me.

Q. How many times have you looked at this manuscript?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: I'm not sure where you're going with this. Are you -- is it your intent to impeach him with his manuscript, is that what you're --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes.

THE COURT: All right. The objection is overruled.

THE WITNESS: Perhaps I've looked at it twice and I have -- I have a co-writer.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. This manuscript that you've looked at, is it fact or fiction?

A. It's part --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; no foundation. There's a co-writer. It's not been approved. It's being edited by some other people.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'm talking about the manuscript he's looked at.

THE COURT: Objection's overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is this a factual manuscript or is it a fictional manuscript?

A. It is factual to a degree.

Q. To what degree is it factual?

A. It's to a degree, because I -- my co-writer also has included things that I didn't approve of.

Q. I'm going to read to you a quote from that manuscript and ask you whether it's factual or fiction.

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Can we approach the bench, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Just a moment.
Before you can impeach him with the manuscript, you have to establish a foundation that he, in fact, wrote this part that you want to impeach him with.
I'll allow you to approach the witness and show it to him, but I'm not going to allow you to read in open court something that may have been written by somebody else.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine, Your Honor.
Q. Mr. Jones, I show you People's Exhibit No. 803. It appears to be one page of typed -- this is a word-processed document.
A. Okay.
Q. And it's dated March 7th, 2005. There are two paragraphs below the exhibit number. If you'd read those two paragraphs, I'm going to ask you a couple of questions about it.
A. Sure. "He's one of the young" --
Q. Just a moment. Just read them silently.
A. Oh. Okay.
I did not write this. This I did write.
Q. All right.
THE COURT: So did he show you one he wrote and one he didn't write?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes. And for the record,

he indicated --
Q. If I'm accurate, Mr. Jones, you indicated the first paragraph in the lower portion of the page you didn't write, but the second paragraph you did write?
A. Yes.
THE COURT: Is that clear to you which he indicated, Counsel?
MR. MESEREAU: I think so, but I'd like to talk to the prosecutor first. I think I understand.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. That second paragraph -- Mr. Jones, that second paragraph is an account of what you observed at the World Music Awards; is that accurate?

A. That's what I observed on the airplane.
Q. Okay. In that paragraph, it states --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It's impeachment. And I can show it to you, Your Honor.
THE COURT: The objection's overruled.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It states, "I looked at what was going on with the king and the boy." Who is "the king" in your --
A. The king of pop, Michael Jackson.
Q. All right. "Others looked at them rather strange, too. They were holding each other tight, almost in a romantic sense, cooing. There were pecks on the cheeks and licks on the top of the head."

Those are your words, sir, true?
A. Sir --
Q. That's a "yes" or "no" question.
A. Yes, with reservations.
Q. Mr. Jones, did you see Michael Jackson lick Jordie's head?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones, I show you People's Exhibit 804. It appears to be an e-mail. Can you identify that for me, please?
A. It's from an e-mail that I sent to Stacy Brown, my co-writer.
Q. The cite -- well, I won't quote, but that is your e-mail address at the top?
A. Yes, yes.
Q. And those are your words?
A. If they were sent by my e-mail, yes, they have to be my words.
Q. You don't dispute that those are your words?
A. No.
Q. And I show you People's Exhibit No. 805. If you'd identify that for me, please. Also appears to be an e-mail dated the same date, but the time on it is 22:30:17 EDT.

The first one, for identification purposes, 804, is dated -- the time on it is 19:55:32 EDT.
Okay. So showing you Exhibit 805, is that one of your e-mails, sir?
A. Well, they’re both from my e-mail.
Q. All right. You wrote them?
A. Yes.
Q. And in the first e-mail, 804 --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered as impeachment.
THE COURT: All right. Overruled.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You wrote -- and this -- first of all, let me ask you, is the date of this e-mail accurate, October 30th, 2004?
A. I would imagine it is, sir.
Q. In that e-mail, you wrote, “Stacy: The licking is going to be important because he did it in this case, too.” Are those your words, sir?
A. Apparently so.
Q. And in the e-mail that was dated the same day just a few hours later, did you write, “Stacy: The stuff with Jordie will bite him big”?
A. If it’s -- if it came from my e-mail, I wrote it. But I don’t -- that sounds a little strange from my writing.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Jones.
A. Good morning.
Q. My name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Michael Jackson.
A. Sure.
Q. We haven’t met before, right?

A. No.

Q. Okay. The prosecutor referred to an interview that you had with Sergeant Steve Robel and another officer on April 7th, 2005.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you remember that?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember you were asked by an officer, “Um, did you see Mr Jackson engage in any head licking in the World Music Awards?” And your answer was, “No, no, no,” right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And then you were asked, “Um, did you see Mr. Jackson engage in any head licking of anybody?” And your answer was, “Never.” Remember that?

A. I recall.

Q. Okay. And what you were not -- when you were dealing with your co-writer and publisher, you were not under oath, were you?

A. No.

Q. And of course today you are, right?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question. He answered that.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The reality is, Mr. Jones, you have repeatedly said you don’t recall seeing head licking on the plane, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You don’t recall seeing head licking by Michael on the plane with Jordie, do you?

A. I said it, but it was in the -- it appeared in an e-mail. I said I did not recall seeing it, but it -- apparently so, because it appeared in an e-mail that came from my machine.

Q. Well, in response to the prosecutor’s questions, you said you had reservations about that statement --

A. Yes.

Q. -- correct?

And what are your reservations about that statement?

A. That I just don't recall exactly seeing that. I truly don't.

Q. And would you agree when you're working with a co-writer and a publisher to prepare a book about Michael Jackson, there's pressure to make things sensational when you can, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And your publisher and others want a book that can sell, correct?

A. My co-writer. The publisher wasn't involved in that particular end of it.

Q. Okay. And certainly, having worked with Michael all those years, you've seen numerous attempts by numerous people to sensationalize aspects of Michael's life, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And if you're writing a book about Michael, there certainly is always a temptation to sensationalize if you don't watch yourself, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How is the book being written?

A. Well, I don't quite understand what you're --

Q. Let me rephrase it. It's probably a poor question. You have a co-writer?

A. That's correct.

Q. Did your co-writer ever work for Michael Jackson?

A. No, but my co-writer knows the family.

Q. Okay. And you're both trying to prepare a book about your observations and experiences in the past, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And the prosecutor asked you some questions about what stage it’s in, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And is there considerably more editing required?

A. Most definitely.

Q. And is it a long ways from being published as far as you’re concerned?

A. As far as I am concerned, and I’m supposed to have final approval.

Q. And when you have a co-writer on a book like that -- actually, let me make it more direct. Does your co-writer have responsibility for preparing drafts that you have to then review for accuracy?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And is it -- would it be appropriate to say that what the prosecutor showed you has not been approved for accuracy?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m going to object to any further leading of this particular witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer. Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: Would you repeat the question, please?

THE COURT: I’ll have the court reporter read it back.

(Record read.)

THE COURT: Are you talking about Exhibit 803, Counsel, or not?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You need to show it to him, because he’s been shown three exhibits.

MR. MESEREAU: I don’t know -- are the exhibits in front of you, Mr. Jones?

THE WITNESS: Exhibits? I don’t have anything.

THE COURT: They’re not up there.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Jones, I’m showing you what has been marked as Exhibit No. 803, okay? Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. That starts off with a title that you said is not accurate and has not been approved, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you told the prosecutor you had written the words at the bottom of the page that refer to licking, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And is it your testimony that you have not approved the accuracy of that statement?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor showed you an e-mail that you indicated you think you sent; is that correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you see that?

A. Personally I don’t think this is in the book, this statement.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll object as nonresponsive.

THE COURT: I guess it’s without -- his answer shows me it’s without foundation. So do you want to ask a foundational question on that?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes.

Q. Mr. -- well, let me just show you. I’m looking now at Exhibit 805, okay? And that’s the e-mail the prosecutor referred to.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And I think you said you believe you sent the e-mail; is that right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And are the words in that e-mail accurate as far as you’re concerned?

A. Perhaps they are.

Q. You don’t know?

A. Because I wrote -- if it came from my e-mail address, I had to write it.

Q. Okay. And -- but you don’t know for sure?

A. No.

Q. And are the words on that e-mail words you intend to include in your book?

A. Not like that. My -- my co-writer is handling that, and I have tried to change certain things in the way things were said on numerous occasions with him.

Q. Would it be accurate to say that neither Exhibit 803 nor Exhibit 805 are accurate as far as you’re concerned?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence --

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: -- as far as to 803.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, I don’t know which one -- you got three different things there, don’t you?

MR. MESEREAU: Sure. May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yeah.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Showing you Exhibit 803 and Exhibit 805, okay?

A. This is three. This is five.

Q. Yes. Okay? Let’s talk about 803. You’ve already indicated the title -- what purports to be the title is not going to be the title of your book, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And you’ve already indicated that the bottom paragraph that you say you wrote is not accurate; is that correct?

A. Uh-huh. This I wrote.

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. But you’re indicating it’s not accurate, true?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Not completely true as far as I'm concerned.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Let's look at the next exhibit, which is Exhibit No. 805. Do you see that?

A. Yes. This -- this one is true. I'm sorry. Yes. I'm sorry.

Q. And you wrote that e-mail, correct?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And what you said in the e-mail was, in summary, that you might -- and correct me if I'm wrong, that you thought your knowledge of the Chandlers might be an insurance policy for you?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Correct?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. An insurance policy of employment, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And what that means is, "I might try and hold over Michael's head what I could say about the Chandlers," right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'm going to object to counsel ascribing any meaning to those words.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: What did you mean by "insurance policy of employment"?

A. Well, I was not -- I did not have a confidentiality agreement.

Q. Okay.

A. That's what I -- that's what I basically meant.

Q. And did you also mean that, "Because I've spent all these years with Michael, that I could almost use as a threat writing an expose of him if I'm not employed by him"?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objection. And argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Is that sort of what it means?

A. No, not really, because I have never -- I have never sued, I have never sold stories. I have never -- in the 16 and a half years, I’ve never attempted to extort in any manner.

Q. And I’m not saying you did. I’m just asking you --

A. No, no, I did not mean it in that respect.

Q. Okay. Now, when did you say your work was terminated?

A. June 9th, 2004.

Q. Okay. And where was your office at the time?

A. In my home.

Q. You indicated in response to the prosecutor’s question that you didn’t see Michael very often, right?

A. No.

Q. And why was that?

A. This was -- this was Michael Jackson’s modus operandi from the very beginning. I saw Michael mostly if we were on a tour that my presence -- if I may explain. I have worked in the entertainment industry prior to working with Michael Jackson for 17 and a half years, and I know familiarity breeds contempt. And the further you stay away from artists, the better off you are.

Q. And for that reason, did you not go to Neverland very much?

A. I went to Neverland when I brought groups up, such as the Challengers Boys & Girls Club. Such as the First AME Church, et cetera. I was not a regular visitor at Neverland at all.

Q. Now, who was the first group that you mentioned that you brought?

A. The Challengers Boys --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Relevance; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: In a typical year, while you were employed, how often would you visit Neverland?

A. I haven't been to Neverland in years. My visits to Neverland were on a more frequent basis about five years ago when I was able to get groups approved to go to Neverland.

Q. Okay. And you had an office located where?

A. Before we closed the offices, we were at 9255 Sunset Boulevard.

Q. Okay. And how many years did you spend in that office?

A. I think we were there approximately ten years, I think. I cannot be for certain.

Q. Okay. Now, you indicated at the music awards, the World Music Awards, that at one point you saw Jordie on Michael Jackson's lap and his sister on Michael Jackson's lap together, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And where was Michael Jackson sitting in that event?

A. He was seated on the front row next to Prince Albert of Monaco, and -- on one side, and Linda Evans, the actress, on the other side.

And I attempted to get -- I had arranged for the Chandlers to sit directly behind Mr. Jackson, because I did not feel that the royalty wanted to be bothered with those guests. But he insisted that they sit with him, so I left it alone.

Q. Did the mother sit with Michael Jackson as well?

A. Behind.

Q. Okay. So when you saw the brother and sister sitting on Michael Jackson's lap in the first row, the mother was right behind, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. So this is the first row in full view of everyone at the awards show, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. There was no effort to hide anything at any time?

A. No.

Q. At some point, did you see the children with their mother behind where Michael Jackson was sitting?

A. When I brought them in to their seats, they were seated behind Mr. Jackson. Mr. Jackson moved them up front.

Q. Okay. Did -- when you say he moved them up front, did he move them into seats up front?

A. He moved them into his seat.

Q. Okay. Okay. So the children moved into his seat to sit with him?

A. With him.

Q. And the mother still stayed sitting behind?

A. That is correct.

Q. And at some point did you see the children go back with their mother or did they always stay with Michael?

A. No, they stayed up there.

Q. And I think at one point you saw Jordie still sitting on Michael's lap, and Jordie's sister sitting on Linda Evans' lap?

A. That is correct.

Q. Please tell the jury what the World Music Awards show is.

A. The World Music Awards show is a show that's given annually in Monte Carlo for the best record sales in -- the best worldwide record sales. I had arranged for Mr. Jackson to be honored by the World Music Awards, and -- because of his record sales. And we had gone there for that particular purpose, for him to be honored by the World Music Awards. And to be seen around the world. And I attempted, because perception is 90 percent of what the public thinks, to get those people off of his lap.

Q. Did the Chandler family seem to remain during the entire show sitting with Michael?

A. Oh, of course. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you -- how did you get to Monaco?

A. We flew.

Q. Did you -- fly from where?
A. Los Angeles.
Q. Okay. And were there other stops on that trip?
A. To Paris. We flew from Los Angeles to Paris, and Paris to Nice, and we helicoptered to Monte Carlo.
Q. Okay. Do you recall attending any other events with Mr. Jackson on the trip to Monaco?
A. Of course, His Royal Highness Prince Albert hosted a reception for visiting dignitaries, and I was -- he had an event -- when you go there, they have an event each night for visiting dignitaries. And there was only one event that Mr. Jackson attended.

Q. And do you recall whether or not the Chandler family were at that event?
A. They were with him.
Q. And that was because Michael insisted that the Chandler family go?
A. I don’t know whether he insisted whether they attend or not.
Q. Okay.
A. But all of his guests were invited.
Q. Okay. Were there any other guests of Michael Jackson that you haven’t named?
A. No, just the Chandler family.
Q. Okay. Now, did you begin writing your book after your employment ended?
A. I had made notes on certain things. Yes, the actual beginning of the writing of the book started after my employment ended, yes.
Q. And has there been an effort by you or your co-writer to market the book overseas?
A. Well, I would imagine that the publisher has.
Q. Has there been an attempt to market it in the United States?

A. I would imagine that the publisher has.
Q. Okay. And who is in charge of that issue?

A. My co-writer.

Q. Okay. Now, do you typically meet with your co-writer periodically?

A. We talk on the phone. That’s -- that’s perhaps one of the reasons there is some confusion, because our -- he’s based in New York and I’m based in Los Angeles.

Q. Okay. And do you sort of fax or e-mail manuscripts to one another?

A. We e-mail.

Q. Okay. And do you then typically correct or change what you think is either inaccurate or inappropriate?

A. Oh, I’ve changed millions of things that were inaccurate that I didn’t say.

Q. And how far away from having a product that you think is accurate and complete are you?

A. I would say six to eight weeks.

Q. Okay. Have you come up with a date during which you intend to announce the availability of the book?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Do you remember in your interview on April 7th, 2005, a police officer asking you about whether or not there was any licking on the plane by Michael, and you said, “I just don’t remember and I would be lying to say that I did”?

A. Of course I recall saying that.

Q. And that was the truth, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, on the plane coming back, do you remember where Jordie’s mother June was seated?

A. Sure.

Q. Where was she seated?

A. We were all in first class, and on one side of the rear of first class was Michael and Jordie Chandler. On the total opposite side was June Chandler and her daughter.

Q. Certainly June and her daughter were in a position to observe Michael and Jordie, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. So they were seated parallel to one another?

A. Yes.

Q. Nothing that went on was hidden from anybody, correct?

A. No.

Q. And where were you seated in relation --

A. I was seated at least two front -- two rows ahead of them.

Q. How many times have you been contacted by any representative of the sheriffs or police department in this case?

A. Well, I was contacted prior to my registration -- I mean, my being served with a subpoena. And at one point, a Richard Steingard, I approached him about representation because he had represented me before in this case, and then he came back and said that he could not represent me any longer. And that's when Attorney Sachs was contacted. So I had been -- they attempted to serve a subpoena to me, and at that time I did accept the subpoena at Richard Steingard's office, and following which he informed me that he could no longer represent me.

Q. Have you ever spoken to any prosecutor for the government in this case directly?

A. Who do you mean, the government?

Q. These people. The prosecutors.

A. Certainly. I've -- Mr. Auchincloss and Steve Robel.

Q. When did you last meet with Mr. Auchincloss?

A. I met with him on Friday when I was told to go home and come back.

Q. Okay. And did you meet with him before that?

A. Of course. You mentioned an April date that Mr. Auchincloss had me to come up.

Q. Okay. Was that April 7th?

A. I guess, sir. I don't -- I'm not good with dates, so --

Q. You had an interview with Sergeant Steve Robel, right?

A. And Mr. Auchincloss.

Q. Okay. How many meetings did you have with Sergeant Robel, if you know?

A. I only met Sergeant Robel when I was with Mr. Auchincloss. I met them both at the same time.

Q. Okay. So when you said, “I just don’t remember and I would be lying to say that I did,” about head licking, Mr. Auchincloss was right there, right?

A. We were -- we were there, yes, we were -- the three of us were in the room.

Q. So he clearly heard you say that, correct?

A. Mr. Auchincloss was in the room with Mr. Robel.

Q. And he tried to misquote you in court today, correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. This is argumentative; improper.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Jones, you told Stacy Brown about this head licking incident, true?

A. Apparently I did, sir.

Q. And you have previously stated that the 5558 words on the second paragraph of People’s Exhibit 803, which I’ve shown you - that’s the quotes from the book --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- the second paragraph - those are your words?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Your Honor, if I may, I’d like to admit --

THE WITNESS: With -- with -- may I see that, sir, again?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes, you may.

A. Because -- it may be with exception. Oh, yes, those are my words.

Q. All right. So you agree that those are your words.

Your Honor, I'd like to admit People's Exhibit 803 into evidence at this time.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Let me see the exhibit.

All right. The objection's sustained. It's not going into evidence.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. May I see that?

Q. But so that we're clear today about your testimony, is it true that you looked at what was going on with the king and the boy, they were holding each other tightly, almost in a romantic sense --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Asked and answered; move to strike.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I believe there's been --

THE COURT: Overruled. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: "Holding each other tightly almost in a romantic sense, cooing. There were pecks on the cheeks and licks on the top of the head"; is that true, those are your words?

A. I -- I -- with reservation. I know about the -- as I told you --

Q. I'm asking you are those your words, sir?

A. They apparently are my words. If you have them in an e-mail from me.

Q. Today your testimony is that, "The licking is going to be important," you told Stacy that, "because it happened in this case, too." Those are your words as well?

A. I don't recall saying anything about this case. But if it was in an e-mail, I said it.

Q. You acknowledge that those words -- that this is your e-mail address?

A. B7436@aol --

Q. And this is -- you acknowledged this is one of your e-mails to Stacy Brown?

A. Nobody else could have done it but me.

Q. So do you acknowledge, based upon all the information that you have today, that you did, in fact, see Michael Jackson lick Jordie Chandler on the top of the head, sir? Yes or no.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE WITNESS: I guess -- yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

THE COURT: Just a moment. There was an objection.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Sorry.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. The answer was, “Yes.”

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And your testimony is that this incident happened on a plane flying back from Europe?

A. On flying back from Paris to Los Angeles.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Mr. Jones, on April 7th, you told the police and Mr. Auchincloss you’d be lying if you said you saw Mr. Jackson licking Mr. Chandler, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Misstates the evidence and argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer. Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: I would say since he -- I have to say it has to be true if it came in my e-mail.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: But, sir, you just told the police the other day that you’d be lying if you said he did that, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objections.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Right?

A. I -- I, again, have to say what I said. If it’s in my e-mail, it’s true.

Q. But you just told the jury you don’t recall seeing something like that, correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Asked and answered; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I go back with the same answer. It was in my e-mail. So if it was in my e-mail, I'm taking responsibility for the e-mail.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Well, but you've also indicated a number of the things you wrote are not accurate, true?

A. I didn't write anything. My co-writer wrote those things. But he is -- he has shown me an e-mail that I wrote and sent to my co-writer.

Q. But, sir, you just told the jury what you told the police last week, which is that you'd be lying if you said you saw that, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I believe that misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Is that what -- he's really asking you, "Is that what you told the police?" Did you tell the police --

THE WITNESS: Yes, that is what I told the police.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Jones, you didn't say, "I would be lying if I said that." You said, "I would be lying if I said I remembered that"; isn't that true?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And is it fair to say that based on everything you have before you today, you now remember the incidents that you've testified concerning the licking?

A. I don't remember. But there is an e-mail which provides explicit evidence that the e-mail came from me.

Q. And you believe your e-mails are true; you've testified to that?

A. I would not have just made it up.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you.
THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor. Subject to re-call.
THE COURT: All right. I haven’t excused him.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m sorry.
THE COURT: Call your next witness.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Call Stacy Brown.
THE COURT: When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing. Face the clerk, over here, and raise your right hand.

STACY BROWN
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.
THE WITNESS: Stacy Brown. S-t-a-c-y; Brown, B-r-o-w-n.
THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Brown.

A. Good morning.
Q. What is your occupation, sir?
A. I’m -- currently I’m an analyst for MS-NBC and I’m also an author.
Q. All right. As an author, have you had occasion to collaborate with writers in the creation of books?
A. Oh, yes, several.
Q. Can you give me an example?
A. Well, in 2002, published by Simon &

Schuster, I co-authored the book Blind Faith, a biography of Stevie Wonder and his mom, Lula Hardaway.
Q. Have you worked in the past to -- collaborated in the past with any members of the family of Michael Jackson in the creation of books?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. Who would that be?
A. That would be his older sister, Rebbie Jackson, and his brother Jermaine Jackson.
Q. And when I say “Mr. Jackson,” is he the man seated to my right with the long black hair?
A. Yes.
Q. Were those -- was there ever any attempt to publish those two books that you just described?
A. The latter two, Rebbie and Jermaine?
Q. Yes.
A. That I -- there was --

Q. Were they published?
A. No, they was not published.
Q. Do you know why not?
A. Well, the last one with --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Were those books, either of them, pulled from the publisher by you?
A. Yes.
Q. Why?
A. At the direction of --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: May I ask foundation or relevance, Your Honor?
THE COURT: The relevance.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.
Q. Mr. Brown, did you collaborate with Bob Jones or are you collaborating with Bob Jones in the writing of a book concerning his experiences as an employee of Michael Jackson?
A. That’s correct.

Q. How long have you been doing that?

A. Since last summer.

Q. How did you meet Bob Jones?

A. I met Bob years ago. He was, of course, working for Michael. I was a reporter for the L.A. Daily News at the time, and we were covering a story about Michael's -- the birth of Michael's first child. And I had talked about -- everyone had talked about, everyone in the media, when they want information or comments from Michael on things that -- like having a baby.

Q. Who approached whom concerning the writing of this book?

A. Last January during the arraignment here, Bob Jones approached me -- we were both standing outside that day, and he approached me about writing that book.

Q. And you've worked together to prepare a manuscript?

A. Yeah, we did. And we didn't -- you know, I didn't initially agree to write the book.

Q. Okay.

A. There was some concerns that I had. I didn't want to --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So did you originally want to write this book?

A. Not originally, no.

Q. Why not?

A. Well, I knew --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It goes to -- offered as credibility.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Tell me about the collaboration process with Mr. Jones. How has this book come together?

A. Well, I interviewed Bob, another writer also interviewed Bob as well, about his experience, not only with Michael. We have to remember Bob worked with a lot of people including Lionel Ritchie, Rick James, Barry Gordy, the Jacksons as a family.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. So Michael was -- and Bob's mind was seen as just a small part of his story, but obviously the publisher wanted more about Michael because he is Michael.

Q. When you're collaborating with an individual in the preparation of a manuscript, are there -- is there a dialogue with publishers to see what kind of book the publisher will be interested in?

A. Oh, absolutely.

Q. And do you employ a literary agent to try --

A. Yes.

Q. -- and market the book?

A. Yes. And in this particular case, we employed quite a few.

Q. Why is that?

A. Well, Bob has problems trusting people.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can withdraw that.

THE COURT: All right. I'll strike his answer. You can rephrase the question.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine.

Q. How many agents did you work with?

A. Gosh. It's now -- five now.

Q. And you currently -- are you currently employing an agent?

A. Yes, we are. We are currently employing two.

Q. And what are their names?

A. Neil Gudovitz and Bill Gladstone.

Q. In working with Mr. Jones, how did you communicate with one another?

A. We spoke a lot over the phone. We met in person. And a lot of times, because of the distance, we e-mailed each other.

Q. And so how would it work in terms of his working with you?

A. What would happen is he would send me an e-mail of a lot of his notes that he had kept over the years. We would talk about them, and then I'd start writing. And I would send him what I write, and he would have to approve it, and then he would send it back with any type of changes that needed to be made, and the changes would be -- then be made.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones -- or Mr. Brown, I show you People's Exhibit 803. Could you identify those two passages for me?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay.
THE COURT: Overruled. I'll allow him to identify them.
THE WITNESS: By "identify," read them?
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: No, just identify them. Are those two passages that came from the book that you're working on with Mr. Jones?
A. That's correct, yes.
Q. And while I'm up here, I'm going to show you People's Exhibit 804. Can you identify that for me?
A. An e-mail Bob Jones sent to me.
Q. You personally received that from Mr. Jones?
A. That's correct.
Q. And an e-mail --
A. That's correct. Another e-mail.
Q. That's Exhibit 805. That's one he sent you as well?
A. That's correct.
Q. Now, for the record, are these complete

e-mails or did they have some material?
A. Oh, they had a lot of material.
Q. But this is just a portion of them?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. Did Bob Jones, during your collaboration with him in the writing of this book, tell you about an incident in which he observed the defendant, Michael Jackson, lick a boy by the name of Jordie Chandler on the head?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; and leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered under 1236.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

THE WITNESS: I’m sorry.

THE COURT: Just answer that “yes” or “no.”

THE WITNESS: Yeah. Yes, he did.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: What did he tell you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, he described an incident, they were going to the World Music Awards in Monaco, I believe it was. And he talked about how strange it was, because Jordie had a head full of hair, and he said, “I thought maybe it would be more” -- you know, “It would be understandable if he had a bald head.” But he just couldn’t understand the licking of the head when he had a head full of hair.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: He said he saw Michael Jackson lick Jordie’s head?

A. Correct.

Q. Those two passages that I showed you in Exhibit 803, did you ever share that manuscript that contained those passages with Mr. Jones?

A. Oh, yeah. Absolutely. Bob had to approve everything that went to the publisher.

Q. So everything that went to the publisher was approved by Mr. Jones?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And did this -- did those two passages that I just showed you go to the publisher?

A. Oh, yeah.

Q. Did you discuss this issue of the licking incident on more than one occasion?

A. Oh, yes, we did. Do you want me to --

Q. Go ahead.

A. Yeah, we did. Beginning in, I would say, maybe August or September, he and I discussed it. And we discussed it with another writer, Dennis love, and also our agent and the publisher.

Q. Okay. You previously mentioned Neil Gudovitz and Bill Gladstone. Was it discussed with those two gentlemen?

A. Yes.

Q. And your publisher, who would that be?

A. That would be Select Books.

Q. Okay. Specifically who was this issue discussed with?

A. Well, it was discussed not only with -- well, specifically at Select Books?

Q. Yes. And I mean by Mr. Jones himself.

A. We had -- well, I don’t know that Bob discussed it with Select. But we discussed it with Simon & Schuster and Harper Collins in a conference call that we had. Bob discussed it with them. They discussed the entire -- the entire proposal that we put before them, and that included that.

Q. All right. This e-mail that I showed you, 804 - I’ll show it to you again just so you’re familiar with what I’m talking about - references that, “The licking is going to be important because he did it in this case, too.”

Can you tell me, what was the context of that remark?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; and calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: What did you understand he was referring to when he said, “this case, too”?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Excuse me. Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you stay abreast of the information in the media during the writing of this book?

A. Yeah, I had to. It’s my job.

Q. Okay. Did you -- did you check the Internet sources of news media?

A. Yeah. I look at different newspapers and news outlets throughout the country, and their take on what’s going on as well.

Q. And on October 30th, 2004, had you ever heard of any kind of licking that had gone on in the case of People v. Michael Jackson that’s presently before the Court?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: In the media outlets.

MR. MESEREAU: Improper hearsay.

THE COURT: I guess I’m not sure where you’re going with what his knowledge is of this case, how that relates to what Mr. Jones has said.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Whether it had been reported in the media from another source - he says he kept abreast of all the media sources - or whether this was the first time he’d heard it.

THE COURT: All right. If you’ll rephrase the question to relate to the relevance that you’re describing.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. My question is this, Mr. Brown: When Mr. Jones wrote you this e-mail on October 30th, were you aware at that time that there was an allegation of licking in the case involving Gavin Arvizo and Mr. Jackson?

A. I can’t say that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Go ahead.

A. I can’t say that I was, because I -- when Bob told me, it was the first that I’d heard of the incident. He had actually heard it first as it pertains to this case, and that’s when -- that prompted him to share with me that it was going to be important.

Q. Now, he says in that e-mail, “The licking is going to be important because he did it in this case, too.” Was that the first time you heard of the connection between the two --

A. Yes.

Q. -- cases?

Had he talked to you about the licking before that?

A. We had started discussing --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; hearsay.

THE COURT: I’ll overrule the objection. But the question is simply whether or not he discussed this with you before that e-mail.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So that’s a “yes” or “no.”

A. That particular e-mail?

Q. Yeah, before that e-mail.

A. The e-mail, no. The incident, yeah.

Q. Okay, the incident. He discussed it before that e-mail?

A. Yeah.

Q. Has Mr. Jones ever indicated to you a fear of testifying in this case?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; relevance; calls for speculation; move to strike.

THE COURT: Sustained. The objection is sustained. Stricken.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was there a period of time when Mr. Jones all of a sudden began to have a loss of recollection or something of that nature regarding this licking incident?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: I’ll sustain the objection as the question is too broad.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. At some time during your collaboration with Mr. Jones, did he ever try to deny his recollections about this licking incident?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; calls for speculation; relevance; foundation.

THE COURT: I’ll overrule the objection. The question should be read back to the witness.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: Yeah. He had fuzzy recollections about it, yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was there --

THE COURT: Just a moment. We're going to take our break.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor.
Q. Mr. Brown, where we left off, I was asking you about this period of time when Mr. Jones started to have some failure of recollection on the issue of head licking.
When did that -- do you recall when that began or when that started?
A. It's been about a month or so now.
Q. Before that time, how many times had you been involved in a conversation where Mr. Jones talked about the head-licking incident?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: I can't tell you exact number of times, but it was more than a couple.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. And how would you describe this change in his recollection, if you can?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can be more specific.
MR. MESEREAU: Relevance.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: My question goes to, was it an abrupt change, or was it something that occurred over a period of time, or something in between?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; relevance;

foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I would say it was more abrupt than anything else.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Mr. Brown. I have no further questions.
THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Brown.
A. Good morning.
Q. How long have you known Bob Jones?
A. The year Princess Diana died. I think it was ‘97.
Q. Okay. And approximately when did he tell you he intended to write a book?
A. It was about January, a few months before he was terminated.
Q. And you’ve been interviewed by the sheriffs in this case, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. And you told the sheriffs that Bob Jones told you he’s broke and he needs to make some money, right?
A. That’s what --
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you gone through different drafts with Mr. Jones?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. On the issue of head licking, did Mr. Jones tell you at one point he had to make money on this book because he had financial problems?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Hearsay; argumentative.
THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: He didn’t -- Mr. Mesereau, he didn’t tell me that in relation to the head licking. That never came up in discussions of money.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: But he told you he’s broke and has to get paid for this book, correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Hearsay; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: When we first started the book, he said he needs the money. He was just fired.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And he said he was broke, right?

A. Yes. That’s correct.

Q. You told the police you said he was broke, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Okay. Now, how did -- how did the -- let me rephrase that.

Obviously at some point you met with Bob Jones about writing a book, correct?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And where did you meet with him?

A. Well, as I said earlier, he first approached me here at the court, back during the arraignment.

Q. And did he tell you then he wanted to write something?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And that’s before he --

A. That’s before his termination.

Q. Okay. And how long before his termination was that, do you think?

A. Well, it was January, so -- the termination was in June. So four, five months.

Q. And did he tell you he was doing it secretly?

A. Well, he didn’t say secretly, but he said -- obviously any process with a book, you don’t want everyone to know this is what you are doing.

I did, however, myself, tell members of the family, to get their thoughts on it, because that was my concern, what their thoughts may be with me doing a book with Bob Jones with -- chiefly it had to be about Michael Jackson.

Q. Okay. Now, did Mr. Jones tell you he was talking to anyone from the sheriff's department?

A. Not at that time, no.

Q. When did you first learn that he had spoken to anyone from the sheriff's department?

A. I believe they first contacted him in December of last year.

Q. And based on the prosecutor's questions to you, you must have learned at some point that Bob Jones was saying he couldn't really remember seeing any head licking, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: I'm sorry, I can't read the --

THE REPORTER: "Learned" instead of "render."

THE COURT: All right. The objection is Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Could you repeat it, sir?

MR. MESEREAU: I'll have it read back. May it be read back, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: Oh, I wouldn't say it was based on the prosecutor's -- that. I think it was simply when I spoke with him, he got a little nervous about that particular vein. I think he realized that it was going to become a part of this --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Well, did you and Mr. Jones discuss the fact that the Arvizos went to Larry Feldman, the same lawyer who represented the Chandlers?

A. The --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Relevance; beyond the scope; and argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Has the name Larry Feldman come up in the book you’re writing?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objection.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Not by name, but certainly by title and by inference. Bob did say, based on his notes back in --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Well, just -- you just have to answer the question, okay? I’ll get into that --

A. Okay.

Q. -- okay?

Does the book concern this case in any respect?

A. I would think in some respects.

Q. And is it your plan to market the book while this trial is going on?

A. Well, it all depends on when it’s finished.

Q. Has he ever talked to you about when he plans to complete the book?

A. Well, I have a lot of say in that, so we’ve talked about that, and we’ve always said we don’t want it to be a rush job, and a lot of people want it to be a rush job. The publisher wants it to be a rush job.

Q. The publisher wants it to be a rough job --

A. Rush job.

Q. -- rush job because you can sell it better while the trial is going on, right?

A. Obviously, if it comes out now, it would probably pique some interest because it’s Bob Jones, who, you know, has worked for Michael for so long, and it’s Michael.

Q. Now, have you discussed the amount of money he might make on the book?

A. No, you know, we -- we’ve been made promises in the past. We don’t listen to that. We don’t even speculate on what can be made.

Personally, I just enjoy writing, so, you know, the money aspect -- I think I do pretty well. It’s not a big deal to me.

Q. Do you remember you were interviewed by a

Santa Barbara sheriff on December 7th, 2004?

A. Around about, yeah.

Q. And you were approached by Sergeant Robel, right?

A. Uh-huh. Yes, that’s correct. I’m sorry.

Q. And the purpose of the interview was to talk to you about this alleged head-licking event, right?

A. I’m not sure if that was the purpose of the interview. We talked about various things back in December, but I’m not sure that was the purpose of it.

Q. And do you remember Sergeant Robel wanted to know why you had said that Mr. Jones told you he saw Michael Jackson kiss Jordie, not lick his head?

A. Well, that’s not exactly what -- that I remember Sergeant Robel putting to me. There was a question another investigator had had about whether I said he -- Bob said he licked or kissed him, and he wanted me to clarify that.

Q. And you had told the investigator that based on your discussions with Bob Jones, he had said that Michael Jackson kissed Jordie one time, didn’t lick his head, right?

A. No, I didn’t say that.

Q. Do you remember you apologized?

A. No, no. What happened -- I apologized if it was confused. But what happened was, I think the investigator had misunderstood and that’s what he was calling to clarify. That’s one of the reasons why he called, to clarify exactly what I said. He said he didn’t remember if I said “licking” or “kissing.”

Q. Let me ask you if this is correct.

A. Sure.

Q. “Brown apologized for the mistake. Said he had not realized that he told me he was kissing as opposed to licking.” Does that sound accurate to you?

A. It’s probably accurate. But again, as I’m explaining to you, I explained to Sergeant Robel when he asked the question, when he asked me about that, I had told the other investigator, I think it was Zelis, I'm -- I'm not sure, but I think it was Paul Zelis, the investigator's name, and I think he was the one who had actually made the mistake or -- I won't even say "mistake." He wanted to clarify, is that what I said.

Q. Why did you apologize to him?

A. Well, I apologized for being polite. I mean, it's just a polite thing to do, you know. If I was wrong, I have no problems apologizing.

Q. Now, you're aware that Mr. Jones has indicated he doesn't remember head licking and has said he'd be lying to say that he did. Are you aware of that?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You're in the process of writing the section of the book that deals with this trip to Monaco, aren't you?

A. No. No, we're long since past that.

Q. Well, Mr. Jones has indicated that he has not approved --

A. Everything that has --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Argumentative; hearsay as to what Mr. Jones said; and misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: It's an incomplete question, too.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Jones has final approval over what's in that book, doesn't he?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Would you agree that the more sensational the book, the better the chance of making money on it?

A. Well, obviously. I mean, we've been told things that nothing surprises them about Michael Jackson, so -- but it's not our intentions to write a book of scandal, if that's what you're inferring. It's certainly not mine, and I have to write it. And I have people in his family who I happen to love very much who I'm not going to disappoint.

Q. They’re not getting any money from the book, are they?

A. The family?

Q. Yes.

A. Why should they?

Q. They’re not getting any money from the book, are they?

A. I’m sorry to respond in that way. No.

Q. The one who is going to make money is Bob Jones, who’s broke, right?

A. We both will.

Q. You’re aware that Bob Jones was very upset when he was terminated, aren’t you?

A. You know what? To be honest with you, he wasn’t upset that he was terminated. He was upset in which the way Randy terminated him.

Q. I’m not sure what that means.

A. Well, Bob had --

Q. Referring to Randy Jackson, right?

A. Randy Jackson, I’m sorry.

Bob had felt he’d been loyal to Michael for basically half of Michael’s life, or most of Michael’s life, I should say. And to get fired by a messenger, you know, I felt bad, too. In fact, I had spoke to someone in Michael’s family about that. I said, “That’s horrible.”

But he was just upset in the method. He knew that eventually his time was going to be up just like everyone else’s.

Q. In the draft that you and Mr. Jones have written, Mr. Jones says on at least two occasions that he’s never seen Michael Jackson act inappropriately with children, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, if it was the exact -- well, I don’t remember the exact wording, but to say that he saw him molest anybody, no, it does not say he saw him molest anybody.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Jones (sic), I previously showed you People’s Exhibit 803. Did Mr. Jones approve those two passages?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Ask to move 803 into evidence.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Relevance.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered as a prior inconsistent statement as to the first passage and a prior consistent statement as to the second.

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: The ruling remains the same.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Ask at this time to admit the two e-mails, Your Honor, Exhibits 804 and 805, into evidence at this time.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; authenticity; relevance.

THE COURT: I’ll take that up later.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. Mr. Brown, you said that Mr. Jones was complaining about his finances on cross-examination.

A. Uh-huh. Yes.

Q. Is this a frequent complaint?

A. Yeah, he’s -- well, yeah, he’s made a few complaints about that.

Q. Was there a time when he stopped complaining about his finances during this period of collaboration?

A. Yes.

Q. Was what -- when -- when he stopped complaining about finances, tell me, was there any relationship in time to that point and the time in which he started to have this failure of recollection?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; vague; foundation.
THE COURT: I’ll sustain vague.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Can you tell me approximately when in time Mr. Jones stopped complaining about his finances?
A. It’s been about a month or so.
Q. And when in time did he start to have his failure of recollection?

A. About a month or so.
Q. Did they -- did both of those coincide in time?
A. I would say so, yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mr. Brown, what I think the prosecutor just elicited is the following: When he was broke, he said there was licking. And when he didn’t have financial problems, he said there wasn’t any, right?
A. Well, if that’s how you --
Q. Right?
A. -- break it down, yeah, I guess.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: No further questions.
THE COURT: Thank you. You may step down.
Would you give me Exhibits 804 and 805?
Call your next witness.
MR. SNEDDON: June Chandler, Your Honor.
THE BAILIFF: She’s on her way, Your Honor.
THE COURT: 804 and 805 are not admitted.
Come forward, please. When you get to the witness stand here, remain standing.
Face the clerk here and raise your right hand.

JUNE CHANDLER
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: June Chandler. J-u-n-e; C-h-a-n-d-l-e-r.

THE CLERK: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: You’re welcome.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Good morning, Mrs. Chandler.

A. Good morning.

Q. I want to go back in time a little bit to around 1992 and ‘93, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you related in some fashion to Jordan Chandler?

A. Yes. He is my son.

Q. Okay. And we’re going -- you know, I should have done this before we started.

A. Yes.

Q. You have to lean right into that microphone so everybody can hear what you have to say. We’ve had the same problem with everybody, so it’s not just you.

A. Okay.

Q. You have a very soft voice, so you keep it up, all right?

A. Okay. I will.

Q. Let me start all over again and ask you again. Are you related to Jordan Chandler?

A. Yes, I am. He is my son.

Q. Do you have any other sons or daughters?

A. Yes, I have a daughter.

Q. And her name?

A. Lily Chandler.

Q. And how old is Lily right now?

A. 17 years old.

Q. Now, in 1992 and 1993, were you married?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And to whom were you married?

A. To David Schwartz.

Q. And is David Schwartz the father of either of your children?

A. Yes.

Q. Which one?

A. Lily Chandler.

Q. And prior to your marriage with David Schwartz, you were married to Evan Chandler, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And Evan Chandler is the father of Jordan Chandler?

A. Correct.

Q. What is Jordan’s date of birth?

A. January 11th, 1980.

Q. And to your knowledge, had -- by the time of the events in 1992 and ‘93, had Evan Chandler remarried?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know his wife or did you know his wife at that time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And her name is?

A. Natalie Chandler.

Q. And did they have any other children?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And the child’s name?

A. Nicky Chandler. And Emmanuelle Chandler.

Q. And at the time of 1992 and 1993, can you give us the approximate ages of those children?

A. As best as I can recall, seven and four.

Q. And who is the oldest?

A. Nicky Chandler, the son.

Q. Okay. Now, I want to show you some photographs. The first photograph we have that’s marked is 793, the next one is 794, and the next one is 795, okay?

The first one, 793, I’ll ask you if you recognize the person depicted in that photograph?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Have you ever seen that person before?

A. Not that I recall.
Q. And I want to show you a photograph marked as 794, or Exhibit 794. Do you recognize the people depicted in that photograph?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Neither the top nor the bottom?
A. He might look familiar.
Q. Okay. And the bottom photograph?
A. I don't recall.
Q. And with regard to Exhibit No. 795, do you recognize any of the people depicted in that photograph?
A. I recall this boy and Michael Jackson.
Q. All right. "This boy" meaning the person on the far left-hand side of the Exhibit 795?
A. Correct.
Q. And do you recall the boy's name?
A. Brett Barnes.
Q. Do you recall where you saw Mr. Barnes, or the child Barnes?
A. At Neverland.
Q. Okay. So with regard to the Photographs 793, 794 and 795, none of those photographs are pictures of your son, correct?
A. No. No.
Q. I want to show you 776; ask you if you recognize that photograph?

A. Yes, I do.
Q. And who is that?
A. That's my son.
Q. Your son?
A. Jordan.
Q. All right. Thank you.
Your Honor, with the Court's permission, I'd like to publish these just so the jury knows what the witness has testified to.
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. SNEDDON: And we're going to do it on the Elmo, Your Honor. So if we could have that.
All right, Gordon?
Q. All right. The photograph that's on the board that's 793 is an exhibit of the child with the long black hair. And that is not your son, Jordan Chandler?

A. No, it's not.

Q. All right. And the next exhibit would be 794. And specifically I'm going to direct your attention to the child sitting on the floor with the arrow drawn up to him. Do you recognize that child?

A. Barely.

Q. Who do you think that -- when you say "barely," who do you recognize --

A. I would say it's probably a younger photo of the boy above.

Q. And do you recognize who the boy above in that photograph is?

A. I think that's Brett Barnes.

Q. Okay. And the last photo is 795. And you indicated the child on the far left-hand side of the photograph; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. The child with the hat next to Mr. Jackson?

A. Correct. That's Brett Barnes.

Q. That's Brett Barnes. All right. Thank you. And lastly, the photograph marked as 776, you've identified that as your child, Jordan, correct?

A. My son Jordan.

Q. Your son Jordan?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Thank you. We can have the lights again, Your Honor. Now, Mrs. Chandler, do you recognize the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson?

A. I do.

Q. And have you been in Mr. Jackson's presence before?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, your son Jordan, did you have -- let me go back in time. Did you have an occasion where you actually met Michael Jackson?

A. Yes, I had an occasion.

Q. For the first time?

A. Yes.
Q. Would you tell the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, where did that occur?
A. That occurred at my ex-husband’s employment, Rent-A-Wreck.
Q. And where is that located?
A. In West L.A.
Q. And was -- do you remember about approximately when that occurred?
A. It was in the summer of ‘92. Late summer.
Q. And were you actually at the -- your husband’s place of business when Mr. Jackson showed up?
A. After he showed up, yes.
Q. Okay. You received a telephone call from someone?
A. Yes, from my ex-husband.
Q. And by the way, your ex-husband’s name is what?
A. David Schwartz.
Q. Did you ever take Mr. Schwartz’s last name?
A. No, I did not.
Q. So you’ve always been June Chandler?
A. I’ve always been June Chandler.
Q. So you received a telephone call and then you went down to his place of business?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. With regard to your son Jordan, did Jordan go with you?

A. Yes, he did.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson there?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. And do you recall how long you were with Mr. Jackson and Jordan that day?
A. Briefly. Five minutes. Ten minutes.
Q. And did -- was there any information exchanged between you and Mr. Jackson that day?
A. Yes.
Q. And what was that?
A. I said, “If you would like to see Jordie or if he could call you or if you’d like to speak to him, here is our number, and you can give him a call."

Q. And you gave that to Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, let me go back in time. Before this meeting that you had at your husband's place of business in 1992, had Jordan ever expressed, to your knowledge, some admiration for Mr. Jackson?

A. Oh, very much so, yes.

Q. How did he display that admiration?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. SNEDDON: I didn't ask for a statement, Your Honor. I asked for a display.

THE COURT: All right.

He's not asking for anything that was said. Do you understand the question?

THE WITNESS: Would you repeat the question, please?

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Yes.

How did your son Jordan, prior to this meeting that occurred at David Schwartz's place of business, express -- display his admiration for Mr. Jackson?

A. He had a little sparkly jacket that he would wear to parties. He would have a glove like Michael Jackson, and dance around like Michael Jackson.

Q. And this was all before he met Mr. Jackson?

A. Before he met Michael Jackson, yes.

Q. Now, after the incident occurred where there was an exchange where you gave Mr. Jackson your telephone number -- and let me go back and ask you a question about that. Was the telephone number you gave him your home number?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Did -- to your knowledge, did Mr. Jackson ever call your son Jordan?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And do you recall, for the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, approximately what the time span was from the incident that occurred at your ex-husband's place of business to the time that Mr. Jackson actually called your son?

A. To the best of my recollection, it could have been a month or two after our first meeting with Michael Jackson at Rent-A-Wreck.

Q. Were you actually in the room when Mr. Jackson called?

A. I don’t recall being in the room, but I might have been.

Q. Do you recall at some time visiting Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you recall approximately when that occurred?

A. I recall around February.

Q. Of?

A. 1993.

Q. 1993?

A. Yes.

Q. So what I want to ask you is, between the time that Mr. Jackson started calling your son to the time that you went to Neverland Ranch, can you give the jury some idea of the number of times Mr. Jackson called your son Jordan?

A. To the best of my recollection --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Were you present in the house when these conversations occurred?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Did you sometimes answer the phone?

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. Jackson was on the line?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And were you also present in the house during the time to observe the length of the conversations between your son and Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. On more than one occasion?

A. Absolutely.

Q. All right. So based upon your observations and the things that you saw and the things that you heard, give us an estimate of the number of times, that you know of, that Mr. Jackson called your son Jordan.

A. I would say eight to ten times.
Q. And with regard to those conversations in which you have personal knowledge of the length of time, could you give the jury some idea of how long these conversations lasted?
A. It was from maybe ten minutes, to an hour, or an hour and a half. It progressed. It got longer and longer.
Q. Could you describe to the jury what your son’s reaction was to these phone calls?
A. He was excited to hear from him. They were talking about things that interested Jordie, so, um --
Q. In those occasions where you picked up the phone and you talked to Mr. Jackson, did he tell you where he was?

A. No, he didn’t tell me. No.
Q. Now, how is it that you and Jordan ended up going to Neverland Valley Ranch for the first time?
A. We were invited to go to Neverland, because during those conversations, Michael Jackson said, “Would you like to come to visit? When I am finished touring,” he was doing a European tour, I think, he said we can come and visit. And my son was very excited to be able to go up there and see Neverland.
Q. Now, the first time you went to Neverland, you told the jury it was sometime in February of 1993. How did you get there?
A. I drove.
Q. And who went with you besides Jordan, if anyone?
A. My daughter Lily.
Q. And at this point in time, how old was Lily?
A. Was seven, I think. Seven or eight.
Q. And Jordan was born in 1980, so he was 13 years old at the time you made the first visit, correct?
A. 12, 13, yes. Yes.

Q. And do you recall whether it was during the week or on a weekend that you visited?

A. On a weekend.

Q. During the time that you were -- during this first visit, do you recall how many days you were there?

A. Oh, two nights.

Q. Okay. So two nights and at least two days and possibly a third day?

A. Two nights. There was not a third day.

Q. And where did you stay while you were at the ranch?

A. Guest cottage.

Q. Where did you personally stay?

A. The guest cottages at Neverland.

Q. And was there somebody in your cottage with you?

A. Yes, my daughter and my son.

Q. So Jordan stayed with you and Lily in the same cottage?

A. Yes.

Q. And was this during the entire length of this first visit?

A. Yes.

Q. And while you were at the ranch during the first visit, did you see Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. And did you spend time with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you spend a lot of time with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you say, “Yes, I did,” can you tell us about what Jordan and Lily did?

A. We were all either taking rides on the Ferris wheel, playing video games. Jordie and Michael were playing video games. I was watching. Lily was playing. We looked at his animals that he had. Just different things that were at Neverland.

Q. Okay. And I think you’ve described that as being an amazing weekend?

A. Yes. Fun.

Q. Now, during the time that you were there on this first visit, do you recall whether or not you went with Mr. Jackson to a business called Toys-R-Us?

A. Yes.

Q. And could you tell us about that?

A. I guess it was after hours, after Toys-R-Us closed, and Michael said, “Jordie and Lily, you get to go shopping and buy toys, get toys.” So we went and --

Q. When you say “we went,” who’s “we”?

A. Lily and Jordie and Michael and I went. And they had fun. They were shopping and Michael bought lots of things for them. They picked out stuff, and they were showered with great presents from Toys-R-Us.

Q. And Mr. Jackson paid for all of that?

A. I -- yes, he did.

Q. You didn’t, right?

A. No.

Q. Now, after you left Neverland Valley Ranch after this first visit, did you ever go back to Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall how much time elapsed between the first time you went there and the second time you went back?

A. It could be a week later or two weeks after.

Q. And when you went back the second time, do you recall how you got there?

A. I -- to the best of my recollection, I was picked up by Michael Jackson.

Q. When you say “picked up by Michael Jackson,” in what form of transportation was that?

A. In his car, limo.

Q. And who else was with you when you got picked up? I mean, from your family. Let’s start that way first.

A. It was Lily, my daughter, and Jordan.

Q. So the three of you?

A. My son.
Q. The three of you went back to the ranch?
A. Right.
Q. Was there anybody else in the limo that you recall with Mr. Jackson?

A. Well --
Q. Let me go back and make something clear.
A. Sure.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson actually in the limo himself?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Now, let's ask the question --
A. Okay.
Q. -- was there anybody else in the limo other than Mr. Jackson and the three of you?
A. Yes, there was Brett Barnes.
Q. And do you recall where Mr. -- where the child Brett -- let me ask you this: With regard to Brett Barnes, can you estimate about approximately what age you felt Brett Barnes was at this point?
A. 11. 10, 11.
Q. So he was a child?
A. He was a child.
Q. And where was Brett Barnes in the car in relationship to Mr. Jackson?
A. Sitting next to Michael Jackson.
Q. Now, on the second visit you went to the ranch, do you recall how long you stayed?
A. A weekend.
Q. And did you spend time -- did you personally spend time with Mr. Jackson that weekend?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did Jordan spend time with him that weekend?

A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did you see Brett Barnes around there that weekend?
A. Yes. I don't really remember, but yes, he was there, too. Yes, he was enjoying that time also.
Q. And where did you personally sleep during your stay, the second visit to Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Guest cottages.

Q. Where did Lily stay?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did your son Jordan stay?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. Now, the guest cottages are all located in one general area, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. They're all sort of connected into one building?

A. Correct.

Q. With regard to that building, did you ever see Brett Barnes anywhere around the building and the cottages?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Now, how did you get home from Neverland on this second visit?

A. We were driven home.

Q. In a limo?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson present?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Was there ever an occasion where you went to Disneyland?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall when that happened in relationship to like either one of these first, second visits?

A. That could have been that weekend, the second weekend that we were at Neverland that we went -- instead of going to Los Angeles, we went to Anaheim, to Disneyland. It could have been that weekend.

Q. And who all went to Disneyland?

A. I remember Jordan, Lily, Michael and I, and perhaps Brett.

Q. Now, did you ever have an occasion to visit Neverland Valley Ranch again?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember approximately how much time elapsed between the second visit and the third visit?

A. It could have been a week. A weekend.

Q. And when you went to the ranch on this third occasion, was Mr. Jackson present?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And where did you sleep?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Lily sleep?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Jordan sleep?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. At some point in time during any one of these three visits to -- these three visits you've described to the jury, did your son request to sleep in Mr. Jackson's bedroom?

A. Yes --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: -- he did.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And do you recall during which one of the visits it was that the request came?

A. Oh, the third visit.

Q. And did you allow him to do that?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you notice -- I may not have asked this with regard to the third visit, but you indicated in at least the first visit that Jordan slept with you in your guest cottage, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. In the second visit, did Jordan sleep with you in your guest cottage?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And the third visit, did Jordan sleep with you in your guest cottage?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you notice anything with regard to what time of the day or night it was that Jordan finally came to your cottage to go to bed?

A. I assume it was late, after eleven o’clock.

Q. Why do you assume that?

A. Because they were playing all day and all night. And it was a weekend. He did not have school, so he was allowed to stay up later than 11:00.

Q. During any of your visits to Neverland Valley Ranch, did you ever meet any children from New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember their names?

A. Frankie and Eddie.

Q. And with regard to Frankie at this point in time, do you recall approximately how old Frankie was?

A. Around the same age as Jordan, or maybe younger.

Q. And how about Eddie?

A. I don’t recall. I don’t know which one is which.

Q. Do you recall their last name at all?

A. Cascio.

Q. And do you remember which one of the visits to the ranch was it that you met Frank Cascio?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Was there -- was there some point in time when you took a trip with Mr. Jackson to Las Vegas?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. And do you remember when that trip occurred? Just approximately what month, for instance?

A. The end of March.

Q. Of 1993?

A. Of ‘93. Correct.

Q. Excuse me, my allergies are acting up today. How did you get to Las Vegas?

A. By jet, private jet.

Q. And who was with you on the jet?

A. My son Jordan, Lily, myself and Michael.

Q. And when you got to Las Vegas, where did you stay, what hotel?

A. The Mirage Hotel.

Q. And when you got to The Mirage Hotel, do you remember what time of day or night it was?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember how long you stayed in Las Vegas on this occasion?

A. Two or three nights.

Q. Now, when you got to Las Vegas, did you have -- obviously you had a room --

A. Correct.

Q. -- in The Mirage. And who was in your room when you first got there? Who was staying in your room?

A. Jordan, myself, Lily and Michael.

Q. All in the same room?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, did those arrangements change at any point in time?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did they change?

A. The second night things changed.

Q. With regard to “things changed,” could you tell me what changed first?

A. Well, there were approximately three bedrooms in that suite at the Mirage Hotel. Lily and I were staying in one bedroom, Jordie had another bedroom, and Michael had another bedroom.

The second night, they were going to see a performance, Cirque du Soleil performance.

Q. “They” meaning who?

A. Jordie and Michael --

Q. Okay.

A. -- and Lily and I. It was around 11 p.m. at night, and I got a call from somebody at Cirque du Soleil saying, “Where is Michael?” And I said, “He should be there with my son.” They said, “He’s not here.”

A little while later, another call, he still didn’t show up. They still did not show up. And I -- there’s a knock on the door and it’s Michael and Jordan, and they came back into the suite.

Michael --

Q. Now, let me stop you right there, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. About what time is it when your son Jordan and the defendant in this case, Mr. Jackson, showed up?

A. Well, I think the performance started at 11:00, and I would say Jordan and Michael showed up around 11:30.

Q. Now, could you describe for the jury Mr. Jackson’s demeanor at the time that they came back to the room?

A. He was sobbing. He was crying, shaking, trembling.

Q. Michael Jackson was?

A. He was.

Q. And what about your son’s demeanor?

A. He was quiet.

Q. Now, at that point in time, did Mr. Jackson tell you why he was upset or crying?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Tell the jury what he said.

A. He said, “You don’t trust me? We’re a family. Why are you doing this? Why are you not allowing Jordie to be with me?” And I said, “He is with you.” He said, “But my bedroom. Why not in my bedroom? We fall asleep, the kids have fun. Boys” --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; narrative.

THE COURT: Narrative; sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Tell us what - Mr. Jackson said that he wanted your son to sleep with him in his bed - what you said to Mr. Jackson.

A. What I said to Michael was, “This is not” -- “This is not anything that I want. This is not right. Jordie should be able to do what he wants to do. He should be able to fall asleep where he wants to sleep.”

Q. Is this you talking or Mr. Jackson speaking?

A. I was saying this. And Michael was trembling and saying, “We’re a family. Jordie is having fun. Why can’t he sleep in my bed? There’s nothing wrong. There’s nothing going on. Don’t you trust me?”

Q. All right. How long do you think this conversation lasted between you and Mr. Jackson over where Jordan was going to sleep that night?

A. I would say 20 to 30, 40 minutes.

Q. So it was a back-and-forth conversation; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall how many times during that conversation that Mr. Jackson emphasized the fact that you didn’t trust him?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: No, I don’t recall how many times --

THE COURT: Just a moment.

THE WITNESS: I’m sorry.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Go ahead. You may answer.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Go ahead.

A. I don’t recall how many times.

Q. Was it on more than one occasion?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. Was it on many occasions?

A. Quite a few.

Q. Do you remember how many times during the conversation that Mr. Jackson emphasized to you that you were family?

A. Many times.

Q. Did you at some point in time relent and allow your son to sleep with Michael Jackson in his bedroom?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was it after that discussion on that night?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the first occasion?

A. Correct.

Q. When you were in Las Vegas, do you remember how many of the nights in Las Vegas that your son Jordan slept with the defendant, Michael Jackson, in Michael Jackson’s room?

A. I would say two occasions.

Q. Now, at some point in time after you had agreed to let your son Jordan sleep with Mr. Jackson, were you the recipient of a gift from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Would you describe that to the jury?

A. It was a gold bracelet, and it was given to me by Michael.

Q. And you say “a gold bracelet.” Had you seen that gold bracelet in a shop of some kind before?

A. I had seen it before, yes.

Q. And the brand name on that bracelet?

A. Cartier.

Q. Was it expensive, to your knowledge?

A. Oh, I -- yes, it was.

Q. When was it you received this gift in relationship to having agreed to allow your son to sleep in bed with Mr. Jackson?

A. I think it was the next evening when we were attending a show, a magic show, by David Copperfield.

Q. Mrs. Chandler, do you recall after Las Vegas where you went, where you personally and Jordan went? When you came back from Vegas, where did you go; do you recall?

A. After Vegas, I -- it could be back to Disneyland, back to Neverland, or home. I’m not exactly certain.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson with you wherever it was that you went? Did he go back with you, in other words?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And did Mr. Jackson continue to spend his nights with your son in the same room, in the same bed, from Las Vegas, from that point on?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there other visits to Neverland Valley Ranch after you came back from Las Vegas?

A. Yes, there were.

Q. And were there occasions when your son went up to the ranch where you and Lily did not accompany him to the ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember on how many such occasions?

A. I would say two or three times.

Q. And were there occasions also where you and Lily and Jordan also went up to the ranch after Las Vegas?

A. Yes.

Q. And on those occasions when you went up to the ranch after Las Vegas, where did you stay?

A. I stayed in the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Lily stay?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Jordan stay?

A. In Michael Jackson's bedroom.

Q. Were there ever any occasions that you recall where you actually, when you got to the ranch, that you would take Jordan's suitcase in and take it into Mr. Jackson's bedroom and leave it there?

A. Possibly.

Q. So you knew that he was going to be spending the night with Michael Jackson in Michael Jackson's bedroom at this point in time?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, were there occasions after you got back from Las Vegas -- let me -- where Mr. Jackson actually was invited to stay at your residence where you lived at this point in time?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, what city was it that you lived in at this time?

A. Santa Monica.

Q. We're talking about 1993, in the spring, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Where did you live?

A. Santa Monica.

Q. And at this point in time, was Mr. Schwartz living with you?
A. No, he wasn’t.
Q. So in the household was there anybody besides you and Jordan and Lily?
A. My housekeeper.
Q. And was that a full-time housekeeper?
A. Yes, she was.
Q. 24 hours a day?
A. Yes.
Q. Did she live in the house?
A. Yes, she did. She was a live-in.
Q. That’s what I meant. Sorry. Clumsy question.
And during this time, did Mr. Jackson ever spend the night at your residence?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And do you recall on how many occasions Mr. Jackson spent the night at your residence?
A. I would say more than 30 times.
Q. And were some of those occasions on consecutive days or nights?
A. Yes.
Q. And how long consecutively do you think that that occurred?
A. Oh. It could be a week or two at a time.
Q. Where did Mr. Jackson stay in the house?
A. In Jordan’s bedroom.

Q. Are there more than one bed in that room?
A. No.
Q. I am assuming that Jordan was going to school during this period of time.
A. He was.
Q. So Mr. Jackson would spend the night there. What would happen when Jordan would go to school? To your knowledge, what did Mr. Jackson do?
A. Michael would leave.
Q. And approximately what time would he return?
A. After Jordan came home from school.
Q. And so was this the routine that was followed during the time that Mr. Jackson was staying at your residence?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever -- have you ever been to Disney World --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in Orlando, Florida?

A. Yes.

Q. And have you been to Disney World with the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember approximately when it was that you went to Disney World with Mr. Jackson?

A. I would say in May.

Q. Of ‘93?

A. Of ‘93.

Q. And when you went to Disney World with Mr. Jackson, who else went with you?

A. Jordan and Lily.

Q. Do you recall where you stayed?

A. I recall The Grand Floridian was one hotel.

Q. And during the time that -- do you remember how many days -- did you go there on more than one occasion?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. How many occasions?

A. Twice.

Q. And do you recall what the sleeping arrangements were on the first occasion?

A. Jordie was with Michael and Lily was with me.

Q. And when you say “with Michael” --

A. In Michael’s bedroom.

Q. Now, during the time that you visited Disney World in Orlando, would you describe the nature of the relationship that was going on, that you observed personally, between the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson, and your son Jordan?

A. The behavior, you say?

Q. Yeah.

A. The behavior with my son was he was not wanting to be with Lily and I anymore, and he was just with Michael the whole time, and he wasn’t too happy. Just -- well, I couldn’t -- I didn’t have any communication with him really.

Q. Was this something that you observed for the first time in Orlando or was this something that you began to observe over a period of time?

A. It was a period of time, and it gradually happened.

Q. Did you notice any change in your son --

A. Yes.

Q. -- Jordan?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the nature of the change?

A. Well, he started dressing like Michael. He started acting withdrawn, sort of smart-alecky. Not as sweet as he normally was. And withdrawn. He just didn’t want to be with us, Lily and I.

Q. Had you always been close prior to that?

A. Extremely close.

Q. Do you -- I think you answered this, but just in case, how many days did you think you were in Florida?

A. Oh, I don’t really remember, but it’s probably more than two nights. Two, three nights.

Q. And after you came back from Florida, do you recall where you went?

A. After that, I think the next trip was to Monaco.

Q. In between the time that you went to Florida and to Monaco, do you recall where you were -- where you were personally staying?

A. No. I guess home.

Q. Do you remember how much time elapsed between the two trips?

A. Not really, no.

Q. Was it more than a month, more than a week? Obviously it was more than a day or so.

A. Yes. It was a couple -- it could be three weeks.

Q. And during that time when you got back from Florida till the time that you left for Monaco, were you with Mr. Jackson?

A. At times.

Q. And the times that you were with Mr. Jackson, was Jordan with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And when he’s with Mr. Jackson, where did he sleep?

A. With Mr. Jackson.

Q. Do you know somebody by the name of Joy Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know somebody by the name of Wade Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall where it was that you met Joy Robeson?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Where was that?

A. That was at Neverland, one of the visits.

Q. Do you recall when it was that you met Wade Robeson?

A. One of the visits to Neverland.

Q. And do you recall approximately which visit it would have been or what month it would have been that you met these individuals?

A. It could have been my third visit to Neverland.

Q. Did you meet them on more than one occasion?

A. I met Wade on more than one occasion, yes.

Q. And how many times did you meet Joy Robeson?

A. One.

Q. One occasion?

A. That I remember.

Q. There were occasions when Wade Robeson was there that the mother was not there?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, you’ve indicated to the jury on at least one occasion, perhaps two, that Brett Barnes was also at Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Yes, he was there too.

Q. And did you ever meet Brett Barnes’ mother?

A. No.

Q. So he was at the ranch by himself also?

A. Oh, yes. Yes, he was.

Q. Did you ever meet a Mr. Robeson, the father?

A. No. No, not that I remember.

Q. Did you ever meet a Mr. Barnes at any point?

A. Not that I remember, no.

Q. So no fathers in the picture?

A. No.

Q. Now, prior to the time that you met Joe Robeson for the first time - okay? --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on your visit to Neverland Valley Ranch, did you have a discussion with the defendant in this case, Mr. Jackson, with regard to some warnings that Mr. Jackson gave you about Joy Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. What did Mr. Jackson tell you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance.

MR. SNEDDON: I think it's an admission of Mr. Jackson with regard to the relationship with the boys.

MR. MESEREAU: Relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: I'm not sure what you're trying to introduce. I'm searching my memory for that. I don't know, maybe you should approach with counsel.

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you, Your Honor.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Mrs. Chandler?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you had a conversation with Mr. Jackson, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, at the time -- and please do not tell us what was said, but did you subsequently have a conversation with Miss Robeson --

A. Yes, I did.

Q. -- wade's mother?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Now, after that conversation, did you develop any concerns about some of the things that she had told you?

A. I --

Q. I think you have to answer that “yes” or “no.” We don’t want to get into what she said.

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to that particular conversation, let me ask you this: Had you been invited by the defendant in this case, Mr. Jackson, to go on a tour with him, you and Jordan?

A. Yes.

Q. And where were you invited by Mr. Jackson to go on a tour?

A. I don’t know where the tour was going. I guess a world tour somewhere in the summertime.

Q. Do you know where Miss Robeson, Mrs. Robeson, was from, what country?

A. Australia.

Q. Do you know whether one of the stops on that tour was going to be Australia?

A. I think it was, yes.

Q. Okay. Let’s talk a little bit about your trip to France.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall approximately when that was?

A. I think the middle of May.

Q. And how did you get there?

A. We flew.

Q. And was it on a charter or a commercial airline?

A. Commercial airline.

Q. And you say “we,” so could you tell us who it was that you went with?

A. My daughter, my son and Michael.

Q. And when you got to France, where in France did you stay?

A. Monaco.

Q. And how long were you in Monaco?

A. Approximately four days.

Q. And during the time that you were there, where did your son Jordan sleep?

A. In Michael Jackson’s bedroom.

Q. Now, did you ever go into that bedroom?

A. Yes.
Q. And were they in bed together on occasion?
A. On occasion, yes.
Q. Now, during the time that you were in Monaco, did you do any shopping?

A. Yes.
Q. And how was it that you -- well, let me put it this way: Who went shopping with you?
A. My daughter.
Q. You and Lily?
A. Yes.
Q. And how many days did you do that?
A. Oh. One day.
Q. And who was paying for the --
A. Michael was.
Q. I'm sorry?
A. Michael was.
Q. And how did he arrange that?
A. I think I was given a credit card, his credit card.
Q. So you went shopping in Monaco on Michael Jackson's credit card, you and your daughter?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, during this trip, did either your son or Mr. Jackson get ill?
A. Yes, they both did.
Q. They had the flu?
A. Yes.
Q. And were they in the room together the entire time?
A. Yes.
Q. And when you went to France, did you go to any other country, any other places in France, other than Monte Carlo?

A. We also went to Euro Disney outside of Paris.
Q. And do you recall how long you were there?
A. A couple of days.
Q. Again, when you say "we," you're talking about Jordan and Lily, and was the defendant with you?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And you say you spent a couple of days. Where did Jordan sleep?

A. With Michael Jackson.

Q. Now, do you have a brother?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. What’s your brother’s name?

A. I have two brothers.

Q. What are their names?

A. Steven Wong and Dale Wong.

Q. And was there a time when one of your brothers -- where do they live? Let’s go that way.

A. One lives in Los Angeles. And the other lives back east in New Jersey.

Q. And was there a time when you went back east for a family wedding?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember about what month that was?

A. That was in September.

Q. And do you recall who it was who was getting married?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. That was my brother Steve and his wife.

Q. And when you went back for the wedding, what city did you go to?

A. We went to New York City.

Q. And when you went back there, who went with you?

A. My son, my daughter, and myself.

Q. And when you first got there, where did you stay?

A. We stayed in a hotel.

Q. Do you remember the name of the hotel?

A. Yes, The Rega Royal Hotel.

Q. And do you know who made the arrangements for that hotel?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Who was that?

A. Norma Stakos.

Q. And do you know who Mrs. Stakos is? Had you had prior dealings with Mrs. Stakos?

A. Yes.
Q. On a number of occasions?
A. Telephone conversations only.
Q. And who did she work for?
A. She worked for Michael Jackson.
Q. And so she made the reservations for you at the hotel?

A. Yes.
Q. When did you learn that Mr. Jackson was going to be with you in New York? Before or after you left?
A. Before.
Q. Do you remember how many days before you learned that?
A. Not really, no. I don’t remember.
Q. On the day of the actual wedding, was Mr. Jackson there?
A. No, he was not.
Q. When did he show up in relationship to the wedding?
A. After the wedding.
Q. Do you remember how many days he showed up, how many days later?
A. It could be two days later.
Q. Now, when Mr. Jackson got there, did you see him?
A. That evening briefly.
Q. Okay. Now, had something happened during the time that you were in New York with your son Jordan before Mr. Jackson arrived which caused some problems in the family?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading and vague.
THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What was it?
A. Jordan was spending too much time with Michael. I was getting upset. My brother was also with me, and he was saying --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Don’t tell us what he said, but --

A. Okay.

Q. -- could you describe his demeanor to us?

A. Jordan was not with us. He didn’t want to be with us. He was very -- he was sullen.

Q. Now, during this time, Mr. Jackson was not there, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, from your own personal knowledge, were Mr. Jackson and your son Jordan in communication with each other during this period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. By what method?

A. Telephone.

Q. And the frequency?

A. Often. Often. Long conversations.

Q. And was your brother upset by the situation, too?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Could you describe to the -- describe your brother’s reaction to this situation that was -- that existed between Mr. Jackson and your son Jordan.

A. Yes. My brother was happy for Jordan, but he didn’t like that Jordie was just spending time with Michael and not with his family.

Q. Now, when Mr. Jackson showed up in New York, do you recall where he was staying?

A. Yes, he was staying across the hallway from my room.

Q. And when Michael Jackson showed up, where did Jordan sleep?

A. When Michael Jackson showed up, he slept in Michael’s room.

Q. Now, when Mr. Jackson showed up the first night, was there an incident that occurred in your room?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE WITNESS: My room?
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Yeah.
A. Yes, there was an incident.
MR. SNEDDON: You have to wait till the Judge rules.

THE COURT: Overruled.
You can answer.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Okay, you can answer now.
A. Yes, there was an incident.
Q. Who was involved in the incident?
A. My daughter Lily --
Q. Okay.
A. -- Michael and Jordan.
Q. And when you got back to your particular room, did you notice any damage in the room?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And what was damaged?
A. I noticed there was damage in the morning.
There were two lamps that were broken.
Q. Now, did you at some point talk to Mr. Jackson about what had happened the night before?
A. Yes.
Q. And with regard to that conversation, did it involve Jordan?
A. Yes, it did.
Q. And did it involve you?
A. Yes, it did.
Q. And did it involve Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, it did.
Q. And the relationship between the two or three of you?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you tell the jury what the conversation was about?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, this involves the defendant and it involves statements that he makes.

THE COURT: But that’s not the question you asked. I’ll sustain the objection.

Excuse me. Sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Let’s do it this way. What did Mr. Jackson say about the situation?

A. “Why can’t we be a family? Why are you objecting to Jordie staying with me? Why can’t we be a family? Why don’t you trust me?”

He was upset that I wanted my son back; that I -- I didn’t like the situation. It was getting out of hand.

Q. Now, you’ve told the ladies and gentlemen of the jury that Mr. Jackson had given you a bracelet at one point in time and that you had gone shopping with Mr. Jackson on his credit card in Monte Carlo.

Were there any other occasions when Mr. Jackson gave you gifts?

A. Yes.

Q. What else did he give you?

A. He also gave me jewelry.

Q. And do you recall approximately when that was?

A. I think it was approximately in June.

Q. And what kind of jewelry?

A. A pair of earrings, a necklace, and a ring.

Q. And where were these items when you first saw them?

A. The boxes were open on my bed in Santa Monica.

Q. At your house?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson staying at your house at that point in time?

A. Not really. Not really. He was there, in and out.

Q. In and out. Okay. Any other gifts you ever received from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, a gift certificate to a store.

Q. And the store?

A. To a store.
Q. Yes. The store?
A. Fred Segal.
Q. Now, to your knowledge, was there ever an occasion where your son Jordan and the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson, were at your ex-husband’s house, Evan Chandler?
A. Yes. Yes.
Q. And do you remember on how many occasions?
A. I would say one or two occasions.
Q. And do you remember the length of the stays on those occasions that Jordan stayed there?

A. A few days each time.
Q. So during this period of time you had custody of Jordan, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, you told us, I think, that there were two trips to Florida?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember when the second trip was?
A. After June. July, early July possibly.
Q. And do you recall how long you stayed there on that occasion?
A. I would say two or three nights.
Q. And where did Jordan sleep on those occasions?
A. With Michael.
Q. Did Lily go with you on that trip?
A. Yes, she did.
Q. Had Jordan’s behavior or attitude changed in any respect since the first time you described his change from Florida, the first trip?
A. It was the same. Same.
Q. Father’s Day is in June, okay?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember a situation where you were with Jordan, your son, on Father’s Day?
A. Yes.
Q. In 1993?

A. Yes.

Q. I'm sure you were with him on other occasions. Do you recall where you were in 1993 on Father's Day?
A. Yes, I was in New York.
Q. And to your knowledge, in your presence, did Jordan call his father on Father's Day?
A. Eventually he did, yes.
Q. And initially, did you have a conversation with him?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did he want to call his father?
A. No, he didn't.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; move to strike.
THE COURT: Sustained. Stricken.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of the conversation that you had with your son Jordan, did he eventually call his father?
A. I think he did, yes.
Q. All right. At some point in time, did you receive a message of some sort from your ex-husband Evan about Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. And don't tell us what was said, okay? I just want to get the facts and the background to it. Where were you when you first heard the message?
A. In Michael Jackson's car. In his limo.

Q. And was Mr. Jackson with you?
A. Not when I got that call.
Q. Did the call come directly to you or did you access it in some other fashion?
A. From another fashion.
Q. How was that?
A. Answering machine. I dialed in.
Q. So you dialed the answering machine on whose answering machine?
A. My answering machine at home.
Q. And there was a message on the machine from your ex-husband Evan, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you at some point later play that message for Mr. Jackson?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Are you familiar with a person by the name of Anthony Pellicano?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And who is Anthony Pellicano, to your knowledge?

A. A private investigator.

Q. And was Mr. Pellicano introduced to you by somebody?

A. By Bert Fields and Michael Jackson.

Q. In relationship to this voice message that you received on your message machine at your house, do you recall how many days after that particular message, you received that message, that you were introduced to Mr. Pellicano and Mr. Fields by Mr. Jackson?

A. It could be a week later.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; misstates the evidence; and no foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained, stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you meet Anthony Pellicano through the defendant, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, “Yes.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you meet Bert Fields through the defendant, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you present during conversations with Mr. Pellicano and Mr. Fields and Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And this all occurred after the voice mail had been left on your message machine by your ex-husband Evan Chandler?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did the defendant, Michael Jackson, tell you who Anthony Pellicano was?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did he say about Mr. Pellicano?

A. “He can find out anything. He’s really good at this. He’s really good at investigating. If you’re having a problem, he’ll get to the bottom of it.”

Q. And Mr. Fields, Bert Fields, is what -- you know him by name. What occupation is he?

A. He’s an attorney.

Q. And he’s an attorney who works for who? Or at this point in time, who did you know he was working for?

A. He worked for Michael Jackson.

Q. Now, at some point in time, did you go to Mr. Pellicano’s office to be interviewed by Mr. Pellicano?

A. Yes.

Q. And did somebody go with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. My ex-husband, Dave Schwartz.

Q. And was there anybody else present during this conversation?

A. I don’t remember. It could be Bert Fields also.

Q. Now, after that conversation, did you go somewhere else? Do you recall where you went?

A. To Michael Jackson’s home in Century City, apartment in Century City.

Q. And was Mr. Jackson there?

A. He might have been.

Q. At that particular location, was your son Jordan Chandler there, can you tell us?

A. Yes, he might have been there, too.

Q. Do you recall whether or not or do you recall an incident -- doesn’t have to be on that particular occasion, but do you recall an occasion whether or not your son Jordan Chandler was ever interviewed by Anthony Pellicano?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Where did that interview take place?

A. In the Century City apartment.

Q. Were you present?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you present during the conversation?
A. No.
Q. Where were you?
A. Upstairs or in his -- somewhere else.
Q. And do you recall how long that conversation took?
A. Could have been 45 minutes.
Q. Now, after Mr. Pellicano and Mr. Fields were introduced to you by Michael Jackson, were you involved in some issues involving a change in custody of your son Jordan?
A. Yes.
Q. And were you -- were you presented with some papers to sign?
A. Yes, I was.

Q. And those papers did what?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; relevance.
THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: The papers were presented to you by whom?
A. By Pellicano.
Q. And was Mr. Fields present?
A. I don’t think at that time.
Q. Do you recall if the defendant, Michael Jackson, was present?
A. No, he wasn’t.
Q. At some point in time did you have a conversation with Michael Jackson about signing those papers?
A. I don’t recall talking to Michael about the papers.
Q. Do you recall giving a statement to an attorney, a Deputy District Attorney with the Los Angeles District Attorney’s Office on September 3rd of 1993?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. And it was Miss Lauren Weis?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. And you gave a rather lengthy statement to Miss Weis?
A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you recall telling Miss Weis that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; hearsay; move to strike.
MR. SNEDDON: It’s foundational, or to refresh her recollection.
THE COURT: If you want to refresh her recollection with something, you can approach her and show the item.
MR. SNEDDON: All right. Counsel, page 95, lines 15 to 19.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation, Your Honor.
THE COURT: You have to ask her if it will help refresh her recollection, or it might.
MR. SNEDDON: Can I show it to her first? That’s the way counsel’s been doing it.
MR. MESEREAU: No, I haven’t at all.
THE COURT: Actually, he’s been asking them if it would refresh their recollection if he showed them something.
MR. SNEDDON: All right.
Q. Do you recall that conversation?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. And -- and it occurred at a point in time when things were a lot fresher in your mind than they are now?
A. Yes.
Q. Would it help, perhaps, if you looked at the statement, that it might help refresh your recollection?

A. Yes.
MR. SNEDDON: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Just read it to yourself. Start here and right down to here. How’s that? Counsel, I’m having her read lines 11 to line 25.
MR. MESEREAU: I’m going to object to that. That’s improper refreshing of recollection and it’s hearsay, foundational, to have her just read it.

MR. SNEDDON: That’s all I’m asking her to do. I’m just trying to help you try to find out where it is.

THE COURT: All right. Just let her look at it. Counsel knows you can refresh a person’s recollection with anything.

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, I thought she was reading it out loud. That was my mistake. I withdraw the objection.

THE COURT: That would have been improper.

MR. SNEDDON: We’ve been down that road before.

THE COURT: All right, I’m sorry. Did we -- where are we?

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: I know where we are.

THE COURT: Is it break time yet? No.

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: I’m sorry, Judge. You’re going to have to suffer for six more minutes and you’re not getting out of here a minute early. Payback is you-know-what.

Q. All right. Mrs. Chandler, with regard to whether or not the defendant was present, did that refresh your recollection?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And do you recall whether the defendant was present?

A. He was present.

Q. And does it refresh -- did the defendant, Michael Jackson, make statements to you with regard to the particular documents that you were being asked to sign?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And do you recall what he told you?

A. He was frantic. He was begging me to, “Come over and sign this so there won’t be any lawsuits or anything. Just sign it, sign it.”

Q. And, in effect, what you signed did what to you personally?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay;

foundation.
MR. SNEDDON: Let me go back, Judge. I think I can correct this.

Q. I am assuming you read the document before you signed it?
A. Briefly.
Q. And you understood what it meant when you were signing it?
A. Not really.
Q. Okay. You understood -- well, let me ask you this: Did you understand -- if you didn’t understand all of it, you understood some of it, correct?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you understand a part of it that had to do with who was going to have custody for the children temporarily?
A. Exactly, yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: I’m sorry?
A. Yes.
Q. And it wasn’t going to be you anymore?
A. Exactly.
Q. Did you sign that paper?
A. I did.
Q. Mrs. Chandler, I neglected to ask you about one other incident that occurred at Neverland Ranch, okay?
A. Yes.
Q. So pardon me if we can go back in time from where we are presently. And then we’re almost done, okay?

A. Okay.
Q. Do you recall whether there was ever any occasion where your brother and your sister-in-law ever visited Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Yes, I do recall.
Q. Do you know approximately when it was that they visited Neverland Valley Ranch?

A. Approximately May.
Q. And do you know how long they were there?
A. For the day.
Q. Just came up for the day?
A. Yes. For the day.
Q. And do you recall, were you with them while they were at the ranch?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. Was Jordan at the ranch?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Where was Jordan?
A. With Michael.
Q. Now, do you remember about what time it was when you left that day, you personally?
A. Before eight o’clock.
Q. Eight o’clock --
A. P.m.
Q. P.m. Now, do you recall seeing Mr. Jackson and Jordan before you left?

A. Yes.
Q. And where did you see them?
A. They were in Michael Jackson’s bedroom.
Q. And do you recall -- did you go into the bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you go in there with your brother and sister-in-law?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. And when you went into the bedroom, where was Mr. Jackson?
A. In the bedroom with Jordan.
Q. Do you recall where?
A. Could be on the bed.
Q. You don’t remember specifically?
A. Not specifically.
Q. Okay. And Jordan, do you recall where he was?
A. On the bed, too.
Q. Now, at some point in time, Mrs. Chandler, your son Jordan Chandler was involved in a lawsuit, Chandler versus Jackson, a civil lawsuit. Do you recall that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And were you a participant in that lawsuit as a representative of your son?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And who was the lawyer who represented your son during the majority of that litigation?

A. Larry Feldman.

Q. And to your knowledge, was a lawsuit filed on behalf of your son against the defendant, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you assist or help Mr. Feldman in the preparation of that lawsuit?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you support your son during that lawsuit?

A. I did.

Q. Now, as a result of the lawsuit, did your son -- and please -- don’t tell us the amount, please. Did your son receive monetary compensation from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Now, also as a result of that lawsuit, did you receive some monetary compensation?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you ever ask to be compensated in any way as a result of what had happened?

A. No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; and hearsay.

THE COURT: All right. Overruled.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: You did not?

A. No.

Q. And where did the idea for you receiving compensation come from, to your knowledge?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection, to the extent it calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of this lawsuit, did you receive money?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you have to sign something in exchange for that money?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And what did you sign?
A. A disclosure agreement.
Q. And what does that mean?
A. Confidentiality agreement.
THE COURT: All right. Let's take our break.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Mrs. Chandler, I just have a couple of questions.
I want to go back to something we talked about before. You told the jury that the defendant, Michael Jackson, gave you a gift certificate at one point in time?
A. Correct.
Q. And it was to Segal?
A. Fred Segal is a store in Santa Monica.
Q. Okay. And what was the amount of that certificate?

A. $7,000.
Q. Okay. Now, let's just go back and finish up the last part of what we were talking about.
With regard to the lawsuit, you signed some kind of an agreement, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. In exchange for that, you were given some money?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall, based upon what you know, what the agreement was, what it required of you?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What did you give up in return for receiving money?
MR. MESEREAU: Same objection. Hearsay and foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you read the agreement before you signed it?

A. Yes.
Q. And who presented it to you?
A. Larry Feldman.
Q. Did he go over it with you before you signed it?
A. Yes.
Q. And you understood what you were signing?

A. Yes, we did.
Q. And you read the document?
A. Yes.
Q. And what did it require you to do in order to obtain money from the defendant, Mr. Jackson? You personally.
A. We couldn’t --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay and foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Have you ever written any books --
A. Never.
Q. -- about what happened?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Did any interviews?
A. Never.
Q. Made any money selling anything --
A. No.
Q. -- about your experience?
A. No.
MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further.
THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mrs. Chandler, my name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Michael Jackson, okay?

A. Yes.
Q. If anything I ask you is not clear, please don’t answer. Just say you don’t understand it, and I’ll try to rephrase it, okay?

A. Okay.

Q. Now, in response to the prosecutor’s questions, you said you entered into a stipulation regarding custody of your son Jordie, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And in response to the prosecutor’s questions, you said you did it because Michael Jackson told you to do it, right?

A. One of the people. He was one.

Q. Well, do you remember signing a sworn declaration regarding that stipulation?

A. I remember signing something about custody of Jordie.

Q. Do you remember signing a sworn declaration in which you said the only reason you signed the stipulation was because your ex-husband wouldn’t return Jordie to you if you didn’t, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you said further, you thought the stipulation was merely for a one-week visitation period, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Nowhere in that declaration did you say anything about Michael Jackson telling you to sign anything, right?

A. That’s not correct.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at your declaration?

A. I’d be happy to.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Miss Chandler, have you had a chance to look at that sworn declaration?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said in the declaration?

A. Sort of.

Q. Isn’t it true you said the only reason you signed it was because your ex-husband told you that if you didn’t sign the stipulation, you would not have Jordan returned to you, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. You said that was the only reason, correct?

A. That’s not the only reason.

Q. Well, you signed it under penalty of perjury, did you not?

A. I wasn’t asked who else was asking me to sign it.

Q. Who prepared the declaration for you to sign?

A. Evan Chandler’s attorney.

Q. Were you represented by counsel when you signed this declaration?

A. Oooh. I might have been.

Q. You actually were, weren’t you?

A. I -- I don’t recall.

Q. You were represented by counsel because you were trying to set aside the stipulation in court, right?

MR. SNEDDON: Well, Your Honor, I’m going to object to that. That’s misleading as to point and time, and vague.

MR. MESEREAU: It’s not misleading at all.

MR. SNEDDON: Wait a minute, Counsel. Judge, I object as vague as to time as to when she was represented.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll sustain the objection. It’s an argumentative question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Miss Chandler, at some point you hired a lawyer to help you set aside that stipulation, right?

A. I don’t know if that was the reason why an attorney was hired, if it was for that reason.

Q. And your attorney prepared your declaration, true?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall if the stipulation was ever set aside by your attorney?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall being represented by an attorney named Freeman?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And who is Mr. Freeman?

A. He’s an attorney that represented me for a short time.

Q. Do you recall asking Michael Jackson if he would loan David Schwartz four million dollars?

A. Never.

Q. You say you never did that?

A. Never did that.

Q. Okay. Do you recall your ex-husband David Schwartz asking you to do that?

A. Never.

Q. Do you recall him being five million dollars in debt around the time you were associating with Michael Jackson?

A. No.

Q. Don’t recall that at all?

A. Not at all.

Q. Okay. When you sued Michael Jackson, you sued through Larry Feldman, true?

A. I did not sue Michael Jackson. Jordan Chandler and his family were -- that was his family. We did not sue Michael Jackson.

Q. Okay. So you never sued him yourself, you’re saying?

A. I don’t believe that’s how it was worded.

Q. Okay. Do you recall meetings with your attorney about that lawsuit?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Now, you -- you and Jordan’s father Evan were divorced in 1985, true?

A. Correct.

Q. And you obtained sole custody of Jordan, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you had an informal arrangement where Evan could have custody or at least visitation rights of Jordie from time to time, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. What year did you marry David Schwartz?

A. 1985.

Q. Now, is it correct that he became Jordan’s stepfather?

A. Correct.
Q. And for how long was he Jordie’s stepfather?
A. For approximately six to eight years.
Q. What year did he cease to be Jordie’s stepfather?
A. When we divorced.
Q. And what year was that?
A. 1994.
Q. And how old is Jordie now?
A. He is 25 years old.
Q. Can I ask you when you last spoke to him?

A. 11 years ago.
Q. At one point, David Schwartz sued Michael Jackson, correct?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Do you recall him suing Michael Jackson claiming that Michael had interfered with his business?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial; irrelevant; calls for hearsay.
THE WITNESS: I don’t recall.
THE COURT: It’s vague as to time.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I’ll rephrase it, Your Honor.
Q. Around the time you and Evan and Jordie sued Michael Jackson with Attorney Larry Feldman, do you recall your ex-husband, David Schwartz, also suing Michael Jackson?
MR. SNEDDON: Same objection, Your Honor.
THE WITNESS: I don’t recall.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I don’t recall.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Do you recall, in response to your lawsuit, Mr. Jackson suing for extortion?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to that question.
THE COURT: Sustained. Foundation.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You sued Michael Jackson,

right?

A. Jordan Chandler sued Michael Jackson.

Q. Were you listed as a plaintiff?

A. Yes.

Q. And in response to your suit, Mr. Jackson sued for extortion, true?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Were you and Evan and Jordie all represented by Larry Feldman?

A. Yes, we were.

Q. Do you know approximately when that suit settled?

A. I guess in ‘95.

Q. Do you recall Evan suing Mr. Jackson a second time?

A. No.

Q. Don’t know anything about that?

A. Nothing.

Q. Never heard about it?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who Attorney Barry Rothman is?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is Attorney Barry Rothman?

A. He was Evan Chandler’s attorney.

Q. Do you recall Attorney Barry Rothman also suing Michael Jackson?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Okay. Now, during your trips with Michael Jackson, do you recall the name “Sony” ever being mentioned?

A. Yes.

Q. And in what context was Sony mentioned?

A. The gifts that Michael Jackson gave were from Sony. Sony recorders. We flew on the Sony jet. That’s what I remember.

Q. And do you recall, around the time you were associating with Michael Jackson, that Michael Jackson had an endorsement deal with PepsiCo?

A. Yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, that was the most lucrative endorsement deal anyone in the music business had ever entered into with PepsiCo, correct?

A. I didn’t know that.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, that’s immaterial and irrelevant.

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you recall learning from Michael Jackson that he owned an interest in The Beatles’ catalog?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you discuss that with Mr. Jackson?

A. Never.

Q. Did you discuss his deal with PepsiCo with Mr. Jackson?

A. No.

Q. When you filed your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, your attorney was threatening to ruin Mr. Jackson’s music deals, correct?

A. No. Not that I recall.

Q. You don’t recall that at all?

A. Not at all.

Q. Do you recall participating in settlement negotiations?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you participated in settlement negotiations, where did you used to meet?

A. Larry Feldman’s offices.

Q. When did you last talk to Larry Feldman?

A. Oh, a few days ago.

Q. Did you talk about what you were going to say in court?

A. No.

Q. Did you talk about what he said in court?

A. Briefly.

Q. Did he call you or did you call him?

A. I called him.

Q. Before this discussion a few days ago, when was the last time before that you had spoken to Larry Feldman?

A. Oh, um, maybe two months before that.

Q. And did you talk to him about this case in that discussion?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you talk to him about what you were going to say?
A. No.
Q. Did you call him or did he call you?
A. I called him.
Q. Did you talk on the phone with him or did you meet with him?
A. Yes, talk on the phone.
Q. Before that discussion, when had you last spoken to Attorney Larry Feldman?
A. Perhaps ten years ago.
Q. Okay. But you never discussed anything about this case in those discussions, right?
A. No.
Q. And you never talked about what you were going to be asked in this courtroom in any of those discussions, right?
A. Not to that effect, no.
Q. Did Mr. Feldman tell you he represents the Arvizos in either of those discussions?
A. I don't know what that is.
Q. Okay. So he never talked about his representing anyone associated with this case, besides you, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, you said something in response to the prosecutor's questions about your son changing the way he dressed at one point, right?

A. Correct.
Q. Didn't your son used to try and dress like Michael Jackson before he even met him?
A. When he was very young.
Q. Did you meet with the prosecutor before you testified today?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you meet with the prosecutor to talk about anything you said today?
A. Two days ago.
Q. And where was that meeting?
A. In downtown L.A.

Q. And who did you meet with?
A. With my attorney.
Q. And who is your attorney?
A. Brad Barnholtz.
Q. Who else did you meet with?
A. Tom Sneddon.
Q. Okay. How long a discussion was that?
A. Oh, perhaps an hour and a half.
Q. Did you talk about what you were going to say today?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Mr. Sneddon go over some questions that he was going to ask you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever go over some answers that you were going to give?

A. Yes.
Q. When had you met with Mr. Sneddon before that meeting?
A. Never.
Q. Have you talked to him on the phone?
A. Yes.
Q. How many times?
A. Once or twice.
Q. Okay. Now, where did you first meet Michael Jackson?
A. At Rent-A-Wreck. The business of my ex-husband.
Q. And that was the day that Mr. Jackson had a problem with his car, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And when did you see him after that initial meeting?
A. I guess maybe approximately a few months after that.
Q. The first meeting was approximately August ‘92, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Okay. And when do you think the next meeting was?
A. Perhaps maybe in February.
Q. Okay. And again, how did that meeting happen? Who called who?

A. How did the meeting --

Q. The second meeting. The first time you saw him when he had a problem with his car, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And then there was a meeting after that?

A. Right.

Q. How did that happen?

A. Through phone conversations with my son. And he -- and Michael Jackson invited us to Neverland.

Q. Okay. How did you get to Neverland?

A. By car. By my car. I drove.

Q. Okay. And did you stay over at Neverland that first time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How long did you stay?

A. I would say for two nights. One or two nights.

Q. Okay. And your daughter was there as well, right?

A. Yes, she was.

Q. Okay. And you said that you, your daughter, your son, stayed in the guesthouses, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, what did you do during the day during that visit, during the two days you were there?

A. We watched movies. We went on rides. We visited his zoo. Things like that.

Q. Okay. And how did you get home? Did you drive?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When did you next talk to Michael Jackson after that?

A. Oh, I think probably the day after we got back.

Q. Did he call you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did you talk to him?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you get together again?

A. Perhaps a week later. A week or two later.

Q. Did you go to Neverland again?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. How did you get there?

A. He drove. His -- sorry, his chauffeur drove.

Q. Okay. And did you stay over --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on that second trip?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long was your stay over there?

A. A couple of nights.

Q. Okay. Do you remember what you did on that second trip?

A. Same thing.

Q. Okay. Did you see Michael very often on the first trip?

A. The whole time, yes.

Q. Did you see him --

A. Yes.

Q. -- very often on the second trip?

A. Yes.

Q. When you said you went to the zoo and did these fun things, was Michael always with you?

A. The first and second time?

Q. Yes.

A. Basically, yes.

Q. Okay. Did you have dinner in the main house with Michael?

A. Yes.

Q. And of course your children were there too, right?

A. Correct.

Q. After that second trip, when did you next have contact with Michael, if you remember?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object to the use of the first name.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MESEREAU: I'll say "Michael Jackson," Your Honor.

Q. After your second visit to Neverland, did you have further contact with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And please explain what your next contact was all about.

A. I don't know if that was the time we again went to Neverland or we had taken a trip to Las Vegas.

Q. Now, in your discussion with the Los Angeles District Attorney in 1993, you talked about your visits with Mr. Jackson, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Have you looked at that transcript recently?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you last look at the transcript?

A. Briefly, today.

Q. And how did you get a copy of it?

A. Through Mr. Sneddon.

Q. Okay. Did he ask you to read it today?

A. Did he ask me to read it today?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did he ask you to read it at any time?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And when was that?

A. Last week.

Q. Did he give you anything else to read before you testified?

A. That's it.

Q. Okay. And did you read it from cover to cover?

A. Tried.

Q. Pardon me?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Okay. You told the District Attorney in Los Angeles when describing your first trip there, "Michael Jackson wasn't the superstar. He was a regular person, and we couldn't believe how nice he was," right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you said that after you got there, he offered to let you stay over, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Your plan initially wasn’t to stay over, right?

A. Correct.

Q. You said that first night, Jordie actually knocked at your door and said he was going to stay with you, right?

A. Correct.

Q. So the first night he stayed with you and your daughter, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Now, when did you go to Toys-R-Us with Michael Jackson?

A. Could have been the first visit or the second visit.

Q. Okay. And did Michael Jackson offer to take you there?

A. Yes.

Q. And he did take you there, right?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he drive or did you have a driver take you there, do you know?

A. We must have had a driver.

Q. Okay. Now, at one time, did you visit Roy Disney’s widow with Michael?

A. Never.

Q. Okay. At some point you told the Los Angeles District Attorney that Michael was visiting Roy Disney’s widow in Beverly Hills; do you remember that?

A. Not really, but I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall telling that to the Los Angeles District Attorney?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to let you see that page?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the Los Angeles District Attorney?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you tell them about that?

A. I said that I was -- we had left and Michael was -- I had left Neverland with Jordie and Lily, and he was going to visit Roy Disney’s widow.

Q. Okay. Now, was that while you were visiting Neverland?

A. After we left.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as to vague as to time as to what visit.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase it.

Q. During what visit did Michael Jackson tell you he had to visit Roy Disney’s widow?

A. The first visit.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as to hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Was it the first visit?

A. I think so.

Q. Do you recall if you and your family stayed at Neverland while Mr. Jackson left the premises?

A. I don’t recall that.

Q. Okay. Do you recall him making a trip like that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You talked about gifts that Mr. Jackson gave you, okay?

A. Okay.

Q. Did you ever ask for any of those gifts?

A. No.

Q. Did he just give them to you on his own initiative as far as you’re concerned?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Tell us all the gifts you recall him giving you.

A. A gold bracelet. A pair of earrings. A necklace. A ring. A gift certificate to a boutique. That's what I recall.

Q. Okay. And you said he gave you his credit card to use?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he do that more than once?
A. He might have, yes.
Q. And do you recall what you bought with Michael Jackson's credit card?
A. I know I -- I think two handbags.
Q. Anything else?
A. Not that I recall, no.
Q. Okay. How many nights do you recall Mr. Jackson staying at your house?
A. To the best of my recollection, 30 nights.
Q. And approximately what time period was that, if you know?
A. Beginning the middle of April till the end of May.
Q. Were you at your house on every evening that Michael Jackson stayed over?
A. Yes.

Q. You said something to the effect, I believe, that Mr. Jackson would leave during the day?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you know where he went?
A. Not really. I --
Q. Did you ever ask him?
A. Sometimes.
Q. Okay. And where did he tell you he was going?
A. Going home.
Q. To Neverland?
A. Working. No, not to Neverland. I think his hideout, to his place that he calls "The Hideout" in Century City.
Q. That's the place you visited, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How many times were you at that apartment?
A. Approximately three or four times.
Q. Okay. When you went to the apartment that you've described as Michael Jackson's hideout, were you always with your son?

A. Yes.
Q. Were you ever with anyone else?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Okay. You indicated you met someone named Brett Barnes at Neverland, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you know when you first met him?

A. It could have been the second time that we were going to Neverland.
Q. And he was actually in the limousine that Michael Jackson sent to pick you up, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Was that the first time you had met him?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Was that the trip you went to Disneyland?
A. It could be, yes.
Q. And was Brett Barnes with you on that trip?
A. I would assume so. I’m -- I don’t recall.
Q. Do you know if his mother was there on that trip?
A. No.
Q. So it was you, Michael Jackson, your two children, and Brett, right?
A. Perhaps Brett.
Q. You’re not sure?
A. Exactly.
Q. Did you go back to Neverland after the trip to Disneyland?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Okay. You indicated you met someone named Joy, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And when did you meet someone named Joy?
A. Later on, in -- could be May. April or May.

Q. And where did you meet her?
A. At Neverland.
Q. Okay. Was she staying there when you stayed there?
A. Yes.

Q. And did she have a son, to your knowledge?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. And who was that?

A. Wade.

Q. Okay. How often did you see Joy Robeson and Wade Robeson at Neverland?

A. I remember seeing Joy once. And Wade, I -- it could be a few times. I don't recall.

Q. When you were at Neverland at the same time that they were there, did you associate with them?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And what did you do with them?

A. I had dinner with Joy, where we talked. And with Wade, if we went -- if there was a movie playing, I guess he was with us also.

Q. When Michael Jackson used to stay at your home, were you in the middle of a divorce proceeding?

A. No.

Q. Were you separated?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you used to discuss your problems with David Schwartz with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. You actually had a lot of discussions, didn't you?

A. Not a lot.

Q. You told him it was a poor relationship, didn't you?

A. What was a poor relationship?

Q. Your relationship with David Schwartz.

A. I told whom? I'm sorry.

Q. Michael Jackson.

A. Oh. No. I -- I don't -- I didn't get into my relationship about David Schwartz to Michael.

Q. So you never discussed it with Michael Jackson?

A. I just said that we were separated and these were not wonderful times for us.

Q. And you would discuss with him from time to time the problems you were having, wouldn't you?

A. No. No, I wouldn't.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as irrelevant, Your Honor, not to mention hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “No.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During those 30 nights that Michael Jackson stayed at your house, did he have dinner at your house?

A. Yes.

Q. And was it usually you, he, your son and daughter at dinner?

A. At times.

Q. Who else would join you for dinner?

A. That’s it.

Q. Did you ever have dinner yourself, without your children, just with Michael Jackson?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever traveled with Michael Jackson without your children?

A. No.

Q. When did you go to Las Vegas with Michael Jackson?

A. Around the end of March.

Q. And what was the purpose of that trip?

A. I guess Steve Wynn, the owner of the Mirage Hotel, invited Michael to come and stay and vacation in Las Vegas for a few days.

Q. And did you meet Mr. Wynn while you were there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How long were you in Las Vegas for that trip?

A. Two or three nights.

Q. And again, how did you get there?

A. Steve Wynn’s jet.

Q. And did his jet take you back home afterwards?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. When you went to Las Vegas on Steve Wynn’s jet, had Michael Jackson begun to stay over at your home?

A. No.
Q. Did Michael Jackson begin to stay at your home after that trip to Las Vegas?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, did you travel with Michael Jackson to any other cities in America during this period of time?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did you travel to?
A. To Florida and New York.
Q. Was that Orlando, Florida?
A. Correct.
Q. And when did that trip happen, approximately?
A. Oh, approximately April, I guess.
Q. And what was the purpose of that trip, if you know?
A. To go to Disney World.
Q. Did you do that?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. How long a trip was that?
A. A couple of days.
Q. And then did you come back?
A. Yes.
Q. The rooms in your hotel, describe the rooms, if you would.

A. I don’t remember The Grand Floridian, what the rooms were like.
Q. And did you have your own room?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Michael Jackson have his own room?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did your children have their own room?
A. I’m not sure.
Q. Do you know where your children stayed?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did they stay?
A. Jordie, my son, stayed with Michael, and Lily stayed with me.
Q. And did you ever object, during that trip, to your son staying with Michael?
A. No.

Q. You never suspected anything improper was going on on that trip, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You mentioned some children from New Jersey that you met at Neverland, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And who were they again?

A. Frank and Eddie Cascio.

Q. Okay. And did you ever meet their parents?

A. No.

Q. When did you first see them at Neverland?

A. I don’t recall. Could be the third visit to Neverland. Fourth visit.

Q. When was the first time your son Jordan asked if he could sleep with Michael Jackson?

A. I would say starting the third visit to Neverland, second or third visit to Neverland, because there were always boys around and staying in his bedroom, and why couldn’t he? And that’s when he started asking.

Q. And was it your understanding that there were a lot of kids hanging around Michael Jackson’s bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see --

A. Boys.

Q. Excuse me. Did you see a lot of kids at Neverland while you were there?

A. A lot of Michael’s --

MR. SNEDDON: Excuse me. Object as to vague.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase it. Let’s go through the first trip.

Q. Did you see a lot of kids at Neverland during your first trip?

A. No.

Q. Did you see a lot of kids at Neverland during your second trip?

A. No.

Q. How many other children at Neverland did you see on your first trip?

A. No other kids on the first trip.

Q. How many kids at Neverland did you see on your second trip?

A. One.

Q. How about your third trip?

A. Third -- Frank and Eddie Cascio.

Q. Any other children on the third trip?

A. It could have been Macaulay Culkin also.

Q. Okay. Did you meet Macaulay Culkin at Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Macaulay Culkin doesn’t look at all like your son, does he?

A. No.

Q. Did you meet Macaulay’s parents?

A. Father.

Q. At Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was, you think, the third trip?

A. Could be. Could have been.

Q. Did you ever see him at Neverland again?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you next see Macaulay Culkin at Neverland?

A. Fourth or fifth visit.

Q. Was anyone else from his family there; do you know?

A. His brothers were there.

Q. Okay. Was it your understanding that the Culkins were good friends of Michael Jackson?

A. That Macaulay Culkin was good friends with Michael Jackson.

Q. What about his family? Was it your understanding his family were close friends of Michael Jackson?

A. Not close friends.

Q. Did you really know?

A. It didn’t appear that they were close friends, no.

Q. Do you know if his parents used to visit Neverland?

A. His father used to visit Neverland with Macaulay.
Q. Did you hang out with them when you were at Neverland?
A. Did I hang out with --
Q. The Culkins.
A. No.
Q. Then how would you know whether or not they were close with Michael Jackson?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object as argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you were in Las Vegas with Mr. Jackson, you went to Cirque du Soleil, correct?

A. No, I did not.
Q. Did your son?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did your daughter go as well?
A. To Cirque du Soleil?
Q. Yes.
A. No, she did not.
Q. Did you have any problem at that time letting your son go to Cirque du Soleil with Mr. Jackson?
A. No.
Q. And did your son stay with Mr. Jackson that evening, to your knowledge?
A. To my knowledge, yes.
Q. Okay. You told the prosecutor that Mr. Jackson got upset at one point about your not trusting him, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And he said words to you to the effect that, "We're family," right?
A. Correct.
Q. You suggested that you let Jordie sleep wherever he wants to sleep, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And you told him, "Look, I've had two husbands that I can't trust," right?

A. Correct.

Q. You said, “I think you’re a wonderful person, but I can’t let my trust down,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you described Michael as saying that he was going to take care of you, right?

A. No.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, excuse me, I’m going to object as vague as to point in time of the conversation.

MR. MESEREAU: Sure. Sure.

Q. When was the conversation where Michael got upset because he didn’t think you trusted him?

A. In Las Vegas in the hotel room.

Q. Okay. You said to Michael, “I’ve had males in my life that, you know, have disappointed me. How can I have you in my life and you’re saying that you’re going to take care of us, that you’re so wonderful, everything’s going to be okay, how am I going to do that?”

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to counsel reading from the document.

MR. MESEREAU: I haven’t finished the question yet, Your Honor.

MR. SNEDDON: Well, he’s reading --

THE COURT: Well, all right, what is the question?

MR. MESEREAU: I was going to ask her if she made that statement.

THE COURT: All right. You may.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you make a statement to that effect?

A. Yes.

Q. And Michael said to you he wanted a family to just treat him like a regular person, right?

A. Correct.

Q. He said he didn’t want to be like a stranger, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And he asked you to trust him, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you remember telling the District Attorney in Los Angeles that when you talked to your ex-husband Evan about Michael Jackson’s relationship with your family, that Evan saw this as a wonderful means for Jordie not having to worry for the rest of his life?

A. Would you repeat your question?

Q. Yes. Didn’t you tell the Los Angeles District Attorney that your ex-husband Evan, the father of Jordie, told you that the relationship with Michael was a wonderful means of Jordie not having to worry for the rest of his life?

A. Yes.

Q. And to you, that meant Michael Jackson supporting you financially for the rest of your life, correct?

A. No.

Q. That’s what you thought your ex-husband meant by it, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Calls for speculation.

THE WITNESS: Speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained. Sustained.

(Laughter.)

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Just asking you what you thought, not what your ex-husband thought.

A. Well, I’m speculating also. I would be speculating if I answered.

Q. Well, if someone says to you, “This is a wonderful way not to have to worry for the rest of our life,” doesn’t that suggest that maybe someone is thinking about Michael Jackson supporting you?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object. We just went through this. Calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you go to France and Monaco with Michael Jackson?

A. In May.

Q. Did he invite you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he invite your whole family?

A. Jordan and Lily, yes.

Q. At one point you said that Michael Jackson stayed at your ex-husband's house when Jordan was there, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, was your ex-husband at the house when Michael Jackson stayed there?

A. Yes.

Q. How many days, to your knowledge, did Michael Jackson stay at your ex-husband's house?

A. Approximately four to seven days.

Q. To your knowledge, was that consecutive or were they periodic visits?

A. Consecutive.

Q. And do you recall anything about your ex-husband wanting Michael Jackson to finance a wing on his house?

A. Yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, Michael Jackson never did that, right?

A. No.

Q. Now, at that point in time, Jordan's father Evan was writing a screenplay, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, he was spending a lot of time on that screenplay, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were complaining that he wasn't spending enough time with his son, right?

A. Correct.

Q. At the time you were happy that Michael was around, because Jordan's father was not spending time with him, and you were separated from David, correct?

A. True.

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object as to vague as to what time, time period. We have several months here.

MR. MESEREAU: Well, I can --

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

MR. SNEDDON: Move to strike the answer.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did there come a time when you were happy that Michael Jackson was around, because your ex-husband Evan was spending time writing a screenplay and you were separated from David?

A. Correct.

Q. Approximately what -- when was that?

A. In the beginning I was happy.

Q. Okay. When did Michael go to Cartier and buy you that jewelry?

A. When we went to Las Vegas.

Q. Was he with you when he did that?

A. No.

Q. Did he do it on his own?

A. He did it with Jordie.

Q. Okay. And did he come back and give it to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you described that to the Los Angeles District Attorney as a love bracelet, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that what it was?

A. Yes.

Q. What is a love bracelet?

A. It’s a bracelet that’s a gold bracelet and that’s what it’s called.

Q. Okay. Had you ever told Michael Jackson you liked that kind of jewelry?

A. No.

Q. Were you surprised when he bought it for you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you mentioned that during that trip, you went to the David Copperfield show; is that right?

A. Correct.

Q. And who went to that show?

A. Jordan, Lily and Michael.

Q. Did the four of you have dinner that night together?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Did Michael give you his credit card on that trip?

A. No.

Q. Okay. At some point did you all see an Exorcist movie?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall anyone watching an Exorcist movie?

A. I was told Jordan and Michael watched an Exorcist movie.

Q. All right. Did you ever object to Jordie sleeping in Michael’s room on that trip?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you say?

A. “Jordie, when you come home, go to your bed. Go to your own bed. Come to our bed, not to Michael’s bed.”

He said, “Mom, I want to stay there.” And I was very upset about that.

Q. Now, this was before the approximately 30 nights that he stayed at your home --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in Santa Monica, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you did allow him to stay at your home in Santa Monica, right?

A. Afterwards.

Q. Now, you mentioned in your interview that when Michael Jackson’s not working, he’s a lonely person, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you also mentioned that the Cascios owned a restaurant, true?

A. True.

Q. How did you know they owned a restaurant?

A. I was -- I don’t recall how I knew.

Q. And do you remember telling the District Attorney that Michael would help Jordie with his homework?

A. Correct.

Q. Would he do that at your home?

A. Yes.

Q. You also said he played a lot like a child, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And he seemed to play at Neverland a lot like a child, correct?

A. Yeah, yes.

Q. You mentioned Tommy and Merdie. Do you remember that?

A. Yes.

Q. And who are Tommy and Merdie?

A. Merdie; are my brother and sister-in-law.

Q. Okay. At some point you stayed in Santa Monica with them, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Michael Jackson there?

A. He was there.

Q. Did Michael Jackson stay with you at their home?

A. No.

Q. Did he stay at their home?

A. No.

Q. Did he stay at your home?

A. Not that time, no. Not at that time.

Q. And you stayed in Santa Monica with Tommy and Merdie?

A. Meredith. Merdie.

Q. Merdie, okay. You stayed with them at one point, right?

A. They stayed with me.

Q. Oh, they stayed with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Michael Jackson there that night?

A. I don't recall, no.

Q. Okay. To your knowledge, did Michael Jackson ever meet Tommy and Merdie?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Now, when Michael Jackson was staying at your home in Santa Monica during those 30 days that you mentioned, was Jordan in school?

A. Yes, he was.
Q. Was he going to school each day?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Okay. You mentioned Steve and Jo Ellen. Do you remember that?

A. Do I remember mentioning --
Q. Mentioning Steve and Jo Ellen to the District Attorney?
A. Yes.
Q. Who are Steve and Jo Ellen?
A. Steve is also my brother, and his wife Jo Ellen.
Q. Did they visit you in Santa Monica during the time that Michael Jackson was staying over?
A. No.
Q. You said that they witnessed Michael Jackson and Jordie in the bedroom, didn't they?
A. Correct.
Q. When was that?
A. At Neverland.
Q. Did they stay there?
A. No.
Q. Okay. Did they go into Michael Jackson's bedroom?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. And did you go into Michael Jackson's bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. How many times do you think you went into Michael Jackson's bedroom at Neverland?
A. It stopped after maybe the tenth time.
Q. Okay. Describe, if you would for the jury, what Michael Jackson's bedroom looks like?

A. Lots of dolls. Lots of playthings. It looks like a boy's room, big boy's room. Lots of toys and things.
Q. Is it a big area?
A. Yes.
Q. How big would you describe it as, if you can?

A. Oh, it’s a long time ago.

Q. Was it kind of huge?

A. Well, there’s an upstairs and a downstairs. Yes, it’s kind of huge.

Q. When you used to visit Michael Jackson’s bedroom, would you see other people in there?

A. Yes.

Q. Who do you remember seeing in there?

A. The Cascio brothers. Macaulay. Brett. Wade.

Q. And you saw their parents in there, too, didn’t you?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see Macaulay’s father in there?

A. In the bedroom?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. And why were you in the bedroom those ten times?

A. Because I’m Jordie’s mother. I’m allowed to go into the bedroom.

Q. Were you dropping clothes off?

A. Oh, I might have. I don’t recall.

Q. Did you ever sit down and watch T.V. or anything in there?

A. Yes.

Q. How often did you do that?

A. A few times.

Q. Did you ever have food delivered to you in Michael Jackson’s bedroom?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Did David Schwartz, to your knowledge, ever visit Neverland?

A. No. No.

Q. Okay. When you were in Monaco with Michael Jackson, what did you do?

A. We went to an awards ceremony. We -- well, Jordie and Michael -- Jordie and Michael were sick, so Lily and I went shopping and drove around. We were driven around.

Q. Did Michael Jackson pay for the whole trip?

A. Yes, the trip was paid for. I don’t know who paid for it.

Q. To your knowledge, did Michael Jackson pay for it?

A. No. No. It was an awards. I think he was given tickets to attend this award because he was receiving some kind of --

Q. Who paid for your hotel room, if you know?

A. I don’t know.

Q. Now, you indicated that at one point Jordie and Michael had the flu, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And where did you find out they had the flu?

A. In the hotel room.

Q. And were they staying in the same room at that point?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Did you ever complain about that?

A. Yes.

Q. And what happened?

A. The room was boarded up. I couldn’t get in there. It started to get weird now. Things started to go downhill pretty quickly.

Q. Did you ever take your son and leave on your own?

A. No.

Q. After you got back from Monaco, did Michael Jackson spend nights at your home?

A. Yes.

Q. Were the 30 nights you’ve described after you got back from Monaco?

A. No.

Q. How many nights after you got back from Monaco do you think Michael Jackson stayed at your home?

A. Oh, perhaps a week or two.

Q. And this was a point where you were getting upset that your son wanted to spend all of his time with Michael Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, while you were in Monaco, you never saw Michael Jackson and your son ever take a bath together, right?

A. No.

Q. You never saw them shower together, right?

A. No.

Q. And when did you go to France on that trip?

A. I think that was in May.

Q. And what was the purpose of that trip, if you know?

A. To get an award. He was receiving an award.

Q. Was that after the trip to Monaco or before?

A. I’m sorry?

Q. Was that after the trip to Monaco?

A. What was? What are you asking?

Q. The trip to France you described. Was there a --

A. That is the trip.

Q. That’s the trip?

A. Yes.

Q. It was all in Monaco?

A. Monaco, yes.

Q. Did you ever go anywhere else?

A. We went to Euro Disney also, outside of Paris.

Q. Was the trip to Euro Disney after you were in Monaco for the awards or before it, if you know?

A. To the best of my recollection, it was after the awards.

Q. And how much time did you spend on that portion of the trip?

A. I would say a couple of nights.

Q. Okay. Now, one point you visited Evan, Jordan’s father, at his home when Michael Jackson was there, right?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall seeing Evan and Michael in a squirt-gun-type fight?

A. That was my home, sir.

Q. That was your home?

A. Yes.

Q. So Evan had come to your home at that point?

A. Correct.
Q. Okay. And Evan, Michael and Jordie were in a squirt gun fight, right?
A. Along with his other son Nicky.
Q. Okay. And you got upset a little bit at that, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. How did you learn that Michael Jackson was going to stay over at Evan’s house?

A. Through my son Jordan.
Q. And approximately when did that occur?
A. After the trip to Monaco, I think.
Q. How many visits, to your knowledge, did Michael Jackson make to Evan’s house?
A. To my knowledge -- to the best of my recollection, one or two visits.
Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, did he spend the night there?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. To your knowledge, did Jordan spend the night there?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And to your knowledge, was Evan there both nights?
A. To the best of my knowledge, yes.
Q. Jordan never missed school while Michael Jackson was staying at your home, right?
A. To the best of my recollection, no, he did not miss school.
Q. Okay.
A. There might have been one or two days where he missed, but --
Q. Okay. You said that Michael Jackson saw you in New York at one point?
A. Yes.
Q. And when was that?
A. In June, the middle of June.

Q. Was he staying at the same hotel you were at?
A. He arrived after we were there, yes.

Q. Did you know in advance he was going to be staying at the same hotel?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did you know he was going to be staying at the same hotel as you and your children?

A. His secretary informed me.

Q. Did he pay for those hotel rooms, to your knowledge?

A. I don’t know who paid for the hotel rooms.

Q. Did you?

A. No.

Q. And which hotel was this?

A. The Rega Royal Hotel in New York City.

Q. And how long did you stay at that hotel --

A. Oh, perhaps --

Q. -- on that trip?

A. -- four nights.

Q. Okay. Was Mr. Jackson there during the four nights, to your knowledge?

A. Part -- part of those nights, yes.

Q. Okay. And did you introduce Mr. Jackson to other members of your family on that trip?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Did you mention your brothers were there on that trip?

A. They were in New York, yes.

Q. Okay. Did they come to your hotel; do you know?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Do you know whether or not Michael met your brothers on that trip?

A. I don’t recall that, no.

Q. Okay. And what month are we in now, if you know?

A. June. In June.

Q. Okay. And just to clarify, the first time Mr. Jackson ever stayed at your home in Santa Monica was what month?

A. In April.

Q. Okay. Do you remember telling Michael Jackson, “You’re like a magnet?”

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you remember telling Michael Jackson, “You’re like Peter Pan. Everybody wants to be around you and spend 24 hours”?

A. Yes.

Q. You told him, “Lily would too, except she’s not old enough”?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you said there was an incident in a room in New York, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And did you actually see what happened?

A. No.

Q. When did you learn what happened in the room?

A. In the morning I saw lamps, two lamps were broken.

Q. Okay. And Michael told you he had kicked the two lamps, right?

A. My son said that Michael Jackson did a karate kick and kicked the lamps.

Q. Actually, Michael told you that, too, didn’t he?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to show you what you said to the District Attorney?

A. Thank you. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection --

A. Yes.

Q. -- about what you said? Michael told you he kicked the two lamps practicing karate, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And he said he would pay for it, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you said to him, “Lily told me a different story,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. But Lily told you they were just playing, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, when do you remember meeting Bert Fields for the first time?

A. Sometime in August.

Q. Was Michael Jackson still spending evenings at your home in August?

A. No.

Q. When had he stopped spending evenings at your home, if you know?

A. I would say late June.

Q. And had you heard of who Bert Fields was before that meeting?

A. No.

Q. You weren’t aware he’s one of the best-known entertainment lawyers in Los Angeles?

A. I was told that by Michael Jackson.

Q. And how long was your meeting with Bert Fields?

A. I don’t recall. It could be an hour.

Q. And that’s where Mr. Pellicano was present?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. Is that the only time you’ve ever met with Bert Fields, to your knowledge?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. In the sworn declaration you filed regarding your attempt to set aside that stipulation, is there any reason why you didn’t mention Mr. Fields, Mr. Pellicano or Mr. Jackson in that declaration?

A. Is my -- I don’t understand the question.

Q. That’s where you said the only reason you signed the stipulation was because of what your ex-husband threatened you with.

A. Correct.

Q. But you told the jury initially that the reason you signed it was because Michael Jackson wanted you to sign it, true?

A. Correct.

Q. That’s not contained in your declaration, is it?

A. No.

MR. SNEDDON: Objection. Asked and answered and argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You didn’t mention Mr. Fields or Mr. Pellicano either in that declaration, right?

MR. SNEDDON: Same objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Right?

THE COURT: You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When had you separated from David Schwartz?

A. Around August of ‘92, approximately.

Q. Do you remember complaining that Evan, Jordan’s father, had promised him money for helping him write the screenplay?

A. Yes.

Q. And you complained that Evan had not paid Jordan the money he owed him, true?

A. I didn’t complain. It was a statement.

Q. Well, you asked him to pay him the money, right?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You didn’t tell him he owed your son $5,000?

A. It was a discussion.

Q. Okay. Did you want him to pay him that money?

A. It would have been a nice thing, yes.

Q. He didn’t do it, did he?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Now, you mentioned a gift certificate for $7,000 --

A. Yes.

Q. -- that you got from Michael Jackson, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you go to Fred Segal and use that gift certificate?

A. Yes.
Q. What did you get with it?
A. Oh, clothes, jewelry. That’s it.
Q. That’s it?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Before today, when is the last time you ever saw Mr. Jackson?
A. Oh, ten years ago.
Q. Okay.
A. Eleven years ago.
Q. Have you talked to Evan at all about what you’re saying in court today?
A. No.
Q. When is the last time you spoke to him?
A. Ten years ago.
Q. To your knowledge, did Michael Jackson ever stay at David Schwartz’s home?
A. No.
Q. Did he ever visit there, to your knowledge?
A. No. Not that I recall.
Q. Other than the first time when you met Mr. Jackson at David Schwartz’s rental car company, do you recall ever seeing Michael Jackson meeting with David Schwartz?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember Evan threatening David physically?
A. Yes.

Q. And when did that happen?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Approximately when did you get settlement money from the settlement with Michael Jackson?
A. Oh, I would say approximately October of ‘93.
Q. Have you received any settlement money since then?
A. No.
Q. You mentioned to the District Attorney in Los Angeles a meeting Michael Jackson had with Elizabeth Taylor and Nelson Mandela. Do you remember that?

A. Correct.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I object as immaterial.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember, was Jordie with Michael at that meeting?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. David Schwartz was also at the apartment that Michael Jackson owned in Century City that you called “The Hideout,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. And approximately when was that meeting?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as vague as to time. What meeting?

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase it.

Q. When, to your knowledge, did David Schwartz visit Michael Jackson’s home in Century City that you call “The Hideout”?

A. It could be late August, early September.

Q. Who else was there when you got to the apartment?

A. I don’t recall who else was there.

Q. Do you remember in your meeting with Mr. Pellicano telling Mr. Pellicano, “Well, it’s Michael Jackson. I know Evan. It could be money. It could be”?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever personally tell Mr. Pellicano that Evan’s concerns could be only about money?

MR. SNEDDON: Same objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Was your lawyer, Michael Freeman, at that meeting with Mr. Pellicano?

A. I believe so.

Q. Is that the same meeting Bert Fields was present?

A. I don’t recall, but possibly. Quite possibly.

Q. If your lawyer, Michael Freeman, was at the meeting, you must have been able to get legal advice about what to sign, right?

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object to that question. Assumes facts and calls for speculation. Can I throw in argumentative, too?

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ask Attorney Michael Freeman to be at the meeting?

A. No. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know how he got there?

A. I don't think he was there.

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object to that question. She has not said he was there. Assumes facts.

MR. MESEREAU: She did. She did.

THE WITNESS: I don't recall him being there.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

Objection sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Who is Michael Freeman?

A. An attorney. My attorney.

Q. And when did you first meet Michael Freeman?

A. Oh, I don't recall when.

Q. Did he represent you at some point during the time period you've described today?

A. At some point, yes.

Q. And he was your personal lawyer --

A. Correct.

Q. -- is that right?

You mentioned -- actually, let me ask you this: Did you mention Norma Stakos earlier?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you meet Norma Stakos?

A. I've never met Norma Stakos.

Q. Have you ever spoken to her?

A. Yes.

Q. In what context did you speak to Norma Stakos?

A. By telephone, about where we should meet, or when Michael Jackson is coming in to New York, or things like that.

Q. Did she seem to be the person that arranged your trips?

A. Everything. Everything.

Q. Did she seem to be the person who would get plane tickets, for example?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. Would she be the person who would arrange transportation on your trips with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you remember at your meeting with Mr. Pellicano, that Mr. Pellicano said, “This is all extortion”?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to that question. Calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Now, at the time you met Mr. Fields and Mr. Pellicano, to your knowledge, did Evan have his own attorney?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. At some point during the time you were represented by Larry Feldman, do you recall Evan also having another lawyer?

A. I don’t recall that.

Q. Do you recall the name Barry Rothman?

A. Yes.

Q. And where did you first hear about Barry Rothman?

A. Before Larry Feldman. That was Evan’s attorney.

Q. Now, at some point were you represented by Attorney Gloria Allred?

A. Two seconds. For two seconds.

Q. It was a little bit more than that, wasn’t it?

A. Two hours.

(Laughter.)

Q. You and Evan and Jordan were represented by Gloria Allred initially, correct?

A. Initially.

Q. You had meetings with her, correct?
A. One or two, yes.
Q. And then you went to Attorney Larry Feldman, right?

A. He came into the picture, yes.
Q. Okay.
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know approximately when Gloria Allred represented you, Evan and Jordie?
A. Before Larry Feldman.
Q. Do you know approximately --
A. No.
Q. -- what year that was?
A. Yes, ‘94.
Q. Okay. Were you referred to Gloria Allred by someone?
A. No.
Q. How did you wind up being represented by her?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How many times did you meet with Mr. Pellicano?
A. Approximately three times. Three to four times.
Q. Do you know where those meetings took place?
A. As far as I recall, in his office.
Q. Did you travel to his office?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Were you there with your attorney, Michael Freeman, ever?

A. I don’t think so, no, no.
Q. Did you have discussions with Mr. Pellicano?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever believe he was your investigator?
A. Yes.
Q. And when was that?
A. When we had meetings.

Q. When you had meetings with Mr. Pellicano, you had already retained Michael Freeman as your lawyer, hadn't you?
A. I don't think so, no.
Q. What month do you think you first saw Mr. Pellicano?
A. In August. Approximately August.
Q. The declaration I referred to earlier was signed on August 10th, 1993, correct?
A. Okay. Yes.
Q. And it's on Freeman & Golden, Lawyers, stationery, correct?
A. I guess so.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the declaration?
A. Thank you.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: That's correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: (Indicating.)
A. Thank you.
Q. Have you had a chance to look at the declaration?
A. Yes.
Q. And does it appear that that declaration was signed August 10th, 1993?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. And it's on Freeman & Golden, Lawyers, stationery, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And your lawyer helped you prepare this declaration, true?
A. Correct.
Q. Was Michael Freeman representing you in your domestic dispute with Evan?
A. No. I don't recall. I don't recall.
Q. When did he stop representing you, if you know?
A. Shortly thereafter. Not --
Q. Okay. Now, was Michael Freeman representing you when Gloria Allred was representing you?
A. I don't recall.

Q. Was Michael Freeman representing you when Larry Feldman was representing you?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall at one point meeting with Robert Shapiro?

A. Yes.
Q. And when was that?
A. In Larry Feldman's office.
Q. How many meetings did you have with Robert Shapiro?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Do you know why he was at the meeting?
A. I -- I think as part of Michael Jackson's legal team.
Q. Who, Robert Shapiro?
A. I think so. I don't recall.
Q. Okay.
A. It was so long ago.
Q. Well, he was there because Michael Jackson's attorneys were claiming extortion, right?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Robert Shapiro was there because he's a criminal defense lawyer, right?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, excuse me. I want to interpose an objection before the next question comes out. Speculation. She says she doesn't have any recollection of this, so why Mr. Shapiro --
THE COURT: Stop talking. You're just supposed to give your grounds for the objection.
MR. SNEDDON: I'm sorry. Object. Speculation.
THE COURT: All right. Overruled. The question -- the last question, would the court reporter read it back, please?

(Record read.)
THE COURT: You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Correct.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember also in your meetings, meeting -- excuse me, let me rephrase that.

In the meetings you’ve described with Larry Feldman, Michael Freeman, Robert Shapiro, do you also remember a lawyer named Richard Hirsch being present?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as to all those people and compound.

THE COURT: It’s vague. We’ll take our break now.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: Mr. Mesereau.

MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Just very briefly, you and Evan hired attorneys and tried to negotiate a financial settlement before you ever talked to any police officer, right?

A. No.

Q. You were negotiating for money before you ever reported anything to any police officer in Los Angeles, correct?

A. Not correct.

Q. Do you know the dates you hired your attorneys?

A. After we spoke with the police.

Q. You’re saying that under oath?

A. That’s what I believe, yes.

Q. You don’t know that for sure, do you?

A. I’m sure.

Q. Your negotiations went on long before you ever went to any police officer in Los Angeles, true?

A. False.

Q. Do you know when you first went to any police officer?

A. After the police, after we spoke to the police.

Q. It was after you spoke to Larry Feldman on a number of visits, correct?

A. Not correct.

Q. It was actually Larry Feldman who contacted the police, wasn’t it?

A. No.

Q. You didn’t talk to any prosecutor in Los Angeles before you retained Gloria Allred, correct?

A. Yes. Correct.
Q. You didn’t talk to any police officer in Los Angeles before retaining Gloria Allred, correct?
A. Can you backtrack a bit? Can you --
Q. You retained Gloria Allred before you ever contacted any police officer in Los Angeles, true?

A. Not true.
Q. Who did you contact in the LAPD before you hired Gloria Allred?
A. The police department. LAPD.
Q. You didn’t give any police statement before negotiations had already begun to settle the case, true?
A. Not correct.
Q. Did you call them yourself?
A. Did I call?
Q. The police yourself?
A. Department of Children Services.
Q. How about police?
A. No. Department of children Services.
Q. I’m asking you about the police.
MR. SNEDDON: It’s argumentative, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You were negotiating for money --
THE COURT: Just a minute.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh, pardon me.
THE COURT: All right. She did answer it before the objection. Go ahead, Counsel, next question.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said you contacted Department of Children Services, correct?
A. Yes.

Q. That’s not the police department, is it?
MR. SNEDDON: That’s argumentative, Your Honor. And assumes facts not in evidence.
THE COURT: Sustained; argumentative.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And you contacted

Department of Children's Services after first talking to a lawyer, true?

A. Not correct.

Q. In fact, you personally never called the police department, ever, about anything involving Mr. Jackson, true?

A. True.

Q. When did you first hire Gloria Allred?

A. After we spoke to the District Attorney.

Q. When did you first hire Larry Feldman?

A. After the police were notified, Department of Children's Services, and Lauren Weis, the District Attorney.

Q. Your strategy was to negotiate a settlement before ever contacting law enforcement, true?

A. No strategy, sorry.

Q. And one of the levers you were trying to hang over Mr. Jackson was bad publicity if he didn't pay, right?

A. Incorrect.

Q. Okay. When you talked to Mr. Sneddon, did he ever show you the dates when you contacted your first lawyer in this case?

A. No.

Q. When you talked to Mr. Sneddon, did he ever show you the dates before any contact was ever made to a police officer?

A. No.

Q. Do you know when your civil case was first filed?

A. I'm not sure of the exact date.

Q. Do you know who filed it?

A. I'm not exactly sure. Sorry.

Q. Okay. Do you know when you first contacted Department of Children's Services?

A. Sometime in August.

Q. You don't know when you hired Gloria Allred, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know if Gloria Allred contacted Department of Children Services?

A. I don't know that.

Q. Do you know when Evan first hired Barry Rothman?

A. I do not know that.

Q. He hired Barry Rothman before any report was made to DCFS, correct?

A. I don't know.

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object. Calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you first hire Attorney Michael Freeman?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as asked and answered.

THE COURT: I believe she said she didn't know.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions.

THE COURT: All right.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Mrs. Chandler, do you know whether or not in Los Angeles, that the Los Angeles Police Department has sworn peace officers attached to the Child Abuse Unit in the Department of Child Services?

A. Correct.

Q. Sorry?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Were those the people that you talked to when you were interviewed?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. And do you have a recollection at this present time as to specifically when in August you interviewed with them?

A. Specifically, no.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I showed you a document about that interview?

A. Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Thank you.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Does that refresh your recollection?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. With regard to -- I'm sorry, to when you were interviewed by members of the Los Angeles Police Department?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And what was the date on that?

A. 8-7-93.

Q. Now, let's go back, if we can. And just to clarify, you were not the one who originally contacted the -- made the report?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know who did, of your own knowledge?

A. Of my knowledge, it was Jordan Chandler, my son.

Q. Now, let's go back for just a second. Mr. Mesereau asked you about a meeting on Saturday involving your attorney and myself. Do you recall that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And was there also another person that was present with us that I brought along?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the person's name?

A. No, I don't remember his name, but he was a detective.

Q. With the sheriff's department?

A. With the sheriff's department.

Q. So he was also present during that entire meeting?

A. He was -- absolutely, yes.

Q. All right. Now, he also asked you about conversations that you and I had on the phone. Do you recall that?

A. Correct.

Q. And that we had talked a couple of times on the phone?

A. Correct.

Q. And with regard to those conversations, the first conversation we had, do you recall the substance of that conversation?

A. That I would be subpoenaed and for -- testifying.

Q. And did I indicate to you that I wanted to talk to you, to do an interview with you?

A. That we would be speaking later on, yes.

Q. Okay. And did you -- did you have to check with somebody to make sure that was okay because of the confidentiality agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was that?

A. Larry Feldman.

Q. So is that one of the phone calls that you had with Mr. Feldman, was to make sure --

A. Yes.

Q. -- to make sure it was okay for you to talk to me?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, Mr. Mesereau asked you about some countersuit that Michael Jackson alleged against you and members of your family. Do you recall that question?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever pay a penny to Mr. Jackson in any lawsuit to settle anything?

A. No. No.

Q. Now, you indicated that these two children from New Jersey that you mentioned, the Cascios, do you remember the name of the restaurant in New Jersey that they allegedly owned?

A. Aldo’s Restaurant.

Q. You talked with Mr. Mesereau about the incident that occurred in New York where the lamps got broken and the karate kicks and all that?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Did you subsequently learn that the version of what happened was not truthful?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: Correct.

THE COURT: Sustained. The answer’s stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you subsequently -- can you tell us how you eventually -- let me put it this way: Did you ultimately learn other information about that incident?

A. Yes.

Q. You personally?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you determine from that information that the original version wasn’t correct?

A. Correct.

Q. We talked a little bit in your direct examination about the change-in-custody agreement that Mr. Jackson asked you to sign. Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And you said you did sign it?

A. I did.

Q. Now, after having signed that document, did you ever get custody of your child back?

A. No.

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you about your son Jordan and about some things you may or may not have seen with regard to taking showers. And I want to ask you a few questions about that, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. During the time that you were -- you stayed at Neverland Valley Ranch, and your son slept in Mr. Jackson’s room - okay? - did you ever see your son come back to the guest cottages to take showers?

A. No.

Q. During the time that your son was in Monaco and stayed in Mr. Jackson’s room for several days in a row, did you ever see your son come back to take showers in your room?

A. No.

Q. During the time that you were in Florida and Mr. Jackson and your son spent the time together and he was sleeping in Mr. Jackson’s room, did you ever see your son come back to your room to take showers or to clean up?

A. No.

Q. And if I were to ask you that same question with regard to baths - okay? - would there be any different answers?

A. No.
Q. Or with regard to seeing your son getting dressed in the morning, would there be any different answers?
A. No.
Q. Now, with regard to the meeting that Mr. Mesereau talked about, where you were at the hideout, Mr. Jackson's hideout, the Century City place -- in Century City? I don't know where it is.
A. Yes, it is.
Q. And we're talking about the evening that you described where Mr. Pellicano was talking to Jordan downstairs and you were upstairs with David Schwartz.

A. Correct.
Q. You told us that lasted about 45 minutes?
A. Yes, it did.
Q. Do you recall whether or not Mr. Jackson was present during that conversation?
A. I don't recall him being there.
Q. Now, if I show you your statement that you gave to the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office, might that refresh your recollection to that event?
A. Yes.
MR. SNEDDON: May I, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. SNEDDON: Page 90, Counsel.
THE WITNESS: Thank you.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Does having seen that statement refresh your recollection as to whether or not Mr. Jackson was present with Mr. Pellicano during Jordan's conversation or interview?
A. Yes, it does.
Q. And was he?
A. Yes, he was present.
Q. You told the jury that it's been 11 years since you've had any conversations with your son Jordan, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Is that by your choice?

A. No.

Q. You told the jury that as a result of the conversation with Mr. Jackson in Las Vegas where he urged you to trust him - okay? --

A. Yes. I’ll be okay. Thank you.

Q. -- that during that conversation in Las Vegas where Mr. Jackson urged you to trust him, do you recall that?

A. I do.

Q. Do you regret ever doing that?

A. Very much so.

MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Briefly, do you recall Evan hired counsel in June to start negotiating with Mr. Jackson?

A. No, I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall being in any meetings with Evan and his counsel in June to try and settle the matter?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall Mr. Pellicano making settlement offers to Evan on your behalf in June?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Do you recall any contact between Evan and lawyers in May?

A. No.

Q. Okay. You never discussed that with Evan at the time?

A. No.

Q. Didn’t you have a lot of -- we’re talking about 1993. Didn’t you have a lot of contact with Evan at that point about hiring counsel?

A. No.

Q. And weren’t you in a dispute with Evan at that point over custody?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And when did that dispute begin, if you know?

A. In August of ‘93.

Q. But you had had problems with Evan for months before that, had you not?
A. Not -- not terrible.
Q. And you don’t know when he hired his attorney?
A. No, I don’t. No, I don’t.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions.
MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
THE COURT: Call your next witness.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: People call Dwayne Swingler.
THE COURT: When you get to the witness stand, please face the clerk and raise your right hand.

DWAYNE SWINGLER
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes, ma’am.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.
THE WITNESS: My name is Dwayne Swingler; D-w-a-y-n-e, Swingler, S-w-i-n-g-l-e-r.
THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Swingler.
A. Good afternoon.
Q. What is your current occupation, sir?
A. Right now I do stand-in work, movie sets.
Q. Okay. And what kind of -- stand-in work, what does that --
A. Stand in for stars. It’s called second team. They don’t use the stars to get the lights bright. They use stand-ins.
Q. I see. During the year 2003, at some point during that year, did you -- were you employed by Michael Jackson?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is he the man seated to my right with the long black hair?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Thank you.
When did you begin working for Mr. Jackson?

A. In June of 2003. Early June of 2003.

Q. And what was your -- what was your assignment for Mr. Jackson?

A. Supervisor of Neverland.

Q. How did you come to get that position?

A. I met Michael at a studio, Marvin Gaye’s studio in Hollywood.

Q. What were you doing at the studio?

A. My cousin was engineering Michael’s music session, and Michael needed someone to whistle on a track, so my cousin called me and said, “Would you like to come down and whistle on Michael’s track?”
And I said, “I can’t whistle that well, but I would love to come down and meet Michael Jackson.”

Q. Okay. Are you yourself a musician?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And you met Mr. Jackson on that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell me about -- was that in 2003?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. About what month was it, if you recall?

A. That was probably early -- sometime in April.

Q. And how did it come about that you were offered employment?

A. I hung out at the studio with Michael and his kids, and Chris Carter, maybe four, five days in a row, three, four days in a row, while they were working on the session.

Q. Who did you understand Chris Carter to be?

A. Michael’s personal security.

Q. And so somebody offered you employment?

A. On the last day there, Chris Carter asked me to come outside. So I walked outside with him, and at that time he told me that, you know, “Michael likes you. He would love to bring you aboard. What are you currently doing right now”?

Q. Were you available?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they tell you what type of job they wanted to hire you for?

A. Initially they hired me to be security, along with Chris Carter, to travel with Michael.

Q. And how did that work out?

A. Well, that didn’t work for me because I had triplets. I got three-year-old triplet boys, so....

Q. All right. So traveling wasn’t an option?

A. No. Actually, Michael was the one who said, “If he has triplet boys, then I don’t want him to be traveling with me all the time.”

Q. So you said you became ranch manager?

A. Yes.

Q. How did that come about?

A. I guess Michael suggested to Chris, “If he has triplets, he’ll be away from his kids a lot. So maybe we should offer him another job,” and that’s when supervisor of Neverland came up.

Q. So who offered you that position, I guess is my question?

A. I guess Michael. But Chris Carter’s the one who told me about the position.

Q. At some time did you discuss with Mr. Jackson personally your employment?

A. I don’t understand the question.

Q. Did you ever have a discussion with Mr. Jackson about your employment as ranch manager?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did he ever discuss with you the terms by which you could be terminated if he was dissatisfied with your work?

A. He didn’t discuss with me personally. But Chris Carter and Joe Marcus did.

Q. And did you have an understanding about how you could be terminated?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that?

A. Grounds of giving up information of where

Michael Jackson's whereabouts are, and, you know, there was a rule on the ranch -- I don't know if it came directly from Michael, but, you know, Chris told me and Joe Marcus told me as well, that you can never say no --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay, let's just back up a minute.

Q. I think what my question is, did you know -- did you have some indication from Mr. Jackson as to who had authority to terminate you?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was that?

A. From my understanding, it was only supposed to be Michael Jackson.

Q. Okay. At some point during 2003, were you terminated?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell me about that. How did that come about?

A. I had --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague as to time.

THE COURT: I'll ask you to clarify the time.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. When were you terminated?

A. Early August 2003.

Q. And how long had you been working at that point for Mr. Jackson?

A. Maybe five, six weeks.

Q. When did you start work?

A. I was hired in the end of April, early May. But I had to go back to Michigan for a couple of weeks, so the hiring process took awhile. You know, background checks, physicals.

Q. When did you start going to Neverland?

A. In May.

Q. In May?

A. Yeah.

Q. And when did you start getting a paycheck?

A. In June.

Q. Okay. And what were you doing there in May?

A. I just came out to the ranch to check things out to see the position that I would be, you know, filling.

Q. In May, was it understood that you would be the ranch manager?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you go up there and receive some instruction from anybody as to what the duties were, in May?

A. I received, well, sort of from Joe Marcus, some instruction, but not as much as I did once I started in June.

Q. What was Mr. Marcus's assignment at that time?

A. Ranch manager.

Q. So he was ranch manager and you were going to take it over?

A. No. Ranch manager, you deal with the majority of the workers outside, the garden, the landscapers, things like that. The carnival, the festival, whatever.

Q. What was Joe Marcus doing?

A. What do you mean?

Q. Well, you said Joe Marcus was ranch manager.

A. Right, that was his position. Ranch manager, you deal with all the employees basically outside of the house.

Q. And your position was going to be?

A. Supervisor. Deal with the employees and Michael and the kids in the house.

Q. Oh, in the house?

A. Yes.

Q. So house manager?

A. House manager.

Q. All right. Good.

So you began work in June, but you went up there for how many weeks to get some training?

A. Not really training, just sort of to come check things out, and to see who -- you know, what position I would be taking and where the office was, and things like that.

Q. And when was it you were terminated?

A. In early August.

Q. And how did that come about?

A. I had had a meeting with Michael about transferring my position. And I liked working for him. I wanted to work for him somewhere in Los Angeles, because my triplets were only one years old at the time. So I was missing them, them being in Los Angeles and me being here, and me staying the night at Neverland often. Wasn’t working for me. So I had a one-on-one meeting with him to be transferred.

Q. And how did your termination come about?

A. I --

Q. Let me ask you this: Were you terminated?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And how were you terminated?

A. I was terminated by Joe Marcus. He -- I arrived at Neverland one morning for work and he told me -- he had changed the locks on me. And then I went into -- I mean, some -- one of the employees -- one of my employees in the house told me Joe came to change the locks. And I said, “Why?” And they said, “I don’t know.” And I had already been told by the guard at the gate that Joe --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So the locks were changed. Did you go talk to Mr. Marcus?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What did he tell you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE WITNESS: He told --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can go back to my last question, I guess. I’ll withdraw that question, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And how specifically -- I want you to go directly to the answer on this question. How specifically did you learn that you were terminated?

A. I --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Go ahead.
A. I learned directly from Joe Marcus that my services would no longer be needed at Neverland, and that he didn’t have to give me a reason. Because I --
Q. You asked him for a reason?
A. Yes, I did. I didn’t think I had done anything wrong. Well, I know I hadn’t done anything wrong.
Q. Okay. So you’d been at Neverland for a little over a month, and you’d worked there for a few weeks before that time as well?
A. Well, not worked. But like -- I wasn’t getting paid for that time. That was just to come out there and check the ranch out.

Q. During the time that you were at Neverland, did you have personal interaction with Michael Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. On how often a basis?
A. If he was there. All the time, if he was there.
Q. More than once a day?
A. Yes.
Q. And who was responsible for handling Mr. Jackson’s appointments while he was on the ranch?
A. At Neverland, I would take the -- all the phone calls. It didn’t matter who it was calling; mother, father, business person.
Q. So if he had an appointment for a day, would you take that -- would that be part of your duties?
A. Yes.
Q. To schedule those appointments?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have occasion to observe visitors of Mr. Jackson that were child visitors?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you see child visitors spend the night at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see child visitors spend the night in Mr. Jackson’s room?
A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and violates the Court’s order.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who did you see visit Mr. Jackson who was a child visitor?
MR. MESEREAU: I’m going to object. Violates the Court’s order.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: When you were at Neverland, did you interact with Mr. Jackson about issues dealing with activities on the ranch?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: Issues dealing with activity on the ranch?
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Well, whatever -- let’s back up. What were your duties as house manager?
A. To answer all the phone calls. To, you know, schedule the maids. To help the maids out with cleaning rooms and suites. And basically to, you know, take care of whatever Michael and the kids needed.
Q. And in terms of the day-to-day issues in terms of running the ranch, can you characterize how -- Mr. Jackson’s degree of involvement?
A. As far as -- I mean --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; and relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Mr. Jackson is in total charge of the ranch.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Why do you say that?

A. Well, when I was terminated, because of my previous conversation with Chris Carter that only Michael Jackson could terminate me, I called Evvy, which is Michael's personal assistant --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine.

MR. MESEREAU: And relevant as to time.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So when you were on the ranch, did you have occasion to see Mr. Jackson in terms of making orders at the ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he make orders?

A. Yes. He made some to me.

MR. MESEREAU: Continuing relevance objection, Your Honor, as to time.

THE COURT: Time?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: During the time that you were ranch manager, during that five-week period.

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: That's the objection, Your Honor. The time period's irrelevant.

THE COURT: All right. That's overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Go ahead. You can answer that question.

A. Yes, I observed it. He made some to me personally.

Q. Did you have occasion to see individuals, his other employees, in terms of their relationship with Mr. Jackson?

A. Meaning like Joe Marcus and Grace and those?

Q. I mean -- let's talk about your employees. Did you have employees that were working under you as house manager?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Cooks?

Q. Yeah, just generally speaking.

A. Cooks, housekeepers, maids.

Q. Okay. And had some of these people been working at the ranch longer than you had?

A. Yes. The majority of -- all of them.
Q. And did you have occasion to see their interaction with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. And what level of service did Mr. Jackson expect?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; vague; no foundation.

THE COURT: It’s vague; sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Can you characterize the demeanor of the employees around Mr. Jackson when they were in his presence?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; relevance. Particularly the time period.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll be specific.
Q. During the time you were ranch manager, or house manager.
MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: Can you ask me the question again?
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yeah. My question is, can you characterize the demeanor -- how did these people act, these employees, when they were around Mr. Jackson in his presence?
A. I mean, they act like they liked him. Mr. Jackson was nice to people.
Q. Did they act like they’d speak their mind around him?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did they act -- did they act comfortable around him?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; vague; relevance; and foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you know if -- do you know if Mr. Jackson would fire people at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Well, you yourself were fired; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who fired you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who -- when you were working with Mr. Jackson, did you have occasion to see individuals who were employees of his that were closer than other employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; leading; relevance; foundation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection, Counsel's fishing for a reason to object to that question.

MR. MESEREAU: I object to the colloquy, move to strike.

THE COURT: I'll sustain the "vague" objection to that question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you see employees -- did you see any employees that spent more time with Mr. Jackson than other employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; vague; foundation; and relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I did.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you see -- well, let's go ahead and make a list. Who did you see that spent more time with Mr. Jackson than other employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Vase -- Grace, I'm sorry. Grace, Chris Carter. Those are the two that I think spent most of the time with Mr. Jackson.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you ever see an individual visit the ranch by the name of Dieter Weizner?

A. I would have to see a picture to be sure.

MR. MESEREAU: Could we approach, Your Honor? We'd like a proffer.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Be happy to make one.

THE COURT: I don't really need that. I -- it's clear to me where....

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I show you People's Exhibit No. 17, Mr. Swingler. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. I can't say I've seen that gentleman.

Q. You haven't seen him?

A. No.

Q. Did you see -- did you previously have a conversation with Detective Bonner about the facts of this case?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in that conversation, did you identify -- just a moment, if you would, please.

Did you identify a number of individuals that you thought were within Michael Jackson's inner circle?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and vague.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It's impeachment.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'm sorry?

THE COURT: It's vague.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you identify Dieter Weizner as a member of Michael Jackson's inner circle?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: In my conversation with Detective Bonner?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: With Detective Bonner, did you not identify Dieter Weizner specifically as a member of Michael Jackson's inner circle?

A. I can't -- I can't really recall, because I don't know the face. I never seen the face before. The name I know. The face I don't.

Q. Do you know the name Dieter Weizner?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you meet a man by the name of Dieter Weizner?

A. Looking at the face --

Q. I'm not asking you about the face.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. He's arguing with the witness. Leading and foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you meet a man by the name of Dieter Weizner?

A. I can't remember.

Q. Did you meet a man -- well --

A. Like I say, the name sounds familiar. I know I've heard the name. Maybe I spoke with him on the phone a few times there, but the face didn't --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; move to strike; nonresponsive.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you meet a man by the name of Ronald Konitzer?

THE COURT: There's an objection pending.

THE BAILIFF: Judge, can you turn the microphone on?

THE COURT: All right. The objection is overruled. And you had another question. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you meet a man by the name of Ronald Konitzer?

A. I can't -- by the name -- I would have to see a picture.

Q. Did you meet two German businessmen?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they meet with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. Three or four.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good afternoon.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. My name's Tom Mesereau. I speak for Mr. Jackson.

A. How you doing, sir?

Q. Good. Good. We've never spoken before, right?

A. No.

Q. You worked for a five-week period?

A. Four and a half, five weeks, yes, sir.

Q. Four and a half, five weeks. How many days a week did you work?

A. Six or seven.

Q. And the prosecutor asked you about how many meetings Mr. Jackson had with two German individuals, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you really know how many meetings there were?

A. Around, I'm guessing, three to four.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Move to strike the testimony, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Denied.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You're guessing three to four, but you don't really know, right?

A. No, I couldn't say. I couldn't pinpoint it. I wasn't --

Q. You weren't in the meetings, right?

A. No.

Q. You don't remember what they looked like, right?

A. I do remember what they looked like if I saw a picture of them, yes.

Q. Well, the picture the prosecutor showed you, you couldn't identify, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, you wanted to be transferred to Los Angeles; is that correct?

A. Yes. Yes, sir.
Q. And did you tell -- excuse me, who did you talk to about the transfer?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Okay. And you explained that the commute and the hours were just too much to raise your family?
A. I just wasn’t seeing my kids, and they were one years old.
Q. And did you ask Mr. Jackson to be transferred somewhere in Los Angeles?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And where was that?
A. I just asked him to be transferred to any business in Los Angeles that he had.
Q. But you really didn’t even know if there was a job available in Los Angeles, right?
A. No, that’s why I was asking.
Q. Okay. Right. Okay. And approximately when did you ask him; do you know?
A. Maybe three weeks into the job.
Q. Okay. And Mr. Jackson was always nice to you, wasn’t he?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And as far as you know, there may not have been a job available in Los Angeles, right?
A. He told me there was one.
Q. He told you there was one?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where did he say?
A. A&R, his record label.
Q. Pardon me?
A. A&R of his record label.
Q. Had you ever worked at a record label before?
A. No, I hadn’t.
Q. All right. But at some point you learned that you weren’t being hired, right?
A. No. As a matter of fact, I saw Michael again at his birthday party in Los Angeles and he told me I was still hired.

Q. Okay. But it never came through, right?

A. No, I’m still waiting for my paycheck now.

Q. Okay. You’re trying to write a book about your experiences at Neverland, correct?

A. Well, no, I’m not trying to write a book about my experiences at Neverland.

Q. Well, didn’t you -- excuse me. Did you say Michael Jackson has a record label?

A. He told me he had a record label.

Q. Okay. Do you know that he doesn’t have one?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; assumes facts.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not he really has a record label?

A. I was just told by him he had a record label.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, you prepared notes for a book called “Entering Neverland, Secrets Behind the Gate,” right?

A. Does it have my signature on it? Because I know that within the last month or two, I started jotting down information to myself and somehow my information come up missing out of my house, but whatever.

Q. Did you prepare notes for a book titled “Entering Neverland, Secrets Behind the Gate” --

A. No.

Q. -- “By Dwayne Swingler, Head Supervisor of Neverland Ranch, Summer of 2003,” did you prepare that?

A. No.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, “No.”

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Are you aware of anything like that?

A. No.

Q. You didn’t --

A. Am I aware of it? What do you mean?

Q. Yeah. Have you written out anything for a book called “Entering Neverland, Secrets Behind the Gate, by Dwayne Swingler”?

A. No, I haven’t written anything, or titled anything, or signed anything, or spoke to anybody about, “This is my deal.”

Q. Have you talked to a group called News of the World?

A. Have I?

Q. Yes.

A. Yeah, I spoke with one lady one time, yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, who is News of the World?

A. To my knowledge, it’s a news media overseas.

Q. And why were you speaking to them?

A. Because I was interested in maybe possibly writing down some information to -- to cash in on something like everybody else was, because Michael wasn’t -- I hadn’t received the paycheck from A&R at the time.

Q. Okay. Did you enter into a nondisclosure agreement with News of the World?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Have you ever seen one?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you ever talk to someone named David Han-Schmidt?

A. The same time I spoke with the News of the World lady, he’s the one that contacted her and contacted me.

Q. And to your knowledge, who is David Han-Schmidt?

A. He said that he was a media agent. I don’t even know how he got my phone number.

Q. When did you last talk to David Han-Schmidt?

A. He -- as a matter of fact, he called me today.

Q. And to your knowledge, is he with a public relations company?

A. I really don’t know what he did. He never clarified that with me. He said he was an agent, he was a producer, he was in public relations. I basically ended the situation.

Q. To your knowledge, did anyone ever send you a nondisclosure agreement regarding News of the World?

A. No. I haven’t signed any nondisclosure agreements, and I haven’t taken any money from anyone.

Q. How many discussions have you had with David Han-Schmidt?

A. Three. Four. Can’t remember.

Q. And when was the last one with him? Today?

A. He called me today, because he said he heard that I was coming to testify.

Q. Okay. Have you ever put together any notes for a possible book on the computer?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Have you ever put any notes for a possible book on your computer?

A. No, I haven’t.

Q. Have you ever written any notes out for a possible book?

A. I told you I jotted down some information on a piece of paper, and that’s all I’ve done.

Q. Did you ever ask any public relations person to put together a proposal for you?

A. No, I haven’t.

Q. But you’re thinking of doing it, right, like everybody else?

A. Yes, I was thinking about doing it.

Q. Okay. Okay. Have you ever seen -- excuse me. Has anyone ever brought to your attention that somebody has prepared notes for a possible book in your name?

A. David.

Q. David Han-Schmidt?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he prepare them, to your knowledge?

A. He just said he received papers. I don’t know -- like I told you, I don’t even know how he got my phone number.

Q. Okay. If I showed you these papers, might it refresh your recollection about where they came from?

A. No, it probably wouldn’t, because I never typed any papers or wrote out -- the only thing I did was write down notes, jotted down notes on a piece of paper.

Q. Okay. And that was about your experience during the five weeks at Neverland?

A. That was about my experience totally, not just the five weeks at Neverland. That was my experience with Michael’s manager and everything.

Q. Okay. Did you ever write down on those notes the words “Secrets Behind the Gate”?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Okay. Did David Han-Schmidt tell you how he got your name?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Okay. Did you ever ask him, “Why did you call me?”

A. Well, actually, he started the conversation off, and he just, whew, went straight to talking about a lot of money, so I was listening to him about a lot of money first.

Q. Did he promise you a lot of money?

A. That’s what he promised, yes.

Q. Okay. How much money did he promise?

A. He never said figures. He just said, you know, “You can make a lot of money.” You know, “Why aren’t you telling anyone your story?” That’s what he said to me.

Q. It’s your understanding that he’s located in Phoenix, Arizona?

A. Yes. That’s where he said he’s from.

Q. Okay. Did he ever tell you he was going to prepare a possible manuscript for you?

A. He asked me would I like him to, and I said no. Like I told you, I terminated the conversation when he told me what he wanted to do.

Q. Okay. And did he want some scandal sheet about Michael, something like that?

A. Actually, he’s for Michael. He’s pro Michael.

Q. Did he want you to write something about

Michael?
A. He wanted to speak on Michael's behalf, yes.
Q. Okay. And how often -- in those three conversations, did you talk about money each time?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Okay. Have you ever spoken to Miss Carol Maung, M-a-u-n-g, who is the U.S. editor of News of the World?
A. I spoke with her. I spoke with her when she was with David when I got there.
Q. And did she fax you anything or e-mail you anything?
A. Fax me anything or e-mail me anything?
Q. Yes.
A. No, sir.
Q. Okay. All right. When you were at Neverland working --
A. Yes.

Q. -- you had no direct contact with any member of the Arvizo family, right?
A. The Arvizo family?
Q. Yes.
A. No, sir.
Q. That means you didn't have any contact with the Arvizos?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Do you remember meeting Dominick Cascio at Neverland?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And he's the -- did you speak to him?
A. Often.
Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, he's a father?
A. He's a father?
Q. Yes.
A. I didn't know he was a father.
Q. Okay. Did he ever talk to you about work he did?
A. Did Dominick ever talk to me about work he did?
Q. Yeah.
A. Some work at the restaurant that his family owned.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I have no further questions, Your Honor.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Counsel?
(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel

table.)
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Maybe we should approach. Your Honor, may we approach?
THE COURT: For what?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Concerning the materials that counsel is using to cross-examine the witness on.
THE COURT: All right.
(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I could just have a moment, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I think I can finish with this witness, Your Honor. Just one question.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Mr. Swingler, do you know if David Schmidt has any affiliation with Michael Jackson?
A. I just know that he has a website; that he's, you know, pro Michael Jackson.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you. I have no further questions.
MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
THE WITNESS: Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: Do you have another witness?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: (To Mr. Sneddon) Go ahead.
MR. SNEDDON: You.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you want me to do it?
(Laughter.)
MR. SNEDDON: We're trying to figure out which one of us should take responsibility for telling you “No.”

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: And being the great delegator I am, I’m leaving it up to Gordon.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: We have no further witnesses, Your Honor. We just anticipated that there would be -- it would take a little longer to get through these witnesses today.

THE COURT: All right. There’s a couple of items that we can take up. I’ll go ahead and excuse the jury.

(To the jury) Remember the admonitions I’ve given you and I’ll see you tomorrow morning at 8:30. But it’s a half day tomorrow, remember. How could you forget, right?

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: All right. First, there was -- my understanding is that the special master will have the report available tomorrow morning for you on the computer hard drives.

MR. SNEDDON: On both of them, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes. They’re working on some last-minute details. So it will be available tomorrow morning.

MR. SNEDDON: Now, at that point, then, Your Honor, does it need to go to you for final decision, or is that the decision?

THE COURT: I don’t know. I haven’t read the report. I was handed a rough draft of one by my research attorney this morning -- well, not this morning, a few minutes ago. And I asked him to talk to Mr. Sanger about an issue. So I can’t answer your question.

MR. SNEDDON: Okay.

THE COURT: I suspect it doesn’t need to go beyond what’s been done by the special master, so --

MR. SNEDDON: Okay.

THE COURT: But I won’t know till I’ve looked at it.

The second thing is that both of you have submitted points and authorities on Janet Arvizo. The District Attorney's I've read. And I just received the defense, so I haven't had time to read yours.

When do you expect to call Janet Arvizo?

MR. ZONEN: Either tomorrow or Wednesday. Depending on if we finish the witnesses scheduled before her tomorrow. If not --

THE COURT: They can't hear behind you. (To the audience) He said either tomorrow or Wednesday.

MR. ZONEN: As early as tomorrow.

THE COURT: As early as tomorrow. Okay. Well, I'm not really prepared to deal with that issue. We'll have to deal with it before she's called, but I'll need to study the material you've given me, the defense has given me.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Was there anything else pending?

MR. SANGER: On that issue, Your Honor, as I explained to you, as I explained to your clerk, we were served with their papers this morning. We thought they might call Ms. Arvizo today.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. SANGER: So we put something together very quickly, and I would like to have an opportunity to explain to the Court a little more, in a little more organized fashion, where this goes, now that we've had a few more minutes to think about it.

THE COURT: I'll make sure you have that opportunity.

MR. SANGER: Okay. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Then we'll recess until tomorrow morning.

(The proceedings adjourned at 2:30 p.m.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Jones.

A. Good morning.

Q. Mr. Jones, in your employment history, have you ever worked for Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And is he the man seated to my right with the long black hair?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. What did you do for Michael Jackson?

A. I was vice-president of communications and community relations.

Q. And when did you begin working in that capacity for Mr. Jackson?

A. 1987.

Q. Can you tell me a little bit about what that title involves in terms of work?

A. Dealing with the media, and the community, and various other assignments.

Q. Such as?

A. Whatever came up. Getting -- arranging to get awards, arranging for coverage in newspapers, magazines. Assisting in the -- with the fan clubs, et cetera.

Q. All right. Would it be fair to say that you were the man in charge of public relations --

A. Yes.

Q. -- for Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many years did you work for Mr. Jackson?

A. 16 and a half.

Q. And how did your employment come to an end?

A. I received a letter one day saying that, “Thank you for your services. They’re no longer needed.”

Q. Did you ever receive any explanation as to why you were being terminated?

A. That, “We were restructuring” --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE WITNESS: -- “and going in a different direction.” That was in the letter.

THE COURT: Just a moment. Just a moment, please.

THE WITNESS: I don’t know what you’re saying.

THE COURT: All right. I’m going to overrule the objection, but I’ll limit the examination in that area.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. As far as your understanding as to why you were being terminated, can you tell us what you believe to be the reason why you were being terminated?

A. Well, I can only cite the letter that I received.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. No foundation; and irrelevant opinion.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’ll rephrase it.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Were you informed as to the reason for your termination with Michael Jackson as his man in charge of public relations?

A. No, because at all times --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: I’ll allow the answer, “No.”

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. So you were never given an explanation as to why you were being terminated?

A. At all times --

Q. That’s a yes or no, question, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Overruled. The question was, “All right. So you were never given an explanation as to why you were being terminated?” Is that true?

THE WITNESS: The letter, yes. The letter. That’s all I can say.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. Now, one thing we have to be careful about in the question and answer of your examination is we have to be careful we don’t talk over each other, so the reporter can get everything down.

A. Okay.

Q. And you have to be careful just to answer the question that’s asked. All right?

A. Okay.

Q. Thank you.

So I believe you testified you were terminated late in 2004; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And since that time have you had any employment?

A. No.

Q. Have you been involved in any activity at this time concerning -- during that period of time since your termination that concerns your years of employment with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. What is that?

A. I went to the State of California and filed a complaint for my vacation pay.

Q. All right. Other than that, have you been involved in the writing of any memoirs of your years with Michael Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Is it --

THE COURT: You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And can you specifically tell me what you’ve been doing in terms of writing those memoirs?

A. Preparing a book.

Q. Preparing a book?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is the subject matter of that book?

A. My -- well, my years and -- my years with Michael Jackson.

Q. During your years of working with Michael Jackson, did you have occasion to spend time with him personally?

A. Seldom.

Q. Who was it that hired you?

A. Michael Jackson.

Q. Personally?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you ever travel with him?

A. Yes.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. I think on three tours, and perhaps on special occasions for events that I had arranged, such as the World Music Awards.

Q. Where was the World Music Awards?

A. Monaco.

Q. In Europe?

A. Yes.

Q. And when was that?

A. Now, I can’t tell you an exact date. I’m not good on dates.

Q. All right. Can you approximate?

A. I would say approximately ‘92.

Q. How long did that trip take?

A. The trip probably lasted about ten days.

Q. And did you travel with Mr. Jackson to Monaco?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Jackson bring any guests with him on that trip?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Jordie Chandler, his mother June Chandler, and her sister -- his -- Jordie’s sister.

Q. Did you personally see Mr. Jackson and Jordie Chandler together during that trip?

A. Of course.

Q. How often?

A. We -- well, whenever I saw one, I saw the other.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones, I show you People's Exhibit 776. Can you identify that for me, please?
A. That's Jordie Chandler.
Q. Now, you said whenever you saw Mr. Jackson, you saw Jordie Chandler with him?
A. Yes.

Q. How often would you see Mr. Jackson during that trip?
A. Well, I would say, doo-doo-doo-doo, in Monte Carlo maybe I saw them three or four times.
Q. Did you travel on the plane with them to Monaco?
A. Most definitely.
Q. Did you travel on the plane with them back to the United States?
A. I -- yes, I traveled on the plane with them from Monte Carlo to Paris, and then back to the United States.
Q. Did Mr. Jackson attend the World Music Awards?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. Did you see him there?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever see Mr. Jackson personally demonstrate any physical affection towards Jordie Chandler during this period?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you ever see any conduct involving any physical contact between Michael Jackson and Jordie Chandler?
A. Yes.
Q. How often?
A. On the flight back from --

Q. The question is, first of all, how often did you see this?

A. Well, just the one time.

Q. And you started to talk about the flight back?

A. Well, that’s when the -- can I make a correction?

Q. Yes.

A. Number one, I saw them together at the awards. And then on the flight back from Paris to Los Angeles.

Q. Okay. Were they in physical contact with one another at the awards?

A. He sat -- yes.

Q. And can you describe -- were they in physical contact during the flight back?

A. They were embraced into one another on -- sleeping on the airplane from Paris to Los Angeles.

Q. Now, going to the music awards, what was the nature of the physical contact that you saw with them at the World Music Awards?

A. Jordie sat on his lap.

Q. Where were you seated?

A. I sat a distance away from June, her daughter, and Jordie and Michael.

Q. How many feet away were you when you were observing Mr. Jackson and Mr. Chandler together?

A. Oh, I would say approximately 20 feet.

Q. And if you would describe for me in detail what you saw at the World Music Awards involving Mr. Chandler and Jackson?

A. Well, during the performance, he sat on his lap, Jordie sat on his lap. And the sister sat on the other lap, but at one time Linda Evans took the girl off of his lap and let her sit on her lap.

Q. Mr. Jones, during the World Music Awards when you were watching Mr. Jackson and Jordie Chandler sitting together, did you ever see Mr. Jackson lick Jordie Chandler’s head?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you been interviewed by police officers concerning this matter?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Didn’t you have an interview with Steve Robel and your attorney and myself last week in the victim/witness room --

A. Yes.

Q. -- concerning this incident?

A. Yes, yes, yes.

Q. At that meeting, didn’t you tell Mr. Robel and myself and your attorney that you weren’t sure if that happened?

A. I was very --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE WITNESS: I was adamant in saying I was not sure that that happened. I could -- I could definitely say that they were embraced in one another’s arms on the flight, but I don’t recall anything about head licking.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: My question is, didn’t you say that you didn’t remember that, but you weren’t sure whether or not Mr. Jackson licked Jordie Chandler’s head?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading, and argumentative, and misstates the evidence.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: This is impeachment, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I might have said that. But I don’t recall.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You don’t recall whether you said that?

A. No, I don’t recall ever seeing any head licking, and I made that as adamant as I could.

Q. All right. So is it your testimony today that you don’t have a recollection of the head licking --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Argumentative, and asked and answered, and leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I don’t think I’ve gotten an answer yet.

THE COURT: Well, you haven’t got the question out, so go ahead and state your question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m trying to clarify the state of your memory, sir.

A. Sure.

Q. Is it your testimony today that you do not remember whether or not you saw any head licking?

A. No. I don’t remember having seen any head licking.

Q. Okay. So is it fair to say you were not saying it couldn’t have happened?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Calls for speculation.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Are you saying you just simply do not have a recollection of it?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Asked and answered; argumentative; and leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones, you said you’re writing a book in this case?

A. Sure.

Q. What is the title of that book?

A. “The Man Behind the Mask.”

Q. What is the complete title of that book?

A. “The Man” --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection. Hearsay; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Oh. “The Man Behind the Mask.” In all honesty, I don’t -- I can’t tell you the subtitle.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You don’t recall the name of your book?

A. No, I don’t recall the subtitle. I do know “An Insider’s View of the Rise and Fall of the King of Pop.” Maybe that’s it.

Q. Is the name of your book, “Michael Jackson, The Man in the Mirror, An Insider’s Account of the King of Pop’s Spectacular and Catastrophic Fall from Grace”?

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; hearsay.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That is not the title of your book?

A. The “Catastrophic” --

THE COURT: Just a moment. There’s an objection.

It's overruled.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

THE WITNESS: "Catastrophic Fall" was taken out. It was a suggested title and I took that "Catastrophic" out. And it isn't "The Man Behind the Mirror." It's "The Man Behind the Mask." Maybe one of the suggested titles was that other that I did not approve of.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is your book presently at the publisher?

A. It is being edited, but the book is not complete. It is far from complete.

Q. Is your book presently at the publisher?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What's the name of that publisher?

A. System, I think. My co-writer handled that end of it.

Q. And your book is currently being edited?

A. Yes.

Q. Has it been accepted by the publisher as a prospect for publication?

A. It has been, but it has not been approved by me.

Q. The manuscript that is at the publisher -- well, let me strike that.

Is the book that is being reviewed by your publisher currently an honest account of your years working with Michael Jackson?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; irrelevant opinion.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Have you reviewed the manuscript that is at the publisher's?

A. I have looked at a manuscript that has not been approved by me.

Q. How many times have you looked at this manuscript?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: I'm not sure where you're going with this. Are you -- is it your intent to impeach him with his manuscript, is that what you're --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes.
THE COURT: All right. The objection is overruled.
THE WITNESS: Perhaps I've looked at it twice and I have -- I have a co-writer.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. This manuscript that you've looked at, is it fact or fiction?
A. It's part --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; no foundation. There's a co-writer. It's not been approved. It's being edited by some other people.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'm talking about the manuscript he's looked at.
THE COURT: Objection's overruled.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Is this a factual manuscript or is it a fictional manuscript?
A. It is factual to a degree.
Q. To what degree is it factual?
A. It's to a degree, because I -- my co-writer also has included things that I didn't approve of.
Q. I'm going to read to you a quote from that manuscript and ask you whether it's factual or fiction.
A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Can we approach the bench, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Just a moment.
Before you can impeach him with the manuscript, you have to establish a foundation that he, in fact, wrote this part that you want to impeach him with.
I'll allow you to approach the witness and show it to him, but I'm not going to allow you to read in open court something that may have been written by somebody else.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine, Your Honor.
Q. Mr. Jones, I show you People's Exhibit No. 803. It appears to be one page of typed -- this is a word-processed document.
A. Okay.
Q. And it's dated March 7th, 2005. There are two paragraphs below the exhibit number. If you'd read those two paragraphs, I'm going to ask you a couple of questions about it.

A. Sure. “He’s one of the young” --
Q. Just a moment. Just read them silently.
A. Oh. Okay.
I did not write this. This I did write.
Q. All right.
THE COURT: So did he show you one he wrote and one he didn’t write?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes. And for the record, he indicated --

Q. If I’m accurate, Mr. Jones, you indicated the first paragraph in the lower portion of the page you didn’t write, but the second paragraph you did write?
A. Yes.
THE COURT: Is that clear to you which he indicated, Counsel?
MR. MESEREAU: I think so, but I’d like to talk to the prosecutor first. I think I understand.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. That second paragraph -- Mr. Jones, that second paragraph is an account of what you observed at the World Music Awards; is that accurate?
A. That’s what I observed on the airplane.
Q. Okay. In that paragraph, it states --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It’s impeachment. And I can show it to you, Your Honor.
THE COURT: The objection’s overruled.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It states, “I looked at what was going on with the king and the boy.” Who is “the king” in your --
A. The king of pop, Michael Jackson.
Q. All right. “Others looked at them rather strange, too. They were holding each other tight, almost in a romantic sense, cooing. There were pecks on the cheeks and licks on the top of the head.”

Those are your words, sir, true?
A. Sir --
Q. That’s a “yes” or “no” question.
A. Yes, with reservations.

Q. Mr. Jones, did you see Michael Jackson lick Jordie’s head?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones, I show you People’s Exhibit 804. It appears to be an e-mail. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. It’s from an e-mail that I sent to Stacy Brown, my co-writer.

Q. The cite -- well, I won’t quote, but that is your e-mail address at the top?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. And those are your words?

A. If they were sent by my e-mail, yes, they have to be my words.

Q. You don’t dispute that those are your words?

A. No.

Q. And I show you People’s Exhibit No. 805. If you’d identify that for me, please. Also appears to be an e-mail dated the same date, but the time on it is 22:30:17 EDT.

The first one, for identification purposes, 804, is dated -- the time on it is 19:55:32 EDT.

Okay. So showing you Exhibit 805, is that one of your e-mails, sir?

A. Well, they’re both from my e-mail.

Q. All right. You wrote them?

A. Yes.

Q. And in the first e-mail, 804 --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered as impeachment.

THE COURT: All right. Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: You wrote -- and this -- first of all, let me ask you, is the date of this e-mail accurate, October 30th, 2004?

A. I would imagine it is, sir.

Q. In that e-mail, you wrote, “Stacy: The licking is going to be important because he did it in this case, too.” Are those your words, sir?

A. Apparently so.

Q. And in the e-mail that was dated the same day just a few hours later, did you write, “Stacy: The stuff with Jordie will bite him big”?

A. If it’s -- if it came from my e-mail, I wrote it. But I don’t -- that sounds a little strange from my writing.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Jones.

A. Good morning.

Q. My name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Michael Jackson.

A. Sure.

Q. We haven’t met before, right?

A. No.

Q. Okay. The prosecutor referred to an interview that you had with Sergeant Steve Robel and another officer on April 7th, 2005.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you remember that?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember you were asked by an officer, “Um, did you see Mr Jackson engage in any head licking in the World Music Awards?” And your answer was, “No, no, no,” right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And then you were asked, “Um, did you see Mr. Jackson engage in any head licking of anybody?” And your answer was, “Never.” Remember that?

A. I recall.

Q. Okay. And what you were not -- when you were dealing with your co-writer and publisher, you were not under oath, were you?

A. No.

Q. And of course today you are, right?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question. He answered that.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The reality is, Mr. Jones, you have repeatedly said you don’t recall seeing head licking on the plane, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You don’t recall seeing head licking by Michael on the plane with Jordie, do you?

A. I said it, but it was in the -- it appeared in an e-mail. I said I did not recall seeing it, but it -- apparently so, because it appeared in an e-mail that came from my machine.

Q. Well, in response to the prosecutor’s questions, you said you had reservations about that statement --

A. Yes.

Q. -- correct?

And what are your reservations about that statement?

A. That I just don’t recall exactly seeing that. I truly don’t.

Q. And would you agree when you’re working with a co-writer and a publisher to prepare a book about Michael Jackson, there’s pressure to make things sensational when you can, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And your publisher and others want a book that can sell, correct?

A. My co-writer. The publisher wasn’t involved in that particular end of it.

Q. Okay. And certainly, having worked with Michael all those years, you’ve seen numerous attempts by numerous people to sensationalize aspects of Michael’s life, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And if you’re writing a book about Michael, there certainly is always a temptation to sensationalize if you don’t watch yourself, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How is the book being written?

A. Well, I don’t quite understand what you’re --

Q. Let me rephrase it. It’s probably a poor question.

You have a co-writer?

A. That’s correct.

Q. Did your co-writer ever work for Michael Jackson?

A. No, but my co-writer knows the family.

Q. Okay. And you’re both trying to prepare a book about your observations and experiences in the past, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And the prosecutor asked you some questions about what stage it’s in, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And is there considerably more editing required?

A. Most definitely.

Q. And is it a long ways from being published as far as you’re concerned?

A. As far as I am concerned, and I’m supposed to have final approval.

Q. And when you have a co-writer on a book like that -- actually, let me make it more direct.

Does your co-writer have responsibility for preparing drafts that you have to then review for accuracy?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And is it -- would it be appropriate to say that what the prosecutor showed you has not been approved for accuracy?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m going to object to any further leading of this particular witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer. Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: Would you repeat the question, please?

THE COURT: I'll have the court reporter read it back.

(Record read.)

THE COURT: Are you talking about Exhibit 803, Counsel, or not?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You need to show it to him, because he's been shown three exhibits.

MR. MESEREAU: I don't know -- are the exhibits in front of you, Mr. Jones?

THE WITNESS: Exhibits? I don't have anything.

THE COURT: They're not up there.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Jones, I'm showing you what has been marked as Exhibit No. 803, okay? Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. That starts off with a title that you said 5544 is not accurate and has not been approved, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you told the prosecutor you had written the words at the bottom of the page that refer to licking, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And is it your testimony that you have not approved the accuracy of that statement?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Now, the prosecutor showed you an e-mail that you indicated you think you sent; is that correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you see that?

A. Personally I don't think this is in the book, this statement.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'll object as nonresponsive.

THE COURT: I guess it's without -- his answer shows me it's without foundation. So do you want to ask a foundational question on that?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes.

Q. Mr. -- well, let me just show you. I'm looking now at Exhibit 805, okay? And that's the e-mail the prosecutor referred to.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And I think you said you believe you sent the e-mail; is that right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And are the words in that e-mail accurate as far as you're concerned?

A. Perhaps they are.

Q. You don't know?

A. Because I wrote -- if it came from my e-mail address, I had to write it.

Q. Okay. And -- but you don't know for sure?

A. No.

Q. And are the words on that e-mail words you intend to include in your book?

A. Not like that. My -- my co-writer is handling that, and I have tried to change certain things in the way things were said on numerous occasions with him.

Q. Would it be accurate to say that neither Exhibit 803 nor Exhibit 805 are accurate as far as you're concerned?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence --

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: -- as far as to 803.

THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, I don't know which one -- you got three different things there, don't you?

MR. MESEREAU: Sure.
May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yeah.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Showing you Exhibit 803 and Exhibit 805, okay?

A. This is three. This is five.

Q. Yes. Okay? Let's talk about 803. You've already indicated the title -- what purports to be the title is not going to be the title of your book, right?

A. That’s correct.
Q. And you’ve already indicated that the bottom paragraph that you say you wrote is not accurate; is that correct?
A. Uh-huh. This I wrote.
Q. Yes.
A. Yes.
Q. But you’re indicating it’s not accurate, true?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Not completely true as far as I’m concerned.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Let’s look at the next exhibit, which is Exhibit No. 805. Do you see that?

A. Yes. This -- this one is true. I’m sorry.
Yes. I’m sorry.
Q. And you wrote that e-mail, correct?
A. Yes. Yes.
Q. And what you said in the e-mail was, in summary, that you might -- and correct me if I’m wrong, that you thought your knowledge of the Chandlers might be an insurance policy for you?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Correct?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. An insurance policy of employment, right?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And what that means is, “I might try and hold over Michael’s head what I could say about the Chandlers,” right?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m going to object to counsel ascribing any meaning to those words.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: What did you mean by “insurance policy of employment”?
A. Well, I was not -- I did not have a confidentiality agreement.

Q. Okay.

A. That’s what I -- that’s what I basically meant.

Q. And did you also mean that, “Because I’ve spent all these years with Michael, that I could almost use as a threat writing an expose of him if I’m not employed by him”?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objection. And argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Is that sort of what it means?

A. No, not really, because I have never -- I have never sued, I have never sold stories. I have never -- in the 16 and a half years, I’ve never attempted to extort in any manner.

Q. And I’m not saying you did. I’m just asking you --

A. No, no, I did not mean it in that respect.

Q. Okay. Now, when did you say your work was terminated?

A. June 9th, 2004.

Q. Okay. And where was your office at the time?

A. In my home.

Q. You indicated in response to the prosecutor’s question that you didn’t see Michael very often, right?

A. No.

Q. And why was that?

A. This was -- this was Michael Jackson’s modus operandi from the very beginning. I saw Michael mostly if we were on a tour that my presence -- if I may explain. I have worked in the entertainment industry prior to working with Michael Jackson for 17 and a half years, and I know familiarity breeds contempt. And the further you stay away from artists, the better off you are.

Q. And for that reason, did you not go to Neverland very much?

A. I went to Neverland when I brought groups up, such as the Challengers Boys & Girls Club. Such as the First AME Church, et cetera. I was not a regular visitor at Neverland at all.

Q. Now, who was the first group that you mentioned that you brought?

A. The Challengers Boys --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Relevance; beyond the scope.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: In a typical year, while you were employed, how often would you visit Neverland?

A. I haven't been to Neverland in years. My visits to Neverland were on a more frequent basis about five years ago when I was able to get groups approved to go to Neverland.

Q. Okay. And you had an office located where?

A. Before we closed the offices, we were at 5550 9255 Sunset Boulevard.

Q. Okay. And how many years did you spend in that office?

A. I think we were there approximately ten years, I think. I cannot be for certain.

Q. Okay. Now, you indicated at the music awards, the World Music Awards, that at one point you saw Jordie on Michael Jackson's lap and his sister on Michael Jackson's lap together, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And where was Michael Jackson sitting in that event?

A. He was seated on the front row next to Prince Albert of Monaco, and -- on one side, and Linda Evans, the actress, on the other side.

And I attempted to get -- I had arranged for the Chandlers to sit directly behind Mr. Jackson, because I did not feel that the royalty wanted to be bothered with those guests. But he insisted that they sit with him, so I left it alone.

Q. Did the mother sit with Michael Jackson as well?

A. Behind.

Q. Okay. So when you saw the brother and sister sitting on Michael Jackson’s lap in the first row, the mother was right behind, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. So this is the first row in full view of everyone at the awards show, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. There was no effort to hide anything at any time?

A. No.

Q. At some point, did you see the children with their mother behind where Michael Jackson was sitting?

A. When I brought them in to their seats, they were seated behind Mr. Jackson. Mr. Jackson moved them up front.

Q. Okay. Did -- when you say he moved them up front, did he move them into seats up front?

A. He moved them into his seat.

Q. Okay. Okay. So the children moved into his seat to sit with him?

A. With him.

Q. And the mother still stayed sitting behind?

A. That is correct.

Q. And at some point did you see the children go back with their mother or did they always stay with Michael?

A. No, they stayed up there.

Q. And I think at one point you saw Jordie still sitting on Michael’s lap, and Jordie’s sister sitting on Linda Evans’ lap?

A. That is correct.

Q. Please tell the jury what the World Music Awards show is.

A. The World Music Awards show is a show that’s given annually in Monte Carlo for the best record sales in -- the best worldwide record sales. I had arranged for Mr. Jackson to be honored by the World Music Awards, and -- because of his record sales. And we had gone there for that particular purpose, for him to be honored by the World Music Awards. And to be seen around the world. And I attempted, because perception is 90 percent of what the public thinks, to get those people off of his lap.

Q. Did the Chandler family seem to remain during the entire show sitting with Michael?

A. Oh, of course. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you -- how did you get to Monaco?

A. We flew.

Q. Did you -- fly from where?

A. Los Angeles.

Q. Okay. And were there other stops on that trip?

A. To Paris. We flew from Los Angeles to Paris, and Paris to Nice, and we helicoptered to Monte Carlo.

Q. Okay. Do you recall attending any other events with Mr. Jackson on the trip to Monaco?

A. Of course, His Royal Highness Prince Albert

hosted a reception for visiting dignitaries, and I was -- he had an event -- when you go there, they have an event each night for visiting dignitaries. And there was only one event that Mr. Jackson attended.

Q. And do you recall whether or not the Chandler family were at that event?

A. They were with him.

Q. And that was because Michael insisted that the Chandler family go?

A. I don’t know whether he insisted whether they attend or not.

Q. Okay.

A. But all of his guests were invited.

Q. Okay. Were there any other guests of Michael Jackson that you haven’t named?

A. No, just the Chandler family.

Q. Okay. Now, did you begin writing your book after your employment ended?

A. I had made notes on certain things. Yes, the actual beginning of the writing of the book started after my employment ended, yes.

Q. And has there been an effort by you or your co-writer to market the book overseas?

A. Well, I would imagine that the publisher has.

Q. Has there been an attempt to market it in the United States?

A. I would imagine that the publisher has.

Q. Okay. And who is in charge of that issue?

A. My co-writer.

Q. Okay. Now, do you typically meet with your co-writer periodically?

A. We talk on the phone. That’s -- that’s perhaps one of the reasons there is some confusion, because our -- he’s based in New York and I’m based in Los Angeles.

Q. Okay. And do you sort of fax or e-mail manuscripts to one another?

A. We e-mail.

Q. Okay. And do you then typically correct or change what you think is either inaccurate or inappropriate?

A. Oh, I’ve changed millions of things that were inaccurate that I didn’t say.

Q. And how far away from having a product that you think is accurate and complete are you?

A. I would say six to eight weeks.

Q. Okay. Have you come up with a date during which you intend to announce the availability of the book?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Do you remember in your interview on April 7th, 2005, a police officer asking you about whether or not there was any licking on the plane by Michael, and you said, “I just don’t remember and I would be lying to say that I did”?

A. Of course I recall saying that.

Q. And that was the truth, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, on the plane coming back, do you remember where Jordie’s mother June was seated?

A. Sure.

Q. Where was she seated?

A. We were all in first class, and on one side of the rear of first class was Michael and Jordie Chandler. On the total opposite side was June

Chandler and her daughter.

Q. Certainly June and her daughter were in a position to observe Michael and Jordie, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. So they were seated parallel to one another?

A. Yes.

Q. Nothing that went on was hidden from anybody, correct?

A. No.

Q. And where were you seated in relation --

A. I was seated at least two front -- two rows ahead of them.

Q. How many times have you been contacted by any representative of the sheriffs or police department in this case?

A. Well, I was contacted prior to my registration -- I mean, my being served with a subpoena. And at one point, a Richard Steingard, I approached him about representation because he had represented me before in this case, and then he came back and said that he could not represent me any longer. And that's when Attorney Sachs was contacted. So I had been -- they attempted to serve a subpoena to me, and at that time I did accept the subpoena at Richard Steingard's office, and following which he informed me that he could no longer represent me.

Q. Have you ever spoken to any prosecutor for the government in this case directly?

A. Who do you mean, the government?

Q. These people. The prosecutors.

A. Certainly. I've -- Mr. Auchincloss and Steve Robel.

Q. When did you last meet with Mr. Auchincloss?

A. I met with him on Friday when I was told to go home and come back.

Q. Okay. And did you meet with him before that?

A. Of course. You mentioned an April date that Mr. Auchincloss had me to come up.

Q. Okay. Was that April 7th?

A. I guess, sir. I don't -- I'm not good with dates, so --

Q. You had an interview with Sergeant Steve Robel, right?

A. And Mr. Auchincloss.
Q. Okay. How many meetings did you have with Sergeant Robel, if you know?
A. I only met Sergeant Robel when I was with Mr. Auchincloss. I met them both at the same time.
Q. Okay. So when you said, "I just don't remember and I would be lying to say that I did," about head licking, Mr. Auchincloss was right there, right?
A. We were -- we were there, yes, we were -- the three of us were in the room.
Q. So he clearly heard you say that, correct?
A. Mr. Auchincloss was in the room with Mr. Robel.
Q. And he tried to misquote you in court today, correct?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. This is argumentative; improper.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Mr. Jones, you told Stacy Brown about this head licking incident, true?
A. Apparently I did, sir.
Q. And you have previously stated that the words on the second paragraph of People's Exhibit 803, which I've shown you - that's the quotes from the book --

A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- the second paragraph - those are your words?
A. Yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Your Honor, if I may, I'd like to admit --
THE WITNESS: With -- with -- may I see that, sir, again?
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yes, you may.

A. Because -- it may be with exception. Oh, yes, those are my words.

Q. All right. So you agree that those are your words.

Your Honor, I'd like to admit People's Exhibit 803 into evidence at this time.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Let me see the exhibit.

All right. The objection's sustained. It's not going into evidence.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. May I see that?

Q. But so that we're clear today about your testimony, is it true that you looked at what was going on with the king and the boy, they were holding each other tightly, almost in a romantic sense --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Asked and answered; move to strike.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I believe there's been --

THE COURT: Overruled. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: "Holding each other tightly almost in a romantic sense, cooing. There were pecks on the cheeks and licks on the top of the head"; is that true, those are your words?

A. I -- I -- with reservation. I know about the -- as I told you --

Q. I'm asking you are those your words, sir?

A. They apparently are my words. If you have them in an e-mail from me.

Q. Today your testimony is that, "The licking is going to be important," you told Stacy that, "because it happened in this case, too." Those are your words as well?

A. I don't recall saying anything about this case. But if it was in an e-mail, I said it.

Q. You acknowledge that those words -- that this is your e-mail address?

A. B7436@aol --

Q. And this is -- you acknowledged this is one of your e-mails to Stacy Brown?

A. Nobody else could have done it but me.

Q. So do you acknowledge, based upon all the information that you have today, that you did, in fact, see Michael Jackson lick Jordie Chandler on the top of the head, sir? Yes or no.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE WITNESS: I guess -- yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.

THE COURT: Just a moment. There was an objection.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Sorry.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled. The answer was, “Yes.”

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And your testimony is that this incident happened on a plane flying back from Europe?

A. On flying back from Paris to Los Angeles.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Mr. Jones, on April 7th, you told the police and Mr. Auchincloss you’d be lying if you said you saw Mr. Jackson licking Mr. Chandler, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Misstates the evidence and argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer. Do you want the question read back?

THE WITNESS: I would say since he -- I have to say it has to be true if it came in my e-mail.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: But, sir, you just told the police the other day that you’d be lying if you said he did that, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objections.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Right?

A. I -- I, again, have to say what I said. If it’s in my e-mail, it’s true.

Q. But you just told the jury you don’t recall seeing something like that, correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Asked and answered; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I go back with the same answer. It was in my e-mail. So if it was in my e-mail, I’m taking responsibility for the e-mail.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Well, but you’ve also indicated a number of the things you wrote are not accurate, true?

A. I didn’t write anything. My co-writer wrote those things. But he is -- he has shown me an e-mail that I wrote and sent to my co-writer.

Q. But, sir, you just told the jury what you told the police last week, which is that you’d be lying if you said you saw that, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I believe that misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Is that what -- he’s really asking you, “Is that what you told the police?” Did you tell the police --

THE WITNESS: Yes, that is what I told the police.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Jones, you didn’t say, “I would be lying if I said that.” You said, “I would be lying if I said I remembered that”; isn’t that true?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And is it fair to say that based on everything you have before you today, you now remember the incidents that you’ve testified concerning the licking?

A. I don’t remember. But there is an e-mail which provides explicit evidence that the e-mail came from me.

Q. And you believe your e-mails are true; you’ve testified to that?

A. I would not have just made it up.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor. Subject to re-call.
THE COURT: All right. I haven’t excused him.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m sorry.
THE COURT: Call your next witness.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Call Stacy Brown.
THE COURT: When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing.
Face the clerk, over here, and raise your right hand.

STACY BROWN
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.
THE WITNESS: Stacy Brown. S-t-a-c-y; Brown, B-r-o-w-n.
THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Good morning, Mr. Brown.

A. Good morning.
Q. What is your occupation, sir?
A. I’m -- currently I’m an analyst for MS-NBC and I’m also an author.
Q. All right. As an author, have you had occasion to collaborate with writers in the creation of books?
A. Oh, yes, several.
Q. Can you give me an example?
A. Well, in 2002, published by Simon & Schuster, I co-authored the book Blind Faith, a biography of Stevie Wonder and his mom, Lula Hardaway.
Q. Have you worked in the past to -- collaborated in the past with any members of the family of Michael Jackson in the creation of books?

A. Yes, I have.
Q. Who would that be?
A. That would be his older sister, Rebbie Jackson, and his brother Jermaine Jackson.
Q. And when I say “Mr. Jackson,” is he the man seated to my right with the long black hair?
A. Yes.
Q. Were those -- was there ever any attempt to publish those two books that you just described?
A. The latter two, Rebbie and Jermaine?
Q. Yes.
A. That I -- there was --

Q. Were they published?
A. No, they was not published.
Q. Do you know why not?
A. Well, the last one with --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Were those books, either of them, pulled from the publisher by you?
A. Yes.
Q. Why?
A. At the direction of --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: May I ask foundation or relevance, Your Honor?
THE COURT: The relevance.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right.
Q. Mr. Brown, did you collaborate with Bob Jones or are you collaborating with Bob Jones in the writing of a book concerning his experiences as an employee of Michael Jackson?
A. That’s correct.
Q. How long have you been doing that?
A. Since last summer.
Q. How did you meet Bob Jones?
A. I met Bob years ago. He was, of course, working for Michael. I was a reporter for the L.A. Daily News at the time, and we were covering a story about Michael's -- the birth of Michael's first child. And I had talked about -- everyone had talked about, everyone in the media, when they want information or comments from Michael on things that -- like having a baby.

Q. Who approached whom concerning the writing of this book?

A. Last January during the arraignment here, Bob Jones approached me -- we were both standing outside that day, and he approached me about writing that book.

Q. And you've worked together to prepare a manuscript?

A. Yeah, we did. And we didn't -- you know, I didn't initially agree to write the book.

Q. Okay.

A. There was some concerns that I had. I didn't want to --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So did you originally want to write this book?

A. Not originally, no.

Q. Why not?

A. Well, I knew --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It goes to -- offered as credibility.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Tell me about the collaboration process with Mr. Jones. How has this book come together?

A. Well, I interviewed Bob, another writer also interviewed Bob as well, about his experience, not only with Michael. We have to remember Bob worked with a lot of people including Lionel Ritchie, Rick James, Barry Gordy, the Jacksons as a family.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. So Michael was -- and Bob's mind was seen as just a small part of his story, but obviously the publisher wanted more about Michael because he is Michael.

Q. When you're collaborating with an individual in the preparation of a manuscript, are there -- is there a dialogue with publishers to see what kind of book the publisher will be interested in?

A. Oh, absolutely.

Q. And do you employ a literary agent to try --

A. Yes.

Q. -- and market the book?

A. Yes. And in this particular case, we employed quite a few.

Q. Why is that?

A. Well, Bob has problems trusting people.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can withdraw that.

THE COURT: All right. I'll strike his answer. You can rephrase the question.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine.

Q. How many agents did you work with?

A. Gosh. It's now -- five now.

Q. And you currently -- are you currently employing an agent?

A. Yes, we are. We are currently employing two.

Q. And what are their names?

A. Neil Gudovitz and Bill Gladstone.

Q. In working with Mr. Jones, how did you communicate with one another?

A. We spoke a lot over the phone. We met in person. And a lot of times, because of the distance, we e-mailed each other.

Q. And so how would it work in terms of his working with you?

A. What would happen is he would send me an e-mail of a lot of his notes that he had kept over the years. We would talk about them, and then I'd start writing. And I would send him what I write, and he would have to approve it, and then he would send it back with any type of changes that needed to be made, and the changes would be -- then be made.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I may approach, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Mr. Jones -- or Mr. Brown, I show you People's Exhibit 803. Could you identify those two passages for me?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. I'll allow him to identify them.

THE WITNESS: By "identify," read them?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: No, just identify them. Are those two passages that came from the book that you're working on with Mr. Jones?

A. That's correct, yes.

Q. And while I'm up here, I'm going to show you People's Exhibit 804. Can you identify that for me?

A. An e-mail Bob Jones sent to me.

Q. You personally received that from Mr. Jones?

A. That's correct.

Q. And an e-mail --

A. That's correct. Another e-mail.

Q. That's Exhibit 805. That's one he sent you as well?

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, for the record, are these complete e-mails or did they have some material?

A. Oh, they had a lot of material.

Q. But this is just a portion of them?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. Did Bob Jones, during your collaboration with him in the writing of this book, tell you about an incident in which he observed the defendant, Michael Jackson, lick a boy by the name of Jordie Chandler on the head?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; and leading.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered under 1236.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Just answer that "yes" or "no."

THE WITNESS: Yeah. Yes, he did.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: What did he tell you?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Well, he described an incident, they were going to the World Music Awards in Monaco, I believe it was. And he talked about how strange it was, because Jordie had a head full of hair, and he said, “I thought maybe it would be more” -- you know, “It would be understandable if he had a bald head.” But he just couldn’t understand the licking of the head when he had a head full of hair.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: He said he saw Michael Jackson lick Jordie’s head?
A. Correct.
Q. Those two passages that I showed you in Exhibit 803, did you ever share that manuscript that contained those passages with Mr. Jones?
A. Oh, yeah. Absolutely. Bob had to approve everything that went to the publisher.
Q. So everything that went to the publisher was approved by Mr. Jones?
A. That’s correct.
Q. And did this -- did those two passages that I just showed you go to the publisher?
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. Did you discuss this issue of the licking incident on more than one occasion?
A. Oh, yes, we did. Do you want me to --
Q. Go ahead.
A. Yeah, we did. Beginning in, I would say, maybe August or September, he and I discussed it. And we discussed it with another writer, Dennis love, and also our agent and the publisher.
Q. Okay. You previously mentioned Neil Gudovitz and Bill Gladstone. Was it discussed with those two gentlemen?
A. Yes.
Q. And your publisher, who would that be?

A. That would be Select Books.
Q. Okay. Specifically who was this issue discussed with?

A. Well, it was discussed not only with -- well, specifically at Select Books?

Q. Yes. And I mean by Mr. Jones himself.

A. We had -- well, I don't know that Bob discussed it with Select. But we discussed it with Simon & Schuster and Harper Collins in a conference call that we had. Bob discussed it with them. They discussed the entire -- the entire proposal that we put before them, and that included that.

Q. All right. This e-mail that I showed you, 804 - I'll show it to you again just so you're familiar with what I'm talking about - references that, "The licking is going to be important because he did it in this case, too."

Can you tell me, what was the context of that remark?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; and calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: What did you understand he was referring to when he said, "this case, too"?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Excuse me. Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you stay abreast of the information in the media during the writing of this book?

A. Yeah, I had to. It's my job.

Q. Okay. Did you -- did you check the Internet sources of news media?

A. Yeah. I look at different newspapers and news outlets throughout the country, and their take on what's going on as well.

Q. And on October 30th, 2004, had you ever heard of any kind of licking that had gone on in the case of People v. Michael Jackson that's presently before the Court?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: In the media outlets.

MR. MESEREAU: Improper hearsay.

THE COURT: I guess I'm not sure where you're going with what his knowledge is of this case, how that relates to what Mr. Jones has said.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Whether it had been reported in the media from another source - he says he kept abreast of all the media sources - or whether this was the first time he'd heard it.

THE COURT: All right. If you'll rephrase the question to relate to the relevance that you're describing.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. My question is this, Mr. Brown: When Mr. Jones wrote you this e-mail on October 30th, were you aware at that time that there was an allegation of licking in the case involving Gavin Arvizo and Mr. Jackson?

A. I can't say that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Go ahead.

A. I can't say that I was, because I -- when Bob told me, it was the first that I'd heard of the incident. He had actually heard it first as it pertains to this case, and that's when -- that prompted him to share with me that it was going to be important.

Q. Now, he says in that e-mail, "The licking is going to be important because he did it in this case, too." Was that the first time you heard of the connection between the two --

A. Yes.

Q. -- cases?

Had he talked to you about the licking before that?

A. We had started discussing --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; hearsay.

THE COURT: I'll overrule the objection.

But the question is simply whether or not he discussed this with you before that e-mail.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So that's a "yes" or "no."

A. That particular e-mail?

Q. Yeah, before that e-mail.

A. The e-mail, no. The incident, yeah.

Q. Okay, the incident. He discussed it before that e-mail?

A. Yeah.

Q. Has Mr. Jones ever indicated to you a fear of testifying in this case?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; relevance; calls for speculation; move to strike.

THE COURT: Sustained. The objection is sustained. Stricken.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was there a period of time when Mr. Jones all of a sudden began to have a loss of recollection or something of that nature regarding this licking incident?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; calls for speculation.

THE COURT: I'll sustain the objection as the question is too broad.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. At some time during your collaboration with Mr. Jones, did he ever try to deny his recollections about this licking incident?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; calls for speculation; relevance; foundation.

THE COURT: I'll overrule the objection. The question should be read back to the witness.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: Yeah. He had fuzzy recollections about it, yes.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Was there --

THE COURT: Just a moment. We're going to take our break.

(Recess taken.)

BROWN, Stacy	5583-M	5593-A	5595-M
CHANDLER, June	5596-SN	5658-M	5727-SN	5734-M
SWINGLER, Dwayne	5736-A	5754-M	5765-A

THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Your Honor.
Q. Mr. Brown, where we left off, I was asking you about this period of time when Mr. Jones started to have some failure of recollection on the issue of head licking.

When did that -- do you recall when that began or when that started?

A. It’s been about a month or so now.

Q. Before that time, how many times had you been involved in a conversation where Mr. Jones talked about the head-licking incident?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I can’t tell you exact number of times, but it was more than a couple.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay. And how would you describe this change in his recollection, if you can?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can be more specific.

MR. MESEREAU: Relevance.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: My question goes to, was it an abrupt change, or was it something that occurred over a period of time, or something in between?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; relevance; foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I would say it was more abrupt than anything else.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you, Mr. Brown. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Cross-examine?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Brown.

A. Good morning.

Q. How long have you known Bob Jones?

A. The year Princess Diana died. I think it was ‘97.

Q. Okay. And approximately when did he tell you he intended to write a book?

A. It was about January, a few months before he was terminated.

Q. And you've been interviewed by the sheriffs in this case, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you told the sheriffs that Bob Jones told you he's broke and he needs to make some money, right?

A. That's what --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you gone through different drafts with Mr. Jones?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. On the issue of head licking, did Mr. Jones tell you at one point he had to make money on this book because he had financial problems?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Hearsay; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: He didn't -- Mr. Mesereau, he didn't tell me that in relation to the head licking. That never came up in discussions of money.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: But he told you he's broke and has to get paid for this book, correct?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Hearsay; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: When we first started the book, he said he needs the money. He was just fired.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And he said he was broke, right?

A. Yes. That's correct.

Q. You told the police you said he was broke, right?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. Now, how did -- how did the -- let me rephrase that.

Obviously at some point you met with Bob Jones about writing a book, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And where did you meet with him?

A. Well, as I said earlier, he first approached me here at the court, back during the arraignment.

Q. And did he tell you then he wanted to write something?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And that’s before he --

A. That’s before his termination.

Q. Okay. And how long before his termination was that, do you think?

A. Well, it was January, so -- the termination was in June. So four, five months.

Q. And did he tell you he was doing it secretly?

A. Well, he didn’t say secretly, but he said -- obviously any process with a book, you don’t want everyone to know this is what you are doing. I did, however, myself, tell members of the family, to get their thoughts on it, because that was my concern, what their thoughts may be with me doing a book with Bob Jones with -- chiefly it had to be about Michael Jackson.

Q. Okay. Now, did Mr. Jones tell you he was talking to anyone from the sheriff’s department?

A. Not at that time, no.

Q. When did you first learn that he had spoken to anyone from the sheriff’s department?

A. I believe they first contacted him in December of last year.

Q. And based on the prosecutor’s questions to you, you must have learned at some point that Bob Jones was saying he couldn’t really remember seeing any head licking, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: I’m sorry, I can’t read the --

THE REPORTER: “Learned” instead of “render.”

THE COURT: All right. The objection is Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Could you repeat it, sir?

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll have it read back. May it be read back, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.
(Record read.)
THE WITNESS: Oh, I wouldn't say it was based on the prosecutor's -- that. I think it was simply when I spoke with him, he got a little nervous about that particular vein. I think he realized that it was going to become a part of this --

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Well, did you and Mr. Jones discuss the fact that the Arvizos went to Larry Feldman, the same lawyer who represented the Chandlers?
A. The --
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Relevance; beyond the scope; and argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Has the name Larry Feldman come up in the book you're writing?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Same objection.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Not by name, but certainly by title and by inference. Bob did say, based on his notes back in --
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Well, just -- you just have to answer the question, okay? I'll get into that --
A. Okay.
Q. -- okay?
Does the book concern this case in any respect?
A. I would think in some respects.
Q. And is it your plan to market the book while this trial is going on?
A. Well, it all depends on when it's finished.
Q. Has he ever talked to you about when he plans to complete the book?

A. Well, I have a lot of say in that, so we've talked about that, and we've always said we don't want it to be a rush job, and a lot of people want it to be a rush job. The publisher wants it to be a rush job.

Q. The publisher wants it to be a rough job --

A. Rush job.

Q. -- rush job because you can sell it better while the trial is going on, right?

A. Obviously, if it comes out now, it would probably pique some interest because it’s Bob Jones, who, you know, has worked for Michael for so long, and it’s Michael.

Q. Now, have you discussed the amount of money he might make on the book?

A. No, you know, we -- we’ve been made promises in the past. We don’t listen to that. We don’t even speculate on what can be made.

Personally, I just enjoy writing, so, you know, the money aspect -- I think I do pretty well. It’s not a big deal to me.

Q. Do you remember you were interviewed by a Santa Barbara sheriff on December 7th, 2004?

A. Around about, yeah.

Q. And you were approached by Sergeant Robel, right?

A. Uh-huh. Yes, that’s correct. I’m sorry.

Q. And the purpose of the interview was to talk to you about this alleged head-licking event, right?

A. I’m not sure if that was the purpose of the interview. We talked about various things back in December, but I’m not sure that was the purpose of it.

Q. And do you remember Sergeant Robel wanted to know why you had said that Mr. Jones told you he saw Michael Jackson kiss Jordie, not lick his head?

A. Well, that’s not exactly what -- that I remember Sergeant Robel putting to me. There was a question another investigator had had about whether I said he -- Bob said he licked or kissed him, and he wanted me to clarify that.

Q. And you had told the investigator that based on your discussions with Bob Jones, he had said that Michael Jackson kissed Jordie one time, didn’t lick his head, right?

A. No, I didn’t say that.

Q. Do you remember you apologized?

A. No, no. What happened -- I apologized if it was confused. But what happened was, I think the investigator had misunderstood and that's what he was calling to clarify. That's one of the reasons why he called, to clarify exactly what I said. He said he didn't remember if I said "licking" or "kissing."

Q. Let me ask you if this is correct.

A. Sure.

Q. "Brown apologized for the mistake. Said he had not realized that he told me he was kissing as opposed to licking." Does that sound accurate to you?

A. It's probably accurate. But again, as I'm explaining to you, I explained to Sergeant Robel when he asked the question, when he asked me about that, I had told the other investigator, I think it was Zelis, I'm -- I'm not sure, but I think it was Paul Zelis, the investigator's name, and I think he was the one who had actually made the mistake or -- I won't even say "mistake." He wanted to clarify, is that what I said.

Q. Why did you apologize to him?

A. Well, I apologized for being polite. I mean, it's just a polite thing to do, you know. If I was wrong, I have no problems apologizing.

Q. Now, you're aware that Mr. Jones has indicated he doesn't remember head licking and has said he'd be lying to say that he did. Are you aware of that?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You're in the process of writing the section of the book that deals with this trip to Monaco, aren't you?

A. No. No, we're long since past that.

Q. Well, Mr. Jones has indicated that he has not approved --

A. Everything that has --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection. Argumentative; hearsay as to what Mr. Jones said; and misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: It’s an incomplete question, too.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Mr. Jones has final approval over what’s in that book, doesn’t he?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Would you agree that the more sensational the book, the better the chance of making money on it?

A. Well, obviously. I mean, we’ve been told things that nothing surprises them about Michael Jackson, so -- but it’s not our intentions to write a book of scandal, if that’s what you’re inferring. It’s certainly not mine, and I have to write it. And I have people in his family who I happen to love very much who I’m not going to disappoint.

Q. They’re not getting any money from the book, are they?

A. The family?

Q. Yes.

A. Why should they?

Q. They’re not getting any money from the book, are they?

A. I’m sorry to respond in that way. No.

Q. The one who is going to make money is Bob Jones, who’s broke, right?

A. We both will.

Q. You’re aware that Bob Jones was very upset when he was terminated, aren’t you?

A. You know what? To be honest with you, he wasn’t upset that he was terminated. He was upset in which the way Randy terminated him.

Q. I’m not sure what that means.

A. Well, Bob had --

Q. Referring to Randy Jackson, right?

A. Randy Jackson, I’m sorry. Bob had felt he’d been loyal to Michael for basically half of Michael’s life, or most of Michael’s life, I should say. And to get fired by a messenger, you know, I felt bad, too. In fact, I had spoke to someone in Michael’s family about that. I said, “That’s horrible.” But he was just upset in the method. He knew that eventually his time was going to be up just like everyone else’s.

Q. In the draft that you and Mr. Jones have written, Mr. Jones says on at least two occasions that he’s never seen Michael Jackson act inappropriately with children, right?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Well, if it was the exact -- well, I don’t remember the exact wording, but to say that he saw him molest anybody, no, it does not say he saw him molest anybody.

MR. MESEREAU: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Jones (sic), I previously showed you People’s Exhibit 803. Did Mr. Jones approve those two passages?

A. Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Ask to move 803 into evidence.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Relevance.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Offered as a prior inconsistent statement as to the first passage and a prior consistent statement as to the second.

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: The ruling remains the same.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Ask at this time to admit the two e-mails, Your Honor, Exhibits 804 and 805, into evidence at this time.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; authenticity; relevance.

THE COURT: I’ll take that up later.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. Mr. Brown, you said that Mr. Jones was complaining about his finances on cross-examination.

A. Uh-huh. Yes.

Q. Is this a frequent complaint?

A. Yeah, he’s -- well, yeah, he’s made a few complaints about that.
Q. Was there a time when he stopped complaining about his finances during this period of collaboration?
A. Yes.
Q. Was what -- when -- when he stopped complaining about finances, tell me, was there any relationship in time to that point and the time in which he started to have this failure of recollection?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; vague; foundation.
THE COURT: I’ll sustain vague.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Can you tell me approximately when in time Mr. Jones stopped complaining about his finances?
A. It’s been about a month or so.
Q. And when in time did he start to have his failure of recollection?

A. About a month or so.
Q. Did they -- did both of those coincide in time?
A. I would say so, yes.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mr. Brown, what I think the prosecutor just elicited is the following: When he was broke, he said there was licking. And when he didn’t have financial problems, he said there wasn’t any, right?
A. Well, if that’s how you --
Q. Right?
A. -- break it down, yeah, I guess.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: No further questions.
THE COURT: Thank you. You may step down.
Would you give me Exhibits 804 and 805?
Call your next witness.
MR. SNEDDON: June Chandler, Your Honor.
THE BAILIFF: She’s on her way, Your Honor.

THE COURT: 804 and 805 are not admitted. Come forward, please. When you get to the witness stand here, remain standing. Face the clerk here and raise your right hand.

JUNE CHANDLER

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: June Chandler. J-u-n-e; C-h-a-n-d-l-e-r.

THE CLERK: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: You’re welcome.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Good morning, Mrs. Chandler.

A. Good morning.

Q. I want to go back in time a little bit to around 1992 and ‘93, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you related in some fashion to Jordan Chandler?

A. Yes. He is my son.

Q. Okay. And we’re going -- you know, I should have done this before we started.

A. Yes.

Q. You have to lean right into that microphone so everybody can hear what you have to say. We’ve had the same problem with everybody, so it’s not just you.

A. Okay.

Q. You have a very soft voice, so you keep it up, all right?

A. Okay. I will.

Q. Let me start all over again and ask you again. Are you related to Jordan Chandler?

A. Yes, I am. He is my son.

Q. Do you have any other sons or daughters?

A. Yes, I have a daughter.

Q. And her name?
A. Lily Chandler.
Q. And how old is Lily right now?
A. 17 years old.
Q. Now, in 1992 and 1993, were you married?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. And to whom were you married?
A. To David Schwartz.
Q. And is David Schwartz the father of either of your children?
A. Yes.
Q. Which one?
A. Lily Chandler.
Q. And prior to your marriage with David Schwartz, you were married to Evan Chandler, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And Evan Chandler is the father of Jordan Chandler?

A. Correct.
Q. What is Jordan’s date of birth?
A. January 11th, 1980.
Q. And to your knowledge, had -- by the time of the events in 1992 and ‘93, had Evan Chandler remarried?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you know his wife or did you know his wife at that time?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And her name is?
A. Natalie Chandler.
Q. And did they have any other children?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. And the child’s name?
A. Nicky Chandler. And Emmanuelle Chandler.
Q. And at the time of 1992 and 1993, can you give us the approximate ages of those children?
A. As best as I can recall, seven and four.
Q. And who is the oldest?
A. Nicky Chandler, the son.
Q. Okay. Now, I want to show you some photographs. The first photograph we have that’s marked is 793, the next one is 794, and the next one is 795, okay?

The first one, 793, I'll ask you if you recognize the person depicted in that photograph?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Have you ever seen that person before?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. And I want to show you a photograph marked as 794, or Exhibit 794. Do you recognize the people depicted in that photograph?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Neither the top nor the bottom?

A. He might look familiar.

Q. Okay. And the bottom photograph?

A. I don't recall.

Q. And with regard to Exhibit No. 795, do you recognize any of the people depicted in that photograph?

A. I recall this boy and Michael Jackson.

Q. All right. "This boy" meaning the person on the far left-hand side of the Exhibit 795?

A. Correct.

Q. And do you recall the boy's name?

A. Brett Barnes.

Q. Do you recall where you saw Mr. Barnes, or the child Barnes?

A. At Neverland.

Q. Okay. So with regard to the Photographs 793, 794 and 795, none of those photographs are pictures of your son, correct?

A. No. No.

Q. I want to show you 776; ask you if you recognize that photograph?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And who is that?

A. That's my son.

Q. Your son?

A. Jordan.

Q. All right. Thank you.

Your Honor, with the Court's permission, I'd like to publish these just so the jury knows what the witness has testified to.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: And we’re going to do it on the Elmo, Your Honor. So if we could have that. All right, Gordon?

Q. All right. The photograph that’s on the board that’s 793 is an exhibit of the child with the long black hair. And that is not your son, Jordan Chandler?

A. No, it’s not.

Q. All right. And the next exhibit would be 794. And specifically I’m going to direct your attention to the child sitting on the floor with the arrow drawn up to him. Do you recognize that child?

A. Barely.

Q. Who do you think that -- when you say “barely,” who do you recognize --

A. I would say it’s probably a younger photo of the boy above.

Q. And do you recognize who the boy above in that photograph is?

A. I think that’s Brett Barnes.

Q. Okay. And the last photo is 795. And you indicated the child on the far left-hand side of the photograph; is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. The child with the hat next to Mr. Jackson?

A. Correct. That’s Brett Barnes.

Q. That’s Brett Barnes. All right. Thank you. And lastly, the photograph marked as 776, you’ve identified that as your child, Jordan, correct?

A. My son Jordan.

Q. Your son Jordan?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Thank you. We can have the lights again, Your Honor. Now, Mrs. Chandler, do you recognize the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson?

A. I do.

Q. And have you been in Mr. Jackson’s presence before?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, your son Jordan, did you have -- let me go back in time. Did you have an occasion where you actually met Michael Jackson?

A. Yes, I had an occasion.
Q. For the first time?

A. Yes.
Q. Would you tell the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, where did that occur?
A. That occurred at my ex-husband's employment, Rent-A-Wreck.
Q. And where is that located?
A. In West L.A.
Q. And was -- do you remember about approximately when that occurred?
A. It was in the summer of '92. Late summer.
Q. And were you actually at the -- your husband's place of business when Mr. Jackson showed up?
A. After he showed up, yes.
Q. Okay. You received a telephone call from someone?
A. Yes, from my ex-husband.
Q. And by the way, your ex-husband's name is what?
A. David Schwartz.
Q. Did you ever take Mr. Schwartz's last name?
A. No, I did not.
Q. So you've always been June Chandler?
A. I've always been June Chandler.
Q. So you received a telephone call and then you went down to his place of business?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. With regard to your son Jordan, did Jordan go with you?

A. Yes, he did.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson there?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. And do you recall how long you were with Mr. Jackson and Jordan that day?
A. Briefly. Five minutes. Ten minutes.
Q. And did -- was there any information exchanged between you and Mr. Jackson that day?
A. Yes.
Q. And what was that?

A. I said, “If you would like to see Jordie or if he could call you or if you’d like to speak to him, here is our number, and you can give him a call.”

Q. And you gave that to Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, let me go back in time. Before this meeting that you had at your husband’s place of business in 1992, had Jordan ever expressed, to your knowledge, some admiration for Mr. Jackson?

A. Oh, very much so, yes.

Q. How did he display that admiration?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. SNEDDON: I didn’t ask for a statement, Your Honor. I asked for a display.

THE COURT: All right.

He’s not asking for anything that was said. Do you understand the question?

THE WITNESS: Would you repeat the question, please?

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Yes.

How did your son Jordan, prior to this meeting that occurred at David Schwartz’s place of business, express -- display his admiration for Mr. Jackson?

A. He had a little sparkly jacket that he would wear to parties. He would have a glove like Michael Jackson, and dance around like Michael Jackson.

Q. And this was all before he met Mr. Jackson?

A. Before he met Michael Jackson, yes.

Q. Now, after the incident occurred where there was an exchange where you gave Mr. Jackson your telephone number -- and let me go back and ask you a question about that. Was the telephone number you gave him your home number?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Did -- to your knowledge, did Mr. Jackson ever call your son Jordan?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And do you recall, for the ladies and gentlemen of the jury, approximately what the time span was from the incident that occurred at your ex-husband’s place of business to the time that Mr.

Jackson actually called your son?

A. To the best of my recollection, it could have been a month or two after our first meeting with Michael Jackson at Rent-A-Wreck.

Q. Were you actually in the room when Mr. Jackson called?

A. I don’t recall being in the room, but I might have been.

Q. Do you recall at some time visiting Neverland Ranch?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you recall approximately when that occurred?

A. I recall around February.

Q. Of?

A. 1993.

Q. 1993?

A. Yes.

Q. So what I want to ask you is, between the time that Mr. Jackson started calling your son to the time that you went to Neverland Ranch, can you give the jury some idea of the number of times Mr. Jackson called your son Jordan?

A. To the best of my recollection --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Were you present in the house when these conversations occurred?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Did you sometimes answer the phone?

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. Jackson was on the line?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And were you also present in the house during the time to observe the length of the conversations between your son and Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. On more than one occasion?

A. Absolutely.

Q. All right. So based upon your observations and the things that you saw and the things that you heard, give us an estimate of the number of times, that you know of, that Mr. Jackson called your son Jordan.

A. I would say eight to ten times.

Q. And with regard to those conversations in which you have personal knowledge of the length of time, could you give the jury some idea of how long these conversations lasted?

A. It was from maybe ten minutes, to an hour, or an hour and a half. It progressed. It got longer and longer.

Q. Could you describe to the jury what your son’s reaction was to these phone calls?

A. He was excited to hear from him. They were talking about things that interested Jordie, so, um --

Q. In those occasions where you picked up the phone and you talked to Mr. Jackson, did he tell you where he was?

A. No, he didn’t tell me. No.

Q. Now, how is it that you and Jordan ended up going to Neverland Valley Ranch for the first time?

A. We were invited to go to Neverland, because during those conversations, Michael Jackson said, “Would you like to come to visit? When I am finished touring,” he was doing a European tour, I think, he said we can come and visit. And my son was very excited to be able to go up there and see Neverland.

Q. Now, the first time you went to Neverland, you told the jury it was sometime in February of 1993. How did you get there?

A. I drove.

Q. And who went with you besides Jordan, if anyone?

A. My daughter Lily.

Q. And at this point in time, how old was Lily?

A. Was seven, I think. Seven or eight.

Q. And Jordan was born in 1980, so he was 13 years old at the time you made the first visit, correct?

A. 12, 13, yes. Yes.

Q. And do you recall whether it was during the week or on a weekend that you visited?

A. On a weekend.

Q. During the time that you were -- during this first visit, do you recall how many days you were there?
A. Oh, two nights.
Q. Okay. So two nights and at least two days and possibly a third day?
A. Two nights. There was not a third day.
Q. And where did you stay while you were at the ranch?
A. Guest cottage.
Q. Where did you personally stay?
A. The guest cottages at Neverland.
Q. And was there somebody in your cottage with you?
A. Yes, my daughter and my son.
Q. So Jordan stayed with you and Lily in the same cottage?
A. Yes.
Q. And was this during the entire length of this first visit?
A. Yes.
Q. And while you were at the ranch during the first visit, did you see Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. And did you spend time with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you spend a lot of time with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.
Q. And when you say, “Yes, I did,” can you tell us about what Jordan and Lily did?
A. We were all either taking rides on the Ferris wheel, playing video games. Jordie and Michael were playing video games. I was watching. Lily was playing. We looked at his animals that he had. Just different things that were at Neverland.
Q. Okay. And I think you’ve described that as being an amazing weekend?
A. Yes. Fun.
Q. Now, during the time that you were there on this first visit, do you recall whether or not you went with Mr. Jackson to a business called Toys-R-Us?

A. Yes.
Q. And could you tell us about that?
A. I guess it was after hours, after Toys-R-Us closed, and Michael said, “Jordie and Lily, you get to go shopping and buy toys, get toys.”
So we went and --
Q. When you say “we went,” who’s “we”?
A. Lily and Jordie and Michael and I went. And they had fun. They were shopping and Michael bought lots of things for them. They picked out stuff, and they were showered with great presents from Toys-R-Us.
Q. And Mr. Jackson paid for all of that?

A. I -- yes, he did.
Q. You didn’t, right?
A. No.
Q. Now, after you left Neverland Valley Ranch after this first visit, did you ever go back to Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you recall how much time elapsed between the first time you went there and the second time you went back?
A. It could be a week later or two weeks after.
Q. And when you went back the second time, do you recall how you got there?
A. I -- to the best of my recollection, I was picked up by Michael Jackson.
Q. When you say “picked up by Michael Jackson,” in what form of transportation was that?
A. In his car, limo.
Q. And who else was with you when you got picked up? I mean, from your family. Let’s start that way first.
A. It was Lily, my daughter, and Jordan.
Q. So the three of you?
A. My son.
Q. The three of you went back to the ranch?
A. Right.
Q. Was there anybody else in the limo that you recall with Mr. Jackson?

A. Well --
Q. Let me go back and make something clear.
A. Sure.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson actually in the limo himself?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Now, let’s ask the question --
A. Okay.
Q. -- was there anybody else in the limo other than Mr. Jackson and the three of you?
A. Yes, there was Brett Barnes.
Q. And do you recall where Mr. -- where the child Brett -- let me ask you this: With regard to Brett Barnes, can you estimate about approximately what age you felt Brett Barnes was at this point?
A. 11. 10, 11.
Q. So he was a child?
A. He was a child.
Q. And where was Brett Barnes in the car in relationship to Mr. Jackson?
A. Sitting next to Michael Jackson.
Q. Now, on the second visit you went to the ranch, do you recall how long you stayed?
A. A weekend.
Q. And did you spend time -- did you personally spend time with Mr. Jackson that weekend?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did Jordan spend time with him that weekend?

A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did you see Brett Barnes around there that weekend?
A. Yes. I don’t really remember, but yes, he was there, too. Yes, he was enjoying that time also.
Q. And where did you personally sleep during your stay, the second visit to Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Guest cottages.
Q. Where did Lily stay?
A. In the guest cottages.
Q. And where did your son Jordan stay?
A. In the guest cottages.

Q. Now, the guest cottages are all located in one general area, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. They're all sort of connected into one building?
A. Correct.
Q. With regard to that building, did you ever see Brett Barnes anywhere around the building and the cottages?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Now, how did you get home from Neverland on this second visit?
A. We were driven home.
Q. In a limo?

A. Yes.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson present?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was there ever an occasion where you went to Disneyland?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you recall when that happened in relationship to like either one of these first, second visits?
A. That could have been that weekend, the second weekend that we were at Neverland that we went -- instead of going to Los Angeles, we went to Anaheim, to Disneyland. It could have been that weekend.
Q. And who all went to Disneyland?
A. I remember Jordan, Lily, Michael and I, and perhaps Brett.
Q. Now, did you ever have an occasion to visit Neverland Valley Ranch again?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you remember approximately how much time elapsed between the second visit and the third visit?
A. It could have been a week. A weekend.
Q. And when you went to the ranch on this third occasion, was Mr. Jackson present?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. And where did you sleep?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Lily sleep?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Jordan sleep?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. At some point in time during any one of these three visits to -- these three visits you've described to the jury, did your son request to sleep in Mr. Jackson's bedroom?

A. Yes --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: -- he did.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: And do you recall during which one of the visits it was that the request came?

A. Oh, the third visit.

Q. And did you allow him to do that?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you notice -- I may not have asked this with regard to the third visit, but you indicated in at least the first visit that Jordan slept with you in your guest cottage, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. In the second visit, did Jordan sleep with you in your guest cottage?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And the third visit, did Jordan sleep with you in your guest cottage?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you notice anything with regard to what time of the day or night it was that Jordan finally came to your cottage to go to bed?

A. I assume it was late, after eleven o'clock.

Q. Why do you assume that?

A. Because they were playing all day and all night. And it was a weekend. He did not have school, so he was allowed to stay up later than 11:00.

Q. During any of your visits to Neverland Valley Ranch, did you ever meet any children from New Jersey?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember their names?
A. Frankie and Eddie.
Q. And with regard to Frankie at this point in time, do you recall approximately how old Frankie was?
A. Around the same age as Jordan, or maybe younger.
Q. And how about Eddie?
A. I don’t recall. I don’t know which one is which.
Q. Do you recall their last name at all?
A. Cascio.
Q. And do you remember which one of the visits to the ranch was it that you met Frank Cascio?

A. No, I don’t.
Q. Was there -- was there some point in time when you took a trip with Mr. Jackson to Las Vegas?
A. Yes, there was.
Q. And do you remember when that trip occurred? Just approximately what month, for instance?
A. The end of March.
Q. Of 1993?
A. Of ‘93. Correct.
Q. Excuse me, my allergies are acting up today. How did you get to Las Vegas?
A. By jet, private jet.
Q. And who was with you on the jet?
A. My son Jordan, Lily, myself and Michael.
Q. And when you got to Las Vegas, where did you stay, what hotel?
A. The Mirage Hotel.
Q. And when you got to The Mirage Hotel, do you remember what time of day or night it was?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember how long you stayed in Las Vegas on this occasion?
A. Two or three nights.
Q. Now, when you got to Las Vegas, did you have -- obviously you had a room --
A. Correct.
Q. -- in The Mirage.

And who was in your room when you first got there? Who was staying in your room?

A. Jordan, myself, Lily and Michael.

Q. All in the same room?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, did those arrangements change at any point in time?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did they change?

A. The second night things changed.

Q. With regard to “things changed,” could you tell me what changed first?

A. Well, there were approximately three bedrooms in that suite at the Mirage Hotel. Lily and I were staying in one bedroom, Jordie had another bedroom, and Michael had another bedroom. The second night, they were going to see a performance, Cirque du Soleil performance.

Q. “They” meaning who?

A. Jordie and Michael --

Q. Okay.

A. -- and Lily and I. It was around 11 p.m. at night, and I got a call from somebody at Cirque du Soleil saying, “Where is Michael?” And I said, “He should be there with my son.” They said, “He’s not here.”

A little while later, another call, he still didn’t show up. They still did not show up. And

I -- there’s a knock on the door and it’s Michael and Jordan, and they came back into the suite. Michael --

Q. Now, let me stop you right there, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. About what time is it when your son Jordan and the defendant in this case, Mr. Jackson, showed up?

A. Well, I think the performance started at 11:00, and I would say Jordan and Michael showed up around 11:30.

Q. Now, could you describe for the jury Mr. Jackson’s demeanor at the time that they came back to the room?

A. He was sobbing. He was crying, shaking, trembling.

Q. Michael Jackson was?

A. He was.

Q. And what about your son’s demeanor?

A. He was quiet.

Q. Now, at that point in time, did Mr. Jackson tell you why he was upset or crying?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Tell the jury what he said.

A. He said, “You don’t trust me? We’re a family. Why are you doing this? Why are you not allowing Jordie to be with me?” And I said, “He is with you.” He said, “But my bedroom. Why not in my bedroom? We fall asleep, the kids have fun. Boys” --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; narrative.

THE COURT: Narrative; sustained.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Tell us what - Mr. Jackson said that he wanted your son to sleep with him in his bed - what you said to Mr. Jackson.

A. What I said to Michael was, “This is not” -- “This is not anything that I want. This is not right. Jordie should be able to do what he wants to do. He should be able to fall asleep where he wants to sleep.”

Q. Is this you talking or Mr. Jackson speaking?

A. I was saying this. And Michael was trembling and saying, “We’re a family. Jordie is having fun. Why can’t he sleep in my bed? There’s nothing wrong. There’s nothing going on. Don’t you trust me?”

Q. All right. How long do you think this conversation lasted between you and Mr. Jackson over where Jordan was going to sleep that night?

A. I would say 20 to 30, 40 minutes.

Q. So it was a back-and-forth conversation; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall how many times during that conversation that Mr. Jackson emphasized the fact that you didn’t trust him?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE WITNESS: No, I don't recall how many times --
THE COURT: Just a moment.
THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Go ahead. You may answer.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Go ahead.
A. I don't recall how many times.
Q. Was it on more than one occasion?
A. Absolutely, yes.
Q. Was it on many occasions?
A. Quite a few.
Q. Do you remember how many times during the conversation that Mr. Jackson emphasized to you that you were family?
A. Many times.
Q. Did you at some point in time relent and allow your son to sleep with Michael Jackson in his bedroom?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And was it after that discussion on that night?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that the first occasion?
A. Correct.

Q. When you were in Las Vegas, do you remember how many of the nights in Las Vegas that your son Jordan slept with the defendant, Michael Jackson, in Michael Jackson's room?
A. I would say two occasions.
Q. Now, at some point in time after you had agreed to let your son Jordan sleep with Mr. Jackson, were you the recipient of a gift from Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. Would you describe that to the jury?
A. It was a gold bracelet, and it was given to me by Michael.
Q. And you say "a gold bracelet." Had you seen that gold bracelet in a shop of some kind before?
A. I had seen it before, yes.
Q. And the brand name on that bracelet?

A. Cartier.

Q. Was it expensive, to your knowledge?

A. Oh, I -- yes, it was.

Q. When was it you received this gift in relationship to having agreed to allow your son to sleep in bed with Mr. Jackson?

A. I think it was the next evening when we were attending a show, a magic show, by David Copperfield.

Q. Mrs. Chandler, do you recall after Las Vegas where you went, where you personally and Jordan went? When you came back from Vegas, where did you go; do you recall?

A. After Vegas, I -- it could be back to Disneyland, back to Neverland, or home. I’m not exactly certain.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson with you wherever it was that you went? Did he go back with you, in other words?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And did Mr. Jackson continue to spend his nights with your son in the same room, in the same bed, from Las Vegas, from that point on?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there other visits to Neverland Valley Ranch after you came back from Las Vegas?

A. Yes, there were.

Q. And were there occasions when your son went up to the ranch where you and Lily did not accompany him to the ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember on how many such occasions?

A. I would say two or three times.

Q. And were there occasions also where you and Lily and Jordan also went up to the ranch after Las Vegas?

A. Yes.

Q. And on those occasions when you went up to the ranch after Las Vegas, where did you stay?

A. I stayed in the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Lily stay?

A. In the guest cottages.

Q. And where did Jordan stay?
A. In Michael Jackson's bedroom.
Q. Were there ever any occasions that you recall where you actually, when you got to the ranch, that you would take Jordan's suitcase in and take it into Mr. Jackson's bedroom and leave it there?
A. Possibly.
Q. So you knew that he was going to be spending the night with Michael Jackson in Michael Jackson's bedroom at this point in time?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, were there occasions after you got back from Las Vegas -- let me -- where Mr. Jackson actually was invited to stay at your residence where you lived at this point in time?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, what city was it that you lived in at this time?
A. Santa Monica.
Q. We're talking about 1993, in the spring, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Okay. Where did you live?
A. Santa Monica.

Q. And at this point in time, was Mr. Schwartz living with you?
A. No, he wasn't.
Q. So in the household was there anybody besides you and Jordan and Lily?
A. My housekeeper.
Q. And was that a full-time housekeeper?
A. Yes, she was.
Q. 24 hours a day?
A. Yes.
Q. Did she live in the house?
A. Yes, she did. She was a live-in.
Q. That's what I meant. Sorry. Clumsy question.
And during this time, did Mr. Jackson ever spend the night at your residence?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And do you recall on how many occasions Mr.

Jackson spent the night at your residence?

A. I would say more than 30 times.

Q. And were some of those occasions on consecutive days or nights?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long consecutively do you think that that occurred?

A. Oh. It could be a week or two at a time.

Q. Where did Mr. Jackson stay in the house?

A. In Jordan’s bedroom.

Q. Are there more than one bed in that room?

A. No.

Q. I am assuming that Jordan was going to school during this period of time.

A. He was.

Q. So Mr. Jackson would spend the night there. What would happen when Jordan would go to school? To your knowledge, what did Mr. Jackson do?

A. Michael would leave.

Q. And approximately what time would he return?

A. After Jordan came home from school.

Q. And so was this the routine that was followed during the time that Mr. Jackson was staying at your residence?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever -- have you ever been to Disney World --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in Orlando, Florida?

A. Yes.

Q. And have you been to Disney World with the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you remember approximately when it was that you went to Disney World with Mr. Jackson?

A. I would say in May.

Q. Of ‘93?

A. Of ‘93.

Q. And when you went to Disney World with Mr. Jackson, who else went with you?

A. Jordan and Lily.

Q. Do you recall where you stayed?

A. I recall The Grand Floridian was one hotel.

Q. And during the time that -- do you remember how many days -- did you go there on more than one occasion?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. How many occasions?

A. Twice.

Q. And do you recall what the sleeping arrangements were on the first occasion?

A. Jordie was with Michael and Lily was with me.

Q. And when you say “with Michael” --

A. In Michael’s bedroom.

Q. Now, during the time that you visited Disney World in Orlando, would you describe the nature of the relationship that was going on, that you observed personally, between the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson, and your son Jordan?

A. The behavior, you say?

Q. Yeah.

A. The behavior with my son was he was not wanting to be with Lily and I anymore, and he was just with Michael the whole time, and he wasn’t too happy. Just -- well, I couldn’t -- I didn’t have any communication with him really.

Q. Was this something that you observed for the first time in Orlando or was this something that you began to observe over a period of time?

A. It was a period of time, and it gradually happened.

Q. Did you notice any change in your son --

A. Yes.

Q. -- Jordan?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the nature of the change?

A. Well, he started dressing like Michael. He started acting withdrawn, sort of smart-alecky. Not as sweet as he normally was. And withdrawn. He just didn’t want to be with us, Lily and I.

Q. Had you always been close prior to that?

A. Extremely close.

Q. Do you -- I think you answered this, but just in case, how many days did you think you were in Florida?

A. Oh, I don't really remember, but it's probably more than two nights. Two, three nights.

Q. And after you came back from Florida, do you recall where you went?

A. After that, I think the next trip was to Monaco.

Q. In between the time that you went to Florida and to Monaco, do you recall where you were -- where you were personally staying?

A. No. I guess home.

Q. Do you remember how much time elapsed between the two trips?

A. Not really, no.

Q. Was it more than a month, more than a week? Obviously it was more than a day or so.

A. Yes. It was a couple -- it could be three weeks.

Q. And during that time when you got back from Florida till the time that you left for Monaco, were you with Mr. Jackson?

A. At times.

Q. And the times that you were with Mr. Jackson, was Jordan with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And when he's with Mr. Jackson, where did he sleep?

A. With Mr. Jackson.

Q. Do you know somebody by the name of Joy Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know somebody by the name of Wade Robeson?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall where it was that you met Joy Robeson?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Where was that?

A. That was at Neverland, one of the visits.

Q. Do you recall when it was that you met Wade Robeson?

A. One of the visits to Neverland.

Q. And do you recall approximately which visit it would have been or what month it would have been that you met these individuals?
A. It could have been my third visit to Neverland.
Q. Did you meet them on more than one occasion?
A. I met Wade on more than one occasion, yes.
Q. And how many times did you meet Joy Robeson?
A. One.
Q. One occasion?
A. That I remember.
Q. There were occasions when Wade Robeson was there that the mother was not there?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, you’ve indicated to the jury on at least one occasion, perhaps two, that Brett Barnes was also at Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Yes, he was there too.
Q. And did you ever meet Brett Barnes’ mother?
A. No.
Q. So he was at the ranch by himself also?
A. Oh, yes. Yes, he was.
Q. Did you ever meet a Mr. Robeson, the father?

A. No. No, not that I remember.
Q. Did you ever meet a Mr. Barnes at any point?
A. Not that I remember, no.
Q. So no fathers in the picture?
A. No.
Q. Now, prior to the time that you met Joe Robeson for the first time - okay? --
A. Yes.
Q. -- on your visit to Neverland Valley Ranch, did you have a discussion with the defendant in this case, Mr. Jackson, with regard to some warnings that Mr. Jackson gave you about Joy Robeson?
A. Yes.
Q. What did Mr. Jackson tell you?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance.
MR. SNEDDON: I think it’s an admission of Mr. Jackson with regard to the relationship with the boys.
MR. MESEREAU: Relevance and hearsay.
THE COURT: I’m not sure what you’re trying to introduce. I’m searching my memory for that. I don’t know, maybe you should approach with counsel.

MR. SNEDDON: Thank you, Your Honor.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Mrs. Chandler?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Now, you had a conversation with Mr. Jackson, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, at the time -- and please do not tell us what was said, but did you subsequently have a conversation with Miss Robeson --

A. Yes, I did.

Q. -- wade’s mother?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Now, after that conversation, did you develop any concerns about some of the things that she had told you?

A. I --

Q. I think you have to answer that “yes” or “no.” We don’t want to get into what she said.

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to that particular conversation, let me ask you this: Had you been invited by the defendant in this case, Mr. Jackson, to go on a tour with him, you and Jordan?

A. Yes.

Q. And where were you invited by Mr. Jackson to go on a tour?

A. I don’t know where the tour was going. I guess a world tour somewhere in the summertime.

Q. Do you know where Miss Robeson, Mrs. Robeson, was from, what country?

A. Australia.

Q. Do you know whether one of the stops on that tour was going to be Australia?

A. I think it was, yes.

Q. Okay. Let’s talk a little bit about your trip to France.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall approximately when that was?

A. I think the middle of May.

Q. And how did you get there?

A. We flew.

Q. And was it on a charter or a commercial airline?

A. Commercial airline.

Q. And you say “we,” so could you tell us who it was that you went with?

A. My daughter, my son and Michael.

Q. And when you got to France, where in France did you stay?

A. Monaco.

Q. And how long were you in Monaco?

A. Approximately four days.

Q. And during the time that you were there, where did your son Jordan sleep?

A. In Michael Jackson’s bedroom.

Q. Now, did you ever go into that bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. And were they in bed together on occasion?

A. On occasion, yes.

Q. Now, during the time that you were in Monaco, did you do any shopping?

A. Yes.

Q. And how was it that you -- well, let me put it this way: Who went shopping with you?

A. My daughter.

Q. You and Lily?

A. Yes.

Q. And how many days did you do that?

A. Oh. One day.

Q. And who was paying for the --

A. Michael was.

Q. I’m sorry?

A. Michael was.

Q. And how did he arrange that?

A. I think I was given a credit card, his credit card.

Q. So you went shopping in Monaco on Michael Jackson’s credit card, you and your daughter?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, during this trip, did either your son or Mr. Jackson get ill?

A. Yes, they both did.

Q. They had the flu?

A. Yes.

Q. And were they in the room together the entire time?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you went to France, did you go to any other country, any other places in France, other than Monte Carlo?

A. We also went to Euro Disney outside of Paris.

Q. And do you recall how long you were there?

A. A couple of days.

Q. Again, when you say “we,” you’re talking about Jordan and Lily, and was the defendant with you?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. And you say you spent a couple of days. Where did Jordan sleep?

A. With Michael Jackson.

Q. Now, do you have a brother?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. What’s your brother’s name?

A. I have two brothers.

Q. What are their names?

A. Steven Wong and Dale Wong.

Q. And was there a time when one of your brothers -- where do they live? Let’s go that way.

A. One lives in Los Angeles. And the other lives back east in New Jersey.

Q. And was there a time when you went back east for a family wedding?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember about what month that was?

A. That was in September.

Q. And do you recall who it was who was getting married?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. That was my brother Steve and his wife.

Q. And when you went back for the wedding, what city did you go to?

A. We went to New York City.

Q. And when you went back there, who went with you?

A. My son, my daughter, and myself.

Q. And when you first got there, where did you stay?

A. We stayed in a hotel.

Q. Do you remember the name of the hotel?

A. Yes, The Rega Royal Hotel.

Q. And do you know who made the arrangements for that hotel?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Who was that?

A. Norma Stakos.

Q. And do you know who Mrs. Stakos is? Had you had prior dealings with Mrs. Stakos?

A. Yes.

Q. On a number of occasions?

A. Telephone conversations only.

Q. And who did she work for?

A. She worked for Michael Jackson.

Q. And so she made the reservations for you at the hotel?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you learn that Mr. Jackson was going to be with you in New York? Before or after you left?

A. Before.

Q. Do you remember how many days before you learned that?

A. Not really, no. I don’t remember.

Q. On the day of the actual wedding, was Mr. Jackson there?

A. No, he was not.

Q. When did he show up in relationship to the wedding?

A. After the wedding.

Q. Do you remember how many days he showed up, how many days later?

A. It could be two days later.

Q. Now, when Mr. Jackson got there, did you see him?

A. That evening briefly.

Q. Okay. Now, had something happened during the time that you were in New York with your son Jordan before Mr. Jackson arrived which caused some problems in the family?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading and vague.
THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Yes.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What was it?
A. Jordan was spending too much time with Michael. I was getting upset. My brother was also with me, and he was saying --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Don’t tell us what he said, but --
A. Okay.
Q. -- could you describe his demeanor to us?
A. Jordan was not with us. He didn’t want to be with us. He was very -- he was sullen.
Q. Now, during this time, Mr. Jackson was not there, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And to your knowledge, from your own personal knowledge, were Mr. Jackson and your son Jordan in communication with each other during this period of time?
A. Yes.
Q. By what method?
A. Telephone.
Q. And the frequency?
A. Often. Often. Long conversations.
Q. And was your brother upset by the situation, too?
A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike.
THE COURT: Stricken.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Could you describe to the -- describe your brother’s reaction to this situation that was -- that existed between Mr. Jackson and your son Jordan.

A. Yes. My brother was happy for Jordan, but he didn’t like that Jordie was just spending time with Michael and not with his family.

Q. Now, when Mr. Jackson showed up in New York, do you recall where he was staying?

A. Yes, he was staying across the hallway from my room.

Q. And when Michael Jackson showed up, where did Jordan sleep?

A. When Michael Jackson showed up, he slept in Michael’s room.

Q. Now, when Mr. Jackson showed up the first night, was there an incident that occurred in your room?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: My room?

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Yeah.

A. Yes, there was an incident.

MR. SNEDDON: You have to wait till the Judge rules.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You can answer.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Okay, you can answer now.

A. Yes, there was an incident.

Q. Who was involved in the incident?

A. My daughter Lily --

Q. Okay.

A. -- Michael and Jordan.

Q. And when you got back to your particular room, did you notice any damage in the room?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what was damaged?

A. I noticed there was damage in the morning. There were two lamps that were broken.

Q. Now, did you at some point talk to Mr. Jackson about what had happened the night before?

A. Yes.

Q. And with regard to that conversation, did it involve Jordan?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. And did it involve you?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. And did it involve Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. And the relationship between the two or three of you?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you tell the jury what the conversation was about?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection to the extent it calls for hearsay.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, this involves the defendant and it involves statements that he makes.

THE COURT: But that’s not the question you asked. I’ll sustain the objection.

Excuse me. Sustain the objection.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: All right. Let’s do it this way. What did Mr. Jackson say about the situation?

A. “Why can’t we be a family? Why are you objecting to Jordie staying with me? Why can’t we be a family? Why don’t you trust me?”

He was upset that I wanted my son back; that I -- I didn’t like the situation. It was getting out of hand.

Q. Now, you’ve told the ladies and gentlemen of the jury that Mr. Jackson had given you a bracelet at one point in time and that you had gone shopping with Mr. Jackson on his credit card in Monte Carlo.

Were there any other occasions when Mr. Jackson gave you gifts?

A. Yes.

Q. What else did he give you?

A. He also gave me jewelry.

Q. And do you recall approximately when that was?

A. I think it was approximately in June.

Q. And what kind of jewelry?

A. A pair of earrings, a necklace, and a ring.

Q. And where were these items when you first saw them?

A. The boxes were open on my bed in Santa Monica.

Q. At your house?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson staying at your house at that point in time?

A. Not really. Not really. He was there, in and out.

Q. In and out. Okay. Any other gifts you ever received from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, a gift certificate to a store.

Q. And the store?

A. To a store.

Q. Yes. The store?

A. Fred Segal.

Q. Now, to your knowledge, was there ever an occasion where your son Jordan and the defendant in this case, Michael Jackson, were at your ex-husband’s house, Evan Chandler?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And do you remember on how many occasions?

A. I would say one or two occasions.

Q. And do you remember the length of the stays on those occasions that Jordan stayed there?

A. A few days each time.

Q. So during this period of time you had custody of Jordan, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, you told us, I think, that there were two trips to Florida?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when the second trip was?

A. After June. July, early July possibly.

Q. And do you recall how long you stayed there on that occasion?

A. I would say two or three nights.

Q. And where did Jordan sleep on those occasions?

A. With Michael.

Q. Did Lily go with you on that trip?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Had Jordan’s behavior or attitude changed in any respect since the first time you described his change from Florida, the first trip?

A. It was the same. Same.

Q. Father’s Day is in June, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember a situation where you were with Jordan, your son, on Father’s Day?
A. Yes.
Q. In 1993?

A. Yes.
Q. I’m sure you were with him on other occasions. Do you recall where you were in 1993 on Father’s Day?
A. Yes, I was in New York.
Q. And to your knowledge, in your presence, did Jordan call his father on Father’s Day?
A. Eventually he did, yes.
Q. And initially, did you have a conversation with him?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did he want to call his father?
A. No, he didn’t.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; move to strike.
THE COURT: Sustained. Stricken.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of the conversation that you had with your son Jordan, did he eventually call his father?
A. I think he did, yes.
Q. All right. At some point in time, did you receive a message of some sort from your ex-husband Evan about Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. And don’t tell us what was said, okay? I just want to get the facts and the background to it. Where were you when you first heard the message?
A. In Michael Jackson’s car. In his limo.

Q. And was Mr. Jackson with you?
A. Not when I got that call.
Q. Did the call come directly to you or did you access it in some other fashion?
A. From another fashion.
Q. How was that?
A. Answering machine. I dialed in.
Q. So you dialed the answering machine on whose answering machine?
A. My answering machine at home.

Q. And there was a message on the machine from your ex-husband Evan, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you at some point later play that message for Mr. Jackson?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Are you familiar with a person by the name of Anthony Pellicano?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And who is Anthony Pellicano, to your knowledge?

A. A private investigator.

Q. And was Mr. Pellicano introduced to you by somebody?

A. By Bert Fields and Michael Jackson.

Q. In relationship to this voice message that you received on your message machine at your house, do you recall how many days after that particular message, you received that message, that you were introduced to Mr. Pellicano and Mr. Fields by Mr. Jackson?

A. It could be a week later.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; misstates the evidence; and no foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained, stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you meet Anthony Pellicano through the defendant, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, “Yes.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you meet Bert Fields through the defendant, Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you present during conversations with Mr. Pellicano and Mr. Fields and Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And this all occurred after the voice mail had been left on your message machine by your ex-husband Evan Chandler?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did the defendant, Michael Jackson, tell you who Anthony Pellicano was?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did he say about Mr. Pellicano?

A. “He can find out anything. He’s really good at this. He’s really good at investigating. If you’re having a problem, he’ll get to the bottom of it.”

Q. And Mr. Fields, Bert Fields, is what -- you know him by name. What occupation is he?

A. He’s an attorney.

Q. And he’s an attorney who works for who? Or at this point in time, who did you know he was working for?

A. He worked for Michael Jackson.

Q. Now, at some point in time, did you go to Mr. Pellicano’s office to be interviewed by Mr. Pellicano?

A. Yes.

Q. And did somebody go with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. My ex-husband, Dave Schwartz.

Q. And was there anybody else present during this conversation?

A. I don’t remember. It could be Bert Fields also.

Q. Now, after that conversation, did you go somewhere else? Do you recall where you went?

A. To Michael Jackson’s home in Century City, apartment in Century City.

Q. And was Mr. Jackson there?

A. He might have been.

Q. At that particular location, was your son Jordan Chandler there, can you tell us?

A. Yes, he might have been there, too.

Q. Do you recall whether or not or do you recall an incident -- doesn’t have to be on that particular occasion, but do you recall an occasion whether or not your son Jordan Chandler was ever interviewed by Anthony Pellicano?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Where did that interview take place?

A. In the Century City apartment.

Q. Were you present?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present during the conversation?
A. No.
Q. Where were you?
A. Upstairs or in his -- somewhere else.
Q. And do you recall how long that conversation took?
A. Could have been 45 minutes.
Q. Now, after Mr. Pellicano and Mr. Fields were introduced to you by Michael Jackson, were you involved in some issues involving a change in custody of your son Jordan?
A. Yes.
Q. And were you -- were you presented with some papers to sign?
A. Yes, I was.

Q. And those papers did what?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation; relevance.
THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: The papers were presented to you by whom?
A. By Pellicano.
Q. And was Mr. Fields present?
A. I don’t think at that time.
Q. Do you recall if the defendant, Michael Jackson, was present?
A. No, he wasn’t.
Q. At some point in time did you have a conversation with Michael Jackson about signing those papers?
A. I don’t recall talking to Michael about the papers.
Q. Do you recall giving a statement to an attorney, a Deputy District Attorney with the Los Angeles District Attorney’s Office on September 3rd of 1993?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. And it was Miss Lauren Weis?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. And you gave a rather lengthy statement to Miss Weis?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you recall telling Miss Weis that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; hearsay; move to strike.

MR. SNEDDON: It's foundational, or to refresh her recollection.

THE COURT: If you want to refresh her recollection with something, you can approach her and show the item.

MR. SNEDDON: All right. Counsel, page 95, lines 15 to 19.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You have to ask her if it will help refresh her recollection, or it might.

MR. SNEDDON: Can I show it to her first? That's the way counsel's been doing it.

MR. MESEREAU: No, I haven't at all.

THE COURT: Actually, he's been asking them if it would refresh their recollection if he showed them something.

MR. SNEDDON: All right.

Q. Do you recall that conversation?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And -- and it occurred at a point in time when things were a lot fresher in your mind than they are now?

A. Yes.

Q. Would it help, perhaps, if you looked at the statement, that it might help refresh your recollection?

A. Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Just read it to yourself. Start here and right down to here. How's that? Counsel, I'm having her read lines 11 to line 25.

MR. MESEREAU: I'm going to object to that. That's improper refreshing of recollection and it's hearsay, foundational, to have her just read it.

MR. SNEDDON: That’s all I’m asking her to do. I’m just trying to help you try to find out where it is.

THE COURT: All right. Just let her look at it. Counsel knows you can refresh a person’s recollection with anything.

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor, I thought she was reading it out loud. That was my mistake. I withdraw the objection.

THE COURT: That would have been improper.

MR. SNEDDON: We’ve been down that road before.

THE COURT: All right, I’m sorry. Did we -- where are we?

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: I know where we are.

THE COURT: Is it break time yet? No.

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: I’m sorry, Judge. You’re going to have to suffer for six more minutes and you’re not getting out of here a minute early. Payback is you-know-what.

Q. All right. Mrs. Chandler, with regard to whether or not the defendant was present, did that refresh your recollection?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And do you recall whether the defendant was present?

A. He was present.

Q. And does it refresh -- did the defendant, Michael Jackson, make statements to you with regard to the particular documents that you were being asked to sign?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And do you recall what he told you?

A. He was frantic. He was begging me to, “Come over and sign this so there won’t be any lawsuits or anything. Just sign it, sign it.”

Q. And, in effect, what you signed did what to you personally?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; foundation.

MR. SNEDDON: Let me go back, Judge. I think I can correct this.

Q. I am assuming you read the document before you signed it?
A. Briefly.
Q. And you understood what it meant when you were signing it?
A. Not really.
Q. Okay. You understood -- well, let me ask you this: Did you understand -- if you didn’t understand all of it, you understood some of it, correct?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you understand a part of it that had to do with who was going to have custody for the children temporarily?
A. Exactly, yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: I’m sorry?
A. Yes.
Q. And it wasn’t going to be you anymore?
A. Exactly.
Q. Did you sign that paper?
A. I did.
Q. Mrs. Chandler, I neglected to ask you about one other incident that occurred at Neverland Ranch, okay?
A. Yes.
Q. So pardon me if we can go back in time from where we are presently. And then we’re almost done, okay?

A. Okay.
Q. Do you recall whether there was ever any occasion where your brother and your sister-in-law ever visited Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Yes, I do recall.
Q. Do you know approximately when it was that they visited Neverland Valley Ranch?
A. Approximately May.
Q. And do you know how long they were there?
A. For the day.
Q. Just came up for the day?

A. Yes. For the day.
Q. And do you recall, were you with them while they were at the ranch?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. Was Jordan at the ranch?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Where was Jordan?
A. With Michael.
Q. Now, do you remember about what time it was when you left that day, you personally?
A. Before eight o’clock.
Q. Eight o’clock --
A. P.m.
Q. P.m. Now, do you recall seeing Mr. Jackson and Jordan before you left?

A. Yes.
Q. And where did you see them?
A. They were in Michael Jackson’s bedroom.
Q. And do you recall -- did you go into the bedroom?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you go in there with your brother and sister-in-law?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. And when you went into the bedroom, where was Mr. Jackson?
A. In the bedroom with Jordan.
Q. Do you recall where?
A. Could be on the bed.
Q. You don’t remember specifically?
A. Not specifically.
Q. Okay. And Jordan, do you recall where he was?
A. On the bed, too.
Q. Now, at some point in time, Mrs. Chandler, your son Jordan Chandler was involved in a lawsuit, Chandler versus Jackson, a civil lawsuit. Do you recall that?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. And were you a participant in that lawsuit as a representative of your son?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. And who was the lawyer who represented your son during the majority of that litigation?

A. Larry Feldman.
Q. And to your knowledge, was a lawsuit filed on behalf of your son against the defendant, Michael Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you assist or help Mr. Feldman in the preparation of that lawsuit?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you support your son during that lawsuit?
A. I did.
Q. Now, as a result of the lawsuit, did your son -- and please -- don’t tell us the amount, please. Did your son receive monetary compensation from Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. Now, also as a result of that lawsuit, did you receive some monetary compensation?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you ever ask to be compensated in any way as a result of what had happened?
A. No.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; and hearsay.
THE COURT: All right. Overruled.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: You did not?
A. No.

Q. And where did the idea for you receiving compensation come from, to your knowledge?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection, to the extent it calls for hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: As a result of this lawsuit, did you receive money?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you have to sign something in exchange for that money?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And what did you sign?
A. A disclosure agreement.
Q. And what does that mean?

A. Confidentiality agreement.
THE COURT: All right. Let’s take our break.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Mrs. Chandler, I just have a couple of questions.
I want to go back to something we talked about before. You told the jury that the defendant, Michael Jackson, gave you a gift certificate at one point in time?
A. Correct.
Q. And it was to Segal?
A. Fred Segal is a store in Santa Monica.
Q. Okay. And what was the amount of that certificate?

A. $7,000.
Q. Okay. Now, let’s just go back and finish up the last part of what we were talking about.
With regard to the lawsuit, you signed some kind of an agreement, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. In exchange for that, you were given some money?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall, based upon what you know, what the agreement was, what it required of you?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: What did you give up in return for receiving money?
MR. MESEREAU: Same objection. Hearsay and foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you read the agreement before you signed it?
A. Yes.
Q. And who presented it to you?
A. Larry Feldman.
Q. Did he go over it with you before you signed it?
A. Yes.
Q. And you understood what you were signing?

A. Yes, we did.
Q. And you read the document?
A. Yes.
Q. And what did it require you to do in order to obtain money from the defendant, Mr. Jackson? You personally.
A. We couldn't --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay and foundation.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Have you ever written any books --
A. Never.
Q. -- about what happened?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Did any interviews?
A. Never.
Q. Made any money selling anything --
A. No.
Q. -- about your experience?
A. No.
MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further.
THE COURT: Cross-examine?
MR. MESEREAU: Yes, please, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Mrs. Chandler, my name is Tom Mesereau and I speak for Michael Jackson, okay?

A. Yes.
Q. If anything I ask you is not clear, please don't answer. Just say you don't understand it, and I'll try to rephrase it, okay?
A. Okay.
Q. Now, in response to the prosecutor's questions, you said you entered into a stipulation regarding custody of your son Jordie, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And in response to the prosecutor's questions, you said you did it because Michael Jackson told you to do it, right?
A. One of the people. He was one.
Q. Well, do you remember signing a sworn declaration regarding that stipulation?

A. I remember signing something about custody of Jordie.
Q. Do you remember signing a sworn declaration in which you said the only reason you signed the stipulation was because your ex-husband wouldn’t return Jordie to you if you didn’t, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And you said further, you thought the stipulation was merely for a one-week visitation period, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Nowhere in that declaration did you say anything about Michael Jackson telling you to sign anything, right?

A. That’s not correct.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to look at your declaration?
A. I’d be happy to.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Miss Chandler, have you had a chance to look at that sworn declaration?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you said in the declaration?
A. Sort of.
Q. Isn’t it true you said the only reason you signed it was because your ex-husband told you that if you didn’t sign the stipulation, you would not have Jordan returned to you, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. You said that was the only reason, correct?
A. That’s not the only reason.
Q. Well, you signed it under penalty of perjury, did you not?
A. I wasn’t asked who else was asking me to sign it.
Q. Who prepared the declaration for you to sign?
A. Evan Chandler’s attorney.

Q. Were you represented by counsel when you signed this declaration?

A. Oooh. I might have been.

Q. You actually were, weren’t you?

A. I -- I don’t recall.

Q. You were represented by counsel because you were trying to set aside the stipulation in court, right?

MR. SNEDDON: Well, Your Honor, I’m going to object to that. That’s misleading as to point and time, and vague.

MR. MESEREAU: It’s not misleading at all.

MR. SNEDDON: Wait a minute, Counsel. Judge, I object as vague as to time as to when she was represented.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll sustain the objection. It’s an argumentative question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Miss Chandler, at some point you hired a lawyer to help you set aside that stipulation, right?

A. I don’t know if that was the reason why an attorney was hired, if it was for that reason.

Q. And your attorney prepared your declaration, true?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall if the stipulation was ever set aside by your attorney?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall being represented by an attorney named Freeman?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And who is Mr. Freeman?

A. He’s an attorney that represented me for a short time.

Q. Do you recall asking Michael Jackson if he would loan David Schwartz four million dollars?

A. Never.

Q. You say you never did that?

A. Never did that.

Q. Okay. Do you recall your ex-husband David Schwartz asking you to do that?

A. Never.

Q. Do you recall him being five million dollars in debt around the time you were associating with

Michael Jackson?
A. No.
Q. Don't recall that at all?
A. Not at all.
Q. Okay. When you sued Michael Jackson, you sued through Larry Feldman, true?
A. I did not sue Michael Jackson. Jordan Chandler and his family were -- that was his family. We did not sue Michael Jackson.
Q. Okay. So you never sued him yourself, you're saying?
A. I don't believe that's how it was worded.

Q. Okay. Do you recall meetings with your attorney about that lawsuit?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. Now, you -- you and Jordan's father Evan were divorced in 1985, true?
A. Correct.
Q. And you obtained sole custody of Jordan, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And you had an informal arrangement where Evan could have custody or at least visitation rights of Jordie from time to time, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. What year did you marry David Schwartz?
A. 1985.
Q. Now, is it correct that he became Jordan's stepfather?
A. Correct.
Q. And for how long was he Jordie's stepfather?
A. For approximately six to eight years.
Q. What year did he cease to be Jordie's stepfather?
A. When we divorced.
Q. And what year was that?
A. 1994.
Q. And how old is Jordie now?
A. He is 25 years old.
Q. Can I ask you when you last spoke to him?

A. 11 years ago.
Q. At one point, David Schwartz sued Michael

Jackson, correct?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Do you recall him suing Michael Jackson claiming that Michael had interfered with his business?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial; irrelevant; calls for hearsay.
THE WITNESS: I don’t recall.
THE COURT: It’s vague as to time.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I’ll rephrase it, Your Honor.
Q. Around the time you and Evan and Jordie sued Michael Jackson with Attorney Larry Feldman, do you recall your ex-husband, David Schwartz, also suing Michael Jackson?
MR. SNEDDON: Same objection, Your Honor.
THE WITNESS: I don’t recall.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I don’t recall.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Do you recall, in response to your lawsuit, Mr. Jackson suing for extortion?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to that question.
THE COURT: Sustained. Foundation.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You sued Michael Jackson, right?
A. Jordan Chandler sued Michael Jackson.
Q. Were you listed as a plaintiff?
A. Yes.
Q. And in response to your suit, Mr. Jackson sued for extortion, true?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Okay. Were you and Evan and Jordie all represented by Larry Feldman?
A. Yes, we were.
Q. Do you know approximately when that suit settled?
A. I guess in ‘95.
Q. Do you recall Evan suing Mr. Jackson a second time?
A. No.

Q. Don’t know anything about that?
A. Nothing.
Q. Never heard about it?
A. No.
Q. Do you know who Attorney Barry Rothman is?
A. Yes.
Q. Who is Attorney Barry Rothman?
A. He was Evan Chandler’s attorney.
Q. Do you recall Attorney Barry Rothman also suing Michael Jackson?
A. No, I don’t.

Q. Okay. Now, during your trips with Michael Jackson, do you recall the name “Sony” ever being mentioned?
A. Yes.
Q. And in what context was Sony mentioned?
A. The gifts that Michael Jackson gave were from Sony. Sony recorders. We flew on the Sony jet. That’s what I remember.
Q. And do you recall, around the time you were associating with Michael Jackson, that Michael Jackson had an endorsement deal with PepsiCo?
A. Yes.
Q. And to your knowledge, that was the most lucrative endorsement deal anyone in the music business had ever entered into with PepsiCo, correct?
A. I didn’t know that.
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, that’s immaterial and irrelevant.
THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you recall learning from Michael Jackson that he owned an interest in The Beatles’ catalog?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you discuss that with Mr. Jackson?
A. Never.
Q. Did you discuss his deal with PepsiCo with Mr. Jackson?

A. No.
Q. When you filed your lawsuit against Mr. Jackson, your attorney was threatening to ruin Mr.

Jackson's music deals, correct?

A. No. Not that I recall.

Q. You don't recall that at all?

A. Not at all.

Q. Do you recall participating in settlement negotiations?

A. Yes.

Q. And when you participated in settlement negotiations, where did you used to meet?

A. Larry Feldman's offices.

Q. When did you last talk to Larry Feldman?

A. Oh, a few days ago.

Q. Did you talk about what you were going to say in court?

A. No.

Q. Did you talk about what he said in court?

A. Briefly.

Q. Did he call you or did you call him?

A. I called him.

Q. Before this discussion a few days ago, when was the last time before that you had spoken to Larry Feldman?

A. Oh, um, maybe two months before that.

Q. And did you talk to him about this case in that discussion?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you talk to him about what you were going to say?

A. No.

Q. Did you call him or did he call you?

A. I called him.

Q. Did you talk on the phone with him or did you meet with him?

A. Yes, talk on the phone.

Q. Before that discussion, when had you last spoken to Attorney Larry Feldman?

A. Perhaps ten years ago.

Q. Okay. But you never discussed anything about this case in those discussions, right?

A. No.

Q. And you never talked about what you were going to be asked in this courtroom in any of those discussions, right?

A. Not to that effect, no.
Q. Did Mr. Feldman tell you he represents the Arvizos in either of those discussions?
A. I don’t know what that is.
Q. Okay. So he never talked about his representing anyone associated with this case, besides you, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, you said something in response to the prosecutor’s questions about your son changing the way he dressed at one point, right?

A. Correct.
Q. Didn’t your son used to try and dress like Michael Jackson before he even met him?
A. When he was very young.
Q. Did you meet with the prosecutor before you testified today?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you meet with the prosecutor to talk about anything you said today?
A. Two days ago.
Q. And where was that meeting?
A. In downtown L.A.
Q. And who did you meet with?
A. With my attorney.
Q. And who is your attorney?
A. Brad Barnholtz.
Q. Who else did you meet with?
A. Tom Sneddon.
Q. Okay. How long a discussion was that?
A. Oh, perhaps an hour and a half.
Q. Did you talk about what you were going to say today?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Mr. Sneddon go over some questions that he was going to ask you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever go over some answers that you were going to give?

A. Yes.
Q. When had you met with Mr. Sneddon before that meeting?

A. Never.
Q. Have you talked to him on the phone?
A. Yes.
Q. How many times?
A. Once or twice.
Q. Okay. Now, where did you first meet Michael Jackson?
A. At Rent-A-Wreck. The business of my ex-husband.
Q. And that was the day that Mr. Jackson had a problem with his car, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And when did you see him after that initial meeting?
A. I guess maybe approximately a few months after that.
Q. The first meeting was approximately August ‘92, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Okay. And when do you think the next meeting was?
A. Perhaps maybe in February.
Q. Okay. And again, how did that meeting happen? Who called who?

A. How did the meeting --
Q. The second meeting. The first time you saw him when he had a problem with his car, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And then there was a meeting after that?
A. Right.
Q. How did that happen?
A. Through phone conversations with my son. And he -- and Michael Jackson invited us to Neverland.
Q. Okay. How did you get to Neverland?
A. By car. By my car. I drove.
Q. Okay. And did you stay over at Neverland that first time?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. How long did you stay?
A. I would say for two nights. One or two nights.
Q. Okay. And your daughter was there as well,

right?

A. Yes, she was.

Q. Okay. And you said that you, your daughter, your son, stayed in the guesthouses, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, what did you do during the day during that visit, during the two days you were there?

A. We watched movies. We went on rides. We visited his zoo. Things like that.

Q. Okay. And how did you get home? Did you drive?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When did you next talk to Michael Jackson after that?

A. Oh, I think probably the day after we got back.

Q. Did he call you?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did you talk to him?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did you get together again?

A. Perhaps a week later. A week or two later.

Q. Did you go to Neverland again?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. How did you get there?

A. He drove. His -- sorry, his chauffeur drove.

Q. Okay. And did you stay over --

A. Yes.

Q. -- on that second trip?

A. Yes.

Q. And how long was your stay over there?

A. A couple of nights.

Q. Okay. Do you remember what you did on that second trip?

A. Same thing.

Q. Okay. Did you see Michael very often on the first trip?

A. The whole time, yes.

Q. Did you see him --

A. Yes.

Q. -- very often on the second trip?

A. Yes.
Q. When you said you went to the zoo and did these fun things, was Michael always with you?
A. The first and second time?
Q. Yes.
A. Basically, yes.
Q. Okay. Did you have dinner in the main house with Michael?
A. Yes.
Q. And of course your children were there too, right?
A. Correct.
Q. After that second trip, when did you next have contact with Michael, if you remember?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object to the use of the first name.
THE COURT: All right.
MR. MESEREAU: I'll say "Michael Jackson," Your Honor.
Q. After your second visit to Neverland, did you have further contact with Michael Jackson?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And please explain what your next contact was all about.
A. I don't know if that was the time we again went to Neverland or we had taken a trip to Las Vegas.
Q. Now, in your discussion with the Los Angeles District Attorney in 1993, you talked about your visits with Mr. Jackson, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Have you looked at that transcript recently?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you last look at the transcript?
A. Briefly, today.
Q. And how did you get a copy of it?
A. Through Mr. Sneddon.
Q. Okay. Did he ask you to read it today?
A. Did he ask me to read it today?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Did he ask you to read it at any time?
A. Yes, he did.

Q. And when was that?

A. Last week.

Q. Did he give you anything else to read before you testified?

A. That's it.

Q. Okay. And did you read it from cover to cover?

A. Tried.

Q. Pardon me?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Okay. You told the District Attorney in Los Angeles when describing your first trip there, "Michael Jackson wasn't the superstar. He was a regular person, and we couldn't believe how nice he was," right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you said that after you got there, he offered to let you stay over, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Your plan initially wasn't to stay over, right?

A. Correct.

Q. You said that first night, Jordie actually knocked at your door and said he was going to stay with you, right?

A. Correct.

Q. So the first night he stayed with you and your daughter, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. Now, when did you go to Toys-R-Us with Michael Jackson?

A. Could have been the first visit or the second visit.

Q. Okay. And did Michael Jackson offer to take you there?

A. Yes.

Q. And he did take you there, right?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he drive or did you have a driver take you there, do you know?

A. We must have had a driver.

Q. Okay. Now, at one time, did you visit Roy

Disney’s widow with Michael?

A. Never.

Q. Okay. At some point you told the Los Angeles District Attorney that Michael was visiting Roy Disney’s widow in Beverly Hills; do you remember that?

A. Not really, but I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall telling that to the Los Angeles District Attorney?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to let you see that page?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the Los Angeles District Attorney?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you tell them about that?

A. I said that I was -- we had left and Michael was -- I had left Neverland with Jordie and Lily, and he was going to visit Roy Disney’s widow.

Q. Okay. Now, was that while you were visiting Neverland?

A. After we left.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as to vague as to time as to what visit.

MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase it.

Q. During what visit did Michael Jackson tell you he had to visit Roy Disney’s widow?

A. The first visit.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as to hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Was it the first visit?

A. I think so.

Q. Do you recall if you and your family stayed at Neverland while Mr. Jackson left the premises?

A. I don’t recall that.

Q. Okay. Do you recall him making a trip like that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You talked about gifts that Mr. Jackson gave you, okay?

A. Okay.

Q. Did you ever ask for any of those gifts?

A. No.

Q. Did he just give them to you on his own initiative as far as you’re concerned?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Tell us all the gifts you recall him giving you.

A. A gold bracelet. A pair of earrings. A necklace. A ring. A gift certificate to a boutique. That’s what I recall.

Q. Okay. And you said he gave you his credit card to use?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he do that more than once?

A. He might have, yes.

Q. And do you recall what you bought with Michael Jackson’s credit card?

A. I know I -- I think two handbags.

Q. Anything else?

A. Not that I recall, no.

Q. Okay. How many nights do you recall Mr. Jackson staying at your house?

A. To the best of my recollection, 30 nights.

Q. And approximately what time period was that, if you know?

A. Beginning the middle of April till the end of May.

Q. Were you at your house on every evening that Michael Jackson stayed over?

A. Yes.

Q. You said something to the effect, I believe, that Mr. Jackson would leave during the day?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know where he went?

A. Not really. I --

Q. Did you ever ask him?

A. Sometimes.

Q. Okay. And where did he tell you he was going?
A. Going home.
Q. To Neverland?
A. Working. No, not to Neverland. I think his hideout, to his place that he calls “The Hideout” in Century City.
Q. That’s the place you visited, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How many times were you at that apartment?
A. Approximately three or four times.
Q. Okay. When you went to the apartment that you’ve described as Michael Jackson’s hideout, were you always with your son?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you ever with anyone else?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Okay. You indicated you met someone named Brett Barnes at Neverland, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you know when you first met him?

A. It could have been the second time that we were going to Neverland.
Q. And he was actually in the limousine that Michael Jackson sent to pick you up, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Was that the first time you had met him?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Was that the trip you went to Disneyland?
A. It could be, yes.
Q. And was Brett Barnes with you on that trip?
A. I would assume so. I’m -- I don’t recall.
Q. Do you know if his mother was there on that trip?
A. No.
Q. So it was you, Michael Jackson, your two children, and Brett, right?
A. Perhaps Brett.
Q. You’re not sure?
A. Exactly.
Q. Did you go back to Neverland after the trip to Disneyland?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Okay. You indicated you met someone named Joy, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And when did you meet someone named Joy?

A. Later on, in -- could be May. April or May.

Q. And where did you meet her?

A. At Neverland.

Q. Okay. Was she staying there when you stayed there?

A. Yes.

Q. And did she have a son, to your knowledge?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. And who was that?

A. Wade.

Q. Okay. How often did you see Joy Robeson and Wade Robeson at Neverland?

A. I remember seeing Joy once. And Wade, I -- it could be a few times. I don’t recall.

Q. When you were at Neverland at the same time that they were there, did you associate with them?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And what did you do with them?

A. I had dinner with Joy, where we talked. And with Wade, if we went -- if there was a movie playing, I guess he was with us also.

Q. When Michael Jackson used to stay at your home, were you in the middle of a divorce proceeding?

A. No.

Q. Were you separated?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you used to discuss your problems with David Schwartz with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. You actually had a lot of discussions, didn’t you?

A. Not a lot.

Q. You told him it was a poor relationship, didn’t you?

A. What was a poor relationship?

Q. Your relationship with David Schwartz.

A. I told whom? I’m sorry.

Q. Michael Jackson.

A. Oh. No. I -- I don’t -- I didn’t get into my relationship about David Schwartz to Michael.

Q. So you never discussed it with Michael Jackson?

A. I just said that we were separated and these were not wonderful times for us.

Q. And you would discuss with him from time to time the problems you were having, wouldn’t you?

A. No. No, I wouldn’t.

MR. SNEDDON: Object as irrelevant, Your Honor, not to mention hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “No.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During those 30 nights that Michael Jackson stayed at your house, did he have dinner at your house?

A. Yes.

Q. And was it usually you, he, your son and daughter at dinner?

A. At times.

Q. Who else would join you for dinner?

A. That’s it.

Q. Did you ever have dinner yourself, without your children, just with Michael Jackson?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever traveled with Michael Jackson without your children?

A. No.

Q. When did you go to Las Vegas with Michael Jackson?

A. Around the end of March.

Q. And what was the purpose of that trip?

A. I guess Steve Wynn, the owner of the Mirage Hotel, invited Michael to come and stay and vacation in Las Vegas for a few days.

Q. And did you meet Mr. Wynn while you were there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How long were you in Las Vegas for that trip?

A. Two or three nights.

Q. And again, how did you get there?
A. Steve Wynn's jet.
Q. And did his jet take you back home afterwards?
A. Yes.

Q. All right. When you went to Las Vegas on Steve Wynn's jet, had Michael Jackson begun to stay over at your home?
A. No.
Q. Did Michael Jackson begin to stay at your home after that trip to Las Vegas?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, did you travel with Michael Jackson to any other cities in America during this period of time?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did you travel to?
A. To Florida and New York.
Q. Was that Orlando, Florida?
A. Correct.
Q. And when did that trip happen, approximately?
A. Oh, approximately April, I guess.
Q. And what was the purpose of that trip, if you know?
A. To go to Disney World.
Q. Did you do that?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. How long a trip was that?
A. A couple of days.
Q. And then did you come back?
A. Yes.
Q. The rooms in your hotel, describe the rooms,

if you would.
A. I don't remember The Grand Floridian, what the rooms were like.
Q. And did you have your own room?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Michael Jackson have his own room?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did your children have their own room?
A. I'm not sure.

Q. Do you know where your children stayed?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did they stay?

A. Jordie, my son, stayed with Michael, and Lily stayed with me.

Q. And did you ever object, during that trip, to your son staying with Michael?

A. No.

Q. You never suspected anything improper was going on on that trip, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You mentioned some children from New Jersey that you met at Neverland, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And who were they again?

A. Frank and Eddie Cascio.

Q. Okay. And did you ever meet their parents?

A. No.

Q. When did you first see them at Neverland?

A. I don't recall. Could be the third visit to Neverland. Fourth visit.

Q. When was the first time your son Jordan asked if he could sleep with Michael Jackson?

A. I would say starting the third visit to Neverland, second or third visit to Neverland, because there were always boys around and staying in his bedroom, and why couldn't he? And that's when he started asking.

Q. And was it your understanding that there were a lot of kids hanging around Michael Jackson's bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see --

A. Boys.

Q. Excuse me. Did you see a lot of kids at Neverland while you were there?

A. A lot of Michael's --

MR. SNEDDON: Excuse me. Object as to vague.

MR. MESEREAU: I'll rephrase it. Let's go through the first trip.

Q. Did you see a lot of kids at Neverland during your first trip?

A. No.

Q. Did you see a lot of kids at Neverland during your second trip?

A. No.

Q. How many other children at Neverland did you see on your first trip?

A. No other kids on the first trip.

Q. How many kids at Neverland did you see on your second trip?

A. One.

Q. How about your third trip?

A. Third -- Frank and Eddie Cascio.

Q. Any other children on the third trip?

A. It could have been Macaulay Culkin also.

Q. Okay. Did you meet Macaulay Culkin at Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Macaulay Culkin doesn’t look at all like your son, does he?

A. No.

Q. Did you meet Macaulay’s parents?

A. Father.

Q. At Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was, you think, the third trip?

A. Could be. Could have been.

Q. Did you ever see him at Neverland again?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you next see Macaulay Culkin at Neverland?

A. Fourth or fifth visit.

Q. Was anyone else from his family there; do you know?

A. His brothers were there.

Q. Okay. Was it your understanding that the Culkins were good friends of Michael Jackson?

A. That Macaulay Culkin was good friends with Michael Jackson.

Q. What about his family? Was it your understanding his family were close friends of Michael Jackson?

A. Not close friends.

Q. Did you really know?

A. It didn’t appear that they were close friends, no.

Q. Do you know if his parents used to visit Neverland?

A. His father used to visit Neverland with Macaulay.

Q. Did you hang out with them when you were at Neverland?

A. Did I hang out with --

Q. The Culkins.

A. No.

Q. Then how would you know whether or not they were close with Michael Jackson?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as argumentative.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When you were in Las Vegas with Mr. Jackson, you went to Cirque du Soleil, correct?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did your son?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And did your daughter go as well?

A. To Cirque du Soleil?

Q. Yes.

A. No, she did not.

Q. Did you have any problem at that time letting your son go to Cirque du Soleil with Mr. Jackson?

A. No.

Q. And did your son stay with Mr. Jackson that evening, to your knowledge?

A. To my knowledge, yes.

Q. Okay. You told the prosecutor that Mr. Jackson got upset at one point about your not trusting him, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And he said words to you to the effect that, “We’re family,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. You suggested that you let Jordie sleep wherever he wants to sleep, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you told him, “Look, I’ve had two husbands that I can’t trust,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. You said, “I think you’re a wonderful person, but I can’t let my trust down,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you described Michael as saying that he was going to take care of you, right?

A. No.

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, excuse me, I’m going to object as vague as to point in time of the conversation.

MR. MESEREAU: Sure. Sure.

Q. When was the conversation where Michael got upset because he didn’t think you trusted him?

A. In Las Vegas in the hotel room.

Q. Okay. You said to Michael, “I’ve had males in my life that, you know, have disappointed me. How can I have you in my life and you’re saying that you’re going to take care of us, that you’re so wonderful, everything’s going to be okay, how am I going to do that?”

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object to counsel reading from the document.

MR. MESEREAU: I haven’t finished the question yet, Your Honor.

MR. SNEDDON: Well, he’s reading --

THE COURT: Well, all right, what is the question?

MR. MESEREAU: I was going to ask her if she made that statement.

THE COURT: All right. You may.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you make a statement to that effect?

A. Yes.

Q. And Michael said to you he wanted a family to just treat him like a regular person, right?

A. Correct.

Q. He said he didn’t want to be like a stranger, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And he asked you to trust him, right?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you remember telling the District Attorney in Los Angeles that when you talked to your ex-husband Evan about Michael Jackson's relationship with your family, that Evan saw this as a wonderful means for Jordie not having to worry for the rest of his life?

A. Would you repeat your question?

Q. Yes. Didn't you tell the Los Angeles District Attorney that your ex-husband Evan, the father of Jordie, told you that the relationship with Michael was a wonderful means of Jordie not having to worry for the rest of his life?

A. Yes.

Q. And to you, that meant Michael Jackson supporting you financially for the rest of your life, correct?

A. No.

Q. That's what you thought your ex-husband meant by it, true?

MR. SNEDDON: Calls for speculation.

THE WITNESS: Speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained. Sustained.

(Laughter.)

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Just asking you what you thought, not what your ex-husband thought.

A. Well, I'm speculating also. I would be speculating if I answered.

Q. Well, if someone says to you, "This is a wonderful way not to have to worry for the rest of our life," doesn't that suggest that maybe someone is thinking about Michael Jackson supporting you?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object. We just went through this. Calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you go to France and Monaco with Michael Jackson?

A. In May.

Q. Did he invite you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he invite your whole family?

A. Jordan and Lily, yes.

Q. At one point you said that Michael Jackson stayed at your ex-husband’s house when Jordan was there, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, was your ex-husband at the house when Michael Jackson stayed there?

A. Yes.

Q. How many days, to your knowledge, did Michael Jackson stay at your ex-husband’s house?

A. Approximately four to seven days.

Q. To your knowledge, was that consecutive or were they periodic visits?

A. Consecutive.

Q. And do you recall anything about your ex-husband wanting Michael Jackson to finance a wing on his house?

A. Yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, Michael Jackson never did that, right?

A. No.

Q. Now, at that point in time, Jordan’s father Evan was writing a screenplay, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, he was spending a lot of time on that screenplay, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were complaining that he wasn’t spending enough time with his son, right?

A. Correct.

Q. At the time you were happy that Michael was around, because Jordan’s father was not spending time with him, and you were separated from David, correct?

A. True.

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object as to vague as to what time, time period. We have several months here.

MR. MESEREAU: Well, I can --

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

MR. SNEDDON: Move to strike the answer.

THE COURT: Stricken.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did there come a time when you were happy that Michael Jackson was around, because your ex-husband Evan was spending time writing a screenplay and you were separated from David?
A. Correct.
Q. Approximately what -- when was that?
A. In the beginning I was happy.
Q. Okay. When did Michael go to Cartier and buy you that jewelry?
A. When we went to Las Vegas.
Q. Was he with you when he did that?
A. No.
Q. Did he do it on his own?
A. He did it with Jordie.

Q. Okay. And did he come back and give it to you?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Now, you described that to the Los Angeles District Attorney as a love bracelet, did you not?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that what it was?
A. Yes.
Q. What is a love bracelet?
A. It's a bracelet that's a gold bracelet and that's what it's called.
Q. Okay. Had you ever told Michael Jackson you liked that kind of jewelry?
A. No.
Q. Were you surprised when he bought it for you?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Now, you mentioned that during that trip, you went to the David Copperfield show; is that right?
A. Correct.
Q. And who went to that show?
A. Jordan, Lily and Michael.
Q. Did the four of you have dinner that night together?
A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Did Michael give you his credit card on that trip?

A. No.

Q. Okay. At some point did you all see an Exorcist movie?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall anyone watching an Exorcist movie?

A. I was told Jordan and Michael watched an Exorcist movie.

Q. All right. Did you ever object to Jordie sleeping in Michael’s room on that trip?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you say?

A. “Jordie, when you come home, go to your bed. Go to your own bed. Come to our bed, not to Michael’s bed.”

He said, “Mom, I want to stay there.” And I was very upset about that.

Q. Now, this was before the approximately 30 nights that he stayed at your home --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in Santa Monica, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you did allow him to stay at your home in Santa Monica, right?

A. Afterwards.

Q. Now, you mentioned in your interview that when Michael Jackson’s not working, he’s a lonely person, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you also mentioned that the Cascios owned a restaurant, true?

A. True.

Q. How did you know they owned a restaurant?

A. I was -- I don’t recall how I knew.

Q. And do you remember telling the District Attorney that Michael would help Jordie with his homework?

A. Correct.

Q. Would he do that at your home?

A. Yes.

Q. You also said he played a lot like a child, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And he seemed to play at Neverland a lot like a child, correct?
A. Yeah, yes.
Q. You mentioned Tommy and Merdie. Do you remember that?
A. Yes.
Q. And who are Tommy and Merdie?
A. Merdie; are my brother and sister-in-law.
Q. Okay. At some point you stayed in Santa Monica with them, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Was Michael Jackson there?

A. He was there.
Q. Did Michael Jackson stay with you at their home?
A. No.
Q. Did he stay at their home?
A. No.
Q. Did he stay at your home?
A. Not that time, no. Not at that time.
Q. And you stayed in Santa Monica with Tommy and Merdie?
A. Meredith. Merdie.
Q. Merdie, okay. You stayed with them at one point, right?
A. They stayed with me.
Q. Oh, they stayed with you?
A. Yes.
Q. Was Michael Jackson there that night?
A. I don’t recall, no.
Q. Okay. To your knowledge, did Michael Jackson ever meet Tommy and Merdie?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Okay. Now, when Michael Jackson was staying at your home in Santa Monica during those 30 days that you mentioned, was Jordan in school?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Was he going to school each day?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. Okay. You mentioned Steve and Jo Ellen. Do you remember that?

A. Do I remember mentioning --

Q. Mentioning Steve and Jo Ellen to the District Attorney?

A. Yes.

Q. Who are Steve and Jo Ellen?

A. Steve is also my brother, and his wife Jo Ellen.

Q. Did they visit you in Santa Monica during the time that Michael Jackson was staying over?

A. No.

Q. You said that they witnessed Michael Jackson and Jordie in the bedroom, didn't they?

A. Correct.

Q. When was that?

A. At Neverland.

Q. Did they stay there?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did they go into Michael Jackson's bedroom?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. And did you go into Michael Jackson's bedroom?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times do you think you went into Michael Jackson's bedroom at Neverland?

A. It stopped after maybe the tenth time.

Q. Okay. Describe, if you would for the jury, what Michael Jackson's bedroom looks like?

A. Lots of dolls. Lots of playthings. It looks like a boy's room, big boy's room. Lots of toys and things.

Q. Is it a big area?

A. Yes.

Q. How big would you describe it as, if you can?

A. Oh, it's a long time ago.

Q. Was it kind of huge?

A. Well, there's an upstairs and a downstairs. Yes, it's kind of huge.

Q. When you used to visit Michael Jackson's bedroom, would you see other people in there?

A. Yes.
Q. Who do you remember seeing in there?
A. The Cascio brothers. Macaulay. Brett. Wade.
Q. And you saw their parents in there, too, didn't you?
A. No.
Q. Did you ever see Macaulay's father in there?
A. In the bedroom?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. And why were you in the bedroom those ten times?
A. Because I'm Jordie's mother. I'm allowed to go into the bedroom.

Q. Were you dropping clothes off?
A. Oh, I might have. I don't recall.
Q. Did you ever sit down and watch T.V. or anything in there?
A. Yes.
Q. How often did you do that?
A. A few times.
Q. Did you ever have food delivered to you in Michael Jackson's bedroom?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Okay. Did David Schwartz, to your knowledge, ever visit Neverland?
A. No. No.
Q. Okay. When you were in Monaco with Michael Jackson, what did you do?
A. We went to an awards ceremony. We -- well, Jordie and Michael -- Jordie and Michael were sick, so Lily and I went shopping and drove around. We were driven around.
Q. Did Michael Jackson pay for the whole trip?
A. Yes, the trip was paid for. I don't know who paid for it.
Q. To your knowledge, did Michael Jackson pay for it?
A. No. No. It was an awards. I think he was given tickets to attend this award because he was receiving some kind of --

Q. Who paid for your hotel room, if you know?
A. I don’t know.
Q. Now, you indicated that at one point Jordie and Michael had the flu, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And where did you find out they had the flu?
A. In the hotel room.
Q. And were they staying in the same room at that point?
A. Yes, they were.
Q. Did you ever complain about that?
A. Yes.
Q. And what happened?
A. The room was boarded up. I couldn’t get in there. It started to get weird now. Things started to go downhill pretty quickly.
Q. Did you ever take your son and leave on your own?
A. No.
Q. After you got back from Monaco, did Michael Jackson spend nights at your home?
A. Yes.
Q. Were the 30 nights you’ve described after you got back from Monaco?
A. No.
Q. How many nights after you got back from Monaco do you think Michael Jackson stayed at your home?

A. Oh, perhaps a week or two.
Q. And this was a point where you were getting upset that your son wanted to spend all of his time with Michael Jackson, right?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, while you were in Monaco, you never saw Michael Jackson and your son ever take a bath together, right?
A. No.
Q. You never saw them shower together, right?
A. No.
Q. And when did you go to France on that trip?
A. I think that was in May.
Q. And what was the purpose of that trip, if you know?

A. To get an award. He was receiving an award.

Q. Was that after the trip to Monaco or before?

A. I’m sorry?

Q. Was that after the trip to Monaco?

A. What was? What are you asking?

Q. The trip to France you described. Was there a --

A. That is the trip.

Q. That’s the trip?

A. Yes.

Q. It was all in Monaco?

A. Monaco, yes.

Q. Did you ever go anywhere else?

A. We went to Euro Disney also, outside of Paris.

Q. Was the trip to Euro Disney after you were in Monaco for the awards or before it, if you know?

A. To the best of my recollection, it was after the awards.

Q. And how much time did you spend on that portion of the trip?

A. I would say a couple of nights.

Q. Okay. Now, one point you visited Evan, Jordan’s father, at his home when Michael Jackson was there, right?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall seeing Evan and Michael in a squirt-gun-type fight?

A. That was my home, sir.

Q. That was your home?

A. Yes.

Q. So Evan had come to your home at that point?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. And Evan, Michael and Jordie were in a squirt gun fight, right?

A. Along with his other son Nicky.

Q. Okay. And you got upset a little bit at that, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. How did you learn that Michael Jackson was going to stay over at Evan’s house?

A. Through my son Jordan.

Q. And approximately when did that occur?

A. After the trip to Monaco, I think.

Q. How many visits, to your knowledge, did Michael Jackson make to Evan’s house?

A. To my knowledge -- to the best of my recollection, one or two visits.

Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, did he spend the night there?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. To your knowledge, did Jordan spend the night there?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. And to your knowledge, was Evan there both nights?

A. To the best of my knowledge, yes.

Q. Jordan never missed school while Michael Jackson was staying at your home, right?

A. To the best of my recollection, no, he did not miss school.

Q. Okay.

A. There might have been one or two days where he missed, but --

Q. Okay. You said that Michael Jackson saw you in New York at one point?

A. Yes.

Q. And when was that?

A. In June, the middle of June.

Q. Was he staying at the same hotel you were at?

A. He arrived after we were there, yes.

Q. Did you know in advance he was going to be staying at the same hotel?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did you know he was going to be staying at the same hotel as you and your children?

A. His secretary informed me.

Q. Did he pay for those hotel rooms, to your knowledge?

A. I don’t know who paid for the hotel rooms.

Q. Did you?

A. No.

Q. And which hotel was this?

A. The Rega Royal Hotel in New York City.

Q. And how long did you stay at that hotel --
A. Oh, perhaps --
Q. -- on that trip?
A. -- four nights.
Q. Okay. Was Mr. Jackson there during the four nights, to your knowledge?
A. Part -- part of those nights, yes.
Q. Okay. And did you introduce Mr. Jackson to other members of your family on that trip?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Did you mention your brothers were there on that trip?

A. They were in New York, yes.
Q. Okay. Did they come to your hotel; do you know?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Okay. Do you know whether or not Michael met your brothers on that trip?
A. I don’t recall that, no.
Q. Okay. And what month are we in now, if you know?
A. June. In June.
Q. Okay. And just to clarify, the first time Mr. Jackson ever stayed at your home in Santa Monica was what month?
A. In April.
Q. Okay. Do you remember telling Michael Jackson, “You’re like a magnet?”
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Do you remember telling Michael Jackson, “You’re like Peter Pan. Everybody wants to be around you and spend 24 hours”?
A. Yes.
Q. You told him, “Lily would too, except she’s not old enough”?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, you said there was an incident in a room in New York, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And did you actually see what happened?

A. No.
Q. When did you learn what happened in the room?

A. In the morning I saw lamps, two lamps were broken.

Q. Okay. And Michael told you he had kicked the two lamps, right?

A. My son said that Michael Jackson did a karate kick and kicked the lamps.

Q. Actually, Michael told you that, too, didn’t he?

A. I don’t recall.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection to show you what you said to the District Attorney?

A. Thank you. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection --

A. Yes.

Q. -- about what you said? Michael told you he kicked the two lamps practicing karate, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And he said he would pay for it, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you said to him, “Lily told me a different story,” right?

A. Correct.

Q. But Lily told you they were just playing, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, when do you remember meeting Bert Fields for the first time?

A. Sometime in August.

Q. Was Michael Jackson still spending evenings at your home in August?

A. No.

Q. When had he stopped spending evenings at your home, if you know?

A. I would say late June.

Q. And had you heard of who Bert Fields was before that meeting?

A. No.
Q. You weren't aware he's one of the best-known entertainment lawyers in Los Angeles?
A. I was told that by Michael Jackson.
Q. And how long was your meeting with Bert Fields?
A. I don't recall. It could be an hour.
Q. And that's where Mr. Pellicano was present?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Okay. Is that the only time you've ever met with Bert Fields, to your knowledge?

A. I don't recall.
Q. In the sworn declaration you filed regarding your attempt to set aside that stipulation, is there any reason why you didn't mention Mr. Fields, Mr. Pellicano or Mr. Jackson in that declaration?
A. Is my -- I don't understand the question.
Q. That's where you said the only reason you signed the stipulation was because of what your ex-husband threatened you with.
A. Correct.
Q. But you told the jury initially that the reason you signed it was because Michael Jackson wanted you to sign it, true?
A. Correct.
Q. That's not contained in your declaration, is it?
A. No.
MR. SNEDDON: Objection. Asked and answered and argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You didn't mention Mr. Fields or Mr. Pellicano either in that declaration, right?
MR. SNEDDON: Same objection, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Right?
THE COURT: You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Correct.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When had you separated from David Schwartz?

A. Around August of ‘92, approximately.
Q. Do you remember complaining that Evan, Jordan’s father, had promised him money for helping him write the screenplay?
A. Yes.
Q. And you complained that Evan had not paid Jordan the money he owed him, true?
A. I didn’t complain. It was a statement.
Q. Well, you asked him to pay him the money, right?
A. No, I did not.
Q. You didn’t tell him he owed your son $5,000?
A. It was a discussion.
Q. Okay. Did you want him to pay him that money?
A. It would have been a nice thing, yes.
Q. He didn’t do it, did he?
A. No, he did not.
Q. Now, you mentioned a gift certificate for $7,000 --
A. Yes.
Q. -- that you got from Michael Jackson, right?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you go to Fred Segal and use that gift certificate?

A. Yes.
Q. What did you get with it?
A. Oh, clothes, jewelry. That’s it.
Q. That’s it?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Before today, when is the last time you ever saw Mr. Jackson?
A. Oh, ten years ago.
Q. Okay.
A. Eleven years ago.
Q. Have you talked to Evan at all about what you’re saying in court today?
A. No.
Q. When is the last time you spoke to him?
A. Ten years ago.
Q. To your knowledge, did Michael Jackson ever stay at David Schwartz’s home?
A. No.

Q. Did he ever visit there, to your knowledge?
A. No. Not that I recall.
Q. Other than the first time when you met Mr. Jackson at David Schwartz’s rental car company, do you recall ever seeing Michael Jackson meeting with David Schwartz?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember Evan threatening David physically?
A. Yes.

Q. And when did that happen?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Approximately when did you get settlement money from the settlement with Michael Jackson?
A. Oh, I would say approximately October of ‘93.
Q. Have you received any settlement money since then?
A. No.
Q. You mentioned to the District Attorney in Los Angeles a meeting Michael Jackson had with Elizabeth Taylor and Nelson Mandela. Do you remember that?
A. Correct.
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I object as immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember, was Jordie with Michael at that meeting?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. David Schwartz was also at the apartment that Michael Jackson owned in Century City that you called “The Hideout,” right?
A. Correct.
Q. And approximately when was that meeting?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as vague as to time. What meeting?
MR. MESEREAU: I’ll rephrase it.
Q. When, to your knowledge, did David Schwartz visit Michael Jackson's home in Century City that you call "The Hideout"?

A. It could be late August, early September.

Q. Who else was there when you got to the apartment?

A. I don't recall who else was there.

Q. Do you remember in your meeting with Mr. Pellicano telling Mr. Pellicano, "Well, it's Michael Jackson. I know Evan. It could be money. It could be"?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ever personally tell Mr. Pellicano that Evan's concerns could be only about money?

MR. SNEDDON: Same objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Was your lawyer, Michael Freeman, at that meeting with Mr. Pellicano?

A. I believe so.

Q. Is that the same meeting Bert Fields was present?

A. I don't recall, but possibly. Quite possibly.

Q. If your lawyer, Michael Freeman, was at the meeting, you must have been able to get legal advice about what to sign, right?

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object to that question. Assumes facts and calls for speculation. Can I throw in argumentative, too?

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did you ask Attorney Michael Freeman to be at the meeting?

A. No. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know how he got there?

A. I don't think he was there.

MR. SNEDDON: I'm going to object to that question. She has not said he was there. Assumes facts.

MR. MESEREAU: She did. She did.

THE WITNESS: I don't recall him being there.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

Objection sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Who is Michael Freeman?

A. An attorney. My attorney.

Q. And when did you first meet Michael Freeman?

A. Oh, I don't recall when.

Q. Did he represent you at some point during the time period you've described today?

A. At some point, yes.

Q. And he was your personal lawyer --

A. Correct.

Q. -- is that right?

You mentioned -- actually, let me ask you this: Did you mention Norma Stakos earlier?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you meet Norma Stakos?

A. I've never met Norma Stakos.

Q. Have you ever spoken to her?

A. Yes.

Q. In what context did you speak to Norma Stakos?

A. By telephone, about where we should meet, or when Michael Jackson is coming in to New York, or things like that.

Q. Did she seem to be the person that arranged your trips?

A. Everything. Everything.

Q. Did she seem to be the person who would get plane tickets, for example?

A. Absolutely, yes.

Q. Would she be the person who would arrange transportation on your trips with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you remember at your meeting with Mr. Pellicano, that Mr. Pellicano said, "This is all extortion"?

MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object to that question. Calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Now, at the time you met Mr. Fields and Mr. Pellicano, to your knowledge, did Evan have his own attorney?

A. I don't recall.

Q. At some point during the time you were represented by Larry Feldman, do you recall Evan also having another lawyer?
A. I don’t recall that.
Q. Do you recall the name Barry Rothman?
A. Yes.
Q. And where did you first hear about Barry Rothman?
A. Before Larry Feldman. That was Evan’s attorney.
Q. Now, at some point were you represented by Attorney Gloria Allred?
A. Two seconds. For two seconds.
Q. It was a little bit more than that, wasn’t it?
A. Two hours.
(Laughter.)
Q. You and Evan and Jordan were represented by Gloria Allred initially, correct?
A. Initially.
Q. You had meetings with her, correct?
A. One or two, yes.
Q. And then you went to Attorney Larry Feldman, right?

A. He came into the picture, yes.
Q. Okay.
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know approximately when Gloria Allred represented you, Evan and Jordie?
A. Before Larry Feldman.
Q. Do you know approximately --
A. No.
Q. -- what year that was?
A. Yes, ‘94.
Q. Okay. Were you referred to Gloria Allred by someone?
A. No.
Q. How did you wind up being represented by her?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I’m going to object as immaterial.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How many times did you meet with Mr. Pellicano?

A. Approximately three times. Three to four times.
Q. Do you know where those meetings took place?
A. As far as I recall, in his office.
Q. Did you travel to his office?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Were you there with your attorney, Michael Freeman, ever?

A. I don't think so, no, no.
Q. Did you have discussions with Mr. Pellicano?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever believe he was your investigator?
A. Yes.
Q. And when was that?
A. When we had meetings.
Q. When you had meetings with Mr. Pellicano, you had already retained Michael Freeman as your lawyer, hadn't you?
A. I don't think so, no.
Q. What month do you think you first saw Mr. Pellicano?
A. In August. Approximately August.
Q. The declaration I referred to earlier was signed on August 10th, 1993, correct?
A. Okay. Yes.
Q. And it's on Freeman & Golden, Lawyers, stationery, correct?
A. I guess so.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the declaration?
A. Thank you.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: That's correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: (Indicating.)
A. Thank you.
Q. Have you had a chance to look at the declaration?
A. Yes.
Q. And does it appear that that declaration was signed August 10th, 1993?

A. Yes, it was.
Q. And it’s on Freeman & Golden, Lawyers, stationery, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And your lawyer helped you prepare this declaration, true?
A. Correct.
Q. Was Michael Freeman representing you in your domestic dispute with Evan?
A. No. I don’t recall. I don’t recall.
Q. When did he stop representing you, if you know?
A. Shortly thereafter. Not --
Q. Okay. Now, was Michael Freeman representing you when Gloria Allred was representing you?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Was Michael Freeman representing you when Larry Feldman was representing you?
A. No.
Q. Do you recall at one point meeting with Robert Shapiro?

A. Yes.
Q. And when was that?
A. In Larry Feldman’s office.
Q. How many meetings did you have with Robert Shapiro?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Do you know why he was at the meeting?
A. I -- I think as part of Michael Jackson’s legal team.
Q. Who, Robert Shapiro?
A. I think so. I don’t recall.
Q. Okay.
A. It was so long ago.
Q. Well, he was there because Michael Jackson’s attorneys were claiming extortion, right?
A. I don’t recall.
Q. Robert Shapiro was there because he’s a criminal defense lawyer, right?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, excuse me. I want to interpose an objection before the next question comes out. Speculation. She says she doesn’t have any recollection of this, so why Mr. Shapiro --

THE COURT: Stop talking. You're just supposed to give your grounds for the objection.
MR. SNEDDON: I'm sorry. Object. Speculation.
THE COURT: All right. Overruled. The question -- the last question, would the court reporter read it back, please?

(Record read.)
THE COURT: You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Correct.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you remember also in your meetings, meeting -- excuse me, let me rephrase that.
In the meetings you've described with Larry Feldman, Michael Freeman, Robert Shapiro, do you also remember a lawyer named Richard Hirsch being present?
MR. SNEDDON: Your Honor, I'm going to object as to all those people and compound.
THE COURT: It's vague.
We'll take our break now.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: Mr. Mesereau.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.
Q. Just very briefly, you and Evan hired attorneys and tried to negotiate a financial settlement before you ever talked to any police officer, right?
A. No.
Q. You were negotiating for money before you ever reported anything to any police officer in Los Angeles, correct?
A. Not correct.
Q. Do you know the dates you hired your attorneys?

A. After we spoke with the police.
Q. You're saying that under oath?
A. That's what I believe, yes.
Q. You don't know that for sure, do you?
A. I'm sure.
Q. Your negotiations went on long before you ever went to any police officer in Los Angeles, true?

A. False.
Q. Do you know when you first went to any police officer?
A. After the police, after we spoke to the police.
Q. It was after you spoke to Larry Feldman on a number of visits, correct?
A. Not correct.
Q. It was actually Larry Feldman who contacted the police, wasn’t it?
A. No.
Q. You didn’t talk to any prosecutor in Los Angeles before you retained Gloria Allred, correct?
A. Yes. Correct.
Q. You didn’t talk to any police officer in Los Angeles before retaining Gloria Allred, correct?
A. Can you backtrack a bit? Can you --
Q. You retained Gloria Allred before you ever contacted any police officer in Los Angeles, true?

A. Not true.
Q. Who did you contact in the LAPD before you hired Gloria Allred?
A. The police department. LAPD.
Q. You didn’t give any police statement before negotiations had already begun to settle the case, true?
A. Not correct.
Q. Did you call them yourself?
A. Did I call?
Q. The police yourself?
A. Department of Children Services.
Q. How about police?
A. No. Department of children Services.
Q. I’m asking you about the police.
MR. SNEDDON: It’s argumentative, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Overruled.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You were negotiating for money --
THE COURT: Just a minute.
MR. MESEREAU: Oh, pardon me.

THE COURT: All right. She did answer it before the objection. Go ahead, Counsel, next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said you contacted Department of Children Services, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. That’s not the police department, is it?

MR. SNEDDON: That’s argumentative, Your Honor. And assumes facts not in evidence.

THE COURT: Sustained; argumentative.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: And you contacted Department of Children’s Services after first talking to a lawyer, true?

A. Not correct.

Q. In fact, you personally never called the police department, ever, about anything involving Mr. Jackson, true?

A. True.

Q. When did you first hire Gloria Allred?

A. After we spoke to the District Attorney.

Q. When did you first hire Larry Feldman?

A. After the police were notified, Department of Children’s Services, and Lauren Weis, the District Attorney.

Q. Your strategy was to negotiate a settlement before ever contacting law enforcement, true?

A. No strategy, sorry.

Q. And one of the levers you were trying to hang over Mr. Jackson was bad publicity if he didn’t pay, right?

A. Incorrect.

Q. Okay. When you talked to Mr. Sneddon, did he ever show you the dates when you contacted your first lawyer in this case?

A. No.

Q. When you talked to Mr. Sneddon, did he ever show you the dates before any contact was ever made to a police officer?

A. No.

Q. Do you know when your civil case was first filed?

A. I’m not sure of the exact date.

Q. Do you know who filed it?

A. I’m not exactly sure. Sorry.

Q. Okay. Do you know when you first contacted Department of Children’s Services?

A. Sometime in August.

Q. You don’t know when you hired Gloria Allred, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know if Gloria Allred contacted Department of Children Services?

A. I don’t know that.

Q. Do you know when Evan first hired Barry Rothman?

A. I do not know that.

Q. He hired Barry Rothman before any report was made to DCFS, correct?

A. I don’t know.

MR. SNEDDON: I’m going to object. Calls for speculation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When did you first hire Attorney Michael Freeman?

MR. SNEDDON: Object as asked and answered.

THE COURT: I believe she said she didn’t know.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions.

THE COURT: All right.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. SNEDDON:

Q. Mrs. Chandler, do you know whether or not in Los Angeles, that the Los Angeles Police Department has sworn peace officers attached to the Child Abuse Unit in the Department of Child Services?

A. Correct.

Q. Sorry?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Were those the people that you talked to when you were interviewed?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. And do you have a recollection at this present time as to specifically when in August you interviewed with them?

A. Specifically, no.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I showed you a document about that interview?
A. Yes.
MR. SNEDDON: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay. Thank you.
Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Does that refresh your recollection?
A. Yes, it does.
Q. With regard to -- I’m sorry, to when you were interviewed by members of the Los Angeles Police Department?
A. Yes, it does.
Q. And what was the date on that?
A. 8-7-93.
Q. Now, let’s go back, if we can. And just to clarify, you were not the one who originally contacted the -- made the report?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you know who did, of your own knowledge?
A. Of my knowledge, it was Jordan Chandler, my son.
Q. Now, let’s go back for just a second. Mr. Mesereau asked you about a meeting on Saturday involving your attorney and myself. Do you recall that?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. And was there also another person that was present with us that I brought along?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember the person’s name?
A. No, I don’t remember his name, but he was a detective.

Q. With the sheriff’s department?
A. With the sheriff’s department.
Q. So he was also present during that entire meeting?
A. He was -- absolutely, yes.
Q. All right. Now, he also asked you about conversations that you and I had on the phone. Do you recall that?

A. Correct.
Q. And that we had talked a couple of times on the phone?
A. Correct.
Q. And with regard to those conversations, the first conversation we had, do you recall the substance of that conversation?
A. That I would be subpoenaed and for -- testifying.
Q. And did I indicate to you that I wanted to talk to you, to do an interview with you?
A. That we would be speaking later on, yes.
Q. Okay. And did you -- did you have to check with somebody to make sure that was okay because of the confidentiality agreement?
A. Yes.
Q. And who was that?
A. Larry Feldman.
Q. So is that one of the phone calls that you had with Mr. Feldman, was to make sure --

A. Yes.
Q. -- to make sure it was okay for you to talk to me?
A. Correct.
Q. Now, Mr. Mesereau asked you about some countersuit that Michael Jackson alleged against you and members of your family. Do you recall that question?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ever pay a penny to Mr. Jackson in any lawsuit to settle anything?
A. No. No.
Q. Now, you indicated that these two children from New Jersey that you mentioned, the Cascios, do you remember the name of the restaurant in New Jersey that they allegedly owned?
A. Aldo’s Restaurant.
Q. You talked with Mr. Mesereau about the incident that occurred in New York where the lamps got broken and the karate kicks and all that?
A. Correct.
Q. Okay. Did you subsequently learn that the version of what happened was not truthful?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: Correct.

THE COURT: Sustained. The answer’s stricken.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Did you subsequently -- can you tell us how you eventually -- let me put it this way: Did you ultimately learn other information about that incident?

A. Yes.

Q. You personally?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you determine from that information that the original version wasn’t correct?

A. Correct.

Q. We talked a little bit in your direct examination about the change-in-custody agreement that Mr. Jackson asked you to sign. Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And you said you did sign it?

A. I did.

Q. Now, after having signed that document, did you ever get custody of your child back?

A. No.

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you about your son Jordan and about some things you may or may not have seen with regard to taking showers. And I want to ask you a few questions about that, okay?

A. Yes.

Q. During the time that you were -- you stayed at Neverland Valley Ranch, and your son slept in Mr. Jackson’s room - okay? - did you ever see your son come back to the guest cottages to take showers?

A. No.

Q. During the time that your son was in Monaco and stayed in Mr. Jackson’s room for several days in a row, did you ever see your son come back to take showers in your room?

A. No.

Q. During the time that you were in Florida and Mr. Jackson and your son spent the time together and he was sleeping in Mr. Jackson’s room, did you ever see your son come back to your room to take showers or to clean up?

A. No.

Q. And if I were to ask you that same question with regard to baths - okay? - would there be any different answers?

A. No.

Q. Or with regard to seeing your son getting dressed in the morning, would there be any different answers?

A. No.

Q. Now, with regard to the meeting that Mr. Mesereau talked about, where you were at the hideout, Mr. Jackson's hideout, the Century City place -- in Century City? I don't know where it is.

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And we're talking about the evening that you described where Mr. Pellicano was talking to Jordan downstairs and you were upstairs with David Schwartz.

A. Correct.

Q. You told us that lasted about 45 minutes?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. Do you recall whether or not Mr. Jackson was present during that conversation?

A. I don't recall him being there.

Q. Now, if I show you your statement that you gave to the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office, might that refresh your recollection to that event?

A. Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. SNEDDON: Page 90, Counsel.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

Q. BY MR. SNEDDON: Does having seen that statement refresh your recollection as to whether or not Mr. Jackson was present with Mr. Pellicano during Jordan's conversation or interview?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. And was he?

A. Yes, he was present.

Q. You told the jury that it's been 11 years since you've had any conversations with your son

Jordan, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Is that by your choice?

A. No.

Q. You told the jury that as a result of the conversation with Mr. Jackson in Las Vegas where he urged you to trust him - okay? --

A. Yes. I’ll be okay. Thank you.

Q. -- that during that conversation in Las Vegas where Mr. Jackson urged you to trust him, do you recall that?

A. I do.

Q. Do you regret ever doing that?

A. Very much so.

MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Briefly, do you recall Evan hired counsel in June to start negotiating with Mr. Jackson?

A. No, I don’t recall.

Q. Do you recall being in any meetings with Evan and his counsel in June to try and settle the matter?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall Mr. Pellicano making settlement offers to Evan on your behalf in June?

A. No, I don’t.

Q. Do you recall any contact between Evan and lawyers in May?

A. No.

Q. Okay. You never discussed that with Evan at the time?

A. No.

Q. Didn’t you have a lot of -- we’re talking about 1993. Didn’t you have a lot of contact with Evan at that point about hiring counsel?

A. No.

Q. And weren’t you in a dispute with Evan at that point over custody?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And when did that dispute begin, if you know?

A. In August of ‘93.
Q. But you had had problems with Evan for months before that, had you not?
A. Not -- not terrible.
Q. And you don’t know when he hired his attorney?
A. No, I don’t. No, I don’t.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions.
MR. SNEDDON: Nothing further, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.
THE COURT: Call your next witness.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: People call Dwayne Swingler.
THE COURT: When you get to the witness stand, please face the clerk and raise your right hand.

DWAYNE SWINGLER
Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes, ma’am.
THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.
THE WITNESS: My name is Dwayne Swingler; D-w-a-y-n-e, Swingler, S-w-i-n-g-l-e-r.
THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:
Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Swingler.
A. Good afternoon.
Q. What is your current occupation, sir?
A. Right now I do stand-in work, movie sets.
Q. Okay. And what kind of -- stand-in work, what does that --
A. Stand in for stars. It’s called second team. They don’t use the stars to get the lights bright. They use stand-ins.
Q. I see. During the year 2003, at some point during that year, did you -- were you employed by Michael Jackson?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Is he the man seated to my right with the long black hair?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Thank you.
When did you begin working for Mr. Jackson?
A. In June of 2003. Early June of 2003.
Q. And what was your -- what was your assignment for Mr. Jackson?
A. Supervisor of Neverland.
Q. How did you come to get that position?
A. I met Michael at a studio, Marvin Gaye’s studio in Hollywood.
Q. What were you doing at the studio?
A. My cousin was engineering Michael’s music session, and Michael needed someone to whistle on a track, so my cousin called me and said, “Would you like to come down and whistle on Michael’s track?”
And I said, “I can’t whistle that well, but I would love to come down and meet Michael Jackson.”
Q. Okay. Are you yourself a musician?
A. Yes, I am.
Q. And you met Mr. Jackson on that date?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Can you tell me about -- was that in 2003?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. About what month was it, if you recall?
A. That was probably early -- sometime in April.
Q. And how did it come about that you were offered employment?

A. I hung out at the studio with Michael and his kids, and Chris Carter, maybe four, five days in a row, three, four days in a row, while they were working on the session.
Q. Who did you understand Chris Carter to be?
A. Michael’s personal security.
Q. And so somebody offered you employment?
A. On the last day there, Chris Carter asked me to come outside. So I walked outside with him, and at that time he told me that, you know, “Michael likes you. He would love to bring you aboard. What are you currently doing right now"?

Q. Were you available?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they tell you what type of job they wanted to hire you for?

A. Initially they hired me to be security, along with Chris Carter, to travel with Michael.

Q. And how did that work out?

A. Well, that didn't work for me because I had triplets. I got three-year-old triplet boys, so....

Q. All right. So traveling wasn't an option?

A. No. Actually, Michael was the one who said, "If he has triplet boys, then I don't want him to be traveling with me all the time."

Q. So you said you became ranch manager?

A. Yes.

Q. How did that come about?

A. I guess Michael suggested to Chris, "If he has triplets, he'll be away from his kids a lot. So maybe we should offer him another job," and that's when supervisor of Neverland came up.

Q. So who offered you that position, I guess is my question?

A. I guess Michael. But Chris Carter's the one who told me about the position.

Q. At some time did you discuss with Mr. Jackson personally your employment?

A. I don't understand the question.

Q. Did you ever have a discussion with Mr. Jackson about your employment as ranch manager?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did he ever discuss with you the terms by which you could be terminated if he was dissatisfied with your work?

A. He didn't discuss with me personally. But Chris Carter and Joe Marcus did.

Q. And did you have an understanding about how you could be terminated?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that?

A. Grounds of giving up information of where Michael Jackson's whereabouts are, and, you know, there was a rule on the ranch -- I don't know if it came directly from Michael, but, you know, Chris told me and Joe Marcus told me as well, that you can never say no --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay, let's just back up a minute.

Q. I think what my question is, did you know -- did you have some indication from Mr. Jackson as to who had authority to terminate you?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was that?

A. From my understanding, it was only supposed to be Michael Jackson.

Q. Okay. At some point during 2003, were you terminated?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell me about that. How did that come about?

A. I had --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague as to time.

THE COURT: I'll ask you to clarify the time.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Okay.

Q. When were you terminated?

A. Early August 2003.

Q. And how long had you been working at that point for Mr. Jackson?

A. Maybe five, six weeks.

Q. When did you start work?

A. I was hired in the end of April, early May. But I had to go back to Michigan for a couple of weeks, so the hiring process took awhile. You know, background checks, physicals.

Q. When did you start going to Neverland?

A. In May.

Q. In May?

A. Yeah.

Q. And when did you start getting a paycheck?

A. In June.

Q. Okay. And what were you doing there in May?

A. I just came out to the ranch to check things out to see the position that I would be, you know, filling.

Q. In May, was it understood that you would be the ranch manager?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you go up there and receive some instruction from anybody as to what the duties were, in May?
A. I received, well, sort of from Joe Marcus, some instruction, but not as much as I did once I started in June.
Q. What was Mr. Marcus’s assignment at that time?
A. Ranch manager.
Q. So he was ranch manager and you were going to take it over?
A. No. Ranch manager, you deal with the majority of the workers outside, the garden, the landscapers, things like that. The carnival, the festival, whatever.

Q. What was Joe Marcus doing?
A. What do you mean?
Q. Well, you said Joe Marcus was ranch manager.
A. Right, that was his position. Ranch manager, you deal with all the employees basically outside of the house.
Q. And your position was going to be?
A. Supervisor. Deal with the employees and Michael and the kids in the house.
Q. Oh, in the house?
A. Yes.
Q. So house manager?
A. House manager.
Q. All right. Good.
So you began work in June, but you went up there for how many weeks to get some training?
A. Not really training, just sort of to come check things out, and to see who -- you know, what position I would be taking and where the office was, and things like that.
Q. And when was it you were terminated?
A. In early August.
Q. And how did that come about?
A. I had had a meeting with Michael about transferring my position. And I liked working for him. I wanted to work for him somewhere in Los Angeles, because my triplets were only one years old at the time. So I was missing them, them being in Los Angeles and me being here, and me staying the night at Neverland often. Wasn't working for me. So I had a one-on-one meeting with him to be transferred.

Q. And how did your termination come about?

A. I --

Q. Let me ask you this: Were you terminated?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And how were you terminated?

A. I was terminated by Joe Marcus. He -- I arrived at Neverland one morning for work and he told me -- he had changed the locks on me. And then I went into -- I mean, some -- one of the employees -- one of my employees in the house told me Joe came to change the locks. And I said, "Why?" And they said, "I don't know." And I had already been told by the guard at the gate that Joe --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So the locks were changed. Did you go talk to Mr. Marcus?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What did he tell you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE WITNESS: He told --

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I can go back to my last question, I guess. I'll withdraw that question, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: And how specifically -- I want you to go directly to the answer on this question. How specifically did you learn that you were terminated?

A. I --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Go ahead.

A. I learned directly from Joe Marcus that my services would no longer be needed at Neverland, and that he didn’t have to give me a reason. Because I --

Q. You asked him for a reason?

A. Yes, I did. I didn’t think I had done anything wrong. Well, I know I hadn’t done anything wrong.

Q. Okay. So you’d been at Neverland for a little over a month, and you’d worked there for a few weeks before that time as well?

A. Well, not worked. But like -- I wasn’t getting paid for that time. That was just to come out there and check the ranch out.

Q. During the time that you were at Neverland, did you have personal interaction with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. On how often a basis?

A. If he was there. All the time, if he was there.

Q. More than once a day?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was responsible for handling Mr. Jackson’s appointments while he was on the ranch?

A. At Neverland, I would take the -- all the phone calls. It didn’t matter who it was calling; mother, father, business person.

Q. So if he had an appointment for a day, would you take that -- would that be part of your duties?

A. Yes.

Q. To schedule those appointments?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have occasion to observe visitors of Mr. Jackson that were child visitors?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see child visitors spend the night at Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see child visitors spend the night in Mr. Jackson’s room?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and violates the Court's order.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who did you see visit Mr. Jackson who was a child visitor?
MR. MESEREAU: I'm going to object. Violates the Court's order.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: When you were at Neverland, did you interact with Mr. Jackson about issues dealing with activities on the ranch?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: Issues dealing with activity on the ranch?
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Well, whatever -- let's back up. What were your duties as house manager?
A. To answer all the phone calls. To, you know, schedule the maids. To help the maids out with cleaning rooms and suites. And basically to, you know, take care of whatever Michael and the kids needed.
Q. And in terms of the day-to-day issues in terms of running the ranch, can you characterize how -- Mr. Jackson's degree of involvement?
A. As far as -- I mean --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; and relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.
THE WITNESS: Mr. Jackson is in total charge of the ranch.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Why do you say that?
A. Well, when I was terminated, because of my previous conversation with Chris Carter that only Michael Jackson could terminate me, I called Evvy, which is Michael's personal assistant --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; hearsay.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: That's fine.
MR. MESEREAU: And relevant as to time.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: So when you were on the ranch, did you have occasion to see Mr. Jackson in terms of making orders at the ranch?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he make orders?

A. Yes. He made some to me.

MR. MESEREAU: Continuing relevance objection, Your Honor, as to time.

THE COURT: Time?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: During the time that you were ranch manager, during that five-week period.

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: That's the objection, Your Honor. The time period's irrelevant.

THE COURT: All right. That's overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Go ahead. You can answer that question.

A. Yes, I observed it. He made some to me personally.

Q. Did you have occasion to see individuals, his other employees, in terms of their relationship with Mr. Jackson?

A. Meaning like Joe Marcus and Grace and those?

Q. I mean -- let's talk about your employees. Did you have employees that were working under you as house manager?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Cooks?

Q. Yeah, just generally speaking.

A. Cooks, housekeepers, maids.

Q. Okay. And had some of these people been working at the ranch longer than you had?

A. Yes. The majority of -- all of them.

Q. And did you have occasion to see their interaction with Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. And what level of service did Mr. Jackson expect?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; vague; no foundation.

THE COURT: It's vague; sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Can you characterize the demeanor of the employees around Mr. Jackson when they were in his presence?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; relevance. Particularly the time period.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I'll be specific.

Q. During the time you were ranch manager, or house manager.

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Can you ask me the question again?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Yeah. My question is, can you characterize the demeanor -- how did these people act, these employees, when they were around Mr. Jackson in his presence?

A. I mean, they act like they liked him. Mr. Jackson was nice to people.

Q. Did they act like they'd speak their mind around him?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did they act -- did they act comfortable around him?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; vague; relevance; and foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you know if -- do you know if Mr. Jackson would fire people at Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Well, you yourself were fired; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who fired you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Who -- when you were working with Mr. Jackson, did you have occasion to see individuals who were employees of his that were closer than other employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Vague; leading; relevance; foundation.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection, Counsel's fishing for a reason to object to that question.

MR. MESEREAU: I object to the colloquy, move to strike.

THE COURT: I'll sustain the "vague" objection to that question.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you see employees -- did you see any employees that spent more time with Mr. Jackson than other employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; vague; foundation; and relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Yes, I did.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you see -- well, let's go ahead and make a list. Who did you see that spent more time with Mr. Jackson than other employees?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; foundation; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Vase -- Grace, I'm sorry. Grace, Chris Carter. Those are the two that I think spent most of the time with Mr. Jackson.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you ever see an individual visit the ranch by the name of Dieter Weizner?

A. I would have to see a picture to be sure.

MR. MESEREAU: Could we approach, Your Honor? We'd like a proffer.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Be happy to make one.

THE COURT: I don't really need that. I -- it's clear to me where....

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I show you People's Exhibit No. 17, Mr. Swingler. Can you identify that for me, please?

A. I can't say I've seen that gentleman.

Q. You haven't seen him?

A. No.

Q. Did you see -- did you previously have a conversation with Detective Bonner about the facts of this case?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And in that conversation, did you identify -- just a moment, if you would, please.

Did you identify a number of individuals that you thought were within Michael Jackson’s inner circle?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and vague.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: It’s impeachment.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I’m sorry?

THE COURT: It’s vague.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you identify Dieter Weizner as a member of Michael Jackson’s inner circle?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; and foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: In my conversation with Detective Bonner?

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: With Detective Bonner, did you not identify Dieter Weizner specifically as a member of Michael Jackson’s inner circle?

A. I can’t -- I can’t really recall, because I don’t know the face. I never seen the face before. The name I know. The face I don’t.

Q. Do you know the name Dieter Weizner?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you meet a man by the name of Dieter Weizner?

A. Looking at the face --

Q. I’m not asking you about the face.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. He’s arguing with the witness. Leading and foundation.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you meet a man by the name of Dieter Weizner?

A. I can’t remember.

Q. Did you meet a man -- well --
A. Like I say, the name sounds familiar. I know I've heard the name. Maybe I spoke with him on the phone a few times there, but the face didn't --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Calls for speculation; move to strike; nonresponsive.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you meet a man by the name of Ronald Konitzer?
THE COURT: There's an objection pending.
THE BAILIFF: Judge, can you turn the microphone on?

THE COURT: All right. The objection is overruled. And you had another question. Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Did you meet a man by the name of Ronald Konitzer?
A. I can't -- by the name -- I would have to see a picture.
Q. Did you meet two German businessmen?
A. Yes.
Q. Did they meet with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. On how many occasions?
A. Three or four.
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Thank you. I have no further questions.
THE COURT: Cross-examine?

CROSS-EXAMINATION
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Good afternoon.
A. Good afternoon.
Q. My name's Tom Mesereau. I speak for Mr. Jackson.
A. How you doing, sir?
Q. Good. Good. We've never spoken before, right?
A. No.
Q. You worked for a five-week period?
A. Four and a half, five weeks, yes, sir.

Q. Four and a half, five weeks. How many days a week did you work?
A. Six or seven.

Q. And the prosecutor asked you about how many meetings Mr. Jackson had with two German individuals, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you really know how many meetings there were?
A. Around, I’m guessing, three to four.
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Move to strike the testimony, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Denied.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You’re guessing three to four, but you don’t really know, right?
A. No, I couldn’t say. I couldn’t pinpoint it. I wasn’t --
Q. You weren’t in the meetings, right?
A. No.
Q. You don’t remember what they looked like, right?
A. I do remember what they looked like if I saw a picture of them, yes.
Q. Well, the picture the prosecutor showed you, you couldn’t identify, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Okay. Now, you wanted to be transferred to Los Angeles; is that correct?

A. Yes. Yes, sir.
Q. And did you tell -- excuse me, who did you talk to about the transfer?
A. Mr. Jackson.
Q. Okay. And you explained that the commute and the hours were just too much to raise your family?
A. I just wasn’t seeing my kids, and they were one years old.
Q. And did you ask Mr. Jackson to be transferred somewhere in Los Angeles?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And where was that?
A. I just asked him to be transferred to any business in Los Angeles that he had.
Q. But you really didn’t even know if there was a job available in Los Angeles, right?
A. No, that’s why I was asking.

Q. Okay. Right. Okay. And approximately when did you ask him; do you know?
A. Maybe three weeks into the job.
Q. Okay. And Mr. Jackson was always nice to you, wasn't he?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And as far as you know, there may not have been a job available in Los Angeles, right?
A. He told me there was one.
Q. He told you there was one?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where did he say?
A. A&R, his record label.
Q. Pardon me?
A. A&R of his record label.
Q. Had you ever worked at a record label before?
A. No, I hadn't.
Q. All right. But at some point you learned that you weren't being hired, right?
A. No. As a matter of fact, I saw Michael again at his birthday party in Los Angeles and he told me I was still hired.
Q. Okay. But it never came through, right?
A. No, I'm still waiting for my paycheck now.
Q. Okay. You're trying to write a book about your experiences at Neverland, correct?
A. Well, no, I'm not trying to write a book about my experiences at Neverland.
Q. Well, didn't you -- excuse me. Did you say Michael Jackson has a record label?
A. He told me he had a record label.
Q. Okay. Do you know that he doesn't have one?
MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; assumes facts.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you know whether or not he really has a record label?
A. I was just told by him he had a record label.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, you prepared notes for a book called "Entering Neverland, Secrets Behind the Gate," right?

A. Does it have my signature on it? Because I know that within the last month or two, I started jotting down information to myself and somehow my information come up missing out of my house, but whatever.

Q. Did you prepare notes for a book titled "Entering Neverland, Secrets Behind the Gate" --

A. No.

Q. -- "By Dwayne Swingler, Head Supervisor of Neverland Ranch, Summer of 2003," did you prepare that?

A. No.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Objection; asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer is, "No."

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Are you aware of anything like that?

A. No.

Q. You didn't --

A. Am I aware of it? What do you mean?

Q. Yeah. Have you written out anything for a book called "Entering Neverland, Secrets Behind the Gate, by Dwayne Swingler"?

A. No, I haven't written anything, or titled anything, or signed anything, or spoke to anybody about, "This is my deal."

Q. Have you talked to a group called News of the World?

A. Have I?

Q. Yes.

A. Yeah, I spoke with one lady one time, yes.

Q. And to your knowledge, who is News of the World?

A. To my knowledge, it's a news media overseas.

Q. And why were you speaking to them?

A. Because I was interested in maybe possibly writing down some information to -- to cash in on something like everybody else was, because Michael wasn't -- I hadn't received the paycheck from A&R at the time.

Q. Okay. Did you enter into a nondisclosure agreement with News of the World?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Have you ever seen one?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you ever talk to someone named David Han-Schmidt?

A. The same time I spoke with the News of the World lady, he's the one that contacted her and contacted me.

Q. And to your knowledge, who is David Han-Schmidt?

A. He said that he was a media agent. I don't even know how he got my phone number.

Q. When did you last talk to David Han-Schmidt?

A. He -- as a matter of fact, he called me today.

Q. And to your knowledge, is he with a public relations company?

A. I really don't know what he did. He never clarified that with me. He said he was an agent, he was a producer, he was in public relations. I basically ended the situation.

Q. To your knowledge, did anyone ever send you a nondisclosure agreement regarding News of the World?

A. No. I haven't signed any nondisclosure agreements, and I haven't taken any money from anyone.

Q. How many discussions have you had with David Han-Schmidt?

A. Three. Four. Can't remember.

Q. And when was the last one with him? Today?

A. He called me today, because he said he heard that I was coming to testify.

Q. Okay. Have you ever put together any notes for a possible book on the computer?

A. Excuse me?

Q. Have you ever put any notes for a possible book on your computer?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. Have you ever written any notes out for a possible book?

A. I told you I jotted down some information on a piece of paper, and that's all I've done.

Q. Did you ever ask any public relations person to put together a proposal for you?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. But you're thinking of doing it, right, like everybody else?

A. Yes, I was thinking about doing it.

Q. Okay. Okay. Have you ever seen -- excuse me. Has anyone ever brought to your attention that somebody has prepared notes for a possible book in your name?

A. David.

Q. David Han-Schmidt?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he prepare them, to your knowledge?

A. He just said he received papers. I don't know -- like I told you, I don't even know how he got my phone number.

Q. Okay. If I showed you these papers, might it refresh your recollection about where they came from?

A. No, it probably wouldn't, because I never typed any papers or wrote out -- the only thing I did was write down notes, jotted down notes on a 5761 piece of paper.

Q. Okay. And that was about your experience during the five weeks at Neverland?

A. That was about my experience totally, not just the five weeks at Neverland. That was my experience with Michael's manager and everything.

Q. Okay. Did you ever write down on those notes the words "Secrets Behind the Gate"?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Okay. Did David Han-Schmidt tell you how he got your name?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Okay. Did you ever ask him, "Why did you call me?"

A. Well, actually, he started the conversation off, and he just, whew, went straight to talking about a lot of money, so I was listening to him about a lot of money first.

Q. Did he promise you a lot of money?

A. That's what he promised, yes.

Q. Okay. How much money did he promise?

A. He never said figures. He just said, you know, “You can make a lot of money.” You know, “Why aren’t you telling anyone your story?” That’s what he said to me.

Q. It’s your understanding that he’s located in Phoenix, Arizona?

A. Yes. That’s where he said he’s from.

Q. Okay. Did he ever tell you he was going to prepare a possible manuscript for you?

A. He asked me would I like him to, and I said no. Like I told you, I terminated the conversation when he told me what he wanted to do.

Q. Okay. And did he want some scandal sheet about Michael, something like that?

A. Actually, he’s for Michael. He’s pro Michael.

Q. Did he want you to write something about Michael?

A. He wanted to speak on Michael’s behalf, yes.

Q. Okay. And how often -- in those three conversations, did you talk about money each time?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Okay. Have you ever spoken to Miss Carol Maung, M-a-u-n-g, who is the U.S. editor of News of the World?

A. I spoke with her. I spoke with her when she was with David when I got there.

Q. And did she fax you anything or e-mail you anything?

A. Fax me anything or e-mail me anything?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. All right. When you were at Neverland working --

A. Yes.

Q. -- you had no direct contact with any member of the Arvizo family, right?

A. The Arvizo family?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. That means you didn’t have any contact with the Arvizos?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you remember meeting Dominick Cascio at Neverland?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he's the -- did you speak to him?

A. Often.

Q. Okay. And to your knowledge, he's a father?

A. He's a father?

Q. Yes.

A. I didn't know he was a father.

Q. Okay. Did he ever talk to you about work he did?

A. Did Dominick ever talk to me about work he did?

Q. Yeah.

A. Some work at the restaurant that his family owned.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. I have no further questions, Your Honor.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Counsel?

(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Maybe we should approach. Your Honor, may we approach?

THE COURT: For what?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Concerning the materials that counsel is using to cross-examine the witness on.

THE COURT: All right.

(Discussion held off the record at sidebar.)

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: If I could just have a moment, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: I think I can finish with this witness, Your Honor. Just one question.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. AUCHINCLOSS:

Q. Mr. Swingler, do you know if David Schmidt has any affiliation with Michael Jackson?

A. I just know that he has a website; that he's, you know, pro Michael Jackson.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: All right. Thank you.

I have no further questions.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may step down.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: Do you have another witness?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: (To Mr. Sneddon) Go ahead.

MR. SNEDDON: You.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: Do you want me to do it?

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: We're trying to figure out which one of us should take responsibility for telling you "No."

(Laughter.)

MR. SNEDDON: And being the great delegator I am, I'm leaving it up to Gordon.

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: We have no further witnesses, Your Honor. We just anticipated that there would be -- it would take a little longer to get through these witnesses today.

THE COURT: All right. There's a couple of items that we can take up. I'll go ahead and excuse the jury.

(To the jury) Remember the admonitions I've given you and I'll see you tomorrow morning at 8:30. But it's a half day tomorrow, remember. How could you forget, right?

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: All right. First, there was -- my understanding is that the special master will have the report available tomorrow morning for you on the computer hard drives.

MR. SNEDDON: On both of them, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes. They're working on some last-minute details. So it will be available tomorrow morning.

MR. SNEDDON: Now, at that point, then, Your Honor, does it need to go to you for final decision, or is that the decision?

THE COURT: I don't know. I haven't read the report. I was handed a rough draft of one by my research attorney this morning -- well, not this morning, a few minutes ago. And I asked him to talk to Mr. Sanger about an issue. So I can't answer your question.

MR. SNEDDON: Okay.

THE COURT: I suspect it doesn't need to go beyond what's been done by the special master, so --

MR. SNEDDON: Okay.

THE COURT: But I won't know till I've looked at it.

The second thing is that both of you have submitted points and authorities on Janet Arvizo.

The District Attorney's I've read.

And I just received the defense, so I haven't had time to read yours.

When do you expect to call Janet Arvizo?

MR. ZONEN: Either tomorrow or Wednesday. Depending on if we finish the witnesses scheduled before her tomorrow. If not --

THE COURT: They can't hear behind you.

(To the audience) He said either tomorrow or Wednesday.

MR. ZONEN: As early as tomorrow.

THE COURT: As early as tomorrow.

Okay. Well, I'm not really prepared to deal with that issue. We'll have to deal with it before she's called, but I'll need to study the material you've given me, the defense has given me.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

THE COURT: Was there anything else pending?

MR. SANGER: On that issue, Your Honor, as I explained to you, as I explained to your clerk, we were served with their papers this morning. We thought they might call Ms. Arvizo today.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. SANGER: So we put something together very quickly, and I would like to have an opportunity to explain to the Court a little more, in a little more organized fashion, where this goes, now that we’ve had a few more minutes to think about it.

THE COURT: I’ll make sure you have that opportunity.

MR. SANGER: Okay. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Then we’ll recess until tomorrow morning.

(The proceedings adjourned at 2:30 p.m.)

DIRECT EXAMINATION
BY MR. ZONEN:
Q. Sir, what is your current occupation?
A. I am in the -- I'm on active duty with the Army reserve.
Q. How long have you been in the Army reserve?
BAILIFF CORTEZ: Speak right in here,

please.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

I’ve been in the Army reserve for 23 years, some of that active duty, some of that reserved part time.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Most recently you’ve been on active duty for what period?

A. About five years.

Q. All right. Were you in Desert Storm?

A. The first one, yes, sir, I was.

Q. And what position did you hold at that time?

A. I ran a prisoner of war camp processing area. We ran enemy prison of war through the prisoner of war camp.

Q. In which country?

A. In Saudi Arabia.

Q. Your current rank with the Army reserves is what?

A. Major.

Q. And what are your responsibilities?

A. Currently I’m working in a command where we do mobilizations, we mobilize soldiers to go to war.

Q. Are you currently married to Janet Ventura Jackson?

A. Yes, sir, I am.

Q. She has taken your name after your marriage; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have children together?

A. We do. We have one. A little boy.

Q. And do you have other children living in your household?

A. Yes, sir, we do. Three additional children.

Q. And they are who?

A. Gavin, Star and Davellin.

Q. When did you first meet Janet Arvizo?

A. Back in July of 2002.

Q. How did you meet her?

A. I was working one Saturday, and she came -- she knocked on the door, and I -- it’s a secured facility, and I let her in. She had Star with her.

Q. All right. What were the children involved in at that time, the boys?

A. There's a Sea Cadet Command right there that is for children between the ages of, say, 11 and 18 years old. And she was bringing her children there for that program.

Q. And both of them were involved, Star and Gavin?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. All right. Then that's how you met her?

A. That is how I met them.

Q. And began dating after that?

A. We talked. I met her. She said -- I was sitting in the hallway and walked by her, and got into a conversation, and then -- I got her phone number, I think. And then about a month later, we talked on the phone for about a month.

And then a month later she was telling me that Gavin and Star were graduating from the Sea Cadet program, a little two-week training or one-week training. And so we decided that our first date we would go down there for that graduation, and we did.

Q. And you've been married how long now?

A. Oh, goodness. May 29th will be one year.

Q. I'd like to direct your attention back to February of '03, 2003.

A. Okay.

Q. Will you tell us in what neighborhood you were living at that time?

A. The mid-Wilshire district, also known as Korea Town.

Q. And the street that you were living on was what?

A. St. Andrews Place.

Q. Was Janet Arvizo living with you at that time?

A. She was.

Q. Was she living with you full time at that time?

A. No, she wasn't. She had a place over on

Soto Street in East L.A.

Q. And the boys, where were they living?

A. The same place. Both places.

Q. All right. Do you remember or do you recall where they were attending school at that time?

A. Well, I don’t know the name of the school, but it was in East L.A. And then because there was a lot of problems at that school - they were, you know, being pushed into getting into gangs, and there was some altercations - we thought it was a good idea if we enrolled them in John Burroughs, which is a real good school in the mid-Wilshire district.

Q. And that was closer to your home; is that right?

A. Yes, sir, it was. Very close.

Q. And did you do that?

A. Sir?

Q. Did you do that, enroll them at John Burroughs?

A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. That is John Burroughs Middle School?

A. That is John Burroughs Middle School.

Q. Was your address, then, on St. Andrews Place the address that was used?

A. That is correct, yes, sir.

Q. Did Janet Arvizo maintain the Soto Street address?

A. She did, sir.

Q. For what period of time?

A. Through about November of ‘04, I believe.

Q. Had you ever gone to Neverland?

A. I’ve been to Neverland one time.

Q. And when was that; do you recall?

A. It was in -- it was before November of ‘02, so it was in the summer, I believe, of ‘02. I was still living in West L.A., and we were invited by Chris Tucker and his girlfriend; that they were having a little-baby birthday party.

Q. Were you the only ones invited to Neverland for that occasion?

A. Oh, no, sir. There was two busfuls of people.

Q. You met the bus where; do you recall?

A. It was -- you know, I think it was the Beverly Hills Hilton or something like that. It was one of the hotels in the local area.

Q. Did you spend the day at Neverland?

A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. Did you spend the night at Neverland?

A. We left in the evening, late in the evening.

Q. And then returned back to Los Angeles?

A. That is correct.

Q. How many people, approximately, to your recollection, attended that party?

A. 40 or 50, maybe.

Q. Did you see Michael Jackson at any time during that occasion?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Had you ever met Michael Jackson?

A. No, sir, not until today.

Q. At some point in early February of 2003, did you become aware of the fact that a documentary was being shown on television?

A. I'm not sure if I knew at that moment, but I know that Janet received a call from either Michael or somebody in his entourage asking him to go to Miami -- asking her to go to Miami, and with the kids.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: I'll strike after the word "moment. "

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did Janet Arvizo and the children go to Miami?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Do you know what prompted that?

A. Um --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Foundation and hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Yes or no; does he know.

THE COURT: I sustained the objection. I'm sorry.

MR. ZONEN: Oh, I’m sorry. I didn’t hear.

Q. Do you know on what day they left for Miami?

A. I just know approximately it was early February.

Q. Had there been any discussion in the household about Michael Jackson prior to going to Miami?

A. No, sir, not really.

Q. Had there been any problems in the household that dealt in some fashion with either Neverland or Michael Jackson prior to Janet Arvizo going to Miami?

A. No, sir, not at all.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “No, sir, not at all.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Had there been any discussion about Michael Jackson prior to her going to Miami in your household, say, within a week or two prior to their departure?

A. No, sir.

Q. And could you tell us approximately what percentage of the week Janet Arvizo was living at your home as opposed to her residence on Soto Street?

A. Three or four days a week.

Q. Is that during the time that the kids were at school?

A. Yes, sir. That’s correct.

Q. Did Janet Arvizo have parents living in the Los Angeles area?

A. Yes, sir. In the El Monte area.

Q. And had you visited their home on occasion?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And El Monte is where in Los Angeles County?

A. I -- I’m not sure exactly. I mean, it’s in -- El Monte is in -- it’s in -- I mean, Los Angeles area. I’m not sure exactly how to -- because I’m not from California, I really can’t lay out where everything is from.

Q. We do hear an accent in your voice. Where are you from?

A. Virginia.

Q. Is that where you grew up?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did you know in advance that Janet Arvizo and her children were going to be going to Miami?

A. No, sir, I didn't. I received -- excuse me one second.

Q. Go ahead.

A. Janet just told me that she was going to my --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: I'll strike after "I didn't."

MR. ZONEN: I'm sorry, I don't have the ability to read it. I'm not hearing everything you're saying at the moment.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. The question was, "Did you know in advance that Janet Arvizo and her children were going to be going to Miami?" "No, sir, I didn't." Then after that I struck his answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: When did you first learn that they were going to Miami?

A. I believe Janet told me right before they were ready to leave that they were going.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; hearsay; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. ZONEN: And the answer's in?

THE COURT: The answer's in.

THE WITNESS: Janet -- should I --

THE COURT: No.

THE WITNESS: No? Thank you.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: We'll move on to the next question.

And did they, in fact, leave that day?

A. That day or the next day, yes, sir. Within a day or two, yes.

Q. Did you have conversations -- without getting into the content of them, did you have conversations with Janet Arvizo while she was in Miami?

A. I believe she called me, yes, sir.

Q. Did you have conversations with any of the kids while they were in Miami?

A. No. No, sir.

Q. Without getting into the content, did you know the purpose of the trip to Miami?

A. I knew that they were going to be going there to do a press conference.

Q. Did you know -- again, without getting into the content, did you know what the purpose of the press conference was?

A. I'm not sure that I knew exactly at that time, but I knew very shortly thereafter what was going on with the documentary.

Q. Did you understand that it had something to do with the documentary?

A. I believe I may have known, but I didn't know the specifics.

Q. All right. Was there, in fact, a documentary about Michael Jackson shown on television that you saw within a few days thereafter?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And how did you know that it was going to be on television?

A. I believe I saw something on T.V. that said it was coming on.

Q. Did you know in advance that that documentary would feature any of Janet Arvizo's children?

A. I believe that there was some indication that -- yes, that the children were going to be on there.

Q. Did you watch the documentary in its entirety?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did it, in fact, feature Janet Arvizo's children?

A. It did, yes, sir.

Q. At the time you watched that documentary, was Janet Arvizo and her children in Miami? Were they in Miami?

A. Yes, sir, they were in Miami.

Q. At some point in time were you contacted by reporters from any news agency, presumably reporters from the news agency?

A. I wasn’t contacted by them. But I did talk to several -- two reporters, British reporters, at Janet’s Soto Street apartment.

Q. Do you remember when that was?

A. It was right -- I guess right after -- it was right before the documentary aired in the United States.

Q. All right. And what did they want to do with you?

A. They -- well, when I was -- I took Janet and the kids back to that Soto Street apartment. And Davellin was at the apartment, and she said that -- either two journalists or two guys had just knocked on the door asking for Janet.

I saw them at the end of the hall. I walked down to ask them what they were -- who they were with, and what they wanted.

Q. All right. What did they tell you?

A. They said that they were with a British tabloid, and that they wanted to do a story on the family as it pertained to Michael Jackson.

Q. All right. Did they actually use the word “tabloid”?

A. I’m not sure if they did. I think I found that out later.

Q. That may have been your conclusion?

A. It may have been, yes, sir.

Q. I can’t imagine a reporter saying they’re with a tabloid.

A. Right.

Q. Did they say to you what it was exactly that they wanted to talk to you about?

A. They didn’t say specifically, no. They just said that they wanted to have a conversation, they wanted to do an interview with the family, and they wanted to take some photographs of the family.

Q. And did you understand this to relate to Michael Jackson in some fashion?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they tell you that that’s what they wanted to do?

A. Yes, sir, they did.

Q. Now, I believe you said this was prior to the screening of the documentary “Living With” --

A. Yes, sir, it was.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; misstates the evidence.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was this prior to the screening of the documentary --

A. Yes, sir, it was.

Q. -- that you saw?

The documentary we’re talking about, can you tell us the name of it, if you recall?

A. “Living with Michael Jackson.”

Q. Was it a documentary that featured a man by the name of Martin Bashir?

A. Yes, sir, it did.

Q. At the time you talked to these two reporters, did you have a sense of what was going on at that point?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you either request payment for an interview or did they offer you payment for an interview?

A. Well, I said -- again, we have to put it in context. They --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

MR. ZONEN: Let me withdraw the question.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Tell us what the discussion was with regards to payment.

A. The discussion was -- I asked them what was it that they were going -- how they were going to compensate the family --

Q. Okay.

A. -- for doing this. And he said -- he said, “We can probably give them four to five hundred dollars.”

Q. What did you say?

A. I said, “I don’t think that’s going to happen.”

Q. What did you understand -- what did you think that they wanted to ask this family?

A. I don’t think I really knew. I believe that they were looking for something negative on Michael Jackson as it related to the children.

Q. Did you know anything negative about Michael Jackson at that time?

A. No, sir, we did not. I did not.

Q. Had Janet Arvizo or her children at any time expressed any kind of negative comment to you about Michael Jackson up to that point?

A. None.

Q. Were you aware as to whether or not the children had visited Neverland prior to that date?

A. I knew they had a relationship with Michael Jackson.

Q. Did you have any reason to believe that relationship was anything but positive?

A. That’s all I believed it was.

Q. Did you tell those two reporters that?

A. I did.

Q. All right. And was that before or after or during the conversation about payment?

A. I’m not real clear. It was a back-and-forth about that. But I said, you know, “If you’re looking for dirt,” you know, “This” -- “I don’t believe there’s anything negative to say.” And they continued to ask for it. And they said, “Let me get back with my boss and we’ll get back to you tomorrow.”

And I don’t know if I gave him my phone number, or whether he got it, or -- I probably gave it to him. Although some reporters tend to be able to find your phone number.

Q. All right. Did you ask for more money than three or four hundred dollars?

A. No, I just said that wasn’t going to be acceptable.

Q. And what did you mean by that?

A. Well, I think I was -- you know, I was intrigued by it. I have never had anybody come up asking to pay for any kind of story of any kind. And maybe I was -- I was the one that initially asked, you know, “Is there any compensation for the family?” But I think that I just thought that was the standard in the industry. I meant no malice by it.

Q. Did they tell you at any time during this initial interview that it had something to do with the documentary that featured in England?

A. That featured what, sir?

Q. That was shown in England, that was aired on television in England.

A. They mentioned something about a documentary in England, but they really were vague.

Q. And did you have any other independent information about it at that time?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you have a follow-up conversation with them?

A. I did.

Q. And when was the follow-up conversation?

A. I believe it was the next day, or the day after that.

Q. Was this before or after Janet Arvizo and her children went to Miami?

A. They had not left yet.

Q. Okay. Had you told Janet Arvizo about your initial conversation with these two reporters?

A. I mean, while Janet and the family were in the apartment. But no, I did not talk to them specifically about any conversation I was having with the British reporters.

Q. All right. Do you know the name of the reporter or reporters who you talked to on this first occasion?

A. David Gardner, Garner or Gardner, and Alec Byrne.

Q. And then you said there was a follow-up conversation over the telephone?

A. Right.

Q. Perhaps a day or two later?

A. Perhaps -- yes, it was a day or two later.

Q. Do you recall with which person this conversation took place?

A. I'm sorry, sir?

Q. With which person did you have this --

A. My conversations were with David Gardner.

Q. Did Mr. Gardner talk more about wanting to have an interview with the family?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

MR. ZONEN: I'll withdraw the question.

Q. What did Mr. Gardner say?

A. He continued to say he wanted to have an interview with the family and that he was going to offer additional money; that his boss, I guess, had allowed something like $15,000, and that he wanted to bring them to a hotel or somewhere and do a full spread with them. And I declined that.

Q. You declined $15,000?

A. I did.

Q. To say nice things about Michael Jackson?

A. Well, you know, at that time I -- I really -- wasn't really in a position to make that decision. I knew Janet wouldn't do that.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; move to strike.

MR. ZONEN: Well --

MR. MESEREAU: Nonresponsive.

THE COURT: That's stricken. After the word "decision," that's stricken, the last sentence.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Why did you say no?

A. The more I thought about it, the less I liked the idea.

Q. Why? What was it that didn't appeal to you? $15,000 seems like a lot of money.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Admonish the prosecutor not to make gratuitous remarks.

THE COURT: Don’t make gratuitous remarks.

(Laughter.)

MR. ZONEN: I’m admonished.

THE COURT: And that goes for all of you.

(Laughter.)

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What about $15,000 didn’t you want to have?

A. Sir, I don’t think -- you know, at that time I remember going through the thought process of, you know, this would be -- we could use this money. But, you know, the more I thought about it, these children were going to be on television, and it wasn’t -- it just wasn’t going to be an appropriate thing to do to this family.

Q. All right. Now, in the course of this conversation, this was also prior to your viewing “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. That is correct, sir.

Q. Was it prior to your knowing about “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Did you ever communicate with Janet Arvizo this particular offer?

A. I did not.

Q. All right. Did you ever make any kind of a counteroffer for more money?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Were there any other discussions with this reporter after this phone call?

A. Yes, he -- you know, after they left for Miami, I received a phone call from him. And I said -- you know, he continued to want to have a conversation about doing an interview. And I told him, “Sir, I can’t” -- you know, “The family is not even in the area now. There’s nothing that I can do.”

He continued to call. He called again. Several months later, he says, “Well, I’d just like to have a cup of coffee with you.” I said, “I’m not interested in that.”

And then when the raid on Neverland occurred, again he called me back, and in some ways made a threat. He said, you know, “I haven’t given your information to any other organizations.” And I said, “Sir, this is a military phone line. Please do not call here again.” That was the last consideration I had with him.

Q. Have you had a conversation with any other reporters attempting to get a story from you?

A. I have not had any detailed conversations. I have had a number of reporters contact me. How they get my number I do not know. But they called my office primarily. And they have shown up at various -- at various locations like my apartment.

Q. Have you accepted money from anybody?

A. Zero. We have not accepted a penny.

Q. For any kind of a story?

A. For anything.

Q. Have you given a story to anybody?

A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. Have you promised a story to anybody?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you made arrangements to accept money in the future in exchange for a story?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you have any intention of giving a story in the future?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you have any intention of accepting money for a story in the future?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, when they left for Miami, “they” being Janet Arvizo and here children, when did you expect them to return?

A. I didn’t have a specific date, you know. They were -- they knew Michael, and if that’s what they were going to do, I wasn’t going to get involved with all of that. But I didn’t anticipate them being gone more than three or four days.

Q. When you saw “Living with Michael Jackson,” did any part of that documentary disturb you?

A. Yes, absolutely. The --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Relevance; move to strike; and leading.

THE COURT: Leading is overruled. Relevancy is sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. Where did they go? Did they return to Los Angeles after their trip to Miami?
A. Yes, sir. They came back from Miami and I believe went straight to Neverland.
Q. All right. So they didn’t come to Los Angeles?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did --
A. Not that I’m aware of.
Q. Were you contacted by Janet Arvizo?
A. I was contacted by her on a couple of occasions.
Q. Now, during the course of the conversations that you had from her, can you tell us approximately how many phone calls you had from her while she was at Neverland?
A. During this period of time?
Q. Yes.
A. I can’t tell you the specific number. But it was -- it was several phone calls that I received from her over a two- or three- or four-day period.
Q. Okay. How did she sound to you?
A. She was distressed.
Q. Had she been distressed prior to going to Miami?

A. No, not at all.
Q. Had there been any noticeable problems in your family prior to her going to Miami?
A. No, sir.
Q. Were the kids healthy?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were the kids in school?
A. The kids were in school.
Q. In the course of her conversations with you over the telephone, did she tell you why she was distressed?

A. She did not.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: That would be state of mind.

MR. MESEREAU: And foundation.

THE COURT: I think I'll allow the "yes" or "no" answer to whether or not she told him. That doesn't get to the real issue.

MR. ZONEN: Yes.

Q. Was that a yes or no?

A. Could you repeat the question, please?

Q. Did she tell you -- well, maybe the court reporter should repeat the question.

(Record read.)

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Yes or no.

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. What did she tell you was the reason for her distress?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; relevance; foundation; relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: During the period of time that you had conversations with her, did she appear to you to be any less stressed as time went on?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At some point in time, did she return to Los Angeles?

A. Yes, sir, she did.

Q. With her children?

A. Yes, sir, with her children.

Q. Did they go to your home or some other location?

A. They went to El Monte. They went to her mother's house.

Q. And did you visit them soon thereafter?

A. I picked them up. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. How long did they stay in the Los Angeles area?

A. Several days, probably three or four days. You're talking about at my apartment or at her mother's?

Q. At --

A. Total?
Q. At her mother's and at your apartment.
A. I would say three to four days, but that's speculation.

Q. During that period of time, were you getting any telephone calls at your apartment?
A. She -- Janet was talking to me -- oh, okay. What happened was that I went and picked her up from El Monte, brought her back to the house, and then I started receiving phone calls from a gentleman by the name of Frank.
Q. All right. Did Frank have a last name?
A. Tyson, I believe. But at the time I think I only knew "Frank." I don't think I knew his last name.
Q. How many conversations did you have with Frank Tyson?
A. During that time, I didn't have many conversations with Frank. I might have picked up the phone and passed it to Janet. I believe that there was one -- one phone call maybe that I actually talked to him in any detail.
Q. And the phone -- excuse me, I'm sorry. In that detailed conversation that you had, do you remember the content of that conversation?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: It would be a statement in furtherance, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. I'll admit it for the limited purposes that we discussed earlier on the conspiracy charges, the statement in furtherance of the conspiracy.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: The question was, do you recall the content of that conversation?
A. The content of the conversation was, is that Frank wanted to know what kind of car I drove.
Q. All right.
A. And I asked him why he wanted to know what kind of car I drove. And he said his girlfriend in New York was doing some kind of survey on what people drove in Los Angeles.

I thought it was quite strange. But at this point I didn't really understand what was happening, so I gave him that information.

Q. All right. And you told him what kind of a car you drove; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Did you ultimately have an opportunity to view surveillance tapes?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And were they surveillance tapes of you?

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. And were they surveillance tapes of you in the car that you described?

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. Can you tell us how many phone calls were coming from Frank during the time that Janet Arvizo was staying at your house after her first return from Neverland?

A. She was receiving phone calls continuously.

Q. What does that mean, "continuously"?

A. Every 15 to 20 to 30 minutes.

Q. Throughout the day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they always from Frank?

A. They seemed to be from Frank.

Q. Were you able to hear any portion of the conversation?

A. Janet was --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE WITNESS: -- somewhat emotional.

THE COURT: Nonresponsive. Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Were you able to hear any portion of the conversation? Yes or no.

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Do you know if those conversations went on for long periods of time?

A. They did.

Q. Without getting into the content of her end of the conversation, tell us what her mood was like, what her manner or her demeanor was like.

A. She was emotional. She was crying. And she was sitting in the closet having these conversations with Frank and -- I mean, I can tell you what I heard, but --

Q. Let’s not go into that at the moment. You said she was sitting in the closet?

A. She was -- it’s a long closet in the bedroom back in the back of the room. And she would sit in the closet. She was -- she would be -- she was very distressed.

Q. All right.

A. She was crying.

Q. Were you able to hear her end of the conversation?

A. I only heard bits and pieces, but, yes, sir.

Q. What could you hear her saying?

A. She at that --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: As to her state of mind.

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

THE COURT: Let’s see, she’s -- all right. I’ll overrule the objection and allow her statement in for her state of mind.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What did you hear, her comments?

A. I heard her comments that she was very disturbed about two gentlemen’s treatment of her, one being a gentleman named Ronald and another being a gentleman by the name of Dieter.

Q. Did she, in fact, return back to Neverland?

A. She did, sir.

Q. Do you recall if a person -- do you know a person named Brad Miller?

A. Yes, sir, I met him one time.

Q. Can you tell us who Brad will Miller is?

A. As far as I understood, Brad Miller’s a security detail for Michael Jackson.

Q. When and where did you meet Brad Miller?

A. Brad Miller showed up at the house one evening during this period of time when Janet and the children were there. And I asked Janet who he was, and she said he was a security detail for Michael Jackson. He came in and did an audiotaped interview of the family.

Q. Do you have a sense of when that was? If you don't know the date, say so.

A. Yeah, I don't know the date.

Q. Do you know how many days Janet Arvizo and her children were back in Los Angeles by the time Brad Miller came by?

A. Probably two or three days.

Q. Which residence was it that he came to?

A. My residence on St. Andrews Place.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Brad Miller prior to his arrival at the apartment?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you know in advance that he was going to be coming to the apartment?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you know in advance the purpose of his visit to the apartment?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. When he came to the apartment, did you talk with him?

A. I was cordial, offered him a drink. But no, sir, not other than that.

Q. Did he explain to you his presence in the apartment?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. Tell us what happened with Brad Miller when he was at the apartment.

A. He showed up at the apartment. Janet seemed to be anticipating his arrival. I asked what he was coming for. She said -- I guess they were going to do an interview of some type, an audio interview. I'm not even sure if that was said.

But he showed up and there was a phone call. There was a phone call between him and, I guess Frank, because he passed the phone to Janet, and Janet talked to him, to Frank. And then they came in, and they sat down around the table. It's a coffee table in the living room. And they all circled around it, and they had an interview.

Q. Was that interview tape-recorded, to your knowledge?
A. Yes, sir, it was.
Q. Did you see the tape-recording?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who did you believe Brad Miller worked for?
A. Michael Jackson.
Q. Did you have a sense of the purpose of that interview?

A. I did not.
Q. Did you listen to any part of the interview?
A. I was up and down throughout the entire time, so I really did not. I think -- I assume it was in relation to the “Living with Michael Jackson,” and that it was just to buffet his story that nothing had happened.
Q. All right. Did you at any time ask him any questions about what was going on?
A. No, sir, I did not.
Q. Did you ask him any questions about the two men that Janet had expressed concern about?
A. No, sir, I did not.
Q. Were you expecting that Janet Arvizo and the children would be returning to Neverland?
A. You know what? At this point I’m not even sure I knew that. You know what? Janet had this relationship with Michael --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: The answer was you didn’t know?
A. No, sir, I did not know.
THE COURT: I’ll strike the last sentence. Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: At the time that you were in the apartment during this interview, did you not know whether they would be returning?

A. No, sir, I did not.
Q. How long did that interview go for?
A. Probably two hours, two hours and 15 minutes, something like that.

Q. Do you have a recollection of any part of that interview, the content of that interview at all?

A. Not really, sir, I don’t.

Q. Did Janet Arvizo and her children return to Neverland after that interview?

A. Yes, sir, they did. I believe it was like the next day.

Q. Your apartment on St. Andrews Place was how large?

A. It’s about 1100 square foot, one bedroom.

Q. One bedroom and a living room?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And at times all of you were staying there at that apartment?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When they went back to Neverland, did you know in advance that they were going?

A. I mean, at the last minute, I believe I knew that they were going.

Q. Do you know how they got to Neverland?

A. Sure. Someone came and picked them up.

Q. You said, “At the last minute.” What does that mean?

A. It means that I -- you know, she wasn’t telling me specifically what was happening. And I wasn’t asking. So I think she might have told me that they were leaving, but I really -- I’m not clear that they were leaving.

Q. All right. When they went back to Neverland, do you know if they went back during the day or in the evening?

A. Seems to me that they went in the afternoon.

Q. And when was the next time you saw Janet Arvizo or her children?

A. That same night Janet came back. Late at night.

Q. Without her children?

A. Without her children.

Q. All right. What was her mood or her affect at that time?

A. She was very emotional.

Q. Did you ask her where the children were?

A. I assumed that they were still at the ranch.

Q. Did you talk about what had happened?

A. She didn’t want to talk about it.

Q. Do you know what day it was that she returned? Do you have a sense of it?

A. Early February, but I really don’t have a date.

Q. Do you know how much time had gone by since the Miami trip at this point that she came back?

A. Maybe a week.

Q. Now, when she came back, how long was it before you saw the kids next?

A. At that point, I didn’t see them for probably three weeks. I don’t know. It was a long time.

Q. Was there a meeting at your house involving the department of --

A. I stand corrected, sir. Can I go back on the last statement?

Q. Yes. Go ahead.

A. They -- they apparently did a CPS -- a Department of Child & Family Services interview after Janet left to go do the video that night. The next morning they all showed back up, and I did see the children but it was briefly.

Q. Now, you mentioned a couple of things we’re going to talk about in order.

A. Okay.

Q. First is the video.

A. Okay.

Q. At some point in time, did you become aware of the fact that Janet was -- Janet Arvizo was going to be doing a video?

A. I did.

Q. When did you learn about that?

A. Well, when Janet came back by herself, she was very emotional. And then the next day Frank started calling again, just continuously.

Q. Let me stop you for one second. The same

Frank who was calling the first time?

A. Yes, sir, the same Frank.

Q. The person you mentioned as Frank Tyson?

A. Frank Tyson.

Q. And you said before he was calling continuously?

A. That is correct.

Q. Was he calling more continuously, less continuously, or about --

A. I would say now it’s more continuously.

Q. And what does that mean in terms of actually how many phone calls he was making?

A. You know, I can’t tell you a number of phone calls, but I can say he was calling every 15 or 20 minutes. I mean, I even told him -- I would tell him certain times, “She’s not available. Call back later today,” or, “I’ll have her call you.” Fifteen minutes later he calls again.

Q. Did he tell you who he was in any of these phone calls?

A. I don’t think he did specifically. I knew he worked with Michael Jackson.

Q. Did he tell you why he was calling?

A. Well, he always wanted to speak --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: It would be in furtherance of.

THE COURT: First he has to answer the question. It was nonresponsive.

I’ll have the court reporter read back the question.

MR. ZONEN: The question actually is “yes” or “no.”

(Record read.)

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: That would be “yes” or “no.”

A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Statement in furtherance of.

THE COURT: I’m going to admit the statement with the same limited purpose for the last one.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What did he say?

A. He at one point asked me, “How can I get Janet to come back up to the ranch?”

And another time he asked me, he said, “We need her to sign a contract to do this video.” And he said, “We really have got to hurry on this, because it’s going to air tomorrow. It’s got to be in to be finalized by tomorrow.

So he was really pushing that issue, and so I had a conversation with him about that.

Q. Had you -- prior to that conversation, had you had a conversation with Janet Arvizo about a video?

A. No, I had overheard her talking to Frank on the phone about it. I mean, at one point she was asking them to bring her children home.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Reflects her state of mind.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

The question was, “Had you -- prior to that conversation, had you had a conversation with Janet Arvizo about the video?” Answer, “No.” He then proceeded to not answer, so I’ll strike that after, “No.” You may ask another question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: But you had some knowledge about what this video was about?

A. Yes, sir, I believe I did.

Q. And did that knowledge -- from what source was that knowledge?

A. I believe mostly from Frank.

Q. And did Janet Arvizo speak with you about that video at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you overhear any conversation between Janet Arvizo and presumably Frank on the telephone?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And did you overhear a conversation that specifically addressed the video?

A. Yes, sir. She said she didn’t want to do it.

Q. I’m sorry, she what?

A. She said she did not want to do it.

MR. MESEREAU: Move to strike; nonresponsive; and hearsay.

THE COURT: Stricken after, “Yes, sir.”

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. When you had a conversation with Frank about this video, did you ask him any questions about it?

A. Yes. I said -- he said he wanted to do --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Some of these questions really call for a “yes” or “no.”

A. Okay, sir.

Q. And then we can get into content thereafter.

A. Okay.

Q. I believe the question was, did you have a conversation with Frank about this video?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. All right. Did Frank tell you what the video was about?

A. Yeah, I believe he did, sir.

Q. What did he tell you?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Statement in furtherance of.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll admit this for the limited purposes of the conspiracy.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: I’m not clear exactly. I know Frank said some things to me about the fact that we needed to have this -- they needed to do this prior to it going to the editor or something, to get it out there, and it was a rush to get it done. And that’s really what I would say.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did he tell you or did you understand that this video would go on television?

A. I did, yes, sir.

Q. Did you talk to him about this contract that he wanted Janet Arvizo to sign?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. What did you say to him?

A. “What is this contract?”

Q. I’m sorry?

A. I said, “What is this contract? What is in this contract?”

Q. And what did he say?

A. He --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

MR. ZONEN: Same response.

THE COURT: You know, the last time you told me that, the response wasn’t what you represented, so --

MR. ZONEN: Actually, I would refer the Court to Overt Acts 11, 12 and 13, and I believe it does refer to those overt acts.

THE COURT: Depends on what he says in his answer, doesn’t it? That’s the problem. Not your question, Counsel.

MR. ZONEN: Let me withdraw that last question.

THE COURT: No, let’s have a discussion for a moment.

MR. ZONEN: Okay.

THE COURT: I just want to give you an example here.

“Did Frank tell you what the video was about?

“Yes, I believe he did.

“What did he tell you?

“Objection; hearsay.

“Statement in furtherance of conspiracy.

“The Court: All right. I’ll admit it for a limited purpose.

“A. I’m not clear exactly.”

And then he went on to say something else.

If you’re going to offer a statement in furtherance of the conspiracy, then you need to know what statement he’s going to make when you ask the question. Do you understand what I’m saying?

MR. ZONEN: Yes.

THE COURT: I’m not going to agree in advance to that kind of response.

MR. ZONEN: I think the best thing we need to do is to withdraw the last question and proceed to another question.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. ZONEN: I will do that.

Q. Did you have a conversation -- did you ask for a copy of the contract?

A. I did, yes, sir.

Q. All right. Did he send you a copy of the contract?

A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. Did he agree to send you a copy of the contract?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Frank about payment for this video?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you say to him?

A. Well, after I asked him to send the contract to me by e-mail, and he kind of changed the subject, I asked him, “What are you offering this family to do this?” I had seen on T.V. that they were making money on this -- this video, and I felt that they were taking advantage of this family. So I said, “What are you offering them?” He said, “Well, we’re offering them protection.”

And that struck --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection; nonresponsive.

MR. ZONEN: And I believe that statement --

MR. MESEREAU: And hearsay.

THE COURT: That’s overruled.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: He said something to you about protection?

A. Yes, sir, he did.

Q. What did he tell you about offering the family protection?

A. He said he was offering the family protection. And I said, “Frank, the family doesn’t need any protection. Who are you protecting them against?”

Q. Did he answer that question?

A. He did not. He moved on to the next point.

Q. At any point in time during this conversation, did he tell you who the family needed protection from?

A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. Did he tell you what kind of danger the family was in?

A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. Did he tell you who were posing threats to the family?

A. No, sir.

Q. And did you ask him those questions?

A. I did.

Q. All right. Then you said he moved to the next subject?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, again, you had asked him for compensation for the family?

A. Well, I -- yes, I did. And he said he was going to give them a tutor. Well, we found out they didn’t ever get any kind of schooling.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; hearsay; move to strike.

THE COURT: After “Yes, sir, I did,” I’ll strike the rest of the answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did Frank offer you or Janet Arvizo or her children anything in exchange for this video?

A. He said he was going to offer a college education, and a house. Well, they didn’t need a house. And they’re in eighth grade. They didn’t need a college education.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; move to strike.

THE COURT: The last sentence is stricken. Let me --

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What did you say to Frank in response to that offer?

A. I said, “That’s fine, Frank. What are you offering them monetarily?” I was very suspicious of him at this point.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: That’s -- that last remark is stricken. And the last answer, I’m striking the last three sentences, not the last one sentence.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. He had made you an offer of a house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. And you said no?

A. Basically said no.

Q. Okay. Did you ask him for any monetary payment in exchange for that video?

A. I asked him what he was offering financially or monetarily.

Q. And did he answer to that specific question?

A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. Did he tell you whether or not they were going to be paid?

A. No, he actually said, “Are you trying to blackmail us?”

Q. Had you made any demands from him?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you personally familiar with any information that could be used for blackmail?

A. No, sir.

Q. What did you tell him when he said that?

A. “Why are you saying that? That makes no sense. It has nothing to do with what we’re talking about here.”

Q. Did you tell him that you believed they were going to be profiting from this?

A. I did. I said, “You’re going” -- you know, “It’s being blasted all over the T.V. that they’re going to be doing this Take Two video, a response to the Martin Bashir ‘Living with Michael Jackson.’ And they’re advertising that the family’s going to be on there, and you want her to sign this contract, but you won’t show me the contract. And you” -- he wanted me to have her --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: Okay. After “there,” where he started, “You want me to sign the contract,” I’ll strike that. That’s the last sentence.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did he ever send you a copy of the contract?
A. No, sir, he did not.
Q. Did he ever read you a copy of the contract?
A. No, sir, he did not.
Q. Did you ever have a discussion with Janet Arvizo about the video?
A. No, sir, I did not.
Q. At some point in time, do you know if she actually did the video with or without her children?
A. Yes, sir, I believe she did.
Q. And was that after this discussion with Frank?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you know how long after this discussion with Frank?
A. He continued to call, and at some point

Janet accepted it or moved --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: The question was how long after, if you know?
A. Within a day.
Q. Did the phone calls from Frank continue during that --
THE COURT: The ruling on that is I will strike the answer as requested. Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Okay. During that period of time, that day that followed your conversation with Frank, did he continue to call the apartment?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And the calls we’re talking about were to your apartment on St. Andrews?
A. That’s correct.
Q. Was there anybody else calling other than Frank?
A. Not that I’m aware of.
Q. Do you know where the children were during this time?
A. I believe they were at Neverland.
Q. Now, you had mentioned that you did see them during the course of an interview with the Department of Child & Family Services; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. Can you tell us where that interview took place?

A. It took place in my apartment.

Q. Were you there at any time during that interview?

A. No, sir, I wasn’t.

Q. Did you greet any of the people as they came?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you there earlier at the time that Janet Arvizo and the children arrived?

A. About the time I was getting up to go to work, they arrived at the apartment. I was there a short period of time and went on to work.

Q. Do you know approximately what time that was that they arrived?

A. Well, I get up probably about six o’clock in the morning, so that’s my guess.

Q. So they were just arriving at six o’clock?

A. That -- it might have been a little earlier, but I’m not positive on that. Depends on what I had to do at work that day.

Q. Now, was Janet Arvizo arriving with them or had she already been at your apartment?

A. No, she was arriving with them.

Q. Do you know when it was that she had left your apartment prior --

A. The night before.

Q. The night before?

A. Late at night. I don’t know. Around eleven o’clock, twelve o’clock.

Q. Do you know if she drove herself or if someone came to get her?

A. Someone came and got her.

Q. Do you know who that was?

A. I don’t. I’m not sure. I think I went outside -- I know I went outside to help her get in the car, but I don’t know who the driver was at this time. I can’t put my finger on who it was.

Q. Were you there at the time that any of the people from the Department of Child & Family Services arrived?
A. No, sir.
Q. Were you gone that entire day?
A. I was gone the entire day.
Q. When you got back, who was present at your apartment?
A. No one.
Q. Not even Janet Arvizo?
A. Janet, I believe, may have been there.
Q. Did Janet Arvizo remain that night?
A. I believe she stayed that night, and then either -- yeah, I believe she left the next morning.
Q. Were the kids gone already?
A. They were already gone.
Q. By the time you got home that day?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. That night, what was her mood like?
A. I don’t really remember.
Q. Did Janet Arvizo say anything to you about Brazil?
A. Yes, sir, she did.
Q. What did she say?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you know if there was a trip to Brazil in the planning?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Was Janet Arvizo enthusiastic about going to Brazil?
A. No, sir.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: State of mind.
THE COURT: Calls for a conclusion.
Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did she say to you that she was enthusiastic about going to Brazil?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MESEREAU: And leading.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How long were they gone after they left, after this meeting with the Department of Child & Family Services?

A. About three weeks.

Q. A long period of time?

A. Yes, sir, a long period of time.

Q. Did you know in advance they were going to be gone that long?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you have conversations with Janet during that period of time?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Over the telephone?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was her mood like over the telephone?

A. Distressed. Disturbed.

Q. When was the next time that you saw her?

A. The next time that I saw her was at a nail salon.

Q. All right. Explain that to us.

A. Well, over that period of time Janet had been calling, and she was hanging up on me, and very short conversations, and very disturbed.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.

THE COURT: It’s responsive, but it calls for a narrative, so I’ll sustain the objection.

MR. ZONEN: Okay.

Q. During the course of your conversations, would you describe the nature of the conversations you had with her? Without getting into the content of them, just the nature of them.

A. The nature of the conversations was, is --

Q. Go ahead.

A. I can tell you how she was -- appeared, how she felt. She was --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

THE WITNESS: I’m not sure I understand the question.

MR. ZONEN: Let me withdraw the question.
THE WITNESS: Yeah.
MR. ZONEN: Because I think the question might be difficult to answer.
Q. Did she sound concerned over the telephone?
A. Yes.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Were they long conversations?
A. Not normally, no.
Q. Did she express concerns to you in the course of these conversations?
A. Yes, sir.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading and asked and answered.
MR. ZONEN: Overruled. Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What did she say to you that she was concerned about?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: Her state of mind.
THE COURT: I'll admit it for that purpose.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What did she say to you that she was concerned about?
A. Well, she said that she was not being able to see her children; that they were following her around wherever she went off Neverland; that she was -- either had a chaperone or that somebody was following her.
At one time when she was in a hotel --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Narrative; nonresponsive.
THE COURT: Sustained.
I'm going to instruct the jury that that statement that was admitted just now was not admitted for the truth of the matter asserted by Janet, but for her state of mind as she related to him.
Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you know if during this period of time Gavin was seeing a doctor on a regular basis?

A. Yes, he was.
Q. How often was he seeing his doctors?
A. I'm not clear. I think probably every month or so.
Q. Do you know when his appointments were around that time?
A. I don't really. I know that he was having them scheduled, but I wasn't sure when he had to go.

Q. All right. And I think you said the next time you saw her was at a beauty parlor; is that right?
A. That is correct.
Q. How did you happen to see her at a beauty parlor?
A. She called me at work and -- I hadn't talked -- I hadn't actually seen her in a long time, and she called me at work and said --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
THE WITNESS: (To a juror) Bless you.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did she notify you where you -- where she was?
A. She called me at work.
Q. Did you go to that location?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Was anybody else there -- was she there at the location?
A. Yes, she was.
Q. Was anybody else at that location?
A. When I came in, she was sitting there by herself.
Q. All right. At some point -- without getting into the content, did you have a conversation with her?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Is this the first time that you'd seen her in a few weeks?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Was any -- and then I think you said somebody else came. Who came?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; misstates the evidence.
MR. ZONEN: Withdraw the question.
Q. Who did you see then?
A. I saw Vinnie and Gavin come in the back door of the nail salon.
Q. Is Vinnie somebody you knew prior to that day?
A. No, sir.
Q. Were you introduced to him at that time?
A. I was either introduced or he introduced himself. I’m not positive. I’m not clear.
Q. Can you describe Vinnie to us?
A. He would be a white male.
Q. About how old?
A. Young. Younger.
Q. How old is “younger”?
A. 25. I don’t -- that’s just speculation.
Q. Did he tell you who he was, Vinnie?
A. I’m not sure.
Q. Was there a discussion with Vinnie about Janet Arvizo returning to Neverland?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: Statement in furtherance of.

THE COURT: All right. I’ll admit it for the limited purpose in furtherance of the conspiracy.
THE WITNESS: Could you ask me the question again, please?
THE COURT: Go ahead, the court reporter.
(Record read.)
THE WITNESS: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: And what did Vinnie say about that?
MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.
THE COURT: Okay. Same ruling, then.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Go ahead.
A. He said that -- he said, “No, you can’t do that.” And I said, “Are you saying that I cannot take her out of here?” And he said, “I got to check on that.” And he walked outside and immediately got on his cell phone, followed by Gavin.
Q. Gavin followed him?

A. Correct.
Q. What was Gavin’s behavior like at that time?
A. Cocky.
Q. Cocky?
A. Yes.
Q. Explain that, please.
A. I don’t know. He was -- it’s hard to explain. He was -- just walked in. He strutted in with Vinnie. And it wasn’t the sweet, loving Gavin that I knew.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; move to strike.
THE COURT: Just a moment.
Overruled. The answer is --
Hold on just a moment, here, if you would, please.
Go ahead. Thank you.
MR. ZONEN: May I proceed?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. You described Gavin’s response. Was Gavin behaving differently than he had been prior to -- well, prior to -- the early part of February when they went to Miami?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. In what way was he behaving differently at this point?
A. Again, he was acting very cocky. He -- kind of rude, actually.
Q. Did he greet you at all when he saw you?
A. I don’t think he wanted to see me. I don’t think that he -- he was very surprised when he saw me there. And he may have greeted me, but he was certainly not a loving -- it was almost like, “What are you doing here?”
Q. Your relationship with him prior to Miami, how would you describe that relationship?
A. Father-like.
Q. You had a good relationship with him?

A. Very good relationship.
Q. Now, we were talking about Vinnie and his comments. He said that he had to go out and call somebody. Did he call somebody?

A. Yes, sir, he did.

Q. Did he continue to have a conversation with you while he was on the phone with that person?

A. Yes, sir. I asked him -- I asked him, you know, “Is there a problem here?” And he said, “Oh, no, there’s no problem. I’m working on that right now.”

Q. Did he say anything about where Janet Arvizo or Gavin would be going?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Did he say where she was going to go?

THE COURT: Read the question back.

MR. ZONEN: Let me redo that question, if I can.

THE WITNESS: Please.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did he say anything to you about where he wanted Janet Arvizo or Gavin to go?

A. He didn’t.

MR. MESEREAU: Same objection.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you say anything to --

THE COURT: Just a moment.

The objection was overruled. The answer was, “He didn’t.” Next question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was there a discussion involving Vinnie about where everybody would be going?

A. It wasn’t Vinnie. It was -- Gavin came in after that and said something to me.

Q. All right. In Vinnie’s presence?

A. No, Vinnie was still outside.

Q. Okay. Where finally did Janet go?

A. Janet left with me.

Q. And where did Gavin go?

A. Gavin left with Vinnie.

Q. To your understanding, where?

A. Back to Neverland.

Q. The other two children, were they there?

A. They were still at Neverland, no, sir.
Q. And did you go home with Janet?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. And “home” is the St. Andrews residence?
A. Yes, sir, it was.
Q. What was Janet Arvizo’s mood like when you were back at the house at St. Andrews?
A. She was distressed. She was saying there was a problem.
Q. All right. Did you make an effort at some time to find out --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection.

Nonresponsive; move to strike.
THE COURT: Sustained. I’ll strike the last sentence of what she said.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you make an effort with Janet Arvizo to get the children back from Neverland?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did you do?
A. Well, at one point I called her father, and said, “I want to go to Neverland and get these children out of there.” And then at -- and he -- well, I don’t believe that he was --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: Tending to explain their actions.
THE COURT: The question was what did he do. So I will overrule the objection and strike the last sentence.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. Ultimately was there a decision made to make a phone call by somebody in the family to Neverland?
A. Yes, Janet called someone. Either Frank or Vinnie.
Q. All right. And what did she represent to them?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: Explaining the conduct.
THE COURT: Explaining what conduct?

MR. ZONEN: Hers.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Were the children returned to either your house or some other location? When did you --

A. I'm drawing a blank. I'm not sure I understand what's going back and forth here.

Q. When was the next time you saw the children?

A. The next time I saw them was the next night at her -- Janet's parents' house.

Q. Were you present at the time any phone calls were made to Neverland by either Janet or her parents?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who brought the children to her parents' house?

A. I don't -- I do not know, because we waited for them to arrive before we went to her parents' house.

Q. When you got there, were they still there, the people from Neverland?

A. No, sir, they were not.

Q. Whoever had brought them there had left by that time?

A. That is correct.

Q. Describe Gavin's behavior at the time that you got there.

A. Gavin didn't want to see me. He stayed back in the back room. There was some crying coming from the back room.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; hearsay; move to strike.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Who was crying in the back room?

A. I believe it was Davellin.

Q. Did you talk with Gavin at all?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Was he friendly to you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he talk with you at all during that day?

A. No. No, sir.

Q. Was there any discussion about returning to Neverland?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did any of the kids ask to be returned to Neverland?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading and asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Go ahead.

A. I'm sorry?

THE COURT: Court reporter.

(Record read.)

THE WITNESS: The only thing I remember is they said that Michael -- I mean Gavin couldn't see me, because if he did, he couldn't return to Neverland to see Michael.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Gavin said that?

A. Yes, sir, he did.

Q. How would you contrast Gavin's behavior at that time as against his behavior prior to the Miami trip?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Improper opinion; vague.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Go ahead.

A. Night and day. It appeared to me he'd been brainwashed in some way.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Just tell us what his behavior was.

A. He was vague, he was angry.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE COURT: Just a moment. Just a moment.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: The last response is stricken. The jury's admonished to disregard it. Ask him another question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Just tell us what his behavior was like at this time.

A. Angry.

Q. In what way?

A. He was just mean. He was yelling. Are we talking about the night that he was at --

Q. That night and even beyond.

A. Even beyond. He became mean. He was using curse words.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; vague.

THE WITNESS: He had never done before.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: Vague and nonresponsive.

THE COURT: I'm going to strike the last sentence again.

The problem here is that you're required to listen to the question and just answer it. And every answer you give, you add something to it, which causes counsel to object, and me to rule, which is causing a great disturbance in your testimony. If you want to keep doing it, you can. But you can't imagine how it sounds to everybody else.

So I'm going to admonish you to pay attention to what the question is, and then just answer the question. Nothing further. All right?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Was he saying things or using speech different from the type of speech he used prior to the Miami trip?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what way?

A. He was using curse words.

Q. He had not used curse words before in the house?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was this in the presence of his grandmother?

A. I don't remember if it was that night. But he did over the next few days period of time.

Q. Did his behavior in time return to what you considered to be normal, what it was prior to the Miami trip?

A. Over several months, yes, sir.

Q. Did you and Janet Arvizo put the boys into some kind of tutoring?

A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. What tutoring program was that?

A. It’s called JEI Learning Center. We immediately put them in after they got back from Neverland.

Q. Was that a private school?

A. No, it’s not a private school. It’s just to assist children who -- who need additional assistance getting their level up in a certain area.

Q. What was the purpose for doing so, putting them into JEI?

A. Because they had been out of school for almost two months and we wanted to bring their skills back up to the level they should have been.

Q. And did they attend JEI tutoring?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the boys resume their activities with military scouting?

A. With the Sea Cadets, yes, sir.

Q. When did that resume?

A. Almost immediately.

Q. Are they still active in military scouting?

A. Yes, sir, they are.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Overruled. The answer was, “Yes.”

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir, they are.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: And that involves attendance at military camps how frequently?

A. They go every week, about every Sunday. And then they have field exercises that they attend probably every month or two months. They’re over the weekends.

Q. Are all three children living with you today?

A. Yes, sir, they are.

Q. Would you describe Gavin’s behavior today?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

THE COURT: Asked and answered, I believe. Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Is he still involved in scouting today?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; relevance.

MR. ZONEN: Could we approach sidebar?

THE COURT: The --

MR. ZONEN: Is that a “Yes”?

THE COURT: No. I’m trying to -- I’ll overrule the objection. I think that was asked and answered. But rather than waste time looking, go ahead.

MR. ZONEN: All right.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir. They’re still involved with it, with that.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. I have no further questions.

THE COURT: All right. We’ll take our break two minutes early. Give me time to recover.

(Laughter.)

(Recess taken.)

JACKSON, Jay D.		5845-M

THE COURT: Mr. Mesereau?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Good morning.

A. Good morning, Mr. Mesereau.

Q. You indicated that you saw behavioral changes in Gavin from when you knew him initially to when he left Neverland for the last time, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know anything about his school history?

A. I didn’t. I don’t think I knew a lot about it, no, sir.

Q. Did you know anything about his disciplinary record in various schools with various teachers?

A. I know that when he was with me that he had some problems at John Burroughs.

Q. Did you know anything about his history before?

A. Not that I’m aware of, no, sir.

Q. All right. Now, you indicated in response to the prosecutor’s questions that you knew about a Miami trip that Janet and the children took, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that was approximately when, to your knowledge?

A. Early February.

Q. I believe you said that while Janet and the children were on that trip to Miami you had these discussions with some people who purported to be representatives of a British tabloid, correct?

A. That would have been prior to her leaving.

Q. Okay.

A. Although, sir, they did call me back after she left, but I was not talking to them.

Q. But they contacted you on a number of occasions, you say, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Now, at one point you indicated that you spoke to Frank Tyson and wanted to know what the family was going to get out of the rebuttal video, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you actually mentioned at one point to Tyson that, “You’re making millions out of this. What is this family going to get?” Right?

A. In -- in essence, I did say that.

Q. And I believe you said that Mr. Tyson offered a house and a college education; is that correct?

A. First he offered protection. Then he said he was going to offer a tutor. Then he was going to offer a house and a college education.

Q. And you, in effect, said to Mr. Tyson, “That’s not enough,” right?

A. That would be incorrect.

Q. First you said, “You guys are making millions and this family’s not getting anything,” right? Right?

A. Are you asking me the question now to answer?

Q. Yes.

A. Okay. I said basically that, “I understand that they’re making four to five million dollars on this documentary. In my perception, that you should compensate this family for helping out in this video.”

Q. And at the end of that conversation, you in effect communicated to Frank a house is not enough, right?

A. That was not the way it came across, no, sir.

Q. Okay. Did you accept the house?

A. I still don’t have it, no. I don’t see the house yet.

Q. Are you still looking for it?

A. I’m not even looking for it.

Q. Okay. And are you telling the jury that there was no response to your comment that, in effect, somebody’s making four to five million dollars and the family’s not getting any money?

A. His response was, “Well, how about” -- “I’m going to protect the family. We’re going to protect the family.”

Q. Right.

A. “We’re going to give them a house. We’re going to give them a college education.”

And I said, “Frank, but what are you going to do financially or monetarily for this family?”

Q. Right.

A. They had already been taken advantage of in the first documentary and received nothing.

Q. Okay. And you never really got a response to that question except discussion about a house, correct?

A. Again, sir, what I’ve said, yes.

Q. Okay. You told the jury that it was your understanding that Janet and the family went to Miami to do a press conference, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you remember your first interview with any sheriff's department representative in this case?
A. Yes, sir, I do.
Q. Do you remember it was approximately on November 25th, 2003?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. It was with a sheriff named Zelis, correct?
A. Paul Zelis.

Q. Do you remember you told him that it was your understanding that the purpose of the Miami trip was to do a rebuttal video?
A. I did write that, yes. I mean, I did see that, yes.
Q. When did you last read that transcript?
A. I've read the transcripts over the last several days.
Q. You told Mr. Zelis they were going to film some kind of rebuttal for Michael, and when she returned she said no rebuttal had ever been done, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And you said that Janet believed Michael Jackson is innocent, right?
A. At what point, sir?
Q. At that point.
MR. ZONEN: I'm not sure what point that is. I'll object as vague.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: When -- excuse me. You told Sheriff Zelis --
A. Yes.
Q. -- that when Janet and the children went to Miami - okay? --
A. Yes, sir.
Q. -- your understanding was they were going to film some kind of rebuttal for Michael Jackson --

A. Or press conference, right.
Q. -- Right? No, you said rebuttal.
A. I said rebuttal, but it's the same thing.

It was going to be a press conference that they were going to do to rebut what was being done -- what had been -- what was going to be said in the “Living with Michael Jackson.”

Q. You said they were going to film a rebuttal, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you said at that time Janet believed Michael Jackson was innocent, correct?

A. That is correct, sir.

MR. ZONEN: I’ll object as to vague. What time?

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The time of the Miami trip, right?

A. Before they left for Miami, yes, sir, they did.

Q. Okay. Okay. And you told Mr. Zelis that the family was upset that they never did a rebuttal in Miami, right?

A. I don’t recall that. You would have to show it to me.

Q. Okay. Did you ever say anything to that effect?

A. I don’t remember that, sir. You could show it to me and refresh my memory.

Q. Do you recall the attitude of the family when they returned from Miami?

A. I didn’t see the family when they immediately returned from Miami.

Q. When did you next see them?

A. I saw them when the family came home about a week later from Neverland.

Q. Was it your understanding that any rebuttal was done in Florida?

A. It was my understanding nothing was done in Florida.

Q. They just sort of flew there for a day and flew back?

A. They flew there, were there several days, I guess, and then came back, yes.

Q. And you indicated to Mr. Zelis that you had seen both television documentaries, the Bashir documentary and a rebuttal documentary, correct?

A. No, I don’t believe I said that. I told him that I had seen the “Living with Michael Jackson.”

Q. Do you remember telling Mr. Zelis you saw both of them?

A. I don’t.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you the transcript?

A. Sure. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. ZONEN: What page, Counsel?

MR. MESEREAU: 9 of 37.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Where are we at? Okay. Yes, sir.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the transcript?

A. I saw that one sentence, yes.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told Mr. Zelis?

A. Not overly, no. No, sir, it doesn’t. I saw the sentence that said I said I saw both. That’s all I saw.

Q. Do you recall that that’s what you told them?

A. I’m really -- really unsure.

Q. Did you see both of them?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Now, you told Mr. Zelis that because Janet and the children were taped in the middle of the night, that they couldn’t get it in time to put it on the show, correct?

A. That is correct. And I may have heard that from T.V. I’m not sure where I heard that because they were supposed to be on that show according to the previous advertisements for the Take 2 video.

Q. And they never were on it?

A. And they were not on it.

Q. But you’re still waiting for a house?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You said you thought Bashir was slandering Michael Jackson, correct?
A. At that time, I think so, yes, sir.
Q. Okay. You've said you were really upset about that, right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You had not met Michael Jackson then?
A. No, sir, I had not.
Q. And as you said, you've never met him?
A. Never met him.
Q. Until you see him today, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you meet Chris Tucker?
A. I did.
Q. And when did you meet him?
A. When we went to Neverland.
Q. Did he ever contact you?
A. No, sir, he contacted Janet.
Q. Did you meet him the first time on the Neverland property?
A. The first time I saw him was on the bus prior to arriving -- leaving for Neverland.
Q. And was it your understanding that Janet and the family went to Miami on his plane?
A. That was my understanding.

Q. Okay. To your knowledge, were Janet and the children in contact with Chris Tucker on a regular basis during this time period?
A. While they were in Miami, I have no idea.
Q. How about before Miami?
A. Prior to Miami, yes, they had a very good friendship.
Q. Do you know when Janet last talked with Chris Tucker?
A. I do not specifically.
Q. Okay. Now, I believe you said the British reporters talked to you before the Bashir documentary aired in the United States?
A. That is correct.
Q. To your knowledge, was that after the Bashir documentary aired in England?

A. I think so.
Q. Okay. And how many discussions do you think you had with them?
A. I cannot tell you that for sure. Depends on if you're taking it from the beginning all the way through the raid of Neverland. Three or four.
Q. Three or four discussions with these same British reporters?
A. And then that's speculation. It may have been five or six.
Q. Okay. Five or six discussions with the same British reporter, right?

A. One gentleman. David Gardner.
Q. Okay. And who does David Gardner work for, if you know?
A. I think it's The Daily Mail or something. I believe that's correct.
Q. Now, in these five or so discussions, have you ever discussed Mr. Jackson?
A. I'm sure his name was brought up.
Q. Have you ever given them information about Mr. Jackson?
A. No, I wouldn't have known information about Mr. Jackson.
Q. Well, you could have gotten something from Janet, couldn't you?
A. Other than that he was a nice guy.
Q. Well, are you saying you've had five conversations with this fellow, but never gave them any information and never talked about getting money?
A. There was conversation about money.
Q. You went back and forth with him a little bit on money, did you not?
A. That would be true.
Q. And never could reach an agreement, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. When was the last time you talked to Gardner?
A. Gardner called me right after the Neverland raid, and wanted to see if he could get an interview with the family again. And I just said no. He said, “Well, I have it” -- he said, you know, “I haven’t given your phone number to any other organizations yet,” as if he was implying that he would if I didn’t work with him.

Q. Who else have you been contacted -- excuse me. What other media representative or alleged media representative has contacted you about this case?

A. Roger Friedman has called my office. People Magazine has called my office. People Magazine showed up at the gates of my job. There’s been a number of them.

Q. Have you talked to any representative of the media besides Mr. Gardner?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, you mentioned that Frank talked about a contract, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you wanted to see the contract, correct?

A. Absolutely.

Q. To your knowledge, did Janet ever sign a contract?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Did you ever talk to her about it?

A. I did not.

Q. To this day you’ve never asked Janet --

A. I did not, sir.

Q. Did you sign any agreement?

A. No, sir.

Q. You learned at some point she and the children had filmed a rebuttal video, true?

A. That is correct.

Q. And when did you learn that?

A. I’m not sure.

Q. Do you have any idea at all?

A. I really don’t. I’m unsure when I learned that.

Q. You indicated in response to the prosecutor’s questions that the CPS interview --

A. Correct.

Q. -- the Child Protective Services interview was the morning after Janet and the children filmed footage for a rebuttal video, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you saw Janet that morning, correct?

A. I did.

Q. Would it be reasonable to say that when you saw her that morning, you learned she and the kids had filmed a rebuttal video?

A. I don’t know that we -- I don’t think we talked about it. In fact, I’m pretty sure we did not.

Q. Well, you told the prosecutor you knew what time approximately they left the night before, right?

A. I knew what time Janet left, which was late at night, yes, sir, I did.

Q. And you were with her when she left, true?

A. And you know what? Maybe I did know that she was heading to do that, but I’m not really clear right now.

Q. Okay.

A. I’m not trying to be evasive. I just -- I’m not clear.

Q. Yet, when you think back to Janet leaving that evening --

A. Right.

Q. -- you don’t remember if she told you why she was leaving at that time?

A. She may have. Like I say, I’m really unclear.

Q. Okay. And then you saw her come back the next morning?

A. That is correct.

Q. You must have asked her where she’d been, true?

A. I don’t think so.

Q. Did she spend the next evening at your home, to your knowledge?

A. She did.

Q. Do you remember seeing her that evening?

A. I -- this is -- I worked very late that night. I was in Command and General Staff College and I had a paper or something I had to do. I stayed late at night. I got home fairly much -- I believe I went to bed. The next morning I got up, and I guess she left.

Q. Okay. But to this day you’ve never asked her, “Did they have you sign a document before you and the kids filmed the rebuttal video?”

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, you’ve had a number of discussions with representatives of the Santa Barbara Sheriff’s Department, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you’ve had a number of discussions with representatives of the District Attorney’s Office, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you’ve met with Mr. Zonen, the government prosecutor, on a number of occasions, right?

A. That would be correct.

Q. And in those discussions, you have spoken about your desire to see any contract before Janet or the kids signed anything, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Have you ever discussed your interviews with any sheriff, representative of the sheriff’s department, any prosecutor or representative of the prosecutor’s agency with Janet?

A. No, sir.

Q. You indicated that at some point, you were present for an interview conducted by Brad Miller; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you indicated that -- actually, you indicated a couple of times to the jury that it was your understanding that Brad Miller worked for Mr. Jackson --

A. That is correct.

Q. -- correct?

Did you ever learn in that interview that Brad Miller worked for an attorney named Mark Geragos?

A. No, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. At this point, Your Honor, we'd like to play the tape of that interview, which is in evidence.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. SANGER: It's Exhibit 5000.

MR. MESEREAU: Exhibit 5000.

THE BAILIFF: Are you playing it off of your computer?

MR. SANGER: Playing it off the DVD, I think.

THE BAILIFF: "Input 4," Your Honor.

THE COURT: Excuse me?

THE BAILIFF: "Input 4."

THE COURT: Does it go through the PC?

THE BAILIFF: No, it's going through the DVD.

Did you push the proper --

MR. SANGER: I certainly hope so. There's no video, Your Honor.

MS. YU: It's an audio.

MR. SANGER: It's only audio, yes.

THE COURT: What's the length of the audio? What's the length of the DVD?

MR. SANGER: I think it's about 20 minutes.

MR. ZONEN: It's about 20, 25 minutes playing the entirety.

MR. SANGER: Yes. May we proceed?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE BAILIFF: "Input 1." We're going to play it through the PC, Judge.

MR. SANGER: Just take a second while it loads the program.

THE BAILIFF: Do you have it in the right format for --

MR. SANGER: I hope so.

THE BAILIFF: Did you push the right -- is it coming out of your computer?

MR. SANGER: Best-laid plans, Your Honor.
Okay. It's coming out of the computer, and we got to make it come out of the sound system.

I think this will work well enough, it's pretty clear, if we just try it this way. Let's see how this works.

(Whereupon, a portion of an audio CD, Defendant's Exhibit 5000, was played for the Court and jury.)

MR. SANGER: Your Honor, excuse me. Could we stop for one second? The bailiff just told me what we forgot to push over here, and I think we can make it run through the machine -- I mean, through the loudspeaker, I say boldly. We'll find out.
Which number do we turn this to?

THE BAILIFF: (Indicating).

MR. SANGER: "2"?

THE BAILIFF: You have it all hooked up to "Laptop 2," right?

MR. SANGER: "Laptop 2."

THE BAILIFF: And the master audio switch is in your computer?

MR. SANGER: The what?

THE BAILIFF: The master audio is in your computer?

MR. SANGER: That's on "PC." That's on "2."
So we have it on "2," and that's not still not working.

THE BAILIFF: You're not hooked up to the master audio.

THE COURT: Why don't you just do it the way you were. We could hear it okay.

MR. SANGER: Okay.
All right. We'll try it again. I'm going to resume, Your Honor.

(Whereupon, a portion of an audio CD, Defendant's Exhibit No. 5000, was played to its conclusion for the Court and jury.)

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Major Jackson, you heard the date that Mr. Miller articulated as February 16th, 2003, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And do you note that at the beginning of the interview and at the end of the interview, Mr. Miller said he was a private investigator working for Attorney Mark Geragos, correct?

A. I did.

Q. And you said Attorney Mark Geragos was an attorney for Mr. Jackson, correct?

A. You’re right.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection that Mr. Miller told you he worked for Mr. Geragos at that interview?

A. No, sir, it doesn’t.

Q. You don’t recall hearing that at all?

A. I don’t. And it wouldn’t have mattered to me or meant anything to me if I had heard.

Q. I’m not asking you what it meant to you. I’m just asking you --

MR. ZONEN: That is argumentative, and I’ll object.

THE COURT: Overruled. Next question.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: You sat there for the entirety of that interview, did you not?

A. I was in the apartment, yes, I was.

Q. You sat there for the entirety of the interview, right?

A. Incorrect.

Q. Do you remember testifying to a grand jury in Santa Barbara County in this case?

A. I do.

Q. Do you remember being asked, “The interview that Brad Miller did, was that an interview that you were able to watch in its entirety? Were you there?”

“A. Yes, sir, I was. I sat on the couch, yes, sir.”

Do you remember answering?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Are you now changing that?

A. It’s not an issue of changing. I mean, I was in the apartment, sir.

Q. Did you tell the Santa Barbara jury that you listened to that interview in its entirety?
MR. ZONEN: Objection. Misstatement of evidence. The statement was “watch.”
THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Do you recall telling that to the Santa Barbara Grand Jury?
MR. ZONEN: Which page, please?
MR. MESEREAU: 889.
THE WITNESS: Sir, you’d have to show me.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of transcript?
A. I have.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the Santa Barbara Grand Jury under oath on that issue?
A. Correct. Sure.
Q. Did you tell them that you watched it in its entirety?
A. I didn’t see that. You have to show me again.
Q. Pardon me? Oh. May I?
A. Yes, sir. I see where I said I sat on the couch, yes, sir.
Q. Okay. Let me just go through this again. Have you had a chance to read that question?
A. I have.
Q. Does it refresh your recollection about what you told the Santa Barbara Grand Jury?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you tell the Santa Barbara Grand Jury in response to the question, “The interview that Brad Miller did, was that an interview that you were able to watch in its entirety? Were you there?
“A. Yes, sir, I was. I sat on the couch, yes, sir.”

A. Yes, sir, but I was not sitting on the couch the entire time. It was a play on words. I said it, but you know what? I wasn't sitting there the entire time. I was throughout the apartment. I sat at my desk in the bedroom on many occasions.

Q. So what you told the grand jury is incorrect?

A. It was not that I was trying to lie.

Q. I didn't ask you that. Is what you told the Santa Barbara Grand Jury under oath incorrect?

A. It would be incorrect.

Q. Okay. Now, you were also asked by the prosecutor if you saw any prompting by Mr. Miller regarding what to say or what answers to give. Do you remember that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said you didn't know of any prompting. You didn't know of any effort to tell Janet or the kids what answers to give, correct?

A. I agree, yes.

Q. Now, you're aware that the rebuttal video was filmed February 20th?

A. I don't remember the specific date.

Q. Okay. But you do remember the Miller interview being on the 16th, correct?

A. Because you told me, yes, sir.

Q. And I believe you said that Janet -- well, actually, let me rephrase that.

Obviously, Janet and the children are at your apartment for that interview, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Were they there the night before?

A. Yes, sir, they were. I believe they were.

Q. Were they there on the evening of the 16th, to your knowledge?

A. The night that they did the interview?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. Do you know if they were there at your place the next day?

A. Seems to me they left the next day.

Q. And do you know where they went?

A. I believe they went back to Neverland.

Q. Okay. Now, did you know on the 20th that there was going to be an interview with Child Protective Services at your apartment?

A. I believe I did.

Q. And how did you learn that?

A. I'm not sure how I figured that out, other than maybe hearing Janet saying it on the telephone to Frank.

Q. Well, Janet returns home that morning and sees you, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. You're on the way out to work, right?

A. Right.

Q. Do you recall her telling you, "We're going to be interviewed by Child Protective Services"?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know why the interview with Child Protective Services was at your apartment?

A. No, I don't.

Q. At the time of the interview with Child Protective Services, were Janet and the children living with you?

A. They were living with me, between there and Soto.

Q. Okay. And approximately how much of the time were they living with you?

A. Three, four days. It could have been as many as five days.

Q. Okay. And the rest of the days would be either at Soto or --

A. Or their grandmother's house.

Q. Okay. Or they could be at Neverland, correct?

A. Well, no, they actually didn't go to Neverland, other than during this period right here, that I'm aware of.

Q. Okay. Okay. Now, you said words to the effect that the kids were hardly in school at one point, right?

A. During the period that they were at Neverland.

Q. Okay. Were they in school during the period they were spending part of their time at your place?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Were they in school on February 16th, 2003?

A. I don’t believe so, sir.

Q. They were living at your place at least the night of the 15th and the 16th, correct?

A. I would say so.

Q. But they weren’t going to school, correct?

A. That would be correct.

Q. To your knowledge, were they going to school earlier that month?

A. Prior to leaving for Miami, they were going to school.

Q. Okay. So at some point they’re going back and forth to Neverland, right?

A. They came back once or twice.

Q. They were living at your place when they come back, correct?

A. Okay. Right.

Q. Sometimes they’re living at their grandparents’ place, right?

A. I don’t think you’re saying this properly.

Q. Okay. Tell me -- correct me, if you will.

A. They left for Neverland -- they left for Miami.

Q. Yes.

A. Basically they came back one time. And then when -- in March something, the whole family came back. So during that period of time, Mr. Jackson -- according to what Frank was saying and what Janet was saying is they were going to have a tutor. There would not be a reason for me to put them back into school for one day when in fact they may be -- it looks like they were leaving to go back to Neverland.

Q. Okay. So on the 16th and the 15th when they were staying at your place, you assumed they were being tutored?

A. I believe that they were.

Q. Did you ask Janet --

A. Or that they were going to be, yes.

Q. Did you ask Janet if they were being tutored?

A. I don’t think I did ask Janet.

Q. At some point they were back at your place within a few days, because the rebuttal video was on the 20th, right?

A. The rebuttal video, and then they showed up that night -- or, excuse me, the next morning, and then they were gone by the time I got home from work that night.

Q. Okay. And are you asking Janet at this point in time, “Janet, are the kids being tutored?”

A. No, I was not.

Q. Did you ever ask Frank to pay for tutoring?

A. No.

Q. And you never spoke to Mr. Jackson, so you never asked him, right?

A. That would be correct.

Q. Okay. And you had already been to Neverland, so you knew there was an amusement park and a zoo and a lot of things that appealed to kids, right?

A. Sure.

Q. And you must have assumed that when the kids went to Neverland, they were having a fun time, right? Given the amusement park and the way Neverland’s portrayed, right?

A. That would be an assumption.

Q. Okay. But you personally never tried to find out if they were being tutored at all at Neverland, true?

A. That would be true.

Q. Now, you mentioned at some point there was an effort to get Gavin out of his local school because he was being pressured to join a gang, true?

A. Correct. Janet dealt with that.

Q. And when was that change of -- excuse me.

When did that change of schools occur?

A. Probably around the time that I moved into the St. Andrews apartment.

Q. And when was that?

A. In November of ‘02. Let’s see. Yeah.

Q. So in November of ‘02, Gavin’s pulled out of a school because he is in some way being pressured to join gangs, correct?

A. Both boys.

Q. Both boys in November of 2002 are taken out of their school because of gang influence, right?

A. Actually, that would be -- let me see, I got to get my timeline, because I met Janet in ‘02. It would have been November -- November of ‘02. I guess that’s correct.

Q. Okay. That’s November of ‘02 --

A. Yeah, that would have been correct.

Q. -- before the trip to Miami in ‘03, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. And when do you remember the trip to Miami being?

A. February of ‘03.

Q. Okay. And approximately when did you tell the jury you suddenly noticed that Gavin was not acting like a nice kid?

A. When I -- when he showed up at the beauty parlor or what they call the nail salon.

Q. Okay. And that’s approximately when?

A. Sometime in early March.

Q. Where was the beauty parlor or nail salon?

A. On Wilshire Boulevard.

Q. Is that near where you work?

A. Within about five minutes.

Q. You work at Wilshire and Federal, correct?

A. I did, yes, sir.

Q. Federal is the cross street to Wilshire, true?

A. That is correct.

Q. And there is a federal building at Wilshire and Federal, correct?

A. That’s incorrect.

Q. Is there a federal building nearby?

A. No, sir. There's one nearby.
Q. Where is it?
A. The next couple blocks down.
Q. It's a large federal building, true?
A. That is correct.
Q. And it's a building that has the FBI office in it, true?
A. A federal building. FBI sounds good.
Q. Ever been in that building?
A. No, I haven't.
Q. Okay. But it's two blocks from where you work?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Okay.
A. Past the V.A.
Q. And Wilshire and Federal is not far from the 405 freeway, correct?
A. That would be true.
Q. How long -- do you still work there?
A. I don't work in that location, no, sir.
Q. How long did you work in that location?
A. Three years.
Q. And what were the years we're talking about?
A. October of '01 through August of '04.
Q. Okay. So during the entire period that you testified about this morning, you're working at that location, right?
A. That's correct.
Q. And did you work there five days a week?
A. No, probably about 17 days straight without a day off.
Q. Okay. And where was the salon again? A few blocks away from where you worked?
A. Probably about five or six blocks down Wilshire Boulevard.
Q. And where on Wilshire, if you remember?
A. By the McDonald's. I'm not sure. There was an Italian restaurant right there. I don't have a street crossing.

Q. So would it be accurate to say that the salon is a couple of blocks from your military base, right?

A. Five or six blocks.

Q. And it’s a few blocks away from the federal building, right?

A. That would be correct.

Q. Which you agree houses the FBI and other federal agents, correct?

A. About three miles away, four miles away.

Q. All right. To your knowledge, how long was Janet in the beauty salon on that particular occasion?

A. I’m really not sure. I would speculate an hour or two hours.

Q. And you went and visited the salon yourself, true?

A. I did.

Q. Did you drive there?

A. I did.

Q. Parked your car, right?

A. I did.

Q. Walked into the salon, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And saw Janet when you walked in?

A. Janet was sitting there, right.

Q. Was Janet getting a treatment of sorts?

A. Nothing that I saw at that point.

Q. Do you know if she already had some attention there?

A. You know what? I really don’t know. I really don’t know. I assume she did based on the fact that she was there, but I don’t know.

Q. You spoke to Janet, right?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You then saw Gavin and Vinnie come in, right?

A. Correct.

Q. You spoke to Gavin, right?

A. I spoke to -- yeah, I spoke to Gavin.

Q. To your knowledge, was that salon in the Brentwood area of Los Angeles?

A. I believe that’s what they call the Brentwood area.

Q. Was this near a cross street called Barrington?
A. I would think that Barrington is close, yes.
Q. Okay. Now, that’s a very -- Barrington and Wilshire is a very commercial-type area, isn’t it? You have store after store after store?
A. Yes, sir, that’s correct.
Q. And Wilshire, for anyone who doesn’t know, is a main thoroughfare through Los Angeles, true?
A. That is correct.
Q. And if you keep going west for a few miles, you end up in Santa Monica, right?

A. That would be correct.
Q. And that’s Santa Monica at the ocean, right?
A. That’s correct.
Q. Okay. And do you think Janet was at the salon for a couple hours?
A. You know what? That’s speculation. I really don’t know how long she was there. She called me from the salon.
Q. And how long were you at the salon?
A. Probably 25 minutes at the most.
Q. And then did you go back to work?
A. No. I went home.
Q. Where did you go?
A. I went back home.
Q. Okay. Anyone go back home with you?
A. Janet.
Q. Okay. Do you know approximately when that was?
A. Six o’clock in the evening. I’m guessing.
Q. And did Janet spend the evening at your apartment?
A. She did.
Q. What did she do the next day, to your knowledge?
A. The next day I believe she had a Family Court appearance.
Q. Okay. And did you go to Family Court with her?

A. No, sir, I went to work.
Q. Do you know if anybody went to Family Court with her that day?
A. I understand Vinnie did, but I don’t know that to be a fact.
Q. Now, Family Court, to your knowledge, was in downtown Los Angeles, correct?
A. I believe so.
Q. And it goes without saying that in Family Court, you have bailiffs and police and state employees, true?
A. Sir -- yes, sir.
Q. Do you know how long Janet was in Family Court that day?
A. Sir, I don’t.
Q. Okay. Did she talk to you that day?
BAILIFF CORTEZ: Sir, I’m sorry, I need you to speak into the microphone.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
Yes, sir, she got home before I did, I believe.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Did she stay at your home that evening, to your knowledge?
A. She did, yes, sir.
Q. And you saw her that evening?
A. I did.
Q. Approximately what time did you see her after she returned from Family Court?

A. Yes, I got home a little early because we called the Department of Child & Family Services.
Q. Okay. All right. And the next day, was Janet with you?
A. I was at work.
Q. Where was Janet the next day, to your knowledge?
A. I’m not sure where she was. I assume she was at home.
Q. Okay. Do you recall Janet ever going back to Neverland after that day?
A. No, sir, I don’t.
Q. Okay. Do you know if she did?

A. No, sir, I don't think she did.

Q. Okay. Do you know if the children ever left Neverland after that date?

A. After the day that they were brought to their grandmother's house?

Q. Yes.

A. No, they did not.

Q. Okay. Were they brought to their grandmother's house before or after you saw Janet at the salon, if you know?

A. No, it was after.

Q. Okay. So, you meet Janet at the salon. She goes home with you, right?

A. Correct.

Q. The next day she goes to court in downtown Los Angeles, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. She comes back that night and is with you?

A. Right.

Q. And approximately when do you think the children are returned to the grandparents?

A. I believe the next day.

Q. Do you know how they got to the grandparents?

A. I don't know. Somebody from Jackson's entourage gave them a ride, I believe.

Q. Okay. Is that something you just heard from somewhere?

A. I believe so. I didn't see it.

Q. Okay. All right. And to your knowledge, there never was any trip to Brazil, right?

A. To my knowledge, no, but there was a claim that they were going to be taken to Brazil.

Q. I understand your point, but nobody ever went to Brazil, true?

A. That would be true.

Q. All right. How many times do you think you talked to Frank Tyson?

A. I spoke to Frank Tyson two times.

Q. And where did you speak -- excuse me. Where were you when you spoke to Frank Tyson?

A. In my apartment.

Q. Okay. And Frank would call your apartment?

A. Continuously.

Q. Okay. Did you know where Frank was when he called your apartment continuously?

A. No, sir, I didn’t.

Q. Okay. Did he -- did you speak to Frank in person or on the phone when you were talking about the family not getting anything financial out of the rebuttal video?

A. Right, I’ve never met Frank, so it was on the telephone.

Q. Do you know approximately when that discussion took place?

A. After Janet returned by herself from Neverland.

Q. And if you know, approximately when is that?

A. Mid February. Probably within a week after she left.

Q. So was this discussion before or after you meet her at the salon in Brentwood?

A. With Frank?

Q. Yes.

A. Prior to.

Q. Prior to?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. All right. And you indicated that Frank asked you if you were trying to blackmail them, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And you certainly said, “We’re not,” right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. You just thought the family should be properly compensated, right?

A. That would be correct.

Q. Okay. Did you ever threaten that the family won’t be available to be filmed unless they’re paid properly?

A. No, sir, I didn’t.

Q. All right. How did you determine that somebody was going to make five million dollars on that rebuttal video?

A. I believe it was on television. They were talking about it, that the family was going to be on there and that Jackson was making so many millions of dollars. I'm not sure of the specific dollar amount. It was a large sum of money.

Q. You did tell one of the sheriffs that you had learned about that on the Internet at one time, correct?

A. That may have been. That may have been the way I heard it. I'm not sure.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection just to show you a transcript of your police interview?

A. Please.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. Correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that page of transcript?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection about where you said you learned that somebody was going to make millions of dollars on that documentary?

A. Correct.

Q. You said the Internet, correct?

A. I did.

Q. Now, were you following issues related to Mr. Jackson and the Bashir documentary on the Internet?

A. Not that I'm aware of. I did later, but I don't think I did at the time. I may have just seen it on one of the Internet sites, CNN or MS-NBC.

Q. Okay. And in that interview with Paul Zelis, you said that Frank said, "We're planning on giving them a house. We're planning on giving the boys a college education," right?

A. Correct.

Q. And you told Mr. Zelis you were concerned that these things were not going to be in any kind of a contract, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you asked Frank to include this stuff in a contract, right?

A. I don't know that -- no, I didn't ask him to put it in a contract. I said I would like to see the contract.

Then it went from protection, to tutor, to house, to all of these things that I wasn't asking him about.

Q. Well, you were asking him about a contract because you wanted the family to be properly compensated in a contract, correct?

A. I asked him if I could see the contract. I asked him if he could e-mail it to me.

Q. And he didn't respond?

A. He never did. He didn't respond.

Q. All right. Did you discuss with Janet at any time, "We want to see if we're going to be properly compensated in a contract"?

A. I did not.

Q. Never even discussed the subject with her?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Did you ever discuss that subject with any of the children at any time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever tell Janet or the children, "Don't let them film you. We haven't had an appropriate contract signed"?

A. Oh, no, sir. The phone was passed to Janet. She ended up talking to them on the phone, him on the telephone, and they ended up going and doing it. There was no contract that I'm aware of --

Q. Okay.

A. -- at all.

Q. While you were talking to Frank about proper family compensation in a contract, were you also talking to these reporters for the British tabloids?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did it ever cross your mind that if you or Janet entered into some deal with a tabloid, it might destroy your ability to get compensated in the rebuttal video?

A. No, sir, that was never an issue.

Q. Do you know if Janet ever spoke to Mr. Jackson about all of these media sources contacting her to make a deal?

A. I don’t know.

Q. All right. You heard her voice on the Brad Miller interview tape --

A. Correct.

Q. -- a few minutes ago. You heard her saying that she was essentially under siege by media people, correct?

A. Her mother was, actually.

Q. Well, she said she was and her parents were, correct?

A. Okay.

Q. She talked about Celebrity Justice and Extra and other shows, true?

A. They may have been showing up.

Q. Okay.

A. I just heard them calling.

Q. To your knowledge, did she attempt to discuss any of this with Mr. Jackson?

A. I don’t know what she talked to with Mr. Jackson.

Q. Now, she says on that tape that she and the family are being besieged by media, right?

A. Okay.

Q. And that is February 16th, 2003, correct?

A. Okay.

Q. And within certainly the next couple of days, you’re in a discussion with Frank about proper compensation and a contract, true?

A. Okay.

Q. That doesn’t happen, to your knowledge, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. They’re filmed on the 20th, right?

A. Okay.

Q. The next day they’re at your home to be interviewed by Child Protective Services, right?

A. Correct.

Q. And to your knowledge, in the middle of all this turmoil, there now is a claim that molestation began sometime on the 20th. Is that your knowledge?
MR. ZONEN: Objection. Speculative. Lack of foundation. No personal knowledge.

THE COURT: Foundation; sustained.
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you discussed this case with Janet at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. How long have you lived with Janet?
A. Since -- for sure, since March of ‘03.
Q. Have you discussed this case with Gavin at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. Have you discussed this case with Davellin at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. And have you discussed this case with Star at all?
A. No, sir.
Q. Have you ever seen the rebuttal videotape that appeared on television?
A. That appeared? What do you mean?
Q. The one that was on television. You saw that, didn’t you?
A. The Take 2?
Q. Yes.
A. I did see it, but I really don’t remember a whole lot of it.
Q. Was that a Maury Povich --
A. That’s right. That was the Maury Povich one.
Q. To your knowledge, has Janet ever seen the Bashir documentary?

A. No, not to my knowledge.
Q. To your knowledge, has Janet ever seen the Maury Povich rebuttal?
A. Not to my knowledge.
Q. Okay. Have you ever discussed with Janet why she and the children don’t appear in the rebuttal T.V. show with Mr. Povich?

A. No, sir.
Q. Never even broached the subject with her?
A. No, sir. No, sir.
Q. How long have the children lived with you?
A. Same period.
Q. Same period you just gave for Janet?
A. That’s correct.
Q. Okay. Now, at some point you moved to West Los Angeles, right?
A. That would be correct.
Q. And when was that?
A. In November of ‘03.
Q. And how long did you live there?
A. Till about July of ‘04.
Q. And just to -- excuse me. Let me rephrase that question.
Do you know how long Janet kept an address on Soto Street in East Los Angeles?
A. I believe that she did away with the address once the people took her stuff away from her apartment.

Q. I’m asking you how long she lived --
A. That would have been in March of ‘03, yeah.
Q. March? Okay. Have you ever been present in any meeting that Janet has ever had with an attorney?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And --
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And how many meetings where Janet met with a lawyer have you been present at?
A. The only one that I can remember is the one with Bill Dickerman.
Q. And do you know when that was?
A. Sometime in April. ‘03.
Q. Is that April of ‘03?
A. It was either -- yeah, it was late March or April of ‘03, I believe.
Q. Where did that meeting take place, if you know?
A. At his office.

Q. Okay. Did you drive Janet to the office?
A. I believe I did.
Q. Was someone named Jamie Masada present?
A. No, sir.
Q. Do you know who Jamie Masada is?
A. I know who Jamie is, yes.
Q. Do you know him personally?

A. Yes, I do.
Q. When did you last talk to him?
A. It’s been quite a while. I really don’t have a specific date.
Q. How many times have you met with him?
A. I have met Jamie and have had a couple of social occasions at my house. Maybe four or five total.
Q. Okay. Is that the house in West Los Angeles?
A. That would be the house in West Los Angeles.
Q. So that would be between November of 2003 and July of 2004?
A. It would have been from the time that I met Janet in July of ‘02 through present day.
Q. Okay.
THE COURT: Counsel?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: So the last time you saw --
THE COURT: Counsel? Are you ready to quit?
MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Yes, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Tomorrow morning at 8:30. Remember the admonitions I gave you.

JAY D. JACKSON
Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

CROSS-EXAMINATION (Continued)
BY MR. MESEREAU:
Q. Major Jackson, you testified that at one point you met Janet at a salon in Brentwood, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were you in uniform?
A. Yes, sir, I was.
Q. Were you on active duty at that point?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And were you working during the time period that you visited Janet at the salon in uniform?
A. I had just left my job for the day.

Q. Okay. Now, Janet began to live with you on a regular basis during what month and year?
A. Regular basis would have been sometime after November of ‘0 -- let’s see here. ‘02, I believe.
Q. And she certainly was living with you from January through June of 2003, correct?
A. That is correct, less the period of time between February and March where she was gone to Neverland.
Q. Okay. But when she wasn’t visiting Neverland, it was your belief that Janet and the children were living with you, correct?
A. They were living between my house -- my apartment and the Soto Street apartment.

Q. And most of the week, I believe you said approximately five days, they would live with you, correct?
A. Three to five days. It depended.
Q. Okay. And did you ever tell any interviewing sheriff in this case that you were supporting Janet and the children during that period of time?
A. I don’t recollect that. You’d have to --
Q. Were you doing that?
A. There was probably in some ways I was.
Q. In what way were you supporting Janet and the children during the period from January through June of 2003?

A. Well, of course they were sometimes staying in my house, my apartment. There was food. And she used my car sometimes. That’s -- you know, that’s the best I can think.
Q. Did you ever pay her rent?
A. I did pay her rent for her based on the money that she received.
Q. And the money that she received was through welfare, correct?
A. I believe -- assistance of some form.
Q. And you were allowing her to deposit her public assistance checks into your bank account at Bank of America, correct?
A. Two times that occurred, I believe.
Q. It actually occurred more than two, did it not?
A. Two is what I remember. But if you say it was three, okay, fine, I’m not -- you know, I’m not going to argue with that.
Q. Now, she received a welfare check from the County of Los Angeles in the amount of $769 on January 2nd, 2003. Do you remember that?
A. I remember a couple of welfare checks. I don’t remember the dates, sir.
Q. Would it refresh your recollection to just see that check?
A. Sure.
MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: And that was the deposit. It shows it being a deposit, correct? Not just cashing?

MR. MESEREAU: I'm not allowed to talk.

THE WITNESS: Okay. I see it went into the Bank of America.

Q. BY MR MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at the documents I just showed you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you see a check from the County of Los Angeles addressed to Janet Arvizo dated January 2nd, 2003, in the amount of $769?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And isn't it true that you took that check, endorsed it, and deposited it into your Bank of America account? Right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, your Bank of America account lists your home address at 450 South St. Andrews Place, No. 307, in Los Angeles, correct?

A. That would be correct.

Q. And that was the address that you described as being in Korea Town area of Los Angeles, true?

A. That is correct.

Q. The welfare checks going to Janet Arvizo were addressed to her address at 802 North Soto Street, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. So you did that in January. You also did that -- excuse me. Let me rephrase.

She received a welfare check in -- on February 15th, 2003, that you also endorsed and deposited into your Bank of America account, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that check was in the amount of $769, true?

A. Excuse me, yes, sir.

Q. That check also was addressed to Janet Arvizo at 807 -- excuse me, I said 802 before -- 807 North Soto Street, Los Angeles, true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, at some point, Janet became a signatory to your bank account, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. She wasn’t a signatory to your bank account in January and February of 2003, right?

A. I don’t believe she was. I’m really not sure when she actually did become a signatory. I know she did.

Q. Now, in January and February the account was strictly in your name, true?

A. That would -- I believe that would be correct, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, on May 19th of 2003, Janet received a welfare check in the amount of $528.61 that you also appear to have deposited into your account. Do you remember that?

A. I don’t.

Q. Okay. Would it refresh your recollection just to see that check?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. ZONEN: May I see that, please?

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that document?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And that is a check addressed to Janet Arvizo by the County of Los Angeles dated May 19th, 2003, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you appear to have endorsed that check, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And on that check, Janet Arvizo’s address is 12643 Raymer Street, El Monte, California 91723. Do you see that?

A. Yes, sir. I would believe that that’s not a welfare check. I believe it’s maybe some type of public assistance. But I don’t believe it’s welfare.

Q. Was it a disability check?

A. I don’t know. But I don’t believe that was welfare. I believe she cut that off after the Jackson people closed her apartment.

Q. Okay. Now, approximately -- let’s see.

Well, on May 5th, 2003, she also got a check from the County of Los Angeles for $203.54. Do you remember that?

A. No, I don’t. It may be -- it may be child support. I’m not sure.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show it to you?

A. Sure.

Yes, sir. I believe that’s child support.

Q. You’ve had a chance to look at that document, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The document is -- it’s a check from the County of Los Angeles in the amount of $203.54, right?

A. That’s correct.

Q. It’s addressed to Janet Arvizo at 12643 Raymer Street in El Monte, correct?

A. That would be correct.

Q. And you did endorse that check as well?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. On May 5th, 2003, Janet Arvizo received a check in the amount of $268.48. Are you aware of that?

A. I’m sure it is, if you’ve got it there. I’m sure it’s child support.

Q. And you endorsed that check as well --

A. Okay, sir.

Q. -- true?

Okay. Now, at some point did you learn that Janet Arvizo wrote to the Los Angeles County welfare authorities and said, “Stop sending me welfare”?

A. I believe she did, yes.

Q. Did you actually see the note she wrote?

A. No, I don’t think I did. But I believe that she did. I think she told me she did.

Q. Now, you would agree that you were providing some financial support during January and February of 2003 to Janet and the family, correct?

A. You know what? She was depositing those checks into my account and that was probably what she was using for support.

Q. Okay. You were paying utility bills also for Janet, were you not?

A. Was I paying utility bills?

Q. Yes.

A. I may have paid a utility bill.

Q. Did you help the family out financially during -- excuse me, let me rephrase. During January and February of 2003, were you providing any financial assistance to Janet Arvizo and her children?

A. If I provided support to them during that period, it would have been from that welfare check.

Q. So let me get this straight. You know Janet had a bank account at that point, didn't she?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did she have an account anywhere, to your knowledge?

A. Not that I'm aware of. In fact, she was cashing her checks that she was receiving at one of these check cashing -- and that's the reason it costs 6 or 8 or 10 percent to cash it.

So I asked her, I said, "Let's cash it through my account and that way you don't lose that money."

Q. Okay. Okay. Do you recall writing any checks on your own to Janet during those first two months?

A. I don't, sir.

Q. Do you know -- do you recall writing checks to Janet at all during the early part of 2003?

A. I don't.

Q. Okay. Did you ever provide any financial assistance to the children during January, February or March of 2003?

A. I don't recall. If I did, I would have thought it was from the welfare money.

Q. So your position is that the only money you gave Janet during January and February of 2003 was welfare money she had given you?

A. That would be my impression. I was not -- I don't know any rules with regards to welfare. I wasn't concerned about that. She was my girlfriend, they were her children. If I gave them any money it was because it was out of the goodness of my heart.

Q. I understand that. My question to you is, Janet deposited welfare checks and then child support checks into your bank account at Bank of America in Los Angeles, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And this was starting in approximately January of 2003, true?

A. That would probably be true.

Q. And are you saying under oath, Major Jackson, that the only money you took out of that account and ever gave to Janet and the children was Janet's own money?

A. Could you restate the question, please, a different way?

Q. Sure. If it's not clear, I'll --

A. Please.

Q. -- rephrase it.

Are you saying under oath that between January 2003 and May of 2003, the only money you gave Janet Arvizo out of your bank account was money she had put into your account?

A. Sir, I think I answered that, and that is, is that I don't know that answer. And that if I did give her money that would have been above and beyond what she was receiving, that would have been coming from me out of the goodness of my heart. Because she was my girlfriend and I did love her children.

Q. Okay. And did she tell you at some point, "I want to deposit welfare checks into you, Major Jay Jackson's back account"?

A. No, sir. I'm the one that said, "Why don't we put it into my account because it's -- it will save you a little bit of money, from what little bit of money you do get."

Q. Okay. Did you ever look at any of Janet Arvizo's welfare applications to Los Angeles County?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did she ever ask you to prepare one of those applications?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know whether or not she was honest on any application she sent to Los Angeles County involving requests for public assistance?

A. Janet's pretty honest, but I don't know that to be a fact.

Q. Okay. Now, during --

May I take just one second, Your Honor, to look through --

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: During the time that Janet Arvizo was living at your home --

A. My apartment.

Q. Your apartment. That was your home, right?

A. It's where I lived.

Q. Okay. And we're talking about the period starting in January of 2003, you were being paid by the United States Government, correct?

A. That would be correct.

Q. And your base pay was $5,310.60, correct?

MR. ZONEN: I'll object as irrelevant.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Sir, I don't have that in front of me. But if that's what my LES says, then that's correct.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Would it refresh your recollection if I just show you the document we subpoenaed from the Army?

A. Sure.

MR. MESEREAU: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes. Okay.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you had a chance to look at that document?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you seen that document before?

A. I see my LES monthly.

Q. Okay. And let me restate the amount. The amount went up.

Well, the amount of base pay you were receiving effective January of 2003 was $5,528.40 per month, correct?

A. That would be correct.

Q. Okay. The amount of base pay you received in February of 2003 from the United States Government was also $5,528.40 per month, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the amount of base pay you received from the United States Government in March of 2003 was $5,528.40 per month, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the amount of base pay you received in April of 2003 from the United States Government was $5,528.40 per month, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Do you recall whether or not you ever requested any type of housing allowance or assistance from the United States Government because Janet Arvizo and her three children were living with you?

A. It would not matter. I could not request assistance from the government unless I married her.

Q. Okay.

A. So that would have occurred in May of '04.

Q. Okay. So you didn't do it anytime in 2003?

A. No, sir, I wouldn't have been able to. It wouldn't have mattered if I did it, and I wouldn't have done it.

Q. Okay. Okay. Was it your understanding Janet Arvizo had no other bank accounts on her own -- excuse me, that's a poor question. Let me rephrase.

Was it your understanding, Major Jackson, that in the months of January, February, March and April of 2003, Janet Arvizo did not have any bank account?

A. Yes, sir. That would be my recollection.

Q. Okay. Do you know if she ever had an account at a bank called Providian?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Did you ever discuss with Janet Arvizo whether or not she had ever obtained any money from a J.C. Penney settlement?

A. She -- no, sir, she did not talk about it. I started learning about it through the news.

Q. Okay. Do you know whether or not, during January, February, March or April of 2003, Janet Arvizo was making any deposits in her mother’s account at Sanwa Bank?

A. I’m not aware of that, sir.

Q. Were you ever aware of any account that Janet Arvizo had set up at any bank involving moneys she had obtained for the benefit of Gavin?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. And were you ever involved in any fund-raising efforts for Gavin?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Now, are you saying that the money you received every month during January, February, March or April was not used for the benefit of Janet or the children?

MR. ZONEN: Objection; vague. His paycheck?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes. I’ll rephrase it. Counsel’s correct.

THE WITNESS: Please.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: The base pay you earned from the United States Government in January, February, March and April of 2003 was never used directly or indirectly for the benefit of Janet or the children, correct?

A. Cannot answer that question with accuracy.

Q. Okay. You testified yesterday that at one point Janet Arvizo went to court in downtown Los Angeles to deal with her domestic issues involving her ex-husband David, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know approximately when that was?

A. That would have been right around the time of -- it would have been in the middle of March.

Q. Okay. Would that be March of 2003?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know -- excuse me. Did you know whether or not Janet Arvizo filed an income and expense declaration in that court case that you’ve just described?

A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. Okay.

A. I did not. I'm not even sure what that is.

Q. Was any of the welfare money or child support money that was deposited into your bank account during January, February, March, April of 2003 ever used for your benefit?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. And do you know whether or not Janet Arvizo ever disclosed to welfare authorities and the County of Los Angeles that you were helping her pay rent?

A. I do not know. I just know that when the apartment got taken away from her by Michael Jackson's assistants, she apparently at that time wrote a letter to them and just cancelled her welfare.

Q. That's not really answering my question, now, is it? That's something that you just wanted to tell the jury, correct?

A. Okay.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; argumentative.

THE COURT: Counsel --

MR. MESEREAU: I withdraw it.

Q. Let's talk about the checks you wrote to Mr. Trujillo when you were paying her rent at her apartment.

A. All right.

Q. Do you know whether or not Janet Arvizo ever disclosed the rental payments you were making on her behalf to welfare authorities in Los Angeles?

A. Sir, I believe that those checks that I wrote to Mr. Trujillo for her apartment on Soto Street were in relations to the welfare checks that she was receiving in the January, February time frame.

Q. So what you're saying, Major Jackson, under oath to this jury, is that you can guarantee that the rent checks you wrote to Mr. Trujillo on behalf of Janet Arvizo to pay rent came directly from her welfare checks; is that true?

A. I remember -- you need a "yes" or "no"?

Q. Yes.

A. Okay. I can’t answer that “yes” or “no.”
Q. Okay. All right. Do you know whether Janet Arvizo ever disclosed the financial assistance you were giving her on her income and expense declaration that she filed in her domestic case -- domestic relations case with David?
A. Did I not answer that already, sir? I said I don’t even know what that document is, so I did not know that.
Q. Okay. And you didn’t help her ever prepare a document like that, correct?

A. No, sir, I did not.
Q. Okay. Do you recall during January, February, and March of 2003 whether or not Janet Arvizo was depositing any checks into your account other than welfare and child support?
A. Well, she probably -- the child support began at some point after that, but I’m not sure. I’m not clear when that started, so I don’t want to say it started in March. But it was soon thereafter, I think.
Q. Do you recall, during January, February, March and April of 2003, endorsing for deposit any checks written to Janet Arvizo that were other than welfare and child support?
A. Not that I’m aware of.
Q. Okay. During January, February, March and April of 2003, were you aware of any bank account Janet had set up at a bank called Washington Mutual in Los Angeles?
A. No, sir.
Q. During January, February, March and April of 2003, to your knowledge, was Janet Arvizo driving an automobile?
A. No, sir, she was not.
Q. Did you ever learn at some point that she had purchased an automobile?
A. I -- I believe at some point she later told me that she had put some money down on a car and then opted out of it.

Q. Do you know when that was?
A. I don’t.

Q. Okay. During January, February, March and April of 2003, to your knowledge, did Janet Arvizo ever obtain any disability assistance from the state?

A. Not that I'm aware of.

Q. Okay. And during January, February, March and April of 2003, to your knowledge, did Janet Arvizo ever obtain any food stamp assistance?

A. I did see food stamps, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And was that during the time she was living with you?

A. That was the time that she was visiting me at Bundy, and that was prior to November of '02. And I'm not sure exactly when that stopped.

Q. Okay. Were you -- excuse me. Did you know Janet Arvizo in November of 2001?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Okay. When did you first meet her?

A. July of 2002.

Q. Now, in January, February, March and April of 2003, were Davellin, Gavin and Star living at your apartment at least part of the week?

A. Well, during -- of course in February and March they were gone almost the entire time. At least through the middle of March. But January, some of February and March, Davellin was not living with us, and Star and Gavin were living with us when they were -- when Janet was there.

Q. Okay. All right. And what I think you've told the jury is that Janet wanted to keep the Soto Street apartment but Mr. Jackson's people prevented that; is that what you're saying?

A. I know that -- I believed that we wanted to keep the apartment, so that is what I say, is that before she was whisked off to Miami, our intention was for her to keep the Soto Street apartment.

Q. Okay. When the Soto Street apartment was no longer rented by Janet, did she and the children live with you full time?

A. When the Jackson people shut down the apartment, she moved into my apartment after she left Neverland.

Q. Okay. Did you ever wonder why someone on welfare wanted two residences?

A. No, sir.
Q. Did you ever discuss with any prosecutor before you testified in this trial your having deposited Janet’s welfare checks into your account at Bank of America?
A. No, sir. It wouldn’t have been an issue.
Q. How do you know?
A. It’s not an issue.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; argumentative.
THE COURT: Sustained.
THE WITNESS: What does that have to do with anything?
Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: Have you ever discussed with any prosecutor before you testified in this trial anything about Janet’s obtaining welfare assistance while she lived with you?
A. Wasn’t my concern, sir.
Q. Has any prosecutor or sheriff ever showed you before you testified in this trial any documents relating to any kind of public assistance Janet Arvizo was receiving at any time from the County of Los Angeles?
A. No, sir, not that I recall.
Q. And has anyone associated with any prosecutor ever spoke to you on the phone about Janet Arvizo’s receiving public assistance while associated with you?
A. Not that I can remember, no.
Q. Okay. To your knowledge, was Janet Arvizo receiving any welfare checks in the year 2002?
A. I don’t know, sir.
Q. Do you recall depositing any of Janet Arvizo’s welfare checks into your bank account during the year 2002?
A. If you have that, then I guess I did. I just don’t remember.

Q. Okay. Did you have any discussion with Janet at any time about why welfare checks were going through your sole account?
A. Please restate the question.
Q. Sure. Did you ever have any discussions with Janet Arvizo at any time as to why welfare checks were being deposited into your sole account?

A. Any check that would have been deposited in my account would have been to save her money from putting it through one of those check cashing places that charge 6 to 8 to 10 percent.

Q. Did you ever wonder why Janet didn’t have her own bank account, to your knowledge?

A. No, sir, I didn’t.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions at this time.

THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mr. Jackson, Major Jackson, good morning.

A. Good morning, Mr. Zonen.

Q. Do you recall the phone number that you had when you were living at the St. Andrews apartment? This is a challenge, isn’t it?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Would it help you to recall that phone number if I were to show you a phone bill?

A. Yes, sir, it would.

MR. ZONEN: May I approach the witness? I’m just going to show you something.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Yes, sir. That is.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Tell us what that phone number is.

A. Oh, great. (213) -- (213) 739-9279.

Q. You now remember that?

A. Yes, sir, I do. But don’t walk away and ask me again.

Q. Mr. Mesereau had asked you questions about checks that you deposited into your account. Do you know where your wife, then your girlfriend, Janet Arvizo, was depositing checks that she was receiving for public assistance at that time?

A. She wasn’t. She wasn’t depositing them, as far as I know. She was cashing them at check cashing places.

Q. Do you know which places she was going to?

A. Not always. Sometimes we’d be going down the road and we'd stop at one of them on the side of the road.

Q. Did you have a discussion with her about the cost of doing that?

A. Yes, I did. That was the whole issue. I said, "They're charging you 6 or 8 percent to do that. Why don't you just deposit it into my account and I'll either write the check for your bills or I'll give you the money." I'm not sure which one I did.

Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you about paying her rent.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How were you doing that? Where was the money coming from that you were writing checks?

A. From my Bank of America account.

Q. All right. And then the money that was coming into your account from the welfare check?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that covering it?

A. Yes, sir. I believe the check was like 425.

Q. Give us a sense. The rent was about how much per month?

A. 425.

Q. And the public assistance check was about how much?

A. 700-some.

Q. And then did you write checks for utilities as well?

A. I believe I did. But I'm not absolutely positive.

Q. Was that covered as well by the amount of the welfare checks?

A. Yes, sir, it was.

Q. Do you know how she was paying her utility bills before?

A. I don't.

Q. Did you ever see a checking account in her name?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you ever see her sit down and write a check?

A. No, sir, I didn’t.

Q. Did you ever see her with her own car during the time that you were dating her?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know how she was getting back and forth?

A. Bus.

Q. When you met her -- you met her at a -- one of the kid’s military events, is that correct?

A. That’s correct. Where I worked.

Q. And where you were working at that time was where?

A. It’s at 311 COS-COM in Los Angeles, West Los Angeles, in the Sea Cadet Command and located within the building.

Q. And what would be involved in taking a bus from where she was living at that location?

A. You know what? I don’t know how long it would take. But it was quite a long distance, so probably several hours to get there.

Q. At any time during the time that you were dating, did you see her drive her own car?

A. No, sir, she never had her own car.

Q. You said that both of you wanted to maintain the Soto Street apartment in East Los Angeles?

A. That is correct.

Q. Tell us why.

A. Primarily it gave her a good place to go to when she was visiting her mother. She had some stuff that she had in the apartment that she was storing. And basically she just didn’t want to give that apartment up because she really didn’t feel that she was living with me. She was living there. But she was visiting me.

Q. Do you know when it was that she sent a letter that discontinued her welfare?

A. I don’t, sir. I don’t know exactly. I just heard about it.

Q. If I were to show you a copy of that letter, would that refresh your recollection?

A. It may. I’m not sure.

MR. ZONEN: May I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Actually, I have seen that letter.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Does that letter refresh your recollection?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what is your recollection?

A. You know, just -- I remember the letter, but I'm not even sure when I saw it.

Q. Do you remember when you stopped depositing welfare checks into your account?

A. I don't know exactly when I stopped, because there were -- the child support payments coming in, so I was not concerned about it. I didn't know there was an issue with a welfare check versus a child support check versus anything else.

Q. Were the child support checks of a different amount than the welfare check?

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. Was the welfare check pretty consistently in the seven hundred --

THE COURT: They're not hearing you, Counsel.

MR. ZONEN: I'm sorry.

Q. The question previously was --

THE BAILIFF: Is your microphone on?

THE COURT: He had his book on it.

MR. ZONEN: I had the book on it, I'm sorry. I apologize.

Q. The welfare check, was that a fairly consistent amount every month?

A. Yes, sir. I believe it was 700-something dollars a month.

Q. The child support check, would that vary or was that consistent as well?

A. That varied. Always low.

Q. The amount -- the check that Mr. Mesereau showed you that was in May --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- did you believe that was a child support check?

A. I'm sure it's a child support check.

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, I'm going to ask the Court take judicial notice of the fact that February 15, 2003, is a Saturday, February 16, 2003, is a Sunday. And I have a copy of the calendar to furnish the Court.

MR. MESEREAU: Sure. Sure.

THE COURT: No objection?

MR. MESEREAU: No objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. I'll take judicial notice of those dates and days.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You were asked yesterday by Mr. Mesereau whether or not the children went to school on February 15 and February 16 of 2003. Did the children traditionally attend school on Saturday and Sunday?

A. No, sir.

Q. I'd like to ask you questions about your discussion with Frank, wherein he offered you a house, and he offered you children's education, subsequently then asked if you were still waiting for a house.

A. Right.

Q. Tell me about your view of that offering of a house. How did you take it at the time he offered it?

A. The time -- the way I took it was, he wasn't offering to show me the contract. The bottom line was I really did not believe him. I did not believe that he was going to give us a house. I did not believe that he was going to give a college education. All of this was just -- just talk. That's the way I felt about it at the time.

Q. Why did you want to see the contract?

A. I wanted to see what it is -- what it was that the family was being required to do, and what rights they were signing away.

Q. You had the opportunity to listen to the tape of the Miller interview, that interview that took place in your home on presumably the 16th of February?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the very beginning everybody introduced themselves and you were not one of them; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Were you a witness to that particular event?
A. I did watch parts of it.
Q. Were you not asked to introduce yourself?
A. No, sir, I was not.
Q. Were you still in the room at that time?
A. Yes, sir, I was in the room.

Q. Did you leave the room at different times?
A. I did, sir.
Q. At one point you were asked by Mr. Mesereau whether or not you stated to the grand jury that you watched the entire proceedings?
A. Correct.
Q. At another time he said, “Did you state to the grand jury whether you had listened to the entire proceedings?”
A. Correct.
Q. Did you listen to the entire proceedings?
A. No, sir. In fact, when they played, I didn’t really know much of anything was on there. I don’t recall.
Q. I’m sorry. Is there anything that you heard on that tape that you do recall?
A. The only thing that I do recall is something -- they were praising Michael Jackson, saying he didn’t touch them, something to that effect.
Q. At any time did you make an attempt to discuss with Janet Arvizo at the time, during this February and March period when she was at Neverland, what was going on?
A. Janet did not talk much. She would not explain to me why she was emotional, why she was crying. She wouldn’t tell me what was going on during this period.

Q. Did you make an attempt to contact police during that time?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Who did you call?
A. After a short phone call with Janet where she appeared to be under duress, I made a phone call to the Santa Barbara Police Department. It was late at night. And they transferred me to the Santa Barbara Sheriff’s Department.

Q. And did you talk with a deputy at the sheriff’s department?

A. I talked to a sergeant.

Q. Do you know his name?

A. McCadden, I think. McCadden or something like that.

Q. Did you tell him about what was going on?

A. I was confused. I did not know what was happening. I talked to him. I initially tried to explain to him that I had a family that was at Neverland, and they appeared to be under duress.

He didn’t want to believe -- you know, “Is this a crank phone call? What was going on?” You know, I tried to say, “Look, I’m in the military. I’m not playing. This is” -- “They are” -- “They were on T.V.”

Basically he finally said, “Well, why didn’t she call 9-1-1?” And I said, “Well, I don’t know why she didn’t call 9-1-1, because she kind of hung up on me, and she made some kind of statement like, ‘Oh, my gosh, here he comes,’ and she hangs up on me.”

Q. Major Jackson, the next day, did they call you back, from the sheriff’s office?

A. Yes, sir, they did.

Q. And was Janet home at that point?

A. Janet was back in El Monte.

Q. And did you indicate to him that everything was under control?

A. I did. He said, “Is she back?” I said, “Yes, she is.” And that ended the conversation.

Q. On a couple of occasions Mr. Mesereau referred to your house in West Los Angeles?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you have a house in West L.A.?

A. No, sir. I had a two-bedroom apartment.

Q. Was this an apartment that you lived in with Janet Arvizo?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. And how many of her children?

A. Two of her children. Gavin and Star.

Q. And where was Davellin living at that time?

A. She was living with her grandmother.
Q. Did she visit?
A. Yes, she did. Pretty much every weekend.
Q. So she was there for the weekend?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. You indicated just now that -- or earlier this morning, that at some point, Janet Arvizo became a signatory to your account?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you know when that was? Were you already married?
A. You know, I’m not clear on that. It may have been after we got married. But I’m just not sure.
Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you about amounts of money that you were making and described it as base pay. What does that mean, base pay?
A. Base pay is -- in the military, you’re given base pay, which is your -- basically your salary, which is taxable. And then you’re given a housing allowance, which is nontaxable. And you’re also given a food allowance, which is nontaxable.
Q. The base pay that was described, was that the amount of money that you received before or after taxes?
A. Before taxes.
Q. So taxes are deducted from that amount of money?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Mr. Mesereau asked you about a Washington Mutual account established in 2003. Are you aware of any such account?
A. No, sir.

Q. Did Janet ever mention to you a Washington Mutual account?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did she ever write a check on it in your presence?
A. No, sir. I never saw a checkbook.
Q. I’m sorry?
A. I never saw a checkbook.
Q. You never saw a checkbook.

A. So I know nothing about it.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. I have no further questions.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Major Jackson, you called the police on Tuesday, February 11th, 2003, correct?

A. I don’t have the specific date in front of me, but I believe it was right around that time, yes, sir.

Q. You told the police your girlfriend had flown to Florida with her children, right?

A. Miami, correct.

Q. Okay. You told the police that you’d received several telephone calls from her during the last few days, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. And you were concerned about her welfare, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You then -- after discussing the situation with the police, you and the police officer concluded that Janet appeared to have unfettered access to a phone, true?

A. That she had called me, absolutely, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And after your initial call, you received a call back from the police, true?

A. After talking to the police, Janet called me back and I told the police officer to call me back.

Q. Okay. And a police officer called you back, correct?

A. He did.

Q. You told the police officer in that conversation that Janet didn’t think a 9-1-1 call was needed, true?

A. I did not tell him that.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you a copy of the police report?

A. I’ve seen the police report.

Q. You’re aware of what the police officer says you said, correct?

A. I am.

Q. And you're saying you never told the police officer, "Ventura does not think a 9-1-1 call is needed at this time"?

A. I told the police officer that Janet said she was going to be leaving the property in a vehicle at twelve o'clock, and that could the police intercept the vehicle. And his response was, is, "We cannot intercept a vehicle."

Q. Do you remember telling the police officer in that second conversation, "Jackson said he did not think Ventura was in any danger"?

A. No, sir, I don't.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I show you the police report?

A. I've seen -- I've seen the police report.

Q. You've seen the words he wrote about what you told him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you know the police officer claims you said, "Ventura is not in any danger," correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you're denying saying that, true?

A. I'm denying saying that.

Q. Okay. Now, you told the jury at one point Janet left the property, correct?

A. Please repeat the question.

Q. Yes. At one point, after your call to the police, Janet left the property, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And when was that?

A. She called me early in the morning, so it was sometime that night.

Q. Okay. And is that the night of the day you made the phone call?

A. I made the phone call late at night, so it was early that morning.

Q. And -- okay. So early that morning, she left Neverland?

A. She left Neverland.

Q. And how did she leave Neverland; do you know?

A. I don’t know for sure. I know she went to El Monte.

Q. And you also learned that shortly after that, she went back to Neverland, right?

A. After that she came back to my apartment.

Q. And did she then go back to Neverland again?

A. She received a bunch of phone calls from Frank.

Q. Please answer my question, Major.

A. Yes, sir, she did go back to Neverland.

Q. Okay. And approximately when did she go back to Neverland again?

A. It was probably a couple of days. I don’t have a specific -- it was probably two days.

Q. Okay. So you call the police. They don’t do anything?

A. Correct.

Q. You deny what they claim you said to them, that she wasn’t in danger, correct?

MR. ZONEN: Objection. Argumentative and asked and answered.

THE COURT: Sustained; asked and answered.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: She leaves the next day from Neverland, right?

A. She leaves in the middle of the night.

Q. Okay. And goes to El Monte?

A. Correct.

Q. And then to your place, right?

A. Not that day, the next day.

Q. And then goes back to Neverland, right?

A. Bunch of phone calls, and she --

Q. Goes back?

A. Goes back to Neverland.

Q. And then when does she leave Neverland again, to your knowledge?

A. She leaves Neverland that same day, same night. She comes back late at night, by herself.

Q. And does she ever go back to Neverland again?

A. After some phone calls, about every 15 minutes getting phone calls from Frank --

Q. I’m just asking you the question, Major, did she ever go back to Neverland again?

A. Yes, sir, she did.

Q. After your calls to the police, she leaves Neverland and goes back three times; is that correct?

A. She left Neverland -- I'd have to count it up.

Q. Sound like three times to you?

MR. ZONEN: Objection. Asked and answered; argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Okay. I believe it was two times. One time she returned with her family. The same night she showed back up, and then she returned again to Neverland.

Q. BY MR. MESEREAU: How many times after your call to the police do you believe Janet left Neverland?

A. The night that she -- that I made the phone call to the police, she left that night. Came back to my apartment. Went back to Neverland, and came back again that night, so there was two times.

Q. Did she ever go back a third time, to your knowledge?

A. She did go back.

Q. So then she then left a third time?

A. You're giving me the numbers here. Let's see. She -- she came back, she left Neverland, went to El Monte. All right. So that's leaving Neverland once.

Q. Right.

A. She came to my apartment.

Q. Right.

A. Lots of phone calls. Went back to Neverland. Came back that night. Okay. Again, bunch of phone calls, and she returned back to Neverland. So that would be three times, yes.

Q. Okay. And every time she left Neverland, how was she transported? Do you have any idea?

A. How she left Neverland?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't have any idea, no, sir.

Q. Do you know who drove her every time she left Neverland?

A. I think I learned this after the fact, but I think Chris Carter brought her to my apartment when she came by herself.

Q. Every time she left Neverland someone employed by Mr. Jackson drove her, correct?

A. I -- I'm not clear on that, but I think that's probably true.

MR. ZONEN: Objection; speculative.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. No further questions.

MR. ZONEN: I'd ask to reopen on an area that is beyond the scope of the redirect examination, very briefly.

THE COURT: All right.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Major Jackson, following Janet's return to your home on the final occasion --

A. Yes, sir.

Q. -- in March at this point, were you witness to any contacts from anybody by the name of Johnny?

A. Johnny, yes, sir, I was.

Q. All right. And who do you understand Johnny to be?

A. Johnny was supposedly either a security detail for Michael Jackson or somebody -- somebody that worked for Michael Jackson.

Q. And where did you see him?

A. I saw him on several occasions.

Q. And where was the first one?

A. The first time, I believe, is once the family returned back to my apartment on St. Andrews Place, Johnny apparently was showing up at the apartment and banging on the door, and the family was scared.

She -- Janet called me at work. And I rushed home, and I got into the apartment and -- I mean, the kids were holding knives. They were scared to death. And then all of a sudden we get a knock on the door and I opened the door, it's Johnny. So I slammed the door behind us, because I was concerned what he may do. And him and I were standing right nose to nose looking at each other, and I’m like, “What do you want?” And he said, “I just want to know how the children are.” I said, “Well, the children are fine. Get off the property.”

So he kind of looked at me and just walked away, so he left that day.

Q. When’s the next time you saw him?

A. Again, my wife called me from -- at work, and at that time I guess she was my girlfriend, and said, “Johnny is back.”

So I came back home. Came home again, and this was early evening. It was dusk. I pulled into the -- into the carport, and the -- and the garage door closes. It’s like a chain-link fence. And I look out, and across the street is this guy trying to hide behind a car. And from a distance, it looks like Johnny. So of course --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive and narrative.

THE COURT: Narrative; sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you go out to look at the person behind the car?

A. Yes, sir, I did. I walked out towards him and he immediately took off.

Q. Were you able to see him?

A. He had the same makeup and build of Johnny, but I cannot say for a fact it was Johnny.

Q. Did you see what kind of car he was driving?

A. No, sir, I did not. He ran behind a building and took off.

Q. When was the next time you saw him?

A. The next time was, Janet was concerned about the children going back to school because the Jackson folks had her passports for the children. So she did not want -- let me back up. She went to the school. She was scared the children would be taken.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Objection; move to strike.

THE COURT: Stricken.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Tell us the next time you saw Johnny.

A. I saw Johnny at John Burroughs Middle School.

Q. About how long was this after Janet and the children returned to your home?

A. Two or three days.

Q. Where did you see him at the school?

A. I pulled in with Janet, we parked. I walked up to the breezeway where the children come out, because we didn’t want them to be snatched, and --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Move to strike; nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained. The last part’s stricken.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: You walked up to the breezeway. What did you see?

A. Okay. I was standing there waiting for the children. Janet came running up to me and she said, “Johnny is here.” So I immediately ran out back to the car, grabbed a camera out of the car, because I wanted to get some kind of documentation that this guy was stalking this family.

And I ran up to his car, and he was in an old 280Z or 280ZX. And I was -- I was kind of -- my adrenaline was flowing, so I didn’t turn the camera on, but I ran up to him and I acted like I was taking pictures of him.

And, you know, John Burroughs, it’s a very tight situation there. Once you get in, you can hardly get out, and so he’s slinging the gears back and forth, trying to get away, but he can’t get out, because it’s all blocked up.

So I continued to take pictures of him, then I ran back over to the school, and I saw one of the counselors by the name of Mr. Davies. And I said, “Mr. Davies, there is a guy out here who is stalking Gavin and Star.” And I don’t know whether he saw that guy or not.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Nonresponsive; narrative.

THE COURT: As to the last sentence, I’ll strike it.

THE WITNESS: Okay. So --
THE COURT: Ask the next question.
MR. ZONEN: Yes.
Q. Did you point out Johnny to Mr. Davies?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Were you actually in a position where you could see Johnny at that time?
A. Let me back up. I did not point him out. I said, “There is a guy out in the parking lot driving a 280Z that is stalking the children.”
Q. Okay. Did you give him a description of that vehicle?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Okay. Including the color of the vehicle?
A. And -- I’m sure I did. I can’t remember now in my mind. And maybe it was a dirty gray or blue, but that’s speculation at this point. I don’t remember the color.
Q. Did you give him a description of Johnny at all?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. All right. Did you see Johnny again thereafter?
A. I don’t think I saw Johnny again.
Q. Were you or Janet Arvizo receiving phone calls during that period of time after the kids finally and ultimately returned home?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I know Janet was receiving some phone calls.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. At which residence?
A. At the St. Andrews apartment.
Q. That was your residence at the time?
A. That’s correct, sir.
Q. Were you answering any of those calls?
A. No, sir, I was not.
MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, if I could approach the witness.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I'd like to show you Exhibit No. 26 for identification not yet in evidence. Can you tell us who this person is?

A. That looks like Johnny.

Q. Do you know his last name?

A. I don't.

Q. How do you know his first name is "Johnny"?

A. Janet and the children said there's this guy, "That's Johnny out there."

Q. Is that, in fact, him?

A. That is.

Q. Does that photograph accurately depict the subject matter contained -- in other words, is this an accurate, although not terribly complimentary, photo of Johnny?

A. Yes.

MR. ZONEN: Move 26 into evidence, please.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

MR. ZONEN: I have no further questions.

THE COURT: Mr. Mesereau?

MR. MESEREAU: Yes, thank you, Your Honor.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MESEREAU:

Q. Mr. Jackson, at some point you learned that Johnny was an investigator hired by Attorney Mark Geragos to see if your family and a bunch of lawyers were trying to extort Michael Jackson, true?

A. That would be incorrect.

Q. You never called the police on Johnny, true?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. And how many times do you think you've seen Johnny?

A. I have probably seen Johnny three times.

Q. When was the first time?

A. The first time would have been the night that he showed up at the apartment and I confronted him out in front of my apartment door.

Q. Okay. And then you say he took off?

A. He just walked away.

Q. Okay.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, could I publish that photograph, No. 26?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE BAILIFF: “Input 4,” please.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: If you could turn around and look behind you. Is that, in fact, Exhibit No. 26, the person you identified as Johnny?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. No further questions.

MR. MESEREAU: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You may step down.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, sir.

THE COURT: Is your next witness --

MR. ZONEN: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: (To the jury) The next witness that is going to be called is Janet Arvizo, and it’s necessary that I have a hearing outside of the presence of the jury before she starts her testimony.

So I’m going to ask you to step out and we’ll call you back in shortly. We will take our normal break as it occurs. So I suspect you’ll have over half an hour here.

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

MR. ZONEN: Did you want the witness in the courtroom?

THE COURT: Yes.

Come to the front of the courtroom, please. When you get to the witness stand, please remain standing. Face the clerk and raise your right hand.

JANET JACKSON

Having been sworn, testified as follows:

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE CLERK: Please be seated. State and spell your name for the record.

THE WITNESS: My name is Janet Jackson. Spelled J-a-n-e-t, J-a-c-k-s-o-n.

THE CLERK: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. Mrs. Jackson, are you formerly known as Janet Ventura and then Janet Arvizo?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you currently go by “Mrs. Jackson”?

A. Yes.

Q. And you are married to Jay Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Based on advice of counsel, have you advised the District Attorney’s Office that you will be asserting the Fifth Amendment privilege as to any question asked of you about welfare recipience or applications for welfare during the period of time that you were on welfare?

A. Yes.

Q. Up until the time that you discontinued welfare?

A. Yes.

MR. ZONEN: No further questions.

THE COURT: Have you consulted an attorney regarding your claim of privilege here?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Is your attorney going to be here today?

THE WITNESS: No, sir.

THE COURT: Did you discuss the claim of privilege at length with him?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Do you believe you have sufficient knowledge to make the claim?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Do you feel you need any other legal advice concerning your claim of privilege?

THE WITNESS: Pardon me?

THE COURT: Do you need any other legal advice?

THE WITNESS: No.

THE COURT: What's the District Attorney's intention as to how to deal with this?

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, my understanding is that this witness will answer all questions put to her other than questions of her welfare application, questions that she answered in her welfare application or in receipt of welfare benefits. We intend on proceeding with our direct examination. We're not going to ask her any questions about welfare recipience. And I'm assuming that the assertion of the Fifth will be done at this time. And I don't believe that -- well, our position is stated thereafter in our pleadings.

THE COURT: All right. Do you, in fact, make a claim under the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution against self-incrimination?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: And to what areas do you relate that claim, are you making that claim?

THE WITNESS: To what he said.

THE COURT: I'd like to hear it from you.

THE WITNESS: Of everything to do with the welfare; the application, the process.

THE COURT: During what time period?

THE WITNESS: The period of when I began till I ended.

THE COURT: But when was that?

THE WITNESS: Oh, I'm sorry. That was approximately October -- approximately October 2001 to November 2000 -- no, apologize. March 2003.

THE COURT: So the claim would involve -- the claim of privilege would involve claims made between October of 2001 and March -- through March of 2003?

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Has the District Attorney considered giving this witness immunity on that issue?

MR. ZONEN: We have -- we're not terribly interested in giving a grant of immunity.

THE COURT: All right. We have -- points and authorities have been filed. And my thought is there’s no reason for you to ask her any questions. But if you think there is, tell me why.

MR. SANGER: I don’t believe -- Mr. Mesereau will be handling the witness, but I’m handling this legal issue, if we can bifurcate that, Your Honor. As far as the questions right now, I don’t think there’s any point in asking additional questions. The factual issue is set out.

THE COURT: All right. What I’m going to ask you to do is to step down from the witness stand, and just sit behind counsel while we have argument on this issue.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, before we proceed, the Court will note that Detective Victor Alvarez is currently in court. As the Court knows, Steve Robel is out on -- Sergeant Robel is out on family emergency for the week. And we’ve asked the Court’s indulgence to allow us to have a separate investigator here during the balance of the week. And I believe the Court has said we could do that subject to the consent of the defense, and they’ve agreed.

MR. MESEREAU: We don’t object to that.

MR. SANGER: We didn’t object to that. But we did talk to Mr. Zonen about this, and we do have two investigators, one in Los Angeles, and one up here. Neither one is going to be here routinely, but we had asked their consent to allow those two investigators to -- either one to come in just one at a time. Mr. Zonen would not object to that, if that’s all right with the Court.

THE COURT: All right. Your agreement is fine with me.

MR. SANGER: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Maybe -- knowing you, it’s not likely you’re going to complete your argument in two minutes, is it?

(Laughter.)

MR. SANGER: Not with that kind of encouragement, Your Honor.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: Let's take our break. And then we'll have our argument.

(Recess taken.)

(The following proceedings were held in open court outside the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: Mr. Sanger?

MR. SANGER: Yes, sir. I think the best place to look for the organization, such as it is, of our argument is in our supplemental brief that we filed yesterday that goes through the analysis, really, of the remedies, because that’s the problem that we have.

The first -- the first issue, I think, is pretty clear, but a witness cannot take the Fifth on a material issue and have their testimony considered by the jury. I think the law is very clear on that.

So if the People call someone and they say, “We want to get out A, B and C,” and then after we get that information out, the defense is not going to be allowed to confront and cross-examine on D, E and F, the entire testimony would be stricken.

Quite often this comes up when the witness takes the stand, testifies, and in the middle of cross-examination wants to take the Fifth, and the Court at that time has no choice but to strike the entire testimony, because you can’t allow a witness to pick and choose what he or she is going to be subject to on cross-examination. If that’s the case, then obviously the remedy at this point is to not allow the witness to be called at all.

The question of materiality, which we briefly -- I’ll address a little more fully just because, obviously, we didn’t have a lot of time to file things on either side, obviously, the welfare applications in this case are extensive, and they cover in detail the particular issues that relate to things that have come out through Major Jackson’s testimony and pertain to the precise time period that we’re talking about here, the time period during which Miss Arvizo and her children were importuning Mr. Jackson to assist them through 2000 and 2001, on into 2002, and of course during the critical periods in 2003, from early February to mid March.

During this period of time, Miss Arvizo was not only accepting welfare, food stamps, disability unemployment, but she was also making applications to the Family Law Court. In her extensive statement under oath and specific questions under oath, she in essence denies that she has any bank accounts, whereas we know she had bank accounts as a result of a substantial settlement from J.C. Penney's; that she has any money, and for the same reason, that's false; that she's received any money from anyone, and we know that's false from other testimony we have so far; that she is living with anyone, and we know that's false, based on the testimony of Major Jackson that she's receiving any assistance in that regard; that she has a vehicle to drive, whether or not she owns it.

And there are extensive questions that are answered in a way that is clear that it is perjury, and that is a felony. It is also fraud. And as a matter of constitutional right, a defendant is allowed to confront and cross-examine and is entitled to confront and cross-examine a witness who seeks to testify against him.

This witness seeks to make all sorts of allegations, as we understand it, against Mr. Jackson. He has a right, through his counsel, to vigorously cross-examine this witness and show that she has committed acts of perjury and acts of fraud, to show that she is not credible, number one. And number two, to show she is doing this during the very same period that she is making allegations in this case against Mr. Jackson.

In addition to that, there are a number of very specific factual tie-ins beyond the fraud and the perjury and the credibility. There are factual tie-ins that we would not be allowed to explore, were the District Attorney to get his wish and allow her to just testify unscathed.

Factual tie-ins include allegations that she could not -- that she was imprisoned somehow, and at the same time she is making applications, she is receiving welfare checks. She's able to deposit them. She is able to fax a letter telling the welfare department that she no longer wishes to receive welfare, which we maintain is tied to her belief that she is going to be making money and having security based on what she's trying to establish with Mr. Jackson. All of those things, were the District Attorney to get their wish, would be excluded and we would not be allowed to confront and cross-examine her on these inconsistent acts that are inconsistent with her allegations.

We also have some acts, such as the paying of rent on the Soto Street apartment, and the Court has already heard Major Jackson's somewhat, I'd say, incredible, but, I mean, certainly it didn't make sense to me, remarks about needing to have the two residences. Additional information comes out about that and will come out that, in fact, she got Brad Miller to pay her rent, she got Jay Jackson to pay her rent, and she got the Trujillos, who own the place, to forgive her rent, based on her claims that she was not able to afford the rent because of Gavin's illness.

So those acts of multiple fraud with regard to that location presumably would come within this same ambit, at least portions of it. Even if we're allowed to ask part of that, a good portion of that cross-examination would be precluded.

Having said that, and without belaboring that any further, unless the Court has questions, that's the materiality. There's just no question these are material issues, particularly in a criminal case where you have a constitutional right to confront and cross-examine.

THE COURT: But you wouldn't be precluded from proving those items through other witnesses. You would only be precluded from asking her those questions that relate to the welfare fraud.

MR. SANGER: Right. And we've addressed that issue briefly --

THE COURT: I know.

MR. SANGER: -- in here.

And the answer to that, I think, is that, you know, the right to confront and cross-examine is extremely important because of a variety of things.

Number one, it comes at this stage of the proceedings. If the prosecution's position were adopted, and we were not allowed to inquire, and the jury is not allowed to know about any of this, they would see a witness get up there, be relatively unscathed as to a major part of the -- of the issue with regard to her credibility and as to major issues with regard to activities that she engaged in during this period of time. We would then be denied the right to confront and cross-examine.

There's a great quote that we presented to the Court to the effect that that's a very effective part of the process, the legal process in general, and it is a constitutional part of the criminal legal process to vigorously cross-examine. That is one of the aspects of our system that helps us try to obtain the truth and get to the bottom of things.

If we were not allowed to do that, timing-wise, we would not be able to even present this until after the People rested. So, we would be in a position where this jury is going to hear this, they would not be allowed to hear anything to the contrary, she would leave the stand unscathed, and then eventually, through laboriously presenting custodians of records and presenting other evidence from other sources, we would eventually build the case that we have to show that she, in fact, committed welfare fraud.

It comes, you know, certainly a day late or a month or two months or three months late in the proceedings. And I believe constitutionally, we're deprived of that very important right, and that's why that right exists. We don't have to wait until two or three months later to put on evidence incrementally. We're allowed to confront her right off the bat and say, "Isn't it a fact that this happened?"

Now, in addition to that, Mr. Sneddon, in his opening statement, got up and told the Court, and told the jury, that she was going to take responsibility for her welfare fraud, and that it wasn't that big a deal anyway, but she would take responsibility. She's done things that were wrong or that she was not proud of, “But,” you know, “ladies and gentlemen, don’t worry about that, because she’s going to take responsibility and tell you honestly what happened here.”

Well, if the People were to get their way, the prosecution was going to get its way in this case, she would not do that, and that would not happen.

What’s more harmful to our situation, from the -- from Mr. Jackson’s standpoint, is that based on those statements made by the prosecution in opening, Mr. Mesereau, on behalf of the defense and Mr. Jackson, got up and made a substantial statement, a series of statements in his opening statement to the effect that we were going to prove X, Y and Z, and that is going to be now swept under the rug, as it were, if the prosecution were to get its way, until such time as we could then present this incrementally during the defense. So it would be extremely prejudicial and it would -- it would be a denial of confrontation.

So that is why I believe that we get past that point. I believe that based on the case law and the Constitution, we just can’t carve out safe harbors for a witness and allow that witness to testify to what the prosecution wants and not testify to other relevant matters, some of which have already started to come in through Mr. Jackson, or Major Jackson.

Now, that takes us to the next point: What does the Court do? And I think that the only remedy at this point is to strike her -- or not strike her testimony, but to disallow it. You can’t have a half cross-examined witness in a criminal case.

If the Court does that, we then get to the next problem, which is what do we do with this trial as it stands now?

And we’ve suggested that the only remedy is to declare a mistrial, because the prosecution has said they were going to present this. We have spent a good deal of time in opening focusing on Janet Arvizo as a witness and her lack of credibility. She is also the kingpin of what they claim was going to be their case for conspiracy. She is the basis for a lot of what they are claiming will be tied up later to establish co-conspirators for the purpose of all the conditional admissions of testimony that the Court has allowed.

Can we unring this bell if she doesn’t testify? Even were the Court to grant an 1118.1 motion at the end of the prosecution’s case on conspiracy, it would contaminate the entire trial.

So I think that the remedy, if the Court excludes her testimony, which it has to do, is to then grant a mistrial.

Now, the reason I raise that at this point is that we have suggested that if the Court were going to deny a mistrial -- this is convoluted, but I think we have to go full circle and come back. If the Court were to deny a mistrial, there might be a way to handle this. We’re not prepared to concede that it’s going to do the trick and that it’s constitutionally adequate. But if the Court were to deny a mistrial, one way to handle this would be to allow the witness to testify and to take the Fifth in front of the jury.

Now, it’s not for the purpose of embarrassing Miss Arvizo. But more importantly, she is not a stakeholder. She has no stake in whether or not the jury hears that she’s taking the Fifth. If she were a litigant in the case and a stakeholder in the case itself, the Court might say, “Well, that’s unfair,” in the context of requiring her to either take the Fifth or, as in the Pacers case, for instance, lose the ability to litigate a civil case. Under -- the Court’s familiar with Pacers. I mean, the balancing was, you can’t make somebody lose their civil case or choose to waive their Fifth Amendment right to win it. But that’s where the person who was facing that issue is a stakeholder in the litigation.

Miss Arvizo is not a stakeholder in this litigation. Therefore, asserting the Fifth, as she’s just done in public, in front of the world, is no different than asserting the Fifth in front of the jury, for her. It does not affect her. She is not a stakeholder in the litigation.

What it does is some sort of rough justice which would allow the jury to understand that the promises made by Mr. Mesereau at the time of his opening statement are promises that we intend to keep. And that while we are not permitted to go into this now, because she’s asserting the Fifth, we -- it is a clear message to the jury that this is an issue that’s still alive, and to keep an open mind, and we will be presenting evidence at a later time.

There was, of course -- and I don’t want to comment on the content of stipulations, but I understand that Mr. Mesereau indicated that there might be some way to stipulate around this. And I just throw that out, not -- we’re not trying to force the prosecution to stipulate. But just as a possible remedy, another remedy would be to enter into some kind of a stipulation, if the prosecution were willing to do it.

Absent those remedies, it seems that following the law and looking at the Constitution on confrontation, the only choice that the Court has to -- the only choice the Court can make at this point is to exclude her entire testimony, and then the chips fall where they may, either a motion for a mistrial is made, and granted or denied, and then we go on to the next step.

The reason I address the motion for mistrial issue is because I think it’s only fair to look at the horizon and see what happens, which might prompt everybody to resolve this some other way, whether it’s by the Court’s order or by stipulation.

Unless the Court has questions, I’ll respond to the prosecution.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Zonen?

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, we’ve very thoroughly briefed this issue and I’m going to be very brief in my argument.

There’s nothing that they’re seeking to do in the course of this trial for purposes of impeaching her testimony by way of bringing in this information that they cannot do even in the absence of Miss Arvizo or Mrs. Jackson testifying to these matters. They have all the documentation necessary to be able to present the information that Mr. Mesereau said in his opening statement that they would be presenting, and all of this information can be adequately presented to the jury and in a very thorough way.

She has a right, constitutional right, not to answer questions that would incriminate her. To a large extent, to some extent certainly, this is a problem of their own creation. Prior to the commencement of this trial, the defendant hired an attorney to present to the Los Angeles District Attorney’s Office a compilation of material, along with a demand letter that she immediately be prosecuted for this matter. So the fact that she’s now asserting the Fifth is certainly -- and they’re denying that they did it, even though we have now shown that that same lawyer has filed writs to the California State Supreme Court on behalf of defendant as well.

It’s certainly a right that she has to assert the Fifth as to any question that could tend to incriminate her. There’s little question but that issues dealing with this matter could tend to incriminate her. Certainly the matter is currently before the Los Angeles District Attorney’s Office. She has a right to do that. She has a right to do that outside the presence of the jury. The only reason that it would be done in front of the jury would be to prejudice her in her assertion of a constitutional right, and case law clearly states that that is not to be done.

This is a collateral matter entirely, has nothing to do with any activity that took place in Neverland, has nothing to do with any activity that took place at any other location involving the defendant, such as Miami. It has all to do entirely with credibility issues. And to that extent, since it is entirely with credibility issues, it is out of the gamut of any of those cases that talk in terms of court-imposed immunity.

And finally, the issue of a mistrial should be, of course, denied. There is no issue that cannot be presented to this jury in some other fashion. And so that would not be an appropriate remedy.

We’ll submit it on our pleadings.

MR. SANGER: May I respond, briefly?

THE COURT: Let me ask him a question first.

MR. SANGER: Mr. Zonen or myself?

THE COURT: Mr. Zonen.

MR. SANGER: Okay.

THE COURT: The one issue is, if I deny the defendant’s request to prevent her from testifying, should she be required to claim the privilege in front of the jury?

MR. ZONEN: I believe there’s adequate cases that say that is not an obligation for a witness. And the motive in this case purely is for the jury to be able to surmise some negative connotation to asserting a constitutional protection. And I think that the case law is pretty clear that that is just not the implication that they’re supposed to be given from the assertion of a constitutional right.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Sanger?

MR. SANGER: I was going to respond to that precise remark that Mr. Zonen made, and therefore to the Court’s question, which is Mr. Zonen said it’s -- she has a right to assert the Fifth Amendment. There’s absolutely no question about that. We all believe in the Fifth Amendment. And that’s the law of this country.

She does not have a right not to assert it in front of the jury. That is not her right. That is a judicially created rule that is not hard and fast, but it was created to not allow unfairness in front of the jury. It has nothing to do with the witness, again, unless the witness is a stakeholder, which she’s not. That would come under the Pacers kind of analysis.

So she does not have a right not to say it in front of the jury. She said it in front of the entire world here on the stand.

So the question is, can the Court fashion a remedy that may work? And we believe that that is at least a possibility, depending on how the Court does it. You know, we're not in a position to concede it.

And the only other thing I'd say, quickly, is that with regard to this being reported to the L.A. D.A., it was reported to the L.A. D.A. by somebody who's not a member of this particular defense team, and that's what we said. We didn't mean to imply anything else. However, Mr. Sneddon got up and said it was a crime. Certainly people are prosecuted for much less in Santa Barbara than what this person has done by way of welfare fraud, and it's reasonable for anybody to report it if they want to. I think that's a red herring.

The real issue comes down to what is the Court going to do about it? Just exclude her testimony entirely? Which leaves us with a can of worms and possibly a mistrial. Or can we find some other way around it? And that's where we are. And I submit it to the Court for a decision.

THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel.

Neither of you cited People vs. Hecker, 219 Cal.App.3d 1238, which is a 1990 case, where an appellate court reviewed a striking of testimony where a witness claimed the Fifth Amendment and indicated that that was, you know, too drastic of a solution for the problem.

The appellate court in that case observed that it might have been appropriate for the Court to have permitted the witness to testify, allow the jury to draw negative inferences from his invocation of the Fifth Amendment. And I think the instructions in the Hecker case are powerful instructions to this Court.

Therefore, the Court will deny the defense motion to prevent her from testifying, which also leads us to the -- takes us right on past the motion for a mistrial, which is denied also.

The next question becomes should she be required to claim the Fifth Amendment in front of the jury, and I have a suggestion here.

I'd like one member of each team to come forward and pick up my suggested jury instruction, and what -- the total intent of this instruction is to advise the jury of the problem that has arisen in this case because of the assertion of the Fifth Amendment.

So looking at the suggested instruction on top -- and you'll notice there's two instructions. Immediately behind that is CALJIC 2.25, which what I would intend to do is blend these instructions, so --

MR. SANGER: Your Honor, your intention would be to read this instruction before she testifies?

THE COURT: Right.

MR. SANGER: Okay.

THE COURT: What I would intend to do, if you will follow me and follow along, and we'll read it right now out loud, because I'm going to interject CALJIC 2.25 in here, so I would tell the jury, "In a hearing held outside your presence, the Court has determined that the Rules of Evidence preclude the parties in this case from examination or cross-examination of Janet Arvizo on the subject of possible welfare fraud."

Then I would interject 2.25, "When a witness refuses to testify in any matter relying on their constitutional privilege against self-incrimination, you must not draw from the exercise of this privilege any inference as to the believability of the witness or any other matter at issue in this trial."

Then going back to this instruction, "This is a ruling that was not anticipated when the attorneys made their opening statements to you. Those statements, however, are not evidence. You should not consider the failure of the prosecution or the defense to cover this subject area in the examination or cross-examination of this witness as having any evidentiary significance or any importance in your ultimate decision on the case, nor should you speculate as to the possible reasons for the Court’s decision.

“Evidence of possible welfare fraud may still at some point be presented in this case, but it will not be introduced through the testimony of this witness.”

So that’s what I would propose. So, in essence, I’m not -- she’s not required to make the claim in front of the jury, but I tell the jury that she’s made that claim, and the same effect, and I explain to them why.

And, you know, I have a deep concern that both sides, but primarily -- well, I shouldn’t say “primarily.” Be careful how I say this. But both sides were relying on the fact that evidence of possible welfare fraud was going to come in and both made pretty strong statements in their opening statement about it, and I don’t want to gloss over that with the jury. I think it needs to be brought to their attention so that -- and here’s where I feel the more strong side is, so the defense -- so they’re not wondering why the defense isn’t producing the evidence that Mr. Mesereau stated he would produce in his opening statement.

So that’s my proposal.

MR. SANGER: Could I be heard on just a couple of technical issues?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. SANGER: I don’t know how technical they are, but --

THE COURT: Probably pretty technical.

MR. SANGER: Well, it’s actually fairly substantial in one sense. But the proposed instruction says “possible welfare fraud,” and the other thing that we specifically talked about was perjury. And we’d ask the Court to add “perjury” to -- “welfare fraud and perjury.” There’s probably other things, but at the very least that covers the broad areas.

The other suggestion that I would have is that the Court -- that the first sentence in the suggested instruction - and we’ve had all of a minute and a half to consider this, okay? - but the first sentence that the Court suggests before reading the refusal of a witness to testify doesn't really indicate that the witness has refused to testify. It says, "The Court's determined that evidence" -- "the rules of evidence preclude the parties…."

Now, understanding that our prior motions were denied, and so this is without conceding that, we would ask that the Court indicate that the witness has refused to answer certain questions and the Court has granted the witness that privilege.

And then that moves into your 2.25, which explains what the refusal and the privilege is, and that the actual exercise of the privilege cannot be considered.

And the reason I suggest that is that otherwise - well, I understand what the Court was doing with this - otherwise, it appears -- it may appear to the jury that they're not to consider this whole area for some reason, and what you're really saying is they can't consider the refusal and the assertion of a privilege.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. SANGER: I'd just ask that that be clarified in that first sentence.

Thank you.

THE COURT: Did you want to say anything in response?

MR. ZONEN: I have no objection to the inclusion of the word "perjury," but -- I have no objection to the inclusion of the word "perjury," but as to the balance of it, I think the content of the instruction as drafted is adequate.

THE COURT: Okay. I think this is how I would like to do it. I think it solves the problem not exactly the way you wanted me to, but taking the suggested instruction paragraph starting with "In a hearing…," I'm going to add a sentence before that sentence.

So the first sentence would read: "The witness, Janet Arvizo, has made a claim of privilege under the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution." Then I go into, "In a hearing held outside your presence, the Court has determined that the rules of evidence preclude the parties....” And then the next sentence is, “When a witness refuses to testify to any matter relying on a constitutional privilege...,” so it all comes together there.

Okay?

MR. ZONEN: Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, sir.

MR. MESEREAU: I would be cross-examining the witness, and could I just ask a question? If the prosecution tries to --

THE COURT: They can’t hear you in the back.

MR. MESEREAU: Sure. I’ll go up there.

Your Honor, I’ll be cross-examining the witness, and I suspect the prosecution is going to try to ask questions to create the impression that she’s never asked anybody for money, which we can prove is not true. The -- that raises the question of, if they open that door, if they try and create that impression, the question then becomes what can we do to counteract it through proper use of cross-examination? They’ve already suggested in their calling other witnesses that this woman is pristine pure and it’s all her husband who was only asking for money.

MR. ZONEN: Judge, we’ve gone beyond the argument in this matter. And I’m going to object to the use of dual counsel as to this motion as well.

THE COURT: I think that’s good. I’m glad you did.

I think we’ll just deal with that --

MR. MESEREAU: Okay.

THE COURT: -- when we get to it.

MR. MESEREAU: If we could have the opportunity to approach sidebar, if necessary, on that, I would ask the Court’s indulgence in that regard. Because I think an issue might come up and we do have to defend our client, Mr. Jackson, vigorously and professionally, and it does raise a thorny issue.

THE COURT: I'll deal with that as it comes up.

MR. MESEREAU: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: In a sense, what Mr. Mesereau was saying is that, you know, the claim of privilege is binding on everybody, and the prosecution as well as the defense have to stay away from those areas that would cause her to have to make continual claims in front of the jury. That's what this is about. Both sides are restricted in their questioning to areas outside of the alleged welfare fraud and resultant possible perjury.

And that's how I take your remarks, Mr. Mesereau. If they don't respect those lines, then what do you do? And we'll deal with that as it arises.

All right. What we're going to do is we're not going to recess. I'm going to step off the bench. We'll have the jury brought in immediately, and then we'll start.

I don't want the witness in the witness stand, because I'm going to instruct the jury from the witness chair. The witness has already been sworn. I'll advise the jury of that.

Since she is now known as Mrs. Jackson, are we going to refer to her mainly, for the most part, as "Mrs. Arvizo" for the purposes of the examination, or --

MR. ZONEN: She's requesting that I address her as "Mrs. Jackson."

THE COURT: Well, that's fine. I didn't ask you what she wanted.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: I said, are we going to address her as "Miss Arvizo," "Mrs. Arvizo"?

MR. MESEREAU: We would request that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: The reason being, there's so many documents, tapes and things, and I'm concerned about the confusion to the jury of the names. That's all.

MR. ZONEN: Whatever is the Court's direction.

THE COURT: I'll allow you to address the issue with the witness in front of the jury, so that they understand that I’m not going to require that people address her as “Mrs. Jackson” in the trial, because I don’t want to have that problem of confusion over names. All right?

MR. ZONEN: Okay.
MR. MESEREAU: Thank you, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Bring in the jury.

(The following proceedings were held in open court in the presence and hearing of the jury:)

THE COURT: (To the jury) Here I am again.
(Laughter.)
THE COURT: I’m going to read you again some instructions, and remind you that at the end of the case, I will fully instruct you on all of the law involved in the case, but I’m instructing you at this time to specifically deal with a specific problem that’s arisen in the evidence of the case. So I’d like you to listen carefully to this.

The witness, Janet Arvizo, has made a claim of privilege under the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution. In a hearing held outside your presence, the Court has determined that the rules of evidence preclude the parties in this case from examination or cross-examination of Janet Arvizo on the subject of possible welfare fraud.

When a witness refuses to testify to any matter relying on the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination, you must not draw from the exercise of this privilege any inference as to the believability of the witness or any other matter at issue in this trial.

This is a ruling that was not anticipated when the attorneys made their opening statements to you. Those statements, however, are not evidence.

You should not consider the failure of the prosecution or the defense to cover this subject area in the examination or cross-examination of this witness as having any evidentiary significance or any importance in your ultimate decision on the case, nor should you speculate as to the possible reasons for the Court’s decision. Evidence of possible welfare fraud and perjury may still at some point be presented in this case, but it will not be introduced through the testimony of this witness. You may call your witness to the stand.

MR. ZONEN: We’ll call Janet Arvizo Jackson to the stand, please.

JANET JACKSON

Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

THE COURT: Mrs. Arvizo, you were previously sworn.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: You may be seated. You are still under oath.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. ZONEN:

Q. The name that you’re currently going by is what name, please?

A. Janet Jackson.

Q. And you were previously Janet Arvizo; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And your maiden name is Janet Ventura; is that right?

A. Yes. Correct.

Q. To the extent that you may, at different times in this proceeding, be referred to by any of those three names, that would be you; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you understand that there are documents that will be admitted and shown to you under the name “Janet Arvizo”?

A. Yes.

Q. And you understand that you’ll be addressed as “Janet Arvizo” at different times during this proceeding as well?

A. Yes.
Q. You are currently married to whom?

A. Jay Jackson.
Q. And what does Jay Jackson do?
A. He’s a major in the Army.
Q. And with whom do you reside at this time?
A. With my husband and my four children.
Q. And your four children include the three who have already testified in this proceeding?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Star, Gavin and Davellin?
A. Yes.
Q. And you have a baby at home; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. And how old is he?
A. He’s eight months.
Q. I’d like to direct your attention, please, back to the year 2000, as best I can. Can you tell me if, during that period of time, you were first introduced to Michael Jackson?
A. I’m sorry, say that again.
Q. When did you first meet Mr. Jackson?
A. In August of 2000.
Q. All right. And is Michael Jackson here in the courtroom at this time?
A. Yeah.
Q. And is he the man with the long dark hair?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Sitting to my right?
A. Yes.

Q. What were the circumstances of your introduction to Mr. Jackson?
A. My son’s illness.
Q. Your son was suffering from what illness at the time?
A. Cancer.
Q. How is it that you happened to meet Mr. Jackson?
A. It was either two -- one of two people. I never knew who.
Q. Somebody arranged an introduction?

A. Yes.
Q. Was your son actively ill at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. What type of treatment was he receiving?
A. Chemotherapy.
Q. Was there a time that you and other members of your family were taken to Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. And Neverland is a ranch in Santa Barbara County, is it not?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Do you remember when that was, what month, what year?
A. August 2000.
Q. Did somebody take you there?
A. We were picked up, yes.
Q. Do you know who that person was?

A. His limo.
Q. All right. And who among your family members went to Neverland back then?
A. My ex-husband David and my three children.
Q. And the three children are the ones we’ve already identified?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. How old was Gavin at that time?
A. Gavin was ten.
Q. Had he already undergone surgery for his cancer?
A. Yes.
Q. And was he going through chemotherapy at the time?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you describe his condition at the time of that first visit to Neverland? How was he doing at that time?
A. He was at that point where walking was kind of difficult for him. He would walk, I don’t know, when you -- kind of like a toddler walk.
Q. All right.
A. And he would tire easy.
Q. Was he taking medication at the time?
A. Yes.
Q. And --

A. The chemotherapy.

Q. And as a consequence of the surgery, has he since been taking medication?

A. Yes.

Q. What's the nature of the medication that he takes?

A. His -- one of his kidneys is malfunctioning, and so that -- he takes one medicine for that so he doesn't end up losing that kidney. He sees a specialist for that, but there's a possibility that he could lose his kidney.

Q. Okay. What's the other medication?

A. The other one is in replacement of his spleen, and that's for -- it's -- it's a medical word, but I really don't know what it means. They call it prophylactic, and that's so -- because there's certain bacteria that, if Gavin is exposed to those bacterias, it's certain death.

Q. It's an antibiotic of sorts?

A. Yes.

Q. It's for his immune system?

A. This is what they've explained to me. I don't know.

Q. During that first visit, do you recall how many days you stayed at Neverland?

A. No, I couldn't tell you.

Q. Do you know if it was more than one night?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Can you tell us if it was as long as a week?

A. No. Definitely no.

Q. And where did you stay during that first visit at Neverland?

A. Me and David stood in one room. And my children were supposed to stay in another room together, but it ended up just being Davellin.

Q. You and your husband then, David?

A. Yeah.

Q. And Davellin in one room?

A. Yes.

Q. And where did the boys stay?

A. With Michael.

Q. In his house?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you know where in his house that he stayed?
A. I know --
Q. Let me ask the question more specifically.
A. Sure.
Q. Do you know from personal observation -- in other words, did you see where they stayed? Not from what anybody told you, but did you see where they stayed?
A. No.
Q. During that first visit, did you ever go into Mr. Jackson's residence?
A. His residence -- there's an area where there's a -- like a kitchen area where everybody can go into, but the -- but -- it's -- it's open, you know, to that area, eating area.

Q. And that's the area you went into?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you go into his personal residence, his bedroom or his bedroom suite?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever been to --
A. No.
Q. -- his residence, his personal residence, meaning his bedroom suite?
A. That's right.
Q. And the answer is no, you had not been?
A. No.
Q. All right. During the period of time that you were there, did your sons ever stay in the guest cottage?
A. No.
Q. To your knowledge? To your recollection?
A. No.
Q. Did you then return, at the conclusion of that visit, back to your home?
A. Yes.
Q. Where was your home at that time?
A. Okay. It's -- can I explain to them?
Q. Well, try to focus on the question as best you can.
A. Okay.

Q. Did you have a residence at that time?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you have actually more than one place where you or other members of your family were staying?
A. Me and the children, when Gavin -- right after he would have --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
MR. ZONEN: You have to listen to the question.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
MR. ZONEN: Does the Court want to rule?
THE COURT: I thought you were going to take care of it.
MR. ZONEN: I was.
THE COURT: Well, go ahead.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Listen to the question as specifically as possible, okay?
Was there more than one residence that you and your family were staying in during this period of time?
A. I don’t know how to answer that without explaining it.
Q. Did you have a residence that you were paying rent on?
A. Yes.
Q. Where was that?
A. In East L.A.
Q. Was there another residence that any member of your family was staying in?

A. At my mom’s.
Q. Where was your mom’s residence?
A. In El Monte.
Q. And who was staying at your mom’s residence?
A. Gavin and David.
Q. Okay. And why was Gavin -- why were Gavin and David staying at your mother’s residence in El Monte?
A. Because Davellin and Star were still going to school. I got three kids, you know. Only because Gavin has cancer doesn’t mean the other ones, they’re off. They got to go to school.

Q. All right. But --
A. And so --
Q. -- why was Gavin staying at your mother's?
A. Sterile room.
Q. Tell us --
A. Because in my bachelor apartment, there's no divided rooms, bedrooms.
Q. All right. So what did Gavin -- what special needs did Gavin require that necessitated him staying at your mother's?
A. A sterile room after chemotherapy.
Q. Could he or was he being exposed to your other two children?
A. Yes, my other two kids were still going to school, so they had to be separated for that moment, because the children could have picked up some other germs, which at the time Star was nine, and --

Q. So your then husband David and Gavin stayed at your mother's?
A. Yes.
Q. And the rest of you stayed at where?
A. East L.A.
Q. And the East L.A. was the Soto Street residence that --
A. Yes.
Q. -- we've heard something about; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Describe that residence for us.
A. I've lived there for about five years.
Q. Tell us what it looked like, the residence.
A. Um --
Q. How many rooms?
A. It was my home.
Q. All right. But how many rooms? Was there a bedroom?
A. No.
Q. Was there a living room?
A. No. It was just a room and a wall to divide the kitchen.
Q. Okay. So there's a kitchen and one room?
A. Yeah.
Q. It's a studio; is that right?

A. Yeah.

Q. And all of you lived in that residence?

A. Yes. And it had a rest room, too.

Q. And it had a bathroom?

A. Yes.

Q. And a kitchen?

A. Yeah.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: Could you lean forward so we can hear?

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: We're not picking on you. We need to have everybody, all of the witnesses, speak directly into the microphone so you can be heard.

A. Yeah.

Q. And for what period of time was this your residence? From when to when?

A. For five years. From 1998 to 2003.

Q. Okay. There's some Kleenex up there, if you need some, as well, I believe, in front of you.

Now, during the period of time that Gavin was ill, did he stay at that residence on Soto Street at all?

A. No.

Q. Was he going to school during that year that he was ill?

A. He -- the whole entire time while he had cancer he did not attend school one single day.

Q. Was he either at your mother's residence or at the hospital?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he periodically return to the hospital for treatment?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us approximately within, say, a 30-day period how much of that time he would have spent at the hospital, how often of that time he would have spent at your mother's residence?

A. He didn't just stay for the chemotherapy. He was hospitalized -- sometimes because he had fevers, he had to get hospitalized. Any -- any fragility in his health, he had to be hospitalized.

Q. So give us a sense. Of the 30-day period, what percentage of that might he have spent in a hospital?

A. Sometimes. Sometimes more than half.

Q. All right.

A. Sometimes.

Q. How long did the chemotherapy go on?

A. Almost a year, but quite not a year.

Q. Was there a point in time where doctors determined that he was in remission?

A. Yes.

Q. And approximately when was that?

A. It was about in May, but for sure -- yeah.

Q. In May of when?

A. In May of 2001.

Q. May of 2001?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there some kind of demarcation, a test or something that they did?

A. Yes.

Q. And what was that?

A. They did a full checkup, and they concluded that it was not -- it was in remission.

Q. Okay.

A. And then that’s when -- he had to have a little thing going through his heart, his main artery, because he was receiving such strong dosages, so he had to have the strongest artery.

Q. And that was removed?

A. Yes, that was removed.

Q. All right. Is he in remission today?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. Is he healthy today?

A. Outside the -- the two specialists that see him continuously, his oncologist, his nephrologist, he’s a healthy boy, but he’s got medical concerns.

Q. And still sees a doctor?

A. Yes.

Q. And still takes medication?

A. Yes. And then the scare we just had where he had a very serious test.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.

MR. ZONEN: Hold on.

No objection to that.

THE COURT: I’ll allow the “Yes” and strike the rest of the sentence.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: All right. Now, you described that first visit to Neverland back in August of 2000; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. When was the next time you went to Neverland?
A. Me?
Q. Yes.
A. Oh, let me see. Um -- um -- September 2002, because Chris had invited me, Chris and Aja.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; nonresponsive.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: The answer (sic) simply is when was the next time you went?
A. Oh. September of 2002.
Q. Did your son or both of your sons or your two sons and daughter return to Neverland at an earlier time than that?
A. Yes.
Q. Excuse me.
When was the next time -- when was the next time that they went back to Neverland, to your recollection?
A. Okay. The boys?
Q. Yes.
A. The boys went right after the initial visit in August of 2000. But Davellin didn’t go. Neither did I.

Q. Did your then husband David go?
A. Yes, with David.
Q. And were they transported there?
A. Yes.
Q. And why didn’t you go?
A. I felt it was more important for Davellin to focus on her school. She was already starting high school, ninth grade.
Q. So you stayed home with Davellin?
A. Yes.
Q. And were there any other visits --
A. And because of the little incident that Dave did over there.
Q. You’ve had problems with David over the years of your marriage; is that correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you know how many visits your children had to Neverland after the initial visit, and approximately when they were?

A. Okay. The first initial visit in August, and these are all approximate, August of 2000. Then the boys, when they returned with David, right after that. Then in the spring of 2002, with Chris. And then Michael invited them immediately back up. And then with Chris’s -- the family birthday party that Chris had, Chris and Aja. And then the filming of this stuff --

Q. All right.

A. -- in September.

Q. All right. You’re not -- all right. Let’s see if we can work this out a little bit. We have the initial visit August of 2000.

A. Yes.

Q. And then you said they returned, your husband David and the two boys, soon thereafter?

A. Yes.

Q. And by “soon,” are we talking about within a week or two?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Okay. And do you know for what period of the visit they stayed, for how long?

A. And this is approximate, okay?

Q. Sure. Sure.

A. Pardon me?

Q. Approximately how long they stayed for the second visit.

A. Oh, I couldn’t tell you.

Q. Would you know --

A. Just days.

Q. -- if it was more than one night?

A. Oh, definitely, yes.

Q. Was it less than a week?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were at home with Davellin?

A. Yes.

Q. And was “home” at that time the Soto Street address?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, were there any other visits in that year, the year of 2000, to either Neverland or a visit with Michael Jackson at someplace other than Neverland?

A. Yes. Michael had invited Gavin and David to go to the Universal Hilton in Studio City, and that’s -- and in this time it was only Gavin in the hotel.

Q. Okay. Gavin and only Gavin, or Gavin and his father?

A. Only Gavin and David.

Q. So his father went, but not his brother or his sister?

A. No.

Q. And you didn’t go?

A. No. No.

Q. Was that an overnight visit?

A. No, it was a day visit.

Q. And they returned that same day?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Was there any other visit in 2000 that you’re aware of?

A. No.

Q. Was there any visit in 2001 that you were aware of?

A. Zero.

Q. No visits to Neverland during that time?

A. No.

Q. All right. Now, during that initial period when your son met Michael Jackson, did you have any telephone calls with Mr. Jackson at all?

A. Me?

Q. Yes.

A. In 2000?

Q. Yes. In 2000.

A. No.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Jackson was having conversations with your son over the telephone?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know where those conversations took place? And I mean your son’s end of the conversation, where he was at the time of those conversations?

A. Sometime in the hospital, but mostly at my mom’s house. Gavin had his own room. And he had his own telephone line, his own -- his own answering machine, because usually they -- the doctor had suggested that sometimes when we use a phone, we can easily pass viruses or anything on the telephone.
Q. So he had a telephone that only he used?
A. Yes.
Q. That was at your mom’s house?
A. Yes.

Q. Now, did you ever -- were you ever present during any of these conversations?
A. Sometimes. Sometimes, but not -- they’d go on forever, so I’d -- you know, I have to go do other things.
Q. Approximately how long were these telephone conversations?
A. Hours.
Q. Literally hours?
A. Yes.
Q. And how frequent were they? In other words, how many conversations would they have in, say, a week period of time?
A. They were frequent. I couldn’t -- I couldn’t be able to tell you. But I know that after he met him, it was more.
Q. And did these phone calls go on for a length of time?
A. Yes.
Q. In other words, over weeks?
A. Yes.
Q. Approximately how many?
A. I can’t remember.
Q. Now, you said that after that third visit at the hotel, there were no other visits --
A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- that either or any of your children had with Michael Jackson during the balance of 2000 or 2001?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know why that was?

A. Well --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE WITNESS: Because me.

MR. MESEREAU: Calls for speculation; foundation; and hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Okay. What was the question?

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you know why that was?

A. Because I just felt a little bit uneasy. That’s all. He didn’t do nothing, you know. You know, it just felt -- it just felt uneasy.

Q. Did you do something to stop communication between your son and Michael Jackson?

A. Um -- um, yeah, I just expressed I was uneasy about it.

Q. Okay. And you said no visits in the year 2001 as well?

A. That’s right.

Q. When was the first visit in 2002?

A. That was with Chris Tucker and Aja. They had built so much credibility with me, they took my -- it was like everything was -- like doing family activities together, and so when Chris had asked me that he wanted to take the children to Neverland, I felt it was okay, because Chris -- you know, they’re decent people, Chris and Aja.

Q. Chris Tucker is somebody who befriended your son --

A. Yes.

Q. -- during the time he was ill?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he actually know him prior to that?

A. No.

Q. There were a number of celebrities that did know your children --

A. Yes.

Q. -- prior to your son Gavin becoming ill.

A. Yes.

Q. And who were they?

A. Well, let me see. I don’t know if you call them famous or something, but they’re famous to me.

Q. People who had befriended your child --

A. Yes.

Q. -- or children prior to Gavin becoming ill?

A. For example, Wheezy. Her name is Louise Palanker. To me, she's famous.

Q. Who else?

A. Jamie, George Lopez, Fritz. And then Jamie had -- Jamie had, like, guests, comics that came, and celebrities, and so they would -- they met them there.

Q. The introduction to Chris Tucker was by whom?

A. By Jamie.

Q. Was that during the time that your son was ill?

A. Yes.

Q. And did Jamie Masada often visit your son at the hospital?

A. Oh, yes. Yes. Almost daily. My son even -- my -- Jamie would try to -- there came a point where Gavin wasn't eating because he was vomiting blood, because he was a very sick boy. And so Jamie was trying to get him to eat, and he'd -- Gavin had vomited on him, and that didn't keep him away. He still kept coming.

Q. Okay. Now, the visit to Neverland in 2002 with Mr. Tucker, do you know who arranged that?

A. Chris.

Q. And did he in fact take the kids there?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. How many kids went on that visit?

A. On the baby boy's birthday party?

Q. The first visit in 2002.

A. Oh, I see. The best I can remember, Chris -- this is another thing, too. Chris was working on a movie that he was trying to put together called "The President." And he took his writer, Kelly. And he took the kids because he says they're funny and they give him ideas, you know, by them joking around with him.

Q. Okay.

A. So --
Q. When do you think that first visit was?
A. The return, with Chris?
Q. The first visit in 2002 with Chris Tucker.
A. That was in spring.
Q. In spring?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Now, the next visit to Neverland was approximately when?
A. Michael had invited the kids right after.
Q. Did he call the house?
A. Yes. Evvy did.
Q. Evvy called. Did she speak with you?
A. No.
Q. Who did she -- with whom did she speak?
A. Gavin.
Q. Do you know approximately how long that was after that first visit with Chris Tucker?
A. I can’t remember right now, but -- I think it was Michael, too, but -- unless I know for a fact, I’ll tell you, but that’s the best I can remember.
Q. And did the kids in fact go at that time?
A. Yes.
Q. This is now still spring of 2002?

A. Yes. Right after they were there with Chris.
Q. Was your husband still in the picture at that time, David?
A. No.
Q. Had you already separated?
A. Yes. I’d been separated from David since May of 2001.
Q. From the time of that separation, has David had contact with your children?
A. No.
Q. Was there an order that prohibited him from doing so?
A. Okay. During the summer, even though he was -- he had done the things he had done, during the summer I still tried -- I thought it was my fault, so I tried to encourage. I figured -- I figured he -- he can have some kind of -- start becoming or having a father relationship with them in the summer. But that ended when those criminal things --

Q. Was there a criminal prosecution of David?
A. Yes.
Q. Did -- was there actually more than one?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. One involving you, and one involving Davellin?
A. Yes, two different years.

Q. Following those prosecutions, was there any contact between David Arvizo and your children?
A. No, except for that one time that he had violated the restraining order with Davellin.
Q. And you were in court?
A. Yes.
Q. Other than being in court --
A. Yes.
Q. -- was there any contact?
A. And then that violation of the restraining order with Davellin.
Q. All right. Now, then the visit back to Neverland by your children --
A. And this is all as best as I can remember.
Q. In 2002, when Mr. Jackson or Evvy called -- now, who did you understand Evvy to be?
A. Oh, his personal assistant, and his personal secretary, and his personal everything.
Q. Did you ever meet Evvy in person?
A. Never met her.
Q. You had conversations on the phone?
A. Yes. A lot of conversation with her on the phone.
Q. Did you have a conversation with her on this occasion to arrange a return trip to Neverland with your children?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you go?

A. Not me. I didn’t talk to her. It was Gavin that talked to her.
Q. Gavin did. All right. And did they in fact go back to Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Just the three of them?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how long they stayed at Neverland?

A. I think it was a couple of days.

Q. Do you know when this was, this return visit?

A. Right after the visit that they had gone with Chris and his writer.

Q. Do you think that was still in the spring?

A. That was definitely spring, 2002.

Q. Do you have a sense of what month that would have been?

A. No.

Q. Did anybody tell you that at that visit there might be a person filming a documentary?

A. No. That was spring. Now, this is -- then we go -- the baby boy’s birthday party is about September. And then right after that is the -- that I come to find out now, that’s when they did the filming for the Bashir tape.

Q. So I’m wrong on this one, but let’s move on.

A. That’s okay.

Q. It was -- apparently the next visit in 2001 was what, now?

A. What’s that?

Q. We have one where the three kids went on invitation from Evvy in spring.

A. Yes. That was --

Q. They were gone approximately how long?

A. About a couple of days, and that was right after being with Chris.

Q. Okay. And then they returned back to your home?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. And where are you still living at this point?

A. East L.A.

Q. This is the Soto Street address?

A. Yes, Soto Street address.

Q. Is Gavin at this point back at your residence with you?

A. Yes, yes, yes.

Q. He’s no longer living in the --

A. No, no, no, no.

Q. Now, at some point around this period of time, you meet Jay Jackson; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you meet Jay Jackson?

A. I met him -- I met Jay in July of 2002, but just met. You know, the children were attending this Sea Cadet program in his base. I don’t know if you call it “base,” but it’s -- it’s -- I don’t know the appropriate -- correct thing. I used to do something. It’s disrespectful, but it’s funny. I would tell him that’s the Sea Cadet Headquarters, but it was actually an Army base.

Q. The base was where, now?

A. In West L.A.

Q. Would you take the children there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. The “children” were just the two boys?

A. Yes, just the two boys. But I was -- Davellin was involved with the LAPD Explorer program, but I was trying to see if Davellin would be interested in that, too.

Q. And is Davellin still involved in LAPD Explorers?

A. Yes. Well, to this day, no. Right now she’s pretty busy. She’s going to work and going to school.

Q. But she was with the LAPD Explorers?

A. Yes.

Q. For some period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, this program, the Navy Sea Cadets, how is it that the boys became involved in that?

A. Okay. Someone had gone to their school and kind of explained what this program was. And then I got interested, because in the packet it said a lot of interesting things to do to help them with hopefully becoming a better person, so -- and leadership skills, so --

Q. Was there a charge for it?

A. There was a cost, depending on -- depending on your -- if you wanted to volunteer/no volunteer. Not volunteer for everything, but -- you know, in the little thing.
Q. But there wasn’t a mandatory fee requirement for this?
A. As far as I know, there wasn’t.
Q. Now, you would bring the boys to that location?
A. Yes.
Q. And how often did they go?
A. They went -- well, Gavin -- Gavin and Star volunteered for just about everything possible.
Q. Okay. But how often do you think you would take them there?
A. Okay. Twice a month, but because the boys were volunteering just about for everything, it would be more than twice a month.
Q. All right. And the location where you took them was where?
A. In West L.A.
Q. Did you have a car during this period of time?

A. No, I didn’t.
Q. From the time of your separation from David Arvizo, did you ever have a car during that time?
A. From like when -- let me see. About the end of spring or the beginning of summer of 2001, they had -- the car that they had given Gavin they took back.
Q. There was a vehicle -- actually, my question was after your separation with David Arvizo.
A. Yeah. It still stood for about one more month, about.
Q. So you had that car for about a month after your separation?
A. Yeah, probably less than a month, but I’m approximating.
Q. What kind of a vehicle was this?
A. It looked just like O.J. Simpson’s car. It was the white -- I mean --
Q. A white Bronco?
A. Yeah. Yeah.

Q. All right.

A. Exactly. I mean, even to almost the year, but I’m not -- you know, it may be off, the years.

Q. And where did this vehicle come from?

A. From him.

Q. Was it brought back by David Arvizo?

A. What do you mean?

Q. Did he return in this vehicle from Neverland?

A. No, no. It was delivered to my mom’s house.

Q. And then at some point in time, was the vehicle returned?

A. Yes.

Q. Why was it returned?

A. Well, the -- the little thing when you turn it on and off wouldn’t work. Sometimes it would work, and sometimes it wouldn’t. And where I live, you can’t leave a car too long, because different streets are assigned parking things and they would tow the car away. And Michael had said if anything ever got broken, to send it back and he’ll have it repaired. But it never came back.

Q. Did something break?

A. Yes. I had taken it to a place on Valley Boulevard and they had told me that the -- an alternator was -- I don’t know what it is, but they said an alternator.

Q. Okay. Some cars have those, I understand. The car was then returned to Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you ever see that vehicle again?

A. Never seen it again.

Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Michael Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Michael Jackson prior to 2002?

A. Prior to 2002?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Even that first visit to Neverland?

A. No.

Q. Was he there on that first visit in August of 2000?
A. Yes. Yes. Yes.
Q. Did you meet with him at all?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you talk at all?
A. No. David was doing all the talking.
Q. Were you present with Mr. Jackson at different times during that visit?
A. Yes. Yes, I was.
Q. Subsequent to that visit, after that visit, did you ever have a telephone conversation with Mr. Jackson?
A. No.
Q. Up until your return to Neverland with Chris Tucker in the spring of 2002, did you ever have a conversation --
A. I didn’t go to the spring 2002.
Q. You didn’t go on that one?
A. Yeah. It was just my kids.
Q. When was the next one that you went to?
A. Me? To Chris and Aja’s baby boy’s birthday party.

Q. And we were actually in the process of going chronologically through the different visits. Is that, in fact, the last one, Chris and Aja’s birthday party?
A. Yes.
Q. And this was for their son?
A. Yes.
Q. What year birthday?
A. I can’t remember, but he was little.
Q. He was a baby?
A. Well, not a baby, but little.
Q. All right. Who went to that?
A. Preschool age.
Q. Preschool, all right.
A. Yes.
Q. Who went to that?
A. The baby boy birthday party?
Q. Okay.
A. Just about all of Chris’s family. His mom and his dad. Everybody. All his family, practically. He flew them in from Atlanta.

Q. And among your family, who went?

A. Me, my three kids, and Jay had also came.

Q. Now, were you at this time in a relationship with Major Jackson?

A. Not really.

Q. Were you dating?

A. I was kind of a little bit, you know, hesitant.

Q. Okay.

A. I met him in July. But all we did was have phone conversations. It wasn’t our first -- he considered it our first date. I really considered it just a ride to the boys’ graduation from Sea Cadet.

Q. Okay. He did tell us that, and we won’t tell him that you told us otherwise.

All right. Now, this visit to Neverland, was it overnight?

A. No.

Q. Did you return that same day?

A. Yes, and Chris had taken us on two of his buses.

Q. And the buses came and left from where?

A. From -- he had -- he had asked us all to meet outside this hotel, and then that’s where we had left.

Q. Was Michael Jackson there during that birthday party?

A. No. No.

Q. You didn’t see him at all?

A. No.

Q. When was the next time that your children went to Neverland after that?

A. For the filming. But make it very clear, I wasn’t -- now I know.

Q. The question was when was the next time?

A. It’s still in September.

Q. It was in September of 2002?

A. Yes.

Q. How did they happen to go to Neverland?

A. Because Evvy and Michael had called them over. And right before that, Gavin had -- had done a biopsy. So, you know, I thought -- I thought he was inviting him because of the biopsy.

Q. The biopsy result was favorable?

A. Yes.

Q. And all of you were rejoicing in his remission?

A. Yes. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Now, from whom did you receive a telephone call?

A. From -- from Evvy.

Q. And do you know if Michael --

A. But I didn't talk to them. Evvy -- they hardly talked to me. It was always Gavin.

Q. So there was a phone call that came from Evvy?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you become aware of the fact that they were being invited back?

A. Because Gavin had said that Evvy and Michael had invited them over to go have a day of fun.

Q. Okay.

A. And I figured -- I figured that Chris had communicated to Michael that he had -- you know, about his biopsy.

Q. Okay.

A. Because Chris and Aja were very involved with my kids.

Q. Was this a topic of discussion in the household at the time, the biopsy?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Now --

A. Because we were very fearful at that time that Gavin might lose his kidney.

Q. Okay. Now, you said "a day of fun."

A. Yes.

Q. Was it anticipated that this would only be for one day?

A. Yes, but they ended up sleeping there.

Q. Were they there longer than one night?

A. No, just one night.

Q. Overnight?

A. So they actually ended up staying two days and one night.

Q. And you did not go?

A. No, I did not go.

Q. And did you have any telephone communication with Michael Jackson personally with regard to that trip?

A. No.

Q. Did you have any telephone communication with Evvy during that trip?

A. No.

Q. Do you know her last name, incidentally?

A. Yes, Tavasci.

Q. Tavasci, all right. Did the children come home at the end of that second day?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, when did you learn that there was a film crew that had been at Neverland?

A. Until he made me aware.

Q. “He” being Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes. Way in February.

Q. All right. So your children didn’t discuss with you that?

A. No.

Q. And you didn’t know about it?

A. No.

Q. Now, prior to your children going to Neverland on that particular visit, did either Mr. Jackson or Evvy or anybody else from Neverland notify you personally that there was going to be a film crew there?

A. No.

Q. Did anybody ask you to sign any documentation with regards to your children appearing in a film?

A. No.

Q. Did you know anything about it at all?

A. No.

Q. Now --

A. But I know now.

Q. Okay. That was during the -- I think you said the fall, September.

A. Yes. September.
Q. Am I right about that? I want to make sure I am.
A. Yes, 2002.
Q. And when was the next visit after that one, if you recall?
A. Of 2002?
Q. Yes.
A. The filming. When he called me up.
Q. All right. So there was no -- there were no more visits in 2002?
A. No. Zero.
Q. Now, let's move on to 2003.
A. Okay.
Q. Did you receive a call from Michael Jackson?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. Did that call come to you or did it come to another member of your family?
A. To Gavin.

Q. At some point in time did you get on the telephone with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. Had you had any other conversation with Mr. Jackson prior to that day?
A. Prior to this day?
Q. Yeah. Prior to that day.
A. Zero.
Q. Zero. All right. Now, we've already talked about that first visit where you were face to face with Mr. Jackson.
A. Yes.
Q. Was there ever any occasion other than that first visit back in August of 2000 where you were face to face with Mr. Jackson up until this phone call in February of 2003?
A. Zero.
Q. Was there ever any occasion where you had a telephone conversation with Mr. Jackson?
A. Never. Except --
Q. Listen to the whole question. We're going to drive the reporter nuts if we don't let each one finish.

A. I’m sorry.
Q. Okay. Prior to this telephone conversation in February --
A. Okay.
Q. -- was there ever any occasion at all where you had a conversation with Mr. Jackson over the telephone?

A. No.
Q. Now, do you know the date of this telephone call?
A. I’ve come to find out per the investigation, but I still always forget. The only way I know is because he had told me about it, and it had aired in England prior to it airing here. So consider the time difference and all that. So definitely before it aired here, and after it aired over there.
Q. In England, all right. Tell me what you think is the date of that first appearance, if you know. If you don’t know, just say so.
A. No, I don’t know.
Q. Was it early February?
A. Yes.
Q. Now --
A. I mean, it -- every time they tell me, I -- I remember, but --
Q. It’s all right. It’s all right.
Now, at the time of this telephone conversation from Mr. Jackson, were you aware of the documentary titled “Living with Michael Jackson”?
A. No, not the documentary.
Q. All right. This is prior to your telephone -- we’re talking about prior to your telephone call from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you have any personal knowledge that a documentary had been prepared -- listen to the question -- that a documentary had been prepared and was titled “Living with Michael Jackson”?
A. No.
Q. Were you aware that such a documentary had actually been shown in England?
A. No.

Q. Had your kids mentioned to you at any time prior to this conversation with Mr. Jackson --
A. No.
Q. -- that they had participated in a filming of some kind?
A. No.
Q. Had the name “Martin Bashir” been raised in your household up to that point?
A. No.
Q. Did you know who Martin Bashir was?
A. No.
Q. All right. The telephone call from Mr. Jackson in early February that went to Gavin --
A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- did you at some point get on the telephone with him?
A. Yes.
Q. What did he tell you?
A. He had told me that -- well, this is -- Gavin’s talking to him first. He had told me that Gavin was in danger, and that there had to be a press conference because of this Bashir man.

Q. All right. Now, did you know what he was talking about, this Bashir matter?
A. No.
Q. Did you ask him to explain that?
A. No.
Q. Did he offer any explanation as to what that was?
A. No. At first I was telling him, “No, no, no, no, no, no,” because he wanted him to come to Miami. But when he told me, you know, “Janet, David” --
Q. Mrs. Arvizo, why don’t you hold on a second. We’re going to take it question by question.
A. Okay, sure.
Q. Listen carefully to the question asked, all right?
A. Okay.
Q. Did he explain to you at any time what this documentary was?
A. No. Not there, not on the phone.
Q. I understand -- we’re just talking about the phone conversation right now.

A. Oh, okay.
Q. Did he mention the name “Martin Bashir” in this phone conversation?

A. He just said “Bashir.”
Q. Okay. Did you know what that meant --
A. No.
Q. -- at that time?
He said to you that your child was in danger?
A. Yes.
Q. What did he say with regards to your child being in danger?
A. That he was receiving death threats.
Q. Did --
A. That he was in danger.
Q. Did that alarm you?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you believe what he said at that time?
A. It’s until he -- until he started telling me that the children had shared with him about how David was a bad guy, because my guard was here (indicating). And when he started telling me those things, oh, “waarrrrr.”
Q. All right. We’ll get to that in just a second.
A. Okay.
Q. But right now with regards to your son being in danger --
A. Okay.
Q. -- did he describe the nature of the danger to you?

A. Just death threats because of this Bashir thing.
Q. Did he tell you who the people were who were issuing the death threats?
A. No.
Q. Did he use the word “death threats” or the term “death threats”?
A. He said he was in danger.
Q. And did he mention any of your other children in that regard?

A. No. Not until we got there.
Q. How long was your conversation with Mr. Jackson?
A. Well, long enough to convince me.
Q. And approximately how long was that? Can you say that it was longer than ten minutes?
A. I wouldn’t be able to tell you.
Q. Now, at some point you said he started talking with you about your ex-husband.
A. Yes.
Q. What did he tell you with regards to your ex-husband?
A. He told me that the children had shared with him what the children had gone through. And then he had told me that he understands, and that he doesn’t want the children nor me around David anymore; that he’s a bad guy. And -- you know. And to me -- you know.

Q. All right. So he was -- he was giving you information --
A. Yeah.
Q. -- about your ex-husband?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, what was your response to hearing that? How did you respond to that?
A. I was, like, wow, he understands.
Q. Now, had your kids ever told you that they had talked with him about David Arvizo?
A. No. That’s -- no.
Q. Did that surprise you that he had that kind of information?
A. Yes, but I believed him. I believed him. And maybe they did, maybe my kids did.
Q. What did he ask you to do on this -- in this telephone call?
A. That Gavin -- that he needed Gavin to do a press conference, and he could protect him.
Q. Did he say where he was calling from, Mr. Jackson?
A. Miami.
Q. And did he tell you where this press conference was going to be?
A. In Miami.

Q. Did he tell you what he wanted Gavin to say in this press conference?
A. No. I don’t remember.

Q. Did you agree that Gavin could go to Miami?
A. No.
Q. What did you tell Mr. Jackson?
A. Well, I told him that if my son is in danger, then me and my kids have to go.
Q. Did you ask him at any time if he contacted the police?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any discussion with him about what he was doing to remedy this problem, this problem of danger?
A. No, I just trusted him.
Q. And I believe that you said -- in your answer again to the question of whether your son would go to Miami, what did you say?
A. No.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; asked and answered.
THE WITNESS: I said no.
MR. ZONEN: I’ll withdraw the question. I’ll withdraw the question.
THE COURT: All right.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you come to an agreement with Mr. Jackson as to who was going to go to Miami?
A. Yes, my kids and me.
Q. And “my kids,” did you mean all three?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you want to do that?

A. Well, because if Gavin’s going to be -- you know, if there’s death threats, then I guess we all have to be together.
Q. Did he agree to that?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he say --
A. And actually, he’s the one that was going that route.
Q. All right. And that was my next --
A. Because I had told him no.
Q. That was my next question. Who is it who suggested that the whole family --

A. Him.
Q. You need to wait until the question is asked in its entirety.
A. Okay.
Q. Who was this that suggested that the whole family go to Miami?
A. Michael.
Q. Did you then agree to that?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he tell you when he wanted you and the -- and your children --
A. (Indicating) like that.
Q. You need to wait till the question is asked.
A. Okay.
Q. Did he tell you when he wanted you and your children to go to Miami?

A. Now.
Q. And by “now,” you meant immediately?
A. Immediately.
Q. All right. Was there some arrangement that was made either by Mr. Jackson or by some other person --
A. Him -- oh, sorry.
Q. -- or by some other person to get to you Miami?
A. Yes, Michael and Evvy.
Q. Did somebody contact you after the telephone call with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes, Evvy.
Q. Yes. What was the arrangement that you were going to have to get to Miami?
A. That Gary Hearn, his personal, like, driver, the person who takes care of his cars, was going to fly with us on a commercial air flight to Miami.
Q. And where were your children at the time of this conversation?
A. Okay. Davellin was in school. And the boys were not in school.
Q. Did you have to make arrangements to get Davellin out of school?
A. No, actually Gary went to go pick her up after school.

Q. And from where did he pick her up?

A. From -- from -- I don’t remember. I think it was -- I think it was my mom’s. I think he went to go pick her up from my mom’s or East L.A., one of those. Best person to ask that is Davellin.

Q. Do you know where you were at the time of this phone call from Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

Q. Where?

A. Our phone in East L.A. had been disconnected. And so I had received a message from -- from Evvy that they had to be able to make contact, so I was in Jay’s house.

Q. Where did that message come to?

A. What --

Q. The message that you received from Evvy was forwarded through whom?

A. It was both, Evvy and Michael, to Jay’s.

Q. To Jay’s house?

A. Yes, because I had no phone at that time.

Q. All right. Did you return a phone call --

A. Yes.

Q. -- or did they reach you there?

A. They actually -- it was a combination of everything.

Q. All right. Explain that.

A. They contacted me there, and I returned phone calls from there to Evvy.

Q. To Evvy.

A. Yes.

Q. And then Mr. Jackson personally called?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the conversation that both you and your son --

A. And Evvy had also left messages at my mom’s house before that.

THE COURT: All right, Counsel. Let’s take a break.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

(Recess taken.)

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

Q. Where we left off, you were talking about the telephone call from Mr. Jackson.

THE BAILIFF: Turn your microphone on, please.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

Q. Where we left off, we were speaking of the telephone call with Mr. Jackson and the arrangements for the trip to Florida before that. Let me ask you a couple other questions.

A. Okay.

Q. Had you been contacted prior to that phone call from Mr. Jackson in that early part of February by any member of the media or the press?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Had you personally been contacted?

A. What happened, this is how it happened: Two reporters -- they said they were two reporters. Who knows?

Okay. They had gone to my mom's house. My mom only speaks -- my mom only speaks Spanish. That's it. These two men, one of them was the speaker, kept telling my mom, “Gavin, cancer,” and speaking in English.

And the only two things that stood out in my mom, even though she knows only Spanish, like certain words mean something to her.

And so they said, “Gavin, cancer; Gavin, cancer,” and that stood out.

So my mom called me immediately, you know, “What's wrong with Gavin?” And she -- I go, “No, nothing's wrong, Mom. They're at school.” And she goes, “Well, there's two men here telling me about Gavin and cancer.”

And so she didn't know, so I thought maybe some -- some medical -- some --

Q. Let me stop you for a second.

A. Sure.

Q. This conversation was how long prior to the phone call from Mr. Jackson?

A. With -- I don't understand.

Q. The conversation with your mother about these two people who arrived.

A. Okay. They were still there while my mom was on the phone.

Q. I know. But this conversation was how long prior to your conversation with Mr. Jackson. Was it the same day?

A. It was -- it was within hours that Evvy contacted me next.

Q. All right. Now, are these the only two members of the press who contacted your family?

A. Yes.

Q. And anybody else from the media contact your family?

A. Oh, yeah. Afterwards.

Q. Afterwards?

A. Yes.

Q. But prior to your trip to Miami --

A. Prior to my trip, yes, that's it.

Q. Did you ever actually speak with these two people?

A. Well, my mom passed me the phone, and I spoke to him.

And he says, "We just happened to see your son in England." And I go, "No, if my" -- "I just dropped off my son at school. And if he's in England, he's in big trouble," you know.

And so -- and he was very vague. And I said, "You scared my mom. She only speaks Spanish, so please don't continue talking to her."

Q. Did you have an interview with either of these two people?

A. No.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. MESEREAU: The witness had not completed her response, I don't think, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. ZONEN: You call it.

THE COURT: Why don't you just ask another question.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you.

Q. Did you actually have a conversation with either of those two people over the telephone?

A. Yes. One of them.

Q. All right. Did that person identify himself by name?

A. I think his name -- he said, “I’m a reporter from England. I just flew in and I have to fly out immediately.”

Q. All right. Did he tell you what his name was?

A. I think it was -- I can’t -- I think it was Mr. Garner. I think that’s what it was.

Q. Garner or Gardner?

A. I think it was, yes.

Q. Did he tell you what publication he was with?

A. No, he just said, “I’m a reporter from England. I just flew in, and I have to fly back immediately.”

Q. Did he tell you that he wanted to have an interview with you?

A. No.

Q. Did he discuss any particular issue with you?

A. He was very vague. What he wanted was for me to meet -- to -- to have a conversation with him, and -- but because he was vague, I didn’t want to talk to him.

Q. Okay.

A. So I told him, “You’re scaring my mom. And that’s not my house, that’s my mom’s house. I live in Los Angeles.”

Q. All right.

A. And that was it.

Q. All right.

A. As best as I can recall.

Q. This was a telephone conversation from which phone?

A. From my mom’s.

Q. You happened to be there at the time of the call?

A. No, no. I’m over here in Los Angeles. My mom called me because she was scared, because these two guys were saying Gavin -- and a whole conversation. But the only thing that jumped out in my mom was “Gavin” and “cancer.”

Q. And then you called back from where?
A. There was no call back.
Q. All right. They called you when you were at your mom’s?
A. No, no.
Q. Tell us --
A. I was in Los Angeles. My mom was courteous and polite, you know. Handed her the phone, because I wanted to know what the nature of their visit, why they were saying “Gavin, cancer.”
Q. They were there in person?
A. Yes, yes. At my mom’s house.
Q. All right. Now, during the course of this conversation, did you discuss Michael Jackson at all?
A. No.
Q. Did they tell you they wanted to talk about Michael Jackson?
A. No.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE WITNESS: No. All they said was --
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: -- they had seen Gavin in England.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How long was this conversation you had with him?
A. Just minutes. With the information that I just told you, if you want to time it, it’s about that long.

Q. Was that the only conversation that you had with either one of them?
A. That’s correct.
Q. On this day, prior to going to --
A. That day, only day.
Q. Never had any conversation --
A. Never.
Q. -- thereafter?
A. Zero. Double zero.
Q. At some point in time, did your then boyfriend, Jay Jackson --
A. Yes.

Q. -- tell you that he had had conversations with reporters?
A. Now I know, per this investigation. I know a lot of things now per this conversation.
Q. Listen to the question, okay? On that day prior to your going to Florida, did Jay Jackson tell you that he had conversations with reporters?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any conversation with Jay Jackson prior to going to Florida about any reporters at all?
A. No.
Q. Were you aware -- did any other reporter try to contact you prior to going to Florida?

A. No.
Q. In the course of this conversation with this person, Gardner or Garner, did he mention anything about a documentary?
A. No.
Q. Did he mention to you anything about your child having been on television?
A. He had said, “I have just seen Gavin in England.”
Q. All right. And you weren’t certain what that meant?
A. Yeah.
Q. All right. Now, when you were speaking with Mr. Jackson on the telephone --
A. Uh-huh.
Q. -- did you ask Mr. Jackson about whether or not your child had been on television?
A. No, I didn’t ask him.
Q. You didn’t him ask that question?
A. No.
Q. Did he offer any information about that?
A. No, not really. He was vague.
Q. In the course of your conversation with Michael Jackson, did he mention anything about this documentary having --
A. He said only the Bashir --
Q. Listen to the entirety of the question.

A. Okay.

Q. Did he say anything to you about this documentary that had aired in England?

A. No.

Q. Did he mention the name of it, “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. No.

Q. Did he mention Martin Bashir?

A. He didn’t say “Martin Bashir.” He said “Bashir.”

Q. All right. Did you ask him who that was or what that was about?

A. No. Until Miami. I found out more things.

Q. All right. Now, you then flew to Miami, I’m assuming.

A. Yes.

Q. And with whom did you fly to Miami?

A. With Chris and the kids and me.

Q. Do you know -- and Chris is Chris Tucker?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how he became involved at this stage?

A. Evvy contacted him.

Q. Evvy contacted him?

A. Yes, but I didn’t know about this until I got to the sidewalk, which Gary Hearn had meet us, and he says, “Guys, there’s a change of plans,” and that was it.

Q. Did he then take you to a private --

A. No, he took us to Chris’s house, and we spent some time there in Chris’s house because we were waiting for Davellin to come. That’s when we flew on a private jet.

Q. All right. And did you know that you were going to be taking a private jet?

A. Not until Gary told me.

Q. And the private jet took you straight to where?

A. Miami.

Q. And once in Miami, did they take you to a hotel?

A. Yes.

Q. Which hotel did they take you to?

A. The Turnberry.
Q. Can you describe that hotel for us?
A. It looks like a Las Vegas kind of hotel, except --
Q. Is it fancy?
A. Yeah. Without the slot machines.
Q. Without the slot machines. All right. Now, did you meet up with Mr. Jackson when you got there?
A. No. No. We got right there until -- you know that time between -- before morningtime where it's really, really dark? That's the time we arrived.

So we went straight to -- dropped off Chris in his room, and then we went to our room. And our room was right underneath his room. And Chris, they had set him up in a completely different building, away from me and the kids.
Q. All right. And your -- were you in a suite of some kind?
A. It was a -- it was two rooms connected. You know, I don't know if you know the hotels where you lock it and then there's two separate rooms? Well, they had unlocked it.
Q. Excuse me. I'm sorry. And you were there with the three children?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, when did you see Michael Jackson after arriving?
A. In the daytime.
Q. Had you talked with anybody during the course of the trip about this danger that Mr. Jackson had spoken to you about?
A. No. No.
Q. When you got to the hotel, did you have a conversation finally with Mr. Jackson?
A. Yes.
Q. How long had you been at the hotel before you met up with Mr. Jackson?
A. Hours. Because we had arrived during that time and it was -- it was -- it was already the day of.

Q. Who else was present during the course of this conversation?

A. Okay. The conversation?

Q. Yes.

A. Just me and the kids and him.

Q. Did he talk with you about the issue of this danger to the children?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?

A. He spoke to all three of my kids and me, and he spoke in a very normal voice, very male voice. This is where I became aware that all three of my children were in danger. Told me to trust him, believe him, he’s a father figure, be like -- like a father to all three of my kids. Basically telling us he’s going to protect us, protect my kids; to do everything that Ronald and Dieter tell him, because this is what’s going to fix the problem.

He even had told me that he has read -- he knows what to do in this situation, because he’s read hundreds of books on psychology, and he knows -- he knows what to do in these kind of things, of what kind of frame of mind that these people that were threatening my children are. He had -- he had cried. I just thought, you know, what a nice guy, you know.

Q. Hold on one second.

This conversation took about how long?

A. Oh, gosh. About maybe a -- about 45 minutes.

Q. All right. Did you ask him specifically about the nature of the threats to your children?

A. No, I was just like -- I was just like a sponge, believing him, trusting him.

Q. Did he tell you the nature of the threats to your children?

A. Because of the Bashir thing.

Q. But did he tell you who these people were?

A. No.

Q. At any point in time did he say to you that the police were or were not being contacted?

A. No.

Q. Did he ask anything of you or your children while you were there in this meeting?

A. In this meeting, no. No.
Q. Do you know why you were in Miami?
A. To do a press conference.
Q. Did he talk with you about a press conference --
A. No.
Q. -- during this meeting?
He said something about Dieter and Ronald?
A. Yes.
Q. Were Dieter and Ronald people who you knew prior to that day?

A. No.
Q. Did you meet them that day?
A. Yes.
MR. ZONEN: All right. Your Honor, if I could approach the witness, please.
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I’m showing you two exhibits, if I can, No. 17 and No. 18 - all right? - in evidence. If you’ll take a look at No. 17, can you tell us who that is?
A. That’s Dieter.
Q. And do you know Dieter’s last name?
A. I’ve come to find out per this investigation.
Q. Just tell us --
A. Dieter Weizner.
Q. All right. No. 18, do you know who this person is?
A. Ronald Konitzer.
Q. And those were the Ronald and Dieter that --
A. Yeah. Those Germans.
Q. And, in fact, are they German?
A. Yes.
Q. How do you know that?
A. Because they told me, and plus they speak German.
Q. Spoke among themselves in German?
A. Yes, yes.

Q. Did you meet them that day?
A. Yes.

Q. Is there anything else that Mr. Jackson told you in the course of that meeting with him?

A. Oh, that he loves us; that he cares about us; that we're family; that we were in the back of the line, now we're in the front of the line, and because he's going to take care of us, protect us from these killers.

Let me see. What else?

That he's -- that he's not just a father figure to Gavin, to Star and to Davellin.

Let me see. What else?

And he's family to me and he's family to the kids.

Let me see. What else?

Q. Do you know if Mr. Jackson had ever had --

MR. MESEREAU: Objection. The witness has not completed her answer yet.

THE WITNESS: Oh, there's still more. When it pops up, I'll let you know.

THE COURT: Go ahead and ask your next question.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you know if Mr. Jackson had ever had such a similar conversation with your children?

A. With my kids?

Q. Yes. Prior to that day.

A. Prior to the Bashir thing?

Q. Yes, where he talked about being family.

A. Yeah. In the initial visit in August, in 2000, all his -- like, all his people, for example, Evvy was the No. 1 one that was pointing out that, "I want you to see Michael as like family, all" -- "We see him and view him only as a father figure," so --

Q. Do you know if Mr. Jackson has ever said something like that to your children prior to Miami?

A. Actually, in a conversation with Gavin over the phone, that's when Gavin had told me one of the conversations.

Q. All right. Did you then have conversations with either Dieter or Ronald?

A. Prior to this?

Q. No. I think you had said that you never met them prior to that.

A. Yeah, that’s right.

Q. After your conversation with Mr. Jackson, and he gave you some direction with regards to Dieter and Ronald, what specifically was it that he told you to do with Dieter and Ronald?

A. To listen and do everything they say, because they’re going to fix the problem.

Q. Now, did you then have a conversation with either Dieter or Ronald?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was it one or the other, or both?

A. Both.

Q. Was it at the same time or separately?

A. This was the same time.

Q. All right. And do you remember where you were when that conversation took place?

A. In Miami.

Q. Were you in the hotel?

A. Yes, in his room.

Q. In Mr. Jackson’s room?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson present?

A. Yes, he was. And he had sat me down, and he said, “Sit down right here,” and those two sat next to me.

Q. Okay.

A. And then Michael was there.

Q. Who did the speaking?

A. Who did the speaking first?

Q. Yes.

A. Because they were all speaking.

Q. Well, all right, that’s a valid point. Who is it who began the conversation?

A. Well, Michael.

Q. And what did he say when all of you were together?

A. He said, “This is Ronald and Dieter.” Because he had already had that 45-minute initial meeting.

Q. I understand.

A. And that’s the point where he had taken off the jacket and handed -- and physically placed it on Gavin.

Q. All right. Well, let me ask you about that for a second. This was in the hotel room?

A. Yes.

Q. On the first day of your visit?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was the date of the flight, actually; is that right?

A. Yeah, because we had arrived there right before --

Q. In the morning?

A. Yeah.

Q. Now, he was wearing a jacket during the course of this conversation?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And he took the jacket off?

A. Yes.

Q. And did what with it?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he do with the jacket?

A. It was kind of like a -- it was after he was done with the conversation. He took off his jacket, and then he put it on Gavin. He told me he wanted him to wear it and not to take it off.

Q. Was Star there as well?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Davellin there as well?

A. Yes.

Q. And both Dieter and Ronald were there at that time?

A. No, no. In the initial meeting with him?

Q. Yes.

A. Ron and Dieter were nowhere in sight of the hotel room.

Q. But at the time he handed your son his jacket, were either of them there?

A. No.

Q. Ronald or Dieter?

A. No.

Q. Now, let's get to the conversation when Ronald and Dieter are there.

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us what Ronald said during the course of that conversation?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; hearsay.
MR. ZONEN: Statement in furtherance.
THE COURT: (To the jury) All right. I'm allowing this particular testimony for purposes limited to possible conspirator statements. You may only consider it for those purposes in accordance with my earlier instructions.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I believe it was Ronald I had asked you about. Tell us what Ronald said during this conversation.

A. Well, in this conversation, all they wanted to know was basically of -- of who I am, where I lived, my brothers, my mother. Just basically information from me and the kids. That's all.
Q. Did you give them that information?
A. Yeah, I did.
Q. At some point in time -- and was that with Dieter, as well, during that conversation?
A. Yeah. Yes.
Q. Did they give you any direction?
A. No. There was just -- they were just, you know, wanting information about me and my kids. And I had seen nothing incorrect about that, or wrong, because, you know, we just had that powwow with Michael.
Q. Did either one of them in this initial conversation talk to you about a danger that your children were experiencing?
A. In this one, no. No, they were just like absorbing all the information that they possibly could have.
Q. They were getting information from you?
A. Yes. From me and my kids. About our past, our present.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson present during the entirety --

A. Yes.
Q. Please wait till the question's answered (sic) in its entirety.
A. Okay.

Q. Was Mr. Jackson there during the entirety of that conversation?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he offer any other information during that conversation that you haven’t told us about yet?

A. Best I can remember, no.

Q. How long did you stay in Miami?

A. Okay. Arrived there at that night, was there that day, that night they showed the “Living with Michael Jackson” thing, which I wasn’t allowed to watch, none of the children, and then the next day we left.

Q. All right. So you were there two nights?

A. Yeah.

Q. And then the next day you flew back?

A. Yes.

Q. Let’s go back to that first day. Now, you’ve described that first conversation that took place with your kids, Mr. Jackson, Dieter and Ronald.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did you have any subsequent conversations, any other conversations that day with either

Ronald --

A. No.

Q. -- or Dieter?

A. They were busy at work, I know now.

Q. But did you have a conversation with either one of them that day?

A. No. After that, after they absorbed all that information, no.

Q. All right. Now, the next day, did you have any conversation with either Michael Jackson or Dieter or Ronald?

A. Just almost -- almost the whole day that’s when we had stayed in Michael’s room.

Q. You were there in Michael’s room that entire time?

A. Yeah.

Q. All right. Did Mr. Jackson talk with you during the course -- was Mr. Jackson there during that day?

A. Yes.

Q. So he was in the room with you and your three children?

A. Yeah.

Q. For a good part of the day?

A. Well, the whole entire time, Michael was there with the kids.

Q. All right. Did you ever leave the hotel?

A. No, I never left the hotel.

Q. Had you ever been to Miami before?

A. Never been there.

Q. Did you want to go see the city at all?

A. No.

Q. Did you express a desire to leave the hotel?

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: No. I just wanted to focus there --

THE COURT: Just a moment. Just wait till I rule after there's an objection.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: Overruled.

You may answer.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Did you at any time leave the hotel during the two nights that you were there?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever leave your room during that time?

A. Yes, I did. When I was in Michael's room, and then that's the best I can remember.

Q. Did you ever go out to eat?

A. Well, the morning of -- Chris was eating with the kids. They were having breakfast. By the time I had gotten there, they were already done. So all I had was, I think -- please don't quote me on this -- I know a lemonade and I think a some cheese that they had, like samples.

Q. Did you leave your room to go to a restaurant at all?

A. No, except for that. When I had arrived, Chris and the kids were already leaving.

Q. Did you leave your room or Michael's room, Michael Jackson's room, for any reason during that time that you were there?

A. No, outside what I just told you, as best as I can remember.

Q. Did you at any time go to a spa?

A. Not me.

Q. Did other members of your family?

A. Yes.

MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.

THE WITNESS: With Chris.

THE COURT: Just a moment.

Overruled.

You need to slow down when I’m ruling.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Which members of your family went to a spa?

A. And I think that’s what it was, okay?

Q. Okay.

A. Because Chris wanted to go get a massage, so he took Davellin and Gavin and Star with him.

Q. All right. And did they have some type of service at the spa as well?

A. Yes.

Q. Why didn’t you go?

A. I was concerned. When are we going to, you know, take care of my kids from being killed?

Q. Did they talk to you about this press conference on the second day?

A. No, they didn’t.

Q. Neither one of them mentioned that to you?

A. No.

Q. Did they talk about anything that they wanted to do on this second day?

A. No. No press conference.

Q. Did you have any conversation with either Dieter or Ronald on this second day about anything?

A. Yeah, the -- the two papers. One that Ronald wanted me to sign that had nothing written on there, and then when I asked him, “What is it?”

“No, no, no. Got to hurry up. We’re running out of time,” and, “You want your kids to be killed.”

And so I signed it.

And then the next time was Dieter. Dieter had said that what Ronald did didn’t work. And he had a pre -- pre something, a paragraph that was pre-written.

Q. All right.

A. And then he, in my writing, asked me to write some things, and then he had me sign underneath that.

MR. ZONEN: Counsel? I showed you this earlier.

May I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I’m going to show you an exhibit numbered one -- excuse me, numbered 807 for identification, not yet in evidence.

Would you take a look at that document, please?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you recognize that document?

A. Yes. Not -- just my signature.

Q. All right. Is your signature actually on that document?

A. Yes. It’s actually in two different places.

Q. Do you have a recollection of signing that document?

A. Not with this on here, and not with this on here.

Q. All right.

A. And definitely I didn’t sign my name twice on the same piece of paper. And there was no line right here.

Q. All right. Well, let me ask you this question: Is any of that your handwriting; any of it?

A. Just my signature and my -- my printed name.

Q. So the printed name, the handprinted name, is your handprinting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the signature that’s above that is your signature?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. There’s a second signature. Is that yours as well?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, do you have a recollection at all of signing a document twice?

A. Not -- no, two different situation -- two different things. Two different papers.

MR. ZONEN: All right. Your Honor, I’m going to move this exhibit into evidence at this time.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: All right. It’s admitted.

MR. ZONEN: And may I publish this?

THE COURT: You may.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I’d like to read -- the very top part appears to be typed in. Would that be correct?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Let me read this to you out loud.

Oh, you can make it larger? Perfect.

“I confirm that Theodore Goddard is authorized by me to file this complaint on behalf of my son, Gavin Arvizo.” The date is Miami, February 7th, 2003.

Do you believe -- do you believe that you were in Miami on February 7th?

A. I think so.

Q. All right. Do you know who Theodore Goddard is?

A. No.

Q. Were you ever told who Theodore Goddard is?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever seen a document that had this sentence preprinted on it?

A. No, not when I was in Miami. Now, per you guys’s investigation --

Q. Stop right there.

That’s the signature that’s directly underneath it?

A. Yes.

Q. Put it down a little bit so we can get the top -- no, no, the other way. Yes. Just put it down.

We have it now with the signature that’s below it. And you’re telling us that that handwriting is yours --

A. Yes.
Q. -- and the signature is yours?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember a line being there?
A. No, I don’t.

Q. You didn’t draw a line in there?
A. No, I didn’t.
Q. And you have no recollection of a line being there at the time you signed it?
A. I have no recollection of a line being there.
Q. All right. Let’s move down.
Okay. “Mrs. Arvizo also learned that Davellin and Star have been on T.V. without her consent. Please act accordingly.”
And then there’s a signature. Did you sign that?
A. I didn’t sign that, but that is my signature.
Q. All right. The paragraph that says -- that begins with, “Mrs. Arvizo also learned…,” is that your handwriting?
A. No. That’s my handwriting -- that’s my printing up there.
Q. All right. And the --
A. There’s a difference.
Q. Okay. And that particular paragraph, have you ever seen that paragraph before?
A. Never.
Q. Now, do you have a recollection of signing any document twice?
A. On the same piece of paper? No.
Q. Did anybody ever talk to you about a lawsuit while you were in Florida?

A. No.
Q. Did anybody ever mention an attorney in England?
A. No.
Q. Did anybody talk to you about your being represented or your son being represented?

A. No.

Q. While you were there on this first day of conversations that you had with Dieter or with Ronald or with Mr. Jackson, did anybody talk to you about the presentation of “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. No.

Q. Did you at any time learn what that was?

A. Afterwards.

Q. All right. Now, you had mentioned earlier that there was going to be a showing of --

A. Yes.

Q. -- “Living with Michael Jackson”?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when that was presented in the United States, on what day?

A. No. When I was there with him all day --

Q. Yes.

A. -- that night.

Q. It was that night?

A. Yes.

Q. Of the first full day that you were in Miami?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Did you want to go watch that?

A. Yeah, I wanted to go see what has caused my kids to -- you know, all of a sudden there’s death threats on them.

Q. Now, you said “kids.”

A. Yeah.

Q. Earlier --

A. Yeah.

Q. Hold on, hold on.

Earlier, when you were in Los Angeles, you had mentioned that the threat was directed toward Gavin.

A. Yes.

Q. Did that change?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. What changed? Who told you that it had changed?

A. Michael.

Q. What did he say?

A. That now it was all three of my kids.

Q. All right. Mr. Jackson told you all three of your children were in danger?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now --

A. And that's where that whole 45-minute speech --

Q. When did you learn that there was going to be this presentation of a documentary titled "Living with Michael Jackson"?

A. After -- after Ronald and Dieter extracted all this information from me, then afterwards.

Q. Did you know what that was? Did somebody explain to you what that was?

A. No.

Q. Did somebody explain to you that your children were in it?

A. They had mentioned that my children were in it.

Q. Did anybody tell you the manner in which they were depicted in that?

A. No.

Q. Did anybody say anything about this documentary in terms of whether it was complimentary or not complimentary?

A. No. Zero.

Q. With whom had you talked about "Living with Michael Jackson"?

A. At this point, the initial meeting. Then the Ronald and Dieter with Michael. Afterwards, let me see, they kept pulling Gavin into -- Ronald, Dieter and Gavin (sic) kept pulling Gavin into a room by himself. I was thinking they're talking about the press conference. Then Michael kept pulling Gavin into a room all by himself over and over. So it was in the middle of the pulling Gavin into the bedroom.

Q. Okay. All right. Now, at some point you knew this was going to be on T.V.; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Yes. Who was it who told you it was going to be on T.V.?

A. Actually -- actually, I had overheard Michael with Ronald and Dieter talking. I overheard it.

Q. All right. But when did you first learn that your children were involved in this documentary?

A. When I overheard it.

Q. All right. So they had mentioned that?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, did you make an effort to go view it?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you know what time it was going to be on?

A. Yes. Because I overheard it.

Q. Did you, in fact, view it?

A. No, I didn’t.

Q. And why not?

A. Because when I ran down, Davellin had called me to the room and told me that Michael was angry, to, “Come now,” so I went back up.

Q. All right.

A. And then Michael had talked to me and told me he didn’t want me to see it.

Q. But he told you that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he say why?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask him why?

A. No, I just -- you know, I’m thinking, “They’re going to take care of my kids from these killers. I better” --

Q. Were you concerned at all about the content of that documentary?

A. It’s until afterwards, I found out.

Q. I’m talking about now in Miami.

A. In Miami? No. I was clueless.

Q. Did you make any questions or any inquiries as to how your children were depicted in that video?

A. Afterwards, yes.

Q. But in Miami.

A. In Miami, no.

Q. You didn’t ask either of the Germans?

A. No.
Q. And you didn’t ask Mr. Jackson?
A. No.
Q. And you didn’t watch it?
A. No, I didn’t.

Q. To this day, have you seen this documentary in its entirety?
A. Only the clips, the clips that the media elects to put on there, little clips.
Q. But you have not --
A. But this is now.
Q. But you have not watched it in its entirety?
A. No, I don’t want to watch it. Now I don’t want to watch it.
Q. From the beginning to the end, you have not seen it?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any other conversations on this full day that you spent the day in Michael Jackson’s hotel room with Mr. Jackson, that you haven’t told us about already?
A. With Michael?
Q. Yes.
A. No, no. Just that -- you know, the lovey-dovey 45-minute meeting.
Q. All right. Did you have any other conversations with Dieter or with Ronald?
A. No. After the lovey-dovey meeting, then the Ronald and Dieter meeting with him, and, no, afterwards, no. Well, this is the best as I can remember.
Oh, yeah, you know, when I came back up from the -- from that when I went down there trying to see the Bashir thing, so, yeah, I did.

Q. That conversation you’ve already told us about with Mr. Jackson, all right.
Now, the next day, did you have any conversations with Mr. Jackson?
A. No. No.
Q. All right. Did you head back to California?
A. No. Yeah, California, but not my home.

Q. Okay. Where did you think that you were going to be going when you returned?
A. Well, I figured I'm going back to my home.
Q. Did you ever have a press conference while you were there?
A. In Miami?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Did they ever explain to you why you didn't?
A. No.
Q. Did either Ronald or Dieter talk about an alternative to a press conference?
A. No.
Q. Did Mr. Jackson speak to you about an alternative to a press conference?
A. No.
Q. Did you make any inquiries of anybody as to why you weren't having one?
A. No. When I did start to ask questions now, that's when a lot of craziness started happening.

Q. All right. Well, specifically with regards to Ronald or Dieter, did you make any inquiries of them?
A. Yes, I did. And so -- and they basically would shut me down every time, because they're the ones taking care of everything.
Q. What do you mean by shut you down?
A. When I'd ask, you know, like why didn't we do the press conference, and it was like, "Arghh, you stupid woman," you know, and just -- it just -- it escalated.
Q. All right.
A. I -- go ahead.
Q. And their behavior --
A. Escalated.
Q. -- escalated?
A. Yes.
Q. Escalated in what way?
A. Well, do you want me to go all the way to the end?
Q. Just tell me what they were saying to you. What did they say to you?
A. That they know best. They're the damage control team. And you wouldn’t want to hear the way they said it.

Q. Tell us what they said. Tell us what they said to you.

A. Well, Ronald telling me that he could have me erased if I make him angry. Just different things like that.

Q. All right. Were you frightened by the things they were telling you?

A. Yes. They terrified me.

Q. Did you go back to Mr. Jackson and tell him?

A. When we initially got there to Miami, I talked to him, and his response was, “Do everything Ronald and Dieter tell you.”

Q. But during --

A. And that was it.

Q. During this period of time that you were at the Turnberry Hotel in Miami --

A. I --

Q. Hold on, hold on. You have to wait till the question’s asked.
During this period of time that you were in Miami, and during this period of time that you were having conversations with Ronald and Dieter and they were threatening you and saying things that were scary to you --

A. Not until we got at Neverland they did that.

Q. That’s my question.

A. Yeah.

Q. Did these conversations take place in Miami?

A. No, no. In Miami they were just, you know, ab -- extracting all the information possible.

Scaring me, that -- the scare was from other people, and getting -- acquiring those two signatures.

Q. Okay. So neither one of them had threatened you personally?

A. No, not in Miami.

Q. And you have mentioned that one of them called you a stupid woman --

A. Yes.

Q. -- while you were there. Who was there?

A. Actually, both of them, but Ronald did first.

Q. The other one did as well?

A. Yes.

Q. That was still in Miami?

A. No, no, this is in Neverland.

Q. All right. It’s back at Neverland.

A. Miami, they’re just like, you know, “Oh,” you know, “We’re here to help you, protect you, protect the kids.”

Q. Did you fly back with everybody else?

A. At first it wasn’t going to be like that.

Q. Did somebody talk to you about your flying separately?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. Big Mike, or his head security of traveling.

Q. Do you know his real name?

A. I don’t know his real name.

Q. Is that the name he goes by?

A. That’s what they were calling him, Big Mike, and he said, “I’m Big Mike.”

Q. Is he big?

A. Yeah, he is big.

Q. Okay. Is he the one who told you you were flying separately?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did you -- how did you understand your children would be flying?

A. Okay. He had -- he had called me and talked to -- to my room and told me that Michael didn’t want me flying back with my kids; that he wanted only my kids, and that I was going to have to take the next-day flight out with their security.

And I was like, “No.” And then he’s saying, “Yes.” And then I started crying on the phone, and because I’m -- you know, these are my kids, you know, “what’s going on?”

I expressed to him, I said, you know, remember how you wanted -- did I express to him -- I did, to Mike, Big Mike --

Q. Now, you --

A. -- my concerns.

Q. Did he then tell you you would be flying with everybody else, or did somebody else tell you?

A. No, Big Mike said -- after I started crying on the phone, and he says, “I’m going to talk to the boss, and I’ll see what I can do.”

Q. Did somebody then call you back?

A. And then Big Mike called me back and said then I could fly with the kids back to -- with Michael and just to stay quiet.

Q. Did you, in fact, fly with them back?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you know how long that flight was?

A. No, it was just hours. I don’t know.

MR. ZONEN: Would you put another exhibit tag on this, please?

Q. Do you remember who any of the other people were who were on that plane?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Tell us who they were.

A. Okay. Baby Rubba. Marie Nicole. All three of his children. Patty and Grace. A doctor that they called -- I now know per -- there’s a lot of things now I know per this investigation, but back then I didn’t know. I just knew him as Dr. Farsha. And my kids. Michael. Me. One flight attendant. And that’s the best I can remember.

Q. All right. Baby Rubba is who?

A. I’ve come to find out now that his name is Al, Aldo, but back then he was only known as Baby Rubba.

Q. Is he related to Frank?

A. Yes.

Q. Is Frank somebody you met prior to this time?

A. Prior to --

Q. Did you know who Frank was at this time of the flight going back?

A. I had initially met him in August of 2000. Okay. Then on this -- in the Miami trip, he didn’t even talk to me. Not once.

Q. All right. But -- let me ask you this question.

A. Okay.

Q. You met him in August of 2000. That was your first trip to Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. And he was there at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. He was introduced to you as Frank?

A. Yes.

Q. At some point in time, did you meet him in Miami? Was Frank there?

A. Yes, but he didn’t talk to me at all in Miami. Zero conversation.

Q. But you saw him there?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was he introduced to you as the brother of Aldo and Marie Nicole?

A. No, he wasn’t. It’s the children that told me that that was his brother.

Q. Prior to your going back -- I assume all three of your kids are on this flight.

A. Yes.

Q. And I assume all three of your kids are with you in the hotel --

A. Yes.

Q. -- in Miami.

A. Yes.

Q. Did Davellin go to New York?

A. Davellin?

Q. Yeah.

A. No.

Q. Was she on a shopping spree in New York with Marie Nicole?

A. Never.

Q. You’ve never heard about this, have you?

A. No. There’s a lot of things I haven’t heard, and they just pop up.

Q. Was Davellin a friend of Marie Nicole prior to Florida?

A. No.

Q. Had never met prior to Florida?

A. Never.

Q. Where did you think --

A. And in Miami, Baby Rubba and Marie Nicole were very -- like away from my kids. It’s until they went to Neverland that they were all, you know --

Q. Together?
A. Together, yes.
Q. All right. Now, where did you think this plane was going to go?
A. Well, I thought -- I just thought that maybe it was going to land in Los Angeles, and then, you know, I'm -- you know, and that's it.
Q. Did they tell you it wasn't going to Los Angeles?
A. No, they didn't tell me.
Q. How long did you think you were going to be in Miami when you flew to Miami?
A. Well, just enough to do the press conference - my kids are in school - and come back. That's it.
Q. Did you expect to be back after the press conference?
A. Yes. You know, take care of the problem, that's it.
Q. Excuse me just one moment.
Do you know what day of the week it was that you actually flew to Miami?
A. No, but it was a school day.
Q. It was a school day?
A. Because Davellin -- they had to wait till Davellin got out of school. And I had the boys, you know.

Q. And the next day that you were in Miami, was that a school day as well?
A. I -- yes, I believe so. I'm not sure.
Q. Had any arrangements been made to accommodate their absence from school?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any expectation that they were going to be absent from school for an extended period of time?
A. No.
Q. All right. When did you first learn you were not flying back to Los Angeles?
A. On the flight.

Q. Where did they tell you you were going to be going?
A. Neverland.
MR. ZONEN: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I show you Exhibit 808. Do you recognize what this diagram is?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. And what do you understand it to be?
A. The inside of the airplane.
Q. Excuse me.
Tom, do you have a pen that will write on that?
Do you have a recollection of where you were sitting at that time?

A. Yes. Some things are just burned in here.
Q. All right. So you know where you were sitting. Do you have a recollection of where Mr. Jackson was sitting?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have a recollection of where your children were sitting?
A. Yes.
Q. At different times during the course of this flight, did people get up and move around?
A. Baby Rubba, Marie Nicole were running all over the place. His kids were running all over the place.
Q. Anybody else?
A. The -- the flight attendant was very busy.
Q. She was very busy?
A. Yes, very busy.
Q. Take a pen, if you would, please. Here's -- let's do blue.
A. Okay.
Q. And if you could, put your initials in the seat where you were, please.
All right. And can you tell us where Mr. Jackson was seated?
A. I'll put his initials or --
Q. Put his initials.

Do you remember where Gavin was seated? Put

Do you remember where Star and Davellin were seated?

Shall we go on? Do you remember where everybody else was?

A. Yeah.

Q. How about Baby Rubba, where was he?

A. Okay, over here. That’s why they were -- can I write the rest?

Q. And Marie Nicole, yes.

A. And Paris and Prince. And --

Q. Paris and Prince being Mr. Jackson’s children?

A. Yes. And then Grace was right here.

Q. Grace is the nanny?

A. Yes. Patty’s right here.

Q. Is Patty a nanny as well?

A. Yes. And Farsha, Dr. Farsha, right here.

Q. Okay.

A. And the flight attendant all over the place.

Q. Okay. All right. Is this an accurate depiction of the interior of that flight?

A. Yeah. I guess.

Q. And are the names of the different people accurately depicted where they were sitting?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you, on -- at the bottom of this, just write your first name, right at the bottom, so we’ll know whose exhibit that is.

Good. Nice large letters.

All right. Your Honor, I’d move to introduce this Exhibit 808 into evidence.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It’s admitted.

MR. ZONEN: May I publish this?

THE COURT: You may.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: This is the interior of this exhibit; is that correct?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Okay. I’m going to hand you the laser, if I could, please. Press that little button right there.

A. Okay.

Q. Now, you’ve indicated by the names “Gavin” and “MJ,” “Star” and “Davellin” --

A. Yes.

Q. -- as your three children and Mr. Jackson; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you show us where “MJ” is?

That’s Mr. Jackson’s seat. And does that face directly ahead towards Davellin’s seat?

A. Yes, right there.

Q. And Gavin was next to him?

A. Yes.

Q. And that faces directly to Star’s seat?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. There is a “JJ” as we’re further to the right. Is that you?

A. Me.

Q. All right. And that would stand for?

A. “Janet Jackson.”

Q. Janet Jackson. Okay.

Okay. Now, which direction was that seat facing?

A. It faces in that direction.

Q. All right. You were not able to -- from the vantage point of where you were seated, you were not able to see --

A. And then not only that, they’re really, like, big in the back of me.

Q. The seats, you mean?

A. Yes.

Q. And you’re not hugely tall, are you?

Were you not able to see over the top of that seat, then?

A. Yes. They’re not like these chairs. They go past.

Q. It was up above your head?

A. Yes.

MR. ZONEN: All right. Let’s move that down. Yes, this direction.

THE WITNESS: And so do theirs, too. Not just mine.

MR. ZONEN: Perfect. Right there.

Q. Tell us where Dr. Farshshian was.

A. Yes.

Q. And he was facing you?

A. Yes.

Q. And Patty and Grace?

A. Right here.

Q. And let's move in the other direction. And we have what appears to be four people on that.

A. Yes.

Q. Would you describe that seat? What --

A. It's kind of like a couch.

Q. Okay. Are there armrests at all?

A. I don't remember that, but I just remember that it looked like a couch.

Q. All right. And the four of them were on that seat?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, there's another seat that's up above that --

A. Right here.

Q. -- what appears to be a couch. And who sat there?

A. I don't know.

Q. Was the stewardess seated at any time?

A. No, no, the stewardess always sat in the back, because Grace would get mad at her and throw her in the back.

Q. All right.

A. Like she had to be working, because -- and if you were not working, you go back.

Q. All right. Now, was there a person seated in that seat, the one that was directly above from where the couch is?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know if there was another person on the plane you don't recall?

A. I don't recall. But that's -- you know, I don't --

Q. All right. We can take that off, and if we could turn the lights back on.

Now, at some time while you were on that plane, did you see an event that caused you concern?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you see?
A. Um, okay. (To the jury) Please don’t judge me.
Q. If you could, just answer the question.
Tell us what it was that you saw.
A. (To the jury) Please don’t judge me.
At that time I was -- I hadn’t slept for so long. When everybody had fallen asleep -- and it was hours into the flight. I hadn’t gotten up, and so -- and I figured this was my chance to look and see what had -- what was going on back there.

So I got up, and that’s when I saw Michael licking Gavin’s head.
I thought it was me. I thought I was seeing things. I thought it was me.
When we got off the airplane and I asked my son, I asked him, “Are you okay?” He said, “I’m okay.” And that was it.
Q. Do you know if Gavin was awake or asleep at the time?
A. He was asleep at the time.
Q. How could you tell?
A. Because his head was on his chest.
Q. Okay. Where was Mr. Jackson’s arms at that time?
A. Like this.
Q. He had an arm around Gavin?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, I want you to describe what it was you saw. You said you saw him lick him. What part of his head?
A. Like this, over and over.
Q. All right. What part of his head was it?
Point to your head where it was.
A. Right here.
Q. Actually in his hair?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you mean the side of his head?
A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And you said, “over and over.” How many times did you see that?

A. It was just over and over.

Q. All right. Are we talking about a few seconds’ worth or a few minutes’ worth? What?

A. I couldn’t tell you.

Q. All right. Did you say anything to anybody --

A. No.

Q. -- at that time?

A. I looked around to see if anybody was awake, to see if anybody was seeing what I was seeing. And everybody was asleep, that I could see. Like I took a look at Patty and Grace, and I took a look at Farshshian. They were asleep.

Q. Did you say anything to anybody at that time?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever say --

A. I was never going to tell nobody.

Q. Did you say anything to anybody at any time about that event?

A. No.

Q. Who was the first person you discussed that with?

A. I didn’t discuss it with anybody until like way, way after, way after Neverland --

Q. Okay.

A. -- when Star had told me what he had seen.

Q. All right.

A. And then there was like -- everything went, like, backwards.

Q. Okay. Who was the first person that you told of your observation?

A. Me? I think it was the police.

Q. All right. So you had not told anybody about this --

A. No.

Q. -- until a conversation with the police?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember where in this flight that happened, where during the flight?

A. After everybody had gone to sleep.

Q. Could you tell me how many hours into the flight that was?

A. No. Everybody was just sleeping, that I could see.

Q. Where did you --

A. Even the flight attendant, she was like this. She was way, way at the end, and she was like this.

Q. Okay.

THE COURT: All right, Counsel. We’ll take our break. Is it time?

MR. ZONEN: No.

THE COURT: It’s not?

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: When did you learn what airport you landed in?

A. To this day, I still don’t know what airport I landed in. I just know it was near Neverland.

Q. Was it a small airport?

A. I couldn’t tell you, because the car -- as soon as we got off the airplane, the car was right there.

Q. Were you actually in a building when you got out of the plane or were you out on the tarmac?

A. I don’t know what “tarmat” is.

Q. The ground where the airplane --

A. Yeah, when you got off the airplane, there was that big old long car.

Q. So you were outside when you got out of the plane?

A. We got out of the airplane, and the car was there.

Q. You got into the car?

A. Yes.

Q. And you went to Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how long of a drive it was to get from the airport to Neverland?

A. My best estimate is less than an hour. Definitely less than an hour.

Q. Did you know where you were going?

A. Yeah. On the airplane, that's when I found out we were going to Neverland.
Q. Did you have luggage with you and --
A. Yes.
Q. -- and clothing and things like that?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay.
A. And I now know how to travel. Before I used to take just like everything, you know.
Q. All right. Now, when you got out of the plane and you went to Neverland, at some point did you go to a residence in Neverland?
A. Yeah, Michael's house.
Q. Where did you stay that night?
A. In one of the guesthouses.
Q. Do you know approximately what time it was that you arrived at Neverland?
A. Very, very late. Again, like before morning-time.
Q. Do you mean late at night or into the middle of the night?
A. No, past the middle of the night.
Q. So it's almost until dawn?
A. Yeah. And please -- also the time change. There's a time change.
Q. All right. So did you at that point go to bed?

A. No. He had us -- he had the car stop like way at the beginning, and then we all had to walk in the freezing night into Neverland.
Q. So you walked some distance to get --
A. Yes.
Q. Along the driveway?
A. Like the pathway.
Q. All right. And did you go straight to a cottage?
A. No. We went straight into the house. And then from the house, we got our -- all our bags, and then that's where my garbage bag was missing I had tied up to my red sports bag.
Q. So you had a plastic garbage bag --
A. Yes.
Q. -- that contained items?

A. With my stuff. And then I had put -- in the Turnberry bag, I had put my shoes inside there, my Timberland shoes, so they wouldn't dirty the rest of my stuff.

Q. There was a Timberland bag that I assume --

A. No, no. No, no. My Timberland shoes.

Q. I'm sorry, the Turnberry bag.

A. Yes, that I put my Timberland shoes in there so it wouldn't dirty the rest of my stuff inside the garbage white bag. It was one of those big ones that I tied really tight to my red bag.

Q. All right. Now, was that the only form of luggage that you brought with you when you went to Miami?

A. Me personally.

Q. So all of your stuff was in a garbage bag?

A. Yes, plus the red bag.

Q. Plus the red bag. But the red bag was a Turnberry Hotel bag?

A. The red bag was my bag.

Q. It was a separate bag that you had with you?

A. Yes. And the white garbage bag was tied to the handles of my red bag.

Q. Okay. All right. And that --

A. I mean so tight that you have to -- I don't know when you -- if you know, but when you tie a plastic bag so tight you can't untie it anymore, that's how tight I had it.

Q. It was not there when you got to Neverland?

A. No. No, it wasn't.

Q. And you had possessions inside of that bag?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you report that to anybody?

A. Yes, immediately. I told Jesus, and then Jesus contacted Chris.

Q. Chris was --

A. And then he told -- Michael became aware. And Michael said, "It's okay. We'll replace everything in there."

Q. Okay. You told Chris. You told Jesus.

A. Jesus.

Q. Jesus is Jesus Salas?

A. Yes. And Jesus then contacted Chris. And then they also looked all over in the hotel, that maybe some --

Q. Where did you stay that night when you finally went to --

A. Neverland, in the guesthouse.

Q. Where was Davellin?

A. In -- in one of the guesthouses.

Q. All right. Where were the boys?

A. With Michael.

Q. Do you know where with Michael?

A. In -- now I know, okay.

Q. At the time did you know where they were?

A. At the time, no.

Q. You knew they were in the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever walk into the house during the nighttime?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever make an effort to contact either of the boys while they were inside the house?

A. No.

Q. Did you take your meals inside the house?

A. Me?

Q. Yes. During this time?

A. During -- yeah, you need to specify. During -- prior to leaving with Jesus, in the kitchen area.

Q. All right. Now, when you got there on this -- at this hour, you spent the night there and presumably woke up and left your room the next day.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have a sense of what time that was when you finally came out?

A. I think it was -- I think it was mid-morning. I think it was morning, mid-morning.

Q. Was Davellin with you?

A. No, Davellin was with Marie Nicole, Baby Rubba.

Q. Did Davellin stay the night in your room?

A. Not in my room. In a guesthouse.

Q. In a different guest cottage?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you know where Marie Nicole or Aldo stayed, or Baby Rubba?
A. Oh, Marie Nicole stood in the room -- they have a bed over there above the theater. There’s a bed. That’s where she slept. And Aldo and the boys, they slept with Michael.
Q. Were you expecting to go back to Neverland?
A. No.
Q. Did anybody --
A. It wasn’t until in the flight did I find that out.

Q. Did anybody ask you if you would go back to Neverland?
A. No, nobody asked me.
Q. Did you want to go to Neverland?
A. No, I needed the kids -- like I told you, they were in school. And I just -- just do this press conference, take care of this, and that’s it.
Q. Had they talked about some press conference? And by “they,” I mean either Ronald or Dieter or Michael Jackson.
A. No.
Q. Now, once you were back at Neverland, did you see either Ronald or Dieter?
A. Yeah. Not immediately. The next day, Dieter came. Ronald came days after, like I think a day or two or something like that. I’m not quite sure. But it was Ronald the next day, and then Dieter afterwards. I mean -- I apologize. Dieter first. Then Ronald.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson there during that few days afterwards?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did you stay at Neverland before you finally left?
A. Well, I stood until Jesus helped me.
Q. All right. I’d like to show you an exhibit, if I may.

Is this in evidence?
(Off-the-record discussion held at counsel table.)

MR. ZONEN: Madam Clerk, let me just confirm that 405 is not in evidence.
THE CLERK: It is not.
MR. ZONEN: Not? Not in evidence.
May I approach the witness, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Showing you an exhibit at this time for identification not in evidence, No. 405, I'd like you to take a moment and read it, if you would, please.
A. Okay.
Q. It's a full page. Take your time to go ahead and read it to yourself.
A. Okay.
Q. When you're done, just set it down.
A. Okay.
Q. You have completed reading this; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Do you know who Bell Yard is?
A. No.
Q. Does this appear to be a press release?
A. I don't know.
Q. All right. Are you quoted in this document?
A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever made those quotes?
A. No.
Q. Did anybody ever interview you as to the content of this document?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever seen this document before?
A. No. Right now.
Q. This is the first time you've seen it?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. It's attributed to Janet Ventura-Arvizo; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. The date is Sunday, the 9th of February, 2003?
A. Yes.
Q. Did anybody contact you on that date about releasing any kind of a press conference -- a press release?

A. No.
MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, I would move to introduce 405 into evidence.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Hearsay; no foundation.
THE COURT: I don’t think there is a foundation. I was looking. It was identified on March 2nd, but I can’t recall who identified it.
MR. ZONEN: It was Ann Gabriel, I believe. Let me withdraw the introduction of this until we can do this at another time, for the convenience of the jury. We can debate the issue at that time.

THE COURT: That would be good.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: How many days did you stay at Neverland?
A. I can’t remember. Until Jesus helped me.
Q. Give us a sense of it. Two days? Five days?
A. No.
Q. Do you have a sense of it at all?
A. No, I don’t have a sense of it.
Q. Okay. And you say that Jesus helped you leave?
A. Yes, he did. And he got into it before that.
Q. Hold on. Listen to the question that I ask and only answer that question, if you would. Okay?
A. Okay.
Q. Now, did you ask anybody to -- did you ask anybody to take you back to Los Angeles before going to Jesus?
A. No.
Q. Did you express to anybody a desire to leave Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. To whom did you --
A. To Ronald and Dieter.

Q. To Ronald and Dieter?
A. Yes.
Q. Was Mr. Jackson present during the entirety of that time?

A. Yes.
Q. For the period of time until Jesus took you --
A. Yes.
Q. -- home? When you asked Ronald and Dieter to leave, what did they tell you?
A. That I had -- no, because I had to do the rebuttal.
Q. Ahh, all right. A rebuttal?
A. Yes.
Q. Was this the first time that you had any information about a rebuttal?
A. Right on.
Q. All right. And who was it who first spoke to you about a rebuttal?
A. It was Ronald and Dieter.
Q. Together?
A. Yes. First it was Ronald. And then it was Dieter, and then it was both, and they -- you know, they took turns.
Q. You had multiple conversations with them?
A. Yes. But Dieter, before Ronald, was preparing us for that.

Q. Okay.
A. Which I didn't know.
Q. What do you mean, preparing for you that?
A. They had this -- this thing that I guess -- they had extracted all the information from us. It was like a script.
Q. They got information from you. Do you mean about your family?
A. Back in Miami.
Q. All right. But --
A. And whatever else they did.
Q. Did anybody ever talk to you about a rebuttal while you were in Miami?
A. Never.
Q. So it wasn't until you got to Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was the first one to broach that subject with you?
A. Dieter.

Q. Did Michael Jackson talk to you about doing a rebuttal?

A. No. When I spoke to him, he said, “Do everything that Ronald and Dieter tell you, and it will fix everything.”

Q. Did you have any conversation back at Neverland with Michael Jackson at all?

A. The initial -- when I first got there, I expressed it to him, and he said, “Do everything that Ronald and Dieter tell you to do.”

Q. What he had previously said in --

A. Yes.

Q. -- Miami --

A. Yes.

Q. -- he said again?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you express to him your concerns at that point about Ronald and Dieter?

A. No.

Q. Did you have concerns about Ronald and Dieter at that point?

A. Yes. It escalated towards the middle-end.

Q. What did either one of them tell you about this rebuttal? What did they tell you that was going to be?

A. In answer to -- in answer to everything of the “Living with Michael Jackson.” They were concerned about how he looked. They weren’t concerned about my children, me, anything else. Only him.

Q. Did they explain to you what the rebuttal had to do with your children’s safety?

A. Yeah, “That” - this is another phrase - “that would appease the killers.” I heard that so many times here, it’s just --

Q. All right. Somebody actually used the word “killers”?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Him. Michael. Ronald. Dieter. Later on, Frank, Vinnie. And you know what? They ended up being the killers.

Q. All right. I want you to listen to the question that's being asked, and only ask that question -- answer that question.

A. Okay.

Q. Answer this question only, all right? Now, who was the first person who mentioned to you "killers"?

A. Michael.

Q. Where was that?

A. That was in Miami.

Q. Now, the rebuttal, did you know what you were doing a rebuttal to?

A. On all -- the answer to the questions of this "Living with Michael Jackson," Martin Bashir.

Q. Now, you hadn't seen it; is that correct?

A. I hadn't seen it.

Q. Did somebody explain to you the content of that?

A. No. They just -- it was a script, and that was it, and expressed -- worked with us daily, numerous times, on what to do, what to do in between the outtakes, what to do before, and that's it.

Q. Who was it -- who talked to you about a script?

A. Dieter.

Q. Did he show you one?

A. Yes.

Q. Something in writing; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he present this script to you that you were actually able to read it?

A. Yes.

Q. What types of things were on the script?

A. Just glowing things about Michael.

Q. Did he say to you why glowing things about Michael would protect your children?

A. Yeah, "That that would appease the killers."

Q. All right. Now, did you tell them that you would do this rebuttal?

A. No. Prior to Jesus, it was a no.

Q. And why did you say no?

A. Because I told them, "What's wrong with the truth?" And that's it.

Q. All right. Now, did you --
A. I had no problems saying something nice, you know.
Q. Did they tell you --
A. But when I had a 45-minute powwow when I got there, I believed everything he said.
Q. Did they tell you that this rebuttal would have not just you, but your children in it?

A. At Neverland?
Q. Yes.
A. Yes.
Q. So who was it who told you that the rebuttal would feature all of you?
A. Ronald and Dieter.
Q. Why did you go to Jesus?
A. Because after asking them to leave so many times and they wouldn’t let me leave. And then they were all working on a positive PR for Michael. They also wanted to point out how they were doing things for the mother and the kids. It was -- they were going to use it -- it went back and forth, and then they were going to use it in lieu, like -- also, like, they don’t think that they were going to put out there. They’re crazy.
So that was --
Q. You don’t remember the question, do you?
A. No.
Q. I don’t either.
A. I thought there was --
Q. Why did you go to Jesus?
A. To help me.
Q. Okay. And did you talk to him about helping you?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. And in what language did you speak with him?

A. I spoke to him both in English and Spanish.
Q. Why is that? Why did you speak in Spanish?
A. Well, because I was very concerned about anybody hearing.
Q. What did you ask Jesus to do?
A. To help me leave, me and the kids.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. He says -- because I had told him that they weren’t letting me go. And he says that, “No one should ever be held if they don’t want to stay there.”

Q. And did you leave?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. All right. Now, during that period of time that you were at Neverland before you left with Jesus, did you go anyplace out of Neverland?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you go?

A. Ronald and Dieter said, like I told you about Michael’s positive PR, and they wanted to show that he’s doing things for the mother and the kids. And, you know, so -- they had me so wrapped up. I believed everything they said.

Q. Miss Arvizo?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did you go?

A. Okay. I went to, like, a beauty place. And, oh, but get this.

Q. Miss Arvizo?

A. I’m paying for it.

Q. Miss Arvizo?

A. That’s right.

Q. Where did you go?

A. Okay. I went and got my legs waxed.

Q. Okay.

A. And the key thing there --

Q. Hold on, hold on.

A. -- I’ll pay for it, because it was in replacement of my things.

Q. All right. I want you only to answer the question that’s asked of you.

A. Okay.

Q. I want you to listen to the question that’s asked. Would you do that?

A. Sure.

Q. Okay. You went to a beauty salon of some nature; is that right?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Did you have a body wax?

A. No.
Q. All right. You had your legs waxed?
A. Yes.
Q. What else?
A. That’s it.
Q. All right. Whose idea was it to do that?
A. Ronald and Dieter.

Q. How did they come up with a beauty parlor?
A. Because they wanted to show that they were doing something for the mother. Positive PR.
Q. Okay. Now, you said you paid for it.
A. Yes.
Q. In what way did you pay for it?
A. Because I -- I told them, “The only way I’m going to do that is if you deduct that from the things that were lost or stolen.” Who knows?
Q. Okay.
A. In replacement of that.
Q. Was that agreed to?
A. Yes.
Q. All right.
A. They said, “Okay.”
Q. Who is it who took you there, to a location?
A. Chris.
Q. It was Chris Carter who took you there?
A. Yes. And then their little surveilling people.
Q. There were other people that came with you?
A. Yes. Yes, their little surveilling filming people.
Q. Where were your children during that time?
A. With Michael.
Q. Did you --
A. The boys were with him, you know.
Q. Did you return back to Neverland?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. Okay. Was that the day that you left?
A. I think it was, because I figured, you know what? That’s it. That’s enough. They got their positive PR, and now maybe I can go.
Q. You went to Jesus?
A. No. After, the Germans are following me every single place.

Q. Then you went to Jesus?

A. I waited till they fell asleep, and then I went to Jesus.

Q. Did Jesus agree to take you off the property?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Did he drive you and your children home?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did you go?

A. To my mom's. They had me scared about going to my mom -- to my own place.

Q. What did they tell you about your place?

A. That the killers had been there, that it had even been broken into. I believed everything they said. Now -- now I don't.

Q. This is the Soto Street residence?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Did -- did you ask Jesus to take you to your parents' place?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he, in fact, take you there?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell either of the two Germans, Dieter or Ronald, where your residence was?

A. The East L.A.? Yeah. Oh, they took care of all of that in Miami. Found out every detail.

Q. They knew where the Soto Street residence was?

A. Yeah. And plus, you know, Michael knew before that.

Q. Okay. He had picked up your children from that residence?

A. Yeah, and I had lived there for almost already five years.

Q. All right. Now, when you went to your mother's residence, you stayed there how long?

A. I can't remember. But I remember Frank convincing me that it's too scary to stay there. And I figured my parents are old, and so I went to Jay's house.

Q. With your children?

A. With my children.

Q. All right. Did --

A. But I still didn't want to go back to Neverland.

Q. So you went to Jay's house?

A. Yes.

Q. And you stayed there for approximately how long; do you know?

A. I don't know.

Q. Were you getting any telephone calls while you were at either your mother's house or at Jay's house?

A. Yes, a lot.

Q. From whom?

A. From Frank. And then Michael had called once and spoke to the boys, and to Gavin.

Q. Mr. Jackson?

A. Yeah. At this point, I think he's still a --

Q. Mr. Jackson phoned personally?

A. Yes.

Q. Was this at your mother's house or was this at your --

A. My mom's house.

Q. Do you know how long after you returned from Neverland it was that Mr. Jackson called your mother's house?

A. Almost immediately. And spoke to both boys. And then to Gavin. But Frank, oooh, all of the time.

Q. You say "all of the time." What does that mean?

A. Oh, gosh, a lot.

Q. What was he saying?

A. That he loves us, Michael loves us, and, you know, loves -- he wants to protect us. I'm in so much danger, me and the children. Just -- just everything in those kind of topics.

Q. Did he describe the danger?

A. Yeah, he said that, "You don't know, Janet. We're receiving constant death threats here about the children." You know, I believed him.

Q. And he was telling you this in your conversations?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. All right.

A. But there was so many conversations.

Q. When Mr. Jackson actually phoned --

A. Yes.

Q. -- did you talk with him at all?

A. No. No, Frank had already done the legwork for him, let him know.

Q. The question was only whether or not you had spoken with Mr. Jackson.

A. No.

Q. When you went to Jay Jackson’s home, this is the one on St. Andrews Place?

A. Yes.

Q. In mid-Wilshire in Los Angeles?

A. Yeah, he has a -- had a one-bedroom apartment.

Q. Did the phone calls continue there?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you calling Frank back? Was he leaving messages? Were you returning his call?

A. The ones I returned, probably maybe -- at that time, before returning to Neverland? I think maybe -- maybe once. Once or three times. Very -- definitely less than five. The rest were all him.

Q. Did you believe there was a danger to --

A. And that’s maybe.

Q. Did you believe there was a danger to your children at that time?

A. Yes, I believed them.

(To the defendant) I believed you.

Q. Did Frank, in any of his conversations with you, tell you who it was who posed a danger to your children?

A. No. The killers, you know.

Now when somebody knocks, I say, “Okay, it’s either a subpoena or a killer.”

Q. All right. Did he ever discuss any other matters with you over the telephone?

A. Yeah. Yeah, how much that Michael loved the kids and me. And then about doing this video. And I had told them no, because Dieter and Ronald had scripted it, and so they wanted us to say exactly what they wanted us to say for -- what they wanted us to exactly say.

Q. During this period of time that you were back in Los Angeles - all right? - after Jesus drove you away from Neverland, did the kids go back into school?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because I really believed them. I did.

Q. Believed that there was what?

A. Killers.

Q. Danger?

A. And then afterwards, I came to find out from Mr. Davie that honestly no reporter ever came to my children’s school.

Q. Were you dealing with reporters at all during this period of time after you came home?

A. When I came home, all I saw was my mom’s tables filled with offers, filled with different offers. Vacation, money, cars. You name it, it was there. It was there.

And so before I had gone to my mom’s, Ronald, Dieter, Michael had filled my head that there was reporters all over the place, and the killers were, you know, every place I was. I really believed them.

And so when I got my to mom’s and saw the table filled, you know, I thought they were telling the truth.

Q. Hold on. Now, the table was filled with what, documents?

A. Yeah.

Q. What kind of documents?

A. Letters. Different letters making offers, making -- for a story, interviews.

Q. With you?

A. With the children, with me, or both.

Q. All right. Did anybody actually call and contact -- and talk to you while you were there?

A. The phone was ringing like crazy, so I would pick it up and pretend it wasn’t me, you know, just in case it was one of my parents' family members, because my mother's mother has Alzheimer's, so my mom and her sister, or a combination, they take care of her, so, you know --

Q. All right. Did you have an opportunity to look at any of those documents?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. All right. And I think that you said that there were offers amongst them?

A. Yes. Yes, there were.

Q. Offers for money?

A. Money, cars, vacations. Just you name it.

Q. Any of them contain dollar amounts?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. How much?

A. One was 100,000 cash.

Q. To do what?

A. To give a story about Gavin.

Q. All right. Did you assume that it was a story about Gavin with regards to Michael Jackson?

A. Yeah. They were very clear on what they wanted. There was -- the only people that were vague was those two reporters way in the beginning.

Q. Okay. But these offers dealt --

A. They were very clear.

Q. In other words --

A. And some were just, you know, "Basically we want to talk," that's all. Not all of them. Some of them were just, "I want to talk." That's all.

Q. Did you call any of these reporters?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you have a telephone conversation with any of these reporters?

A. No.

Q. Did you communicate --

A. Other than the one that said Gavin and all that stuff.

Q. I understand. Did you communicate with any reporters to the extent of telling them that you were willing to do a story --

A. No.

Q. -- and accept payment?

A. Huh-uh, huh-uh.

Q. Did you accept payment from any reporter?
A. No.
Q. Have you given a story to any reporter?
A. No.

Q. And to this day have you?
A. Till this day.
Q. Do you have any arrangement to do a story at some time in the future?
A. No.
Q. Do you intend to give a story?
A. Huh-uh.
THE COURT: Is it time for a break?
MR. ZONEN: I believe so.
THE COURT: Let’s take one.
(Recess taken.)
THE COURT: Go ahead.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Miss Arvizo, I’ve been asking you about a series of phone calls that --
THE BAILIFF: Turn on the microphone, please.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Miss Arvizo, I’ve been asking you about a series of telephone calls that you received from Frank, and I asked you, I believe, if anybody else had called you about this same issue. Your answer was what?
A. About --
Q. About this matter of returning back to Neverland.
A. Yeah, Michael.
Q. And, okay, anybody else beyond that?
A. Beyond Frank?
Q. Yes.
A. No.

Q. Did he ever talk about any other matter other than that issue, the danger to the children returning to Neverland --
A. Yeah.
Q. -- and the rebuttal?
A. Yeah. And also, you know, about the media, that they were all bad people. And, you know, they -- they made me believe that.
(To the audience) I think different of you guys now. That -- that’s what they made me believe about you guys, but, you know, you guys are basically good guys, too. You guys are the good side. It's okay.

Q. Miss Arvizo, at some point in time, did you have an opportunity to listen to a tape-recording of one of those telephone calls?
A. Yes, I did. Yes.
Q. Were you aware that one of those telephone calls was actually tape-recorded?
A. No, I wasn't aware.
Q. Do you recall who it was who played that tape-recording for you?
A. The D.A.'s Office at the grand jury.
Q. All right. Was it just prior to the grand jury that you heard it for the first time?
A. It was right prior to the grand jury.
Q. All right. And was it played during the grand jury?

A. It was played during the grand jury.
Q. And you had an opportunity at that time to listen to that tape-recording in its entirety, did you not?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Do you remember what specific phone call that was?
A. It wasn't one specific phone call. It was many conversations, and the masters of choreography blended it all into one tape.
Q. I want you to just answer the question that I ask you, all right?
It was more than one telephone call; is that true?
A. Yes.
Q. How do you know that?
A. Because I'm the one talking.
Q. You simply remember that it was --
A. That, and also the key thing such as, you know, my being at my mom's, being at Jay's, there's a difference. My children all not being there, and then Gavin being there. Just different little clues. Since I was the one talking, I knew.
And also, one key thing. The original phone number that -- that Frank had given me was very different than the conversation that ended up being on the tape. And that -- that number was actually towards more over here rather than in the beginning.

Q. I’m not certain I understood that. There was --
A. There were many conversations blended onto one tape and made as if it was only one conversation. So you’re going to hear a series of different conversations all blended into one.
Q. You said there was a phone number that Frank gave you. What did that mean?
A. That phone number, the 201 number, was not the one that was originally given to you, it was a different number, that’s why I know.
Q. 201 being the area code?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you dial that number to talk to Frank?
A. No. Not at that time.
Q. At any time during this period while you were in Los Angeles, before returning to Neverland?
A. Okay. Before returning to Neverland, I’m seeing -- I’m being generous. Maybe if -- maybe less than three, less than five. And I --
Q. Less than three, less than five what?
A. Of if I ever returned a phone call.
Q. You think you might have returned --
A. I may. I may.
Q. You might have returned a phone call to him?
A. Yes.
Q. And perhaps as many as three or five?
A. And I’m guessing one.

Q. Do you have --
A. But, yeah -- after.
Q. Do you have a specific recollection of ever returning a phone call to him?
A. I don’t remember. It was -- because he was calling so much, there was no need for me to return a phone call --
Q. All right.
A. -- at that period.
Q. Was he leaving either voice mail messages or answer phone messages when he called?

A. At that time, I was picking up the call, and there was also some phone messages.

Q. Did you -- can you give us a sense of how many conversations you were actually having with Frank in any given day?

A. With Frank? Okay. On the -- oh, God, no, I can't.

Q. Was the subject of the video, doing the rebuttal, was that something that was frequently discussed in those phone calls?

A. This is when he was pulling me back in.

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, we have marked -- we have marked Exhibit No. 809 as a tape. Actually, it's on the form of a CD that we would like to play at this time.

(Whereupon, a CD, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 809, was played for the Court and jury.)

MR. ZONEN: Your Honor, we have a transcript, and we will furnish a copy of that transcript tomorrow morning.

BAILIFF CORTEZ: The microphone, sir.

THE COURT: Again.

MR. ZONEN: We have a transcript of that tape as well. We will furnish the Court a copy of that transcript as a separate exhibit tomorrow morning.

THE COURT: All right.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Ms. Arvizo, you've now listened to this tape. Is this, in fact, the same tape that you previously listened to?

A. Yes.

Q. And you have listened to this tape as well during the course of the grand jury hearings?

A. Yes.

Q. You believe that this is a compilation of a few telephone calls?

A. Yes.

Q. What were your feelings about Frank at the time of these phone calls? What did you think of him?

A. Well, I -- I thought he was a good guy. And he ended up being the worst one out of all of them.

Q. At the time of these telephone calls, you had trust in him?

A. Yes, because he was repeating the same things. Not identical, but he was repeating the same things that Michael had told me in the Miami thing; that we were family. He had said that family never leaves family behind.

Q. Did you believe that to be the case?

A. I did. I believed him.

Q. Michael Jackson you had only met on one previous occasion?

A. That’s right. But because he was going -- I knew violence, and so when he presented to me that there was a violence to my son and my kids, I thought, you know, what a nice guy.

Q. Did you believe Frank with regards to the things that he told you in these telephone calls?

A. I’m sorry, what did you say?

Q. Did you believe Frank’s representations to you during the course of these phone calls?

A. Yeah, I did. I did.

Q. Did you believe that you would be sheltered from the Germans if you returned?

A. No, I didn’t return until he told me that they were fired. I believed everything he said.

Q. What did he tell you specifically about the Germans?

A. That Michael had them fired. He found out how they were treating the kids and me, so that Michael fired them.

Q. He asked you on a few occasions during these telephone calls if it would be okay to post a 24-hour guard outside your home.

A. Yeah.

Q. Is that the case?

A. And I said no.

Q. Did you tell him no repeatedly?

A. Yes. There was many conversations.

Q. Did you ever have a guard posted outside your house?

A. Never.

Q. Why did you turn that offer down?

A. Because I didn’t want my parents to know. I had always hidden everything from my parents.

Q. You didn’t want your parents to know what?

A. Because I didn’t want them to get scared, because they’re older. I’ve never told my parents about anything. I mean, they barely know now many things.

Q. All right. Now, I think you said that there was never a guard that came; is that true?

A. That’s right.

Q. When did you decide to return back to Neverland?

A. When -- when Frank convinced me.

Q. In the tape, he mentions a couple times about doing a video. Is that the rebuttal video that you referred to?

A. Yes. And every time I said no.

Q. On one occasion in here, you do tell him that you’d be willing to do that, do you not?

A. Yeah, as long as it’s not a script, because the Germans wanted to me to say exactly what they dictated.

Q. Were you willing to say something at that time that was positive --

A. Yes.

Q. -- about Michael Jackson?

A. I was.

Q. At that time, did you have anything to say about Michael Jackson that was negative?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell him you’d be willing to do that?

A. Yes.

Q. You have references in this interview, or, excuse me, conversation or conversations about Michael Jackson and Frank being family.

A. Yes.

Q. What was that about?

A. Because I believed him.

Q. I’m sorry?

A. I believed him.

Q. And Frank was also making those representations to you?

A. Yes. I wanted friends so bad.

Q. You wanted friends?

A. I did.

Q. And why is that?

A. Because David always told me nobody loved me.

Q. You had talked about David with Frank on these conversations, did you not?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you tell him everything that had happened with regards to --

A. He already had known. I was just gathering. (To the defendant) I was still trying to help you.

I was gathering paperwork to prove of David committing these crimes on me and my kids and my animals.

Q. You were gathering up paperwork for what purpose?

A. To give it to you.

Q. You need to address the question only.

A. Michael.

Q. Why were you gathering up paperwork for Mr. Jackson?

A. Because David was interview after interview and after interview; so they could know that he’s a liar.

Q. All right. You need to explain this to me. David is David Arvizo --

A. Yes.

Q. -- your former husband?

A. Yes.

Q. You say he gave interview after interview after interview?

A. Yes.

Q. With whom?

A. With different reporters. This is what Ronald and Dieter had told me.

Q. And somebody had spoken to you about the interviews that David Arvizo is doing?

A. Ronald and Dieter did at Neverland.

Q. And what did they say to you about those interviews?

A. That David was talking bad stuff about me and the children.
Q. About you and the children?
A. Yes.
Q. All right.
A. And about Michael.
Q. Did somebody ask you to gather up paperwork about David?
A. No, I was just trying to help.
Q. And why did you gather up paperwork for them about David?
A. Just the paperwork, the restraining orders, everything that the court had given me.
Q. What was your purpose for doing that?
A. Well, so that we can have proof that this -- everything that this man is saying from his mouth is untrue. David.

Q. What time was it during the day or evening that Jesus Salas drove you back to your parents' house?
A. I think -- I don't know. Maybe about one-something a.m.
Q. It was in the early morning hours?
A. Yes. About 1:15.
Q. Did you talk with Michael Jackson before being driven back to your parents' house?
A. No.
Q. During the entire time that you were in Los Angeles, either at your parents' house or at Jay Jackson's residence, were the phone calls continuous during that time?
A. Yes.
Q. What finally was it that caused you to decide to return to Neverland?
A. When Frank had said that Michael had fired the Germans.
Q. Was there an understanding about whether or not you would be doing a video once you got back?
A. No.
Q. You hadn't talked about that?
A. No. At that point, no. It was just --
Q. What was your belief about whether or not you would be doing a video?

A. There was -- there was none. He had said that I didn’t have to do it after all.

Q. Did you express to him some reservations about doing it?

A. No, he -- I had told him that the Germans wanted to dictate exactly what we wanted to say, so I was -- I told him no.

And so afterwards, towards when -- the end, Frank had said that, okay, that I didn’t have to do it at all, me and the kids.

Q. Did you go back to Neverland?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you know approximately what time of the day or evening it was?

A. The daytime. Gary came for us.

Q. Before going back to Neverland, did you have an interview?

A. Yes.

Q. With whom?

A. With Brad Miller.

Q. Did you know who Brad Miller was?

A. No.

Q. Had you ever seen him before?

A. No.

Q. Was it prearranged that you would have an interview with him?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And who had arranged that?

A. Frank.

Q. Now, you were still in Los Angeles; is that right?

A. Yes. In Jay’s apartment.

Q. And how long prior to that interview was it that you had arranged it or Frank had arranged it with you?

A. Hours.

Q. So it was the same day?

A. Same day.

Q. Did he tell you the purpose for this interview?

A. Yeah. He had called me like in a state of panic, and he was telling me, “Quick, Janet, quick.

We need you to talk to Bradley Miller because he’s a P.I., and he just saw” -- “he just saw David make contact with the killers.”

And then he’s -- he told me about how important it is to say nice things about Michael and that Michael was going to protect me and the kids.

Q. Did you believe it?

A. I believed it.

Q. Did you feel the kids were in danger at that time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Why did you agree to have an interview with Brad Miller?

A. Because I believed him.

Q. At which location was this interview?

A. In Jay’s apartment.

Q. And did he arrive by himself, Mr. Miller?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did he identify himself to you?

A. Yes, he did. Michael’s P.I.

Q. He told you he was a P.I.?

A. Michael’s P.I.

Q. You’ve had an opportunity to listen to a tape-recording of that interview, have you not?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Do you recall at some point during the course of that interview him turning the tape off?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know why?

A. I had walked in for that second, and then I had walked back out right after he had turned it back on, and he said that -- that -- here’s that phrase, to say nice things about Michael, because that would appease the killers. That phrase is burned in my brain.

Q. And were you in the room during the entirety of that interview?

A. No. I kept coming in and out, because Jay in the beginning, he was kind of like very -- now he’s softened up, but before, he was very military, very -- everything had -- everything was organized, everything was -- his things were his things.

And so I noticed that he was kind of getting a little upset, because he was walking back from the -- from the living room where we were at into his bedroom, so I was kind of nervous that he was getting upset, so --

Q. So you were checking on him periodically?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Do you know how long that interview went?

A. It -- I since have seen the transcript to it, and it shows an ending time, and the ending time is inaccurate. It's incorrect.

Q. What do you think is the length of that interview?

A. The length of the interview from when he was there is -- it's about an hour, a little over an hour, but the time that it has on the transcript doesn't reflect that.

Q. Did Mr. Miller explain to you why he was there?

A. Yes. For what Frank had said. The same purpose.

Q. Did he give you any instruction as to what to say before turning on the tape-recorder?

A. Yeah, he fed us. Sometimes we would rewind, stop, rewind, stop. And so he was feeding us, but everything I said, I said it with my heart.

Q. All right. And you said nice things about Mr. Jackson, did you not?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you believe those things at that time?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. You would have said those things even if he hadn't rewound the tape-recorder?

A. That's right.

Q. Did you then go back to Neverland?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did Mr. Miller talk to you about going back to Neverland?

A. No, he didn't.

Q. Who was it who made the arrangements for you to return to Neverland?

A. Frank.

Q. Do you know if that was the next day?

A. That was the next day.

Q. When you got back to Neverland, what did you see?

A. And another thing, too, that I seen, which I wasn't that correct on, I noticed that there is -- the only way I can know this is because when Chris Carter brought me back, immediately the phone -- the phone stuff was subpoenaed, so on the day that I used Chris Carter's phone is the day that --

Q. We're jumping ahead of ourselves.

A. Well, okay. I feel the date may be incorrect also. But the only reason is because I found out afterwards of that phone call.

Q. We're going to get there. We're going to get there.

You're back in Los Angeles. Who is it who brought you back to Neverland?

A. Gary Hearn.

Q. Did you go with your children?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you know what time it is, approximately, that you arrived at Neverland?

A. I think it was the afternoon.

Q. What did you see when you got there?

A. Ronald and Dieter.

Q. Did that surprise you?

A. Minutes -- minutes into being inside the house.

Q. Which house?

A. Michael's house.

Q. Did you go to his house soon after arriving at Neverland?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see if Michael Jackson was there?

A. Yes. I saw him. He went straight to my kids.

Q. And where did your kids go?

A. With him to his office.

Q. All three of your kids?

A. Yes. And then I saw Davellin, and then she went back in. But they were in his office.

Q. Did you speak with Mr. Jackson at the time that you arrived?

A. No.

Q. Did you see the two Germans, Dieter and Ronald, immediately?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do when you saw them?

A. I knew now that Frank had been lying to me the whole entire time.

Q. What did you do when you saw them?

A. I told them that I had an emergency and I have to go back home, me and the kids have to go back home.

Q. And who did you say that to?

A. I said it to Ronald and I said it to Dieter.

Q. What did they say?

A. They said no, I couldn't; that the kids have to stay. If I have an emergency, I can go, but the kids had to stay. And that at this point is when they had pointed out to me that my outside phone calls are being monitored, that I'm being watched, listened to, and they can make my kids disappear.

Q. Was this the first time --

A. And that anybody -- anybody I told -- and at this time I'm like, what am I going to tell? That we're walking across the grass? You know, what am I going to tell? And that anybody that I told, their life was going to be in danger.

Q. Did you make a decision at that time as to whether you would leave?

A. Yes.

Q. What was that decision?

A. Because that's the only way I could get out, because the other time it took -- it took a long process for me to leave. And this time, Jesus had told me he couldn't help me.

Q. What was that decision that you made? To leave?

A. To leave.

Q. To leave, all right. Did you speak to anybody else other than Ronald and Dieter about leaving?

A. Yeah, well, Jesus, I asked him for help. We went from the -- from the video place, tried to talk -- I tried to talk secret with him in Spanish because I was talking to him in English and that’s when Dieter had walked up, and then I -- and then I tried to talk to him in Spanish.

And we went to the train station, and we went up -- up to the -- way up on the top, and I tried to talk to him, plead for him to help me, and he said he couldn’t help me anymore, because when I had -- when I had left, the whole house turned into chaos.

Q. Did you ask him specifically to take you back to Los Angeles?

A. Yes, I did. Me and the kids.

Q. He told you no? What did he tell you?

A. That he couldn’t; that to ask Chris for help, because he doesn’t know, and -- and I found out that everybody was on a need-to-know basis; that not unless they stumbled upon the problem or they were pulled into it, other than that, everybody was clueless.

Q. Okay. All right. Did you go talk to Mr. Carter?

A. Well, what happened was, when -- I was going to look for him, but I didn’t have to -- have to look for him, because I happened to see him, so -- and that was Jesus’s advice.

Q. Did you know Chris Carter from a prior visit?

A. Yes, from when I was there. He’s Michael’s personal bodyguard.

Q. Was he somebody who had been nice to you in the past?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Did you go up and ask him if you could leave?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask him if your children could as well?

A. I did mention it to him, but that’s when I seen the Germans again, so I completely, you know, “pshooo,” played it off; it was just an emergency.

Q. Did he say he would take you?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did you leave?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you leave with your children still at Neverland?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you do that?
A. Because I did. Because of the reasons that I just told you.
Q. Now, you mentioned earlier that in the drive back to Los Angeles, you used Mr. Carter’s cell phone?
A. Over and over. And I used the phone inside your car.
Q. Who were you calling?
A. Calling Jay over and over. But -- and I was praying in the car. And --
Q. Were you scared?
A. Yes.
Q. What were you worried about?
A. That they were going to make true on everything that they had said.
Q. Were you able to reach Jay on the telephone?
A. No.
Q. Where did Mr. Carter take you?

A. To Jay’s.
Q. And did he drop you off there?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall at approximately what time you arrived?
A. Oh, I don’t know, but that -- that telephone call is -- you could see it on the subpoenaed phone record.
Q. Whatever time that is would be the time that you were in the vehicle?
A. That’s the time. That’s the time.
Q. Do you remember how many phone calls you made to Jay during that time?
A. A lot of them.
Q. At one time during the course of this phone conversation or conversations that we just listened to, Frank mentions a trip, going someplace; says you’ll be dancing every night. Do you remember that conversation?

A. Yes, I do.
Q. Did you have more than one conversation with Frank about going someplace?
A. Yeah. They wanted us to leave the country.
Q. Did they tell you where they wanted you to go?
A. Well, this is in Neverland, when I -- and I found out that they were monitoring my phone calls inside Neverland. They had first mentioned Austria.

And so I had mentioned it to -- to Jay, I think it was Jay, over the phone, and then they came in hollering, because nobody was supposed to know. Then they found out that I had -- that I knew Spanish and was a Spanish-speaking country, and the end result was Brazil, so I knew that they wanted me out of the country since then.
Q. All right. They were talking about going to Brazil?
A. Yes.
Q. They’d actually begun that conversation prior to Jesus taking you out?
A. Prior to Jesus.
Q. And during the phone calls that you had with Frank, did he mention that?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he mention it more than once?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he mention it often?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he ever mention locations other than Brazil?
A. No. It ended up being Brazil.
Q. Did he tell you why he wanted you to go to Brazil?
A. At first -- everything -- everything evolved. At first, it was to keep me and my children safe from the killers. Then -- then it just evolved into that, into -- and one of the maximum points was until they had damage-controlled everything for you.

Q. No, you need to address us, okay?

A. I mean for Michael. And it escalated to that there was no definite time of return, until they fixed everything for you, for Michael.

Q. Now, at some time after you came back to Jay’s residence, at some point around that time, did you become aware of the fact that the Department of Child & Family Services wanted to talk with you?

A. Immediately.

Q. Do you remember if that was before or after you went back to Neverland?

A. When Chris Carter brought me back, immediately like that, so then I said yes, I’m going to use this as an excuse to get my children out; that I need them for that.

Oh, they went into high gear now, more.

Q. Hold on. We’ll get there. We’ll get there, okay?

Now, who was it who called you from the Department of Child & Family Services?

A. On the phone I spoke to three ladies at three different times, because I was trying to meet with the Child Protective Services by myself, in their office, because I figured -- because I believed what the Germans had said. So I figured, you know what? Maybe inside their office, you know, it’s going to be safe to express to them that my children are still there and they’re not letting them out.

Q. Did you ask somebody among them if you could interview with them at the office?

A. Yes, and they said no. They were not helpful.

Q. Who is “they”?

A. Karen Walker. LaVerne. And I think -- I don’t know whether it’s Jackie or Yvonne. She goes by two --

Q. There were two people that you had spoken with?

A. Three.

Q. All on the telephone?

A. Yes.

Q. Same conversation or different

conversations?

A. Different conversations, because I couldn't make them aware over the phone that - because I believed that my phone calls were being monitored - that they were over there.

Q. Did you know why they wanted to meet with you?

A. No.

Q. Did they tell you why?

A. No.

Q. Did they tell you whether or not it had something to do with Michael Jackson?

A. No. They said that it -- that they would let me know in the meeting.

Q. All right. Did --

A. They didn't let me know of any allegations till the meeting.

Q. Did not discuss this video, the "Living with Michael Jackson"?

A. Nothing.

Q. Were you aware, prior to your meeting with Child Protective Services or, as they call it, their Department of Child Family Services, whether or not that meeting had something to do with this documentary "Living with Michael Jackson"?

A. Not until they had the actual meeting.

Q. Okay. Now, did you tell anybody at Neverland about the fact that you'd been contacted by representatives of the Department of Child & Family Services?

A. Yes. I had called the administration office. I had called -- I had called -- I had called Jesus. Jesus did not return a -- not a single phone call of mine. And the administration offices, their business offices did not return any of my phone calls. And then so there was contact made between Frank and me.

Q. All right. Now, Frank then called you back?

A. Yes. I don't know whether he called -- I can't remember this fact, but maybe by the phone records you can.

Q. Okay.

A. I don’t know whether they told him to call me or I called him. I don’t know. But at that point I was completely desperate.

Q. Did you -- did they -- by “they” I mean the people from Child -- the Department of Child Family Services, DCFS, did they request of you to have your children present during that interview?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they tell you that that was necessary?

A. Yes; that they have to see them themself.

Q. All right. Did you communicate that to Frank?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell anybody else that; that you needed to have the children there?

A. No, that’s all. My one conversation was now only with Frank.

Q. All right. And tell me about the conversation that you had with Frank about this interview with DCFS?

A. I’m sorry, did you say --

Q. Did you have a conversation in particular with Frank?

A. No, not “a.” Many.

Q. Many, all right. Do you remember any of these conversations?

A. Yeah. That -- I mean, my kids, because of this meeting.

Q. What was Frank telling you during that time?

A. At first, it was no, unless I do the video. Then it evolved into -- it evolved into more.

Q. Well, what more? I mean, what specifically was he telling you about the video and the children?

A. Well, it evolved. Right before the video, it evolved into that if I did a good job, I wouldn’t have to leave the country.

Q. At some point in time did you agree to do a video?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did somebody say to you that the video needed to be done before the interview?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that?

A. Frank.

Q. What specifically did he tell you about that?
A. That I had to do it.
Q. You had to do it before?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Now --
A. The meeting could not take place prior to the video. The video had to take place prior to the meeting.
Q. Do you have a recollection at this time of the dates that these particular events --

A. Yes.
Q. In other words, if I were to ask you specifically the date of the initial phone call from the Department of Child Family Services.
A. Oh, no, that I wouldn't be able to tell you. I need your help on the phone records.
Q. Do you know the date?
A. But I know it was like that, immediately.
Q. Immediately after you returned?
A. Yes, with Chris Carter.
Q. Do you know the date that was scheduled for the interview?
A. Yes, that I do. The 20th.
Q. And what day was that? The 20th?
A. The 20th. I --
Q. And do you know what day of the week that is?
A. I think that was a Thursday. I think. I think so. I -- I think so. Thursday and the 20th go together in my mind.
MR. ZONEN: If the Court will once again take judicial notice that the 20th -- I'm sorry, I gave you my calendar. I believe it is a Thursday, but could the Court check and perhaps we could take notice of that.
THE COURT: Thursday is the 20th.
MR. ZONEN: It is a Thursday, then.
MR. MESEREAU: May I just see it for a second?

MR. ZONEN: He doubts you?
MR. MESEREAU: Thursday is the 20th. Thank you. So stipulated.
THE COURT: All right. Is this a good place to stop?

MR. ZONEN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Is it time to stop?

Okay. We’ll stop. See you tomorrow morning at 8:30. Remember the admonitions.

JANET JACKSON
Having been previously sworn, resumed the stand and testified further as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION (Continued)
BY MR. ZONEN:
Q. Miss Arvizo, good morning.
A. Good morning. How are you?
Q. When we left off yesterday, we had been talking about the interview with Brad Miller that took place at your then boyfriend’s house, Major Jackson; is that correct?
A. Yes.
THE BAILIFF: Is your microphone on?
MR. ZONEN: Yes. Just need to be closer, okay.

Q. When was it that you returned back to Neverland after that interview?
A. The next day.
Q. And did you return back with your children?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you have an understanding about that with Frank?
A. Yes.
Q. When was that conversation? When did that conversation take place?
A. Every day, many conversations. Even on that day, the next day.
Q. Was there a conversation with Frank after the interview with Brad Miller?
A. Yes. Even during.
Q. Even during?
A. Yes.
Q. Did he call during that?
A. Yes, he did.
Q. And did you speak with him during that?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. Tell me about the understanding that you had with Frank about returning to Neverland.

A. That the Germans had been fired, and -- and me and the kids were coming back, and we didn’t have to do the video at that point.

Q. And that’s when you went back to Neverland; is that correct?

A. That’s when I went back.

Q. Now, there was going to be a DCFS interview; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was going to be on the 20th?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell us about the conversation that you had with Frank about the rebuttal video.

A. Okay.

Q. And specifically in time after you had learned that there was going to be an interview with your children with DCFS.

A. First, he had told me, no, that he wasn’t going to bring the two kids back. It evolved and that made me very stressed. And then he says the only way they’ll bring back the kids if I do the video. And then it evolved into that I wouldn’t have to leave out of -- leave the country.

Q. You were already having conversations with Frank about leaving the country?

A. Oh, yeah, that had been since --

Q. And had the location of where you were supposed to go already been resolved?

A. Yes, Brazil.

Q. Brazil? All right. You then went back to Neverland, you’ve already described. And then you then turned around and went back to Los Angeles; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, the rebuttal video took place where?

A. At Hamid’s house.

Q. Can you tell us when it took place?

A. The 19th until the 20th, like past 11-something at night, all the way into the a.m. hours.

Q. The 19th of February being a Wednesday, I think we've already established.
A. Yes.
Q. So it was late at night?
A. Yes.
Q. Into the morning hours?
A. Yes.
Q. Where did it take place?
A. In Hamid's house.
Q. And Hamid is who?
A. His personal videographer.
Q. Had you met Hamid before that day?
A. I don't think so.
Q. Do you know Hamid's last name?
A. Moslehi.
Q. Moslehi?
A. Yes.
Q. How did you get to Hamid's house?
A. Vinnie drove me.
Q. Do you know where Hamid lives?

A. And that's the first time that I met Vinnie.
Q. That's the first time you met Vinnie?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know where Hamid lives, or at least lived at that time?
A. No. I just know we drove a long way, and I met -- they said something about San Fernando Valley, but I really don't know where he lives.
Q. Do you know how long it took to drive from Jackson's apartment to Hamid's residence?
A. No, I couldn't tell you.
Q. Could you describe Hamid's residence to us?
A. Yeah, I can.
Q. Go ahead and do so.
A. He has a bedroom. Rest room. The dining area, but he had -- to me, I assumed it was a dining area, but he had, like, some kind of table there, and then this open area and the kitchen. But everything's, like, in -- open.
Q. All right. Now, were your kids there?
A. Yes.
Q. Were they there when you arrived?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you know how your kids got there?
A. My understanding is that Hamid took them there himself.
Q. All right. And you say somebody named “Vinnie” took you; is that right?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you know Vinnie’s last name?
A. Amen.
Q. A-m-e-n?
A. Yes. Yeah.
Q. All right. You had never met Vinnie before?
A. No.
Q. Did he introduce himself to you in some fashion?
A. Well, actually, Frank did the introduction before.
Q. Frank did the introduction in person?
A. No, no, no. No. Frank, over the phone, told me about Vinnie.
Q. All right.
A. And then Vinnie had shown up.
Q. So you knew in advance somebody named “Vinnie” was coming?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Frank tell you who Vinnie was?
A. Yes.
Q. What did he say about Vinnie?
A. That he’s one of Michael’s people.
Q. Did he arrive with anybody else or by himself?
A. By himself.
Q. Do you know approximately what time it was?
A. It was about -- I don’t know. My best estimate, probably about 11:00.

Q. Do you know why this video was done at Hamid’s house in the San Fernando Valley?
A. Yeah. I didn’t want to go back to Neverland.
Q. Did you say that to somebody?

A. Yes, I said it to Frank.

Q. All right. Now, at the video at Hamid’s house, tell us who else was present.

A. Oh. In Hamid’s house, Brad Miller’s there, on top of the film crew, Hamid, Vinnie, and Frank continuously on the telephone.

Q. All right. So Miller was there, Brad Miller?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he already there when you arrived?

A. Yes.

Q. Hamid, I assume, was already there?

A. Yes. My kids.

Q. Vinnie came with you?

A. Yes.

Q. Your three kids?

A. Yes.

Q. Anybody else that you can recall?

A. Yeah.

Q. Who else?

A. Christian. The one who’s asking the scripted questions.

Q. Christian was there?

A. Yes.

Q. Were either of the Germans there?

A. No. No Germans.

Q. But there were scripted questions?

A. Yes.

Q. Were these questions that you had already seen?

A. Yes.

Q. And who had shown them to you?

A. Dieter.

Q. And when was that?

A. In Neverland.

Q. Was that prior to your leaving Neverland?

A. Yes. Prior to leaving with Jesus. And it continued afterwards with Frank on the phone.

Q. So Frank went over the questions as well?

A. Yes.

Q. What essentially was it that they wanted you to say?

A. Basically he's a -- you know, a father figure, everything in an answer to this Bashir thing.

Q. All right. But what specifically was it that they asked you to say?

MR. MESEREAU: I'm going to object to the word "they" as vague.

THE COURT: Just a moment, please.

Sustained.

MR. ZONEN: I'm sorry, I didn't hear.

THE COURT: The word "they."

MR. ZONEN: Oh, yes, that's fine.

Q. Let's start with Frank. Tell us what exactly it was that Frank wanted you to say in this video.

A. What I got in trouble for or what I ended up actually saying?

Q. No, no. Tell us, in advance of doing this video, what was it that Frank wanted you to say on this video?

A. That he's a wonderful father.

Q. Did he use the word "father"?

A. Yes. Basically, in summary, that he's a wonderful father.

Q. Now, with regard -- in regard to his own children or in regards to your children?

A. To my children.

Q. Did you feel that that statement was accurate?

A. I was confused. I was confused, and I was sad at that moment.

Q. What was your confusion?

A. Well, because I -- I -- as things evolved, I ended up finding out who were the bad guys.

Q. I'm asking you, now that you had this conversation with Frank --

A. I was confused with him, because I still believed his initial meeting in Miami. But I was still -- and I was sad and confused as to why everything was happening. I didn't know why.

Q. Did you, in fact, say on the video that you thought he was a father figure to your children?
A. I think so. Many times. In different ways.
Q. Did you mean it when you said it?
A. I was confused. I was sad. So basically I was acting.
Q. What would you have been willing to say on his behalf at that time if you had not been given a script?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; calls for speculation.
MR. ZONEN: Relevant for her state of mind.
THE COURT: Overruled.
You may answer.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Do you understand the question?
A. Yes. Nice things.
Q. Nice things like what?
A. Nice things of everything; that I believed him in the initial meeting that he had told me in Miami.
Q. Up to this point, had you had any reason to be concerned about Mr. Jackson?
A. No. I was just sad and confused.

Q. The incident that you saw on the plane returning --
A. Yes.
Q. -- him licking Gavin --
A. Yes.
Q. -- was that something that you were thinking about at the time of this video?
A. No, I --
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; leading.
THE WITNESS: I thought it was --
THE COURT: Sustained.
Just a moment.
The answer is in, but I’ll sustain the objection. Next question.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: What was your thought process with regards to that licking incident?
MR. MESEREAU: Objection. Leading; foundation.

THE COURT: Based on her answer to the question that I sustained the objection to, I'll sustain this objection.

MR. ZONEN: All right.

Q. Did you have any concerns about Mr. Jackson at all during the course of that video?

A. I said I was confused and I was sad, and that's it. And the prior incident on the airplane, that had already been out of my mind.

Q. Did they talk to you about how you would dress for this video, or makeup, or anything like that?

A. No.

Q. Did you do all that on your own?

A. No. Right there, inside the -- when I had arrived there, Vinnie had told me to go ahead and put some more on, and -- but Frank -- and that was per Frank's instructions to Vinnie.

Q. Hold on a second.

A. Because Vinnie had given him like an update to how I looked.

Q. Now, did somebody talk to you in advance of your going to Hamid's house --

A. Yes, yes, at Jay's house.

Q. You have to let me finish the question.

A. Oh, okay.

Q. Did somebody talk to you in advance of your arrival at Hamid's as to how you should dress, how you should wear your hair, or how you should wear makeup?

A. To put on makeup, because usually I don't put on makeup.

Q. And who was it who talked to you about that?

A. Frank.

Q. And that was over the telephone?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have any further discussion with anybody at Hamid's house about makeup or hair or dress?

A. Well, Vinnie had given Frank an update as to how I was. And then Vinnie, per Frank's instructions, told me to put some more on.

Q. Some more what?
A. Makeup.
Q. How about clothing, who made the decision as to what clothing you would wear?
A. Nobody.
Q. You made that decision on your own?
A. I just -- yeah, yeah.
Q. Do you know what time that video started?
A. I think it was about -- I think it was about 3:00 a.m. I'm not sure.
Q. Do you know what time it was that you arrived at Hamid's house?
A. No. It was already the a.m. hours.
Q. What time did you -- what time was your meeting with the Department of Child & Family Services?
A. It was scheduled at 9:00, and -- but it started around 10:00.
Q. And you're talking about the next morning?
A. Yeah. And I hadn't slept all night.
Q. All right. The -- the video then ended at approximately what time?
A. I wouldn't be able to tell you. I wouldn't be -- but it was definitely -- it was already morning, a.m. hours.

Q. Did you have any sleep at all that night?
A. Zero. Zero sleep.
Q. Before the video, did you have a conversation with anybody over the telephone?
A. Before the video?
Q. Yes.
A. Yeah.
Q. With whom?
A. With Vicky Poderevski.
Q. How -- tell me how that came about.
A. Brad Miller dialed the phone, his private investigator. And he handed it to me, and this woman was on the phone.
Q. Did he tell you in advance that he was dialing that number?

A. No.

Q. Did he tell you in advance who he was calling?

A. No. And that was scary.

Q. When he -- so the first time you knew you were getting on the phone with somebody is when he handed you the phone?

A. Yeah, he dialed the number and handed it to me.

Q. Did he tell you who the person was?

A. No. Zero.

Q. Or why he wanted you to talk to this person?

A. No.

Q. And the person at the other end of the line identified herself as who?

A. Vicky Poderevski, an attorney for Michael Jackson and Geragos.

Q. And what did she tell you?

A. I came to find out per the investigation now, but this is what they told me then.

Q. I'm asking you what you understood at the time --

A. Okay.

Q. -- not what you've learned since.

A. Okay.

Q. All right? At the time of this conversation, what did Miss Poderevski tell you?

A. That she was an attorney for Michael Jackson and Geragos.

Q. And what did she recommend to you?

A. She recommended that she be present at the CPS meeting.

Q. And what did you say?

A. "No."

Q. Did she talk to you about who would pay her bill at all?

A. No.

Q. Was there any discussion about payment?

A. No.

Q. Why did you say no, if she was offering her services?

A. Because I -- in the past, I had spoken to, not these same exact people, but a different department -- same department but different group of people, and different city. And they were nice people.

Q. And that was in --

A. Actually, it was a person. Nice person.

Q. When was that?

A. That was when David had been arrested. They had sent someone from that department. But totally different city. Totally different building.

Q. All right. But your experience with them was what at the time?

A. It was positive. And you know what I liked about her, is that she was concerned about my kids, not me.

Q. You’re talking about the prior experience?

A. The prior one.

Q. All right. Did you have concerns about the meeting the next morning?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What were your concerns?

A. That my children were going to be taken away from me.

Q. Did somebody tell you that?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Vicky.

Q. Did you, in fact, have somebody present with you at that time?

A. At the CPS meeting?

Q. Yes.

A. Not by my choice.

Q. Now, who is it that took you to the meeting with the Department of Child & Family Services?

A. Vinnie. Vinnie took my children and me back to Jay’s.

Q. Was anybody else present during that time?

A. No.

Q. I mean in the car coming back.

A. No.

Q. Just Vinnie, you and your children?
A. Yeah, and then another car following us.
Q. All right.
A. There was always --
Q. Do you know approximately what time in the morning it was you arrived back at Jay's house?
A. I think it was -- it was about one hour prior to Jay going to work.
Q. So Jay was still there when you arrived?
A. Yeah.
Q. Had you told Jay in advance that there was going to be that meeting at his house?
A. I think so.
Q. Did Jay stay for that meeting?

A. No.
Q. Tell us, at the point that everybody arrived at the apartment, how many people did you have at the apartment?
A. Vinnie, me, the children, and then that -- those people that were following us.
Q. Excuse me.
A. But they --
Q. I'm sorry, do that one more time for me. I didn't hear. Who was there?
A. Me, Vinnie and the children, and those people that were following us.
Q. You, Vinnie, the children, the people in the other car?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it just one other car?
A. Yes.
Q. At some point in time, did you see who those people were --
A. No.
Q. -- or who they were?
A. No.
Q. Who actually went into the apartment with you?
A. Vinnie.
Q. Was Aja there at that time?
A. In -- in the meeting? Are we talking about the meeting now?

Q. We’re at Jay’s house now.
A. Okay.
Q. We’ve left Hamid’s house, all right?
A. Okay.
Q. And I think you said you arrived about an hour before Jay went to work.
A. Yes. And my children --
Q. Can you tell us what time that was, if you can recall?
A. I don’t know. The best I can recall is maybe 5:00 or 6:00 a.m. That’s the best -- and that’s just an estimate.
Q. The people who were in the other car, did they go into the apartment with you?
A. No. No.
Q. At what time did the people from the Department of Child Care Services arrive, Child Family Services?
A. Okay. The meeting was scheduled for about 9:00, but it didn’t start until about 10:00. So I don’t know. It’s within that time bracket, because -- can I -- can I continue?
Q. Let me -- I’ll go ahead and ask.
A. Okay.
Q. Tell us who was there at the time that the workers from the Department of Child Family Services arrived.
A. Before the CPS people arrived?

Q. Yes, before. Just before.
A. Okay. I know him as CPS, DCFS, different names. But they’re all the same people to me, okay? Asaf had arrived before those three ladies did, before Aja did.
Q. And Aja?
A. Yes. Aja arrived just about the same time as the ladies did.
Q. Was Vinnie still there?
A. Vinnie, no, no.
Q. Vinnie had left?
A. Yes.

Q. So he wasn’t in the apartment?
A. No. But he was within the area, now it’s my understanding.
Q. But you didn’t see him in the apartment?
A. No, I didn’t.
Q. Was Asaf in the apartment?
A. Asaf was inside the apartment way before the CPS people were.
Q. Did Aja arrive?
A. It’s almost as if Vinnie went out, Asaf came in, like that.
Q. All right. How did Aja happen to be there?
A. Per Frank’s instruction, it was in -- per my -- my suggestion -- his suggestion, my suggestion, it was kind of like a compromise.
Q. Well, did you call Aja?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. The “Aja” we’re referring to is Chris Tucker’s girlfriend; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. And your relationship with her up to that point you would describe as how?
A. Real nice.
Q. Why did you want her to be there?
A. Well, it was -- like I said, it was kind of like a compromise going back and forth with Frank, until finally, I had to pick someone that he approved of, and he approved of Aja.
Q. Why were you picking anybody, picking somebody to do what?
A. Because Frank wanted an independent person there, an independent person, because that’s per how they use their choreography, they pull in unsuspecting people until they stumble upon it.
Q. Why did you want Aja there?
A. I trusted her.
Q. Why did you want anybody there?
A. I was okay meeting with the CPS people by myself, but it was per Frank’s instructions, and then it ended up being a back-and-forth compromise that he approved of her.
Q. Did Frank tell you who he wanted to be present during this meeting?

A. No. He suggested Chris’s girlfriend, and then it went back and forth, and I -- I -- go ahead.

Q. “Chris’s girlfriend” being Aja?
A. Yes. And so I figured it would be okay. So there was a period of compromising who.
Q. Is Asaf somebody you knew prior to that day?
A. No.
Q. That was the first time you met him?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know Asaf’s last name?
A. No. I never learned it.
Q. Did you see him again after that day?
A. Asaf?
Q. Asaf.
A. I -- I think -- I think I did see him briefly. I don’t remember clearly, but I think it was a period between -- when I was in the Calabasas area. And that’s briefly. I can’t remember that. That’s my best -- I think that was the only other time.
MR. ZONEN: Madam Clerk, is Exhibit No. 24 in evidence?
THE CLERK: It hasn’t been identified yet.
THE WITNESS: (To a juror) Bless you.
THE CLERK: It hasn’t been identified yet.
MR. ZONEN: May I approach the witness, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yes.
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: I’d like to show you two exhibits at this time, if I may. Exhibit No. 19 already in evidence, do you know who that is?

A. Vinnie Amen.
Q. Exhibit No. 24 for identification?
A. Asaf.
Q. All right. Is this photograph an accurate photograph of Asaf?
A. Oh, yes, it is.
MR. ZONEN: Okay. Move to introduce -- THE WITNESS: It’s burned in here, their faces.

MR. ZONEN: Move to admit Exhibit No. 24.

MR. MESEREAU: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

MR. ZONEN: May I publish No. 24, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Miss Arvizo, if you could face the screen and tell us if that's, in fact, Asaf.

A. That's Asaf.

Q. Did Asaf tell you who he was?

A. Michael's security.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Asaf at some point that morning before the arrival of the workers from the Department of Child & Family Services?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he give you any particular instructions?

A. Yes. To play -- he was verifying that I was going to play the vid -- the DVD. He told me that if I put Michael in a bad light, that they know where my parents live. He wanted to hear the allegations read in front of him.

Let me see. What else?

He was verifying that I would do -- carry out Carrie -- Vicky's instructions and Frank's instructions.

Q. All right. You mentioned a DVD, play a DVD.

A. Yes.

Q. What was that?

A. That's of Michael and Gavin.

Q. Had you ever seen that DVD before?

A. No. Prior to the Miami, never.

Q. Did you know that that DVD had actually been prepared?

A. No.

Q. All right. Did you see it for the first time?

A. For the first time in Miami.

Q. You saw it in Miami.

A. Yes.

Q. So they showed it to you there?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the circumstance of their showing you that DVD in Miami?

A. I don’t know. I don’t know.

Q. Well --

A. Evvy -- Evvy had given it to Gary, and Gary had given it to Gavin while we were still at Chris’s house.

Q. All right. And did they give any instructions at that time as to what to do with it?

A. No, none.

Q. Now, that DVD then went to Miami?

A. Yes.

Q. And you saw it for the first time in Miami?

A. I saw it, like, complete in Miami, but a little bit at Chris’s house.

Q. Explain to us the content of that DVD.

A. It’s of my son when he’s barely being ill, and Michael and Star.

Q. The two of them walking together?

A. Yes.

Q. Is Star in it on occasion?

A. Yes. Star’s in there for a little bit.

Q. Now, did you keep that DVD from Miami?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And did you have it in your possession?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. All right. Now, on the occasion of the visit from the Department of Child & Family Services, did you play that DVD to them?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Whose idea was it to do that?

A. Asaf, but he was verifying with Frank and Vicky had gave me instructions to do. But mostly Frank.

Q. But you had that DVD in your possession?

A. Yes, I did. And this is as best as I can remember.

Q. That's okay.

Did somebody give you a tape-recorder during this interview?

A. Oh, yeah.

Q. Who was that?

A. Asaf. But I didn't know that he had a tape-recorder until after.

Q. Well, tell me what the circumstances were with the tape-recorder. What happened with that?

A. Okay. When Asaf found out he was being kicked out, that's when he told me, "Can I talk to you for a second?"

And he pulled me into Jay's bedroom. And then he gave me -- he gave me instructions, but it was already on, it was already working. What I was trying to find out was that I didn't have to push anything because it was already working. He gave me instructions about to, "Take her here. Talk to her here. Leave it here."

And you could also hear in there that that 6169

period of week was very stressful for me, because Karen had also -- they -- the CPS knew that I was --

Q. Let's back up a little bit now.

A. Okay.

Q. Before Asaf talked to you about a tape-recorder --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- did you have a discussion with anybody among the Department of Child and Family Care Services about having other people present during this interview?

A. Yes, and I was referring that to Aja.

Q. Who did you ask to have present in the interview?

A. Aja.

Q. Did you ask to have Asaf present?

A. No. Only Aja. I trust Aja.

Q. Did Asaf ask you to ask them to allow him to remain?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask them to allow Asaf to remain?

A. No. I was -- hopefully I was -- I was hoping that the CPS would make that call so Asaf wouldn’t hear it come from my mouth. So I was referring to Aja, but I had to, per Asaf’s order.

Q. Did you know that there was a tape-recorder in the room at the time --
A. No.

Q. Hold on. Hold on. Listen to the question. Did you know that there was a tape-recorder in the room prior to your discussion with the social workers about who would be present during the interview?
A. No.
Q. At some point in time, did somebody tell you from the social workers who would be allowed to be present during the interview?
A. Yes.
Q. All right. And what was that resolution? Who was allowed to be present?
A. Just me and the children.
Q. Not Aja?
A. Not Aja.
Q. Not Asaf?
A. Not Asaf and not the baby.
Q. All right. Tell us when it was that Asaf then had a conversation with you about a tape-recorder.
A. When -- after that.
Q. All right. Now, what exactly did Asaf say to you? What did he do?
A. “Can I talk to you for a second?” And told me that -- told me that it was working, that I didn’t have to push anything. Told me to talk -- to, you know, in the room, “Leave it here. Talk to her here. Take it here.”

And you could also hear in there when I was -- I got very scared when I thought the DVD of Gavin and Michael were missing. Because that was one of the orders that I had to do.
Q. Did he then hand you a tape-recorder?
A. Yes, he did, after he said, “Can I talk to you for a second?"

Q. Now, what did you do with this tape-recorder?

A. He put it on the desk. And I just went ahead like -- that was -- I just played along with him, "Yeah, yeah, sure, uh-huh." You know, basically that kind of behavior.

Q. What was your intent --

A. But I didn't say those words. My behavior -- that was my behavior.

Q. At the time that he gave you the tape-recorder, what did he ask you to do with it, in terms of where to keep it, where to place it?

A. He placed it on the desk area.

Q. Okay.

A. Just to, "Leave it here. Talk to her here. Take her here." Because Karen had said she was going to talk to each one of us individually, so he assumed that it was going to be in the bedroom. And he also -- you know.

Q. "Karen" being one of the social workers?

A. Yes, Karen was the supervisor.

Q. Do you know her last name?

A. Karen Walker.

Q. Did you have any concerns about the tape-recorder?

A. Yes.

Q. What were your concerns?

A. That these people are going to be illegally taped.

Q. Did you think there was an illegality problem?

A. Yes, because she had just said, "This is confidential."

Q. All right.

A. And I wasn't aware at that time that he had the tape-recorder.

Q. All right. Now, did everybody finally leave the room, in terms of Aja and Asaf?

A. Okay. Asaf didn't leave until I had came out of the rest room. I thought he had already -- I thought he had already gone. So you could even hear me on the tape-recorder, because I was going to tell the lady there -- I figured he had already gone. So I -- I started telling her, because the lady -- one of the women had pulled me -- well, not pulled me, was talking to me also in the area where the tape-recorder was. And so I’m -- I was going to start to tell her, and then there’s Asaf right there. And I just -- you can hear my -- my voice.

Q. Okay. Did Asaf tell you anything about any other tape-recorders?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?

A. After I turned it off, came out of the rest room, and then he was still -- Jay’s apartment, it was very long. It was like an apartment house, but it’s only one bedroom.

So he was in a distance where a wall was covering, but he can hear.

Q. Who’s “he”?

A. Asaf. Asaf can hear.

And so that’s when he called me over. And at this point he told me that there’s another one in the room. So I didn’t know whether it was a tape-recorder or a monitoring device. I didn’t know what it was. But there was certainly another one in the room.

Q. When the interview finally began, who was present in the interview room?

A. When -- the three ladies, me and my children.

Q. And were all of you interviewed together?

A. Yes.

Q. At any time did they separate you from the children or each of the children from each other?

A. No. No. I carried out Vicky’s instructions.

Q. And what were those instructions?

A. Not to let the children be separated, interviewed separately. Ask what are my rights, what are the children’s rights. Have the allegations read before -- before the meeting. Just, you know, different things like that.

Q. Did you play or record the entire conversation?
A. Me?
Q. Yes.
A. No, I turned it off.
Q. You turned it off when?
A. I turned it off when I thought he had already gone, and he was there.
Q. Why did you turn it off?
A. Because it's illegal to tape people without them knowing.
Q. At some subsequent time, did you have an opportunity to listen to a recording that you believed to be that recording?
A. There?
Q. Let me try that one more time.
A. Okay.
Q. At some later time --
A. Yes.
Q. -- sometime after the meeting --
A. Yes.
Q. -- did you have an opportunity to listen to a tape-recording?

A. Yes. At the grand jury, the D.A.'s Office, right before the grand jury, I was like -- it was like hours before, hours. And they only had two minutes -- about two minutes' worth of that DCFS tape. And I told them, you know, "There's more. There's more to this tape."
So he -- so the D.A.'s Office had -- had me explain to them how much more there was. And I said, "Because that's not all of it. There's still more."
Q. All right.
A. I was monitored continuously by those people.
Q. The first tape that you listened to at the time of the grand jury was a tape from what?
A. From a -- I don't know whether it's a media report, area, I don't know what you properly call the show. Abrams Report.

Q. Television?
A. Yes.
Q. Something that had played on television?
A. Yes. Yes.
Q. And after having listened to that, what was your view of whether or not that was the entirety of the conversation?
A. That was not its entirety.
Q. Since then, have you had an opportunity to listen to another tape?

A. Yes.
Q. What is your opinion about that other tape?
A. This one is accurate.
Q. Up until the point where you turned it off?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. Well, through the time, the entirety of the tape?
A. Yes. And he turned it on when the CPS people arrived. Not prior.
Q. Okay. Can you make out the different voices in this tape?
A. Yes, I can.
Q. And how many different voices are there in this tape?
A. The three ladies from Child Protective Services. Aja. And my three children. You kind of can hear the baby a little bit. That’s their -- he’s a toddler. And you can hear Asaf. You can hear him say he’s Michael’s security.
Q. And during the course of that time, did you play the video that they had asked you to play?
A. Yes, I did. And I got scared, because I thought -- I thought it went missing. I thought I misplaced it, so I got really scared because that was one of the instructions.
Q. All right. Now, did you say positive things about Michael Jackson?

A. Yeah, I had to. At this point now, it’s a -- now it’s a have-to. Because everything’s evolving. And he had said that -- to put Michael -- don’t say anything that would put Michael in a bad light, because they knew where my parents lived, he knew where my parents lived. And this is prior to the tape-recording.

Q. Miss Arvizo, did you know why Child Protective Services were at your house, those social workers?

A. No, I did not know why. And they didn’t even want to tell me on the phone when I was trying to talk to them.

Q. At some point in time after they arrived, did they explain why they were there?

A. They didn’t explain it until I was alone with the children.

Q. Did Miss Poderevski, in her conversation with you, tell you why, her opinion, they were there?

A. No. She just told me to -- to basically drive it home for him being a good father.

MR. ZONEN: Thank you. We’re going to play it at this time.

Your Honor, we have marked for identification a CD, a tape-recording, No. 810, 8-1-0, and we would like to play that at this time.

THE COURT: Do you have a transcript of that?

MR. ZONEN: We do. And we’ll -- I have it here, but we’ll have a copy for the Court before the session is over today, along with the one from yesterday that I promised you.

THE COURT: How long is the tape?

MR. ZONEN: I’m sorry?

THE COURT: How long is it?

MR. AUCHINCLOSS: 19 minutes.

MR. ZONEN: 19 minutes, Your Honor.

May we begin?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: And this is all the best that I can remember.

(Whereupon, a portion of a CD, Plaintiff’s Exhibit No. 810, was played for the Court and jury.)

MR ZONEN: We’re pausing it a moment.

Q. Miss Arvizo, what is the music that we’re hearing right now?

A. That is from the DVD, the background music to the DVD that Michael and Gavin were in, and a little bit of Star was in there.

Q. This goes for approximately what, six minutes?

A. I think so.

MR. ZONEN: All right. Let’s go ahead.

(Whereupon, a portion of a CD, Plaintiff’s Exhibit No. 810, was played for the Court and jury.)

MR. ZONEN: We’re stopping the tape momentarily.

Q. Miss Arvizo, can you tell us what that sound was that we were hearing just prior to stopping this tape; do you know?

A. No, I don’t know. I don’t know.

Q. Do you have a recollection of that sound from the time of this event itself?

A. No, I don’t. But it sounds like tape. But I don’t know.

Q. Was that taped to you at any time?

A. No.

Q. Were you able to see the tape-recorder prior to him giving it to you, before he gave it to you?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was it?

A. The best I can remember, he took something out of his pocket, so I don’t know.

Q. Do you remember what he was wearing at the time?

A. Yeah.

Q. We’re talking about Asaf, right?

A. Blue shirt.

Q. He had a shirt?

A. Blue shirt, long-sleeved, collar.

Q. Did he have a jacket on at all?

A. No, just a blue shirt.

Q. And prior to him taking it out, did you see that tape-recorder?

A. No. So I don’t know if he -- you know, where.
Q. There was a single man’s voice, a deep voice, that came on just before we turned off the tape.
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. Asaf.
Q. Was he the only male in that room at that time?
A. He was the only male. And plus my two boys and plus the toddler, Aja’s baby.
Q. He was the only adult male in the room at the time?
A. Yes, he was the only adult male.
MR. ZONEN: Let’s go ahead and resume.
(Whereupon, a portion of a CD, Plaintiff’s Exhibit No. 810, was played for the Court and jury.)
Q. BY MR. ZONEN: Miss Arvizo, the tape just ended?
A. Yes.
Q. How did it end?
A. I turned it off.
Q. We heard some rustling sound within the last couple of minutes before it ended.
A. I was trying to figure out -- it was like some very high-tech thing, and I couldn’t figure out where the “off” was. And I -- I tried my best. And so I -- that -- and even when I turned it off, I was unsure that I had turned it off. So what I did, I put it inside a closet and I put two towels completely covering it.

Q. In what room were you at the time you did that?
A. In the bedroom.
Q. All right. And where were the workers at this time?
A. They were in the -- okay. Like I said, Jay’s apartment was -- even though it’s a one-bedroom apartment, they call it apartment houses. It’s long.

So they were way over there in the living room. And that's when -- afterwards Asaf was still in there. He was there present with the CPS people.
Q. All right. At the time that you turned off the tape-recorder, were the CPS workers in the same room with you?
A. Me? No.
Q. Did you have to move the tape-recorder to a different room before you turned it off?
A. No, it was all within the bedroom.
Q. And was the interview going to be held in the living room or in the bedroom?
A. Asaf had assumed that it was going to be in the bedroom, and they said to, "Take her here. Talk to her here. Leave it here."

Q. So at one point prior to this, you asked to go to the rest room; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you actually go to the rest room?
A. No, I was just pretending I was in there.
Q. And the purpose for that was what?
A. So -- to create some -- some -- so I can have some privacy so I could turn off the tape.
Q. That is what you wanted to do?
A. That's what I wanted.
Q. Now, in the course of this interview, they represented that this was going to be a completely confidential interview; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. And that none of these records or documents would become public; is that correct?
A. Exactly.
Q. And, in fact, what did happen with these documents?
A. All this stuff got leaked.
MR. MESEREAU: Objection; foundation.
THE WITNESS: All of it.
THE COURT: Sustained.
